Shell Cotton Stabbed in Lubbock

Local cotton buyer, in condition in a Lubbock as an aftermath of an assault on a Lubbock man on afternoon, in which stabbed three times, throat and once in the chest.

Incident took place in the afternoon on the 1300 block, Texas street, near the Hoffman building, where two officers twenty minutes ago, according to the sheriff's office.

Condition was probably good, but it was blood transfusion was probable late Thursday afternoon O'Donnell man lost a leg from the time of the hospital attendants could be seen.

Everett Homes Mrs. Glenn Everett of Dallas, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Everett and two sons of the family are visiting in the city.

Mr. Everett was in Clovis to meet Sgt. and Mrs. Everett.

Mr. Warren, who teaches at the school here, spent the week end here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren.

Funeral Services For Child Relative Of Local People

Funeral services for Betty Melverta Terry, aged one year, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bailey Terry of Kiowa, Okla., were held November 6. Death occurred in a McAllister hospital the preceding day, according to word received here by relatives.

In addition to the parents and a small brother, other survivors include the paternal grandmother, Mrs. Betty Terry of O'Donnell, Ted Terry of Lamesa, Raymond Terry, Mrs. J. D. Minchey and Mrs. Rex Mrashall, all of O'Donnell.

Local Druggist Enlists In Navy

Marshall Whitsett, local druggist, who recently enlisted in the Navy as pharmacist's mate, will leave on Sunday for Dallas where he will be assigned his eventual destination.

Popular in his business dealings and civic connections, Whitsett has been in the drug business here for the last 15 years with the exception of about 18 months. In 1936 he purchased the entire stock of his store from his associates, and became sole owner.

Through the years here, Whitsett has always taken an active part in civic affairs, having been an official in the Chamber of Commerce when that organization was maintained in O'Donnell, and served as the first president of the Rotary Club.

Mrs. Whitsett will assume the management of the store after his departure.

Girl Is Born To Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ford

Wynona Ann Ford, weighing about nine pounds, is a new arrival in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ford. She was born on Thursday, November 5th.

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. McDonald were in Fort Worth this week attending a Baptist convention.

Mrs. Thurman Wells was a business visitor in Lubbock Friday.

TO OUR FRIENDS & PATRONS:

Due to my failing health, and prevailing labor conditions, I will not be able to do any more family laundries or finished work. We appreciate your patronage more than mere words can tell and hope it will be possible for you to come and do your own laundry with us or send someone with it.

MRS. W. A. TREDWAY.

Minister Speaks On Civic Pride

More than buildings, the making of money and living into one's self is needed to make a wholesome town if it is to have a soul, so said the Rev. Howard H. Hollowell to Rotary club members Tuesday, November 3, in his noon-day speech.

Civic pride, of a varied nature, is needed, he declared, and with proper humility, made suggestions for the betterment of O'Donnell.

His entire speech to the club is reprinted in the following paragraphs.

We are living in a typical town on the plains of Texas. I am not convinced that those pioneers who built these little cities which dot the plains expended their efforts simply in order to gain wealth for themselves. I do not think they pioneered this part of the State for any selfish reason. Everyone who lives in O'Donnell ought to be proud of the hospitality to be found here. Coming into our little city the other day I asked a man who was walking into town if he would like to ride with me. My inquiry drew the reply that he was from the state of Alabama, and that if he could transplant some of the trees in that state onto the plains of Texas he would live here the rest of his life. This, he said, was for the reason he finds such hospitality and friendliness here.

Certainly we want people who come to O'Donnell to see more than buildings, railroads, gins, highways, and stores. We want them to see back of all we do the same will to build a worthwhile city as they might have seen had they come to this section when the pioneers were first settling the land. We have a great tradition to live for. We have a great heritage.

Now, a city is more than buildings; whether these be dwellings or places of business. If indeed we could find a city which consisted of no more than mere buildings it would be a ghost town -- a body without a soul. A city is a place where we not only make a living, but where we also make our contribution to the world where we rear our children, a place where we perpetrate a way of life which we have all come to revere. Let us be remembered that we will leave this country a better or worse place because we have lived. Let us see our responsibility as the creators and preservers in a democracy which will not stand without our continued best endeavors. Now, with this as a (Continued on page 1)

WILSON McLaurin Writes

Staff Sergeant Wilson McLaurin, who is located "somewhere in the Pacific," has written his mother via V-mail that he is well, getting plenty to eat and acting "sassy."

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Sumrow, brother of Irvin Sumrow, recently moved here from Hunt County to make their home.

Gas Rationing Here Thursday

Due to a postponement of the rationing program until Nov. 19, 20, 21, instead of this week end, local officials are again making plans and asking the cooperation of the public to make every effort to register next Thursday instead of the following two days.

School will be dismissed Thursday, and all teachers will be available to assist in the registration, so S. F. Johnson, school superintendent says.

TAHOKA, November 12 (Special)

Judge C. H. Cain, chairman of the Lynn County Rationing Board, received a telegram Tuesday morning from Mark McGee, state director of the Office of Price Administration advising that the gasoline rationing program had been postponed. Postponement was necessary, it was said, by reason of the fact that it had been impossible to get the ration books in the hands of all the county boards at that time. The telegram was sent from Fort Worth and is as follows:

"Registration for gasoline rationing postponed to November 19, 20, and 21. Effective date of gasoline rationing will be postponed. You will be advised later of actual effective date. All passenger type tires above minimum must be turned in by November 22. Give foregoing information to local newspaper and school superintendents.—Mark McGee, State Director of Price Admin." Announcement received from Washington later stated that rationing had been postponed until December 1.

On the following days, all applicants simply must wait their turns until a teacher may find time to register them, and in some cases, this might take an hour or two.

Be sure and have your application filled out when you arrive at the school. Blanks may be secured at your favorite service station or garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. G. Forgy and Cynthia were in Tahoka Sunday to attend the wedding of Miss Mary Margaret Tunnell to Charles Stewart of Ballinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Major Rodgers and Charles of Levelland visited here on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lamb of Lubbock visited here Wednesday.

Local Men Enter Army Air Forces

A communication from Major W. W. McCollum of the West Texas Recruiting and Induction Office at Lubbock, dated November 7, was received by The Press this week showing the following enlistments from Lynn County in the Air Corps Specialist branch of the service.

Major McCollum also takes occasion to thank The News and other papers of West Texas for the "splendid cooperation" they have given him. "As a result of the effective publicity you are giving to the opportunities for enlistment in the Army," Major McCollum says, "West Texas has a higher percentage of enlistments than any other district in the five states comprising the Eighth Service Command."

