Mrs. N. E. Simpson, "Over 60," Hates Japs; Knitting Needles Fly

When the Japs bombed Pearl Harbor on December 7, not only did they start more than they knew in a bombing way, but the action started the knitting needles of an aged O'Donnell lady and exactly 35 garments have been turned out for the Red Cross.

Mrs. N. E. Simpson, "over 60" was so indignant at the Japs, and intimated she wanted to do something to help, so she told Mrs. R. O. Stark following the December 7 bombing.

Since that time she has knitted 15 sweaters with sleeves, 14 army sweaters and six helmets — an amount of work a lot of younger women can't, or haven't equalled.

If any of the younger women, say 50 years or under, would like to try their knitting skill, Mrs. Stark reports there is a lot of work to be done. What is needed is more workers.

Mrs. Simpson says little about it, but is one Mrs. Stark can depend upon.

Workers Needed for Red Cross Knitting

New materials have arrived for Red Cross knitters here, and workers are urgently needed, according to Mrs. R. O. Stark, local chairman.

Mrs. Stark will be at the sewing rooms on Wednesdays and Fridays, and anyone wishing to help, may contact her on those days.

Not enough workers are operating out of the O'Donnell unit, and any effort made will be for a worthy cause.

Mrs. G. B. Johnson of near La-mesa was a business visitor here on Wednesday.

Over 50 Tons Of Scrap Metal Here

Slightly over 50 tons of scrap metal was handled by Bud Pugh, local buyer, during the recent drive staged here, and no let up was shown this week.

Pugh alone had purchased 105 tons of the metal since the first of the year, and augmented by purchases by other buyers here, O'Donnell has helped in the nation's war effort with a vengeance. Most sellers express the hope a lot of it will fall on the Nips, Japs or whatever you call them.

11-Year-Old Witness to Pearl Harbor Bombing Speaks To Rotary

Betty Billingsley, the 11-year-old granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. McMurtrey, who live in the Harmony community, and who witnessed the bombing of Pearl Harbor on December 7 by the Japanese, was a guest speaker at the Rotary Club Tuesday.

Miss Maurine McNatt, home demonstration agent, made the principal talk to the Rotarians and explained how proper nutrition would help win the war on the home front as well as on the battle front.

Little Miss Billingsley spoke without any trace of timidity of her experiences, and exhibited parts of a Jap plane which was shot down. Japanese lettering was on part of the exhibits. To get these, Betty said she was "about the second one to reach the plane."

The girl, who has already found out what war is, is the daughter of Lieut. and Mrs. Oliver Billingsley. Her father is still on duty in the Pacific.

Betty's appearance at the club was not her first shot as a speaker, she having spoke to the Lions Club in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

ATTEND REUNION

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Early and Mr. and Mrs. Buddo Yandell and family were in Throckmorton last week end to attend a family reunion.

RECOGNIZE THE GENTLEMAN ON THE RIGHT?—This hitherto unpublished photograph shows Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Texans last saw him, in April, 1937, when MacArthur accompanied President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines, at left, on a goodwill trip through Texas to Mexico. James V. Allred, center, then governor, welcomed the visitors to the state. Then a major general and American advisor to the Filipino army, MacArthur wore a business suit as impeccably as the military dress with which Americans are more familiar now.

Last Rites Held Monday For 96-Year-Old Woman

Funeral services for Lynn County's oldest woman, Mrs. Mary Ann Abshier, 96, were held Monday afternoon from the First Methodist Church with the Rev. Ben Hardy of Tahoka officiating. Burial was made locally.

Death occurred at the home of a daughter, Mrs. R. L. Taylor.

Born in 1846, Mrs. Abshier survived the Civil War, the Spanish and World War No. 1, and lived into the greatest conflagration of them all, the present one. Before she became so advanced in age, Mrs. Abshier had many an interesting story to tell of life as it was lived during and following the Civil War.

She was married to A. W. Abshier in March, 1862, and he died in 1915. For the past several years she had been residing in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Taylor, in O'Donnell.

For fifty-three years Mrs. Abshier had been a member of the Methodist Church, having united with the Church in July, 1889.

Surviving her are four daughters and one son. The daughters are: Mrs. Taylor, in whose home she died, Mrs. P. P. Brewer and Mrs. H. L. Brewer, who also reside at O'Donnell, and Mrs. John Jackson of Hobbs, New Mexico. The son is Steve Abshier of Hobbs.

Also surviving are 25 grandchildren, 30 great-grandchildren, and 16 great-great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Conger of Brownwood were business visitors here last week end.

Mrs. Major Rodgers and Charles of Levelland were visiting here this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert DeBusk visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Edwards, in Brownfield the fore part of the week.

Drive For Scrap Rubber Is Now Underway; Yards Being Combed

"Let's get O'Donnell's scrap rubber—old tires of all kinds and other rubber materials—into circulation—and this week-end scores of self-appointed voluntary solicitors will campaign to move the area's huge stock of untouched rubber to market."

Lynn County must have at least 50 tons of scrap rubber lying about barns, in garages, in fence corners, and in backyards, doing nobody any earthly good, while official Washington is talking seriously of a gasoline rationing program because the stock of rubber in the nation's stockpile is dwindling and rubber is not moving to market through regular junk channels. This is the belief of scores of close observers in the county.

These are urged on by the quoted statement in press and radio by the president that if scrap rubber in large enough quantities can be proven to exist in the nation and if this rubber can be started to moving to stockpiles, gasoline rationing may be averted, and recap tires may be available to the public in sufficient quantities to tide over until synthetic rubber gets on the market.

This week rumors became current that government agencies are going to undertake leasing buildings throughout the country in which to store tires, and that commandeering of privately-owned tires will be undertaken if the situation becomes worse. Failure on the part of the public to respond to appeals for disposal of junked tires, now owned privately by the millions of pounds is said to have originated the idea.

