Clyde Girl Bride Of Abilenian In Home Rites

Marriage of Louise Barton, daughter of Mrs. W. B. Barton of Clyde, and J. B. Paylor, son of M. B. Paylor of Abilene, was solemnized Saturday evening at the home of the bride's mother. The Rev. V. W. Tatum of Cross Plains read the service.

A blue embroidered marquisette was the bride's wedding gown and she wore a corsage of pink carnations. For ornament she wore an antique gold bracelet which was worn by her maternal grandmother at her wedding. A tailored beige suite was the bride's traveling costume.

Attending the bride was her cousin Jewell Barton of Big Spring. She wore a gray lace dress and corsage of pastel sweet peas. The bridegroom's best man was R. L. Perkins of Abilene.

After a honeymoon trip to Dallas and Fort Worth, the couple will live in Abilene.

Mrs. Paylor was graduated from Hardin Simmons university. She taught one year at Wylie, and has been a teacher of music for the past several years at Clyde.

Wind-Rain Storm Does Some Damage

A heavy wind, hail and rain storm did considerable damage to the Frank Browning apple orchard three miles west of Baird where the damage is estimated to amount to more than $2000.00. The Browning orchard of 70 acres covered by bearing delicious apple trees, the largest apple orchard in Texas.

Many trees were stripped of apples and considerable permanent damage was done to the trees.

The storm struck an area two miles wide east and west and five miles long between Baird and Clyde, where much damage was done to corn, maize and gardens.

"Invent A Word For Housewife Contest"

A growing "suspicion" that West Texas women resent being called "housewives" prompts a radio contest to find a new name for the home maker, C. F. Elliott local manager for the West Texas Utilities Company, announced yesterday.

Prizes valued at approximately $500 will be awarded in the contest, he said. The grand prize will be a largesized electric refrigerator (Frigidaire).

The contest will begin July 5, lasting six weeks. It will be conducted over Radio Stations KG KL, San Angelo and KRBC Abilene, and will be supplemented by newspaper advertising in their broadcasting radius. Details of the contest, Mr. Elliott said, will be given on the company's woman's news programs over the two stations Monday morning at 9:15 o'clock in Abilene and 9:30 o'clock in San Angelo.

Women will be invited to invent a substitute name for "housewife" and explain why they prefer that particular name in a 100 word letter, it was learned. Second prize will be choice of electric dishwasher or washing machine, and third prize will be a food mixer. The next 10 best names will each win their author a small electric appliance.

EPISCOPAL SERVICES

Rev. Willis P. Gerhart will hold short evening prayer service and preach at the Episcopal Chapel of the Lord's Prayer Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Miss Pauline Marland of Abilene will preside at the organ for the service.

See Texas In Fore Front of Farm Chemurgic Move

Texas, as the nation's most versatile and prolific producer of both agricultural and industrial raw materials, should be in the forefront of the Farm Chemurgic movement which is sweeping through the South, according to a report of the All-South Development Council which summarizes possibilities of "putting chemistry to work for the farmer", which is what Farm Chemurgic means.

At the recent national meeting in Detroit of the two-year-old Farm Chemurgic Council, Wirt Davis Dallas banker, was awarded the Pioneer Cup "as the individual who had given greatest service in the field of chemurgic effort within the year" honoring his leadership of the group of Texans whose enterprise is bringing to this state the South's first newsprint mill, a $5,000,000 project.

In addition to the vast East Texas pine forests which constitute the primary physical resource making possible Texas' coming leadership in this field, the Lone Star state has "the makings" for virtually every other agri-mechanic conversion industry embraced by the growing chemurgic idea, and needs only to match its physical wealth with vision and enterprise to lead the whole parade, the Council's report said.

Photographic film "grown" in Texas rice fields, sweet-potato automobile fuel, soy bina telephones and door-knobs, cotton-upholstered highways, cottonseed "silk" stockings, automobile fenders made from hemp, and "home grown" fireproof building materials, these are a few of the chemurgic possibilities which in the next decade will bring wealth to agriculturists who can grow the products of the soil and merchandise them to those determined to make the marriage of agriculture and industry a lasting one, and bring an unprecedented wave of industrialization to the South.

Taylor County Old Settlers Reunion

The Taylor County Old Settlers will hold their annual reunion at Buffalo Gap, Friday, July 16.

Governor R. C. Stanford of Arizona will be the guest and principal speaker at the reunion. Invitations to speak have been extended and accepted by Attorney General William McCraw, Senator Morris Sheppard and Federal Judge Whitfield Davidson.

The evening of the celebration an Indian pageant will be staged by picked troops from the Chisholm Trail Boy Scouts under the direction of Executive Ed Shumway. Harvest dances of the Indians under a camp fire setting will be depicted.

Some of the best old time fiddlers in this section have written their promise to be present and furnish entertainment for the old settlers.

Tom Bleasoe, president of the Association extends a cordial invitation to the citizens of Callahan County to attend the reunion

Mrs. Earl Haley who has been seriously ill in a Big Spring hospital following an appendix operation, is convalescing and was brought to her home in Baird Wednesday accompanied by Mrs. Roch Hart. They came on the Sunshine Special and Mrs. Haley stood the trip well and was reported resting well yesterday afternoon.

Rev. Scoggins Only Minister, In Cowboy's Association Is Attending Reunion At Stamford

Rev. J. A. Scoggins, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Baird, is attending the Texas Cowboy's Reunion at Stamford.

Rev. Scoggins is the only minister in the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference who is eligible to membership in the Cowboys' Association of the Texas Cowboy Reunion and will attend and take part in the parade and events on all three days.

Mrs. Everette Williams is representing Baird as sponsor, Miss Curly Seale, who was 'Miss 1932' of the Reunion was named as one of the hostess.

Mullican Family Return From Visit To Tennessee

E. B. Mullican and daughter, Mrs. J. B. Whalen of Wink and Mrs. Sam Stinson of Big Spring returned Wednesday from a trip to McMinnville, Tennessee, where they attended the family reunion of the Mullican and Thaxton families.

They also visited Lookout Mountain, Chickamanga, Florence, Ala. Corinth, Mississippi and Memphis Tennessee. They were accompanied on the trip which was made in Mrs. Whalen's car by Alice and Johnnie Iverson, of Big Spring and Elbertine Whalen of Wink grandchildren of Mr. Mullican. Mervin Bruce and J. B. Whalen Jr., Sam Stinson, Jr. and Conrad Iverson remained with their grandmother in Baird.

Mrs. F. Hollingshead Seriously Ill

Mrs. Fred Hollingshead is seriously ill in the Hendrick Memorial hospital at Abilene. Mrs. Hollingshead underwent surgery at the hospital two weeks ago and seemingly was doing well and had been brought home when Friday of last week kidney complications set up and she was carried back to the hospital Friday night. She has been critically ill, but late yesterday her condition was reported some better.

Mr. Hollingshead and sons Olaf Fayne, and Billy are at her bedside.

SERVICE AT DEEP CREEK SUNDAY

W. E. Hawkins, Jr., of the KR LD Radio Revival, Dallas, will hold services at the Deep Creek camp ground Saturday night, July 3rd and Sunday morning July 4th at 11 o'clock.

Everyone cordially invited to attend the services.

Mrs. C. B. Holmes and son C. B. Jr. and Mrs. Gussie Surlis of Austin are visiting Mrs. Holmes daughter, Mrs. Frank Bearden.

or substitute crops in place of commodities now imported: advance the industrial use of American farm products through exhaustive applied science; stimulate a scientific soil-building program and make possible a more secure stake in the land for the tiller of the soil.

One major objective of the chemurgic council is to procure the establishment of research institutes to discover new uses for products of the soil. Research laboratories are needed for sweet potatoes, rice, sugar cane, peanuts, soy beans and tung oil.

Presbyterian Ladies Meet With Mrs. V. F. Jones

The Presbyterian Missionary Society met Monday afternoon in the beautiful new home of Mrs. V. F. Jones as hostess.

The meeting opened with singing "America", as the National Holiday is near followed by prayer by Mrs. Jones.

Miss Susie Lee Smith was leader for the meeting. She gave a talk on the West Indies, Mrs. Roy Hamby on the Philippines, Miss Marian Oliver Vestal on Cuba.

It was decided to hold a Centennial meeting in October as that marks the 100 year of Presbyterian Missionary work of the church.

Mrs. E. C. Fulton lead the devotional and Mrs. R. L. Elliott, closed with prayer for our Missionaries.

The hostess, assisted by Mesdames R. F. Jones, and Curtis Jones served a delicious plate of cake, potato chips and iced punch to the following: Mesdames. A. T. Vestal, Mary Kehrer, Roy Hamby, R. L. Elliott, J. A. Jackson, Lizzie Renfro, E. C. Fulton, Sam I. Smith, T. E. Powell and Misses Susie Lee Smith, and Marian Olivia Vestal.

SEALE RANCH ERECT FIRST GAME PRESERVE MARKER

The first game preserve marker erected in Callahan County was nailed up by Miss Curly Seale on Wednesday, June 23, on her property located about 7 miles south of Baird. Others present at this event were Judge and Mrs. Thomas Owen, H. A. McWhorter, Harry Holt, staff writer of the Abilene Reporter News, Judge L. B. Lewis, Commissioner Grover Clare, and others whose names were not learned.

Misses Curly and Billy have entered their lands in the game preserve along with 54 other members at this writing. There are better than 70,000 acres now included in the game preserve area in cooperation with the Texas Extension Service. This move is gaining cooperators all over the state of Texas because the aims are to promote and protect the wildlife which has been rapidly depleted in the last few years.

Ranchers and farmers who do not overstock their pastures aid in providing cover for birds which is most essential. Brush piles at advantageous places in the pastures and various grains being sown on the fence rows and down the sides of the country lanes provide food and shelter. Birds must be given protection from their natural enemies as well as to prohibit hunters from taking all of a covey.

More than 700 landowners petitioned the Legislature this Spring to enact a law prohibiting the taking of quail for three years which has been accomplished. These men are anxious that other forms of wildlife be promoted and preserved.

A move to introduce beaver on the streams will be made this Fall.

B. N. Nichols, who lives near the Morris ranch, told the county agent this past week that he has seen deer on his farm recently, which had not been seen for many years. Protection in the Morris Game Preserve has made this possible. With every producer in the county cooperating in this great move we may soon hope to find deer, wild turkey, wild chickens, and quail in abundance in our county.

Streams are being stocked with choice selections of fish that are being secured by members from the State and Federal Fisheries. Applications may be made at the office of the County Agent at any time.

Members of the Wildlife Conservation Association are: Roy Armor, I. N. Jackson, Jennie Harris, Wylie Clinton, A. B. Hutchison, E. H. Williams, R. L. Edwards, Roy Kendrick, Ludie H. Owen, Mrs. J. C. McDermott, Frank L. Martin, Will Johnson, Harville, J. H. Johnson, W. G. Black, B. C. Chrisman, B. F. McCaw, Alex Barton, T. N. Minix Jim Edwards, C. M. Johnston, Frank Browning, Pete King, Clyde T. Floyd, W. J. Bryson, Chas. D. Straley, Lucie K. Whitehead, T. W. Breeding, Flem W. Johnson, L. A. Blakley, R. P. Slough, Ed Davis, Robert F. Joy, Dr. R. L. Griggs, Pascal Head, G. Gibbs, Mrs. Cordellia J. Jones Ace Hickman, E. K. Coppinger, Maggie Hardy, Otto Betcher, M. N. Black, J. G. Aiken, Tom Windham, Dr. F. E. Clark, Jerry Osborn, Clint Harrison, Billy Seale, Curly Seale, Ben Halstead, Lester Farmer, Mollie Murry.

