Of Poison Available Here

Of poison is to be available to cotton farmers this year... Fred McTahoka says... 68,000,000 pounds of poison will be available... 1941 when the greatest amount of history... use poison to make arrangements for that present stocks... new stocks in this manner, poison be available and no forced to wait... keep on cotton and to reusing the poison before thick enough to cause... also urges against purchases unless needed.

Fast Driving, Wreck Causes O'Donnell To Have Blackout

Bombers were flying overhead on Tuesday night and then suddenly the blackout of O'Donnell began—but not through any war necessity... Four unidentified young people from Lamesa, traveling faster than the law should allow, failed to make the turn over the railway tracks in the southwest part of town and bam—straight over the bar ditch into a large electric light pole they plunged... The pole was broken and five spans of wire scattered over the area... A hurry call to Lamesa brought out the Texas Electric repair crew and after working all night, the service was restored next morning... So far as is known, only a few scratches and shock was sustained by the youngsters... But the company employees do not care for such blackouts and interruption of the usual fine service.

Election Saturday Captures Interest

Only a few offices are to be voted upon in the runoff primary Saturday... Capturing the interest is the senatorial race between Senator W. Lee O'Daniel and James V. Allred... This race has become the hottest in years, and only the returns Saturday will determine whether Allred's runoff campaigning overcame any of O'Daniel's near majority in the first race... Furthermore, state chairman E. B. Germany has instructed election officers to bar all but Democrats from the polls... In many South Texas counties, it is claimed, thousands of persons who regularly vote the Republican ticket in Presidential years flocked into the Democratic primaries of July 25... Germany has called attention to the fact that at the head of the ballot is printed this pledge: I am a Democrat and pledge myself to support the Nominees of this Primary; and he warns that election officers should challenge the right of Republicans to vote in this primary... Whether that is done, and whether it will have any appreciable effect upon the results if it is done, yet remains to be seen.

Cecil White Was Killed In Alaska

That Pfc. Cecil O. White, 25, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. White of O'Donnell, was killed by a "gunshot wound on August 6, and was given military burial in Alaska," was the additional information the parents received this week from the War Department... Details were necessarily scant, due to war-time restrictions, but it is believed the soldier received his wounds while on duty, as the letter also contained addresses where the parents could write regarding compensation... The remains will not be removed until after the cessation of hostilities, the letter also mentioned.

One Inch Rainfall Reported Here By Government Observer

A total slightly exceeding one inch of rain has fallen in O'Donnell over the week. Heavier downpours are reported south... Worms are becoming more worrisome, and farmers are losing no time getting into their fields to poison.

Drive For Scrap In Area Under Way

A call to every citizen of this area, men, women, and children, to see that all scrap metals and rubber are gathered quickly has been made by the local salvage committee... The need is urgent, and nothing should stand in the way of all scrap gathering, according to Dr. J. M. Bubany, chairman... Other committee members named and expected to serve for the area are: Joe McLaurin, Wells; Miss Marie Bingham, Newmoore; Burley Brewer, Joe Bailey; Jesse Lane, Harmony; E. T. Wells, B. M. Haynes, W. G. Forgy, Cliff Lambert, Guy Bradley, B. L. Davis, John Ellis, J. A. Edwards, Naymon Everett... Every bit of the precious scrap, regardless of the size, should be collected, and when in sufficient quantity, sold to Bud Pugh's Wrecking Yard or wherever desired... Persons having scrap, but wishing to donate it to some patriotic organization, may inquire at the Ellis Chevrolet Company as to where it may be stored... Dr. J. M. Bubany will call his committee members into a meeting soon. No certain club is sponsoring the drive as all clubs and organizations should have a part. The drive is one of patriotism... Do your bit—every person in this area should make an effort to collect scrap. The more the better.

Nazarenes Plan Revival Meeting

A series of revival services will begin at the Church of the Nazarene next Sunday and are scheduled to continue over Sept. 6, according to the Rev. B. W. Taylor, pastor... The Rev. and Mrs. John Hulcy of Chickasha, Okla., will be in charge of the preaching. They preach, sing, and play the piano, piano accordion and electric guitar. Mrs. Hulcy will conduct children's services each evening... Services will be held twice daily—10 a. m. and 9 p. m... Everyone is invited to attend and take part.

County 'Tops' In Bond Drive

After trailing behind the quota for a while, Lynn county is now well along toward meeting its War Bond quota for 1942... Lynn county "went to town" during the quota doubling in that month, was $37,200.00, and our citizens bought $80,847.50 worth of bonds, over twice the quota... Lynn county's minimum quota for the year has been set at $574,600.00, and up until August 1, approximately $381,000 worth of bonds had been purchased... There is a slight mixup on the June figure, and the exact amount for that month is not yet known... "I want to thank the people, and especially the county committee, for the fine work they are doing in this vital drive," Nowlin said... "The response has been magnificent. But we must keep on buying more and more bonds. We must win this war. And, we can't win it without munitions, food, clothing, and transportation for our fighting forces. These things cost money, and when you buy bonds you merely loan your money to your government to be used in buying these necessities for our boys. We must continue to buy bonds."

Call For Blood Plasma In Offing

A call for donations of blood for the Red Cross, from which blood plasma is to be used, is expected here within the next few days, according to Dr. J. F. Campbell... Blood will be accepted from whites, negroes, and Mexicans... However, no one should rush to the doctors immediately, as facilities for handling the donations are not arranged.

Men In Armed Services Write To The Press

Letters from members of the armed services are beginning to tell of new duties, new promotions... Lee Simpson, at Norfolk, Virginia, writes of his arrival there and many of his duties. Lack of space prevents a full printing of his letter... Eldon Carroll, at Lubbock, asks that the Press be sent to him there, and insists that he will visit back in O'Donnell when he can secure a few stripes... Jesse (Tiny) Bolch writes he has been promoted to Sergeant, and reprimands a recent effort of the Press in stating that he weighed 290 pounds. He now only weighs 225.

TO HOUSTON

Billy McKnight of Houston was here last week end to accompany Mrs. McKnight home after a short visit with her parents, Mr and Mrs. E. T. Wells... Mrs. Burley Brewer accompanied them as far as Fort Worth for a visit and her son Glenn Burleson will visit in Houston with Mr. and Mrs. McKnight.

Townsend Urges Allred's Election

A statement urging members of the 350 Townsend Plan clubs throughout the state to support James V. Allred for senator has been issued by Dr. F. E. Townsend... It is estimated that at least 150,000 belong to the clubs... In a telegram to state headquarters in Dallas, Mr. Townsend said: "I am convinced from O'Daniel's record that he is fooling the old folks of Texas with his grand promises. His record in Washington belies his promises... "O'Daniel has shown that he is opposed to things in which we believe. I recommend that those who love this country and believe in age security give their support to Allred."... Glen S. Wilson, Austin, national organizer, said O'Daniel's record in Washington proves he is clowning and instead of being champion of the common citizens, he is a stooge of the big interests... O'Donnell, at one time, had one of the most active Townsend clubs in the state, and still many of its members fight for their principles.