Declaration of local business men is that gasoline rationing would be a business calamity of the first magnitude in this area of wide distances was echoed on every side last week as they wondered "what to do" to meet the situation. "Let's show the president that the scrap rubber is here and that we can get it to move to market" was echoed on every side. Scores have promised to form themselves into "committees of one" to get to work on the job.

IN DALLAS

T. E. Norton and Jack Wilson of Dallas were visitors here last week end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Gibbs and Mrs. R. H. Schooler. Misses Margaret and Billie Frank Gibbs accompanied them home for a few weeks' visit.

Mrs. B. L. Hopper and children of Mentone are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Brewer.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert De Busk moved this week to an apartment in the home of Mrs. W. W. Hancock.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S.-Russ Pact Means 'Second Front' And Co-Operation for Lasting Peace; Yank Warships Join British Blockade; New Pipeline to Supply Oil for East

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

How the United States can help Greece, now starving and prostrate under Nazi rule was among things discussed when King George II of Greece conferred with President Roosevelt during the Greek monarch's flying visit to Washington. Above, the President is shown with King George on the White House lawn.

U. S.-RUSS PACT: 'Second Front'

In triphammer succession came three moves by the United States, Russia and Great Britain that promised momentous consequences for the prosecution of the war and the safeguarding of the peace afterwards.

First, President Roosevelt announced that the United States and Russia had reached a "full understanding with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942." Second, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden announced that Britain and Russia had signed a 20-year military and political alliance pledging peace and renouncing territorial greed.

Central figure in negotiating the three-way understanding was Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov. The Russian statesman flew first to London and then hopped the Atlantic to Washington, where under the incognito of "Mr. Brown" he was a White House guest for a week.

Significance of this latest diplomatic coup for the United Nations is that war activities will be greatly speeded and the framework for a durable peace based on economic fair play provided.

OIL FOR EAST: New Pipeline

Acting to avert a threatened fuel oil famine in the East, the War Production board authorized immediate construction of a 24-inch pipe line from Longview, Texas, to the Salem, Ill., area.

The new pipeline will cut in half the distance Texas oil has to travel at present by rail and inland waterway to reach the Atlantic seaboard.

While it will have a capacity of 250,000 barrels a day, the pipeline will not supply enough oil to lift gasoline rationing restrictions in the East, WPB officials declared. They pointed out that shipments of oil and oil products to the East have not been meeting essential demands, despite rigid rationing and that stocks have fallen dangerously below safety levels.

RUSSIAN WAR: Nazis Speed Drive

Stepping up the tempo of their Russian offensive, Nazi armies and air forces pressed attacks on three major fronts. These included a push from Kharkov in the Ukraine, a drive against besieged Sevastopol in the Crimea and an air attack on Murmansk north of the Finnish sector.

With completion expected by December 1, the 550-mile pipeline will require 125,000 tons of finished steel.

The size of the force directed at Sevastopol suggested that the Nazis were at last getting their summer campaign under way. More than ten German divisions numbering 150,000 men were reported striking at the strategic Black sea city. The importance of this city is that it opens a gateway to the rich Caucasus oil fields.

From Moscow came a cheering communique announcing that "despite the intensity and stubbornness of the attacks, the enemy failed to break the resistance of the Sevastopol defenders."

YANK WARSHIPS: Join British Fleet

As land and air warfare in Europe and Africa approached a critical stage, the Atlantic ocean battle theater crowded into the forefront with the announcement that a powerful task force of U. S. warships had joined the British home fleet.

Commanded by Rear Admiral Robert C. Giffen, the American naval force will help the British blockade German-controlled Europe, guard Allied convoys and hunt Axis submarines.

News that the Yank sea reinforcement had joined the British became public in connection with a three-day visit to an English port by King George VI, who boarded a U. S. battleship and saw other warships of the task force.

With British seapower scattered in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and Pacific oceans, the arrival of substantial help from the American navy in the Atlantic area had significant implications. Important among these was that the stronger United Nations naval squadron now would be able to keep closer watch on the powerful Nazi warships lurking in Norwegian waters.

NAZI TERROR: In Czechoslovakia

In a reign of terror following the death of Reinhard ("The Hangman") Heydrich at the hands of Czech patriots, Nazi Gestapo executioners slaughtered the entire male population of the Czech village of Liditz, banished its women and children to concentration camps and burned it to the ground.

The Axis-controlled Prague radio charged that the village had harbored Heydrich's killers. The town's population was estimated at 483, indicating that upward of 150 men were shot. Liditz was located a few miles west of Prague and not far from where "The Hangman" was fatally wounded by patriots while driving along a winding road.

ALEUTIAN ISLANDS: Jap Footholds?

While the navy department denied Axis claims that Japanese navy and army units had established footholds on the inhabited areas of the Aleutian island chain stretching 1,500 miles across the north Pacific from Alaska, further reports of the extent of the American air and naval victory at Midway island came from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet.

Admiral Nimitz intimated that of a Jap invasion fleet of more than 30 vessels engaged in the battle, probably half were casualties. Besides heavy loss in warships and transports, the enemy's toll of manpower ran into thousands.

That the Tokyo government was preparing the Nipponese public for news of the sea reverse was indicated by reports that an official spokesman had warned a radio audience not to expect that "all battle news could always be favorable."

