FOR THE LITTLE TYKES - Workmen were building the wading pool for the little youngsters, next to the larger pool, yesterday. Progress on the Bicentennial Swimming Pool continues at a rapid pace, and plans still call for the ribbon cutting ceremony and opening splash day to be on July 4th. Additional financing is still being sought through two-year family swim permits, and can be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Pool memberships still available

Family memberships are still being offered for use of the Iowa Park Bicentennial Swimming Pool.

Harold Cowley, project chairman, said two-year family memberships are still being accepted for $115, and the money will be used for construction of the pool. Membership donations can be made at the Chamber of Commerce.

Families now owning memberships are to be contacted within the next two weeks by the Chamber of Commerce for a list of members in the family. Cards for each member will be issued, and the names kept on record at the pool gate.

Those owning memberships will be allowed free swimming during all hours the pool is open to the public, from now until the first of July in 1978.

Tentative admission for open swimming, those not having memberships, has been set at 75 cents for school age children and younger, and $1.25 for adults.

Completion of the pool's construction is in its final stages. Yet to be done, Cowley lists, are the pouring of the concrete ramps around the pool, building of the fence, installation of the filtering system and a house around it, coating the interior of the pool with a white material, and walkway.

Plans are for the pool to officially open July 4th, following official dedication ceremonies.

Tax equalization board meetings set next week

The evenings of three Iowa Park men are pretty well scheduled for next week. They are the members of the city's tax equalization board.

Facing Hoyt Watson, Walt

Fowler and Preston Morton are at least 76 persons who have signed up to appear before the board.

Normally held on one evening, the board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday and Tuesday, skip Wednesday, but be back in session again Thursday. They will meet again Friday, if necessary, and on into next week if the list keeps piling up until all complaints are heard.

Appointments before the board have been made on a "first-come, first-serve basis", according to Ithama Jolly, city tax assessor/collector.

City administrator Gene Britton pointed out that the board has only the power to adjust tax appraisals when it can be proven that they are not equal with other, similar property. The board cannot raise or lower the tax rate, which is established by the city council.

Six injured in head-on collision

Six persons were injured and a Wichita Falls man was charged with driving while intoxicated as a result of a two-vehicle accident Saturday night near the intersection of Bell Road and Old Iowa Park Road.

Officer Hotchkiss with the Texas Department of Public Safety investigated the accident.

The mishap occurred shortly after 10 p.m. Saturday.

One of the vehicles, driven by Christina Hobbs Wilson of Iowa Park, was traveling west on the Old Iowa Park Road.

The other automobile was driven by Gary Lynn Parks of Wichita Falls. The Parks vehicle crossed over into the west bound lane of the Old Iowa Park Road and collided headon with the Wilson vehicle, Hotchkiss explained.

Wilson was admitted to Wichita General Hospital for injuries received.

Parks also was taken to Wichita General Hospital, and later was filed on for driving while intoxicated, Hotchkiss said.

Brandon Lee Morrison of Iowa Park also was taken to Wichita General Hospital.

Three passengers in the Wilson vehicle were taken to Sheppard AFB Regional Hospital. The passengers, all from North Carolina, included James E. Cowan, his wife, Ethel, and the couple's child, Phillip, 5.

Leader to print early next week

The Iowa Park Leader will be published a day early next week, Bob Hamilton, publisher, announced.

It has been the custom of the Leader to publish a day early four issues annually, allowing Hamilton and his family to attend conventions of the Texas Press Association and West Texas Press Association.

Attending the four weekend conventions takes the place of a regular vacation for the publisher and his family.

The Hamiltons will travel to San Antonio next weekend for the Texas Press summer meeting, where Hamilton will be named first vice president of the nation's largest state press group.

Deadlines will all be moved up one day, Hamilton said. Advertising must be received by 4 p.m. Monday, and classified advertising by 10 a.m. Tuesday.

"We have always appreciated the cooperation of our advertisers and persons submitting news articles, whenever we make plans for our conventions," said Hamilton.

The office will maintain its regular 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. hours the balance of the week following publication.

Police receive mischief reports

Three cases of criminal mischief and one theft were reported during the past week to the Iowa Park Police Department.

Windshields of two vehicles, a 1974 Chrysler and a 1972 Lincoln, were broken with rocks sometime Friday night at Thomas Auto Mart on East Highway.

