Pour the soil as it can be held the growing season. If you want to add high value per acre, name Dr. J. C. Parsons, Purdue University, West Lafayette, Indiana
Like Parsons notes the best way to build your soil needs is to study the land, its management history, to learn the climate, and prepare the land. With the help of these tests, he will tell what fertilizer is needed and how much is required to bring the soil up to standard supply of vital elements. Parsons notes that soil and soil structure should be earth if the plans are made for a clean job. It is always best to get the help of field men in the guide of plenty and fertility and structure of pasture.

Proper Techniques Yield Results in Hand Nail Care

By Erle Baker

In the past, many women have neglected their hands in favor of their faces. However, with the increasing recognition of hand care as an important aspect of overall beauty, there is a growing interest in maintaining healthy, attractive hands. One of the key elements in achieving this is proper nail care.

Proper nail care begins with the preparation of the nail area. This involves cleaning the nails and surrounding skin, gently pushing back the cuticles, and removing any rough or dry skin that has accumulated on the hands. Once the hands are clean and dry, a clear nail polish can be applied to the nails to help maintain their strength and durability.

A variety of nail care products are available, including nail files, buffers, and cuticle pushers. These tools can help keep the nails smooth and well-maintained. It is important to use the right products for the job, as using the wrong tool can cause damage to the nails.

Proper hand care also involves the use of moisturizers and lotions to keep the skin soft and supple. This is especially important during the winter months, when the skin can become dry and cracked. Regularly using a hand cream or lotion can help prevent this from happening.

In conclusion, proper nail care is an important aspect of overall hand care. By following these steps, you can help keep your hands healthy and attractive, and enjoy the benefits of moisturized, well-maintained skin.

on regular grade gas—Now!

It's always interesting to hear about future-looking experiments with new super engines to run on new super-octane fuel, namely power.

But it's even more interesting to hear today's real-life, on-the-highway talk about Chrysler's new super-performing FirePower engine. FirePower takes any regular grade gas you care to buy... and adds its own new mechanical octane to the power-giving octane of the gasoline itself. The result is 180 horsepower performance as on no other passenger car built in the U.S. today can expect.

If you haven't driven Chrysler FirePower yet, your Chrysler dealer invites you to do so now. It's the most revolutionary engine in 37 years. It offers highway acceleration and safety such as you've never known. And it's a wonder engine in other ways than any other on the road. Its new design features it without completely sacrificing smoothness. It is smooth and quiet... but also rugged and strong and free from need for great attention and repair.

Now remember that this same new Chrysler offers you the new Hydroflite power steering... plus the amazing new rough-road stability of Outlaw shock shock absorbers... plus Water-Flo Ignition, and Versa-Cease Chrysler Cyclebonded super-brakes... and more all the time as we say the car of your tomorrow is right here for you to drive... today, and for years to come!

By long established custom, the Korean bridegroom stays with his bride three days in her father-in-law's house before returning with her to his home. This period begins for the Korean only after marriage. Even if it is in a bachelor's opinion, his bride's influence.

The Korean's traditionally habit of wearing many and varied hats is said to have had its origin as a measure against plotting. An ancien ruler, the legend goes, once concluded that men could not conspire if they could not put their heads together. Hence he required his subjects to wear such huge hats that whispered conversations could not be carried on.

New Dusting Methods Tested in Ohio Champaign County May Revolutionize Spraying

Henry H. Brown, assistant in agricultural engineering of đến, recently reported new dusting equipment that may revolutionize methods of dusting grain. The new unit, since first used, has been adopted by several large operators to speed dusting processes.

In the conventional dusting method a dust is thrown up or down at a relatively slow speed to assure proper settling, but uniformity of applied dust is very difficult to secure. This new unit uses a high-speed stream of air to carry the dust through the air to the target without waste and with uniformity of application.

A dust gun fitted with the new nozzle projects the dust at a speed of from 100 to 200 miles per hour. If the wind is from the side, the dust settles in a pattern as much as 150 feet wide.

New instrumentation is needed in poultry business

Producers of Day Old Chicks

In an effort to revolutionize the breeding program of poultry producers, grower and hatcherymen in Indiana and Illinois recently announced that a new instrument, the Electrino, will revolutionize the practice of breeding poultry.

The new device, a simple electric instrument, measures the strength of the electric impulse developed by the body of the individual poultry being tested for breeding purposes.

The instrument, which has been perfected by Dr. J. B. Watson, director of the poultry department of the University of Illinois, operates on the principle that the strength of the electric impulse developed by the body of the individual poultry being tested for breeding purposes is an indication of the reproductive ability of the individual.

The instrument is now in use in several large hatcheries and is proving to be an extremely valuable asset in the breeding program of poultry producers.