MISCELLANY:

Omaha: Rich, high quality beef steaks will probably disappear from American tables this fall, because of present price ceiling regulations, according to Guy Scudder, secretary of the National Live Stock Advisory council. Because feed prices are not regulated, cannot feed animals up to a good market quality and must throw them on the market after short feeding, Scudder said.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX WNU-Release

STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan, a man who cannot forget the day he died hating him, refuses to talk with Ben Herendeen, a man who wants to run the cattle ranch his own way. Morgan is a big, tough, and knows he must protect himself and knows the "nesters," but he likes Herendeen's methods. Of his friends, only Hack Breathitt has turned over to Herendeen's side. The like Lige White, Charley Hill and Gurd Grant—two supporting on more or less in self defense. Grant's sister, Catherine, is in a love with Clay. She comes to see him and is forced to hide when riders are approaching. The first is Hack Morgan, out of breath from hard riding.

CHAPTER V

Breathitt stepped to the door. He said: "I guess I need a hand on this." He was a thin, lanky shape in the shadows; he was leaning softly to himself, full of nerves. He listened to the strength-rush of the yonder horses. It will be Herendeen and Lige White and Gurd Grant. It has come all of a pass when a man like these hills as he pleases."

Morgan said, rough and sudden. "If they're stepping on your back, take a shot at them."

"Not yet, Clay. I'm tryin' to be reasonable."

"I said no more, for the three of us have reached the yard. They were stopped, they were keeping their saddles, and letting the horses run; they could see Hack Morgan on the porch, touched by the outshining lamp light from the living room of the house."

Three left their saddles, slowing down to the light. Morgan saw the quick sight of their faces, of the worried expression and of the white's embarrassed dislike at the news now doing, and of Ben Herendeen's bony, flat triumph. "What I expected," Herendeen said.

"You're lucky I didn't knock you out of that saddle," grumbled Hack Breathitt.

"You had nothin' to worry about, why run?" asked Herendeen.

Hack Breathitt was a shrewd man who had no trust in Ben Herendeen. He said, halfway between outlandish amusement: "Wasn't run. Ben. I was just bein' careful. I kept rememberin' Ollie."

"Grant said: 'We were coming along the trail down by Dell and saw you and Pete Boring riding together. Pete hit off you and you went another. All wanted to know was why you rode with him last night. But made a run of it.'"

"I gave you time," pointed out Herendeen.

"Time for what?" asked Gale.

"To kick a man around like a dog? I ain't hurting you. This ain't near your range. It should be Mr. White's range—and he ain't complained." He didn't speak of his legal right to be here on free Government land, for he knew how hopeless it was in front of a cattleman in cattle country.

"That's enough," said Herendeen. "All you nesters are alike. I give you twenty minutes to clear your junk out of the shack."

Mrs. Gale at once turned and ran for the house, calling over her shoulders, "Gale, help me. Daisy—come help me."

Gale didn't move. He had his head down and he stared at the ground, hard-caught by indecision and futility. The girl, Herendeen observed, was pretty. He stared at her out of interested eyes and was irritated by the judgment he discovered on her face.

The women were carrying their possessions out of the house—their kitchen implements, their clothes, their few sticks of furniture. Herendeen said, almost laughing, "Old man, if you expect to save your wagon you better get it out of the shed."

Gale stirred himself. He walked across the yard with his knees never quite straightening. He called to the oldest boy. "Give me a hand, sonny," and both of them seized the tongue of the wagon and backed it from the shed. Afterwards Gale went into the corral for his horses.

Herendeen watched the family move around the yard. He looked at his watch, and was a little disappointed that it was so easy. He said: "That's twenty minutes. Set 'em afire."

Bones McGeen rode to the shed. Liard Connor got down and went into the house. Herendeen heard him tramping around the place; the stove crashed down and in a little while smoke began to puff through the door. Connor came back. McGeen had piled some sage wood against the corner of the shed, and now this fire began to burn. Gale stopped harnessing the horses. He put his back against the wagon, watching the fire catch hold.

One side of the shed turned into a yellow sheet of flame; the doorway of the shanty showed a solid roll of smoke and fire inside—and there was no way now for the Gales to save anything. Herendeen said, to his men: "I guess that's all." But he looked at the girl, speculating on her. He said: "I'm not as bad as you'd figure. You want a job? It's one way of keeping your family alive, anyhow."

Mrs. Gale suddenly reached for the smallest child, wrapping her apron around him—

rising in his eyes. She said in a small, hurried voice, "Good night, Clay," and went by him. He walked to the porch and waited until she rode around the house. She paused a moment and held out her hand. The pressure of it was strong; and the shock was there again for him. She said, at once cool and near laughter: "Will I see you in town, Clay? There's a dance Friday. I think Ben will be taking me."

"I'll be there," he said. On Thursday evening just beyond sunset, Ben Herendeen reached the ridge behind the Gale homestead and came over it so suddenly that he caught the Gale family eating supper under a lone juniper tree in the yard. He might have taken the route straight across Fanolanga Desert, but this would have given Gale notice from afar. Liard Connor and Bones McGeen, both being men who liked this kind of business, were with him.

It amused Herendeen to see the complete shock his arrival produced. Gale rose, gaunt and gray-headed and old-faced in the twilight.

Mrs. Gale suddenly reached for the smallest child, wrapping her apron around him.

There were three other children in the family, a girl near twenty and two younger boys. All of them remained still and for a moment he could see something pretty close to terror in the eyes of Gale's wife. In a way it pleased him to find them still on the ranch. He proposed to make an example of the family and this made it easy.

"I gave you time," pointed out Herendeen.

"Time for what?" asked Gale.

"To kick a man around like a dog? I ain't hurting you. This ain't near your range. It should be Mr. White's range—and he ain't complained." He didn't speak of his legal right to be here on free Government land, for he knew how hopeless it was in front of a cattleman in cattle country.

"That's enough," said Herendeen. "All you nesters are alike. I give you twenty minutes to clear your junk out of the shack."

Mrs. Gale at once turned and ran for the house, calling over her shoulders, "Gale, help me. Daisy—come help me."