The recent enlistments from Lynn County in the Air Corps Specialist branch are given as follows: Otis Odell Bosworth, Post; R. L. Thomas, Tahoka; Lehman James Brown, Tahoka; Dwight Irvin Gryder, Tahoka; Jess Wiley Gross, O'Donnell; Harris Eugene Gardenhire, O'Donnell; Ray Sherrod, Tahoka; Frank Hamilton Briles, Tahoka; Donald Clay Todd, O'Donnell; Edgar Wilson Edwards, Tahoka; Roscoe Conklin Roberts, of Tahoka.

Armistice Day Is Celebrated Here

Observance of Armistice Day was made in O'Donnell by a well-arranged program at the high school auditorium from 11 a. m. until noon by the members of the American Legion here.

A telling, straight - from - the - shoulder talk, which explained every citizen's duty in war-time and his obligations, was made by Lieut. Arthur W. Patton of the Lubbock Flying Field.

The Rev. D. M. Duke, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene, gave the invocation which opened the program. The choir, led by C. H. Mansell, sang America, Star Spangled Banner and God Bless America. Betty Lou McClary gave the reading. In Flanders Field. Gold Star Mothers, parents of men now in service, war veterans of 1918 were all given special recognition.

Mail Early -- And Help Postal Help

The Post Office Department now is starting the most gigantic task in its history -- the movement of a deluge of Christmas parcels cards and letters while maintaining the regular flow of millions of pieces of mail daily to and from our armed forces all over the world.

Indications are that the volume of Christmas mail will be the largest on record. Already in September, latest month for which figures are available, retail sales had reached a level second only to the record month of December, 1941, according to the Department of Commerce. And sales are rising. Such heavy purchases always presage heavy mailings.

If thousands of our soldiers, sailors, marines and civilian friends are not to be disappointed at Christmas time, the public must cooperate by mailing earlier than ever before and by addressing letters and parcels properly. The best efforts of the Post Office Department alone cannot be enough, in view of wartime difficulties faced by the postal system. The public must assist.

About 25,000 experienced postal workers already have been taken by the war services. Arrangements are under way to add thousands of temporary personnel to postal staffs, but this man power is hard to find and is inexperienced. Facilities of railroads and air lines are heavily taxed by movements of huge quantities of war materials and personnel. Extra trucks are almost impossible to obtain. Winter weather, hampering transportation, is beginning.

The free-mailing privilege granted to members of the armed forces has raised their mailings some 30 per cent, it is estimated. Expansion of those forces also is adding rapidly to the postal burden.

The deadline already is past for mailing gifts to Army and Navy personnel overseas with assurance that the parcels will arrive by Christmas. The New York post office reports that in late October, 350,000 such (Continued on last page)

Heavy Artillery, Planes Dominate Action As British Strike at Rommel Positions; See 10 1/2 Billion Farm Income for 1943; Baruch Urged to Make Manpower Study

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The above radiophoto from Cairo, Egypt, shows one result of the initial Allied thrust against the Axis in the western desert. A member of Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps lies dead in the dust following the capture of a forward strong point in the Nazi lines.

SOUTH PACIFIC Costly Exchange

When Navy Secretary Frank Knox told his press conference that Jap fleet units had retired from the scene of action around Guadalcanal and that the "first round of the battle" was over naval experts began trying to figure out who got the decision in the encounter. U. S. citizens heard the bad news first: the navy had lost the destroyer Porter and an aircraft carrier.

Then came news of a bit brighter note: Before the Japs left the area to "lick their wounds" and return for more action, U. S. forces had damaged two aircraft carriers, two battleships and three cruisers. More than 100 enemy airplanes were destroyed and about 50 others probably destroyed in what the navy described as the greatest battle yet fought in the Solomons area.

But the most important result of this heavy sea and air fighting was that it brought at least temporary relief to the hard-pressed marine and army units holding their positions on Guadalcanal itself. The Jap objective in launching the big battle had been to dislodge these outnumbered units who in mid-August had pushed the Japs out.

Meanwhile, dispatches from U. S. headquarters in Australia revealed that land-based army planes had been slashing constantly at Jap positions in the areas of the Buin-Faisi harbor in the northern Solomons and at Rabaul, New Britain island. Forty Jap ships were reported hit in a ten-day period. All of this meant much-needed diversion of Jap strength which was directed at capture of the Solomons, and then pushing forward to cut supply lines from the U. S. to Australia.

DESERT WARFARE: Allied Air Umbrella

Slam-bang warfare continued on the Alamein line between the Mediterranean sea and the Qattara depression in Egypt as Britain's eighth army struck sledgehammer blows at German and Italian positions.

Although Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces struck back savagely, the British infantry held on to early gains. Protected by hundreds of guns and a supreme Allied air umbrella, the infantry jolted enemy troops loose from another section of the Alamein line.

The great tank battles of previous campaigns in the desert were missing in the initial onslaught of the new British drive. Heavy artillery and planes played the dominant role. American fliers strengthened the drive, sweeping over enemy areas, shooting up troop concentrations, tanks and airfields.

Cairo reports to British newspapers said that Allied forces had "trapped several thousand Axis troops" in a narrow pocket west of El Alamein near the Mediterranean coast.

While it was the avowed intention of the British command to destroy Rommel and his army, some sources saw another effect: Germany might be forced to withdraw German planes and men from Russia to meet the even more critical threat on the desert.

FARM INCOME: Increase to Continue

Estimating the net farm income for 1942 at $9,800,000,000, including government payments, the department of agriculture forecast that next year's net income will total approximately $10,500,000,000.

The 1942 figure is about $1,000,000,000 above the previous record of 1919, the department said. Total agricultural production this year is nearly 12 per cent greater than the record set in 1941, and 40 per cent greater than in 1918.

The department stated "October estimates indicated, for the first time, that the corn crop this year may exceed the record set in 1920; and it is being grown on 12 per cent less acreage. Abundant feed supplies and good prices are expected to stimulate increased livestock production again next year. However, unless the weather is again exceptionally favorable it is unlikely that crop production will equal the volume of 1942, when per acre yields appear to be averaging 13 per cent above previous records."

The department reported that military and lend-lease food purchases next year are expected to be 50 per cent greater than in 1942 and will take one-fifth of current farm production. Civilian demands will continue to advance slowly and prices for farm products in 1943 under ceiling limitations will be about 6 per cent above the average estimated for all of 1942.

LABOR SUPPLY: Untapped Source

Even as he disclosed tentative plans for the nation-wide registration of women for work in war industries, President Roosevelt stated that the administration has reached no decision on means of solving the critical man-power problem. He warned against premature conclusions that plans for nation service or "labor draft" legislation have been abandoned.

The President pointed out that legislation will be necessary before the registration of women could be ordered. He emphasized that plans call only for the registration of women (between 18 and 65), and that there are no plans for a labor draft of women.