SCABIES ERADICATION REPORT

There was employed in San Angelo District for the month of May, three State men, and four county men who spent their entire time in an effort to eradicate scabies infection, and a total of approximately $465.00, was expended by this Department in its regular Eradication Program.

One hundred and seventy six herds, and a total of 175,021 sheep or cattle were inspected or dipped. No head were classed as exposed or infected.

All exposed and infected live stock were systematically treated.

The Livestock Sanitary Commission of Texas will continue the work in San Angelo District in an effort to protect the live stock in that District from impeded infection, and affording the necessary scabies certificates demanded by other states on live stock moving from Texas.

The above work was conducted under the supervision of H. H. Cosper Supervisor of Scabies Eradication Work, San Angelo, Texas.

Note - There were employed in San Angelo District four county paid men which are not included in the above expenditure.

Cross Plains' 55th. Annual Picnic

Cross Plains will celebrate their 55th Annual Picnic on July 8 and 9th.

The picnic will be held at the old picnic ground on the banks of Turkey Creek, under the auspices of the Cross Plains fire department.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Warren were called to Ira Texas yesterday to attend the funeral of a life long friend, Mrs. Murphy. Mr. Warren was to serve as one of the pall bearers.

SEALE RANCH ERECT FIRST GAME PRESERVE MARKER

A Safe Sane Fourth

Rev. Joe R. Mayes, pastor of the Baptist Church at Baird, who is County Chairman of the County Red Cross Home and Farm Accident Preventative, submits the following appeal for a safe and sane July 4th:

With more persons killed or injured celebrating Fourth of July in the past thirty years than were casualties in the entire Revolutionary war, the Red Cross through a statement from the local chapter, here, sounds a warning against the three elements that might turn next week end's holiday into years or tragedy—fire, water and motor power.

(1) Remember how dangerous fireworks can be and use them accordingly. On July 4, 1935, a total of 6,940 accidents resulted from fireworks.

(2) Remember the number of deaths from drowning, averaging more than 7,000 each year. Observe common sense swimming rules that will prevent such an appalling loss of life, and,

(3) Remember that no matter how hurried you are, or how jubilant you feel, nothing will justify your driving carelessly and without regard for your fellow men. After a serious accident regrets and remorse will avail you nothing. Use your head and preserve your body as well as the lives of others around you.

"The Red Cross would not like to have the idea engendered in the public's mind that it is a wet blanket organization, pledged to keep gruesome facts before you as you start on your holiday," the statement continued. "Far from it, for above all we are working for a happier, more pleasant world for everyone. Pursued in the proper manner, such an achievement is not impossible. We seek your cooperation in keeping down accidental deaths and injuries by making your holiday this year a truly 'safe and sane Fourth.'"

Married

Mr. J. U. Jernigan, night watchman of Baird, and Miss Mable Anderson, of Midway, were married in Baird, Sunday, June 20, 1937, at 9 o'clock p. m.

G. H. Corn, Justice of the Peace officiating.

Miss-Jane Pat'n Hall was in from "her" ranch at Rowden yesterday.

FRANK CONDON

Locates Man's Castle

New Yorkers love to dig their way into the garage of a February morning, wearing ear-laps and mittens, but not Condon. Read what he says:

By FRANK CONDON

IF YOU were to ask any ordinary American citizen where he would prefer to live if offered a free choice of all America, I am convinced he or she would say without hesitation: "California." If he didn't mention California, he would think an instant and say, "Florida." I am led to this conclusion, not because I happen to be a resident of California, but because I have been roaming about our fair land, asking people questions and listening to comment.

I passed through and canvassed the following states during this year's jaunt: Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Quebec, (not really a state, but it looks like one to me) and Florida; and in every state but one, the residents stood around in gasoline stations and said: "Gee, what would I give to live out there."

So I assume that almost everybody in America would love to live in California if he had the railway fare west and the assurance of a job. The one state where nothing was said about the joys of residing in California was, as a person might guess, Florida.

Floridians Boast of Weather. They seem to be pretty well pleased with themselves down there in Florida and gab about their weather as much as we do and even more. When I said to them in an ordinary sneering tone: "How do you ever stand to live through the summers down here?" they replied as one man: "The summers down here aren't any hotter than they are in New York."

Things Pleasantly Missing. They have jitneys in Florida and we do not have either jitneys or slot machines in California, which at once puts us 12 miles in the lead. We do not have perspiration in California, except a mild and salubrious form of the same, which is health-giving and almost desirable. I have been the eighth passenger in a six-passenger jitney at Miami Beach, and on a warm day, they have to take the fare out of your pocket, as you are only partly conscious.

To be certain, we have in California no steady breeze beating in off the ocean like the never-ending gale at Miami Beach, but on the other hand, we need no such monsoon. Our Pacific ocean delivers a reasonable draught of cold air, tempering the state, and in the evening, you may need your light overcoat if going for a ride in the car. In Florida, you require no overcoat, no undercoat or suit, no shirt, underwear, socks or hair net.

The reason I am slightly put out about Miami is not the hot weather in November, or the jitneys, or the slot machines, although Heaven knows, I was no conquering hero with the slot machines. I am resentful because we could get no beer or any other drinks for the period of an entire day and when you spend one full day in Miami or Beach without any beer, you have every right to be peevish. It just happened to be election day in the town and everything was closed tight until seven in the evening, at which time the polls closed. Then you could purchase beer.

And what do you suppose they were electing about? They were not balloting for a new governor, sheriff, senator, congressman, mayor or important civic official. They were not voting to see whether Florida shall throw out the slot machines. No sir. They were voting to see if Miami should build a pavilion or coliseum to hold football games, track meets and boxing matches, and six honest California visitors with good money in their pockets, walked dazedly about the hot streets, their tongues hanging out in the humidity. We wouldn't do a thing like that in California—not even to a Floridian.

Another item—I am certain that we native sons of the Golden West would never legalize or countenance that perfected form of the one-man mechanical crime—the slot machine. The only spot where a slot machine ever looked at home was the speak-easy and we no longer have the speakies.

Strangers Get "Taken." They told me down there that some of the loot goes to the state and if that isn't a lovely excuse for dotting the civic landscape with nickel, dime and quarter mechanisms, where you have the same chance of winning as if you were Peggy Joyce and was Joe Louis and you had to fight me for the jack-pot!

I am not only indignant about these outrageous machines, but I am also out part of the sixty dollars our little party lost, showing you how silly strangers can get when in a tropic clime.

Unquestionably, the proper place to live is California, provided you have a small income, a good job, a modest home and a fairly good car. We never have any trouble with our weather, as it is always perfect or nearly so and a white shirt may last you a week. We used to have an occasional earthquake, but we don't even have them any more.

California men dress far more smartly than Florida males, for the simple reason that a Floridian's costume consists of a shirt and a pair of pants. Out here, our voters go in for elegant dressing and import the snappiest styles from Chicago.

On the other hand, the Florida girls—and I hate to say it, but truth must out—the Florida girls are better looking than ours, more sprightly, and wear their garments with a dash of allure that our damsels seem to have missed. Leaving our movie gals out of the count, Florida has us licked and it may be the moist climate. They may thrive on humidity. We boast a deal about the heavenly complexion of our San Francisco lassies, caressed by the eternal fogs, but if you wish to look at elegant complexions, stand on any Miami street corner and watch the parade.

California could easily shelter and feed the entire population of America, but has little desire to do so. Neither has Florida. A way out might be to let Florida have the uneasy part of our nationals in mid-winter and then turn them over to us for the rest of the year.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK... By Lemuel F. Parton

Modern Damon and Pythias.

NEW YORK.—Kid McCoy, at sixty-five, is twenty years older than Harry Bennett, but for many years their's has been a Damon and Pythias friendship. Bennett, commander of Henry Ford's militant home guard against labor unions, learned about fighting from McCoy. He was a sailor when Ford bought some wooden boats from the government.

They threw in Bennett, along with boats, and Ford found it a good bargain. He became a personnel officer at the Dearborn plant, becoming, in time, as the years slipped off the conveyor belt, the head of the Ford "protective" organization.

In 1932, McCoy finished a confinement of seven years for having shot his sweetheart. By this time, Bennett had a yacht and a castle on the Huron. For old times' sake, he gave his friend a $6-a-day job and a gold badge, explaining, plausibly it seemed, that his organization included a limited number of former convicts, and that there was no reason why it shouldn't if they behaved themselves and did their work. McCoy, helping expand and direct the "service men," now enters a serene old age, fit and vigorous, younger than his years, doing the work he likes best.

Bennett was "Sailor Reese" in the years when he was a lightweight boxer in the navy. It was in 1896 that McCoy became world welterweight champion, by defeating Tommy Ryan. It was years later that the young sailor entered his New York gymnasium and told him of his ambitions as a boxer.

McCoy trained Reese, without charge. It has been frequently on record in the newspapers that Reese became lightweight champion of the navy. However, this writer, scouting information among such lightweight navy champs of twenty-five years ago as Sam Robideau, Joe Fisher and Paddy Mills, has been unable to pick up his trail.

Where Sailor Reese knocked off and Harry Bennett took over is equally elusive. A curtain is drawn over the beginnings of this particular Alger story—the story of a boy who makes good by watching a clock—to see that the other lads punch it.

Current news reports reveal Bennett and McCoy as working in a deep, inaccessible basement of the Administration building, deploying an army of "college athletes, former prizefighters and ex-convicts," both ready to wade in with the hired men as emergency swamper if need be.

Bennett is small, agile, muscular and given to direct action. For pastime, he practices pistol shooting, reads mystery stories and goes hunting.

The Troublesome Doukhobors.

The story of the Canadian Doukhobors might make a good study for Robert Allison Parker, author of the recently published "Father Divine," and a specialist in Messianic psychology. They remain shaggy, nude and obdurate, with their leader, Peter Verigin II, again having jail troubles in British Columbia.

He is the head of an organization supposedly owning about $10,000,000 worth of property, but the court confirms his jail sentence for vagrancy. His huge, barrel-chested father, with whiskers like a perch-er's uncurried fellocks, was killed in a train wreck in 1924, and Peter II came over in 1927 to head the sect, the Russians having jailed him for heresy and released him on the condition that he leave the country.

He is big and bewhiskered and commanding, like his father, but parades in the nude, and other eccentricities had brought the law on the Doukhobors, and he has done little but fight off writs and processes. He was saved from deportation by a Halifax judge in 1933.

The Doukhobors, or "spirit wrestlers," as they sometimes call themselves, are a strange hold-out in the modern lock-step. They'll catch step, if they are just allowed to shed their clothes.

Youth on the Bench.