Gale didn't move. He had his head down and he stared at the ground, hard-caught by indecision and futility. The girl, Herendeen observed, was pretty. He stared at her out of interested eyes and was irritated by the judgment he discovered on her face.

The women were carrying their possessions out of the house—their kitchen implements, their clothes, their few sticks of furniture. Herendeen said, almost laughing, "Old man, if you expect to save your wagon you better get it out of the shed."

Gale stirred himself. He walked across the yard with his knees never quite straightening. He called to the oldest boy. "Give me a hand, sonny," and both of them seized the tongue of the wagon and backed it from the shed. Afterwards Gale went into the corral for his horses.

Herendeen watched the family move around the yard. He looked at his watch, and was a little disappointed that it was so easy. He said: "That's twenty minutes. Set 'em afire."

Bones McGeen rode to the shed. Liard Connor got down and went into the house. Herendeen heard him tramping around the place; the stove crashed down and in a little while smoke began to puff through the door. Connor came back. McGeen had piled some sage wood against the corner of the shed, and now this fire began to burn. Gale stopped harnessing the horses. He put his back against the wagon, watching the fire catch hold.

Herendeen said, to his men: "I guess that's all." But he looked at the girl, speculating on her. He said: "I'm not as bad as you'd figure. You want a job? It's one way of keeping your family alive, anyhow."

Gale left the horses and walked to Herendeen. He said: "Mr. Herendeen, my daughter would drop dead before she took anything from you. And if she did take anything I'd kill her. I guess you've done us all the hurt you can. Go on and leave us alone. Someday, maybe I can pay you back."

"Hold on there," said Herendeen. He got off his horse and walked up to Gale, catching the front of Gale's shirt in his fingers. He shook Gale a little but there wasn't any resistance in the older man at all; his body swayed to the pressure of Herendeen's arm. Mrs. Gale's eyes showed a sudden terror. One of the boys reached down to seize a rock; he would have thrown it at Herendeen if the girl hadn't caught his arm. Herendeen said: "You had better keep your damned mouth shut. Hitch up that team and get out of the country. I don't want to see you on this range again."

He released Gale and returned to his horse. Connor and McGeen joined him, the three of them circling the snapping, twisted rush of fire; flames broke through the shanty's roof and the sky above this area began to glow. Looking back as a matter of caution, Herendeen saw the family still standing by the juniper tree. The girl had taken the youngest child in her arms. Gale had moved over to his wife. His arm was around her; she had thrown her apron across her face and was crying.

Late Friday afternoon, just as Clay Morgan was ready to leave the ranch for War Pass, Vance Ketchell came into the Long Seven yard and dropped off a tired horse. Vance was a steady-going young man who once had been a puncher for Herendeen's Three Pines and now owned a few cows of his own up on the slope of the Cache Mountains. He didn't say anything for a moment but Morgan saw that he was under considerable strain—and waited for Vance to make his talk. Vance fashioned a cigarette, lighted it and stood with his feet apart, staring across the narrow valley flats. He said, "Pretty country," but really didn't see it. When he pushed his hat back a mop of hair, black as crow, dropped down on his forehead.

"Clay," he said at last, "you hear about the Gales?"

"Yes."

"I saw them over in Freeport yesterday. Pretty tough—pretty tough." He smoked on and Morgan knew he had not yet come to his point. Something on the summit of the Mogul Hills seemed to interest Vance Ketchell as he added casually: "I like the family—I like the girl."

"Sure," said Morgan, and understood part of Vance's trouble then.

"Clay, if that can happen to a nester, it can happen to me. I'm pretty small potatoes and it looks like something's afoot to push us out." He stared at Morgan, then said in an idle voice, "I heard the big outfits held a meetin' the other day."

"Wasn't present," said Clay.

He knew what lay in Ketchell's mind. Ketchell was a cow hand at heart but he had his own interests to worry about now, and the affair at the Gale homestead hit pretty close. Ketchell was figuring out the politics of the country, wondering where his, Morgan's, weight would be. Ketchell was too old a hand to ask the direct question, but nevertheless he kept circling around, hunting an answer.

Ketchell said: "I don't think it was right of Herendeen. Can't blame a big outfit for watchin' its own fences, but I ain't so ignorant as I used to be. Small folks have got rights, Clay. There's a hell of a lot of them in this world—and they got rights."

"If I were Gale," said Morgan, "I'd cut the price of that homestead out of Herendeen's hide."

He saw relief change Ketchell's face completely. Vance tossed away the cigarette; he was grinning beneath the shadow of his hat brim. "Yeah," he said. "Well, see you in church." He was on the horse and soon away and somewhere in his mind was a decision formed in that little space of time.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 21

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE TASK COMMITTED TO THE DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:49-53. GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.—Mark 16:15.

Witnesses of the resurrection—that privilege of the disciples carried with it the responsibility of declaring the good news of completed redemption to all the nations of the earth. In doing so they were destined to meet opposition and unbelief, to feel weariness and to know discouragement. So the Lord, before leaving this world for His present ministry at the Father's right hand (Mark 16:19; Heb. 7:25), prepared them by giving them a divine commission, which they accepted and acted upon with the assurance of His power and blessing. The lesson is summarized in the words, "Go ye" (Matt. 28:19); "They went forth" (Mark 16:20); "And He . . . blessed them" (Luke 24:50).

I. "Go Ye" (Matt. 28:16-20). God's plans are never small plans. World evangelization, nothing less, was the goal He had in mind, and to which Christ commissioned this little group of humble folk who were His disciples. It was not only a great commission, but a daring one.

Back of such marching orders there must be authority and power—and Christ had them (v. 18)—all power and all authority. No need to measure or compare, for His is the ultimate and complete authority. This is the One who said, "Come unto me"; then, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men," and who now says, "Go." If we heed one command, should we not absolutely obey the others?

