ADVANCING INTO THE FUTURE—BOOSTING, BUILDING, BENEFITTING

O'DONNELL, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1941

For the Best Interests of O'Donnell and Lynn Counties

Eagles Prepare for Invasion of Tahoka Bulldogs, Ancient Rivals, Out On Johnson Field Here Tonight

Several "last times" will be a feature of the fans present for the annual O'Donnell Eagles-Tahoka Bulldogs clash here Friday night. It will make the "last time" for several of the players, last conference game of the season and the last time for the Eagles to try and win this season. No points have been rung up by the 1941 edition of the Eagles.

By virtue of their victory over Center City, and by holding both Semole and Seagraves to closer scores, the Bulldogs of Tahoka are looking full of aggressiveness for the fray.

Tahoka's fandom, if a few choice remarks are a criterion, will attend the game, and show no bashfulness in predicting the Bulldogs will flatten the Eagles worse than Brownfield's lads accomplished. The dollars betters of Tahoka seem willing to give 40 points.

Every man on the Eagle squad has tried hard this season, even though scores were not made, and that reason alone, deserve to be backed strong by O'Donnell fans tonight. A little boosting might be beneficial. They've had scant so far.

Probable line-ups are:
Tahoka: West, le, wt. 185; Shaff, it, 155; Barham, lg, 140; R. Arvick, c, 155; W. C. Harvick, r.e., 155; Fulford, rt, 155; Jim Bob Curry, 155; Roberts, q, 145; McClintock, lb, 150; Wells, rh, 140; and Bill Curry, f, 170.

O'Donnell: Joe Furlow, re., 145; Smith Moore, rt, 170; Cecil Royce, 160; Jimmie Schooler, c, 112; Hart Schooler, lg, 135; Francis, r, 170; J. L. Petty, lf, 160; Raymond Curtis, q, 155; Buford, rh, 150; J. C. Harris, lh, 145; Alvie Adams, f, 135.

ATTENTION! FORMER SUBSCRIBERS OF THE O'DONNELL INDEX

With this issue the Press and Index are combined into one publication, and your patience is asked in our endeavor to combine the two subscription lists.

Especially in the city, in several cases we found both papers were going to the same subscribers, and these must be tabulated correctly.

Every person receiving both the Press and Index in the past will be notified soon of their paper's expiration date, and in all cases where in arrears, the paper will not be sent in the future. Main reason because postal laws forbid.

We want to be able to suit everyone in future publication, although we will try. What will be news to some people, will be hokey to others and vice versa. Therefore, we'll do the best possible as business warrants and hope we please you.

Starting Thursday of this week and continuing through Thursday of next week, the farmers of Lynn county are meeting with their community AAA committeemen at the AAA offices here in Tahoka for the purpose of executing a "Farm Plan Sheet" of their farms, to sign application for the 1941 Conservation payment, and to pledge co-operation with the gigantic Food-For-Defense program now being planned for 1942.

Farmers have been sent notices, according to County Secretary Clint Walker, asking them to come to the AAA offices on some day during this sign-up period. The farm plansheet must be executed on every farm and ranch in Lynn county by November 13, Walker says.

Last Saturday, county AAA committeemen, AAA officials, the county agent, home demonstration agent, vocational agricultural teachers, FSA workers, and other interested citizens met at the Lynn county agriculture building to discuss plans for meeting this county's quota in the Food-For-Defense program, and to hear plans for the 1942 farm program explained.

A Wet Handshake Brings Two Citizens of City Together!

One way to meet a person you've heard about, but never met, is to help pull him out of the Pacific Ocean.

Anyway, that's how George Boyd, former football player here, met George Lindley, whose parents live near O'Donnell.

George has written his brother, Druggist B. J. Boyd, about the happening, which occurred at San Diego.

He had just emerged from below deck quarters, so George writes, to the airplane runway on the battleship when he saw a ship overshoot its landing and dive into the water.

Quick action resulted, and officers feared loss of life but two men were pulled out of the water and names given.

And that's how George Boyd met George Lindley so far away from O'Donnell.

Part of the fun of hunting is lost to one of O'Donnell's sharpshooting hunters every fall—he bags his quota of game quickly, and is therefore out of a chance for further shooting.