Nine years out of college, Charles Poletti becomes a justice of the Supreme court of New York, at the age of thirty-three. He is the son of a stone-cutter in Barre, Vt. He dickered for an old Ford, traveled and sold maps to get through high school, and tended furnaces and waited on table to get through Harvard. He finished law school in 1928.

Several of his nine years were put in at the Universities of Rome and Lyons and at the League of Nations. Then he got a job in the illustrious John W. Davis law office and became general counsel for the Democratic committee in 1932. A year later, Governor Lehman made him his legal adviser. He is short, sturdy, dark, galvanic, of Italian parentage and boiling over with energy.

ICE CREAM NOW EVERYDAY DISH

Once Was Treat for Holidays and Sundays Only.

By EDITH M. BARBER

ICE cream, when I was a little girl, was a treat which was reserved for Sundays, holidays, birthday celebrations and other parties.

While ice cream was often made at home in my childhood, a special treat was a visit to an ice cream parlor, where for some unknown reason the tables were always marble tops and as cold as the cream itself. There was always a cold, dank feeling in the dark rooms even on the warmest day. Perhaps this was the reason that we often bought this ice cream and took it home with us in the paper buckets of the day and served it half-melted at home. On Sundays, however, it was delivered packed in salt and ice.

In general, the quality of the "bought" ice cream was not nearly so good as it is today when we can buy it at all drug stores and confectioners, packed often in dry ice. There are innumerable flavors, some of them modern invention. Buttered pecan ice cream, for instance, is beginning to rival the ever popular vanilla and chocolate, which have always been stand-bys. Caramel, coffee, pistachio, peach and even lemon ice cream as well as burnt almond and bisque, are ours for the choosing.

The combination of ice cream with a sauce of contrasting flavor is of comparatively modern invention. In drug store circles this is known as a sundae. Crushed fruit, preserved ginger and other fruits, maraschino cherries and their syrup, mixed fruits known as tutti frutti, butterscotch and chocolate sauces have all found a use in glorifying the standard vanilla ice cream. Salted nuts are often added to the two latter sauces. Melted marshmallows, flavored with mint, make a good sauce for chocolate as well as for vanilla ice cream. Hot maple syrup and honey or a plain syrup also combine well with pecans, walnuts, pistachio nuts, toasted almonds and Brazil nuts. Toasted coconut without a sauce gives a final touch to ice cream of any flavor.

More elaborate desserts are made by combining small meringues or cream puffs with ice cream of any flavor, or by putting a layer of ice cream between slices of cake and dressing this with a sauce.

Maple Sugar Sauce.

1½ cups maple sugar
½ cup cream
1 tablespoon butter
Stir sugar and cream together over a low fire until sugar is dissolved. Cook three minutes. Remove from fire. Add butter and beat until sauce begins to thicken.

Maraschino Sauce.

½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup boiling water
¼ cup maraschino cherries, cut in halves
½ cup maraschino syrup
2 tablespoons butter
Mix sugar and cornstarch and add gradually to the boiling water, stirring constantly. Boil five minutes, and add cherries, syrup and butter.

Brandied Fruit.

Put one pint of brandy in a stone jar and add the various fruits as they come into market. To each quart of fruit, add an equal amount of sugar, cover and stir the mixture each morning until all the fruit has been added. Raspberries, strawberries, apricots, peaches, cherries and pineapple are the best fruits to use.

Orange Sauce.

Grated rind of ½ lemon
Juice of ½ lemon
½ cup orange juice
½ cup sugar
Salt
2 egg yolks
2 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix grated rind, fruit juices, sugar, salt and egg yolks, beaten slightly. Stir over hot water until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add the beaten egg whites gradually, beating constantly. Cool and add vanilla.

Pineapple Mint Sauce.

1 cup crushed pineapple
1 cup sugar
¾ cup water
Green coloring
6 drops oil of peppermint
Simmer pineapple, sugar and water ten minutes. Cool, color and add peppermint. Chill before serving.

Mirrors Made to Fit Doors

No more standing on a chair and craning the neck to see the hang of a dress! A regular door in the home may be turned into a mirrored one. The framed door mirrors are available in 45 different sizes to fit any kind of door. They can be installed in a few minutes as it is only a matter of attaching the frame to the door with four screws.

Color Sets the Style

Few homes are furnished in strict period style. With discretion, periods may be mixed but to avoid incongruity there are things to remember about the general tone of a house or a room. Color should be the keynote to its mode.

Household Hints

By BETTY WELLS

"THAT'S my best color," commented Dottie Young as we admired the lovely old blue of her living-room walls. And it does bring out her eyes and makes her skin simply bloom.

She used her old mulberry twist weave rug, then hunted to find curtains of a pinkish cast but verging toward a pale mulberry tinge rather than the usual peach tone. This was a rayon gauze that hangs delicately but it's not really transparent. She followed this tone through a deep pinkish lavender which she quilted and used as a slip cover for a pair of chairs. All the other furniture she slip-covered in a sprawling floral on a light beige ground but with deep purple-reds in the pattern—almost mulberry they were.

Crystal for accents, lilacs and lavender sweet peas and iris and delphinium are Dottie's favorite flowers here. She highlights them with pink flowers when she can get just

A Becoming Room for Dainty Dot.

The right pink. Flat silver frames for her pictures made unexpectedly distinctive details. . . and her silver tea set repeated that note.

Dottie herself is usually to be found in something trailing and creamy colored, or else in simple pastel linens that go so well with her eyes and that room.

The reason this room pleases us so much is because it not only suits dainty Dot, but it has substance enough to match her broad shouldered gray tweeded Henry. And the furniture coverings can stand a growing family since they all zip on and off for cleaning.

Italian Furniture

"I went on a European trip and shipped back from Italy some very beautiful Renaissance furniture, including a desk, book-case and two Dante's chairs—all hand carved in a very dark wood (almost black) which I placed in my living room. I made two dark red velvet cushions for the two chairs," wrote one of our readers.

"My three-piece living room set of taupe mohair does not go well with this other furniture, and I would like to either reupholster my three pieces with some sort of damask or get something new. The background of my rug is a dark red scattered with dark blue, green and yellow (a Persian hunting scene). Would you advise me to get a new living room set, and if so, what period or style and what color should I get to go with my Italian pieces? Or if I have now re-upholster the one I have would what colors should I have the three pieces and what material? I have beige Venetian blinds and I use no curtains. What color and what kind of material should I get for draperies? Should I get a floral pattern or stripes?

"My dining room is small—9 by 11 and very near my living room. I saw a very pretty India rugger rug. Do you think it would be appropriate? What would you suggest?"

Here are our prescriptions: If the living room furniture isn't too fat and overstuffed looking, it could be reupholstered and used with the Italian pieces. If it is too bulbous looking, replace it with heavy but rather straight line pieces. These can be quite as comfortable as the other type. In any event, we'd like dark dull red for this—either damask or brocade velvet. But we'd not have the chairs the same, old blue would be our choice for these two chairs. A third upholstered chair could be in a deep dull gold. A blocked linen on a natural ground might be a good idea for the draperies—something with a large scale motif and a Renaissance type of design. Tall brass lamps and accessories of brass would be appropriate and attractive here, and for the wall perhaps a reproduction of an early Italian painting.

Tips on Redecorating

When redecorating a room the first thing to consider is which furnishings to keep and which to replace or re-upholster. Determine which colors will predominate in them before selecting the colors for your walls and ceiling. Well-tailored slip-covers will save your furniture and add a note of freshness to the room. They can also repeat the chintz of your curtains or introduce a new color note.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

Preserving Broom.—Soaking a broom in boiling salt water every two weeks will help preserve it.

Washing White Gloves.—White gloves can be kept white by washing them after each wearing with a soft brush and a pure soap.

Fire Prevention.—To avoid fires keep all cleaning cloths that have been treated with oil in a covered metal container.

Removing Peach Stains.—Fresh peach stains can be removed from linen with a weak solution of chloride of lime.

Picking Raspberries.—Red raspberries will keep better if picked early in the morning.

Cheese Molds.—Pour 1½ cupfuls milk over 2 cupfuls soft breadcrumbs; add 3 well-beaten eggs, 1 heaped cupful grated cheese, 1 teaspoonful salt, pepper to taste, and 1 tablespoonful melted butter. Pour into buttered molds and bake from 20 to 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Keeping Peeled Apples.—Peeled apples can be kept white until used by keeping them immersed in water to which a little salt has been added.

Apple and Rhubarb Jelly.—Cut apples into quarters. To every pound of apples add one cup of rhubarb juice. Simmer until the apples are soft. Strain through a jelly bag without pressure. To each pint of juice add one pound of sugar. Boil slowly, removing all scum until the juice will jell. Pour into tumblers and seal with paraffin.

Luncheon Dish.—Boil 2 pounds spinach, press out all moisture, and chop fine. Have ready ½ pound cooked macaroni and 2 hard-boiled eggs cut into slices. Well grease a pie dish, put in a layer of macaroni, sprinkle with grated cheese, and season with pepper and salt. Then put a layer of spinach with sliced eggs on top. Repeat the layers and pour in a little milk. Cover with a thick layer of breadcrumbs with pieces of butter on top. Bake for 10 minutes.

Orange Peel Marmalade.—Take six orange rinds, or four orange, two grapefruit or orange and lemon rinds, cover with water and pinch of soda, cook till tender; drain. Take out white pulp with spoon. Put rinds through chopper, yielding two cups chopped rind, add water to cover, about two cups add sugar, about two cups; simmer slowly for three hours. Bottle in the usual way. WNU Service.

Hot Weather is Here—Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. LIFE'S LIKE THAT By Fred Neher

"She thought if she hid my clothes I'd have to stay at home!"

STAR DUST Movie • Radio

The loyal motion picture fans of the country do not want any substitute for the late Jean Harlow. Letters, telegrams and phone calls of protest poured into the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio when it was announced soon after her death that her unfinished picture "Saratoga" would be re-filmed with a newcomer named Rita Johnson in her role.

In no uncertain terms the public demanded that Jean's last picture either be released in its unfinished state or kept from view. Decision on the matter is being postponed, but when the public takes such a whole-hearted stand on any question, you can be sure that the studio will not run the risk of offending them. "Saratoga" will probably never be seen.

Loretta Young's household is just about the happiest, busiest establishment in all Hollywood just now. She has adopted two little girls, Jane aged three, and Judy not quite two, and is busily conferring with architects about adding a wing to her house. Just to add to the air of Old Home Week, her sister, Sally Blane, and Sally's husband Norman Foster have come with their youngest to stay at Loretta's house while they re-build theirs.

All the time that Irene Hervey was under contract to M-G-M, the executives just couldn't see her when a good role in a big picture came up for casting. She married Allan Jones, her contract expired, and it looked as if she meant to retire from the screen. She was just waiting for the right part, though. Along came the enterprising Grand National company with a role for her in "The Girl Said No," audiences raved about her at the preview, and what company rushed to get her services then, do you suppose? None other than her old studio.

Lily Pons is very busy these days with her radio program and an extensive concert tour, to say nothing of her frenzied trips up to her home in Connecticut to see how the garden is doing, but she keeps in touch with the R-K-O studio every day to get reports on the plans for her next picture.