He stated that his recent meeting with the AFL-CIO labor war cabinet followed this general line:

With approximately 6,000,000 men now in uniform, there are not very many remaining to fill future needs of war industries, which are expected to require from four to five million additional workers. Although the labor supply problem looks satisfactory for the immediate present, wisdom dictates that it be studied from the long-range viewpoint. The registration of women is concerned with these future war needs, it was pointed out.

Baruch Study?

Meanwhile, the board of directors of the United States Chamber of Commerce proposed that the Baruch committee, which studied the rubber problem, now turn to a study of the man-power shortage. The board's statement said that "of the many serious problems now confronting this nation and its people, the problem of the proper use of man-power is undoubtedly paramount."

'Welcoming Committee' on Guadalcanal

Manning a 75 mm. gun amidst a tropical setting on Guadalcanal island in the Solomons, this crew of U. S. marines and many others like it poured shells into the lines of the Japanese invaders. The Japs last heavily in men and equipment as they tried desperately to dent the U. S. lines around the vital Henderson airfield, in an effort to regain it. Meanwhile U. S. warships shelled the enemy's positions on the strategic island.

Rickey Signs Contract to Succeed McPhail

Drying Soldiers' Mail Saved From Sea

Recovered from the sea after the plane carrying it had crashed, this mail, destined for soldiers overseas, is shown as it was carefully dried and sorted at the New York army post office before being re-shipped. The army goes to a great deal of trouble to see that the boys get their mail regularly.

Gets First Rationed Synthetic Retread

At Haupt Trial

Mrs. Gerda Melind, former fiancee of Herbert Haupt, executed Nazi saboteur, is shown as she entered the federal court building in Chicago to testify in the treason trial of friends and relatives of the former Chicago youth. Defendants were charged with sheltering and aiding him in his plans against U. S. war plants.

Nickel-less Nickel

Superintendent of the Philadelphia mint, Edwin Dressel, and his assistant inspect the new nickel-less nickel. The new coin is made of silver, copper and manganese alloy.

'Austerity Suit'

A Melbourne tailor models his own "austerity suit" which he designed when material shortage caused war-limited clothing manufacture in Australia. He used undyed sugar sacks, and the stenciled markings leave no doubt as to their origin.

Attack Desert Fox

This radiophoto shows British infantry running through the dust and smoke of enemy shell fire to attack Gen. Erwin Rommel's advance posts, in the Egyptian desert.

NOTES OF A NEW YORKER IN WASHINGTON

Memos on the Congressional Limited: The FBI personnel is now 12,000 in the field. In 1932 the FBI had only 300 of them. The bureau now has sixty million sets of fingerprints—and every month 125,000 new sets arrive. This is due to the many defense workers in the army, navy, marines, air force, etc. An agent can find a set of prints within two minutes. The exact amount of U. S. currency confiscated in the arrest of the saboteurs was $174,588.62. Director Hoover's reception of the No. 1 attraction used to be kidnap letters of the Weyerhaeuser, the Dillinger mob's weapons, and so forth. It has been replaced by the "saboteur exhibit" detonator caps, fuses for the explosives, the Nazi navy cap with swastika insignia, and "the bomb mechanism we've ever seen." Haupt, one of those executed, was "the brainiest" . . . was 22.

Dorothy Lamour phoned the Dept. and asked the operator to connect her with a Lieutenant. "Who's calling?" was the query. "Dorothy Lamour," lamoured Dorothy.

"Ha, ha!" said the operator. "I'm Queen of the May!" "Really!" replied the star. "Do you happen to see me in 'Beyond the Blue Horizon'?" . . . The operator said she had—so what!

Whereupon Lamour, for the special delight of a Navy phone girl, sang the entire chorus of the film's theme.

Another woman will eventually be arrested by the government, who it is through dealing with more important rable-rousers. She is being watched, of course, but "she can always be taken," it was explained, after a reporter wondered why she was allowed to get away with her campaign of hate and incitement against the President. . . . During recent Federal hearings for others, Federal men trapped her attempting to "persuade a Federal juror" . . . They are holding that charge for the time they need it. . . . When she goes to the clinic, so will her daughter.

This is one way they are getting around Union Czar Petrillo. . . . recording is made of voice only in the U. S.—no music escort. . . . The "master" is sent out of the country where a band playing in American style provides the orchestral background. . . . Both are then recorded to make a complete record of vocal and orchestra. . . . A copy is sent here, manufactured and sold in the U. S. . . . The big idea is to avoid the A. F. of M. recent ruling that "no musician can make recordings in the U.S.A."

It's the brain child of a member of Local 802!!!

Among the famous ships that the 500 Reserve Cadets (at the Coast Guard Academy) train on is the old schooner Atlantic. . . . It was commissioned in 1903 after the Vanderbilts built it to compete in the Transatlantic sailing races sponsored by Kaiser Wilhelm. . . . The Atlantic was the winner, and Wilhelm, said the stories at the time, gave the Vanderbilt tribe "the most expensive gold cup in the world."

When World War I began that gold cup was turned over to our Government, which found that it was worth of pewter!

Washington Rogues' Gallery: The Washington reporters put the spotlight on the Gimme Bloc in Congress last week. It wasn't very pretty to look at either. In fact, the sight of it gave you the same kind of queasy feeling in the middle that comes when you're good and scared. . . . And the way the Gimme Bloc was behaving, there was good reason to be scared.

The matter the Honorables were chewing up was Senator Lee's (Okla.) amendment to the 1939-year-old draft bill. . . . Sen. Lee wanted to dry up the areas around the Army camps. There being Army camps practically everywhere, you wouldn't guess the measure was a prohibition wrinkle unless you looked at it. . . . Sen. Lee is a smart cookie about his brothers in the two Houses. He is wise that lots of the Representatives from the over-bread and by-cracky belts haven't got the "moxie" to nix a blue nose measure. . . . To show that tough fight would cost the office holder his job. His job to him is one grade higher than the fate of his country.

The members of Congress frankly admitted to reporters that they hoped the measure wouldn't lead to a roll call. That would mean that their ballot would be public, with no chance to weasel. . . . They admitted that the Drys back home were laying on the pressure, and it wouldn't be good politics to go against it. How do you like that? The United States is engaged in a war for survival. And these birds make no secret of the fact that getting elected is a matter much more important to them.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

PUNCTURE: The Office of Price Administration has reiterated its approval of a proposal that retail grocers punch holes in the tops of vacuum packed coffee cans to discourage hoarding.

DEPORTED: Twenty-six Germans and five Italians, alleged to have engaged in Nazi and Fascist activities, have been deported from Nicaragua to the United States.