Others in the party staying longer were John Stevens, W. L. Gardenhire, Jesse Jones, Frank Medley and Von Roeder.

U. S. Destroyer Is Torpedoed and Sunk While on Convoy Duty West of Iceland; Strike in 'Captive' Coal Mines Ended; 34 Are Killed as Two Airliners Crash

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Myron C. Taylor, left, former board chairman of U. S. Steel, William H. Davis of national mediation board, and John L. Lewis of United Mine Workers are shown as they left the White House after conferring with President Roosevelt on the strike of 53,000 miners of nation's "captive" coal mines. It was shortly following this conference that Lewis announced that the miners had accepted the President's proposal for opening the mines and would go back to work pending further consideration of the issues under dispute.

SHOWDOWN: The Lewis Affair

The captive coal mine strike, in which 53,000 men engaged in digging coal out of the ground to supply the defense-laden steel companies laid down their tools, approached a showdown in the fight between John L. Lewis and President Roosevelt. It has been an odd chain of events that had brought Lewis, once a close ally and supporter of the President and his labor policy, to the point where he had become, for the moment, Administration Enemy No. 1.

After a four-day tie-up of the mines there came a truce. Lewis, with Myron Taylor, former U. S. Steel chief and William H. Davis of the National Mediation board were called to the White House for a conference with President Roosevelt. Following this meeting Lewis called his district mine labor chiefs into a parley and then came the announcement that the miners would go back to work pending mediation proceedings of the dispute. It was declared that arrangement called for a 15-day truce with signs pointing toward a complete settlement. The issue in the strike was a particularly interesting one, for it had nothing to do with collective bargaining rights, with wages or hours, but a flat demand for the closed shop.

TRANSPORTATION: Tragedies

After five months without a fatal crash the commercial airlines had a tragic 24 hours in which two airliners crashed to the earth with a death toll of 34.

First accident was that of a plane which crashed and burned in the fog and mist within a short distance of the Fargo, N. D., airport where it was preparing to land. Fourteen persons were killed with the pilot being the lone survivor. He suffered minor injuries and severe shock. Unofficial investigators indicated that ice had formed rapidly on the wings of his plane as he descended for the landing but a complete official investigation was immediately launched to find all the facts.

Twenty persons, all those aboard, were killed in the other crack-up when a plane bound from New York to Chicago plunged to earth and burst into flames near St. Thomas, Ontario. This plane too had been flying low in a heavy fog. No explanation of the cause of the crash was immediately determined.

WEATHER: In Moscow

The military miracle needed to save Moscow from almost certain conquest by the Nazi mechanized hordes occurred, and came in the form of a heavy rain which turned a sea of snow into mud and slush, and bogged the Germans down.

Prior to this the defending Russians had reported the pep gone from the invading forces, and that the presence among the prisoners of one-eyed men, soldiers with limping legs and other basic physical defects had been significant.

Most confirmatory evidence that something serious had happened to the German drive just when it was on the threshold of success came from the pen of Goebbels, ace Nazi propagandist, when he warned that hard weeks were ahead.

The rain was the crux of the situation, however, the Nazi official pronouncements admitting that roads had disappeared, blending into fields; that motor transportation had been utterly halted, and that the problem of supplying German troops at the front had become a mountain.

U. S. NAVY: Loses a Warship

First warship of the U. S. navy to be lost in the current European war was the U. S. destroyer Reuben James, which was torpedoed and sunk while on convoy duty west of Iceland.

Its sinking marked the first loss of a U. S. naval vessel since President Roosevelt commanded the navy to "shoot on sight" any foreign raiders entering what have been defined as U. S. defensive waters.

This sinking came just two weeks after the Kearny incident in which that destroyer survived a torpedo blast and made port after the loss of 11 lives.

The Reuben James was under the command of Lieut. Comdr. H. L. Edwards and was an old type, flush deck destroyer commissioned in 1929.

MAP: Of South America

Though there was much fodder for comment in the President's Navy day address, it was the map of South America which had drawn the most attention in the press of the Western hemisphere.

The story had been that Hitler had employed 200 geographers and map-makers at Koenigsberg to redraw the map of South America, giving certain countries there and in Central America the status of vassal states of the Axis.

