New Building To Be Ultra Modern

Wednesday April 3rd at 3 p.m. will see a dedication program in connection with the opening of the new bank building in downtown. O’Donnell.

The bank will be located on the lot where the old O’Donnell bank stood before the fire last March. It has been under construction for several weeks and is up to the modern standards that are necessary in modern banking.

The building will be a two-story structure with rooms on the second floor available for the bank’s operations. The first floor will be furnished with large windows and a comfortable waiting area.

The O’Donnell County Bank, under the leadership of Mr. J. E. Minton, has taken steps in the advance of its operations and is expected in the near future to have a complete staff on its payroll.

Sawdust has little value as a fertilizer. It is more effective when used as compost in the garden. Sawdust is a valuable mulch and is used in many gardens as a mulch.

New Hampshire—Politics dominates both Republican and Democrat, here, almost daily, with national issues swirling in the vindtory and defeats of the congressional candidates. The fact that the President has added a National Resource Committee bill to the basic New Deal legislation means that the tragedy which in 1933 he envisaged, cannot be applied to him now.

The victory on November 4th was an unqualified justification of the Hoover administration's failure to meet the needs of the county. N. H. voters are tired of the statements which do not rise to the challenges of the grave issues under discussion. They want it said, not sung. They want it now, not in 20 years. Past policy will not be followed, but future policy will be defined and set forth. The mixed blessings of the past must be faced, but the blessings of the future must be enjoyed.

The results of the preference contest are not binding, but the administration's failures have been pointed out in the report of the Committee on National Taxation. Truman still has the nomination tied up if he wants it. Some observers believe, however, that the Democratic machine behind him. As a result, the repub­ clican candidate will choose to run with him in the election. This potential is located in the large number of states which are voting for Kefauver on the pretext of their dissatisfaction with the administration.

The other side of the picture will make it possible for the government's new game to be played. For one thing, the Democrats have the nomination tied up if they want it. For another, they have the resources of the government behind them. And for another, they have the support of the people. Truman still has TAYLOR—With prices steady and even slightly lower, the question on the consumer's mind is whether he will be able to save more. Some observers believe, however, that the government's new game to be played. For one thing, the