FIRST: First man to drive a Jeep over the new Alaska highway was Lieut. Robert H. Gill of the U. S. army air forces. The 1,450-mile trip from Edmonton, Alberta, to White Horse, Yukon territory, took five days.

BOMBLESS: Much-bombed Malta recently had its first day free of daylight air alerts for several months.

EASY ON THE SUGAR BOWL

With holiday baking time approaching, we've more reason than ever to conserve what sugar we have. Family dinner desserts, therefore, must be the kind that will make the lightest possible demands on family sugar bowl. Fruit gelatins, custards, gingerbreads and canned fruit sauce are among the possibilities.

Old-Timers That Help, Too

A glance at Grandmother's cook book will bring forth a number of delicious old-timers that will find worth reviving—such as

OLD-TIME BAKED RICE CUSTARD-PUDDING

2 cups cooked rice
1/2 cup seedless raisins
2 eggs
1/2 cup sugar
Mix together rice and raisins, and place in buttered baking dish. Beat eggs until light with rotary beater, add sugar and salt, and continue beating to blend thoroughly. Pour scalded milk slowly into egg mixture, strain, and mix with rice and raisins in baking dish. Sprinkle nutmeg generously over the top. Set baking dish in pan of hot water having water reach well up on dish. Bake 1 hour to 1 hour and 15 minutes (or until a silver knife inserted in center of custard comes out smooth and clean). Temperature: 350° F., moderate oven. Size of baking dish — 8 inches in diameter and 3 inches deep.

ENGLISH RICE PUDDING

1 qt. milk
4 tbsp. rice
3 tbsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
Place milk in the top of a double boiler. Add rice, sugar and salt. Cook in an uncovered double boiler until milk is all absorbed by the rice. Stir every 15 minutes during the first hour of cooking to prevent rice from sticking to the bottom of the double boiler, then cook without stirring. When the pudding is done remove it from the stove and allow to cool partially in the double boiler. Add flavoring. Place in a bowl to mold and chill thoroughly. To serve, unmold and decorate with whipped cream and strawberry jam. This makes six servings.
Note: This pudding may be started in the double boiler and then finished in the oven.

PRUNE WHIP

1 cup cut-up, pitted well drained cooked prunes
Confectioners' sugar to sweeten (about 3 tbsp.)
Dash of salt
1 tsp. lemon juice
3 egg whites
Mix prunes with sugar, salt and lemon juice, and chill thoroughly. Beat egg whites until stiff. Carefully fold them into the chilled prune mixture until thoroughly blended. Pile into sherbet glasses, and chill all before serving. If desired, serve with a topping of sweetened whipped cream. This makes 4 to 6 servings.

BAKED PRUNE WHIP

For Baked Prune Whip place mixture in a buttered baking dish (6 inches in diameter and about 2 1/4 inches deep) and set in a pan of hot water (having water come up about 1 inch on dish). Bake 25 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.). Serve warm with a topping of sweetened whipped cream.

Shelled Peanuts $2.00 Ton

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 12 — Extra two dollars per ton is in for growers of oil peanuts who bring their peanuts in sacks instead of in bulk.
The extra payment will be made on shelled quota peanuts, according to F. Vance, chairman, Texas

USDA war board.
He explained that peanuts which are grown under marketing quotas and channeled into edible trade are grown largely on acreages normally devoted to peanuts and where sales methods, handling and storage practices already are established.
The extra two dollars should pay for the costs of sacks and will make the peanuts more easily handled when delivered to cooperating agencies participating in the program.

Vance said.
Under the 1942 purchase program, producers who deliver oil peanuts to cooperative agencies will receive the market value for crushing for oil on the day of delivery, less handling costs, or the support price, announced earlier in the year, whichever is higher.

National Hog Goals Released

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 12 — The 1943 Food for Freedom program got underway recently when the nation's hog farmers were asked to increase spring farrowings by at least 10 per cent over this year's record crop.

Although state production goals have not been received by the Texas USDA war board B. F. Vance, chairman, said that Texas hog farmers would be asked to fall in line with the national increase.

He explained also that hog farmers were requested to market their hogs 10 pounds heavier than they are this year.

The national increase will result in an estimated 1943 slaughter of pork amounting to 13.4 billion pounds dressed weight, compared with slightly more than 11 billion pounds of slaughter this year.

Ever-increasing demands for meat products to the fighting forces, Lend Lease purchases and civilian needs were cited as reasons for the increased production.

Hog producers were urged to plan their 1943 farrowings so that their marketings would avoid the normal marketing peaks, thereby relieving transportation and processing congestion. Particular emphasis was placed upon their earlier-than-usual farrowings, which might result in heavier marketings during the normal late-summer bare spots.

Answering the nation's call for more pigs early in 1942, Vance pointed out that Texas hog farmers saved 1,620,000 head of pigs from spring farrowing, the largest crop on record.

Other Food for Freedom goals probably will be announced in December, the war board chairman said.

Mr. and Mrs. Waldo (Tech) McLaurin returned to Marfa Sunday. Mr. McLaurin is employed there.

Miss Campbell, teacher in the Seminole school, visited Miss Heath, one of the high school teachers, last week end.

VITAMINS FOR YOU
You need vitamins to build a healthy body and to keep fit and strong. The most natural way to get vitamins is by eating the right kind of food — eating enough of it and eating it regularly.

Why We Need Vitamins A, B, C, D
For health's sake it is well to be acquainted with these vitamins and know what they can do.

Vitamin A could be called by a war nickname—the "blackout" vitamin—since it guards against "dry eye" and night blindness. It also guards against infections of the mucus membrane lining of the nose, throat, lungs and other organs of the body, and is needed for growth, healthy bones and good skin.
The Vitamin B group is quite a large family. B1, called thiamin, can be nicknamed the "morale vitamin" because it makes for steady nerves—helps keep one cheerful. Lack of thiamin results in poor appetite, slow heart rate, constipation, and a tired feeling.

Another B vitamin is niacin, or nicotinic acid, which helps nerves and digestion, and prevents pellagra.
Still another B vitamin is riboflavin, which is needed for health and normal growth. If a diet is deficient in this vitamin, sores may develop around the nose and mouth, the eyes may be overly sensitive to light, and become bloodshot.

Vitamin C's scientific name is ascorbic acid. This vitamin makes healthier tissues, particularly bones, teeth, and gums, and is well known as the "scurvy fighter."

Vitamin D is a two-way vitamin—it can be obtained from sunshine as well as from food. This vitamin helps bones and teeth grow strong and straight.

How To Get Your Vitamins
Bright colors — yellow, green, orange, sometimes red, are often signals of vitamin A value which one can get by eating ripe yellow and green vegetables and some red ones, such as tomatoes. Liver, butter and eggs are good sources.