There were 14 countries involved, and they would have been divided up and consolidated into five vassal countries, two of them under the control of Italy, one enormous section under the direct guardianship of Hitler and the others to go to Japan.

Argentina and Uruguay were to be Il Duce's vassals; Peru, Chile and Paraguay would be under control of Japan, and all the territory from Brazil north to the Panama canal would be Hitler's "lebensraum."

IRE: Shown by Group

The isolationists had shown their ire against the President's speech as an exposition of his own policy, and, led by Wheeler and Taft in the senate had fired shot and shell into Senator Pepper of Florida, a backer of the President's foreign policy.

Not far behind them was Walsh of Massachusetts, who flatly charged that the President sought to lead the country into actual war without submission of the question to the judgment of the country or of congress.

Taft was more bitter. He said: "President Roosevelt has admitted that he has tricked the American people. While talking of peace, he has admitted that he has already done what he can to plunge the nation into a shooting war."

And Wheeler said that he had always believed that the President had been opposed to our involvement in the war, and had sought to keep us out, but that in view of the Navy day address he was convinced that he would have to change his mind.

EXECUTIONS: Halt by Hitler

A sudden halt in the execution of Frenchmen in reprisals for attacks on German officers of the army of occupation had been accompanied by the report which was said to have "leaked out" that two German officers had been killed in the Lille sector.

Hitler had ordered a halt in the executions in France "to give the French a last opportunity to cooperate."

'Hornets' for Uncle Sam—and Hornet's Nest

A view of the U.S.S. Hornet, the navy's newest aircraft carrier, is shown at left. The Hornet displaces 20,000 tons and has a speed in excess of 30 knots. Right: In the biggest single delivery of military planes in aviation history, 123 Vultee Valiants, basic training planes, roared over Los Angeles en route to army and navy training stations. Some of them are shown, just before the takeoff at Downey, Calif.

Scenes From Russo-German Front

Night Attack in Mediterranean

This photograph, one of the most striking of its kind ever taken, shows a battleship of the British Mediterranean fleet in action as an Axis air attack is repelled. Tremendous flashes from anti-aircraft guns firing simultaneously to port and starboard outline the superstructure of the battleship in lurid flame.

At National Youth Day Rally

First Ladies

Mrs. Ruth Licklider, who became "Mrs. America" at a Palisades Park, N. J., beauty contest, is pictured as she was received by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the White House. Mrs. Licklider is a red-haired Powers model.

Bulldog Queen

Champion English bulldog, Cefamabley Queen, reads up on her ancestry before showing at the thirty-first annual dog show, to be held in Chicago November 29-30.

Man About Town:

How British! Lord Louis Mountbatten, the ex-Captain of the Illustrious, will soon be making front page news again, but that's a naval secret. He was telling us about the sinking of the Hood by the Bismarck and the way the Bismarck was chased, trapped and destroyed. Mountbatten suggested that the complete exciting sea saga be given to the newspapers—to cheer lovers of freedom. "Heavens, no!" ejaculated the Admiral. "No more publicity. The incident has had too much of a press as it is!"

Observation: Eddy Duchin says he's surprised that none of the isolationist editors headlined it this way: "American Destroyer Rams Nazi Torpedo!"

We've Met Her: A lovely blonde walked into a night spot, nose in air. Someone cracked: "She's sure putting on the dog since she's been to the Coast." "You mean," Dick Todd elaborated, "she's gone Hollywood!"

I Don't Believe It: Rosemary Lane met a panhandler who asked for a nickel feracuppacawfee and her name and address! "Why my name and address?" "Oh, don't get me wrong," he replied, "I want my secretary to drop you a note of thanks."

By Way of Report: Most papers missed this bit at the Bioff-Brown trial, where testimony about thousand dollar bills is being tossed about like confetti. Judge John C. Knox, who has a sensayuma, was questioning Nick Schenck of MGM, who was having trouble remembering his annual income. "Well, just try to give it to us approximately, within $75,000," said Hizzoner, whose record is the best on the federal bench, whose decisions involve billions and whose salary is $10,000 a year.

