School Building Program

The School Board met with the architect las. Thursday nite to go over preliminary plans for elementary proposed new school building. They also met with representatives from several bond compan es who are interest ed in buying the bonds. Wilson and Patterson, architect ual firm of Ft Worth has the archi ectual contract while proceedings contract on the bonds was given to Rauscher Pierce and Co. of San Antonio. Both con tracts are subject to the bond issue carrying.

After much discussion by the Board, it appeared to them that a large majority of patrons wan'. to include a combination cafteriaauditorium in the new building. It is easier for the larger children to come to the elementary build, than for the small children to come to the present cafeteria. Then, too, they could have their own small programs at their building having to come to the high school auditorium for all programs. The cost on this building Crumley To Head it, will run around $150,000 to $160,000. This cost, plus the cost of the new furnishings for the building; architect's fee, site for the new building, refunding a $12, 6 per cent interest; and some novating in the present elementary building will necessitate bond issue of from $225,000 to

In order to issue this amount of bonds, Supt S F Johnson, said it would be necessary for the dis trict to raise their valuations by approximately 20 per cent. This amount of bonds ($250,000) could be issued under present val uations but they would carry such a high rate of interest as to cost the district $60,000 to $70,000 in

don't want anyone to vote for the bonds with the understand ing that there will be no raise in valuation, because this can't be This is a matter for the entire district to decide therefore everyone should know

It was thought when the pro ject was first started tha. would be possible to issue enough bonds without raising the valuations any, but after securing all estimates and adding the cafetorium to the proposed building, it was ound that it can't be done without a raise in valuat

Petitions for the building will probably be circul ated some time this week. After which the school board will call an election. Specific ion as to dates and amount will be given at a later date.

U. N. Forces Near 38th Parallel; Johnston Wants New Parity Ruling

WHERE TO NOW?-Grim, pipe-smoking Douglas MacArthur took time out from directing a war in Korea and his duties as top man in Japan to tell newsmen U.N. forces were insufficient in numbers to hold a line at the 38th parallel. He pointed out that there are no natural defense features anywhere near its immediate proximity.

The general's statement brought to the front again the question of what happens now that the Chinese have abandoned their last great defense center below the parallel and have retreated into North Korea. Do U.N. forces advance beyond the line and continue their campaign? The British government has insisted for weeks, as a political matter, that the parallel was far as U.N. forces should pursue the Reds. This view was backed by a number of United Nations members.

In Washington the situation was put like this: If the U.N. succeeds in smashing the next expected Communist offensive and the Reds then continue retreating, how far north should the U.N. forces go?

Prodding, hard-working Matthew Ridgway, commander in Korea, wanted a quick answer as his troops stood poised along the line. If his advance was stopped it meant a stalemate in the war and the dirty business of preparing a defense line on unfavorable terrain. If he was given the go-ahead signal it meant more of his slow but thorough tactics

MEAT MAKERS- A big man in a pearl-gray ten-gallon hat stiffened, turned purple, and brought his polished boots from desk to floor with a crash: "This is the * * most outlandish thing those fools in Washington ever thought up," he exploded.

One of 2,500 ranchers attending a cattle raisers meeting in Dallas, he was expressing the view of fellow cattlemen who had just heard a government plan to roll back cattle prices 10 to 20 per cent.

That view of the government's attempt to hold down inflation and to regulate prices was not confined to his group. The automobile industry, labor, grain farmers, steel, and numerous others continued their screams. The cattlemen were just a little more color-

President Truman, vacationing at the "little White House" at the naval base at Key West, defended his administration at a news conference. He said his staff was made up of honorable men.

Cattlemen said a roll-back of prices would force curtailment of production and encourage black markets. Like farmers throughout the nation, they argued that production costs have advanced and that increased supply will regulate prices.

Said one rancher: "You can't control what the public is willing to pay for meat.'

FOOD PRICES - Eric Johnston, the former fair-haired boy of the movie industry, lately turned economic stabilizer for the government, sent word to the White House he had found the way to hold down food

Smiling Eric reported that the "parity extension" provision is the key to inability to keep food prices in line. So long as he and Michael DiSalle, the chubby price controller, cannot touch a food price until it gets above a "parity" that moves in a rapidly ascending spiral, they cannot control inflation.