B vitamins come in many foods. Some of these foods contain only one or two of the vitamin B group—others have more. Among those having thiamin, niacin and riboflavin are: whole eggs, milk, lean beef and mutton, liver, cabbage, collards, cowpeas, kale, mustard greens, peanuts, dried or green peas, spin-ach, soybeans, tomatoes, and turnip greens.

Vitamin C is found in citrus fruits and several other fruits, tomatoes, kidney, liver, and many vegetables.
When sunlight meets the skin directly vitamin D is formed. Butter, cream, whole eggs, and egg yolks, whole milk, some fish, and fish liver oils are sources of vitamin D.

THE SECRET OF THE MARSHBANKS

BY KATHLEEN NORRIS

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: An orphan since the age of seven, Charlotte (Cherry) Rawlings has been attending Saint Dorothea's school for girls. She knows almost nothing about her early history, but has gradually come to realize that she has no family. When she is twenty Judge Judson Marshbanks comes to arrange for her to quit the convent. He is her co-guardian with Emma Haskell. Cherry remembers Emma as her mother's nurse, and when the Judge tells her that Emma has gotten her a secretarial position with the wealthy Mrs. Porteous Porter in San Francisco, where Emma is now housekeeper, Cherry hopes that Emma will tell her more about herself. She goes first to the Marshbanks mansion and dines alone with the Judge as Fran, his young wife, and his niece, Amy, are dining out. Kelly Coates, an artist, drops in. It is evident to Cherry that Fran and Kelly are interested in each other. Cherry falls easily into her job with Mrs. Porter, who is old and semi-invalid. She is jealous when she sees Kelly and Fran at a party given by Mrs. Porter, and when he stops to talk with her she says he will never think anything of her because she is a Saint Dorothea's girl. Emma tells Cherry that her sister Charlotte was Cherry's mother. Kelly, with Fran in his old car, picks up Cherry while she is hiking and takes her to his Sausalito studio.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER VII

After lunch he begged them to leave the table disorder just as it was because he could not wait another moment to show them his paintings.

—and they went to the big barn studio and while Kelly dragged out and dusted canvas after canvas, and Fran was looking and commenting. Neither one assumed any knowledge of his art, but he accepted their criticisms gratefully and pointed out details of technique with no thought that he might be leaving his audience somewhat behind him.

Presently, Fran drifted to the great north window that had been cut down to the floor, and stood looking dubiously between long homespun curtains at the now steadily falling rain. Kelly went over to stand beside her, and after a moment Cherry returned to the house thrilled by the mere nearness of their emotion and realizing what this moment alone might mean to them. For she had not been blind and deaf to the apparently casual phrases and glances that had been sprinkled through the luncheon talk; she was not unaware that Judge Marshbanks was Othello; she had even heard Fran at a moment when she supposed herself out of hearing in the kitchen answer some remark of Kelly's with a patient: "Because he may find out about it and it'll be all right if I say she was along!" and then, in another second: "No, but I did promise, Kelly, and I'm breaking my promise."

Cherry had heard no more, and what she did hear had not surprised her. She had surmised from a quick, open remark or two made in the car that Judge Marshbanks had asked his wife not to see Kelly, and that the two had met by chance and were risking a discovery that might have been extremely uncomfortable for them both.

And when she found herself alone in the kitchen, she began to feel a certain shame and discomfort in the part she was playing in their secret. She felt ashamed for them and for herself.

When the kitchen clock said quarter to four, she went back to the barn. Fran and Kelly were still standing at the window looking out at the rain that was mingling now with an early dusk.

It was raining steadily again when they went out to the open car. Fran had refused Kelly's suggestion that they telephone for a taxi. She had said, "We're late now! We'll be home in twenty minutes; let's make a dash for it!"

The women were bundled into snug raincoats with bandannas tied over their heads. They packed themselves into the wide seat and raised an umbrella close over them. A quarter of a mile down the hill there was a bad turn and Cherry felt the horrible sensation of wheels skidding, and instantly they were wedged in a ditch with the engine's nose stuck into a dripping bank.

When repeated efforts had proved that the car would not move with its load, Cherry and Fran got out and stood still, laughing philosophically under their umbrellas.

"Don't hurry. I'm just as good as divorced now," Fran's voice with its poignant note of laughter and tears said calmly.

"This'll only take a minute," Kelly struggled gallantly for fully ten minutes, his arms wrenching at the steering wheel, his face red. "Damn it!" he muttered under his breath, as the wheels spun around uselessly in a deepening groove of soft earth.

"We'd better go back, I think, and telephone for a taxi," Fran said.

"Lord, I'm sorry about this," the man said apologetically. "The old bus never let me down before!"

Sausalito could supply no taxi but San Francisco obligingly offered to send one.

While they waited Cherry telephoned Emma; she had come with friends to Sausalito; they were delayed by the storm; they tell Mrs. home in an hour; please tell Mrs. Porter that she was sorry. Emma answered that the old lady had felt ill after luncheon and was in bed, so that Cherry need not hurry. This

After lunch he begged them to leave the table disorder just as it was because he could not wait another moment to show his paintings—relieved Cherry's mind.

Fran was restless and uneasy and Kelly miserably aware of it. His happy day was having the worst possible conclusion; he had long exhausted apology and encouragement, and could only settle down with his guests at the fire and make the best of a bad job.

It seemed a long, long time before the honk of a taxi was heard outside. Fran insisted that Kelly should not come with them; they said hurried good nights and were off.

"Cherry," Fran said then, calling her by her name for the first time, "will you do me a great favor?"

"Of course," Cherry said with a slightly quickened beat at her heart and a puzzled look.

"I want you to come home with me. It's perfectly obvious," Fran explained, "that we've been caught in the rain together. I want my husband to know that you were with me."

Cherry was strangely stirred. Fran, the remote and proud, had made her the recipient of her confidence, or at least part of it. She said that she would gladly go home with Fran before going on to her own destination.

Fran did not pursue the subject further, and at six o'clock they entered the front door of the Marshbanks house. Molly and Martin, maid and butler, came forward immediately, and Fran asked anxiously if Judge Marshbanks was at home. No, not yet? Cherry felt the relief in her voice. Where was Rousseau?

"Right here, Madame," The chauffeur appeared and Fran drew him aside for a moment's talk.

"Rousseau says Jud had to go to San Jose to court this afternoon," she then said as she and Cherry went upstairs, "and he's coming back late with Mr. Trotter. So that's all right! You poor child, you're shivering. I have to go out to dinner, but why don't you stay and have some with Amy? The poor mouse is in bed with a cold!"

"Yes, do, yes, do!" called Amy from her room, and her first gesture of friendliness so warmed Cherry's heart that she could go to the room door and look in upon its pinkness and warmth and coziness as she explained: "I'm all wet and horrid!"