Idiom's Delight: Seymour Berkson of Int'l News contributed this one to the book of anecdotes called "The Best I Know." An American Reporter was summoned to the office of the Moscow censor, who angrily objected to this dispatch: "The American Ambassador stood within a stone's throw of Stalin..." "What do you mean by this outrageous insult?" thundered the censor. "You know perfectly well that he didn't throw a stone at Mr. Stalin!"

The reporter finally explained it was an American idiom. "So?" said the dope. "In that case we change it anyway. Make it: 'The American Ambassador stood near Stalin. He threw NO stones!'"

Uncommon Sense: Conrad Thibault tells of the three appeasers who were crossing the Arabian Desert. "Look," said one, "there's an ostrich with its head in the sand. Isn't it a silly bird?" The ostrich jerked back its beak and intoned: "When I have my head in the sand I have enough sense to keep my mouth shut!"

Notes of an Innocent Bystander: Typewriter Ribbons: Nicholas Murray Butler: Many people's tombstones should read: "Died at 30, buried at 60"... Ambrose Bierce's definition of ambition: An overmastering desire to be vilified by enemies while living and made ridiculous by friends when dead... Anon: Lions of society are tigers for publicity... Elsie McCormick: People who live in pleasant places always act as if the weather was their own personal achievement... Geo. B. Shaw's definition of a pessimist: A man who thinks everybody as nasty as himself, and hates them for it... Wm. Lyon Phelps: This is the final test of a gentleman: his respect for those who can be of no possible service to him... PM: He enjoys diving into a good book and pulling a paragraph over his head.

The Story Tellers: The title of Nina Wilcox Putnam's Your Life piece is: "I Was Too Fat to Love." That's a variation of the true confession theme. There the confessor is usually too fat-headed... Ex-Warden Lawes in Click writes of J. Weil, the "con" man, who used to wear a beard to appear dignified and who claimed he could only fleece a person who was crooked in his heart... The grid experts who invade the mags at this time of the year remind you of most military experts. Their pieces may make sense, but not many make them interesting.

Manhattan Murals: The bootblack who massages your shoes with a rag bearing the likeness of Hitler... The sign on the old flivver parked on 8th Avenue: "Don't laugh—this one's paid for!"... The downtown luncheonette with the nifty name: "The Club Sandwich"... The restaurant on Route 22 called "Never Inn."

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD
Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor.

Honeymoon

INSTALLMENT TEN

THE STORY SO FAR: Larry Cutter startled pretty Jacqueline (Jack) Anthony, public stenographer at the Hotel Raynear, by telling her she could realize her globe-trotting ambitions by marrying him. They were married after signing a contract providing that she may continue to live as she is living for six months, after which she could tear up the contract. He gave her $10,000 as a surety. Jacqueline warned Larry when she learned that Detective Staples was figure loomed out of the shadows and a familiar voice spoke. "I thought you'd be coming out about this time," Larry said, smiling. "Busy for a little while?" Without waiting for an answer, he tucked his wife's arm through his and started across the street. "The car's over here," he explained.

After they had left the hospital behind, he offered: "I had a sort of sneaking idea you were set to give me a lecture, so I thought I'd be obliging. How about it?"

"I do want to talk to you," Jacqueline said soberly. "And you thought I was keeping out of your way?" Larry had a disconcerting way of figuring things out. "Shoot."

"I don't know what to say . . . " "Jacqueline began unhappily. "Of course I want to thank you first of all for paying those bills . . . for Vince . . . but . . . but I wish you hadn't."

"I don't see why, my dear," Larry said. "I can't think of any better use of money than taking worries off your shoulders."

"That's just it!" she cried softly. "Can't you see that . . . that it hurts?"

"I'd never hurt you, Jack. I just want to . . . help—By the way, I hope you don't mind my dropping in watching him. She cashed one of the bonds when her father, Vince Anthony, needed an operation. When she visited him she was greatly relieved to learn the operation was successful.

Now continue with the story.

roadster into the weeds at the side of the thoroughfare and cut off the motor.

"Well, here . . . " He leaned forward, staring intently past his companion.

A little exclamation of delight escaped Jacqueline. There, in the brightly lighted clearing, stood an unusual house. It was long and low, with four former windows set in its steeply pitched roof. The central entrance door was shaded by a portico adorned with heavy, square columns. On either side of the main structure, an ell. Bathed in moonlight, the clapboard walls appeared as white as though freshly painted. Even the windows, many of them with shattered panes, seemed able to hide their scars.