For lieutenant governor the candidates are John Lee Smith of Throckmorton and Harold Beck of Texarkana... Smith led Beck by 30,000 votes or more in the first primary... Both are members of the state senate... Smith is reputed to be the ablest man and is the popular candidate in this part of the state... In the contest for chief justice of the court of civil appeals, Judge E. L. Pitts of Lubbock is pitted against Judge E. C. Nelson of Amarillo... Judge Pitts was the leader in the first primary but Judge Nelson was a close runner-up... In Lynn County, in precinct No. 3, the O'Donnell precinct, John A. Anderson and E. O. Slaughter are the opposing candidates... Anderson was the leader in the first primary but Slaughter was a close runner-up... For state treasurer, Jesse James of Travis County, formerly of Milam County, and W. Gregory Hatcher of Dallas County are the candidates.

Betty Sue Proctor, the 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Proctor, suffered a broken arm Monday when she fell from a trailer... Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Garrard were in Lubbock Saturday... Mr. and Mrs. Dallas Vaughn were business visitors in Lubbock Monday... Mr. and Mrs. Shack Blocker visited in Lamesa Sunday... Mrs. Albert Koening was in Lubbock Saturday... Mr. and Mrs. Roy Everett were accompanied home from California by their daughter, Mrs. James Hash, for a short visit... Harrell Line, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Line, was taken to a Lubbock hospital to have a bean removed from his ear... Mrs. Sam Gambill, who has been ill in a Lubbock hospital, is recuperating at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. H. Hollowell.

Mother Of Mrs. Howard Hollowell Is Convalescing

Mrs. Sam Gamble, mother of Mrs. Howard H. Hollowell, returned to O'Donnell on Tuesday... She had been a patient in a Lubbock hospital for 33 days, where she underwent a major surgery.

REV. HOLLOWELL TO HOLD T-BAR REVIVAL

Th Rev. Howard H. Hollowell, the pastor of the First Methodist Church here, will begin a revival meeting at T-Bar next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock... He will return for the 11 a. m. service here... Services will be held twice daily, with the night meeting at 9:15 p. m... Roy Edwards and Jack Wells of Tahoka attended to business here Monday... Mr. and Mrs. Henry Warren were business visitors in Lubbock Saturday.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Japs' Asiatic Time-Table Delayed by U. S. Offensive in Southwest Pacific; Yank Air Force Now Active in Europe; Russians Continue Caucasus Retreat

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

SOLOMON ISLANDS: Marines Landed

The marines had landed. The Jap-infested Solomon islands northeast of Australia were the site. After seven days of savage fighting, the marines were reported consolidating their positions on three key islands—Tulagi, Florida and Guadalcanal. Key prize on Tulagi, aside from its harbor, was an airbase in the mountains, said to be the best in that war sector.

The effectiveness of the entire offensive was indicated by a communique from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia which reported that the marines had captured a Japanese airfield on Guadalcanal island.

Intent on India and massing strength along the Siberian frontier, the Japanese command did not like the idea of an American offensive in the Solomons. An offensive it was, however, with the intent of regaining lost territory, cutting a wedge into Japanese supply lines and carrying the fight to the enemy.

The marines were only a part of the attacking task force under command of Vice Admiral Robert L. Ghormley. They performed the necessary landing and cross-country fighting operations. But back of them was stout naval power and strong air forces which gave the Yankees a superiority the Japs had hitherto held.

U. S. AIR FORCE: Active in Europe

The long-awaited entry of American fighting planes on a large scale into the European air war took place when U. S. fighting craft engaged in 31 operational sorties.

This baptism was regarded as a forerunner of the time when the sky above Germany would be filled with destruction-laden American planes.

In the initial operations, United States fighter squadrons flying in conjunction with Royal Air Force units made three flights over the French coast. Twenty other aerial missions were over the sea and eight were interception sorties off the coast of England, according to a communique of the United States European headquarters.

Meanwhile the RAF's assaults on German industrial centers continued with another blistering attack on Mainz in which high explosives and incendiaries were again rained down. The effectiveness of the British air blitz was attested by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German minister of propaganda, who admitted that Germany is suffering "painful wounds" from the RAF's summer offensive, in an article for "Das Reich."

NAVY: Policy Board Reshaped

Two sea dogs grown gray in their country's service were added to the navy general board, when Secretary Frank Knox announced a reorganization of the committee. They were Admiral Arthur J. Heburn, retired, who was named chairman of the board, and Admiral Thomas C. Hart, retired, former commander-in-chief of the Asiatic fleet.

The board's functions are to advise the secretary on matters of policy. The navy said the board's duties and responsibilities had greatly increased since America's entry into the war and that the reorganization brought to the board officers well qualified to deal with vital problems arising out of the war.

FARM INCOME: Ahead of HCL

Increases in farm income have thus far been able to outrun rises in the cost of living, it was disclosed in a department of agriculture survey which showed that while net income of farm families averaged 46 per cent higher in 1941 and in the first three months of 1942 than in the comparable period in 1935-36, living costs had increased approximately one-third. Thus income outstripped the rise in living costs.

RUSSIA: Cossacks No Barrier

The emphasis which Russian communiques placed on "saber-bearing Cossacks" suggested that the Red forces in the Caucasus lacked the heavy tank and armored equipment with which Nazi advances had previously been repelled.

The appearance of new geographic names in the communiques—Cherkess, Kotelnikovski, Krasnodor and Maikop—indicated the rapidity with which the German steamroller had been able to flatten out Russian resistance and move on to new objectives.

There was no doubt that Russia needed a second front and knew it.

A Soviet communique acknowledged that one swift thrust had brought the Nazis to Mineralnye Vody, only 140 miles as the crow flies from the oil wells of Grozny.

But things were not completely hopeless. While the Germans had seized some oil in the Maikop area of the Caucasus, the big prize was still out of their reach. Between them and Baku rose the barrier of the Caucasus mountains. Moreover, Marshal Timoshenko's forces were contesting every mile of advance stubbornly.

In an area north of the Caucasus the Russian position was grave, for Stalingrad, industrial city of the Volga, was menaced by a Nazi pincer movement from the Kletskaya area on the north and the Kotelnikovski sector in the south.

INDIA: Gandhi Spins

As Mohandas K. Gandhi worked at his spinning wheel in his sumptuous prison in the Aga Khan's palace, the harvest of his passive resistance campaign against the British was a series of bloody riots that spread to the far corners of India.

Madras, heart of India's war industries, populous Bombay, Wardha in the central provinces and Madras in the far south had been the scenes of outbreaks, despite official threats of death and flogging for all who took part in the revolution. That the British had the situation well in hand was indicated by the fact that the disorders were sporadic and confined to big cities, whereas the countryside was virtually unaffected.

Meanwhile in Washington, the state department made it clear that American military forces in India had been ordered to "exercise scrupulous care to avoid the slightest participation in India's internal political problems." A statement explained that "The sole purpose of the American forces in India is to prosecute war of the United Nations against the Axis powers."

PRIMARIES: Triumphant Fish

As political wisecracks examined the results of primary elections in five states, one conclusion emerged. Isolationism was apparently fading out of the picture as a prime political issue.

Outstanding example of this trend was the result in President Roosevelt's home bailiwick, Dutchess county, New York, where Congressman Hamilton Fish, prewar critic of the President's foreign policy, won renomination by a three-to-one ratio. Informed of his success, Fish said: "Prewar issues were sunk at Pearl Harbor."

While results appeared contradictory in other states, the trend seemed to be running in this direction. Although Democratic voters defeated two prewar opponents of the administration's foreign policy in other states, these defeats were attributed by most observers to local dissatisfaction rather than emphasis on national issues. The defeated candidates in this case were Representatives Martin Sweeney of Ohio and Harry B. Coffey of Nebraska. Both were veterans in point of service in the House.

