Nearing completion is a 200,000 gal surface storage tank giving the City about 400,000 gal. of storage. Water pressure is now to normal and the goose hangs high, waterwise. Our hats are off to Water Supt. Bert Fritz and Mayor Jimmy Hash for working down thru the years with what water we did have.

JURY DUTY
Jury duty is an experience every body ought to have.
In a criminal case twelve jurors have a duty to do justice as each one sees it, and yet be unanimous. In most trials both sides have much to say, and the evidence is conflicting. The twelve jurors vary in their ability, temperament, character education and their experience in the world, and in the question at stake.
Yet a jury made up of both sexes, with wide age and educational differences, jobs and origins must all come up with the same verdict. Upon their verdict much depends — the life or liberty of others and the public good. So it may take them days of talking among themselves all to agree.

Jury duty calls for insight, common sense, courage, tact, fairness, patience, (especially toward the juror who disagrees with you), good humor, tolerance, balance, willingness to hear others out and change one's mind, readiness to go over and over the facts to find some thing to bring agreement. In short jury duty demands a "decent respect to the opinions" of others.

More and more women share civic duties, especially as jurors.
Time was in Texas when women could not serve on juries. They still cannot in four states.
A jury finds facts. It hears and weighs evidence and then comes to a verdict. It does not make the law — the legislature does; and the judge "charges" or instructs the jury concerning the law applicable to the particular case it is considering. The judge will tell you not to find the accused guilty until he is proved so under strict rules of evidence. If you have any "reasonable doubt," not imaginary or fancied — acquit the accused.

COTTON BACTERIAL BLIGHT IS MOST SERIOUS PLANT DISEASE
Bacterial blight of cotton causes more damage than any other plant disease in Texas. It generally is most severe on the High Plains and the Coast Prairie, in the irrigated valleys of the Trans-Pecos area and in the sprinkler irrigated areas on the Rolling Plains.
Bacteria blight causes more than one fourth of the total cotton disease yield loss in Texas. Losses vary from $35 million to $40 million per year. Too, additional losses occur in the form of lower and spot grades of the harvested fiber. Losses in 1960 were slightly less than in former years.
Small, angular, brownish or blackish spots occur on the lower leaves. Later the disease may spread to the higher leaves. Only a few spots are necessary to drop the leaves. Yield reduction results from the premature loss of leaves. Small, circular dark-green spots occur on bolls. These spots enlarge, dry up, stain lint and prevent normal opening of the boll. Under severe conditions limbs or stems may die back.
The disease causing bacteria enter thru air breathing pores (stomata) in the leaves, bolls and stems. They also may enter the plant parts thru wounds.
The blight organism overwinters in the soil on old plant trash and on or in planting seed. Wind driven splashing rains, sprinkler irrigation or whirlwinds spread the bacteria from plant to plant in the fields.
The only known practical prevention is the growing of resistant varieties. Acala 1517BR, Acala 1517 B R 1, Blightmaster, Austin, Rex and Mebane B-1 have some resistance and are available for commercial production. New resistance varieties are being developed.
The planting of known disease free seed will give control if there is no soil carry over. Acid delinted seed, adequately treated with a seed protectant fungicide will reduce early season infection. This practice does not necessarily prevent later epidemics. Correct amounts of nitrogen fertilizer will help make susceptible varieties more resistant.

Football To Start Next Monday

Fall football practice will start Monday week, August 14th. Pre-season physical exam will be given Sunday afternoon Aug. 13th at the school gym. All prospective players are urged to be there at that time to take the physical exams.

Pre season workouts will be twice a day at 7 in the mornings for one hour and evening workouts will last an hour and half. The motto this year is "I'm Proud to be an Eagle"

THIS WEEK IN AUSTIN
By Sen. Preston Smith

Hottest debate of this special session erupted in the Senate last week with discussion of the Sunday closing bill. Exponents of the legislation to close businesses on Sundays, led by author of the bill, Sen. William Moore of Bryan, say the bill is an economic bill.
"It is designed to close the discount houses that stay open on Sunday," Moore said.