"Larry! What a beautiful little home!" Jacqueline said breathlessly. "What a shame that no one is living in it. Has it been empty long?"

"Ever since we lost it. The owner never used it."

"But, Larry . . . that high wire fence looks as though it were new."

"It is," was the grim retort. "Brand-new."

"Why do you suppose it's there? It even has barbed-wire on the top."

"Yes. I've noticed. The owner must have decided that he didn't want anybody fooling around there."

Larry leaned back in his seat, filled and lighted his pipe and sat smoking in silence. Jacqueline sensed that he was thinking deeply and did not disturb him. She resumed her study of the old house, trying to picture how it must have looked in former days, how it would look now with the soft glow of lamps shining from the black windows. There should be climbing roses over those columns. She would clear away the encroaching underbrush, build a wide, velvety lawn . . . take away the tumble-down stable in the rear. And that disfiguring fence. It seemed to run . . .

"Larry!" She whispered his name, catching at his arm. "There's somebody standing in those bushes over there. I . . . I saw him move!"

Larry shifted his position slightly and leaned forward, one arm resting on the wheel. "Hey, you, over there!" he called sharply.

A deep silence followed. Jacqueline held her breath. The bushes rustled and the dim figure of a man appeared. After standing uncertainly for an instant, he strolled forward. He was a short, heavily set man wearing a sweater pulled up about his neck.

"That will do," Larry ordered brusquely. "What's the big idea?"

"Just what I was going to ask you, mister. You're on private property here. Better go somewhere else to do your neckin'."

"He's got a head on his shoulders. Smart as a whip."

on your father today. I thought, maybe, he might be finding the days long."

"It was good of you. He appreciated it."

"Nothing of the sort. I had a good time and a very interesting visit. He sure is wrapped up in his latest project . . . very anxious to get back to it."

"Larry!" she burst out, in spite of herself. "All Vince's inventions have been . . . duds. Ever since I can remember. When one flops, he just goes on to the next."

"You know," Larry observed musically, "inventors are queer animals. I should know, being a son of my father. And as for duds . . . sometimes, they go off unexpectedly. All this talk and the moonlight have put me in a reminiscent mood, Jack. Won't you let me show you a relic of my youth? It's not so far from here . . . not more than an hour."

"What is it you wish me to see?"

"The birthplace of a hero."

"You're, you mean? All right. I'll go . . . for the ride."

When the city was left behind, Jacqueline said, "Isn't the moonlight beautiful? Did you ever notice how it seems to . . . take the rough edges off everything?"

"Hope that includes me," Larry ventured.

"You are rather nice . . . at times," was his reward.

"Thanks. But I was going to tell you about our old place."

"Does some one live in it now?"

"No, worse luck, and it seems to be going to pieces. I always wished I might get it for myself and make it look the way it did when I was a kid. Guess I told you my dad lost all his money."

"Yes."

"He and your dad would have hit it off well," Larry observed unexpectedly. "The old gentleman was quite a scientist. The basement of our place was his laboratory and workshop and he almost lived in it."

Larry's voice died away. He was staring at the road ahead of the car.

"Has your mother been . . . gone long?" she ventured.

"Died less than two years after my father. I think I was more self-reliant than he was. When he died, there didn't seem so much left for mother. And . . . here's where we leave the main road," Larry observed, making a right turn. "The next crossroad marks the line of our old property."

A few moments later, on the crest of a wooded knoll, he swerved the

My Week
by Eleanor Roosevelt

YOUNG PEOPLE IN CIVILIAN DEFENSE

One day of the week was spent very largely on one subject, because from nine o'clock to 12:30 we sat in Room B in the Labor auditorium and talked about participation of young people in civilian defense. The conference adjourned to the White House for lunch, and we were back at the Labor department building at two o'clock. We actually finished by four o'clock, which was the time we had scheduled to bring the conference to a close. I think this speaks well for the young people and their ability to keep their program moving on time.

At the meeting, there was a feeling expressed that, through our defense work, certain goals should be set which we should all strive to attain in the next few years. It was agreed they should not be for youth alone, but must be goals for every age and group. The entire over-all picture must be covered, though there may be certain interests on which youth will want to place special emphasis.