Unwelcome Visitors for Herr Rommel

The new M-4 tanks, built at Hammond, Ind., and said to be the most formidable tanks in the world, are shown lined up on flat cars inside the plant awaiting final inspection. This huge tank carries a 75-mm. cannon on a revolving turret which enables the gunner to swing in a complete circle. Just to look at them is most reassuring.

Tea for Three—Dregs for Germany

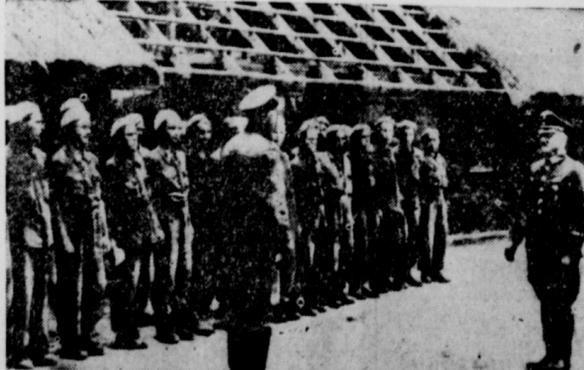

With all the talk of bombing Germany out of the war, this meeting of the U. S. and British bomber chiefs in London is significant. Shown having tea are (left to right): Brig. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, bomber chief U. S. air force in Britain; Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander U. S. air forces in Britain; and A. T. Harris, chief of Britain's bomber command.

Queen Mother at 'Ack Ack' Station

Dowager Queen Mary, mother of the reigning King George of England, is shown watching a gunner operate his heavy anti-aircraft gun at a post in the British capital. These "ack-ack" crews drill every day to keep hand and eye in tune for action, in case a Stuka or a Messerschmidt should venture within range.

Nazis Conscript Polish Laborers

This photo, released in London, shows a party of Polish labor conscripts being drilled by a German officer. The men have been put into uniform and are now subject to German military law. They are forced to build military establishments, such as aerodromes, roads, railways and supply depots.

Convicted by U. S.

William Dudley Pelley, 52, former leader of the Silver Shirts of America, who was convicted by a federal court at Indianapolis, Ind., on 11 counts of criminal sedition and conspiracy. The Fellowship Press, Inc., Pelley's publishing house, was also convicted.

'Victory Queen'

Dorise Bell, 20, who was crowned United Nations "Victory Queen" at Philadelphia. She was selected for leadership in war fund activities by members of United Nations Victory Girls, a group of government, business and school girls from 36 states.

Hole in One

Here is Sam Snead, P.G.A. champion, who has just completed five weeks of training at the naval training station at Norfolk, Va. He will be assigned to duty as a physical instructor. Sam is demonstrating bayonet technique here.

Dressed to Kill

On maneuvers in North Carolina, Lieut. Col. Frank Murphy, who has taken a holiday from the bench of the supreme court of the United States "for the duration," is shown in his tankman's uniform, "armed to the teeth."

During Mr. Winchell's absence, through month of August, his column will be conducted by guest columnists.

By JUDY GARLAND Young Screen Star

You don't have to sing or dance to entertain the soldiers. All you have to do is talk. Just pull up a chair, sit down and be prepared to answer a lot of questions. That's one thing I found out during my tour of the Army camps. All the fellows want to know about Hollywood and the motion picture stars and I wanted to know all about them.

If the soldiers asked me questions, it didn't compare with the quiz I put them through. All my life I've wanted to travel throughout the United States, staying a week or two in each town. I wanted to meet people from different parts of the country. When you live in one town, your scope is narrowed.

Of course, a trip like that would be impossible for a working girl, but I didn't have to make it. In each camp I met and talked with boys from every city and state in the Union. It was everything I expected and more than an education. I had to know about each one, where he came from and what he did. The thing that touched me most was that they were equally interested in me. If it hadn't been for the boys at Camp Robinson, I would never have had a wedding cake.

WEDDING CAKE DONATED TO ME BY SOLDIERS

The day we played there was my wedding anniversary. My husband, David Rose, who accompanied me on the trip, and I were talking about it. The boys overheard and that night we were given a surprise party. The highlight of the evening was a huge wedding cake topped by a tiny bride and groom. A wedding cake was the one thing I felt cheated of when we were married. Now I had that, thanks to a bunch of swell people.

The first time I sang for the soldiers I was scared to death. My knees shook and my voice trembled with a severe case of stagefright. It seems silly now, as I look back on it. Every performer dreams of stopping a show, but believe me, no show was ever stopped with the thunderous applause and appreciative response that greets an entertainer playing to a group of soldiers.

TOURING CAMPS LIKE 'OLD HOME WEEK'

In a way, touring the camps was like my old vaudeville days. Making overnight jumps on milk trains and playing four-a-day instead of the usual two. It was like "old home week." Many of the performers were people with whom my mother and father, as well as my sisters and I, had played in vaudeville.

It was wonderful to see these people, headliners twenty-five years ago, return to bring the house down in Army camps all over the country. One of the troupers told me he never hoped to experience a greater moment than the day he opened at the Palace Theater eighteen years ago. But he did when, with the same act, he received an even greater ovation at Fort Knox in Louisville, Kentucky.

A NEW CRADLE FOR TALENT

Willie Shore, the "Abba-Dabba Man," who was my favorite comedian when I was a little girl, played with us at one camp. He does an act with a seltzer-water bottle and I used to sit out front with the soldiers and watch him. It never failed that when he squirted the water it would land on me. This often resulted in my appearing on the stage in a slightly wet and bedraggled condition, but it was wonderful.

These performers were all my old friends and it was grand to see them back in front of an audience where they belong. Camp shows have not only brought entertainment to the soldiers, they have revived vaudeville and opened a new field for young hopefuls who up to now have had no opportunity to appear before an audience. A new cradle for talent has been found.

We did four shows a day. One at the reception center where the newly inducted boys gather, one in the hospital and two in the auditorium. At each show I sang two set songs and then did request numbers. It seems the boys favor the old songs and in my case the two outstanding requests were "Over the Rainbow" and "Dear Mr. Gable."

The first time they asked for the "Gable" song I was stumped. I had been a long time since I had sung it, but after ad-libbing the lyrics a few times, the original ones came back to me. The shows were all at night and my days were spent touring the camp.

There's one thing about the army. It has a swell sense of humor. When I started out I couldn't tell the difference between a private and a general. I was introduced to the general one night and to the great amusement of all the boys I acknowledged the introduction with a "I'm very happy to meet you, Corporal!"

They howled and when I arrived home they sent me a huge check listing all the insignia and what each stood for. Just to keep me straight, they wrote.

From where I sit...

by Joe Marsh

WHENEVER I hear about anybody having a big family I think of Dad and Ma Hoskins. The Hoskins had thirteen children.

They weren't a bad bunch of kids, by and large—but it seemed one or the other of them would always be having a fuss with the neighbors, or would break a window playing baseball, or some other kid trick. Kept Dad and Ma mighty busy all the time.

One day Dad got a bright idea. He called the whole family together for a special meeting at the dinner table.

He told them he was tired of checking up on them all the time. He said he thought they were old enough now to check up on themselves. The older children would watch the younger ones. They would have meetings every so often and hand out rewards or punishments.