The message is His message, the gospel (Mark 16:15). It is the only message! The witnesses of Christ are not called to educate and civilize the heathen without winning them to Christ. To do so is only to prepare stronger and more skillful enemies of all that we count holy.

But a great program means nothing if it is not carried out; a great commission is only words unless it is accepted and obeyed. We read of the disciples that—

II. "They Went Forth" (Mark 16:14-20). The call and command are given in this passage. The power is made clear and somewhat in detail, but the significant thing is that they actually went forth to preach.

The response of these early Christians was immediate and enthusiastic. Would that such a spirit had characterized the church through all the generations since then, for if it had, the commission would long since have been carried out. Dr. R. A. Torrey has estimated that if everyone in a church of 2,000 were to win one soul a year, and each convert win one soul each year, the world would be evangelized in less than 35 years.

But while on the whole the church has failed, there have been valiant souls all down through its history who have given themselves to the business of soul-winning. With them, as with these of the first century, the secret is ever "The Lord working with them." We read that as He was leaving this earth and His disciples, He lifted up His hands—

III. "And He . . . Blessed Them" (Luke 24:49-53). God has always honored those who in faith have obeyed His command. The whole history of missionary endeavor bears eloquent testimony to that fact.

Sometimes we marvel at the success of a great movement, such as that founded by John Wesley. The answer is that God found a man, or a little group of men or women, willing to take Him at His word and step out in earnest purpose to obey Him. "For forty years John Wesley carried on his mission of canvassing for Christ as a parliamentary candidate canvasses for votes in his constituency in the strenuous three weeks before an election" (Arnold's Commentary). Little wonder that with the blessing of Christ upon his work brings joy to many even to this day.

Note that the disciples who had been made sad and despondent by their parting with Christ at Calvary now went away in joy. The joy of the Lord is the strength of the Christian worker. It gives him abundant grace and power in the hour of need and makes him a fruitful servant.

A Warm Soul I saw once lying side by side in a great workshop, two heads made of metal. The one was perfect; all the features of a noble, manly face came out clear and distinct in their lines of strength and beauty; in the other, scarcely a single feature could be recognized; it was all marred and spoiled. "The metal had been let grow a little too cool, sir," said the man who was showing it to me. I could not help thinking how true that was of many a form more precious than metal. — Canon Teignmouth Shore.

COLORFUL jiffy crochets in mats and scarfs, done in rug cotton will make your luncheons go off gaily. The scarf can be any desired length.

Household Hints

Galoshes should be stuffed with paper and wrapped separately when storing. The idea is to keep the rubber surfaces from touching as summer's heat will vulcanize rubber.

If cake is very hard it can be made into a delicious pudding by steaming 30 minutes in double boiler and serving hot with any desired sauce—hard, creamy, foamy or fruit.

Continued exposure to high temperatures shortens the life of rubber articles, since heat stimulates chemical change, advises a bulletin from the U. S. department of agriculture. Rubber articles in the home, it adds, should be kept away from radiators, stoves, fireplaces, and out of the direct sunlight, "as a hot water bottle hung in a sunny place on the bathroom wall."

Empty fruit jars should be perfectly dry inside and out before storing. Mold may grow in a jar with moisture inside.

To wash rayons use mild, luke-warm suds, squeezing them through the material. Don't rub or wring the garment. Iron it slightly damp on the wrong side.

To "soft cook" eggs properly, immerse in boiling water. Cover and let stand on the hot burner or on the back of the range two minutes. The egg white will be jelly-like and the yolk soft, making a digestible and palatable food.

Matter of Habit

The man who makes it the habit of his life to go to bed at nine o'clock, usually gets rich and is always reliable. Of course, going to bed does not make him rich—I merely mean that such a man will in all probability be up early in the morning and do a big day's work, so his weary bones put him to bed early.

Rogues do their work at night. Honest men work by day. It's all a matter of habit, and good habits in America make any man rich. Wealth is largely a result of habit. —John Jacob Astor.

Making Limited Sugar Supplies Fill The Preservation Budget

By careful planning the homemaker can meet the needs of the family food preservation budget, despite the limited amount of sugar she can obtain. A new OPA regulation allows home canners to obtain one pound of sugar for every four quarts of finished canned fruit. An additional pound per year for each person in the family may be obtained for making jams, jellies, and fruit butters.

Stretch the sugar allowance by: thinner syrups for canning fruits and fruit juices will have to be used; it will be necessary to dry some fruits; fewer jars of preserves and jams than usual will be made; and jelly—as the least nutritious of the list should be made last after the remainder of the budget has been filled.

By using corn syrup or honey the limited amount of sugar can be made to go farther. Both of these can be substituted for some or all of the sugar in almost all of your favorite recipes.

Corn syrup is quite good for canning because it doesn't mask the flavor of the fruit. To make a light syrup use ½ cup of corn syrup to ½ cup of water. Other directions in canning fruit are given in B-85. Canning Fruits and Vegetables. Corn syrup is fair in making preserves and jams when it is used with equal amounts of sugar. It is not so good for jelly because it takes longer to jell and is then somewhat sticky.

When honey is diluted sufficiently it is good for canning. About ¾ cup of water and ¼ cup of honey make a good syrup for canning most fruits. First, bring the water to the boiling point, add honey and stir. Again let come to good boil, remove scum and pour over fruit. Follow other directions for processing in B-85.

Honey is much better in preserves and jams than in jelly. If possible, use at least one-third sugar and two-thirds honey for preserves. Honey is especially good in sweet pickles, probably better than plain sugar.

Honey makes a good texture of jelly. Substitute it for sugar cup for cup. The color of the jelly is darker, however, and it takes a minute longer to cook. The flavor is in most cases stronger with the honey. If it is necessary to use honey in making jelly, it is best to use one-half sugar and one-half honey. Be sure to use a large kettle because honey foams considerably and there is danger of its boiling over.