Mr. Eugene Meyer came in to tea with me that day to tell me how deeply impressed he was with the work of the women in England. He considers that their labor is not only contributing valuable service, but is creating unity throughout the British nation. There is no doubt that women have a tremendous role to play and I am looking forward to the meeting which Miss Eloise Davison will hold soon in Washington, when the role of women in civilian defense will be canvassed from many points of view.

HURRIED EVACUATIONS

I have been reading some accounts of the removal of the Jewish people from Germany to Poland and Russia. Somehow, being suddenly told that within an hour you must leave your home never to return, is very difficult for us here to visualize. It is a leave-taking which savors somewhat of death.

In all partings with people whom we love, there is in a minor way, that sense of temporary loss which presages the horrible finality of separation which comes over one at the time of death. These mass removals, where people are treated like animals and not like human beings, are so horrible to contemplate that one can only hope that at a certain point feelings become numb and suffering ceases to be acute.

NEW YORK VISIT

My daughter and son-in-law were leaving one day for the West, so we devoted last evening to being with each other. We went to a little restaurant on Sixty-third street in New York which we often frequented when they were living in New York city. After a short, but very good dinner, we went to the theater to see "The Wookey," by Mr. Frederick Hazlitt Brennan. It is amusing, dramatic, well acted and very moving.

To those of us who know the people of the East End in London, it brought all that has happened in the past few months vividly before our eyes. Mr. Wookey did not agree with his government. It was his right to criticize and to advise, and even to write the prime minister. In spite of all his disagreement, however, when his people were really in danger, and his country under attack, Mr. Wookey could put up with any amount of discomfort and go forth cheerfully to almost certain death on the docks. That is why some of us believe that Great Britain must come out victoriously in this war.

I love the scene where Mr. Wookey airs his views to a high ranking officer. A lump was in my throat when his home was destroyed and his wife was killed. Other people are brave, other people suffer in just the same way, but not even do we have that sense of complete independence of expression and assurance that makes the British feel that they know how to run the affairs of the nation far better than those who are in charge. That is a British trait.

ANOTHER POSTCARD

I have one postcard, which I want to share with you today. The writer seems very indignant with me because I said my knowledge of the Bible was superficial. I wonder how many people would dare to say otherwise. Few people can claim a real study and knowledge of that book, which is probably the most widely read book in the world and, frequently, the least understood. My correspondent seems to feel that saying one's knowledge is superficial means that one had little respect for the subject.

As a matter of fact, it is because I have such a deep appreciation of what real knowledge the Bible implies, that I would never presume for a minute to consider it possible for me to claim anything beyond a very superficial study. On the other hand, my correspondent ends by thinking it odd that people in Washington can ever understand what is going on there. I should like to assure him that it is quite easy to understand what human beings conceive and carry out in Washington . . . and I am sure most of them wish often for Divine Guidance!

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:11-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe the gospel.—Mark 1:15.

Sin with its devastating consequences has its only remedy in the atonement which is in Christ Jesus. He died to set us free from the penalty, the power, and ultimately the very presence of sin. However, His death, which was for all mankind, is effective only for those who in repentance and faith accept His redeeming grace and turning from their sin.

I. Worldly Pleasure Brings Sorrows (vv. 11-16).

Selfishness is at the heart of sin, which is essentially self-will over against God's will. The younger son, who represents the sinner, wanted his own way. He suffered from it.

1. Restlessness Under Restraint (vv. 11, 12). The father loved his son and sought his welfare by proper parental control, but the boy wanted to be free to live as he pleased. God loves all men and seeks by loving and gracious restraint to lead them in ways of righteousness and peace. But they, while they want His blessings, are often eager to get away from His guiding hand.

2. A Request Resulting in Responsibility (vv. 12, 13). When the prodigal asked for his inheritance he took upon himself full responsibility for his life. The man who refuses to have Christ rule over his life assumes a grave and heavy burden which he is not able to bear.

It is an awful thing to rule God out of one's life, to attempt to steer a successful course through the stormy sea of life. Why do it? It will always result in loss and failure.