Well, it was a crazy idea but the kids liked it and they started behaving better than they ever had before. The idea worked and Dad finally did get a little time for himself.

I mention this story about Dad Hoskins because it's something like what I understand the beer industry is doing to regulate itself.

As I see it, most of the beer industry behaves itself perfectly all right... but every now and then, I guess, a retailer comes along who runs a place that isn't up to scratch... sort of like a wayward kid.

So like Dad Hoskins' family, the brewers and beer distributors have united together in an industry self-regulation program to help the proper authorities "clean up or close up" offending retail places.

The brewers, who want to protect beer's good name, cooperate wisely with the authorities who enforce the laws.

From where I sit, that's a fine thing for the brewers to do... particularly when you realize that after all they're really not responsible for retailing conditions.

Bomb 'em with JUNK

Let's blast Japan—and Germany—and Italy—with the chain lightning of destruction that can be built from the scrap in our cellars, attics and garages, on our farms and in our places of business.

Scrap iron and steel, other metals, rubber and waste materials. It will all be used to make tanks, ships, planes and the fighting weapons our boys must have. It is needed at once.

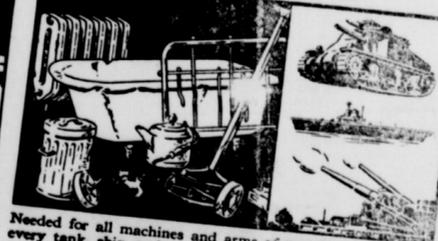

Sell it to a Junk dealer—give it to a charity or collection agency—take it yourself to the nearest collection point—or consult the Local Salvage Committee... If you live on a farm, and have found no means of disposing of your Junk, get in touch with the County War Board or your farm implement dealer.

Throw YOUR scrap into the fight!

Knitted garments should be laid flat to dry, shaped to the outline drawn before the garment was washed.

Put a small piece of hard soap in the sewing basket to rub over yarn or thread so it can be pulled through the eye of a needle with less difficulty.

Don't twist, bend or tie the cord called cord attached to your electric iron. It is not a cord, but two bundles of wires.

A few drops of ammonia in the dish water will clean greasy dishes and roasting pans quickly.

Wash beans before soaking. Then they can be cooked or baked in the water in which they were soaked, with a small onion added.

Peroxide will remove perfume stains from linen bureau pads. Keep a blotting pad under stain to protect dressing table or bureau top when perfume is spilled on it.

All wild meat should be soaked clean of blood. An onion roasted with the meat improves the flavor.

J. Fuller Pep

By JERRY LINK

"Fuller," says Aunt Nettie, the other day, "Folks are like wine. Some sour with age, and some, like you, get better!"

"Mebbe," says I, pickin' up that little compliment, "that's because I feel so good most of the time." For, you know, folks, when you feel good your disposition's apt to be good, too. But to do that, you got to eat right, which includes gettin' all your vitamins and KELLOGG'S PEP is extra-rich in the two most often short in ordinary meals—vitamins B and E. Mighty fine-tastin', too. Try it.

My Week

by Eleanor Roosevelt

PICNIC WEATHER

NEW YORK.—One day was so clear and beautiful that we went to the top of the hill back of my cottage for a picnic on the porch of the President's little cottage. He has had vistas cut, so that as you sit on his porch, if the weather is clear, you can see the Catskill mountains to the north and straight down across the Hudson river.

By walking a very short distance from the highest point of all, one can get a view of the foothills of the Berkshires and the Shawangunk range to the south.

We all enjoyed ourselves, except the poor cat. She had to be shut up because she went after a little dog we had with us who was completely intimidated by her. Fortunately, as we left, I remembered she must be given her freedom and the closet door was opened.

'POCKET' BIBLE

The other day, Mr. Lunsford P. Yandell came to see me in New York. From his brief case, he took three copies of a little book and told me the story of how he came across it. Because of his interest in the book, he located the original publisher and found several people who at one time or another had endorsed it. He is now having it republished, feeling that in the present crisis many people will find it valuable.

In a letter to me after his visit, there occurs the following sentence: "Conscientious parents are faced with the problem of giving their children a set of standards for their lives, some theory on which to work, whether it is called religion, or by some other name. The great barrier to arousing a youngster's interest in religion as it is taught in the churches, is the impatience of the child. To young people the Bible is a fearfully large book."

Mr. Yandell found a comment by Mr. Dale Carnegie, which strikes me as particularly interesting: "This little book contains the words of the greatest teacher of human relations the world has ever known. There is an urgent need for such a book, it should have been published centuries ago."

Well, here it is. You can carry it in your pocket or in your shopping bag and read it in odd moments. It is the complete sayings of Jesus, taken from the King James' Version, arranged by Arthur Hinds.

My generation was accustomed to reading some verses from the Bible morning and evening, or to having them read aloud in the family circle. Most of us had our favorite chapters and verses which we learned by heart and which still remain in our minds, no matter how our own special religious beliefs have developed. This is a good book to have, good company at all times.

NAVY SEES 'THE ARMY'

One night I again took some young navy men to see the show, "This Is the Army." There are not many shows you can see a second time, and enjoy them as much as the first time. But I can honestly say in this case, that I had a good time myself, which was enhanced by watching my guests enjoy themselves.

Next morning, I left the train at Beacon, N. Y., so as to have a swim and lunch with Secretary and Mrs. Morgenthau. I was home by three o'clock, and we had quite a number of guests for supper at my cottage. Today there are guests again for lunch and supper, but on the whole, the day is a quiet day, which the gray sky perhaps accentuates. Not even a leaf is stirring outside our windows now, and the purple fireweed along our brook, which I have always loved, is reflected in the water as in a looking-glass, for not a ripple is stirring.

When I awakened this morning, the sky was blue, and the birds were chirping everywhere, but now it looks as though Nature were waiting for the rain to come, or for the wind to blow.

PAINTING EXHIBITION

In the late afternoon I had to meet a train, and then go to the library for the opening of an exhibition of "Paintings of Dutchess County," by members of the Dutchess County Art association. It was a very well attended party.

The association had chosen 11 winning pictures, which are to be photographed for a calendar. The 12th is to be chosen by the public, so everybody was asked to vote and the voting will continue till the close of the exhibition at the end of this month.

NEED FOR TRAINED NURSES

I have a letter from Mrs. Nathan Straus of the American Women's Voluntary services, asking me if I would not remind women everywhere in the country that they should take a home nursing course. There are reasons for this. Wherever possible, people with minor ailments should be cared for at home, because hospital facilities at present are being taxed to the utmost. Their resources are being so largely drawn upon, that hospital care must of necessity be limited.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX W.N.U. Release

He fired three times, shoving the gun toward his target.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIV

The Potholes was a section of land perhaps ten miles square, composed of gulches and ridges shapelessly twisted, as though in olden time an upthrust of the earth's lower levels had lifted and dropped this crust.

Grant didn't know the region well enough to orient himself, but Charley Hillhouse was thoroughly at home, selecting the trails without pause as he came to them. Crossing a creek that rose in the Potholes and died in them, they reached a meadow and carefully skirted its edge. Beyond this meadow the land again broke up. Charley Hillhouse lifted a hand over his head, signaling caution; a mile forward, coming to the lip of a deep glen, he waved his arm by way of command. Grant stopped, watching Hillhouse step from his horse and go forward.