This, Johnston said, is the heart of the problem. Unless food prices can be held and rolled back, there will be no holding wages. And if wages continue to go up, industrial prices and "parity" will keep on climbing and the economy will be torn apart.

Johnston has about as much chance of getting congress to repudiate parity as he would of getting Iowa to stop growing corn. Nevertheless, he recommended: (1) A change in the "parity exemption" provision of the present law; (2) authority to use subsidies to hold prices in line; (3) extended licensing powers; (4) adequate authority to handle labor

THE HOT SEAT-The hottest spot in the U.S. the past several weeks has been the witness chair at the senate crime investigating comoccupying that kingpin Frank Costello and handsome William O'Dwyer, former mayor of New York, now U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

The committee was trying to prove that Costello controls a gambling syndicate that reaches to the Main Streets of America. As for O'Dwyer, the committee wanted to know if there is any connection between gambling and big-time politicians in New York.

The hot seat really got hot when Senator Tobey, balding and acidtongued member of the committee, asked O'Dwyer why such a "prominent man" as he should trot to the home of Costello to ask his advice and counsel.

O'Dwyer said he was carrying out an army assignment, adding, "They say there's a lot of it (bookmaking) in New Hampshire."

we haven't a Costello in New Hampshire," Tobey roared. "I wonder," O'Dwyer retorted, adding that Tobey had sent to New York for campaign funds.

The realities of the Korean war are shown in the picture of two waifs, perched on a haystack. calmly waiting for U.S. troops in the background to fire a heavy mortar. Ask yourself this question How would you feel if it was acted out in the U.S. and the waifs were American kids?

"It's not true," Tobey shouted.
"I'm under oath," O'Dwyer bristled. "You're not." To which Tobey roared, "I'm not a fourflusher.

All of which provided 15,000,000 television fans with a spectacular show, putting soap operas to What it provided in the way of facts concerning gambling in the U.S. is anybody's guess.

POLITICS-The 1952 presidential campaign was again in the news with a published report that President Truman made a deal with General Eisenhower to make Ike available in 1952. According to the story, widely published throughout the U.S., the President told Ike that one Harry Truman did not want to be accused of exiling a potential powercontender for the honors of the White House. The general, in his usual blunt and straight-forward way, attempted to kill the story. His statement said "the President has never mentioned to me any political possibilities of 1952 whatsoever."

That should have been that, but rumors persist that Eisenhower will be available in 1952 to one of the major parties. As things stand now it would appear he could win hands down.

RENT CONTROL-A 90-day extension of the rent control law was passed by the house after heated debate. The measure already has been enacted by the senate. It was sent to the White House where the President was expected to sign it without delay. It becomes effective April 1 and expires June 30.

House members pushing the measure argued decontrol would interfere with recruiting workers for defense production and lift limits in defense and military districts.

CROP PROSPECTS

1951 Production May Set New Record

With a break in the weather, | with a low of 78,000,000 in 1948. American crop production in 1951 may set a record, but whether the peak output is the answer to spiraling food prices is the big question, even for the nation's farmers.

One favorable trend is the growing number of beef cattle and hogs, sources of a major item in the country's diet. Cattle numbers are now at 84,200,000 head, compared culture said in a recent report.

Stocks of wheat and corn, raw material for meat and dairy products, are ample and without acreage restrictions. planting is up one-sixth over last year. Indications in the midwest corn belt point toward another bumper planting this spring, of-ficials of the department of agri-

CHILDREN AT WORSHIP

Children Learn Responsibility By Holding Own Church Services

site of America's only children's church, run by and for children.

Each Sunday morning the bell of the little colonial building calls eighty young members of the Children's Church of the First Parish Unitarian church to services.

A tiny, blond child with a solemn gaze toddles up to a miniature alter, clutching a taper in both hands. Teetering back and forth on her thin legs, she lights the alter candles. One of the "elders" of the church, a 15-year-old girl, quietly walks to the organ and stretches her fingers over the keys as a cue now has added a television serial, "Miss Susan", to her schedule, (on NBT-TV weekday afternoons). That involves lengthy rehearsals as well as the actual performances. Miss Peters plays a young lawyer, and is supported by an excellent cast, headed by Mark Roberts, Helen Ray, Katharyn Grill, Joseph Foley and Robert Pike.

