USE CHEMICALS TO MAKE LAWNS MORE ENJOYABLE

College Station. — Insect infested lawns can be a nuisance to people as well as pets. Chiggers, fleas and borwn dog ticks are usually the culprits when a lawn is avoided instead of enjoyed. C. F. Garner and R. L. Ridgway, extension entomologists, say that if proper control measures are used, however, these pests can be eliminated with a minimum amount of work and expense.

For the control of chiggers, the specialists recommend the application of dusts or sprays of chlordane, toxaphene or lindane to infested grass and ground litter. An emulsion spray usually gives the best results. For treating small areas, use a compressed air or knapsack sprayer and apply 2 1-2 to 3 quarts of spray per 1,000 square feet. If dust is used, apply 5 percent chlordane at 40 to 50 pounds per acre, or 20 percent toxaphene at 5 to 15 pounds per acre (approximately 1 pound per 1,000 square feet).

Fleas usually enter the home on dogs, cats, rats and other animals. They deposit eggs loosely on their hosts, and these eggs fall into the ground, into cracks in the floor, or similar places. Since fleas spend their early developmental stages in the soil they often become a nuisance on the lawn and around out-buildings. These places should be treated with a 2 1-2 percent malathion spray or with a 4 percent malathion dust. Garner and Ridgway say that dogs should be dusted thoroughly with 4 percent malathion dust or dipped in a 1-2 percent malathion water solution. A commercially prepared 2 or 2 1-2 percent malathion is recommended for control of fleas in the home.

Dialinon has been approved for the control of fleas and chiggers in outdoor areas, and this material may be substituted for any of the previously listed chemicals, the specialists continue.

Is it cheaper to own cotton harvesting machinery or have the harvesting done by a custom operator? Many Texas cotton producers who expect to machine harvest their crop will soon be faced with making that decision, says C. A. Parker, extension farm management specialist. He suggests that cotton growers discuss the situation with local county agent before making a final decision.

The sale of food by wholesalers, retail stores, and eating establishments now adds up to $70 billion each year, making food industry the nation's largest.

Drugs are not the poultryman's panacea, says Dr. A. I. Flowers, veterinary microbiology professor at Texas A&M College. He points out that disease control is, just as it has always been, a management problem. Prevention of disease should be a major objective of poultry flock management but should a flock become infected, Dr. Flowers recommends an accurate diagnosis as soon as possible.

Insect infested lawns can be cleaned up with the right insecticides, say entomologists of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. They suggest a visit with the local county agent for complete details on control measures.

HERE! '61 CHEVY TRUCKS

WITH WORK-PROVED
INDEPENDENT FRONT SUSPENSION!

Chevy's '61 fleet swings in with a ready-made reputation as the trucks that are worth more because they work more... the latest editions of the haulers that scrapped the I-beam axle and proved the important advantages of independent front suspension!

You'll find new models for '61—long-wheelbase 4-wheel drive units—and thoughtful refinements throughout the line. But the big news for '61 is nailed-down proof (based on owner reports) that Chevy's torsion-spring design is the best thing that's happened to trucks in decades!

With Chevy's independent front suspension and Sturdi-Bilt design, you cruise over trails where other trucks creep. You feel the difference in less wheel fight and vibration. You can see why drivers are happier, why loads are better protected and why the truck itself will stand up to thousands of miles of more work. That goes for any size Chevy, too—pickups, tilt cabs, tandems, all of them.

Check the latest specs with your Chevrolet dealer: capacity, power teams, options. Then, by all means, drive a '61. Once around the block and you'll never be satisfied with a front axle truck again!

FROM TEXAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

The major killers—cancer, heart diseases and accidents—do most of the statistic rattling in Texas just as elsewhere throughout the United States.

But there are lesser killers, no less potent once they strike—and in many cases the disease is preventable.

For instance, during 1959 there were 52 deaths attributed to tetanus, often called lockjaw. Most could probably have been prevented.

Twenty-four deaths were among infants less than one-year-old, but 17 fatal cases of tetanus were among persons 15 years of age or older.

Tetanus can be guarded against with appropriate toxoid injections. In fact, a standard recommendation of the American Academy of Pediatrics is for children to be immunized against tetanus in combination with pertussis and diphtheria, commonly referred to as DTP shots.

Parents are familiar with the DTP shots administered to their infants by pediatricians or a family doctor while the child is still less than a year old.

Such early protection is also recommended by State health authorities.

However, the protection afforded by tetanus toxoid loses strength over the years and should be maintained with a periodic booster or in the event of injury subject to tetanus infection if recommended by your family doctor.

Especially vulnerable are playing children and workmen who may be injured on the job.

Males fall victim to the disease nearly twice as often as females. In 1959, there were 34 tetanus deaths among males and only 18 among females.

ATOMIC ENERGY AUTHORITY TO SPEAK AT ROTARY ON 27TH

Effort to harness the might of the hydrogen bomb for generation of electric power thru research sponsored by the Texas Electric Service Co. and ten other investor owned electric utilities operating in Texas will be described Tuesday, September 27th to the O'Donnell Rotary Club by H. R. Drew, executive vice president of the Texas Atomic Energy Research Foundation. J. B. Thomas, president of the Texas Electric Service Co., is a director of the foundation, which was organized in 1957 by the Texas power companies for the purpose of unifying their individual effort to generate new ideas and discoveries for harnessing the power of the atom for peaceful purposes including the generation of electric power.

Currently, the foundation is co-sponsoring nuclear research jointly with the general atomic division of General Dynamics Corp. aimed at controlling the fusing reaction. The fusion process provides the power for the H-bomb and is the energy process of the sun and stars. Drew, a graduate of the University of Texas and a registered professional engineer, will also review the development of atomic power in this country at the meeting which will be held at noon at Jackson's Dribe In.