When bought, honey is two and one-half or three times as expensive as sugar, and corn syrup is about twice as expensive.

You might try invert sugar. A Florida experiment station scientist recommends making invert sugar to make it go farther. To do this, mix one cup of sugar and 14 tablepoons of water. Add one-fourth teaspoon of tartaric acid (which you can get at any drug store). Cover this sugar, water and tartaric acid mixture and boil gently for thirty minutes. Allow to cool. Then you have invert sugar syrup. Each cup is equal in sweetening to a cup of sugar. In other words it is about 1¾ times as sweet as the same weight in plain sugar.

Invert sugar syrup is excellent for use in canning, and may be diluted one-half syrup and one-half water. It is also good in sweetening fruits, cereals, ice cream and beverages.

Old Settlers Will Not Hold Reunion

TAHOKA, June 18 (Special)—

At a meeting of the board of directors and other officials of the Lynn County Old Settlers organization it was decided not to hold the reunion this year, postponing it for the "duration," according to Tom Hale, the president.

This action was taken in view of the fact that most people are trying to conserve their tires on account of the tire rationing program that has been inaugurated.

AREA SUPERVISOR GIVES PENSION INFORMATION

The Press has received for publication the following communication from the Area Supervisor of the State Department of Public Welfare, Lubbock office, which doubtless will be of much interest to many of our readers. The communication follows.

In answer to the question, "Why doesn't every aged person draw $30 per month Old Age Assistance?" Mr. W. R. Dorsey, Department of Public Welfare, points out the practical problem of financing such a program and the fact that Texas would lose federal grants-in-aid by which it is now paying one-half of the expense if such a law were passed.

The 1940 census reveals that Texas has 345,120 aged persons over 65 he declared. If each of these were paid $30 per month, without any allowance for administrative costs, it would require $10,353,600 each month, or $124,243,200 per year. The 47th legislature appropriated money to supply one-half the amount needed each month to pay grants to aged persons meeting the law's qualifications, specifying that no more than $1,750,000 should be used in any one month. With federal matching funds this makes possible a maximum expenditure of $3,500,000 for Old Age Assistance. Last month $3,374,649 were distributed to 172,234 recipients and the rolls continue to grow despite losses due to death and ineligibility.

A fundamental requirement of the federal government is that all grants shall vary according to the individual needs of an applicant. Therefore, if $30 per month were paid to all aged persons, federal aid would be lost, Mr. Dorsey stated.

Texas is now making monthly cash public assistance payments to three groups of needy people. These are men and women over 65, blind people, and dependent children who have lost the care or support of one or both parents. Mr. Dorsey stated that the amount of the cash payment is $3.00.

The Private Papers Of a Cub Reporter:

You probably read, in the stories about John Barrymore, how saddened he was over the loss of his interned Jap valet and the Jap's family. . . . On the other hand, some of Charles Chaplin's Jap servants turned out to be spies. . . . The most ironic situation of all, we think, concerns Eugenia Clair Flatto, Grand Hostess of the American Gold Star Mothers' annual convention. . . . Before the war, Mrs. Flatto had a loyal Jap gardener. . . . He had been here for many years—had even fought for this nation in the last big war. . . . But, because he is Japanese he had to be interned. . . . Mrs. Flatto now has a new gardener, who is acceptable to the authorities—a German, who can't even speak English!

One of President Roosevelt's closest advisers, a New Yorker, was feasting in a delicatessen. As he started to leave, the owner handed him a small package. . . . "This," he explained, "is for the President. It contains some of my best corned beef and pastrami. Please take it to him with my compliments." . . . The next day when the President opened the package, right on top of the spicy cold cuts were two dozen of the delicatessen man's cards. . . . FDR sent for Steve Early and, handing the cards to him, dryly instructed: "Here—pass these around to the various Embassies."

When FDR was assistant secretary of the navy, they say, he was visited by some ladies of the Temperance Union. They wanted him to christen the ships with soda pop instead of champagne. "The trouble with you ladies," said Mr. Roosevelt, "is that instead of opposing the christening of a vessel with champagne, you should encourage it. And get a great temperance lesson." "Why, how can we?" queried one of them. "Well," he replied, "after the first taste of wine, the ship takes to water and sticks to it ever after."

Then there's the one about the Mussolini troops, who will go down in history as men who'd rather eat and make love than fight. . . . One Italian captain decided to do something about it, and after a pep talk—he charged: "Avanti!" ("Forward!") and so shouting—he led them into battle. When he turned, the captain found himself 50 yards ahead—alone! With all his men still seated on the ground—applauding and yelling: "Bravo! Bravo!"

Admirers of Herbert Bayard Swope were disappointed not to find an anecdote about him in our recent pillar called "Newspaperman Stuff." M. Throckmorton Cohn, who says Swope is a guy you always find in a photo finish when newspapermen are discussed, relays this one about him.

While exec editor down on the World, Swope formed a habit of depending a great deal for the exact time on the clock in the tower of the Tribune—which was directly across the way. . . . Every now and then the Trib clock would stop. This riled Swope no end. . . . So one day he got it off his chest by running this on the World's editorial page: "The Tribune tries to tell the administration how to run the government, yet cannot keep its own clock going."

For almost a year she has been trying to crash the Broadway heavens. . . . To attract attention she circulated the fable that she is an heiress to millions and that her family pays her a large sum weekly to keep out of the theater. . . . Naturally, that kind of a story got her a lot of publicity, and playwrights and producers catered to her as a potential backer. . . . The thing exploded right in her pretty face when she was threatened with eviction over a $20 hotel bill.

Most top salary players could not squander their money even if they wanted to. The greater part of their salaries goes to taxes and professional and living expenses. The rest is handled by business managers.