Eddie Cantor is indulging again in his favorite occupation-raising money for a worthy cause. He has been knighted as the first "Cancer Crusader", heading the American Cancer Society's annual campaign, in April. Called the world's greatest fund raiser (he sold $43,000,000 worth of war bonds,) he has also originated many slogans, including the March of Dimes

Evelyn Varden, radio mother of 'Young Dr. Malone", who was acclaimed for her performance as the southern aristocrat in "Pinky", featured as the nurse in the production of "Romeo and Juliet" starring Olivia de Havilland. When it opened recently in New York dramatic critics agreed that Miss de Havilland looked very beautiful, were less enthusiastic about her talents.

"Behave Yourself" can hardly escape being a good picture. William Demarest and Lon Chaney have been added to the cast supporting Shelley Winters and Farley Granger, and the famous James Wong Howe is the cameraman.

its dignity. There may not be much technical perfection to the 15-voice choir with its wavering childish trebles and uncertain adolescent altos but there is immense dignity.

There is the same dignity about the congregation seated in the small pews. As the majestic tones of their own Hammond organ swell up, Alice-in-Wonderland-like girls quietly in their pews with none of the fidgeting and giggling that often characterizes youngsters attending religious services. Solemnfaced boys pay determined attention to what is going on before them, mindful that they are present in their own church instead of that of their elders. Even the fiveyear olds are conscious of the dignity of their position in this, their own religious world.

Children from 5 to 15 years old lead the hymns, read the scripture and conduct their own prayers. The only adult taking part is Mrs. Edyth Stonestreet, minister of this miniature congregation for the past nine years.

THE CHILDREN'S CHURCH was the idea of the late wife of the Rev. Vivian Pomeroy, who is pastor of the First Parish Unitarian church attended by the children's parents. Mrs. Pomeroy believed children should have a service they could understand and enjoy, one that would be their very own. She was instrumental in having an aban-doned schoolhouse moved to the church in 1937. An entry way, steeple, window shutters and paint were added to transform it into the diminutive house of worship. Everything about it is scaled to children's size.

The children begin their service in the larger church next door where the Rev. Pomeroy delivers a children's sermon but that is the end of their time in the adult religious world. Immediately after the sermon, they file quietly out to their own small church where they take over. It's not a game with them. It is a very serious matter and each of the 80 members reflects his satisfaction with the arrangement in his feeling of responsibility about the conduct of his church.

SHORTLY BEFORE noon on the day the Garrisons left Laredo for Mexico City, their motor went dead. Mrs. Garrison was greatly disturbed. "Of all places!" she said, "to have this happen. I declare, you should have had the car looked at in Laredo. "I did," said Mr. Garrison. His

Mr. Garrison lifted a grease-besmeared face and stared at the horsemen. Then he looked at his wife and saw that her cheeks were white. "Rubbish!" he said. "No need to be scared." The horsemen were coming down

The leader of the group doffed his hat and said something in Spanish that neither of the Garrisons understood. They regarded each other with fright-

No matter how small the bathom, there's usually wall space left after the major features are installed. In modern building this space is not simply left there; it's used to the fullest limit. At the entrance to the bathroom,

Vanities in the bathroom easily take the place of the dressing room. This might offer further incentive to investigate the possibilities of the project, especially if it can be managed, and you do not have room for a "powder" or dressing room. # Crooks Clamour For TV Closeups

FEDERAL BAR ASSOCIATIONS | begun with the appearance of a in several states have protested the use of the video Kefauver Comexaminations, contending that it is a disturbing influence cheapening an inquiry and making things unfair for witnesses. The asociations hold that telecasting makes a circus of most inquiries and court proceedings, awing and nampering a witness. On the whole we doubt this. America has a camera complex. Her people never seem happier than their pictures taken. Even the most when having notorious crooks pose with ear-toear smiles. Prisoners captured for degrading crimes grin for the cameras as if being named Nobel Prize winners. Sheriffs, cops, detectives and court officials join in the happiness mood. And we have seen few principals in televised proceedings who didn't seem to lap it up.