3. Riotous Living Leading to Repentance (vv. 13-16). In the "far country" he found for a time what we call "fun," but it led to bitter sorrow. To the flesh there are "pleasures of sin" (Heb. 11:25), but they are only "for a season"; that is, very short lived—and they come high. "The devil is not such a fool as to go fishing without bait." The pleasures of sin are the devil's bait, and they always have a hook in them. If you bite at the devil's bait you will soon have the devil's hook in your gills and be in the bottom of the devil's boat" (John W. Bradbury).

The end of Satan's "fun" road was a pigpen in a far country. That may not always be literally true (although it happens often enough), but it is always true spiritually. Men and women are in a state of spiritual collapse and disgrace because they have rejected God's way. But there is a way out.

II. Godly Sorrow Brings Joy (vv. 17-24).

Paul tells us that "godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation" and thus differs from "the sorrow of the world" which "worketh death" (II Cor. 7:10). The prodigal found his way back to the father's house. First, there came to him:

1. Remembrance and Realization (vv. 17-19). He began to think. If men and women could only be made to think we would have more repentance, but Satan tries to keep them too busy to think. He remembered what he had as a son in his father's household. What memories will your boy have in his hour of need? You are writing that record now.

He "came to himself." The man in sin is really unbalanced, subnormal, not himself, spiritually insane. When he "came to" he knew that he was in the way of the perishing. Then came:

2. Repentance and Return (vv. 20, 21). To repent means to change your mind, to turn your life in an "about face" from sin to God. Repentance calls for more than thinking or talking or praying. One must act. The young man "arose and came to his father." That was his part, and then came the father's part—

3. Restoration and Rejoicing (vv. 22-24). The son expected to return as a hired servant, but his father restored him to full family fellowship. God is gracious, and the repentant sinner finds himself clad in the spotless robe of Christ's righteousness, wearing the ring of sonship, with shoes on his feet, so that he may go on the errands of his Father.

God's plan of salvation brings no half-way redemption. There are no steps or distant relatives in His family. It is a full salvation which brings glorious fellowship in life and service.

You who are still eating the husks of this world, who are in the far country tending swine, we invite you too to come to God and share in the rejoicing in the Father's house.

Life is a struggle, but not a warfare; it is a day's labor, but labor on God's earth, under the sun and stars with other laborers, where we may think and sing and rejoice as we work.—John Burroughs

HERE'S TO BUTTERY FINGERS AND A TAFFY PULL (See Recipes Below)

CHILDREN'S DELIGHT

If you want your children and their friends to give you a rating of "super," then give just one party for children alone, and make that party a good, old-fashioned taffy pull. Think back a moment and remember how you looked forward to a taffy pull just as much as going to a circus.

This party is exciting fun because the children have a chance to help in the making of refreshments. Yes, pulling taffy with their fingers all buttered, and watching the dark candy mixture get lighter and lighter each time it's pulled. They'll like this too, because a taffy pull isn't a fussy party. When you send out the invitations, let the mothers know it's a taffy party so the children will be dressed accordingly.

Unlike many foods which are iron sources, molasses when cooked does not lose its iron content.

If possible use a candy thermometer to test the candy so it will be cooked just right, neither too stiff nor too messy to handle. When the candy is cool enough, cut it just the right size for small hands. The piece should be large enough to work on, but not too large. When the piece is light tan and very stiff, pull into a long strip and cut.

Molasses Taffy.

- 2 cups pure New Orleans molasses, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, if desired, 1/2 cup water.

Cook the molasses, sugar and water in a heavy kettle slowly until the mixture reaches 260 degrees or until a little of the mixture dropped in cold water becomes brittle. Stir a little during the latter part of the boiling to prevent burning; pour into a buttered pan. When cool enough to handle, cut in pieces and pull until light and stiff. Butter the hands before pulling.

Refreshments can be simple for a taffy party, for children will be so excited about the taffy, they won't give their best attention to elaborate dishes. Assorted sandwiches will fill the bill perfectly and a hot chocolate milk drink will take care of their keen, lusty appetites. As dessert you might have simple cupcakes iced with pink and chocolate icing, fruit, and of course, the taffy.