Sometime Saturday night, two vehicles owned by Danny and Terry Ainsworth, were attacked by someone. The cars were parked at 110 Garden and 413 Aldine.

Missing from a Volkswagen, which had the windshield broken out, were a chrome gear shift knob, set of keys and radio control knobs. From a Mustang were taken a pool cue and gasoline.

Sometime between 2:30 and 6 p.m. Sunday someone smeared a squash on the windshield and door glass of a car owned by Amy Dressler, 1611 Douglas. The offense report also listed that the attackers had put what appeared to be a food coloring in the window washer container.

Five local boys, between the ages of 15 and 18, were apprehended Tuesday after they reportedly took a case of soft drinks from the Coca Cola Company delivery truck at Earnies Food Store, 208 James. No charges were filed, however.

MS drive set Monday night

Some 96 volunteers will commence a door-to-door canvas of Iowa Park at 7 p.m. Monday, soliciting donations for the Multiple Sclerosis (MS) fund. Under the guidance of G.R. "Rusty" Rusk, local drive chairman, each volunteer will have two hours in which to cover a designated block and turn over the funds to their respective area captains.

The captains, who are Kenneth Garrett, Mrs. James Farmer and Mrs. L.D. Swift, will then turn the money into Rusk at the State National Bank.

AT COUNCIL MEETING

Questions answered about 1976 budget

One of the largest audiences to attend a city council meeting in recent years filled the Texas Electric Service Company Reddy Room to standing capacity Monday.

Primarily they were there both to register complaints about the recent re-evaluation of city property and to ask the question "Why does the city need such an increase in taxes, all in one year?"

Monday's meeting was the official annual budget hearing, where all questions concerning revenue and expenses for the coming year are answered.

Most all of the audience had left, however, when a resolution giving tax relief to the elderly was passed by the council.

When the property was re-evaluated this spring, homes and buildings were assessed at market value, changing from square foot rates as have been used in the past. The new system of assessing values was dictated by the state legislature, not the city council, Gene Britton, city administrator, explained.

Re-evaluation raised the city's total assessed value from $9,985,630 to $22,203,878.

The 1976 budget, based on 70 percent of value at $1.80 per $100, is anticipated to produce $1,002,790.

Mayor Johnny Crawford explained this is a "minimal budget", based on the needs of the city to operate the coming year, while repaying bills which have accumulated over the past.

Numerous times the mayor pointed out, while emphasizing that he was not criticizing any individual or council in the past, that the city's financial situation was "not of this council's making."

ANSWERS GIVEN

All members of the city council, except vacationing Joe Singer and Mrs. Earl Watson, were present at the hearing.

Immediately after the invocation, C.A. Hicks asked that the agenda be set aside and that he be allowed to ask five questions. Mayor Crawford agreed.

Hicks asked "Why wasn't people told the city was insolvent six months ago?"

Crawford said the city was solvent. After asking Hicks, who was a building contractor before retiring, if he had never needed to borrow money on which to operate, while remaining solvent, Hicks went on to the second question.

Hicks: "Why did the council give away $10,000 to the swimming pool without consent of the people?"

Crawford: "The council had the authority, and we considered it an investment in the town. This council had nothing to do with it."

Hicks: "How can this council justify such an increase in taxes and raising utilities 25 per cent?"

Crawford: "We need it to pay the bills."

Hicks: "Do we (the city) pay for all those (utility) lines to the new additions outside town?"

Crawford: "No, not that I know of."

At this point, while talking about additions outside the city limits, Crawford asked Hicks how he voted on the proposed Home Rule Charter elections. Hicks said he had been against it, and Crawford said many of the problems existing today could have been avoided if the city had a Home Rule Charter. He said a charter change proposal would probably come up again in the future.

Former city alderman Frank Harlin questioned the expenses of the city, comparing them with the 1970 expenses.

He told of the city budgeting $5,104 to operate the parks and recreation department that year, and spending only $4,351 of it, despite paying Leroy Threet $1,165 to operate the Youth Center and over $1,000 for electricity. "But we're not even using it now," he said.

Harlin said even with the library's $1,200 budgeted in 1970, it and the parks and recreation totaled only $4,000, but said this year's budget was for $22,500.