Hollywood stars are not the gourmets they are cracked up to be. They have to eat sparingly of simple foods in order to maintain their figures and physical condition. Most stars' dream of Paradise is to be able to eat steak and potatoes and pie whenever they feel like it—but they don't.

Don't Believe What You Hear About Hollywood: Modern Americans believe more myth and legend about Hollywood than did the ancient Greeks about the boys from Mount Olympus, from Ajax to Zeus, inclusive.

Although there is a Hollywood Chamber of Commerce to promote this mecca which doesn't exist, there is no Hollywood City Hall or city officials. That vague territory is just the northwest section of the city of Los Angeles.

ARTHURDALE COMMENCEMENT

WASHINGTON—The commencement at Arthurdale, W. Va., was really quite impressive. As I look back over the years and remember that the first class had three high school graduates, the 20 fine looking young people who received their diplomas yesterday show great progress. In order to buy war savings stamps, they gave up their annual spring visit to Washington, for which all high school students save their pennies throughout the year. One felt that here was a group of young people who already understood many of the responsibilities which come with maturity.

The hazards of industry are brought home to all of them rather frequently, so the hazards of war are nothing new. They all felt very close to the mine disaster at Osage, for one of our Arthurdale home-steaders lost his life in that accident. For ten days his body was not found, and those ten days were days of uncertainty and agony to the young wife, her six and eight-year-old daughters and her neighbors.

RESPECT FOR COURAGE

Visiting her, however, gave me a renewed respect for the courage of human beings. Another baby is coming in December and instead of bewailing the extra burden, she said she was so happy that this is the case, for it gave her something more to live for. Social security and workmen's compensation take on real meaning when you see a little family of this kind facing the future.

From workmen's compensation, this woman will receive $30 a month, and $5 a month for each child. Her social security payment will be $17 a month—a total of $57. She and her husband had just decided since he had a steady job in the mine, they could take over the contract and buy their little place. She still hopes to be able to make her monthly payments and eventually own her house and land.

I visited the community house in Scotts Run and saw the nursery school. They need a little more equipment in their outdoor playground, but otherwise the arrangements for the little children seem very adequate.

I went to the Osage mine and saw the men going on their afternoon shift and talked with a man who is nicknamed "Happy." He, with about 30 others, came out alive at the time of the accident. I asked him how it had been possible and he said: "Well, I don't really know, but I always joke a lot, so I thought it was better to go on joking until we died, if we had to die, but instead we got out."

WINDSORS AS GUESTS

NEW YORK CITY.—One morning in Washington dawned with a gray and stormy looking sky. Soon after breakfast I went to see my friend, Mrs. Edward Maccauley, who fell the other day and broke her hip, which means three months in bed. To anyone so active as she is, this is a real penalty at such a time.

We had an early luncheon at which the duke and duchess of Windsor were our guests. I was very much interested to hear from the duke that he had started a small organization, resembling our CCC camps, in the Bahama islands and felt it was going to do valuable work.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

Immediately after lunch, we went to the airport and waited for a delayed plane. This resulted in my being somewhat late at my apartment in New York city for a meeting at which I had asked Miss Viola Ilma to tell something about the work of the Young Men's Vocational foundation. Miss Ilma had so many interesting stories to tell about the boys whom she has succeeded in placing in jobs, that I think everyone present was interested.

During the first year, she placed some 80 boys out of the New York state reform schools, in jobs. This past year, with the aid of a larger staff, she has developed such good relationships with case workers, the parole board and employers, that over a thousand boys have been placed.

We are very anxious to interest more groups of people in this work, not because it is necessary to have a big staff or a very large budget, but because much can be done with comparatively moderate sums of money and a greater number of people who are really interested. At this time it is important to give a helping hand to boys who find it hard under the best of circumstances to establish themselves, because they lack real stability in their lives.

COAST ARTILLERY VISIT

WASHINGTON.—One morning I went over to Hains Point at the invitation of Captain Kentor to visit the headquarters of the 71st coast artillery. This regiment guards the White House and neighboring public buildings. I was particularly interested in the classification section under Captain Kentor. Some days ago I told you about plans which are made in the central office. Here they are put to work with enthusiasm and intelligence.

Treat Constipation This Gentler Way!

Many folks say that almost as bad as constipation are harsh cathartics and purges. That's because many medicinal laxatives work this way: they either prod the intestines into action or draw moisture into them from other parts of the body. Now comes news of a gentler and pleasanter way of treating constipation, for the millions of people with normal intestines whose trouble is due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. This way is by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a crisp, delicious cereal, and drinking plenty of water. ALL-BRAN, unlike many medicinal laxatives, acts principally on the contents of the colon and helps you to have easy, normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, better see your doctor.

The War isn't fought in Fox Holes alone

IT'S fought in the mind. It's fought with a will to win. It's fought with a belief in a cause worth dying for.

That will, that belief, is known as morale. Our enemies have had years of indoctrination. They have been conditioned to believe themselves part of a "new order" . . . to which the contribution of their lives is small but all-important. They believe themselves cogs in a vast machine.

Our soldiers do not fight that way—because they do not live that way. Theirs is the belief in the sanctity of the individual. To maintain their morale in the American way, the USO has devoted all its time and energy since practically the beginning of conscription.

It has done this by staffing and maintaining club houses near all training camps and in our outlying possessions from Alaska to the Caribbean. Today its work is far greater than ever, its need for funds to carry on more than doubled.

18 to 20 Year Old Boys Will Register For Army June 30

Plans are under way to register approximately 220,000 young Texans between the ages of eighteen and twenty, inclusive, on June 30, General J. Watt Page, State Selective Service Director, has announced.

ONE PLACE FOR REGISTERING

Only one place for registering young men in the June 30 registration will be maintained, and that place will be the Lynn county Selective Service offices on the fourth floor of the court house, according to Judge J. W. Elliott, county chairman.