Grant dismounted and led the other men down the trail to the bottom of the glen. He climbed the far side slowly, abreast Hillhouse. Hillhouse pointed ahead.

Yonder, in a cup-shaped depression as large as a small corral, stood Hack Breathitt's horse. There was a dead fire in the middle of the depression, and Hack's saddle gear. Hack lay beside a log, sound asleep, with his hat pulled over his head.

Grant dropped at the right of Hillhouse, the two other riders crawled to the foreman's left and thus the four of them watched the loose-sprawled shape of Hack Breathitt.

The Three Pines foreman had let his gun and arm drop along the ground and on his face lay shadows darker than the dull light of the Potholes. Yet on that face was no particular sadness and no visible eagerness. All Gurd Grant saw was a gray, steadfast certainty. Then Hillhouse lifted the gun, sighted it on Breathitt and spoke quietly:

"It is a hell of a time to be poundin' your ear, Hack. Wake up."

Soft as the call was, Hack Breathitt's awakening was instant. All in a motion he flung his blanket aside, sprang upright and wheeled around, reaching for his gun. Hillhouse's flat warning stopped Breathitt's draw.

"Cut that out. You're covered four ways."

This was a wrong guess on Charley Hillhouse's part, for only three of them had drawn on Breathitt. Gurd Grant, rising as the others rose, held his arms beside him.

Breathitt's horse grunted when Riley heaved up the latigo strap. A crowd's strident squawking echoed through the timber. Shade pressed around them and even though the day was half-warm, Gurd Grant felt a growing chill in his stomach, along his nerves. He could not help asking his question.

"What are you going to do, Charley?"

Hillhouse ignored the question, whereupon Breathitt's grin showed very white against his steel-black stubble.

Breathitt reached into his shirt pocket, producing cigarette material. He rolled a smoke, still showing that thin-lipped amusement. He lighted the cigarette and dragged in a deep breath of smoke. "You won't get far with a jury, son. You know that."

"Yes," said Hillhouse, "I know it. Riley, bring me his rope."

Riley released the rope from the thong of Breathitt's saddle. He came across the depression at a slow, bow-legged straddle and handed the rope to Hillhouse. Hillhouse hooked it over one arm, keeping his gun free; he looked upward at the trees a moment, then back to Breathitt. "Better get on your horse, Hack."

kid. You've got a damned good memory, too—and this is something you won't shake loose. It'll go to bed with you and it'll kill your sleep and it'll make your grub taste like sawdust and all the drinkin' in the world won't drown it. Take a good long look at your peace of mind, Charley. It's the last you'll ever see of it."

"Get on the horse," said Hillhouse.

Hack smoked his cigarette to the bitter end, tossed it into the dust. "Before the week's out you'll wish to God you were in my place. Never mind the horse, Charley."

Hillhouse pulled his feet together and dropped the rope. His chin came up and the gun slowly rose in his hand.

He fired three times, shoving the gun toward his target as though he could not get it done quickly enough.

Shocked windless, Gurd Grant saw the foreman's lips pull back at each shot, saw his face snap into grotesque and openmouthed expressions of craziness such as he had never seen on any man's face before. The shot echoes pounded along the corridors of the pine forest. Hack bowed his head and bent his knees as though to kneel. Half-kneeling, he fell forward.

Hillhouse walked toward him, the gun sagging at full arm's length. He removed his hat and stood this way, staring down at the dead Breathitt. He said: "Well, he had the last word, like always." And then his lips framed silent words. The vitality left his face. When he looked around to the others he seemed faintly dazed. He said: "We'll take him back to the ranch and get a wagon and run him into War Pass. His family are all buried in the cemetery, which is where he should be. These Potholes ain't fit for any white man."

Gurd Grant swung around, physically sick, and slid down the ravine. He had to stop here long enough to lose his breakfast and catch his wind. Climbing out of the ravine, he reached his horse and turned it back on the trail. This was pretty much a wilderness to him but he was so absorbed by what he had seen that he let the horse have its own head, and so eventually he came out of the Potholes on Herendeen's range. Turning right, he threaded through the Haycreek Hills and reached his own place. He left the horse in front of the house. Going up the stairs he heard Catherine call from the kitchen. She came to the hall and saw his dead-white face swing around.

"Gurd—what's the matter?"

"Nothing," he said. "Nothing."

"You're lying."

"Let me alone," he rasped out and went up the stairs. He locked the door of his room, slowly pacing back and forth.

Lige White, who loved hunting as he loved few things, returned to his ranch that day and turned a fat mule deer over to the cook. He had been gone from the house since two that morning, riding down some of the constant physical restlessness which seldom permitted him to remain long in one spot. He ate a late dinner in the kitchen and afterwards sat on the front porch to smoke a cigar, meanwhile listening to the soft step of his wife as she moved around the second floor of the house, engaged in those endless little occupations which seemed to fill her day.

He pitched the cigar across the porch and entered the house. She was on the second floor, moving around from room to room, but when he went up the stairs he found her seated in her own bedroom with a pile of darning on her lap. She had heard him come and this was her way of throwing up a guard against him.

He stood half-across the room, black-haired and smiling, favorable enough in the eyes of most women, watching her face come up from the pretense of work. Her voice, cool as it was, never failed to stir him. "Did you have good luck?"

"Nice fat one."

He said: "Old girl, you're a hell of a good-looking woman, do you know?"

Her voice wouldn't let the silence remain. It hurried back to him.

"The peaches should be picked. I think I'll turn Joe loose on them tomorrow. We'll can a lot of them, of course. But it would be nice if you loaded up a wagon of them and went around to the neighbors."

"What neighbors?" he said, shaking his head. "It is a poor word to describe what they are now, to each other. Herendeen and Morgan are ready to fight at the drop of a hat. Gurd's got it in for Morgan over something—I don't know what. We are going to have a fight and I hate to consider it."

She said: "You should know the reason for it, Lige."

"Why yes," he answered. "Herendeen wants to clean up the range and Morgan is a little shy on comin' in."

She said: "No, Lige. In the beginning it was over a woman, Lila. And now it is over another woman, Catherine."

He looked down at her, closely thinking it over. "Lila—maybe yes. But Catherine. I doubt that. He's closer to the McGarrah girl."

"There's one thing you don't know, Lige. Catherine was his first girl. Even before Lila. She still is. I don't know if he realizes that. I don't know if he understands why he is so bitter against Herendeen, or why Herendeen hates him so. It is Catherine, Lige."

He said: "You're damned pretty, sitting there."

She gathered up the darning and rose, turning to a corner of the room. "I ought to go down and see what Chin's cooking for dinner."

He came over the room. Hearing his quick steps she swung around, her face dark-set and stiff. Lige White showed her his quick smile, he showed her the gay, excited and unruly expression she knew so well. There was that insistence in him, that quick need. He put his hand on her shoulder, compelling her to come toward him. He said, voice giving him away, "Don't freeze me out, Grace."

She whirled back from him, retreating until she had reached a wall. She put her shoulders to the wall and it was this picture that hurt Lige White, the sight of his wife shrinking away, actually in fear, with that darkness on her face and that adamant pride in her eyes, as though she hated the things in his mind then. It took all the drive out of him, it swung him around.

At the door he turned, once more covering up his feelings, speaking as though none of this had happened.

"I'm going over to see Herendeen, and maybe Gurd. Probably be gone overnight."