"Take a bath in my room, here; I'm dying of loneliness; all my friends are afraid," Amy said eagerly. "You've just been taking care of flu, so you're in no danger. Stay and have supper and talk. I'll lend you a hostess dress."

"I'd love it," Cherry said gladly. She was about to enter when an unexpected and unfamiliar voice behind her made her turn and find herself facing Fran and also facing a magnificently impressive older woman, a woman of perhaps seventy, who was staring at her with a surprised and unfriendly eye.

Fran had been welcoming this stranger, commenting upon her arrival a few days earlier than she had been expected from Florida, explaining her own plight. Now she introduced Cherry: "Miss Rawlings, Gran. Cherry, this is Mrs. Marshbanks, the judge's mother."

"Miss who?" demanded the old lady sharply, following Fran after a perfidious nod to Cherry.

Cherry heard Fran murmuring in answer: the words were indistinct but her tone was conciliatory and apologetic. Suddenly the other woman's voice sounded clearly just before Fran's bedroom door closed:

"Of course I know who she is; I knew the minute I saw her! And I won't have Amy know her; I won't have her in this house!"

Cherry stood still for a moment, idly reflecting upon the bad temper of this proud, handsome old lady. At the moment it did not occur to her to attempt to give these words significance, still less to connect them in any way with her insignificant self. But they remained indelibly imprinted upon her memory, and the day came when they found their rightful place in her story.

Judge Marshbanks came into the room while Amy and Cherry were talking and seemed pleased to find them so cozy and friendly. He was tired after a long day in the San Jose court, and regretted frankly that he could not have supper with his niece and her companion.

"But Fran and I are going out to dinner and I must go and dress," he said. "So you got caught in the rain, did you, Cherry?"

"Oh, we were drowned!" Cherry said.

"Over at Coates' place, eh?"

"Things going pretty well over at the Porter house?"

"They've both been sick, you know, Mrs. Porter and — and Emma." She flushed brightly on the last word; it seemed disloyal still to call her no more than that.

But evidently he saw nothing amiss. He told her that she looked very nice in that thing of Amy's, and that Rousseau was taking Fran and him to the dinner and would then come back and wait for Cherry.

"Oh, I can walk! Only two blocks and it's stopped raining," she protested. But he would not hear of it. Rousseau was to call for them after their dinner party at half past ten; he would be on service anyway.

"Well, be good. Come and see us again, Cherry," the judge said, and when he was gone the girls fell to eager talk again.

There was a light in Emma's room when she quietly climbed the stairs. Cherry went in, sat down near the bed and poured out the story of the day.

Emma listened in the convalescent's mood of weary content until Cherry came to the request from Fran that Cherry on the return trip come first to the Marshbanks house.

"Why on earth didn't she drop you here if you were dripping wet?"

"Well, we weren't quite dripping. We'd sort of dried out over at Mr. Coates' place. But she was worried for fear Judge Marshbanks would be mad at her."

"For going to have lunch with Mr. Coates?"

"They've got an awful crush on each other, Aunt Emma."

The title slipped as she heard her voice saying it, and Emma's slow flush burning in her thin cheeks in answer.

"I can't help it. I think of you as 'Aunt Emma' now," Cherry said, laughing, but a little frightened.

"You can call me anything you like," Emma conceded briefly. "So Mrs. Marshbanks thinks she's in love with this painter?" she asked.

"He's certainly in love with her," Cherry answered.

"I've never met Judge Marshbanks' second wife," Emma said, reflectively, "but I've seen her, and she looks like one of the women who live for that sort of thing. They're always the ones with good husbands too."

"He didn't seem very angry. He came into Amy's room, and he was awfully nice. Amy'd had flu, and since we'd had it here, there didn't seem to be much danger of my bringing it back, and so I had supper with her. We had it on trays, and it was lots of fun!"

"I thought you didn't like Amy," Emma said, quietly watchful.

"I didn't," Cherry had a swift moment of surprise that Emma knew it. "She was extremely snobbish when we had the dance here for Dorothy," she said; "but she was lovely tonight. Oh, and Aunt Emma! Her grandmother is back; she got back today. She wouldn't come into Amy's room because of the flu, but she brought her all sorts of things—you're sick again!"

"No; just a little faint. I don't believe I'll ever get my strength back again," Emma whispered.

In the morning, old Mrs. Porter had a serious setback and was dangerously ill.

A few strange days—a week went by; doctors came and went; Judge Marshbanks had a long talk with Emma. The telephone and the doorbell, both muffled, were constantly in action. All the world wanted to know how old Dovey Porter was faring.

Just two weeks from the rainy day when Cherry and Fran had come home truant from Topcote, the old lady quietly passed away.

The judge and Amy and Fran came to the funeral in the cathedral with hundreds of other black-clad folks. Cherry and Emma with the entire domestic staff were modestly placed at the side of the church.

THINGS THAT MAR FAMILY LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 27:30-35; Matthew 5:31, 32; Luke 12:13-15.

GOLDEN TEXT—Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ—Galatians 6:2.

Home is what you make it! Oh, yes, there may be circumstances which hinder us from doing what we would like—such as poverty, illness, unemployment, etc. These are things we cannot control and certainly they do have a bearing. But man or woman when of the right spirit can triumph over such matters and make even the poorest home the gateway to heaven. It is a matter of the attitude of heart and mind. Our lesson then is very practical, for it deals with those sins which mar family life.

Whatever our circumstances may be, we can and must turn away from sin—and in this case, the sins which hinder the home from being what it ought to be. God has provided victory over sin through Christ for all who believe in Him.

What then are the sins which stand as the enemies of the home?

I. Deceit (Gen. 27:30-35).

Whatever the circumstances of the home may be, there can be absolute honesty and candor in the dealings between members of the family.

Our recent study of the story of Jacob and Esau showed us the sad consequences of the deceit practiced by Jacob and his mother in defrauding Esau. Many elements entered in, the favoritism of the mother toward one son, the envy that the brother had of his elder brother's birthright, the wicked scheming of mother and son to outwit the aged father—all a very distressing picture of a home shot through with deceitfulness. To build anything of permanent value on such a foundation was quite impossible.

The family in which deceitful means are used by husband or wife to gain some advantage for self or a favored child is heading for the rocks and needs to turn about and get into the channel of truth and uprightness before it is too late.

II. Divorce (Matt. 5:31, 32).

One of the most destructive elements of modern life is that of divorce. Terrifying statistics could be quoted, but they are not nearly as moving as the knowledge most of us have of broken homes, delinquent children, decadent morals, etc., ad nauseam. The victims of this deadly evil are primarily the children who are sent on into life with disordered minds and hearts.