If you'd rather give them a hot dish in place of the sandwiches, here's a simple but elegant one:

Millionaire Gold. (Serves 8)

- 2 egg yolks, 1/2 cup flour, 1/4 teaspoon mustard, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika, 3 cups milk, 1/2 pound American cheese, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

LYNN SAYS:

Stop food wastes. Not only is this a matter of thrift but also a vital step in conserving this country's resources. It is estimated that tiny food wastes total up to a tremendous amount.

Wise shopping will prevent buying unwanted and not usable food. The wise shopper should also recognize between good and poor grades, by reading labels and markings, and by watching the scales.

Poor cooking causes much waste. Meat, for instance, shrinks when cooked at too high a temperature. Vitamins and minerals are lost when cooked too long or when air is stirred into them while cooking. Use short methods for cooking whenever possible.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Chop Suey, Rice or Noodles, Bean Sprouts, Apricot-Cream Cheese Salad, Bran Bread, Orange Chiffon Pie, Tea, Coffee, Milk, *Recipe Given.

1 pound mushrooms, 4 tablespoons butter, 8 slices buttered toast, 16 slices crisp bacon, Beat egg yolks, add flour, mustard, salt and paprika. Mix well. Add 1/2 cup milk gradually and stir until smooth. Put mixture in double boiler, add rest of milk, and cheese, cubed. Cook until thick, add Worcestershire sauce. Wash, slice, and saute mushrooms, slowly. Place mushrooms on toast and pour cheese mixture over them. Garnish with bacon.

Although the taffy pull will be the main event of the party be sure to have games planned to fill out the evening. Quiz games are popular and lists for these can be made up beforehand using questions on slogans, famous personalities, historical events, interesting facts, and riddles as questions.

Children will want some lively fun too, and for this you can have a sack race. The leaders of two lines of players are given two large paper sacks. They place the sacks on their feet and at a signal run to the opposite goal and back, take off the sack and give it to the person next to them. The object is to see which line finishes first.

Speaking of children, are you having a time with their school lunches? Variety is the big problem for packing a complete meal in one small box is hard to vary and doesn't have as many possibilities as the table at home. Having at least one hot food helps loads, and put this in the thermos bottle. You can have cream soups, vegetable soups, then again hot milk drinks for variety.

Sandwiches are a standby, but don't get into a rut with these. Don't have soggy fillings. Wrap each one separately in wax paper. Favorite fillings include: Peanut butter and jelly, Chopped meat mixed with mayonnaise and relish, Chopped hard-cooked eggs with bacon, Cheese and luncheon meats, Vegetable salad sandwiches, Flaked fish with celery, lettuce, Chopped figs or dates, nuts, moistened with orange juice, Color peeps up the lunch box, so occasionally pack a salad in a paper container. Use fresh fruits often, or canned ones also packed in small glass or paper containers. Cornstarch puddings are attractive and nourishing, and simple cookies wrapped in wax paper will bring cheers from any child.

Economy is highlighted these days, but it needn't be dull if you use attractively garnished platters.

*Chop Suey or Chow Mein. (Serves 6) 1/2 cup butter or shortening, 2 3/4 cups cooked meat, cut in strips, 1 1/4 cup onions, cut fine, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1 can bean sprouts, drained, 2 1/4 cups celery, cut fine, 1 cup hot water.

For thickening and flavoring: 1/2 cup cold water, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1 tablespoon soy sauce, 1 teaspoon sugar. Melt butter, add onions, fry for 3 minutes. Add celery, salt, pepper, hot water, cover and cook for 5 minutes. Add bean sprouts and meat, mix and bring to a boil. Combine thickening and flavoring ingredients, add to first mixture. Cook 5 minutes. Serve hot with Chinese noodles for Chop Suey, or with steaming rice for Chow mein. Garnish platter with thin strips of fried egg and green onions if desired.

Lincoln's Beard Result Of Little Girl's Suggestion

A little girl from Westfield, N. Y. once wrote Abraham Lincoln a letter as follows:

"I am a little girl, eleven years old . . . have you any little girls about as large as I am . . . If you will let your whiskers grow, you would look a great deal better for your face is so thin . . . I must not write any more answer this right off. Good bye. Grace Bedell."

A few months later, Lincoln let his beard grow. On one of his trips he passed through Westfield and immediately sent for Grace. He thrilled her by pointing to his beard and saying: "You see—I let those whiskers grow for you, Grace."