It is all of a year now since Jack Dempsey and his restaurant were shown in a motion picture, typifying the very center of New York sporting and night life, so M-G-M is going to remedy that omission right away. He and his headquarters will appear in "Big City" which stars Spencer Tracy and Luise Rainer. Jack won't go to Hollywood, though; his scenes will be made in a studio near New York.

The best picture of the week, and a frothy light extravaganza for a warm evening it is too, is "Woman Chases Man." Miriam Hopkins is the star and dear old Charles Winniger plays a giddy role delightfully. The picture is farce that verges on slapstick most of the time, and Joel McCrea plays the thankless role of the one fairly sensible human in the piece. It isn't, frankly, nearly so good a picture as Claudette Colbert's grand comedy "I Met Him in Paris"—but until that superb bit of entertainment comes your way, "Woman Chases Man" will keep you amused.

ODDS AND ENDS—Grace Moore postponed starting her next picture for two weeks so that her leading man, Melvyn Douglas, could go to the Salzburg Festival, where his wife is going to sing. Ann Sothern's sister, Bonnie Lake, has sold a song that she composed to Buddy Ebsen. That loud studio laugh you hear intermittently through Walter Winchell's Sunday night broadcast is W. C. Field's, his favorite visitor. Walter draws an audience that is an all-star cast. Hazel Glenn who sings nursery songs on the Dr. Dajoe broadcast has a fan letter that she wouldn't exchange for a diamond bracelet. The good doctor wrote her that the quints had listened to one of their broadcasts and expressed delight over the lady who sang. The makeup experts are bullying Stokowski nose. After all his many years as an orchestra conductor, wearing his touzled mane, he has been ordered to grease his hair because otherwise it doesn't look dignified. Deanna Durbin tried to console him by telling him it made him look like a juvenile. Since Carole Lombard is not available, Fred Astaire is now trying to get Loretta Young to play opposite him in his next picture. © Western Newspaper Union.

WHAT means this demonstration, In home, in street, and hall? What means this celebration Joined in by great and small? Why all this bunting floating, And why these banners gay? What are these things denoting? It's Independence Day!

That same day the New York Daily Advertiser printed an account of the celebration: "The morning was ushered in by the ringing of bells and a discharge of cannon. At 12 o'clock a grand procession (headed by city watchmen and closed by citizens) . . . to the house of his excellency the Governor—and from thence to the house of his excellency the president of Congress, where the compliments of the day were first paid to his excellency by the Governor, and afterwards by his worship the mayor, in behalf of the citizens of New York. From whence they returned to Corne's tavern, where a cold collation was provided by the corporation. And the day was closed by the ringing of bells and the firing of cannon."

There follows an account of the meeting of the Cincinnati at Corne's tavern in commemoration of the day, at which suitable orations were delivered by Cols. Hamilton and Walker. One of the 13 toasts was, "May the powers of Congress be adequate to preserve the General Union."

There were two reasons why the Constitution framers provided for such a long lapse of time between election of a congress and its first sitting. The chief reason was that the framers believed it unwise to have legislators take office soon after election because of the danger of hasty action. It was felt that time should be allowed for the heat of the contest to cool. The secondary reason was that considerable time was required for members to travel from distant parts.

'Way Back When

By JEANNE GERTRUDE STEIN DROVE AN AMBULANCE

PERHAPS your brother or your father went over to France with the A. E. F. and saw a rattling old French ambulance jolting over the shell-torn roads with two women on the driver's seat. One, a husky, healthy woman with hair clipped short and heavy masculine shoes, was Gertrude Stein; the other, tall and angular and more feminine, was her secretary, Alice B. Toklas.

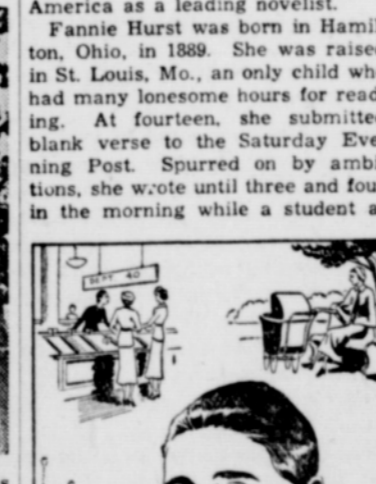

Gertrude Stein was born in Allegheny, Pa., in 1872. Much of her childhood, until she was five years old, was spent in Europe. Then her family moved to California, and she was raised in San Francisco and Oakland. After attending Radcliffe college, she went to medical school at Johns Hopkins. She settled in Paris in 1903, and the world may have lost a great surgeon as she abandoned the scalpel to carve out a career as an author. She paid to have her first book printed, because no publisher would accept it. Wide recognition came to her with the publication of Alice B. Toklas, in which she uses her secretary's life story as a means of praising her own accomplishments. There she asserts that her book, "The Making of Americans," is the greatest ever written. Her motto, "A rose is a rose is a rose," and some of her sentences such as "Toasted Susie is my ice cream," or this one from her play, "Four Saints in Three Acts" (there were actually many more saints and there were four acts), "If a magpie in the sky on the sky cannot cry if the pigeon on the grass alas can alas and pass the pigeon on the grass alas and the magpie in the sky on the sky and to try and to try alas on the grass alas the pigeon on the grass alas" have made many critics think that the strain of ambulance driving may have been too much for her.

FANNIE HURST LIVED LIKE HER CHARACTERS HAVE you read "Back Street," or "Five and Ten"? Have you wept and thrilled over the shop girls of Fannie Hurst's short stories? Fannie Hurst, herself, was once a waitress, a nursemaid, a salesgirl, and a sweatshop worker. Had you met her then, you could hardly have known that some day she would be hailed throughout America as a leading novelist.

Fannie Hurst was born in Hamilton, Ohio, in 1889. She was raised in St. Louis, Mo., an only child who had many lonesome hours for reading. At fourteen, she submitted blank verse to the Saturday Evening Post. Spurred on by ambitions, she wrote until three and four in the morning while a student at Washington university, came to New York to Columbia university, and for years wrote without having a single story accepted. From the Saturday Evening Post, alone, she received 36 rejection slips. Her first encouragement came from R. H. Davis, editor of Munsey's, and success followed swiftly. Her first book, a collection of short stories, was published in 1914, and her works appeared regularly thereafter, including "Mannequin" in 1926, which was awarded a prize of $50,000 by a moving picture corporation.

Fannie Hurst now lives in luxury in New York city. A handsome woman, she loves fine furs, rare laces, and brilliant colors. What a contrast to the humble scenes that made possible her successful interpretation of shopgirl hearts and souls are the rich surroundings her persevering ambition has won for her!

JOHN ADAMS' WISH IN A letter written July 3 1776, John Adams revealed to his wife the hope that the fourth would become "the great anniversary festival" sustained with "pomp and parade, shows, games, sports, guns, bells and illuminations. . . ."

Cool, Smart, Comfortable

COOL is the word for Carrie when she wears one of these smart new frocks by Sew-Your-Own. No matter whether she's three or thirty, June bride or a proud mama, Carrie will find what she needs for summer comfort here. Left to Right. The young frock with the interesting middle and sporty inverted pleat is one that's going in for extra credit at summer school. It has that advanced chic which readily distinguishes co-eds' clothes. If you're campus bound (or just bound for an ordinary vacation) be sure to have a couple of versions of this fashion first with you. Then you'll be set for that heavy summer schedule. Lines for a Princess. Second to none in the summer is this princess dress. As fit for golf as it is for dancing, you can see at a glance that this is the one dress you can't be even half-way happy without. Fresh in spirit, dainty in detail and becoming to all figures this simple-to-sew frock will introduce countless women to new chic this season. Come on, Milady, shake hands with Chic. Tot's Tidbit. Only when we're very young are we privileged to wear dresses as cute as this one. The most unaccustomed seamstress can make it with its half dozen pieces; the merest remnant will suffice for material. There is more than ordinary intrigue packed in the diminutive skirt that shows a couple of darling dimpled knees so lusciously sun tanned. Use it as a cool, cool top with panties as the ideal hot weather attire, or slip it on as an apron—either way it will be a fine little companion for mother's pet this summer. Pattern 1258 is designed in sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 38 bust). Size 14 requires 3 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 4 1/2 yards for braid trimming as pictured. Austin.—When James V. Allred, then newly elected attorney general of Texas, filed penalty and ouster suits against 15 major oil companies and two associations in 1932, charging they had violated the Texas anti-trust laws, he launched litigation that has become one of the most famous cases in Texas jurisprudence, and incidentally, attracted attention to himself which eventually made him governor of the state.

Allred tried the case in district court in Travis-co. and lost it, the court holding the NRA had voided Texas anti-trust laws. The case was appealed by the state, and the court of civil appeals again decided in favor of the oil companies, but on different grounds maintaining the state anti-trust laws were void because they excluded certain agricultural groups from the laws operation. The state took an appeal to the supreme court of Texas.

A sweeping victory for the state came last week, when the highest court reversed the court of civil appeals held the anti-trust laws valid, and sent the case back to district court for trial on its merits. The decision surprised oil company lawyers, including Dan Moody, ex-governor, and John Black of Austin, rated as two of the states ablest attorneys, as well as he attorney general, Bill McCraw, who prosecuted the appeal after he succeeded Allred. McCraw had so little confidence in winning that he had privately consulted legislators about enacting new anti-trust statutes, anticipating the existing laws would be held void by the supreme court.

The case now goes back to the lower court for trial, and will have to drag its weary way thru the appeals courts, probably to the U. S. supreme court, for final decision, taking from three to five years additional time. Allred originally asked for imposition of $17,850,000 penalties, ouster from the state, and cancellation of the charters of the defendant companies and associations.

TAX SESSION IN SEPTEMBER
September is the month set by the governor for resumption of work by the legislature this week, as the anti-gambling session drew to a close with final passage of anti-dog racing and general anti-gambling laws. Another flare-up occurred in House and senate as criticism was voiced toward Allred for a message he sent up, urging the solons to legislate against organized, commercialized gambling, instead of petty personal vice. The September date will enable the governor to complete a survey of the state's tax needs, including those necessitated by the anticipated adoption of constitutional amendments in the August special election. There is a strong probability there will be two or more additional 30-day sessions, as many major legislative problems other than taxes, hang over from the regular session as a result of failure to pass bills, or of vetoing of bills by Allred. These included among others pardon and parole legislation, soil conservation, the Big Bend park oil leasing of school lands and many others.

NEW TEXAS INDUSTRY
Extensive development of a neglected Texas industry was forecast here this week by W. W. Halcom, ex-Texas editor, and more recently attached to the secretary of states office. Halcom has joined forces with Jack Hale, Houston industrialist, who has chartered a company to "quick freeze" Texas fish, oysters and shrimp, which preserves their fresh flavor indefinitely, and permits shipment long distances in fresh condition. The plan is to stabilize the Texas coast's fishing industry by maintaining a constant market, absorbing surplus thru the preserving process in flush seasons, which would make fresh seafood available thruout the state all year. The process has been extensively used on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts to preserve seafood, fruits and vegetables indefinitely.