There have been cases of racketeers refusing to come clean until an extra camera was put in. And we heard of a case where a gangster refused to answer on the ground that anything less than a close-up tele-cast would tend to incriminate, degrade and embarrass him. Now and then you see an outlaw who doesn't want to be recognized, but it is generally some crumb who doesn't think the crime as alleged vile enough to be associated with him.

We nab the crooks, we bring 'em

So courts can let 'em go agin; We cite the facts, the case is beard:

What do we get? We get transterred!

A ballet would follow after which the chairman of an inquiry or the prosecutor of the court case would introduce the suspect or prisoner with a true-to-form video show "And now, ladies and gentlemen, it is my great pleasure to give you that sensational slot-machine mogul, that truly talented operator of nefarious enterprises."

A trained dog act or Indian club swinger might be introduced next just to sharpen up the show. And it might be well for a master of ceremonies to inform the television audience, "Wearing purple trunks—Judge Twaddingham! In black trunks with white stripes—the District Attorney!"

It seems to us that in a televised courtroom proceeding the judge, prosecutor and accused should sit together, as on a video panel, each being allowed to wave to his relatives at home. And a jackpot should lf present trends are not halted tune in on a murder trial or senate inquiry and win an icebox.

and will stand straight up: Provide Bathroom With Drying Facilities

Grandmother always had a convenient basement for her laundry, but in modern homes we like more convenience. Let's face the fact that today's bathroom has to be a miniature laundry for daily sudsings required for hose, gloves and underwear.

Most of these are quick-drying and hardly worth the trouble to bring to the basement if you have one, especially when they can be washed so readily in the bathroom. Keep them neatly off the towel racks, however, if you want to avoid family feuds.

One excellent solution to the drying problem is a rack constructed at the end of the bath tub, especially in the case of the tub that does not extend all the way to the ing of wet and wall. One side of the rack can rest side of the tub.

ceiling. Six or more horizontal bars give wonderful drying space for daily laundry as well as towel

Then, too, there are other drying aids which may be attached to the back of the door or on wall space in the bath. They vary all the way from folding racks or shells or hooks for such small items as socks, hose and hankies. Color Modernizes

Old Bathreoms There's nothing quite like the current luseious colors for adding newness and pep to the out-dated bathroom. Specially finished wallpapers can be used in many of them, while ciay tiling and plastic finishes may be more practical for you.

If part of the bathroom is painted, as frequently happens with the up-per half of a tiled bathroom, choose a new color for a good change.

Fixtures may often be modernized at little expense. If the sore spot in your bathroom is the oldfashioned light hanging from the ceiling, you may find it will cost little to install fluorescent type lighting, or at least wall fixtures with a more modern look.

Don't neglect such small fixtures as new rods, soap containers, corner shelves or plastic shelves which offer storage as well as beauty.

When the bathroom is used by several people, make ample provision for the towels they use, both for hands and bath. Towel racks for the youngsters should be placed low enough for them to reach readily, thus discouraging the draping of wet and dirty towels on the

Refuse To Wither on the Stem

WE ARE THE MOST unmarvv ried family you ever heard of," writes 19 - year - old Harriet Sloper, from a Cleveland suburb. 'Mother has been a widow since I was four and my sister Elena 10 years old. We have two half-sisters, teachers and part founders of a girls' school. Mother's sister, unmarried, lives with us. We all talk marriage and beaus and romantic affairs-mostly imaginary-all the time, and we're all unmarried.

"We have a big house and plenty of money; Mother has a car, Elena drives to and fro in her own car to a good job in Cleveland; I have a small car, attend college, but live at home. My half-sisters live at

"It is the fashion in this family," this unusually frank letter goes on, "to talk as if men were rather inferior beings, and as if we all had refused several good chances to marry. Lilian and Frances, my halfsisters, like to imply that they who ever lived. But this is not so. honest conviction that neither one has ever had a real offer. Lil talks of some captain she met at the canteen in the last war, and Fran has snapshots of herself taken with several men when she was in college; that's all. Elena is delicate, reserved, bookish, fastidious. They all like her at the office, and the other girls tell her of their affairs, but nobody calls on her.