All men who were born on or after January 1, 1922, and on or before June 30, 1924, must register between 7 a. m. and 9 p. m. on Tuesday, June 30, General Page warned, and they must be careful to give their correct addresses where official communications will reach them without delay. He said:

"This Fifth Registration will complete the inventory of the Nation's potential manpower, although, under current policy, men under twenty are not subject to induction for combat duty.

"Local boards will officially designate places of registration in their particular areas. While anyone who is unavoidably away from his home on June 30 may register at the registration place most convenient on that day, all registrants are urged to make every effort to register with their own local boards to avoid possible confusion in the future. Any person who must register away from home is warned to specify his home address so that his registration card may be forwarded promptly to his own local board.

"A registrant who has more than one place of residence may choose which one he wants recorded as his place of residence, and in making the choice he designates the local board which will always have jurisdiction over him."

ALLISON-TRICE WEDDING SUNDAY

In a ceremony read Sunday morning at 9:30, June 14th, in the prayer chapel of the First Methodist Church in Brownwood, Miss Lillian Trice of Dublin and Wm. W. Allison of this city were married. The Rev. J. M. Boone officiated in the single ring ceremony, which was attended by relatives and close friends.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Trice of Dublin, wore a semi-tailored dress of white silk. Her accessories were of blue and white.

her shoulder corsage was a single orchid.

For something old she wore an engagement ring belonging to a friend of her family, and for something borrowed, a gold cross.

The bride's going away suit was of brown and white linen with brown and white accessories.

Mr. Allison is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Allison of Melvin.

He was graduated from the Texas Tech and is a chemical engineer at the local Arizona Chemical Plant. He has held that position for five years.

Mrs. Allison attended John Tarleton, T. S. C. W., and received her B. S. degree from Daniel Baker.

She taught departmental work in the local school last year.

Following a short wedding trip to Melvin, Dublin, and Fort Worth, the couple returned here Thursday and are at home at the Hancock apartment.

Scrap Iron Drive Gets 300,000 Pounds

TAHOKA, June 18 (Special)—One hundred and fifty tons, or 300,000 pounds, of scrap iron were gathered in Lynn county's second big scrap collection drive which ended last Saturday, according to J. K. Applewhite of the county-wide committee sponsoring the event.

Most of the metal was brought to concentration points in Tahoka, O'Donnell and Wilson, while others sold direct to junk dealers.

A previous drive sponsored by the USDA War Board, had brought in 250,000 pounds of junk iron, and it is believed that many hundreds of tons have been sold direct to scrap iron dealers in the past few months.

Iron marketed co-operatively here in the latest drive brought $9.00 per ton.

Two More Enter Army Air Corps

TAHOKA, June 18 (Special)—Early last week, two young business men of Tahoka entered the Army Air Corps and are stationed at the Lubbock Advanced Air Base.

Lester Adams, a graduate of the Tahoka High School, who has been employed for some time at the D. W. Gaignat Hardware and Furniture Store, is a regular enlistee at the school.

Eldon Carroll, who came to Tahoka from O'Donnell several months ago and who has been employed here as a clerk in the post office, has a clerical position at the flying school.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of thanking the kind people of O'Donnell for their courtesy and helpfulness expressed in so many ways, and for the beautiful floral offerings in the death of our beloved mother and grandmother. May God bless each and all of you.

MRS. HAYMES BETTER

Mrs. B. M. Haymes was reported as improved and it was thought she might be brought home from a Lubbock hospital Saturday if her condition improves.

D. O. HUDDLESTON NOW STATIONED IN NEW YORK

Word that he is now stationed in a chemical platoon of the air corps, has been received here from Private D. O. Huddleston.

He is liking his work and finds it very interesting, he writes. His address is 18079338, 193rd Chemical Platoon, Airdrome Atch'd 5th A. D. G. % Postmaster, New York City.

Miss Jennie V. De Busk has returned from a vacation trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hafer and Mr. and Mrs. W. V. McElroy and Jan visited in Anson Sunday.

Miss Lona Proctor visited Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Huddleson in Abilene last week end.

Little Miss Judy Winston of Brownfield visited friends here last week end.

Short of Sugar?

Switching to honey and corn syrup as substitutes for sugar in cooking was no trick at all, thanks to some hints I picked up. They all "work" beautifully.

Mrs. Kiene

Honey must be used with judgment, of course, but you can't go wrong if you remember these essential facts: (a) 1 cup of honey weighs 12 ounces of which not quite 1/5 is water; (b) 1 cup of sugar weighs 7 ounces. In replacing sugar with honey in a cake or cookie recipe, the amount of liquid should be reduced one-fifth of a cup for each cup of honey used. After measuring the liquid used, remove 3 tablespoons, plus 1 teaspoon, of the liquid for each cup of honey used.

An easy way to measure honey is with a moist or greased cup. With recipes requiring shortening, measure the shortening first, then the honey in the same cup. This is true also of molasses and corn syrup. Keep liquid honey in a warm, dry place where the temperature is 75 degrees or over, or in a cold place where temperature is below 50 degrees. Before using, place honey jar in warm -- not hot -- water for about 10 minutes and pour it from a sharp-pointed pitcher. Then it will drizzle out evenly.

If certain cakes made with honey, when first baked, seem less light and fluffy, and not as sweet as sugar cakes, just wait until they age. Then they'll become moist, flavorful and better in texture. Generally speaking, honey may be added to any favorite cake recipe in amounts equivalent to 25 to 50 per cent of the total sweetening without altering the basic recipe.

Men who have recently been reclassified for selective service may enlist in the Naval Reserve, provided application is made before call to report for Army induction is mailed. Navy recruiting officers at Lubbock said recently.