POLITICS
Three rumors regarding the forthcoming gubernatorial race in Texas were laid this week. First Gov. Allred answered with an emphatic "No" a question by pressmen as to whether he would seek a third term; second, Chairman Robert Lee Bobbitt of the highway commission declared he was "not a candidate" in a public address, and third, Karl Crowley of Fort Worth, solicitor general of the postoffice department, told reporters he had never heard of rumors he might run for governor, as he stopped off here to lunch with Gov. Allred.

Clarence E. Farmer, radical Fort Worth legislator, who favors pensions for all over 65, has told friends he expects to run for governor on a liberalized pension platform. The lieutenant governor's race is beginning to shape up with Senators John Reddith of Lufkin, and Will Pace of Tyler and former Speaker Coke Stevenson of Junction regarded as certain candidates. No announcement has come from any of the rumored candidates for attorney general altho Lieut. Gov. Walter Woodul continues busily indirectly campaigning with numerous speeches and other public appearances.

PENSION FUNDS SHORT
Quiet trimming of the old age pension rolls thruout the state is under way, despite public announcements by pension officials that the pension fund is in good condition. There were approximately 130,000 pensioners getting checks last month; this figure was trimmed about 3000 to 127,000 for current month. On the basis of funds to be available for the remainder of the year, as shown by the statement of state treasurer, further substantial reductions will have to be made to meet the payments. The pension administration is authorized, under the deliberalization act, to purge the rolls of all who have the possibility of support from children, relatives or other sources. If necessary to meet payments. The pension question is going to be a live political issue in Texas for many years to come according to every indication here. In political year, the rolls will expand; no matter how many denials may be issued.

County Agent's Column
By Ross B. Jenkins, County Agt.

EPSOM SALTS NOT A GRASS-HOPPER KILLER
Recently there appeared in various papers over the state stating that Epsom Salts would kill grasshoppers. The county agent never believed in such wild stories since there is nothing in Epsom Salts to indicate it to be poisonous. Little boys and girls sometimes think salts are bad enough to kill one when the mothers insist on it being taken but the effects indicate that it is good for the animal that takes it and not injurious.

The following piece from Mr. Fred D. Butcher, Acting in Charge of Federal Grasshopper Control with offices in Minneapolis, Minn. will indicate that grasshoppers are not killed by Epsom Salts. Quote, "Our office at Bozeman has been able to conduct some experiments in the formula which Mr. Lawrence mentions. In cages, standard bait killed 98 per cent and 100 percent of the grasshoppers in 48 hours. In duplicate cages, in which the epsom salts, molasses and bran mixture was fed, there was no fatality at the end of ten days though these hoppers had had two large feedings of material. Some of the farmers of Callahan have been looking about for some better formula for killing grasshoppers and we are interested in finding such too, if there be one but these experiments do not show the problem to have been bettered any by Epsom Salts. It is no good as a killer. The Extension Service formula is still regarded the best formula for the south and it is as follows: 25 pounds bran, 1 pound of white arsenic or Paris Green, 1 quart of sorghum molasses, 1 tablespoonful salt, lounce Amylacetate or about six old oranges and lemons. These last named ingredients are put into the poison to keep it soft and damp and to lend an odor that will attract the grasshoppers. They have no killing properties. The Government supply has been exhausted but it is hoped the men will carry on the fight to eradicate the grasshoppers.

CERTAIN PEACHES ARE BEARING
In a discussion of varieties of peaches adapted to Callahan last Fall the county Agent pointed out that recent findings by observers in the Department of Agriculture have found that certain fruits bear every year while others bear on very irregular years. The reasons for this have been found to be that certain varieties demand a large number of cold hours in which the temperature ranges below 40 degrees. For instance, the Elberta and Early Wheeler require around 1000 hours of low temperature while the sweeter honey-type peach requires 500 to 600 hours.

On a recent field trip the county agent had the opportunity of inspecting commercial orchards that are fully loaded this year and were in like condition in 1936. The varieties found in these orchards are Frank, Early Rose, Dr. Burton, Farris Beauty, Carman, and Success. Peaches were subjected to very great varieties of weather this Spring and many orchards are practically barren of all fruit during 1937, yet the varieties mentioned above have come through with flying colors.

This article will be more or less duplicated in the Fall when farmers are thinking of planting more fruit but these names should be carried in the minds of farmers preparing to plant orchards this year.

TOMATO HINTS
In order to grow good tomatoes quickly it is important that they be assisted by pruning and staking. The materials needed will be about 4500 3 1-2 stakes per acre and a ball of binder twine. When plants are 10 to 12 inches in height drive a stake about 6 to 8 inches from the plant and make the first tie. Prune the suckers from the plants once each week until three clusters of fruit have been set, then top the plant by pinching off the top shoot leaving 2 pairs of leaves above the cluster of fruit to serve as feeder branches. When plants are 18 inches high make the second tying to the stake, sucker and top the plants leaving 3 clusters of fruit to the plant.

FORKING
Forking plants will hasten the maturing and increase the size of the fruit. When the first cluster of fruit appears remove all suckers except the one at the base below the fruit cluster. Allow this to remain and grow to make a Y or fork on the plant. Once each week remove suckers on the stem and also on the fork.

SHADING
If you would have good tomatoes through the hot months of July, August, and September you should arrange to shut off at least one-half the sunlight from the plants. This may be done by erecting a trellis over the plants and stretching toe sacks over them at about a height of 6 inches. This shade will permit the pollen to fertilize the blooms and thus produce fruit, whereas it will dry before fertilization is made and no fruit will be set.

PRUNE BERRIES NOW
There has been a good berry crop this season and if it is to be repeated another year the proper pruning should be done now. Cut off all old growth that was put up in the early spring last year that bore fruit this year. Leave only the new canes that have grown up this year. These new canes are the ones that will bear the fruit next season. All old growth that is left on the bush becomes a drawback to the plant as it will die this winter and only saps the moisture and plant food for the remainder of the season. Of course, all the weeds and grass should be kept out of the berry patch all summer. Grass in the patch during the fall and winter never do much if any damage but anything that retards the development of canes and the subsequent development of reserve plant food in the new plants will hinder the crop the coming year. Plants should not be too close on the land even if kept clean for the best fruit. Thin the plants to, at least, four feet apart in the row

FERTILIZATION
Many tomato patches grow rank vines that never produce fruit. In most cases this is due to the lack of phosphorus. Phosphorus is the plant food that sets fruit. If about one tablespoonful of 23 per cent super phosphate is worked into the soil about four to six inches from the tomato plant it will in most cases set fruit and bear heavily. If the above hints are put into practice you may reasonably expect a large yield from your tomatoes.

GLUE FOR QUICK FIXING
Ordinary waterproof casein glue is convenient and satisfactory for wood gluing around the farm. This comes in dry powder form and is mixed with cold water. It is much quicker and more convenient than where the glue is made in a double boiler. Keep it in an air-tight container and use according to directions.

WHITEWASH
Slush from acetylene generators can be used for making white wash. Mix with water to proper consistency. For outside use, add eight tablespoonfuls alum and four tablespoonfuls salt. For inside use, add one half pint glue solution to each gallon of white-wash. This residue from generators is simply fine lime. Lime itself may be used in the same proportion.

A PRICELESS HERITAGE
"Throughout the centuries of history, man's vigil and his quest have been to be free. For this the best and bravest of earth have fought and died. To embody human liberty in workable government, America was born."
On July 4, we commemorate the 161st anniversary of the signing of the immortal Declaration of Independence. Since 1776, this great country has endured and prospered. Its people have attained the highest degree of civilization the world has ever known.
The liberty left to us by our forefathers is a rare and priceless heritage. It is one that every true American will ceaselessly endeavor to preserve.

With Baird Baptist

We had a good time with our meetings, we closed last Wednesday with the meeting here in Baird and went out to Midway, Thursday night. We have had a good attendance all the week. We were rained out last Monday night otherwise we have had all the services we planned.

We will have our regular services at the church Sunday morning and as it is the regular time for the Lord's Supper we shall observe that, all will take notice and some and join in this glorious service.

Our Midway meeting will continue thru the week next, closing out the second Sunday. We are earnestly craving the attendance and help of every body out that way and around, come, pray, and work that the Lord may give us a great meeting.

Bro. J. F. Wood is holding a meeting between Clyde and Eula, out in the country there under a brush arbor. Wouldn't I love to go, and no mon on earth known better how to hold just such a meeting than Bro. Wood. May the Lord bless him and the people help him and they have a great time.

HEALTH HINTS

Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer

SUMMER COMPLAINT

The season of the year when complaints are received on account of diarrhea and dysentery or "Summer Complaint" is here and the Texas State Department of Health has issued a warning to parents in regard to this, and offers the following suggestions to prevent its occurrence among babies. The chief causes of diarrhea include impure milk, water and contaminated foods, overeating, fever from any cause, to much sugar or cream in the diet, overfeeding and underfeeding.

Mother's milk is safest food. However if other milk must be used, the supply should be clean and pure. The water should be clean, pure and boiled. Any other articles of food should be fresh and clean and no unsuitable articles of food such as cake and candy should be given.

If a feeding formula is used, it should be one prescribed by a physician and it must be prepared with extreme attention to clean liness and kept cold until used. The baby should be fed at regular intervals and should not be forced to eat when he is not hungry. The baby should be kept cool and comfortable in hot weather should not be overclothed and should be given plenty of clean water to drink. Any infections which develop in the nose, throat ears or other organs should receive prompt attention from a physician.

If diarrhea develops, feedings should be stopped or greatly diminished and abundance of water should be given. Cathartics should not be given except on the advice of a physician. If the diarrhea does not improve within a short time, a physician should be called and a complete examination should be made. The three F's, flies, fingers and food, are the three sources of danger to the baby. Flies carry disease germs to the baby and to its food. Fingers and hands that are not thoroughly washed before preparing the baby's food are likely to be germ carriers also. All milk and water that is intended for the baby should be boiled for five minutes, then carefully covered and kept in a cool place until used.

OPLIN

Everyone should have a leafy vegetable at least once each day, said Miss Clara Brown, H. D. Agent to the Oplin H. D. Club, Thursday, June 17, at the home of Mrs. Johnson.

If the leafy vegetable is over cooked, the flavor is lost and along with the natural flavor go the vitamins and minerals which are necessary for normal health said Miss Brown. She concluded her discussion and demonstration by preparing a leafy vegetable by steaming, Irish potatoes, by baking, and a strong flavored flavored vegetable, by boiling. These were served to the group. The president Mrs. R. G. Looney presided over the meeting. The following were present: Mesdames C. P. Correll, Herbert Johnson, John Roberson, Andrew Johnson, Pete Pierce, J. H. James, Tom Wagner, Sebe Monroe, Leta E. Ried, Wallace Johnson, R. P. Slough, Clyde Floyd, R. G. Looney and Misses Alice Correll, Lucille Monroe, and Clara Brown.

San Jose Woman Thankful To Find Relief

Troubled with Sluggish Stomach, Had Pains from Gas. Couldn't Rest. Now Relieved from Misery.