Jesus declared that the decree of divorce allowed by Moses was not an abrogation of God's original law in this matter. Because of the "hardness of their hearts" (Mark 10:4) Moses permitted it, but the standard of God was and (note this please!) is unchanged.

Marriage, as we saw in our lesson of November 1, is God's plan for the perfect union of the man and woman whereby the two become one in the sight of God. That means that the tie is not one to be dissolved at will or on some purely legal ground; it is an inseparable union.

The only exception recognized by Scripture (v. 32) is that act of unfaithfulness which is such a breach of the holy union as to virtually destroy it. Perhaps it might be called a recognition of the breaking of the union rather than an exception. Adultery is a heinous sin, an extremely serious violation of God's law. Let us press that fact home today when it is so lightly regarded in our sinful generation.

III. Desire (Luke 12:13-15).

Money is necessary and may be a blessing, but the "love of money is the root of all evil" (I Tim. 6:10). That is not just a verse in the Bible. It is the true picture of the thing which has destroyed the happiness of millions.

Here was a quarrel over an inheritance, and in meeting it our Lord laid down a principle which would solve all the money quarrels in every home—and they are endless in number and great in bitter destructiveness.

"Man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (v. 15). Write it large over the minds and hearts of the boys and girls in our homes! Let it control in the attitude of father and mother toward money. It will solve not only the money problems of the home, but will send the children forth into life with a foundation philosophy that will bless them to the end of their days.

Notice verse 14. It is the desire for money that most often makes man desire to be a judge over his brother. The big eyes of envy cause him to look with bitter desire upon what his brother has and he wants. The fine principle of sharing the family's possessions would do much to knit the home into a unit—happy, strong and useful to both God and man. The point is to say "ours" rather than "mine," and to ask, "What can we do?" not, "What can I get?"

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative-Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative-Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Japan now controls about 80% of the rubber plantations of the world.
Regardless of whether synthetic rubber is made from petroleum, grain, shrubs or chemicals, it will some time before our owners will be able to purchase synthetic rubber tires. War purposes have first call.
A tombstone marks the spot near Sussex, England, where a tire that had served its owner 18 years was ceremoniously buried.
300 rubber parts, not including tires and tubes, are used in the modern automobile. Without rubber the car would truly be a "jolt" wagon.
There is talk these days of replacing 18,000,000 tires a year. Quite a jump from the 3,500,000 recaptured - retreaded mark of 1937.
Automobiles were over 50% of all U. S. farms in 1940; 15.5% of the farms had motor trucks and 23.1% motor tractors.

(Continued on page 6) background, let me ask what it takes to make a good town. Civic Pride Needed Since we are accustomed to designate so many things by initials today, I shall designate these essentials by use of three "C's." The first "C" is civic pride. It is just too bad for any town if the profit motive alone is the moving force behind all of its endeavor. I believe in legitimate profits for all. I believe all of us, beginning with the preacher and moving upward, I say moving upward from the preacher because that's about the only direction one might take financially if he began

Harley Sadler's Show Here Over Weekend

HARLEY SADLER,

Veteran West Texas showman, who is bringing his always popular troupe here for a Fall engagement. New plays, new vaudeville features are to be seen, and as usual, everything is kept clean so that persons of both sexes, all ages may attend.

"clean up," so to speak. But let us remember that a city is made of more than money, and if adequate provision is not made for all, our prosperity is not worth its name. I know some of you are saying there is a job for all and if any man wants to he can secure employment. There are some among us who are not physically able to work. We owe a debt to them too. But wholesome recreation and economic security are not enough. We must have adequate provision for the spiritual needs of our city. You men of the Rotary Club represent the business life of this community. It is to you we must look for leadership. You are surely interested in more than a mere financial profit for yourselves or for the companies you represent. We must have a spiritual program adequate for the needs of all. The man in overalls must be made welcome into our midst, whether at church or elsewhere. This is necessary in order that we shall have a sense of direction. Our challenging ideal is not very valuable unless it helps to keep our sense of direction, and thus to know where we are going as a town. Civic pride is indispensable; a challenging ideal is a necessity, but these are not all.

Cooperation The third "C" is cooperation. This means that we must sometimes submit to things we do not heartily endorse. This means that when the careful judgment of all has been passed, we must submit to this verdict, as a city. A man may see a way to make a dollar, but he has no right to make that dollar if in making it he is hindering some other man. His first question before entering upon any enterprise should be, "Will this be for the common good, or only for my own selfish gain?" Cooperation with each other will help us as a town to always be in position to speak with great effectiveness. I want you every one to know that I seek above all else to avoid clanishness. We all would abhor that. But when the good of all has been considered, we can, in cooperative fashion, speak the sentiments of the town as a whole. We have merchants here who have helped to build the city. They are entitled to a voice in the way it shall be run. If we cooperate we will be in position to speak our sentiment to any man who comes into town to "make a haul" during the rush season of the fall, and who in violation of the wishes of the most of us and in violation of the laws of the State, throws open his doors on Sunday and threatens to open the whole town. This can be avoided through cooperative effort. We, as merchants and professional men alike, must recognize there is enough business for all to have a living, and that what is good for one is good for all. I do not want any person here to think I am trying to dictate the policies of O'Donnell. But everywhere I go as a minister, whether to stay one year or six, I consider that place my home. If the Methodist Conference meeting in Sweetwater on November 11, sees fit to return me to this city to pastor this church next year, I assure you now I shall be found then, as I have the

They're the kind of words that gain strength with every repetition—because you know the meaning behind them! You know it takes money to fight a war: billions of dollars. And you know that that money has to come from each and every one of us—whether we sit behind a desk, stand in an assembly line, or stay at home. So when you see that urge over and over again—"Buy U. S. War Bonds"—you stop to think whether you're really buying all you can. Ten per cent of your pay is swell; but maybe there are some non-essentials which you just haven't gotten around to doing without: silly little expenditures that are nothing more than self-indulgences. You know—our boys fighting on land, on sea and in the air—they're not getting any pampering; they're fighting this war with bombs and guns and bayonets—and plenty of them won't come home—their lives are at stake. You're not asked to match that—but every fighting man, and Uncle Sam, asks you to buy more War Bonds! Take your change in War Savings Stamps—or at least part of it. You'll never miss the small amounts, and you'll be surprised at how quickly you accumulate enough War Savings Stamps to buy another Bond! # Women Purchasers Can Aid U. S. Farmers

Planning Family's Diet With Farm Production Helps U. S. War Effort

America's 6,000,000 farmers today aren't feeding a mere 100,000,000 citizens of the United States. They are also responsible for filling huge gaps in the food supplies of most of the free world—the uniformed and civilian.

This is a large order. They will need all the help they can get from the consumer at home who are to continue to fill steadily increasing orders from the United Nations.

The consumer is a woman. If you're a man, you'll probably say, "Hey! What about me?" Well, mister, you're practically invisible when it comes to deciding what you'll eat and what you'll wear. Women buy 80 per cent of the food sold and 75 per cent of the clothing. Further than that, they influence almost all customer purchasing.

Fresh vegetables head the market list of this housewife. Her family is well-nourished because America's farmers are doing their part for wartime health and efficiency.

This is where the housewife can offer one of the greatest contributions to winning the war. She can see to it that the diet of her family fits in with farm production and the shortages created by the war. She should be informed on the problems involved in producing the foods she wants and getting them into her hands.

homes, prevention of market scarcities and glutted markets, and provision of benefits in price and quality.

The Victory Specials, announced from week to week, are a part of this plan. They use up products which are plentiful, often preventing waste and loss to the farmer, and allowing the buyer to take advantage of diet variations at a better price.

CONSUMER'S CREED

- will buy what is plentiful.
- will buy what is fresh.
- will buy what is produced locally.
- will buy what the government asks me to buy through the Victory Food Program.
- will not hoard or waste food.

history. At the same time, annual income payments nationally increased some 20 billions of dollars. At crop goals met and passed, an income increase of over 17 per cent, don't mean that the housewife can go out and buy whatever she wants and as much as she wants.

Since Pearl Harbor, the consumer has undergone radical changes. "Scarcity," "ceiling price" and "rationing" have become common words.

Food is no longer readily available if the housewife has the price to pay. Some of her old-time staples are on the "scarce" list, items such as tea, bananas, coffee and sugar.

Of the farm consumers, the urban population, comprise over 75 per cent of the population of the United States. Foodstuffs and clothing combined amount for about 40 per cent of every dollar spent by the average urban family.

It is therefore obvious that at no previous time has women's good judgment in buying been more important. Give Consumer Protection. Urging consumers—and reminding them means women—to take heed of the farmer's problems, and to take out the little-known fact that the U. S. department of agriculture return does not forget consumer protection in its farming for freedom program.

When the housewife buys fresh vegetables from day to day, she is likely to think much about the fact that the vegetables arrived on her schedule, that they were in sufficient quantity and that the price is "right." It's only when those conditions didn't exist that she begins to wonder how her table is served.

When she would learn that by taking the "long view" for both farmer and consumer safety, the overall national program results in uniform distribution of farm commodities, an even flow of goods into just took it for granted. Curtailment of shipping, due to the war, cut off important sources of raw materials, of which sugar is one. At the same time, industrial uses of sugar have increased.

Today's price ceiling on sugar, however, is lower than might have been expected. For this the buyer can thank a sugar program which provides payments to growers that are helping them step up production.

Conservation on the farm may seem a far cry from top quality lettuce or potatoes or green beans. It may seem even farther from tender meats or milk rich in butter fat. And farther still from lower prices.

But farmers know, and consumers should be aware, that soil-building and soil-conserving practices mean larger yields and better quality. Well-nourished land produces better crops than depleted soil.

Wholesomeness Guaranteed.

Regulatory laws administered by the United States department of agriculture directly affect homes and consumer income and buying power. Consumers are protected against mis-branding, substitutions and swindling by the Pure Food and Drug act. It provides a safeguard for wholesome foodstuffs, thereby protecting both health and pocketbook.

Research activities of the department are equally related to consumer interests. Sixty-five research "laboratories" have experiments constantly in process.

They don't just develop cloth from milk and plastics from soybeans. They also determine methods of increasing production and strengthening the quality of farm products.

Foods are carefully analyzed by experts so that their vitamin and mineral content can be accurately given. Nutrition studies set up minimum food requirements, show how they may be met at the least cost and what available foods may be substituted for those on the scarce list or headed that way.

Steering Food Purchases.

These nutrition studies are of particular interest to the housewife. She is faced with the problem of providing her family with enough to eat to maintain health and efficiency.

Something known as "acreage allotment" is now being used to increase production of certain crops needed for the war, a part of the change-over from normal peacetime farming to all-out war production. The farmer is converting his fields to war production just as surely as the manufacturer turns his machines from automobiles to airplanes.

Production without adjustment would be inexcusable waste at any time. In wartime it is criminal.

What Crop Reserves Do.

Probably Mrs. Average Housewife wouldn't be able to tell you what an Ever-Normal granary is—but she's enjoying the advantages of living under a farming system that provides for crop reserves. In recent years, lots of wheat, corn and other products have been stored against a time when crops might be smaller or demands greater. When drouth once pushed corn production as much as 40 per cent below normal, meat prices skyrocketed and consumers suffered hardships. But now with the Ever-Normal granary's stored reserves of more than 25 per cent of a normal year's crop, there is plenty of feed to convert into meat, eggs, and dairy products.

"Crop insurance" has a formidable sound, but it is a simple procedure that pays big dividends to the consumer as well as to the producer who meets the premiums. Such insurance keeps farmers in business producing needed goods by guaranteeing them, for example, some wheat or cotton income every year even if a crop fails. This protection gives farmers the assurance they need to go in for production of critical war crops.

That's consumer protection for everybody, even if it doesn't occur to the woman who buys a loaf of bread.

Housewives are currently faced with the necessity of cutting down on sugar, once so much a part of their regular purchases that they

Paint Your House Gutters, Downspouts

Gutters and downspouts, if damaged or ruined by rust or corrosion during this wartime period of metal scarcity, are likely to result in discomfort to the owner, to say nothing of the further damage that may be caused by inability to carry the water from rains away from the house. Many a home owner who has had to give attention to these important parts of his house has been dismayed to find them full of holes and leaks, and sometimes actually collapsing. Such neglect is a sad waste at any time, but in wartime, with such items becoming practically irreplaceable for the duration, it becomes a near tragedy. The best insurance against such loss is thorough removal of all surface rust and corrosion, followed by prompt protection of the metal by painting or varnishing. All gutters and downspouts should be painted.

Postoffice

parcels were handled daily in office alone.

The Post Office Department is making strenuous efforts to such a terrific jam as it had in 1918 under similar conditions during the First World War. Success in these efforts—and many heartaches for its part—will depend on the cooperation of the public in shipping early.

Tips on How to—Improve Your Lighting

Change Blackened Bulbs

Long before a lamp bulb burns out it often begins to turn dark and gives out less light than new, bright bulbs. You'll get better light if you replace blackened bulbs in reading lamps with new bulbs, and use the darkened bulbs on back porches, in closets or other places where the amount of light isn't important.

It's Easy to Replace Burned-out Fuses

You can save time and trouble by having a few spare fuses on hand if one should burn out. Just disconnect the appliance that caused the fuse to burn out, pull out the main light switch to cut off the current and then change the blown fuse for a new one.