She remained by the wall until he had left the room, listening to the crush of his feet on the stairs. Afterwards, posted at a corner of the window so that he wouldn't see her, she watched him ride out of the yard and settle the horse into a singlefooted dancing across the Fanelango Desert. As long as he was in sight she stood by the window. When the corals and barns cut him from view she dropped the darning material from her hands and crossed to the bureau mirror. She placed her hands on the bureau top, watching the way her face remained set and dark. She said, "Why is it always like that?" and slowly turned from the room. Chin had left a broom and pan in the hall; she bent to pick up the pan and saw the uncollected dust along the floor. She went down to the kitchen and filled a pail with water and got a rag from a closet and lugged the pail up the stairs, kneeling on the hall.

She had forgotten about her dress, or she didn't care. She drenched the rag and slowly scrubbed the floor, not with very much method; she kept pushing the rag around and around the same spot, and her lips were tight-placed and tears showed in her eyes. She said, "This started long ago. Why do I always push him away? I always did. Now he goes somewhere else. It is too late."

She moved along the hall, water staining her dress. Her hair loosened at the edges, coming across her forehead. Chin called up the stairs. "Miss Lige White, what you do there?"

She cried, "Get back to the kitchen," and was openly crying.

U. S. FINANCE IN WAR TIME

THE DISASTROUS INFLATION that ruined Germany financially in the early 1920s was caused by the government issuing vast quantities of paper money with which to pay the government's internal debts. It was what we know as "printing press" money.

The American government must finance not alone our participation in the present war, but must also help our Allies. To do that it is costing many billions of dollars. The government can get the needed dollars by people of the nation buying war stamps and war bonds—the safest investment the individual can make. Or the government can get the dollars by the comparatively simple process of increasing bank credits, but that amounts only to the issuing of "printing press" money, and that way leads to the condition which caused inflation in Germany.

For purely selfish reasons, if for no other, the American people should buy war stamps and war bonds. When we invest our money in these securities—every dollar we do not actually need for living necessities—the dollars come back to us in the form of wages or for the things we produce. It is much like spending a dollar in our home town instead of sending it away to a mail order house. The dollar keeps rotating and works for us over and over again. If we force the government to finance the war by issuing any form of "printing press" money, whether it be called bank credits or greenbacks, we are but forcing ourselves into that degree of inflation where our dollars will be worthless.

We must, and will, win this war. We can do that with greater safety to ourselves as individuals and to that institution we know as America by financing the cost out of our pockets, rather than by the inflationary process of "printing press" money. By buying war stamps and war bonds, we are but financing ourselves.

FOOD GOES UP WHEN JAPS ARE INTERNED

IN THE PACIFIC coast states, especially in California, the internment of the Japs made a big difference in the cost of the white man's food. The head of lettuce the Jap sold for two cents now costs from 10 to 15 cents; the bunch of cleaned radishes the Jap sold for a penny, now, uncleaned, costs six cents, and so the change in prices goes all up and down the vegetable line. But the white townsman is not objecting. He knows that now the white farmer can live in the American way. But the purchaser would like to have another cent a bunch added to the price and have the vegetables cleaned. As for flowers—but everyone in the coast states can raise his own flowers if he wants them, so why worry?

LABOR RACKETEERS AND WAR EFFORT

IF AMERICAN WORKERS must pay tribute for the privilege of producing the implements of war with which our armed forces are to defeat the Huns, the Wops and the Japs, why not pay it to Uncle Sam? The labor racketeer gives them only the right to work in exchange for the membership fees and dues they pay. Uncle Sam could give them that and in addition an equivalent in that best of all investments, war stamps and war bonds. It would mean upwards of a billion dollars a year in bond sales.

SERGEANTS BUILD FIGHTERS

TO QUICKLY CONVERT the "rookies" being inducted into the army into well-trained, tough, hard-hitting soldiers, we should have a few thousand old regular army sergeants. It was the army sergeant who made the soldiers of our Indian fighting days.

One of those old-time army sergeants is George Fitzgerald Lee. In time he became a commissioned officer and retired as a major. While he was a sergeant, before the Spanish-American war, there fell to him to train what seemed to Sergeant Lee an unusually dumb recruit—so dumb the Sergeant felt time would be wasted in an effort to train him.

At that time enlisted men could transfer from one armed service to another and the marines were seeking recruits. Sergeant Lee advised the dumb rookie to ask for a transfer.

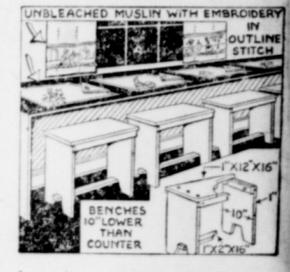

The advice was accepted; the transfer to the marine corps was asked for and obtained, and the young recruit was disposed of to the satisfaction of Sergeant Lee.

In 1941, Maj. George Fitzgerald Lee, retired, was living in San Diego, Calif. An inspection and review of a division of marines was announced, the occasion being the taking over of the divisional command by a marine general officer. Major Lee went out to see the show. When the marine general officer appeared to take over his command, it was Sergeant Lee's dumb recruit of old army days. He had not been as dumb as Lee had thought he was. The marine general felt he was indebted to the army sergeant for some valuable advice.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

EVERYONE knows that quick meals in the kitchen save time but it was both time and space that had to be saved in this kitchen where breakfasts were eaten on the run and the children had but a few minutes for lunch. The problem was solved by building a 16-inch-wide counter under a window and then making simple stools to be slipped under it when not in use. The dimensions and construction of the stools are shown here. A saw, a screw driver and a wood chisel are the only tools that were used.

The stools were painted cream color to match the woodwork and the counter was covered with blue linoleum like the floor covering. Cream colored place mats, napkins and window curtains embroidered in colorful Mexican figures were then added to give a smart note of gaiety.

NOTE: These curtains, mats and napkins were made of four bags and the gay figures tell a story of life down Mexico way. A flower seller; a peon on his burro; a caballero with his guitar; a man leading a pig to market, and girls carrying jugs and baskets on their heads are all worked in simple outline stitch. Transfer pattern including enough figures for six mats, six napkins, borders for one pair of curtains and extra figures for several pot holders, is available to our readers. You will find directions also for many other fascinating things to make in Mrs. Spears Book 7. Send order direct to:

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as making all our business more secure and pleasant.

Lynn County Citizens, Let's . . . ELECT A WEST TEXAN

To The United States Senate By Voting For

JAMES V. ALLRED

In more than one hundred years of Texas history, Texas has never been represented in the United States Senate by a West Texan. This year, for the first time, you have an opportunity of electing a West Texan to that high position by voting for James V. Allred, who was born and grew to manhood in West Texas, and who knows and understands the problems of West Texas.

His record of two terms as attorney general and two terms as governor of Texas is filled with pages of successful solutions of West Texas problems

HERE ARE THE THINGS JAMES V. ALLRED WILL WORK FOR IN THE UNITED STATES SENATE

A great "stretch runner," James V. Allred is driving down the U. S. Senatorial trail toward the August 22 election in a dynamic campaign that has captured the imagination of Texas.

A fiery and earnest stump speaker, who has already shattered one political myth in Texas by forcing W. Lee O'Daniel into a runoff, Allred is getting cheers for his specific program for relieving "civilian casualties" while America at the same time presses this war to victory.