The following is a letter from Mrs. G. Barbano, 738 Rincon Avenue, San Jose. This letter is a frank statement of Mrs. Barbano's experience with Williams S. L. K. Formula. "For the past two years I have been troubled with sluggish stomach and liver. I had considerable pain from gas after I ate and I became very ill. I would have dizzy spells and the back of my head pained me. I couldn't rest. I tried many remedies yet I still suffered. I heard about Williams S. L. K. Formula. I decided to try it. After a few bottles I felt much better. I slept better. My condition has improved greatly. I am thankful I found Williams S. L. K. Formula. I recommend Williams S. L. K. Formula to anyone troubled as I have been. I certainly keep a bottle of S. L. K. on hand at all times.

If you doubt the statements made here, write Mrs. Barbano at 738 Rincon Avenue, San Jose. Many Hundreds of Sufferers Have Found Such Relief With Williams S. L. K. Formula.

If you are listless, tired, and worn out, actually so sick you can hardly keep going because of poisonous impurities resulting from stagnant bowel condition, if your appetite is gone and you are suffering from awful biliousness, tormenting sick headaches and skin eruptions resulting from the sluggish action of your stomach and bowels, if your kidneys are sluggish causing frequent night urination, result in sleeplessness, try Williams S. L. K. Formula and see for yourself. It helps to relieve these conditions because it acts as a stomach tonic, diuretic, carminative, and laxative.

No Secret to S. L. K.: Williams S. L. K. Formula is only a doctor's prescription. The ingredients used in this medicine are plainly printed on the label. Your druggist will tell you what these ingredients are and he will tell you what this prescription should do for you. Come in to our store, THE CITY PHARMACY. Let us explain the merits of Williams S. L. K. Formula to you. If it suits your case, give it a real trial. Then, we know you will be as enthusiastic over this prescription as the many thousands who have benefited.

Mr. and Mrs. John Prestadge and little daughter, Billie Ruth of Canton, visited W. C. Jenkins Sunday.

F. D. R. EYEING THIRD TERM?

Belief He Is Grows in Capital . . . State Troops Act For Peace in Strikes . . . Mediation Board Hits Snags

"Humanizing" the Majority

AS MAJORITY members of congress met on Jefferson island in Chesapeake bay with President Roosevelt, to have their relations with the chief executive "humanized," the belief in Washington circles that the President is willing to accept a third term expanded to the greatest proportions it has yet known.

President Roosevelt

George H. Earle of Pennsylvania that he would give "unqualified and final" support to a Roosevelt - for - President movement in 1940. Further reports had it that John L. Lewis, chairman of the Committee for Industrial Organization and leader of the sit-down strikes that have swept the nation, was working toward the same end.

The "humanizing" on Jefferson island was interpreted as attempts to salvage the New Deal programs, which have been getting a mild kicking around in congress of late, through heart-to-heart talks between Mr. Roosevelt and his supporters in the Capitol.

States Patrol Strike Areas

AS NATIONAL guardsmen, ordered out by Gov. Martin L. Davey, arrived on the scene to protect the public peace in Ohio cities where C. I. O. steel strikes have caused bloodshed and threatened more violence.

At Warren, troops dispersed pickets and allowed loyal workmen to move in and out of the Republic Steel plants. A general strike which the C. I. O. had ordered and claimed to be 40 to 70 per cent effective was recalled after a day, with the threat, "The next time our men are called out, it will be on an even a larger scale."

Philadelphia were forced to evacuate under a federal court eviction order. During the seven weeks the sit-downers had occupied the plant they had wrought damage to machinery and books totaling $3,000,000, according to company officials.

Nazi Fleet Moves on Valencia

FOR the second time Germany and Italy withdrew from the four-power non-intervention patrol of Spain, asserting that by this act their "freedom of action" was restored. Hitler immediately ordered the strongest units of the Nazi fleet to Valencia, the loyalist capital, the while assuring Great Britain he would commit no rash act.

Hopkins Slices WPA Rolls

WORKS PROGRESS ADMINISTRATOR HARRY L. HOPKINS is busy trimming $14,759 names off the WPA rolls, to shave the total to 1,655,477 by mid-July. The cut was to be effected "simply through not replacing men who found jobs in private industry" and by combing the lists for ineligible.

Miss Perkins Names Three

THE federal government took a hand in the settlement of the dispute between John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization and the big independent steel companies, as the mediation board of three, appointed by Secretary of Labor Frances E. Perkins, sat in Cleveland to hear the cases of both sides.

Secy Perkins

As the mediators began their task of effecting a compromise, a dozen persons had been killed in strike riots and scores more injured since the strike against Republic, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, and Inland started May 25. Eighty-five thousand workers already have lost approximately $10,000,000 in wages.

Charles P. Taft II, Cincinnati lawyer, son of the former President and chief justice, and a member of the "brain trust" of Governor Landon's presidential campaign, was named chairman of the mediation board. Appointed to sit with him were Lloyd K. Garrison, former president of the national labor relations board, and Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor and a former A. F. of L. organizer under Samuel Gompers.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

The New NRA BILL.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF. —They do say the new NRA bill, as drawn by the Gallagher and Shean of the administration, Messrs. Corcoran and Cohen, is more sweeping than was the original NRA.

Even Gen. Hugh Johnson, once as conversational as Mrs. Astor's parrot, but lately exiled amid the un congenial silences, crawls out from under a log in the woods with lichens in his hair, but the lower jaw still working smoothly in the socket, to tell how drastic a thing it is.

Irvin S. Cobb

Critics assert this legislation will cover business like a wet blanket over a sick pup, and point out that the number of sick pups benefited by being tucked under wet blankets is quite small. However, these fussy persons belong to the opposition and don't count.

Friendly French Visitors. IT SEEMS we were cruelly wrong in ascribing mercenary motives to those French financiers who've been dropping in on us lately. They came only to establish more cordial relations. Of course, there's a new French bond issue to be floated, but these visits were purely friendly and altruistic.

Still and all, I can't help thinking of Mr. Pincus, who invaded the east side to invite his old neighbor, Mr. Ginsburg, whom he hadn't seen in years, to be a guest at Mrs. Pincus' birthday party.

He gave full directions for traveling uptown, then added: "Were we lift now it's von of dose swell walk-up flats. So mit your right elbow you gif a little poesh on the thoid button in the doorlam downstairs and the lock goes glick-glick and in you come. You go up two floors and den, mit your other elbow, you gif one more little poesh on the foist door to the left and walk in—and vill mommer be surprised!"

"Vait," exclaimed Mr. Ginsburg. "I could get to that Bronx. I got brains, ain't it? But also I got fingers and thumbs. Vot is de poosh-mit-elbows stuff?" Murmured Mr. Pincus gently: "Surely you wouldn't come empty-handed!"

Visiting Ancient Ranches.

UNDER the guidance of Leo Carrillo, that most native of all native sons, I've been visiting such of the ancient ranches as remain practically what they were before the Gringos came to southern California. You almost expect to find Ramona weaving in a crumbly patio.

What's more, every one of these lovely places is lived on by one of Leo's cousins. He has more kinfolks than a microbe. They say the early Carrillos were pure Spanish, but I insist there must have been a strong strain of Belgian hare in the stock. When it came to progeny, the strain was to the Pacific coast what the Potomac had been to the eastern seaboard. It's more than a family—it's a species.

And a mighty noble breed it is—producing even yet the fragrant essence of a time that elsewhere has vanished and a day when hospitality still ruled and a naturally kindly people had time to be mannerly and the instinct to be both simple and grandly courteous, at once.

Privileges of Nazidom.

THE German commoner may be shy on the food rations and have some awkward moments unless he conforms to the new Nazi religion. But he enjoys complete freedom of the press—or rather, complete freedom from the press. And lately another precious privilege has been accorded him.

He may fight duels. Heretofore, this inestimable boon was exclusively reserved for the highborn. But now he may go forth and carve and be carved until the field of honor looks like somebody had been cleaning fish.

This increase in his blessings makes me recall a tale that Charley Russell, the cowboy artist, used to tell: "The boys were fixing to hang a horse thief," Charley said. "He only weighed about ninety pounds, but for his heft he was the champion horse thief of Montana. The rope was swung from the roof of a barn. Then they balanced a long board out of the loft window, and the condemned was out at the far end of it, ready for the drop, when a stranger busted in."

"Everybody thought he craved to pray, but that unknown humanitarian had a better notion than that. In less'n a minute he came inching out on that plank and there wasn't a dry eye in the crowd as he edged up behind the poor trembling wretch and slipped an anvil in the seat of his pants." IRVIN S. COBB. ©-WNU Service.

SEEN and HEARD around the NATIONAL CAPITAL By Carter Field

Washington. — Congress is all headed for a big high tariff drive. So far it has no head, no organization. But that is bound to come. Up to date it is an individual industry and district situation. Some hundreds of different industries, which compete with imported products, are pounding away on their senators and representatives, insisting that amendments to the tariff law be passed. They want the rates on their products boosted high enough to make up for the increases in cost of production since the present rates were written, plus the increased costs to come when the pending wages and hours legislation is written into law.

For instance, take the manufacturers of women's shoes, up in Edith Nourse Rogers' Massachusetts district. Their principal foreign competition comes from Czechoslovakia. They had a duty of 29 per cent on women's shoes. Some time back they made a case before the tariff commission and succeeded in convincing the commission so completely that the commission gave them as big a boost as the law would permit—fifty per cent. This made the duty on sewn women's shoes 39 per cent.

But even this is not enough, even for present conditions, to equalize costs of production, the manufacturers say. Besides which, the Czechs have been sending in cemented instead of sewn shoes lately, and these have to pay only 29 per cent.

But when the new wages and hours law goes into effect, they point out, they will simply have to close down unless the tariff is boosted beyond the present legal capacity of the tariff commission to raise it. In short, they must have an act of congress.

It Doesn't Happen

Politically speaking the idea of putting through a bill to raise the duty on shoes and shoes alone is almost unthinkable. It simply does not happen. Always there are more representatives from districts which buy shoes but do not make them and who therefore are inclined to vote against a measure which would have the effect of increasing the cost of living for their constituents.

This apparently does not occur to the shoe manufacturers. But it will to the representatives of shoe manufacturing districts before many days pass. For the interesting part of the situation is that shoes are just one of about a hundred industries which are worried to death by the increased costs the wages and hours bill is going to impose on them.

All of them are screaming to their friends on Capitol Hill that they will have to close down when the wages and hours bill goes into effect—unless they can get enough additional tariff protection to deprive the foreign manufacturers of this advantage.

The late Representative William P. Connery, of Massachusetts, who introduced the wages and hours bill in the house, attempted to meet the problem. His bill would bar goods produced without regard for the wages and hours restrictions of the bill. The senate draft has the words "in any state" after the word "production." Connery left these out.

But no one takes this seriously. They think it would be impossible to enforce, and they are certain his idea will disappear before the final passage of the bill.

Worries Treasury

One trouble about the gold situation—which is causing furores on Capitol Hill and gray hairs in the Treasury department—is that the gold producing and holding nations just don't believe us!

If they could be sure that Uncle Sam was not going to reduce the price of gold—in dollars—from thirty-five an ounce, the desire to sell it just might fall off amazingly. Of course, it's true that gold is worth a little less to a good many foreign sellers than thirty-five good American dollars. They want the dollars, and, what with tariffs, and quotas, and reciprocal trade treaties and whatnot, it is not so easy for them to get the dollars any other way than by shipping gold for them.