Wants To Marry

"Now, my problem is," Harriet goes on, "that I want to marry, and marry young, because that seems the safest way. My chum, 20 years old, eloped with a married man last Christmas, and they had an awful time getting his marriage annulled and everybody cried and talked to lawyers and was horribly shocked. I wasn't shocked; I envied her. I'm not unusually pretty, but I have a good figure, swim, play tennis, love hikes and camping—and I'm friend-ly. I've won prizes dancing, and I was president of the class in my last year high, and voted the best all-around citizen in the whole

"So why don't men come to see me? And why doesn't one of them, after we've had an afternoon of tennis, and a hot weather supper with my aspic and my strawberry ice cream, reach over and squeeze my hand when we're sitting out on the steps? What haven't I got? I want a home, I want children and a kitchen and a lawn to rake and a man to meet when the afternoon train comes in. Is that so unreason-

"I don't want to dry up and wither on the family stem; I want Harriet's letter finishes. Mother can't help me, she talks as if marriage was one long trial for a woman. Certainly my sisters and my aunt are no help; they are really a hindrance, watching and one day.

interested and all, but asking any man who ventures into our house what his intentions are. There must be men as anxious to find a good mate as I am. I forgot to say that I am studying to be a public librarian, and hope to have a job in about 14 months. Sit Tight

That's the letter, and in answer I wrote Harriet that I would advise her to sit tight for those 14 months. I would advise her to give up the job of hunting for a sweetheart in these discouraging circumstances. but devote herself to her work, and to the family.

Then, when she graduates, let her go to the head of the library board and explain that she wants to go away. It will be a very simple matter for her to carry her new credentials to some other city, and the family, though perhaps shocked, cannot find that course anything but natural and understandable. Once wouldn't marry the smartest man away from home Harriet will make new contacts, meet all sorts of new They are 34 and 37 now, and it is people, spread her wings. Before my honest conviction that neither she knows it she will be taking an acceptable man home for the family's approval

That is, if nothing happens in the meantime.

But something romantic is extremely likely to happen in the meantime. Just her plan to go away will make her more interesting, and her enthusiasm over the complete change, with all it involves in clothes and luggage and books to read and a new fountain pen, will take her attention off the young man to whom she is talking, and make him a little anxious to get it back again.

Over and over again in this life, when we pull ourselves out of a rut and make one plan, another unexpected plan shoots across it.

The wife who feels she never will have a child gets all ready to adopt one, and nature immediately sends her hopes of motherhood. The businessman feeling himself unappreciated in the office, reaches about for another job, and just as he secures it the old firm offers him a raise and a promotion. When Harriet graduates with honors and begins to bustle about deciding just what she will take and won't take into the new venture, quite suddenly some young man in her circle will discover her and make her stay.

We Overlooked One President

Another Missouri Guy Was President For Day

RESEARCH EXPERTS, digging into history, have unearthed evidence which indicates we have overlooked a President. Instead of 33 men holding the highest office in the land, we could, by virtue of a technicality, list 34.

As the "missing" President is also a Missourian, there is a doubt about President Truman's claim to fame as the first chief executive to hail from the "show-me" state.

The gentleman who has thus far been slighted by the historical rec-ord is David R. Atchison, senator from Missouri, 1843-55.

The main historical clue to Atchison's Presidency is found in the 1913 edition of the Biographical Congressional Directory. The directory reveals that Atchison was President of the United States for

Weed Sprayers Almost Essential Farm Tools Makes Good Emergency Fire Fighting Equipment

Agriculture has become more more competitive in recent years and the average farmer has taken advantage of every new piece of machinery put on the market that will save time and increase

An item of equipment becoming a necessity of farms these days is by the use of any of several good lawn weed kellers applied by a sprayer.

the weed sprayer. There are a number of makes on the market, but the average farmer is finding the light and easily moved one best suited for his needs. For killing weeds along fence

A sprayer can more than pay for itself in a few minutes when the tank is kept filled with water for emergency fire pro-rows and on lawns the small sprayer is ideal. A number of models can be kept filled with water for emergency fire protection. Adjust-able nozzles and extra long hose make it possible to fight a blaze, one of the farmer's worst enemies.