Allred himself, former Governor and Attorney General who resigned a federal district judgeship to make this race, is a campaigner of stout heart and tireless energy. He is confident without closing his eyes to the hard job he has undertaken, and he likes to point out that in 1934 he overcame a greater percentage deficit in votes when he won the Governorship. Allred's percentage in the primary that year was 29 per cent — less than the percentage of votes he received July 25. Yet in a thumping runoff he piled up a tremendous plurality to win over his opponent.

He has rededicated himself in this U. S. Senatorial runoff to his platform principles of winning the people's war as quickly as possible; providing for our boys while they are in the service and when they come out of service; setting up the machinery for post-war readjustment; writing and enforcing an enduring peace that will insure our children against another war.

He is a militant, positive foe of isolationism, which he says blocked and hamstrung America's preparedness for this war. If it had not been for the isolationists in high places, he says MacArthur would have had 200,000 more men at Manila and the Japs would never have dared to strike at Pearl Harbor.

He has leveled his fire at the Washington. America's selective service army just see who voted to disband Amerlems, Allred has called for 25-cent four months before December 7.

and ranch commodities and a onng of war and domestic profees. He can get co-operation in t cotton, real parity for all farm

In a statesmanlike accountie-dollar limit on union initiation

"No man or woman should have to join a union to work on a defense job or in a war industry," he declares, and he has pledged himself as Senator to introduce a bill prohibiting any enforced initiation fee, permit fee or dues in defense industries.

"As a fighting Texas Senator, I will support President Roosevelt—my Commander-in-Chief and yours—on his war policies until Hitler and the Japs are permanently removed as a menace to our freedom, until the peace is written and enforced.

"At the same time as Texas' Senator I shall fight for Texas' rights. General Robert E. Lee said he would never draw his sword against Virginia. I shall never lift my voice nor acquiesce in any proposal or suggestion harmful to the interests of six million Texans."

In his campaigning, Allred reports, he has found "the most definite inequality in the entire war effort behind our fighting lines is the fact that Texas farmers have had to fight this war with their sons and the products of their farms without getting a just return. No Texas farmer is unpatriotic; the country ought not to be unpatriotic toward the Texas farmer by taking his produce away from him at less than it is really worth in comparison with wages and profits of others." He favors and has pledged himself to work for 3 per cent government loans to farmers and ranchers.

He pledges to continue to oppose federal control of oil — a step he successfully blocked while Governor — and has set himself squarely against regimentation or nationalization of business, against gasoline rationing, against socialized medicine and against federalization of unemployment compensation.

Allred, at the same time, is reminding that the country must continue the old age benefits which were begun in his administration as Governor, and favors lowering the age limits if necessary to take care of Texas' aged citizens.

We commend Jimmy Allred to you as a person who has never referred to Washington as "an insane asylum run by its inmates" (which includes our Commander - in - Chief, our War Strategy Boards, our Supreme Court, such men as Senator Connolly, Cordell Hull, Speaker Rayburn, his fellow-congressmen and others.)

We further commend Jimmy Allred to you as a man who has never referred to those opposing him by such terms as those used by Senator O'Daniel: "Political pirates, liars, snakes, bunch of buzzards, crooked politicians, crooked newspapers, political termites, dirty chicken thieves, crooks who held the first primary and cheated me out of winning then, the old money gang like flies around a syrup mill, thugs, criminals, Communist labor racketeers, gangsters."

Jimmy Allred has never slung mud like that; he has only discussed O'Daniel's official record. And if a man is not willing to stand on his record, what is there that he can stand on?

We, the Undersigned Citizens of Lynn County, Commend James V. Allred for United States Senator:

Everybody wants to know what sends a soldier, sailor, Coast Guardsman, or Marine. The answer is simple if he smokes a pipe roll—his own. Send a pound of tobacco. Tobacco, according to accurate surveys among the men themselves, is the gift most appreciated, and most wanted. Favorite smoking tobacco of many brave men is Prince Albert, the National Joy Smoke—a little well-served since Prince Albert is the world's largest-selling smoking tobacco. Local dealers are carrying Prince Albert in the can and as ideal gifts to men the service.—Adv.

JACOB'S VISION OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 28:10-22. GOLDEN TEXT—I am with thee, and will keep thee in all places whithersoever thou goest.—Genesis 28:15.

Deception, trickery, falsehood, jealousy were all present in the family of Isaac at the time of our lesson. A hopeless situation, one would say; and so it was, apart from one thing—the grace of God. We speak that phrase so easily, but in reality it has an infinite depth of meaning. Jacob shared the deception planned by his mother, and thereby he received the blessing of Esau. Not willing to wait God's time for the carrying out of His purpose, they sinned to gain an advantage. Then to escape the wrath of Esau, he had to flee. The journey was ostensibly to find a wife, but in fact a flight from an enraged brother. Could such a journey bring a man to a place of blessing? It did, as there was—

Heaven and earth are not separated. There is a way to reach the throne of God, and there is a way for God to reach and bless His people. The vision of the ladder thus reassured Jacob. We need only remember the God-Man Christ Jesus, who came from glory and has returned there to now appear as our Advocate, to be assured of this fact. God renewed to Jacob the covenant with Abraham and with Isaac. He does not forget. Men make treaties only to break them. God says, "I will not leave thee, until I have done that which I have spoken to thee of" (v. 15).

In His matchless grace God relieved Jacob's fear by assuring him of His protection; his loneliness by His divine presence; and his uncertainty regarding the future by the promise of blessing.

I. A Revelation of God's Grace (vv. 10-15).

Whether you wake to the crowing of the rooster or the jingle of an alarm clock, it's a signal to be up and about seeing to the day's work. But first! A hearty breakfast is in order so that the system can get started on its day's routine in the proper form. No matter whether it's for the head of the family going off to the defense plant, daughter on her way to the nurses' aid class, mother or the youngsters, no one should skip blithely over this meal of the day.

For years doctors and dieticians have looked askance at those who passed up a real up-and-at-them breakfast because it doesn't give the body a chance to start functioning early in the day. If you're fat, you need fruit-egg-toast-and-beverage breakfasts to start your metabolism working at top speed to start tearing down of excess tissues.

If you're thin, then you need just as much of a breakfast with a few more trimmings, to start building yourself. If you're normal, you still need the hearty breakfast so you can maintain your health and give your body its daily nutritional requirements. And one of the best recommendations for a real breakfast is the good way it starts you on your day's work. None of that drowsy, it's-hard-to-wake-up-in-the-morning feeling. No, Ma'am!

Hardest thing about breakfasts is that it's easy to get into a rut by serving the same food morning after morning. This is rather strange, considering how much time and effort is spent on getting variety into the other two-squares a day. Well, why not variety for breakfast? You can have this variety in fruit. Yes, I know you like juice pretty well, but you'll get out of the morning doldrums quickly enough if you punctuate the breakfast with favorite fruits-in-season, other fruit juices and some of those canned fruits you put up during the summer months.

Toast? If you insist on toast, try using whole wheat, rye, raisin, cracked wheat, etc. Naturally, the bread should be enriched so you'll get the most out of toast. And then there are all sorts of hot breads that will send the family cheering off to work—blueberry muffins, pecan rolls, muffins, and flapjacks!

Eggs in all manner of ways are a good standby. Poached, fried, coddled, baked, scrambled, a la golden-rod, or combined with ham, sizzlin'!