But nobody can estimate what the situation would really be if all the gold producers and holders in the world outside the United States could be convinced in some way that Roosevelt and Morgenthau were not going to reduce the price. At present, and for some months, there has been an uneasy feeling that the price would be reduced by the world's biggest gold buyer. Hence there was the urge to get under the wire before the price was lowered.

It's simpler when put the other way round. What the foreign chaps are really doing is not so much selling gold as buying dollars. For Uncle Sam to reduce the price of gold would mean to them simply that they would have to pay more for these dollars. So the present situation is much like what would happen in a small town if all the housewives suddenly began to believe that canned milk was going to advance three or four cents a can, without warning, but very soon.

All the housewives in town, save a few who would be very hard up, would be at the grocer's next morning laying in a supply. Very prudent ones would ask the price of a case. And incidentally such a movement, if sufficiently widespread, would have the effect of pushing the price of canned milk up anyhow, even if the rumor had been entirely false at the beginning.

Close Parallel

This last is a very close parallel to what has happened on gold. As a matter of fact there was no intention whatever of reducing the price of gold when the rumors first began to circulate in foreign capitals. Some one figured out that America really didn't need all this gold, could not afford to go on borrowing money, on which interest would have to be paid, to buy it. So he began commenting on the possibility of a reduction in price by Washington.

The word went round the world like wildfire, and gold began pouring to the United States. It had been coming steadily before, but now it became such a flood that the British government stepped in, at the request of Washington that something be done about it, and began buying.

The trouble really is that all the precious metal dealers in the world—and they are credited with being a pretty shrewd crowd of operators—remembered the American silver fiasco. How the same administration now in power started to put the world price of silver up to $1.29 an ounce, starting when it was around 45 cents. How they ran it up, by big purchases, to nearly 89 cents, and then, suddenly, got cold feet. Whereupon the price of silver dropped right back to 45 cents, with Uncle Sam still holding all the silver bought at higher prices.

They expect the same thing again, and it is not difficult to understand why.

Big Fight Ahead

Compulsory arbitration of labor disputes, with government officials as the referees, will be the issue in the next big labor campaign, high New Deal officials predict. When it comes all the present labor leaders will be in the opposition, and will part company for the first time with a considerable element of the New Dealers.

The fight will not come, New Dealers admit privately, until the present campaign is over, with victory perched on the banners of organized labor. Some of them think this will take two years, some figure it will take longer, but they do not expect the opening of the compulsory arbitration fight until the entire country is on a closed shop basis.

A hint of this, and that the probability is realized by New Dealers and labor leaders alike, was manifest in the recent Consumers' Power strike in Michigan. John L. Lewis rushed lieutenants to the spot by plane, stressing in his public statement that the men did not know an agreement had been reached. He obviously did not want a discussion as to the right of the men to tie up an industry, and punish hundreds of thousands of innocent bystanders, in order to hurry the negotiations.

But Governor Frank Murphy had just wired a demand that power be furnished without any such apology. It was immediately after hearing this that Lewis' statement was issued. There was a suspicion at C. I. O. headquarters that Governor Murphy's demand would have been made regardless of this agreement having been reached.

That was a disturbing thought. It involved not the obvious difficulty about unauthorized strikes, insubordination in labor ranks, etc., but whether labor has the right to strike when such a strike would bring hardship and suffering—instead of merely advanced costs—to the general public of any community. It is the sort of issue involved in the general strikes so much discussed a few years back, and tried unsuccessfully in England.

Sure to Come

Compulsory arbitration is coming. There is no doubt about that. But it is not coming quickly. It may not come for several years. But the feeling even among strongly pro-labor New Dealers is that someone simply must be supreme, and this someone must have political responsibility—be responsive to the public.

But there will be no real move with any chance of success, the New Dealers say, until labor has won the present campaign. Until then, they think, the government should be on the side of labor.

For the objective, of course, is to have the principle of collective bargaining in operation in every industry, with the closed shop universal. When that state is reached, they say, then labor must accept its responsibilities. It is almost unthinkable that its demands in every instance should be sound. Sometimes labor leaders will demand more than they should receive—the interests of the people who buy the products of that industry being considered. In such cases, it will be necessary for the government officials to decide on the merits of the dispute.

WITH BANNERS

Brooke Reyburn visits the office of Jed Stewart, a lawyer, to discuss the terms of an estate she has inherited from Mrs. Mary Amanda Dane. Unwillingly she overhears Jed talking to Mark Trent, a nephew of Mrs. Dane who has been disinherited. Mrs. Dane had lived at Lookout House, a huge structure on the sea, built by her and Mark's father. Brooke had been a fashion expert, and Mrs. Dane, a "shut-in," hearing her on the radio had invited her to call and develop a deep affection for her. Mark discloses that Mrs. Dane had threatened to disinherit him if he married Lola, from whom he is now divorced. He says he does not trust Henri and Clotilde Jacques, Mrs. Dane's servants. Leaving her department store job, Brooke refuses an offer to "go stepping" with Jerry Field, a carefree young man who wants to marry her. At a family conference she learns she must live at Lookout House alone, since Lucette, her younger sister who is taking her job, and her mother plan to stay in the city. Jed and Mark are astounded when they hear from Mrs. Gregory, a family friend, that she had witnessed a hitherto unknown will with Henri and Clotilde two weeks before Mrs. Dane died. Brooke has arrived just as she was leaving. Jed suggests that Mark open his part of Lookout House, get friendly with Brooke and try to find out about the will. Jed agrees to stay with him. Mark accepts Brooke's invitation for a family Thanksgiving dinner at Lookout. Mrs. Reyburn announces on Thanksgiving eve that she has been invited to England. Sam and Lucette decide to move in with Brooke and Sam plans to produce a new play locally. After the Thanksgiving dinner Brooke tells Mark that little of Mrs. Dane's silver collection is left. Jerry Field and his sister Daphne drop in and announce they will be neighbors for the winter. Later Inspector Harrison of the local police visits Mark and is informed about the missing will and silver. As Harrison leaves, Lola arrives. She announces that she and her new husband, Bert Hunt, have started a neighborhood filling station. Mark almost makes a break about the missing will and Brooke is suspicious. Returning home, she sees Lila talking covertly to Henri. Henri is ugly and warns Brooke she had better like him and Clotilde. That night while the cast of Sam's play is rehearsing and the Jacques are away, Mark shows Brooke the missing silver which he had found cached in an unused upper floor store room in his house. He reveals that the door connecting their houses has been unlocked. A black-gloved hand pulls the key from the store room door.

"What do you mean by coming down when I told you not to move? What do you mean? I might have struck you!" "But you didn't, Mark. I felt like a quitter hiding in the dark while you came down alone, so I crept after you. What did you see?" "Nothing here—but the door is locked." "A black-gloved hand did pull the key from the store room door, didn't it? I didn't dream it, did I?" "If you did, I was in the same dream, Brooke. Wonder when they intend to remove the stuff." "You think someone is planning to take it away?" "Why else should it be there? It probably was moved from Lookout House to this one, which has been unoccupied for years, before I came back here to live. After Aunt Mary Amanda went, I was the only person who would know about the silver, and I was far away in South America. That's why Henri's face turned chalky when he saw me enter your living-room on Thanksgiving day." "Then you noticed it too? I thought it might be my imagination." "He was white, all right. Come on, we can't get back to Lookout House through this door. We'd better beat it downstairs and out that way. Lucky I pocketed your key." "Hurry! Hurry! Suppose it was Henri who left those keys in the doors? Suppose he remembered that he had left them and stole back from the movies? I told him that you and Jed Stewart would be with us for supper after rehearsal. He may be looking for me now to see if I was telling the truth." In the lower hall, which was slightly scented by the smoky aroma of open fires, Mark laid a detaining hand on her shoulder. "Wait! Listen!" The stillness of the high-ceilinged rooms was accentuated by the low moan of the wind at the corner of the house, by the muted thunder of the sea, by the sharp crackle of a burning log; was haunted by the weird wail of the distant siren, but no human sound intruded. "Coast's clear. Let's go. Hold on!" Mark Trent frowned at her bare arms and throat, ivory tinted above the lace of her frock. "You need a wrap." "To go from one door to another! Don't be foolish. If we don't hurry, Henri may get there before us." In the green-walled living-room at Lookout House, Mark Trent threw a log on the smoldering fire and poked it into flame. "Come here and get warm, Brooke. You are still shivering." "If I am, it is from excitement, not cold." She toasted her fingers

"Then I'll throw a party for the Reyburns and Fields at that new Supper club just opened in town. Give them a let-up from the play. What say, maestro?" "Okay with me. It's darned good of you. Perhaps I have overworked them, but there is so little time before the performance." Sam sat up and ran his fingers through his hair. "With that so near, wouldn't you think those dumb-bells would know their parts? I ask you! Besides that, the leading man has walked out on us."

"It's tough. Can I help, Sam?" "Can you help? I'll say you can. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their party. Take the lead." He caught Trent's arm. "Be a good scout. Help a poor, distracted playwright-producer, will you? With you and the Crane woman in the leads, we'll make a two-star offering of it. That girl's good." Sam's despair had changed to exaltation. Mark Trent temporized: "How do you know I'm good?" "How do those bozos out in Hollywood know an actor will be a wow on the screen sometimes before they give him a try-out? Something here, m'lud, something here." Sam tapped his broad brow, "tells me you'll be stopping the show." "That same something couldn't tell you where I'm to get the time for a theatrical career, could it? All right, all right," Mark conceded in response to Sam's groan. "I'll take the part. Give me the sides and I'll try to know the lines at the next rehearsal." Sam gazed at Brooke as she entered the room. He hugged her as he exulted: "What'd you think, gal? Trent has signed up for 'Islands Arise'! Will he pack 'em in as the lead? I ask you!" Jerry Field appeared at the door beating a huge spoon against a tin pan. "First call for the dining car! First call—" Sam held up his hand. "Just a minute! We're all invited to dine and dance tomorrow by the new male lead in 'Islands Arise,'

"Started for the Sole Purpose of Chiseling Money Off Me, I Suspect."

Mark Trent! Sam Reyburn announcing. "You in the play, Mark?" "How exciting!" "Dinner and dance in the big city! What a break!" Jerry Field interrupted the excited comments. "Where are your gardenias, Brooke?" His tone set Mark Trent's lips twitching. Under cover of lighting a cigarette, he caught the girl's furtive glance at the wastebasket. She put her hand to her shoulder. "Why—why I must have dropped them." "Where've you been?" "Hi there, m'lud! Sam's tone and manner were those of a stern parent guarding his offspring. "That isn't a topic for group discussion. We don't make people punch the time-clock in this family." Jerry Field's face turned a bright and lively crimson; his voice and eyes were furious. "I wasn't asking Brooke to punch the time-clock. I thought I might find the gardenias for her—!" He stopped as Jed Stewart appeared on the threshold. He was tapping a gardenia against his lips. "Run to earth, Mark. Who's the charmer who leaves a flower outside your door?"