Another supporter of the bill, Sen. George Parkhouse said, "It is not fair for a group of Northerners to come down here and take business away from old and established businesses — to take it away from people who have been here a long time, who pay taxes and who support their churches."

The bill, which would permit religious groups who observe religious days other than Sunday, to stay open Sundays, was denounced as giving "an unfair economic advantage to groups which do not observe Sunday."

Sen. Crawford Martin of Hillsboro said he believed the bill would be unconstitutional under U. S. Supreme Court rulings if the bill were made to cover all religions and businesses.

Other provisions to control the Sunday opening law involved setting up lists of certain goods that could not be sold on Sunday. Such items, enumerated in the bill, include clothing, furniture, automobiles, kitchen utensils, oome appliances, air conditioners, radios and television sets, cameras, hardware, jewelry, luggage and many other items.

Valuable time may be saved during the harvest season by checking all on farm grain storage facilities well in advance of the day when they will be needed. Using leaky, run down and unclean storage buildings will increase hazards from insect and rodent damage, two factors usually responsible for the loss of quality in farm stored grain.

Careful planning before building a farm pond can help solve the weed problem. Large areas of shallow water should be avoided in pond construction because weeds nearly always become a problem where the water is less than about 3 feet deep.

MUST REGISTER FARM TRAILERS

A new law recently enacted by the Texas Legislature brings farm trailers and semi-trailers having a gross weight (including load) of 4,000 pounds under the Motor Vehicle Registration Law, according to information sent George McCracken, county tax assessor and collector, by the Texas Highway Department.

Under the new law, H B 1082, such farm trailers may be registered and license tags issued for $5.00 on presentation of application by the farmer along with a signed affidavit that such will not have a gross weight in excess of 10,000 pounds and will be used exclusively to transport the owner's own seasonally harvested agricultural products and livestock to market or place of storage, will not be operated at more than 30 miles per hour and meet other requirements. An exception is extended to cotton gins provided the trailers are supplied to the farmers without charge.

The law also requires the registration of water well drilling and road construction machinery.

Rabies Still A Problem

There is a swinging pendulum in Texas. It is descending like Poe's weapon in the pit to alter the picture of rabies in Texas.

At the end of June the Texas State Department of Health announced a total of 359 rabies cases in Texas reported to health authorities. Sixty-nine of these cases occurred in June.

The changing aspects of the Texas rabies picture stems from the fact that prevalence of wildlife has shifted significantly from foxes to skunks during the past few years.

Whereas 10 years ago, most rabies cases reported in Texas involved domestic animals, today the majority of cases are among wildlife animals. Out of the 69 cases reported in June, nearly half were skunks.

In a of 1951, there were only 54 cases of rabies among skunks spread over 30 different counties. During the same year, most wildlife rabies cases were reported in foxes.

A dramatic swing of Texas rabies in another direction is also apparent. During the peay fox-wildlife outbreaks the major area of occurrence was in a chain of counties running in a rough horizontal line stretching from mid-East Texas through Central Texas.

Today the skunk wildlife picture spreads across a north-to-south belt involving the eastern portion of Central Texas, and has involved South Texas, West Texas, North-Central Texas, and the Texas Panhandle counties.

THIS WEEK IN AUSTIN
By Senator Preston Smith

—o—
This week was the Senate's turn at action on the new Sales Tax Bill. After long work sessions late last week, the House of Representatives moved out the bill to the Senate.

The Bill (HB 20) is expected to undergo several changes in Senate activity before being sent back to the House.

The principal money raising features of the bill include a 2 per cent sales tax on utility bills, construction materials, power and motor driven objects and items costing $5 or more. This part is estimated to raise about $265 million in the next two years. Some say this figure is estimated too high.

Needs of our state to raise these taxes comes at the climax of an increasing demand in recent years for more government services. Natural increases by population growth add their demands to the state's treasury. But the main reason is that people ask more, and want more from state government all the time. The people constantly want more and better roads, better health and welfare services and many other things that have been recognized as government responsibility.

The equation of taxation and services is simple — more government services cost money, through higher taxes. You can't have the services without the taxes. There has never been a substantial case of any government offering more services for less taxes.