Economical Pork Dinners

PORK HAS ALWAYS been a favorite meat on American tables. Among the meats available, it's also an economical one, whether for a special family dinner or a company favorite. Scientists the field of nutrition now point out, too, that pork is a rich source of the important vitamin

Bl, as well as other nutrients. In buying pork, thrifty home-makers will find that steaks cut from the shoulder offer a real bargain. These have a good porportion of fat and lean, and very little bone, and they are tender and delicious They are cooked like pork chops, that is in moist heat, slowly and until well done.

Blade pork steaks are cut from the Boston butt, the upper part of the shoulder. Each steak contains a portion of the blade bone.

THERE IS A seemingly endless variety of delicious ways of preparing pork steaks, all following the one basic method. But variety can be given by the use of different flavors in the liquid, and of different vegetables or fruits used with the meat. Here are suggestions, to add to your repertory.

Pork Steaks and Sweet Potatoes (Serves 4)

2 pork shoulder steaks, cut

1 can crushed pineapple 3 medium-sized sweet potatoes 14 cup brown sugar Salt and pepper

Place the pineapple in a baking dish. Cook sweet potatoes in boiling salted water until tender. Peel and slice sweet potatoes and arrange in a baking dish over the pineapple. Sprinkle with brown sugar. Season pork steaks with salt and pepper and place on top of sweet potatoes. Cover and cook in a moderate oven (350°) for 45 minutes, then remove cover and cock for 15 minutes longer, or until the steaks are nicely browned.

Spanish Pork Shoulder Steaks

Shoulder steaks

2 tablespoons flour 2 tablespoons lard small onion cup tomatoes 1 tablespoon worcestershire sauce Salt and pepper

Dredge pork steaks in flour and brown in hot lard. Slice onions over them, add tomatoes and season with worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Cover and cook slowly until the steaks are done, about 45 minutes medium for thick steaks *Stuffed Cushion-Style Pork Roast

Cushion-style pork roast Salt Pepper

Apple-Raisin stuffing The cushion-style pork roast is made by boning the fresh Boston butt or the fresh picnic, and sewing the edges together to make a pocket for stuffing.

Season the shoulder, inside and out, with salt and pepper and fill the pocket with Apple-Raisin stuffing. Sew or skewer open side. Place roast on a rack in an open roasting

LYNN SAYS: Seasonal Foods Need Careful Preparation

Fresh garden peas are at their best when cooked until just done, so they won't lose their sweetness. Use little water, and you'll save vita-mins. Toss them with sauteed mushrooms to make them really

1/2 cup chopped celery

1/2 cup chopped onion 3 tart apples

1/2 cup raisins 1/3 cup sugar

2 cups dry bread or cracker crumbs 4 cup chopped parsley

14 cup milk

Pepper Dice salt pork and cook until crisp. Remove cooked pieces. Cook celery and onion in drippings 3 min-apples and rai-sins to celery mixture, sprinkle with sugar and cover. Cook slowly until tender. Add crumbs, cooked pork, parsley, milk parsley, and seasonings and mix lightly

Pork Tenderloin with Dressing (Serves 6)

2 pork tenderloins 2 cups bread crumbs 1/2 cup chopped celery 2 eggs, slightly beaten 2 tablespoons bacon drippings Salt and pepper

Choose two pork tenderloins of the same size. Have the butcher split and flatten them out. Combine bread crumbs and celery. Season with salt and pepper. Add eggs to dressing, bacon drippings and hot water enough to make the dressing moist. Spread dressing over one tenderloin, lay the other on top and sew or skewer the edges together. Season outside with salt and pepper. Place on rack in opening roasting pan and roast in moderate oven (350°) for one hour. You may like the top to keep the meat from becoming too dry.

Broiled Spareribs (Serves 4 to 5) to lay a few strips of bacon across

3 pounds spareribs

3 cups water

1 cup vinegar 14 cup minced onion

1 clove garlic, peeled and minced 11/2 tablespoons worcestershire

1/4 cup granulated sugar 3 tablespoons catsup

2 tablespoons salt 5 tablespoons fat

1/4 teaspoon pepper 1 bay leaf

Broil spareribs in broiler oven until golden brown on both sides. Meanwhile, combine remaining ingredients, and boil for 10 minutes in an uncovered saucepan. Place spareribs in an uncovered baking pan or roaster, and pour some of sauce over them. Bake in hot even (450°) for one hour, basting every 10 minutes with rest of the sauce, which should be kept boiling hot.

Tender asparagus tips, the first of the season, are always good with such simple seasonings as melted butter, salt and freshly ground pep-per. For a novel treatment, combine with freshly cooked green garden peas.

Bacon drippings and crumbled bacon offer a good seasoning for some of the early vegetables like peas, asparagus and green beans. Add sparkle to fresh pineapple with a dash of lemon juice. Sugar it and wrap in coconut shreds for a cool salad treat.

How Sin Begins

Lesson for April 8, 1951

NO ONE can believe in sin who does not believe in God. That is, no one can believe that sin is real unless he believes that God is ligious; it cannot be real. For the meaning of sin is re-apart from God. For sin means go-ing contrary to the will of God. Sin may not consist of anything, "doing" of course; it may be only wishing or thinking against God; or it may be Dr. Foreman refusing to do, or neglecting to do, what God wants done.

understood at all,

A thing is not right just because God wills it; he could not, by a mere proclamation, make murder good and mother-love wicked. But God never wills a thing unless it is right, or forbids it unless it is wrong; one reason for this is that he is creator of all, and so knows what is best for every creature. To go against his will is to go against one's own best interest. Sin on the Outside

HOW does sin begin? The Bible says sin has been on this earth as long as people have lived there. But the story of the temptation in the Garden of Eden is also a parable of how sin always As Dr. Brunner says, Adam's other name is Everyman. Now we can see in this story that sin came into the world because there came a suggestion from the outside. Not everything in this universe is now good; there is anti-God at work, as well as pro-God. There are forces at work that do not wish God's plans to succeed.

If this seems hard to take, at least it cannot be denied that a great many sins would never have been committed without some pull from the outside. A child who goes to school for the first time will pick up, in a few days, habits and language and attitudes that shock the parents. They wonder what's got into the child. Her playmates' meanness has got into her, that's the nub of it.

Sin on the Inside

BUT the fact is, we can't blame the situation as if the situation were the sinner. Not every one who passes a bar-room door feels an urge to go inside. Once in a while a bank clerk skips out with a suitcase full of the bank's money. But the money was there all the time, and no other clerk became a thief.

If it were simply the situation that makes the sin, then every bank clerk would be as dishonest as the worst, and every man who passes a bar would not pass it but go inside and get drunk just like the bums who can't pass a bar-room door.

No, there is something on the inside of us that pushes toward sin. What is it? The story in Genesis may offer a good clue. One of the New Testament writers put it this way: "A man's temptation is due to the pull of his own inward desires, which can be enormously attractive." (James 1:14, J. B. Phillips translation.)

Sin Beforehand

THERE is another sad feature of sin that stands out in the Genesis story and in the story of Everyman. That is, sin almost never looks the same afterwards as it did before.

Before the sin, Eve sees the forbidden fruit as beautiful and desirable; afterwards in shame she hides away from God. Living with herself, with her husband, with God, is no longer the pleasure it had been. However sad or horrible sin may look when we see it in the cold light of Afterwards, when we see it beforehand it always looks

In the last stages of sin, to be sure, it may be quite different; a man may be caught in the grip of a habit he hates, and no one can call him worse names than he calls himself. But in the beginnings of sin, few if any persons see anything repulsive or bad in what they are about

That is why "I do as I please" is a fatally bad rule for living. If you do as you please, sooner or later you will please wrong, and down you will go. Adam and Eve did exactly as they pleased, and lost their Paradise. But if we take as our rule of life what God pleases, even if we never reach perfection we shall always be pointing in the right direction.