CHAPTER VII

An hour later Jed Stewart slumped deeper into a crimson-cushioned chair in Mark Trent's library and demanded: "How was I to know that Field had brought Brooke the gardenias? Didn't he look like a meat-axe though, when I barged into Lookout House waving that flower and giving the whole show away by telling where I picked it up? I'm the original village cut-up, I am." He lighted his pipe. "It wasn't all my fault. I didn't know, did I, Mark, that you and she had been cruising round this house?" "You didn't. I hadn't told you then that I had discovered Aunt Mary Amanda's silver parked in a store room. Decided to wait till I had the goods on someone, but I couldn't resist the temptation to show it to Brooke. You should have

Improved Uniform International LESSON SUNDAY SCHOOL

By REV. HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Lesson for July 4

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 1:6-14; 2:23-25. GOLDEN TEXT—Before they call, I will answer; and while they are yet speaking, I will hear.—Isaiah 65:24. PRIMARY TOPIC—A Prayer for Help. JUNIOR TOPIC—In Need of Help. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Cries Rise to God Today? YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God Cares When a People Suffers.

Independence day—and we are to study about a people in bondage! How much that is like life. But, thanks be to God, no one need stay in bondage. The way to liberty is open and free. The Lord Jesus Christ opened it at Calvary's tree and anyone who is still the bond slave of Satan may make this a great and glorious Independence day by now declaring his faith in the deliverer of our souls! We begin today a series of lessons in the book of Exodus which reveal the high and mighty hand of God working on behalf of his people. Many are the precious spiritual lessons and rich is the practical instruction for daily life to be received in the weeks just ahead. Let us not make the unfortunate mistake of many thoughtless folk who miss the blessing of Bible school attendance because it is a bit warmer than usual. This is the time to look for a special blessing and to bring encouragement to your pastor and Sunday school leaders by regular attendance. The family of Jacob—or, as the Bible calls them, "the children of Israel"—prospered in Egypt particularly as long as Joseph and the rulers who remembered him were alive. But they soon learned one of life's bitter lessons, namely, that—

I. Prosperity Often Brings Opposition (1:6-11).

The Hebrews were a peaceful, law-abiding people. They were God's chosen people and as he blessed them they prospered, and thus innocently they brought upon themselves the hatred of the suspicious Egyptians. Prosperity is never an unmixed blessing. We as a nation know that to be true. Not only does it lead to a certain softening of the sinews, but all too often it results in a weakening of the moral fiber, which makes man easy prey to the attack of the enemy of our souls. The Egyptians made plans which appealed to their brilliant leaders as politic and wise, but they reckoned without God, and the burdens and afflictions they placed on the Israelites only served to bring further blessing.

II. Adversity May Bring Blessing (vv. 12-14).

The people of Israel did not know it and undoubtedly did not appreciate the fact that the bitterness of their bondage was a blessing in disguise. Note that— 1. It kept them separate as a people. Affliction often serves to keep God's people separated from the world. 2. It disciplined them and prepared them for the hardships of their wilderness journey. We too do well to remember that "whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth," and that if we are properly "exercised" thereby our sorrows may yield rich fruit in our lives. 3. It threw them back upon God. Many are the saints of God who have found that the fiery trial, the burden so hard to understand or some affliction of their body has caused them to bring their burden to the Lord. We have traveled far on the road of faith when we have reached the place where we learn that "Man's extremity is God's opportunity." They had only one place to turn. They were hemmed in on every side but, as ever, they found that the way up no man can close. They called on their God.

III. Prayer Always Brings God's Answer (2:23-25).

Does God really know when his people suffer? Does he really care? Yes, he does. "They cried," and "God heard" and "remembered." That's all we need to know. The groanings of his people had already stirred God's gracious and tender heart. But he waited to hear their cry before he answered. Such is the law of prayer. May we not forget it. Far too often we turn to everyone and everything else, and finally, in desperation, to God. Why not turn to him first? As we opened this lesson with an appeal for all who knew not Christ as Saviour to make this the day of their Declaration of Independence, so we close by appealing to all God's children to let him make their ears as sensitive as his to the cry of the oppressed, that this national holiday may find every Christian citizen tender in heart and liberal in deed toward those who are oppressed.

Keep Up the Fire

A coal fire that is very small, maintained merely to keep it alive, is likely to die out altogether. So a religious life that is reduced to the lowest point short of extinction goes the same way. Do not risk this experience.—Bishop O. P. Fitzgerald.

Use of Copra

The word "copra" comes from the Malay "kopperah," or coconut, and is now used to denote the dried meat of the nut. The oil extracted from copra is used for making soaps, candles and butter substitutes; the residue or pulp, is used for feeding cattle. Much of the product gathered on the South Sea islands goes to Sydney, Australia, for this purpose. Coconuts are the wealth of the islanders. They supply food and drink to the natives, and the milk of the growing nut is changed by fermentation into a toddy.

Burning Gas On Stomach All Gone Now

Yuba City Man Suffers for Years, Failing to Eat for Fear of Misery

I HEARD of GASA tablets to relieve a sour stomach, so I tried a bottle. After just two day's treatment I have never experienced another gas pain," joyfully writes Mr. Geo. Lutes, Yuba City, California.

In his own words he states: "I have suffered for several years with some burning gas on my stomach. I was always constipated and I had no appetite. I failed to eat for fear of misery. I tried everything for relief but had no results."

If you are suffering from gas pains, sour stomach, indigestion and sick headaches, due to acidity you should get this wonderful new preparation at once. This remarkably successful prescription, known as GASA Tablets, absorbs the acid in your stomach, and allays the inflammation. It is refreshing relief from the burning, caustic effects of soda or the usual remedies containing this ingredient, and used to neutralize the acids.

GASA Tablets are also an aid to digestion, containing ingredients that help convert the "hard to digest" starchy foods into dextrose. You need no longer deprive yourself of the foods you crave and can look forward with pleasure to the enjoyment of good health, so dependent on an unrestricted diet. Because of the wonderful results GASA Tablets have given, they are offered to you under the positive guarantee that the first bottle must produce results or your money will be cheerfully refunded. On sale at THE CITY PHARMACY.

GUARD YOUR SECURITIES INVESTMENT

This is the first of a series of articles prepared by D. Leon Harp, Securities Commissioner of Texas, President of the National Association of Securities Commissioners and Director in the National Association for the Prevention of Fraud in the Sale of Securities. These articles will appear in (The Star) from time to time as they are received from the office of the Commissioner at Austin.

The results of numerous national surveys show that more than eighteen million people in the United States are owners of corporate stocks, debentures, municipal bonds or other forms of securities. We are, in fact, the greatest nation of investors on the face of the earth. Placed upon various estimates, it is safe to say that more than one million people in the State of Texas come within the category of securities investors. One need not look very far to see some of the results brought about by this tremendous pooling of capital. The system has provided not only a means of making money by investing money, but it has brought about the employment of hundreds of thousands of laborers and skilled workers, and has made of America the world's greatest industrial country. This growth of corporate enterprise and joint use of capital has created an economic system that affects the daily lives of each and all of us. If the bed you slept in last night was made in one of America's large furniture factories, several thousand people furnished the capital to manufacture it. If you had bacon for breakfast this morning that came from one of the several large meat packing companies, thousands of other stockholders received benefits from your investments. Very likely, the telephone you use is owned by more than three hundred and fifty thousand people. If your wife's scissors, your razor, the hoe in your garden or the wire in the fence around your farm is made of steel, manufactured by a certain American steel corporation, you made a purchase from a company owned by more than two hundred thousand people. Your radio, your automobile, your electric refrigerator, the pavement on your roads and streets, the books you read and countless hundreds of other things you enjoy were made possible by the contribution of capital, practically all of which is evidenced by some form of securities. Thus, our daily needs come from the furnishing of billions of dollars by millions of people who make money by hiring out their capital.

The issuance and sale of securities has brought about the most technical phase of our business life. Back of your stock certificate, for instance, in a large utility corporation, there are facts and figures that might well baffle the mind of any but an expert on utility financing. Not one stockholder in a hundred knows these facts and figures. The average investor puts his money into the security upon representations made by others or through blind faith. The greater part of such financing is fair and honest, but the very nature of this plan of financing, the vastness of its boundaries and the bewildering ramifications that lead here and there has made it possible for men without conscience to cheat and defraud the investing public out of billions of dollars. Some estimates place the losses as high as two billion dollars annually losses suffered through actual fraud.

It is the purpose of the securities laws to protect the investor against the machinations and unholly schemes of the promoter and salesman. These laws, at the same time, offer encouragement to those who raise capital honestly and who manage corporate enterprise faithfully. Some form of a securities act has been passed by forty-seven of the forty eight states of the union. The Federal Government has passed regulatory acts involving the issuance and sale of securities to protect the investors of the whole country. Texas should be proud of the Act its Legislature has passed and has upheld since its enactment.

In a forthcoming article, your Commissioner will point out the main features of the Texas Securities Act and will demonstrate to the readers of this paper how it works to protect the investors against the racketeer.

It is unlawful in Texas for unlicensed dealers and salesmen to sell stocks, bonds, oil and gas leases, and other classes of securities. The investor should help the state of Texas protect him against fraud by refusing to deal with unlicensed salesmen and dealers. Each licensed salesman and dealer carries with him an identification card with the seal of the State of Texas and the signature of the Securities Commissioner thereon.

After a winter's driving, it is always advisable to see that the cooling system is in shape for maximum warm weather efficiency. If this has been neglected up to now, it should be attended to before that summer trip. The result will be a cooler engine, longer life from lubricating oil, and generally improved performance. Water should be checked occasionally during the journey, too, of course.

Assuming that transmission and differential lubricants have been changed to the proper grade for summer driving the levels of both should be checked before the start of a long journey. So should the oil in the crankcase, which, of course, should also be changed at intervals recommended by the manufacturer.

The solution in an automobile battery evaporates rapidly in warm weather than in cold, and the short time it takes to have this detail checked, and water added if necessary, is always well invested.

The average motorist thinks about tires only when he has a "flat". A little extra attention to the subject will not only reduce tire troubles to a minimum, but add considerably to the comfort of riding and the ease of driving. Cars steer more easily when the tires are inflated to the proper pressure and it is especially important that the pressure in the left and right be the same.

For complete comfort in motor ing, tires should be checked now and then during a journey. Protracted driving on hot pavements in summer may expand the air to a point where the ride becomes bumpy because the tires are so hard. On the other hand, tires with insufficient air wear out rapidly, because of the constant flexing of the casing near the point of contact with the ground. They are also more likely to suffer rim cuts traversing rough roads.

Today's cars rarely develop any serious trouble, even extended journeys. But a succession of minor annoyances, easily averted by a little advance preparation, have often marred an otherwise perfect trip. The vacationist who looks after these details as a matter of routine is taking out good insurance on the success of his trip.

VACATION SUGGESTIONS

Mile for mile, motor cars require less attention from their users today than ever before. This is explained partly by the increased reliability of the product, and partly no doubt, by the fact that motorists are becoming educated in the simple routine procedure which keeps their automobiles near peak efficiency all the time.

With summer at hand, and hundreds of thousands of owners planning vacation trips in their cars, a few suggestions about preparation for such journeys will be timely. An extended trip makes more strenuous demands of an automobile than does normal use around home, and it is only sense able, when planning a trip to see that every detail affecting per-