Britton explained that the big difference is $13,000 in salaries for the department, which includes the librarian and a worker who had been paid in the past by the street department who keeps up the parks.

Harlin said he thought the school paid for the librarian.

The former alderman said the 1970 budget called for only $51,000 for the police department, but the new budget allotted $139,058, even though there were still only two cars for the department.

Personnel costs, including four more officers and salary increases, were the major reasons given for the new budget being higher than the 1970 budget.

Harlin said he could not understand why the budget was doubled, when the town had not doubled in population since 1970.

"I want to remind you we inherited this" financial situation, Crawford said, "but we cannot ride our creditors."

When asked by Crawford if the city wants less services, and where would the cutting start, Harlin said "Right at the top - swimming pool, parks and recreation, library, police..."

Herb Smallwood commented on Crawford's earlier statement that city taxes had not been raised in eight years. He said his were raised $75 last year. Though he said he didn't mind a slower increase of 10 to 15 percent, he did object to 50 to 70 per cent and said the people on fixed incomes could not afford the new rates.

Crawford explained the city's staffed with minimal number of personnel, but with the present staff the population could be increased to 12,000 without needing more workers.

Britton, explaining the need of the city to "catch up" on its finances, said the city spent $16,000 more than it received last year. In addition $47,000 was committed but not paid. And the debt service fund of $49,000 which must be paid July 1 has been used for other expenses.

In all, the city owes approximately $100,000, he said.

The $76,000 in capital outlay, for street repairs and other services which must be made during the coming year, along with the debts owed, account for the increase the budget calls for, he said.

About the number of persons on the police force, Al Ward said he believed their (police) hands were tied by liberal laws and courts, and because a criminal is picked up and released almost immediately, Iowa Park didn't need but one. "I think everybody ought to take care of their own," he stated.

Howard Hill asked why this (financial) situation could not have been avoided.

Crawford: Lot of services, money and other things were donated in the past, which weren't paid from city taxes. Also "We can't operate on a part time basis, that's why we have Mr. Britton here."

The mayor pointed out that increasing taxes were not unique to Iowa Park. He said Burkburnett and Wichita Falls were at the present time working on new budgets.

When trash pickup service was criticized, which is to be done twice weekly in residential areas, but has been only once a week for a lengthy period, the lack of funds to repair or replace defective equipment was explained.

Alderman Billy Gilmore also pointed out the extensive expenses of operating a sanitary landfill, which is required by state and federal governments.

Mrs. Cecil Brown told the council her three-room house had been raised in value from $1,500 to $3,025, and

Applications must be made for exemption

The long-awaited tax break for elderly of Iowa Park was approved unanimously Monday night by the city council.

Resolution 76-5 enables all residents of the city to apply for a $3,000 tax exemption on their homestead, if they are 65 years of age or older, as allowed by a recent amendment to the state constitution.

Persons qualifying must make written application at the city hall, however, before the exemption can be acted on, according to Gene Britton, city administrator.

There appears to be considerable confusion among residents as to whether they are registered for the exemption or not, because of a survey made during the past year, and due to mention of the exemption on recent re-evaluation tax notices.

The earlier notices were made for information only, Britton said, and persons who have not made application at the city hall must do so before their homesteads can be exempt by $3,000.

Legion equipment stolen Saturday

Property valued from between $200 and $250 was stolen from the American Legion Post at the Valley Farms Community House sometime Saturday night.

Taken were a large and small refrigerator from the kitchen area. One had two cases of beer in it and the other contained several bottles of soft drinks. Also taken was a barbecue grill from the outside.

Entry was reportedly made by breaking a kitchen window, and exit by kicking out a side door.

May sales taxes total $10,736

The City of Iowa Park has been reimbursed by the state for $10,736 in sales taxes collected by businesses here during May.

The one-cent city sales tax rebate is allocated to cities monthly by the state comptroller's office.

State-wide, rebates totaling $48.9 million were mailed to 846 cities and towns, according to Bob Bullock, comptroller.