There is not one legislator here in Austin who want to increase taxes. Each of us will be paying the same taxes. But these taxes must be impacted, in one form or another, if Texas is to continue to operate in the nation. It puts Texas on the side of the proponents of uniformity in state food and drug laws.

The old law made no provision for checking on the wholesomeness of cosmetics, whereas the new act requires truthful advertising, complete labeling as to ingredients, forbids the use of harmful ingredients and requires that products be produced and held under sanitary conditions. The law also brings therapeutic devices under control by outlawing worthless contrivances such as "cancer belts" and "arthritis rings" and similar quack appliances which take advantage of the desperation of afflicted people.

Homeowning Can Be Hazardous Too!

No matter how long the bronc-buster has been riding, he can never be sure the next horse won't throw him.

Such is the case with the homeowner. No matter how careful he tries to be, an unnoticed frayed electric cord, overloaded circuit, or smoldering cigarette can leave his home in cinders.

It's too late then to realize his insurance is "too little—and the wrong kind."

Be sure when you insure. Call on your local independent agent for a thorough appraisal of your needs.

The quality of the hay crop now being harvested may well depend says Geo. McBee, extension pasture specialist, on the stage of growth of the plants when cut and the length of drying period. He suggests check ing with the local county agent for information on improving the quality of hay.

Texans associated directly or indirectly with grain storage, inland transportation or exports are advised to keep a close watch on changes which the improved Great Lakes - St. Lawrence Seaway could have on the flow of grain to ports. John G. McHaney, extension economist, said the Seaway so far has had little effect on grain exports from Gulf ports but Atlantic ports showed a decline of 31 percent in 1959 from 1958.

Time To Build Grain Storage

Advanced planning in checking "on-farm" grain storage may save valuable time during harvest, says W. S. Allen, extension agricultural engineer. Leaky, run-down, and unclean storage buildings will increase hazards from insect and rodent damage, the two factors usually responsible for the loss of quality in farm storage.

A good storage unit should meet certain standards. The roof should be weather tight, the walls should be strong, sound, and rain proof. Any potential water leaks should be patched and caulked to prevent the entry of moisture from the outside. Cover the openings in the walls and cable ends of the buildings with screen wire to keep out rats and birds, and use 1-4 inch mesh wire around the tops of wooden bins. Lining the lower part of doors and door openings with strips of metal sheets will keep rats from gnawing holes at the corners. Check the foundations of wooden buildings to be sure they are not decayed, and repair any foundation deterioration, Allen says.

Be sure all trash, weeds, and grass are clear from around the bins to help reduce rat population and insect infestation. A poisoning program to control rats and a fumigation program to control insects can be recommended by your county agricultural agent.

Store dry grain or provide equipment for drying the grain in storage. The maximum moisture content for safe storage in Texas is 12 percent in most areas. Establish a checking program and check the grain periodically to insure that it is dry, free of insects and that quality is being maintained. A little advanced planning and proper supervision will insure a quality stored product for later sale or feeding.

REMEMBER HOW GREAT CIGARETTES USED TO TASTE? LUCKIES STILL DO

LUCKIES DON'T SKIMP

They're so round, so firm, so fully packed—so free and easy on the draw. They're fully packed with fine tobacco. They're firmer than any other regular cigarette. And Luckies smoke longer.

THAT'S WHY THEY TASTE SO GREAT.

Mrs. Billy McKnight and Dianne left Monday for San Angelo to visit her sister, Mr and Mrs. J. L. Adams and boys enroute to her home in Commerce

Hush Puppies
2 cups white corn meal
2 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
3 T. melted fat
1-3 cup chopped green pepper if desired, 1-3 cup chopped onion if desired.

Mix corn meal and salt in large mixing bowl. Pour in boiling water and stir rapidly to avoid lumps. When all corn meal is wet and looks like mush, add drippings. Cover with tight lid and let steam for 20 or 30 minutes. Wet hands and make into cakes. Allow about one heaping tablespoon for each hush puppy. Gently drop into very hot fat and fry until golden brown. Mrs. Glen Gibson, Ed note - Hush puppies is a Creole dish. Since dogs can't eat fish bones, the Creoles made this dish and fried it in fish grease for the dogs eating under the table and begging for fish.)