III. A Recognition of God's Goodness (vv. 20-22).

The God who would supply his every need, who would watch over him and keep him, was recognized by Jacob as being worthy of his devotion, and he made a vow that He should be his God (v. 21).

The grace and goodness of God are intended to bring men to faith in Him and devotion to His service. Yet men can go on year after year, the beneficiaries of all His bounty, and never so much as say "Thank you," let alone recognize Him as Lord.

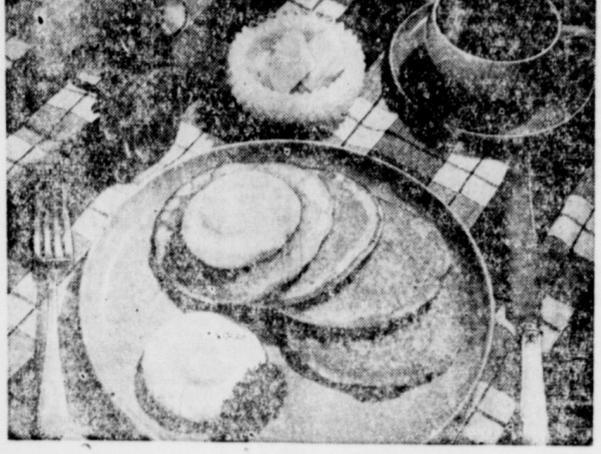

Jacob made a very practical and workable decision to demonstrate the reality of his vow. He promised that one tenth of all God gave him should be given back for a sacred use.

We agree with Dr. W. H. Griffith Thomas that "if only some of those who are inclined to criticize Jacob would do what he promised and give a tenth of their income to God, a different state of affairs would obtain in connection with God's work at home and abroad."

Trickery and deception were changed to truthfulness and devotion when Jacob met God face to face. The same blessed transformation awaits those who meet our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ in faith. Have you met Him?

Breakfast Time

Whether you wake to the crowing of the rooster or the jingle of an alarm clock, it's a signal to be up and about seeing to the day's work.

But first! A hearty breakfast is in order so that the system can get started on its day's routine in the proper form. No matter whether it's for the head of the family going off to the defense plant, daughter on her way to the nurses' aid class, mother or the youngsters, no one should skip blithely over this meal of the day.

If you're thin, then you need just as much of a breakfast with a few more trimmings, to start building yourself. If you're normal, you still need the hearty breakfast so you can maintain your health and give your body its daily nutritional requirements. And one of the best recommendations for a real breakfast is the good way it starts you on your day's work.

Lynn Says:

Tips for Breakfast Fruits: You're going to be a little short on sugar so do the most with what you have. A little salt in cooked fruit or sprinkled on such things as melons brings out true fruit flavor, requires less sugar.

Lemon or lime juice with melon enhances the natural sweetness. Try it.

Orange juice, chilled before the fruit is squeezed, is an excellent pep-you-up. Let the sugar stand on grapefruit a while (while the coffee percolates) and the sugar will melt and go further. Try eating fruit or juice first, but saving half to finish off your breakfast—it will leave a fresh taste in your mouth.

Fruit stewed should have sugar added after it is stewed, with a pinch of salt. You won't need as much sweetening, this way.

Cook dried fruits with a slice of lemon or orange. These citrus fruits have an affinity with dried apricots, peaches, prunes and apples.

sausage or crisp brown bacon—there you have a week's ideas.

The Cereals.

At least one serving of cereals is the nutrition requirement for the day. This is most easily served at breakfast, with cream and sugar and perhaps a few slices of fresh fruit or berries. Ready-prepared cereals are delightful, especially in the warmer weather—they're crisp, light, and nutritious. Recently some of the prepared cereals have been scientifically restored so they have all the whole-grain richness and nutritive value in them.

Light as down flapjacks are a welcome sight at breakfast! Try these:

- *Feather Fluff Griddle Cakes. (Makes about 18 cakes)
2 eggs, well beaten
2 cups rich sour milk or buttermilk
1 1/2 cups white flour
1/2 cup prepared pancake flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder

Have all ingredients at room temperature. Sift dry ingredients thoroughly. Add milk to eggs. Gradually stir in dry ingredients. Stir just enough to make a smooth batter. Cook on ungreased griddle. Fry out one cake and if batter is too thick, add a little more milk.

Fried eggs are good to serve with these griddle cakes. Fry them thus: Slip eggs into a scant 1/2 inch layer of moderately hot fat. Cook at moderate heat, dipping fat over eggs to cook to desired doneness. Turn, if desired. Serve at once on warmed platter.

Sunday Breakfast.

Place sausage links in a frying pan, add a small amount of water. Do not prick the skins. Cover and let steam 5 minutes, then drain. Cook over slow heat, add 3 tablespoons of peach juice to 8 sausages and let brown. Serve with poached eggs on top of toasted English muffins. Red currant jelly or golden peach jam makes a delectable dish.

If you've never tried old-fashioned scrapple, you have a real treat a-comin' to you:

- Pork Sausage Scrapple. (Serves 6 to 8)
2 cups cornmeal
4 cups boiling, salted water
1 pound sausage, in bulk

Cook cornmeal in rapidly boiling salted water, and add sausage to mixture. Blend thoroughly. Rinse a loaf pan with cold water and pack in hot scrapple. Let stand in ice-box overnight, covered with waxed paper. Dip in beaten egg and fry until golden brown. Serve with spiced applesauce, cranberry sauce or maple syrup.

A variation of the ham 'n' eggs theme is this:

Frivolettes With Ham.

- (Serves 6)
6 hard-cooked eggs, remove yolks
4 tablespoons grated cheese
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Salt and pepper
Melted butter

Mash yolks and mix with cheese, butter, seasonings. Refill whites. Press together. Pour a rich cream sauce over them and sprinkle buttered crumbs over them. Brown a few minutes in a hot oven. Serve on browned circles of ham.

which shall read as follows:
"Section 49-b. The Legislature may provide by law for the issuance of not more than Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) in bonds or obligations of the State of Texas to the Permanent School Fund for the construction in the City of Austin of a State office building or buildings, and the State Board of Education is hereby directed to invest not more than Two Million Dollars ($2,000,000) of the Permanent School Fund therein. Such bonds shall be executed on behalf of the State of Texas by the Governor and Comptroller and shall bear a rate of interest not to exceed three (3) per cent per annum, payable annually; they shall be of such denomination as may be prescribed by law, and shall be payable in not to exceed twenty-five (25) equal installments beginning one (1) year from date of issuance; and the State Treasurer is hereby authorized and directed to set aside a special fund annually at the beginning of each fiscal year until all of said bonds have been paid off and discharged, a sufficient amount of the first moneys coming into the Treasury for the use and benefit of the General Revenue Fund not otherwise heretofore obligated to the payment of bonds and interest, a sufficient amount to pay the interest becoming due and the bonds maturing during such fiscal year. From said Fund, the Treasurer shall pay the interest on said bonds as it comes due, to the credit of the Available School Fund; and shall pay off said bonds as they become due and deposit the amounts so paid to the credit of the Permanent School Fund. The power hereby granted to issue bonds is expressly limited to the amount stated and to five (5) years from and after the adoption of this grant by the people."
Sec. 2. The foregoing Constitutional Amendment shall be submitted to the qualified voters of the State of Texas at an election to be held on the third day of November 1942, at which election all voters favoring such proposed Amendment shall write or have printed on their ballots the words:
