Executive Says Back-Seat Driver Has Good Points

Back-seat drivers got a pat on the back recently from a leading motor vehicle executive.

L. S. Harris, executive secretary of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators, said a great safety service by asking that car passengers could "perform questions requiring an answer."

Pointing out that his statement also included drivers' mates, Harris said: "This doesn't mean I'm in favor of nagging wives, but simply that an occasional query from the back seat frequently helps to keep a day-dreaming driver alert and avoid accidents. If the driver fails to answer, he either needs to stop and take a breather or let someone else take his place behind the wheel."

Recommends Coffee Stops
The motor vehicle official recommended that motorists make frequent coffee stops in the interests of highway safety.

"Pulling off the road every couple of hours for a wake-up cup of hot coffee has saved more than one life," he said. "Uninterrupted driving, like prolonged work of any kind, builds fatigue or drowsiness to a point that can be fatal. The tired driver is less vigilant, loses the ability to judge speed and distances, reacts more slowly to emergencies, and is less able to resist the glare of headlights."

He cited recently compiled figures of New York University's safety center to point up the importance of coffee stops to alert driving, particularly on long trips. The center survey revealed that the average driver makes from 20 to 50 decisions an hour—many of them of the split-second variety.

Five Safety Rules
In extremely congested areas like New York City, "a driver is always less than a second away from an accident," according to the Center report.

Harris listed the following five safety rules as important to safer summer motoring:

1. Start your trip when rested, not after a hard day's work when fatigue has already set in.
2. Keep plenty of fresh air in the car as an anti-drowsiness precaution.
3. Make a coffee stop at least once every two hours; walk around; stretch your limbs.
4. Engage in light conversation with the passengers.
5. In case of doubt as to your physical condition, pull off the road or go to a hotel and sleep.

Most Farm Families Have a Home Garden

According to a United States Department of Agriculture survey last year, five million of the six million farm families in the nation raised gardens. Nearly all of the five million canned food, and about two and a half million stored garden produce away in freezers.

The department reports this is one of the many reasons that there is plenty of food in the United States.

Dairy Heifers Can Be Raised Economically

The University of Nebraska reports recent tests prove dairy heifers can be raised satisfactorily from birth to two years of age with little as 500 pounds of grain. In place of grain the animals were all the high quality alfalfa hay could eat. The scientists emphasize, however, that the limited grain ration experiment was successful only because of the high quality forage fed.

Queen Hatshepsut Was One of World's Brilliant Women

Susan B. Anthony, the great feminist and woman's rights advocate, was an Alice-sit-by-the-fire compared to Queen Hatshepsut who reigned over Egypt more than three thousand years ago.

For almost 30 years, while she ruled Egypt unofficially, Hatshepsut plotted and intrigued against the male members of her family, until she succeeded in getting the people to name her "Pharaoh."

She immediately afterward issued a royal command that she be addressed not as "queen", but as "king" and always as "his majesty."

She was a vigorous, brilliant, and strong-minded woman who came forth on state occasions clad in the garments of a man. She wore the short kilt and sandals and the great war-helmet of the Pharaohs and even attached to her chin the Pharaoh's long false beard.

Statuses and paintings found in the ruins of the magnificent temple that she had ordered to be built near Thebes, show her in this strange attire.

Thutmose III, whom she had deposed, did not get to rule Egypt again until the day Hatshepsut died.

Miss Anthony, who dedicated her life to the cause of woman's rights during the 19th century, was of a somewhat more conservative nature when it came to both personal pronouns and personal attire, probably because of her Quaker background.

As a result primarily of her efforts, an estimated 48 million American women will have the right to vote in the coming presidential election. But only about half that number is expected to take advantage of the hard-won privilege.

Cancer Sufferer Who Urged Prayer Dies

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — E. N. Hendry, 58, who suggested a national day of prayer for divine help in speeding the discovery of a cure for cancer, died of the disease at Methodist Hospital here.

The former cattleman knew that he had only a short time to live when he made his appeal. From his hospital bed he said:

"I would like to see a day set aside for all the praying people in the United States to get on their knees and pray that God will guide our scientists in their search for a cure for cancer.

"It's too late for it to do me any good, but if I can know that I had something to do with starting such a day, then I will be content to die."

Before his death Mr. Hendry was told that his appeal was being given national notice.

Church People Defend Custodian, Former Red

McALESTER, Okla.—Church people here have taken up the cudgels on behalf of a church custodian—a former Communist—and his wife who have been ordered deported to their native Belgium by immigration authorities.

The couple, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roelants, came to the United States in 1948 to live with their daughter, Mrs. Harry Lay, the Belgian war bride of a McAlester postal clerk. Roelants, 54, is custodian of the Grand Avenue Methodist church here.

Roelants admits he was a member of the Communist party for a short time after World War II but said he renounced his membership when he realized what the party stood for. He said his declaration to immigration officials that he belonged to no political party at the time of his arrival in the U.S. was true, since he had quit the Communist party more than a year previously.

Members of the Grand Avenue Methodist church and of the Church of Christ, where the Roelants are members, have joined in sending a stream of letters to congressmen and other officials in Washington, asking that the deportation order be revoked.

Alienation of Monkey Is Cause of Stabbing

ELYRIA, OHIO—Because he alienated the affections of a monkey, Miss Susan Bach stabbed her boy friend and was put in the Lorain county jail.

Miss Bach, 22, said "Zeke," the monkey, had been given to her by another friend. Since then, she continued, Sherman Bigley, 30, has been getting most of "Zeke's" attention.

It all came to a head when they argued in a cafe near her home in Lorain. Later she stabbed Bigley in the hip with a pocket knife.

Bigley was treated at a hospital and released. No charges have been filed.

Miss Bach said that in addition to the ring tailed monkey, she owns a dog and a goldfish. The dog is still her No. 1 pet.

Three years ago she owned three dogs, four fish and a parakeet.

Marriage of Blind Girl Is Aided by Friends

CHICAGO—The Holy Name Cathedral was the scene of the wedding of a blonde ex-ballet dancer and a red haired soldier. The girl is blind.

The ceremony uniting Kathleen May and Pfc. William Womack of Long Beach, Calif., was performed by the Rev. John W. Marren, before guests with a more than ordinary interest in the occasion. They were: Kathleen's seeing-eye dog, Bronze, who was decked in white satin ribbon for his role as a spectator.

Friends who solved the couple's financial troubles by canvassing merchants who provided Kathleen with a stunning white satin and tulle wedding ensemble, the red carpet and flowers.

The couple met at a party after Kathleen heard the soldier singing and commented that a man with such a voice—a deep baritone—"must be tall and handsome."

The bridegroom, who is studying to be an X-ray technician, is six feet tall and is handsome.

Plato's Atlantis Story Was Purely Imaginary

The Greek philosopher Plato, who lived about 400 B.C., wrote about a continent named Atlantis, which was supposedly in the Atlantic ocean west of the Straits of Gibraltar. He told of bitter warfare between the forces of Athens and of Atlantis. The latter were finally defeated and then, in a single day and night, their armies disappeared into the ground, and their homeland sank beneath the sea. However, it is probable that Plato's story was purely imaginary, like later tales of a Utopia or some other non-existent land. It is true that there was once a continent and a land bridge in what is now the Atlantic Ocean, but this disappeared many millions of years before human beings developed.

Husband Tosses Good Samaritan Into Street

LIVERPOOL, Eng.—When a lady found herself locked out of her apartment a passing plumber, William Ball, went to her rescue by climbing through her bedroom window. But before he could make his way to the front door the lady's sleeping husband, angry at being aroused, grabbed Mr. Ball by the scruff of the neck and the seat of the trousers, lugged him downstairs and flung him out the front door.

Nobel Prize Winner Says the Moon Is Just a Lump of Dust

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—That moon that means so much to lovers and poets is nothing but a large lump of dust.

At least that's the opinion of Nobel Prize-winning chemist Harold C. Urey who theorizes that the moon was formed from accumulated dust particles.

Urey's new book upsets the idea held by most scientists that the moon is a torn-off fragment of the earth, lost ages ago when the earth was molten. His theory is that the moon was independently born from a cosmic dust cloud.

Putting first things first, he adds that the surface of the moon was formed over three billion years ago or at the end of the formation of the moon's core.

Urey is one of the few men who knows both the chemistry and the astronomy on which this knotty problem hinges. It seems that in the past, few astronomers have known enough chemistry and few chemists have bothered to look up on their test tubes.

Urey also has something to say about the origins of the entire solar system.

In the very beginning, he says there was a cloud of cosmic dust from which the sun and a churning disk of gas and dust was formed. The dust particles, called planetesimals, contained enough water to allow crystallization.

All this, Urey says, took place at extremely cold temperatures. His view differs sharply from the popular notion that the solar system began under conditions of extreme heat.

Condensations of the dust formed embryonic planets. This was followed by a period of very high temperature during which chemical changes formed the cores of the planets.

Urey concludes that things were wrapped up nicely when the temperature took a sharp drop and left the earth and the moon in their present form.

Kills Self Because He Loves Brother's Wife

SAN PEDRO, Calif. — Dean Dickey, 18, had been in love with his brother's wife for a year.

Dean made the headlines last year when, twice in a week, he tried to kill himself—once by swallowing liniment, again by inhaling gas.

He told police the reason was a secret love for Laurita Dean, wife of his brother, Alvin, 23. "I didn't know," Alvin said at the time, "Dean didn't say a word. He hardly came near me."

The youth recovered, and joined the navy. His family thought his young-love crush was over.

Back in port, he visited the home of a sister, Mrs. Blythe McKee, and her husband, Wesley. They chatted late and then retired.

The McKees were awakened by a shotgun blast. They found Dean dead. Police Detective W. A. Holloway quoted McKee: "I think Dean killed himself in despondency over thinking he still loved his brother's wife."

Plane Bounces and Flies After Slipping Into Sea

TOKYO—The story of a plane sliding off the icy deck of a carrier, bouncing on the water and then flying was reported recently by the navy.

The pilot was Lt. Com. William H. "Buck" Rogers, Austin, Tex. The plane was a Skyraider Guppy with a total crew of three.

Rogers jockeyed his ship onto the port catapult of the aircraft carrier Valley Forge and blinked lights for launch.

Something went wrong with the catapult. Suddenly the Skyraider began skidding down the ice-coated deck of the carrier with no help from the still-cocked catapult. Rogers tramped on the brakes and cut the power.

The plane didn't stop, so he turned on full power. The plane dropped off the bow of the ship and hit the water with a thud.

It bounced into the air, and started flying.

Rogers eased the craft along eight inches above the waves until he could gain altitude. Then he and his crew completed their mission.

United States Troops Blamed for Jap Waifs

TOKYO—U.S. troops have fathered 200,000 waifs in Japan since the war ended. That's the assertion of the newspaper Yomiuri.

It said the figure was based on off-the-record data supplied by Japanese government officials. The officials, it said, declined use of their names because they feared the "displeasure" of the occupation.

Another Japanese newspaper, Tokyo Shimbun, said the 200,000 children were listed on government food ration rolls.

A U.S. occupation official and a Japanese government authority said the figure was far too high.

"It's way off the beam," said an American officer in the public health and welfare division of occupation headquarters. He said the situation was "no worse here than in any seaport in our own country."

ELECT PRESTON SMITH
YOUR STATE SENATOR

FOR THE NEW 28TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT

From 1945 through 1950, Preston Smith was a member of the Texas House of Representatives. During that time, he was a leading advocate of construction of farm-to-market roads.

The figures below — from the files of the Texas Highway Department — show farm-to-market road mileage constructed during the six years preceding Preston Smith's tenure in office, compared with construction during the six years he was a member of the Texas Legislature.

Here are mileage figures for the nine counties within the legislative district represented by Preston Smith:

COUNTY	1939-44	1945-50
Cochran	0.00	62.48
Crosby	.36	60.52
Dawson	0.00	44.39
Gaines	0.00	35.07
Hockley	1.59	47.93
Lubbock	0.00	57.39
Lynn	0.00	74.63
Terry	0.00	61.78
Yoakum	0.00	20.03
Totals	1.95	466.22
State Totals	1,425.95	9,560.55

During Preston Smith's three terms in office, more than 200 times as many miles of farm-to-market road were constructed in these nine counties than were built during the preceding six years. This record speaks for itself.

AS STATE REPRESENTATIVE, PRESTON SMITH SPONSORED:

- Construction of Farm-to-Market Roads
- Rural Telephone Bill
- Legislative Re-districting
- Bonds for Construction of Hospitals
- Expansion of Texas Tech

AS STATE SENATOR, PRESTON SMITH ADVOCATES:

- Continuation of Farm-to-Market Road Program
- More Vigorous Soil Conservation Program
- Continued Growth and Expansion of Texas Tech
- Local Ownership of Underground Water
- Adequate provisions for Our Aged Citizens
- Preservation of Local and State Rights

Pastor Must Master His Schedule, Duties

DES MOINES—A clergyman must not become "the chore boy of everybody in the community who wants a benediction at a banquet," but the master of his schedule. This advice was given by the Rev. Dr. Charles B. Tupper, associate professor of applied Christianity at Drake bible college, who also said that a minister must guard his health. "Some of us drag around with half the power we ought to have because of reduced vitality," he said. Dr. Tupper addressed the Iowa ministerial institute of Christian (Disciples) churches here. He said that a half-completed daily schedule is depressing, and brings no "sense of victory" or pleasure in achievement. "There are more demands than we can meet and we must make a choice," he said. "I am not forgetting the minister's responsibility to the community." Dr. Tupper said, "but he must evaluate his calls on the basis of preference and importance." Dr. Tupper said his basic thought was to keep alive the "spiritual glow" of clergymen, despite their difficulties, for the sake of the people they serve.

Yoicks, Tallyho Are Threatened By Hi-Yi-Yippy

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia's suburban outposts in southeastern Pennsylvania are praying for rain to break the drought which is now in its third year deep in the south of Texas. Called the worst dry spell in the 99-year history of the fabulous King Ranch, it will next autumn deprive hounds and pink-coated riders of fields they are accustomed to roam in the historic Brandywine county. "Hi Yi Yippy" will, in effect, banish "Yoicks" and "Tallyho" from parts of a traditional fox-hunting realm in southern Chester country, Pa.

Fatten Near Market
For six summers, King Ranch steers approaching market age have been shipped by rail from south Texas rangeland to meadows 30 miles southwest of Philadelphia beside Buck and Doe Run, a tributary of Brandywine Creek.

There, burying their noses in grass, they have gained as much as 300 pounds per calf in 150 days, May to October. Then, shipped to market, they leave the autumn meadows to the huntsman.

The three-year drought, however, has caused King Ranch cattle population to dwindle from 85,000 to less than 60,000. The Buck and Doe Run farms have this spring received their first shipment of calves less than a year old—a full year younger than usual. They will be grazed for more than a year instead of for five months, putting a large part of 10,000 fox-hunting acres on a year-around cattle grazing basis.

Uninitiated travelers rolling through the countryside near Unionville, Pa., do a "double take" on seeing green pastures where cherry-red beef steers are herded by Texas-style cowboys complete with lariats, chaps, fancy boots, and spurs.

Actually, "Hi Yi Yippy" is not part of the lingo of these eastern cowpokes any more than it is on the 900,000-acre King Ranch itself. The Buck and Doe Run hands are mostly eastern Pennsylvania farm natives newly trained to ranch work, riding Texas quarter horses and wearing western ranch clothes because they are practical for the purpose. Spanish-speaking vaqueros drive the herds in south Texas, but do not take kindly to transplanting.

Hardy Breed
Buck and Doe Run Farms at present handle about 5,000 cattle. Texas rangeland outside the drought area has been leased for current King Ranch emergency use. Farms on Long Island, in Illinois, Oklahoma, and elsewhere near major stockyard cities, have for years been fattening skinny steers close to the market for King and other cattle-raisers.

Nine-tenths of the King Ranch producing Shorthorns and fever-resistant cattle are of the handsome red Santa Gertrudis breed, developed by that ranch since 1923.

County Has Trouble Paying the Preacher

ATLANTA, Ga.—Fulton county, like a lot of country folk, has a little trouble paying the preacher.

The preacher is the Rev. Bill Allison, who ministers to the spiritual needs of convicts, open meetings of county administrators with prayer, and is largely responsible for the reform of many Georgia badmen.

Fulton County couldn't get along without its dynamic chaplain—but, just now, dwindled county departments are practically passing the hat to make up his $375 monthly paycheck.

Before a plan of improvement lopped Fulton County's five prison work camps to two, the Fulton department of public Works paid Mr. Allison.

Now that the chaplain's incarcerated flock has shrunk from 700 to the 400 men at Bellwood and Ben Hill work camps, with a corresponding decrease in the budget of the Fulton county public works department, that department assumes only 40 per cent of the minister's salary.

Fulton County Manager A. E. Fuller, like any good deacon or elder in a country church concerned about the parson, has been "stirring up the congregation to get together the preacher's money."

At recent meetings of various county departments, Mr. Fuller's letters were spread on the minutes. The letters tactfully suggested that the remaining 60 per cent of Mr. Allison's salary be juggled by four other departments.

The Fulton jail was asked to pay 35 per cent; the almshouse, 10 per cent; the welfare department, 10 per cent, and the county dairy, 5 per cent.

Keokuk Motorists Are Honest Moneychangers

KEOKUK, Iowa—When parking meters were recently installed a bank filled a fish bowl with nickels and pennies and placed it on a convenient counter, inviting motorist customers to help themselves in making change. At the end of the week a check on the money showed not a penny missing.

Flood Control Was An Issue as Far
Back as 2500 B.C.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Flood control was an issue as far back as 2500 B.C. in ancient Babylonia. Efforts to achieve it seem to have been attended with some successes and some failures.

Following are some notes from labels on exhibits in the Hall of Babylonia at Chicago Natural History Museum, prepared by Richard A. Martin, Near-East archaeologist on the staff, who participated in surveys and excavations of the Kish area in Babylonia on museum expeditions some years ago:

"In Babylonia high water came in the spring during the growing season when flooding the fields would be disastrous. This led to the development of perennial irrigation with a complicated network of canals both to supply arable land with water when needed and to divert the high water season runoff into nonproductive areas. The canals served also as waterways for the transport of goods. The canals were state operated and taxes were imposed for their maintenance.

"Remains of some of the main canals that supplied the Kish area have been found. Today, in the same area, modern irrigation canals follow the courses of the ancient ones. That many of the canals closely paralleled each other is due to their constant silting. When piles on either bank become too high conveniently to shovel out the silt, it is easier to dig a new canal alongside utilizing one bank of the old.

"To control the floods of the Euphrates and Tigris and still supply the irrigation canals with water, barrages were constructed in the river channel or at advantageous spots, and sections were opened by earth locks and dams.

"During times of political upheaval these control points were left unattended, the natural silting of the river blocked the restricted openings, and a new channel would be cut by the river."

Among exhibits from Kish at the museum is a flood stratum deposit of a type found in dwellings of the early Dynastic period (3000-2500 B.C.). It was 36 feet below the surface of the mound excavated by the museum expedition, and ten feet above the present water table. On the surface of this clay deposit are the remains of fresh water fish left behind when the water receded.

The possibility of helicopters, carrying eight to twenty passengers, replacing buses on outlying routes in Melbourne and Sydney, was referred to recently, by Ian Holyman, son of the managing director of Australian National Airways who has recently returned from an extensive world tour.

Holyman, who was trained under A.N.A.'s cadetship scheme, studied airline operation in Malaya, Siam, Indo-China, most of the countries of Europe, Britain and the United States.

Cadet executives join A.N.A. at 18 and after a six-year course they spend a year learning procedure in various departments of the company and conclude their training with a tour of overseas airlines.

BUCKSPORT, Me. — Bucksport's "Bachelor Ball" was a success, but how many couples it will speed to the altar nobody could tell yet.

More than 200 bachelors, bachelor girls, and married couples, too, attended the ball recently in the high-school gymnasium, decorated with hearts and arrows and cut-out cupid.

The civic groups that sponsored the affair had announced its purpose was to help young men and women get together to help push up the marriage rate.

Representative Says Whistling Is Legal

PAINTED POST, N.Y. — The problem of whether whistling is unconstitutional arose in a civics class at Painted Post junior high school here in Steuben county, and Audrey Hadlock and Judy Callard wrote their congressman. The reply came back containing 400 words from Representative W. Sterling Cole, Republican of New York.

"The right to whistle," Mr. Cole wrote, "is protected to the same extent as the right to speak or express the words or idea for which the whistling stands."

But, he added, there are exceptions; whistling "is subject to reasonable police regulation."

Mr. Cole closed with this advice: "I would follow the advice of your mother and father and your teacher in this as well as all other matters."

Twittering Pests Get Hot Seat in Washington

WASHINGTON—A battle has been brewing for 20 years or so. During that time, Washington buildings have become the roosting places for approximately 14,000 members of the family Icteridae or starlings.

Science has come again to the aid of suffering humanity. A "bird-proof" wire has been devised which makes things "hot" for these twittering pests.

The device is "an electronic system of parallel wires run into areas where birds roost, nest, or congregate," and when it attempts to pause under an eave, on a ledge, or in a cornice.

It has been pointed out, however, that these winged residents of Washington have weathered many previous man-made storms. At various times in the past, the starlings have remained at their perches and emerged victorious over toy balloons filled with gas, volleys of pistol blanks, noisy rattles, drenchings with water, owls placed on window ledges.

Aripong Is Airy Song
To Marines in Korea

IN KOREA—A Korean boy from Kaesong stopped the Danny Kaye show with his rendition of the native folk song "Aripong," well known to all Marines in Korea.

Cha Yong Si, a teenager, known as Joe Doakes at the Fifth Marine Regiment, sang the song from the audience when Kaye asked if any Koreans in the audience would help him sing.

The youngster cupped his hands and sang the song in a small voice. Tears came to his eyes as he hit high notes and upon completion the Marines gave him as heavy a hand as the Hollywood performer.

When the show was over, Kaye shook his hand and quipped, "Why don't we go into vaudeville?—We could be billed as Kim and Kaye."

SHIVERS AGES AUTO INSPECTION LAW; 'SHALL CHANGE IT OR REPEAL IT' He Says

By Ben Kaplan, Press Staff Writer

Governor Allan Shivers today said that the new auto inspection law should either be modified or repealed.

The Governor told the Press before he left Austin for Houston to make a campaign appearance that he had some ideas for changing the controversial law.

His idea is to take the red tape and confusion out of the law. "The law was intended to bring about real safety and not inconvenience," said Governor Shivers.

"We need to stop killings on the highways. Texas has become the number one State in the United States for murder on the highways."

"The Legislature passed this inspection law by a vote of 117 to 12 in the House of Representatives and 19 to 9 in the State Senate, with the thought that it would save more than 200 Texas lives each year. If the law fails to do this and instead causes confusion and inconvenience, it ought to be changed or repealed."

The Governor said that he would recommend to the next session of the Legislature that it re-study and examine this law in view of the experience and either modify or repeal it.

(Several months ago, when it became apparent that the new law was causing inconvenience and confusion, Governor Shivers ordered it suspended until it can be reviewed by the Legislature.)

Recent Midwest Earthquake Was Not Area's First

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The recent earthquake that centered near Oklahoma City and shook seven states is the latest in a series of tremors that have disturbed the basin of the Mississippi river over the past 150 years.

Even though the region is not in one of the world's "earthquake belts," such as that ringing the Pacific ocean, the central part of the United States has felt frequent minor tremors and at least one major quake.

Indians had traditions of earthquakes in the Mississippi basin long before the appearance of the white man, and several violent tremors, known as the New Madrid earthquake, altered the face of the river valley in the winter of 1811-12.

Created Lake

This quake wrecked the town of New Madrid, Missouri, dumping much of it into the Mississippi river, whose waters alternately receded and overflowed the banks. Other riverside towns suffered severely, and the water tumbled into depressions formed by the tremor.

Greatest visible change was the creation of Reelfoot Lake, Tennessee, where only forest had stood before. The lake is about 14 miles long and four miles wide. Other lakes and swamps were formed on both sides of the Mississippi.

About 30 persons died in the New Madrid quake, the area being sparsely settled at the time. Such a tremor in modern times would be a major disaster, affecting great industrial cities, numerous small towns and thickly settled farmland.

Other Tremors Noted

Other tremors have been felt in the south-central United States since the New Madrid shock, notably the Memphis earthquake of January 4, 1843, which lasted two minutes and caused people from St. Louis to the Gulf to flee their homes.

The Charleston, South Carolina, earthquake of 1886, which claimed some 100 deaths, was felt in the Mississippi valley region, and distinct tremors have been noted a dozen other times in the past century.

Earthquakes in the Mississippi river area are generally attributed to the settling of rock far beneath the earth's surface. Some have followed heavy floods.

Woman Has A Place In Medicine, Doctors Say

CHICAGO — Some people may think the woman's place is in the home. But, two San Francisco doctors—of the fair sex, of course—think she also has a definite place in medicine.

And, to prove their theory, Drs. Hulda E. Thelander and Helen B. Weyrauch have conducted a study of 230 women physicians, 74 of whom are single and 156 married.

Although the woman doctor has more problems to face than her male counterpart, she "works hard at being a good physician, and, by the selected standards, has succeeded," according to the doctors. The married professional woman, especially, has to deal with problems outside the sphere of either the male or the unmarried professional woman, they pointed out.

"The married woman has two jobs, but the primary one should be the maintenance of a family unit and the rearing of the young," the doctors said. "The woman is the integral part in homemaking. No matter how great recognition a professional married woman attains, she will not be considered a success if she has failed in her home."

The problems peculiar to the married woman doctor include the fact that she does not select her location, but follows her husband, creating her opportunities from the environment in which she finds herself, the survey disclosed. In addition, the bearing of the child and the nurturing of it through early infancy takes energy, devotion, and time which must be subtracted from a career.

Ghost on County Payroll Draws Checks Two Years

CHICAGO—Police check of fingerprint files identified the phantom "Joseph Addison" who has drawn county pay checks for two years but never reported for work. He was identified as Joseph Adduci.

Adduci's checks totaling $6,400 were mailed to the west side address of James Adduci, a state representative. James has a brother named Joseph.

A thumbprint on the physical examination Addison took to get his job with the county matched those of the Joseph Adduci carried in police files. Joseph Adduci has a long police record dating back to 1927.

The names of James Adduci and several of his family appear on some of the cashed Addison checks. However, James Adduci refuses to admit any knowledge of "James Addison."

He told reporters outside a grand jury investigation into the phantom pay roller that he would take a lie test in connection with the case only after the Cook county board president, William N. Erlanson, took one.

SHIVERS AGIN AUTO INSPECTION LAW; 'SHALL CHANGE IT OR REPEAL IT' He says

By Ben Kaplan, Press Staff Writer

Governor Allan Shivers today said that the new auto inspection law should either be modified or repealed.

The Governor told the Press before he left Austin for Houston to make a campaign appearance that he had some ideas for changing the controversial law.

His idea is to take the red tape and confusion out of the law. "The law was intended to bring about real safety and not inconvenience," said Governor Shivers.

"We need to stop killings on the highways. Texas has become the number one State in the United States for murder on the highways."

"The Legislature passed this inspection law by a vote of 117 to 12 in the House of Representatives and 19 to 9 in the State Senate, with the thought that it would save more than 200 Texas lives each year. If the law fails to do this and instead causes confusion and inconvenience, it ought to be changed or repealed."

The Governor said that he would recommend to the next session of the Legislature that it re-study and examine this law in view of the experience and either modify or repeal it.

(Several months ago, when it became apparent that the new law was causing inconvenience and confusion, Governor Shivers ordered it suspended until it can be reviewed by the Legislature.)

Recent Midwest Earthquake Was Not Area's First

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The recent earthquake that centered near Oklahoma City and shook seven states is the latest in a series of tremors that have disturbed the basin of the Mississippi river over the past 150 years.

Even though the region is not in one of the world's "earthquake belts," such as that ringing the Pacific ocean, the central part of the United States has felt frequent minor tremors and at least one major quake.

Indians had traditions of earthquakes in the Mississippi basin long before the appearance of the white man, and several violent tremors, known as the New Madrid earthquake, altered the face of the river valley in the winter of 1811-12.

Created Lake

This quake wrecked the town of New Madrid, Missouri, dumping much of it into the Mississippi river, whose waters alternately receded and overflowed the banks. Other riverside towns suffered severely, and the water tumbled into depressions formed by the temblor.

Greatest visible change was the creation of Reelfoot Lake, Tennessee, where only forest had stood before. The lake is about 14 miles long and four miles wide. Other lakes and swamps were formed on both sides of the Mississippi.

About 30 persons died in the New Madrid quake, the area being sparsely settled at the time. Such a tremor in modern times would be a major disaster, affecting great industrial cities, numerous small towns and thickly settled farmland.

Other Tremors Noted

Other tremors have been felt in the south-central United States since the New Madrid shock, notably the Memphis earthquake of January 4, 1843, which lasted two minutes and caused people from St. Louis to the Gulf to flee their homes.

The Charleston, South Carolina, earthquake of 1886, which claimed some 100 deaths, was felt in the Mississippi valley region, and distinct tremors have been noted a dozen other times in the past century.

Earthquakes in the Mississippi river area are generally attributed to the settling of rock far beneath the earth's surface. Some have followed heavy floods.

Woman Has A Place In Medicine, Doctors Say

CHICAGO — Some people may think the woman's place is in the home. But, two San Francisco doctors—of the fair sex, of course—think she also has a definite place in medicine.

And, to prove their theory, Drs. Hulda E. Thelander and Helen B. Weyrauch have conducted a study of 230 women physicians, 74 of whom are single and 156 married.

Although the woman doctor has more problems to face than her male counterpart, she "works hard at being a good physician, and, by the selected standards, has succeeded," according to the doctors. The married professional woman, especially, has to deal with problems outside the sphere of either the male or the unmarried professional woman, they pointed out.

"The married woman has two jobs, but the primary one should be the maintenance of a family unit and the rearing of the young," the doctors said. "The woman is the integral part in homemaking. No matter how great recognition a professional married woman attains, she will not be considered a success if she has failed in her home."

The problems peculiar to the married woman doctor include the fact that she does not select her location, but follows her husband, creating her opportunities from the environment in which she finds herself, the bearing of the child and the nurturing of it through early infancy takes energy, devotion, and time which must be subtracted from a career.

Ghost on County Payroll Draws Checks Two Years

CHICAGO—Police check of fingerprint files identified the phantom "Joseph Addison" who has drawn county pay checks for two years but never reported for work. He was identified as Joseph Adduci.

Adduci's checks totaling $6,400 were mailed to the west side address of James Adduci, a state representative. James has a brother named Joseph.

A thumbprint on the physical examination Addison took to get his job with the county matched those of the Joseph Adduci carried in police files. Joseph Adduci has a long police record dating back to 1927.

The names of James Adduci and several of his family appear on some of the cashed Addison checks. However, James Adduci refuses to admit any knowledge of "James Addison."

He told reporters outside a grand jury investigation into the phantom payroll that he would take a lie test in connection with the case only after the Cook county board president, William N. Eriksson, took one.