Bentley-Smith wed in double-ring ceremony Saturday

The sentimental intimacy of a home wedding characterized the double-ring ceremony performed Saturday afternoon to unite Miss Cindy Lou Bentley and

Rocky Drew Smith. The home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Bentley, was the setting for the exchange of vows by their daughter and the son of Mr. and Mrs. David T. Smith of Wichita Falls. The couple recited their solemn pledges and promises under the direction of the Rev. Jacky Newton, pastor of Faith Baptist Church, before the fireplace decorated tastefully for the occasion. The screen was covered with a spray of palm leaves and the hearth was flanked by white Grecian urns filled with sunbursts of white gladioli, marguerite daisies and gypsophelia. The mantel was decorated with garlands of flowering boxwood and centered with a gold cross and bride's white Bible between white tapers uprising from gold candelabra.

Wedding musicians were Dave Bridgers, organist, and Ben Valdez of Wichita Falls, vocalist, who sang "More" and "The Lord's Prayer". The organist presented a concert of pre-nuptial selections and the time-honored wedding marches.

The bride's father presented her in marriage. She wore a formal gown of bridal white satin fashioned with a V-neckline edged with Venise lace and full chiffon bishop sleeves accented with cuffs encircled with lace. The A-line skirt flowed into a brush train.

Her shoulder-length illusion veil bordered with matching lace was attached to a Juliet cap of Venise lace and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet consisting of a cymbidium orchid surrounded by marguerite daisies, English ivy and gypsophelia with trailing satin streamers.

Mrs. Roy Roberts of Wichita Falls, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a formal yellow bonded crepe gown designed with a lace-trimmed empire waist, scoop neck and lace-trimmed bishop sleeves. She wore a yellow picture hat edged with yellow ribbon and carried a white basket filled with yellow daisies.

Chuck Bentley, brother of the bride, was best man. The men in the wedding wore Salem tuxedos with ruffled yellow shirts.

The table where guests registered in the bride's book was covered with a yellow embossed cloth and held a tall white memory candle encircled with wedding bells, lilies of the valley and two tiny ceramic doves. Miss Sandra Hammack secured signatures of wedding guests.

A reception was held following the wedding. The refreshment table was draped to the floor with a white satin cloth and decorations were arranged to focus attention upon the wedding cake, a three-tiered, column-divided delicacy accented with yellow confection flowers and green leaves. The complementary top ornament was three white satin wedding bells filled with yellow lilies of the valley. The crystal punch service featured a bowl with a base filled with floating daisies and gypsophelia. Misses Elaine Vestal, Dawn O'Donnell and Becky Horton presided at the table during the reception.

A rehearsal luncheon was held at The Village Square in French Village in Wichita Falls.

The bride attended Iowa Park High School. The groom was graduated from Hirschi High School and is employed by Charter Industries in Henrietta. The couple will live in Wichita Falls following a trip to Dallas.

Special out-of-town relatives at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Petty of Bowie and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hatten of Electra, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Lovie McDuffie of Wichita Falls, grandmother of the groom.

Other out-of-town guests included Messrs. and Mmes. J.E. Dorman, Greg and Missy, Larry Dorman and Lanny, Mickey Petty and Candy, Miss Tina Roberts and Steve Giland, all of Bowie, Rev. and Mrs. John Klappenbach and Tammie of Dallas.

Owen-Wilson wedding vows exchanged Friday evening

Miss Judieth Gaye Owen and Thomas Ewing Wilson recited their matrimonial vows Friday evening in the Faith Baptist Church at an altar centered with a gold arch covered with flowering huckleberry foliage standing between starburst arrangements of white gladioli. Decorative appointments in the lower altar were oval candelabra holding white wedding candles and the prayer bench.

The Rev. Jacky Newton directed the service uniting the daughter of the late L.B. Owen of Iowa Park and the son of Mrs. Bell Wilson of Sulphur Springs and the late James Wilson.

Mrs. Erma Barton of Holliday, organist, presented "Theme From Love Story", "My Own True Love" and "O Perfect Love" for the pre-nuptial selections. She provided accompaniment for Mrs. Phil Anderson's vocal solos, "Whither Thou Goest" and "Wedding Prayer". The organist's offerings included the traditional processional and recessional.

The bride was presented in marriage by her uncle, Hal Rasmussen of Holliday. She was attired in a candlelight organza gown trimmed in pearl-embroidery Chantilly lace. The slightly-raised bodice featured a sheer yoke and high scalloped lace collar. The unlined straight sleeves ended in double-flounced ruffles over the hands. The most distinguishing feature of the A-line skirt was the deep hem flounce headed by an applique of lace and pearls. Her three-tiered veil of candlelight illusion was caught to a lace camelot. She carried a white Bible topped with a cascade of white carnations centered with a cymbidium orchid.

The bride observed the sentimental traditions by wearing her late father's Purple Heart for "something old", pearl earrings and her wedding ensemble were "something new", "something borrowed" was the Bible that held her bouquet, borrowed from her aunt, Mrs. Hal Rasmussen, and she conformed to tradition by wearing the blue garter. Mrs. David Cooper of Fort Worth, the matron of honor, and Mrs. Troy McDougal of Wichita Falls, the bridesmaid, wore long pink polyester dresses with scoop necklines and A-line skirts topped with flowered jackets. On their heads they wore picture hats banded with white lace threaded with narrow pink ribbon. They carried cascades of pink carnations and pompons.

Rhonda Rasmussen of Holliday, the bride's cousin, who served as flower girl, wore a white embroidery polyester frock over pink taffeta. The yoke of the bodice and cuffs of the long sleeves were trimmed with bands of white lace interlaced with narrow pink satin ribbon. The finishing touch of the dress was a pink satin sash that tied in front in a bow centered with a cabbage rose. She wore a headpiece of dainty soft pink flowers with falling streamers knotted with lilies of the valley.

The ring bearer, Robert Rasmussen of Holliday, cousin of the bride, wore a white dinner jacket trimmed in black with black pants.

The groom chose an all-white tuxedo for his wedding attire. His best man was Troy McDougal of Wichita Falls and Tom C. Wilson of Burkburnett was groomsman. Ushers were Delbert Clark and Neil Wilson.

During the ceremony, the bride bestowed special honor upon her aunt, Mrs. Hal Rasmussen and Mrs. Neil Wilson when she presented them with long stemmed roses. Both wore blue formal gowns.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

A tall white ceramic cherub filled with pink gladioli, carnations and pompons was the decorative piece for the two pink net-covered tables where they came together to form a V-shaped table. Gold candelabra accented with pink and white carnations and gypsophelia, crystal and silver serving pieces and the wedding cake were other table appointments.

The three-tiered cake was given special prominence in the table setting with its two sets of dividers, heavy side scrolls and pink roses formed of frosting and the top ornament, a miniature bride and groom that topped the 50th wedding anniversary cake of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Owen.

During the reception,

Miss Deanne McDougal directed signatures of the guests in the bride's book at a table repeating the pink and white theme.

Assistants were Mmes. Tommy Johnson, Delbert Clark, John Dwyer and Jack Rogers. Rhonda Rasmussen passed out rice bags.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Dallas, the bride wore a three-piece pant suit. She was graduated from Odessa High School and Aladdin Beauty College. She works at McClurkan's Canned-Ego Beauty Salon. A graduate of Sulphur Springs High School, the groom served in the U.S. Air Force and works for McAlister Trucking Co. They will live in Wichita Falls.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Beck, the bride's grandparents and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Beck from Cordell, Okla. and Mr. and Mrs. David Cooper and Paul David from Fort Worth.

Jones-Shook nuptial vows read in rites here Friday

A single-ring ceremony was read Friday evening in the Church of Christ uniting Miss Pamela Denise Jones and Rickey Don Shook. Carl Hecker, minister, officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Charlie Wilson of Kamay and Frank Jones of Wichita Falls and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Shook of Iowa Park. His grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Shook and Mr. and Mrs. G.V. Henderson, all of Iowa Park.

The focal decorative points in the nuptial setting were two seven-branched Swedish steel candelabra twined with flowering dogwood and a large pedestal arrangement of white gladioli. Blue satin bows marked the aisle pews of the church. The music for the seven o'clock nuptials was provided by an ensemble composed of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Beall, Mr. and Mrs. Jamie Inman, Mrs. Wm. Mattis, Chris Lester, Linda Beall and Charles Mattis, who sang selected numbers from the church hymnal and "If". Mrs. Inman presented two vocal selections, "Wedding Song" and "We've Only Just Begun".

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of white embossed crepe accented with lace, made by her mother. The lace was featured in a smart yoke with a ruffle, high collar, long sleeves with wide cuffs and a wide panel extending down the front of the gown and through a deep flounce of self-material that complemented the skirt above floor level. She wore a chapel veil of lace-edged illusion accented with scattered lace appliques. She carried a Dutch colonial spring bouquet fashioned of elegance carnations, daisies and baby's breath in hues of blue, yellow and white with blue satin streamers.

The bride's attendants wore checked gingham dresses in spring colors and each carried a single matching carnation combined with leather leaf, baby's breath and streamers. Miss Billie Kay Gavin of Wichita Falls, the maid of honor, wore green. Miss Donna Gandy of Iowa Park and Miss Connie Morgan of Holliday, the bridesmaids, wore yellow and blue frocks, respectively.

The masculine participants in the wedding chose black tuxedos. The groom wore a ruffled white shirt and the others wore shirts to harmonize with the colors of the gowns worn by the bride's attendants. Arlen Shook served as best man for his son. Groomsmen and ushers were Craig Shook, brother of the groom, and Raymond Morgan of Holliday.

The bride is a senior at Iowa Park High School. The groom, a 1976 graduate of Iowa Park High School, is employed at Catlin Gulf Service Station.

For the reception held at the church following the wedding, the refreshment table was covered with white net and centered with the bouquets carried by the bride's attendants and her lovely bouquet. The crystal punch service and four-tiered cake completed the setting. The cake was a towering structure with column dividers and the decorations were frosting roses in the shades of green, blue and yellow and the popular bride and groom ornament on top.

Miss Laura Jones presided at the bride's book and Miss Penny Hawthorne and Mrs. Frank Jones Jr. served at the refreshment table.

For the wedding, the mother of the bride chose a long white crepe dress complemented with a pale green cymbidium orchid. The groom's mother wore a yellow cymbidium orchid with her formal gown featuring a pink skirt and white lace blouse.

The rehearsal dinner was given by Mr. and Mrs. Arlen Shook Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Williams.

The newlyweds chose Lawton, Okla. for the wedding trip and the bride wore a blue and white pant suit and a corsage lifted from her bouquet.

A special out-of-town relative at the wedding was Mrs. Winnie Phillips of Vernon, great-grandmother of the groom. Others included Mrs. Clara Mae Bell of Vernon, his aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Morgan from Fort Worth, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Haralson, Jay and Joel from Nocona.

What you don't know about the cost of natural gas can hurt us all.

You know you're paying a lot more for natural gas, but you may not know why. The reason is basically simple:

The average price Lone Star has had to pay its 500 independent suppliers for gas we supply you has risen (about $166,000,000 more in 1975 than in 1974*). So we have to charge more.

If Lone Star were not able to recover these increased costs, we could run into some major problems.

First, we wouldn't be able to buy the gas this area needs. Short supplies of natural gas could handcuff industry.

When industry runs short, jobs begin to disappear. Production falls off. The tax base our cities, counties and school districts depend on begins to shrink.

That's why you need to understand how our industry works, why gas bills have to go up, and what Lone Star is doing to keep the increases as small as humanly possible.

Some important questions.

Here are some important questions and answers about our service.

1. How do our gas bills compare to other cities? Our customers pay less for natural gas than most cities, including other cities in Texas.  We feel we're doing a pretty good job of selling natural gas at the most reasonable price possible.

2. Does gas cost adjustment guarantee profits for Lone Star? Not at all. In fact, the company has been forced to initially absorb 15 per cent of higher adjustments. This is a serious loss that must eventually be recovered if our cities are to have adequate gas supplies in the future, and if Lone Star is to have a fair return, to which it is entitled by law.

3. Who checks on Lone Star Gas? The Texas Railroad Commission, after a thorough investigation, sets our base (or wholesale) cost of gas. They set the rate of return on the pipeline system that brings the gas from the well to your city. They also monitor changes in the monthly gas costs of Lone Star, and this monthly gas cost information is filed with each city we serve in Texas.

4. How high will gas bills go? Today, your bill is based on the average cost of gas to Lone Star of a little over one dollar per thousand cubic feet. Gas bills will continue to rise in the years ahead, but probably at a much slower rate than recently. It appears that the field price of gas is leveling out so that increases will be much more gradual.

It's not all bad news.

Basically, all of those answers say that gas costs more than it used to, and it will continue to cost more.

But there is good news: As long as Lone Star is able to recover its costs, and as long as there is sufficient incentive for producers to drill for new gas supplies, we'll have the gas we need to keep this area moving.

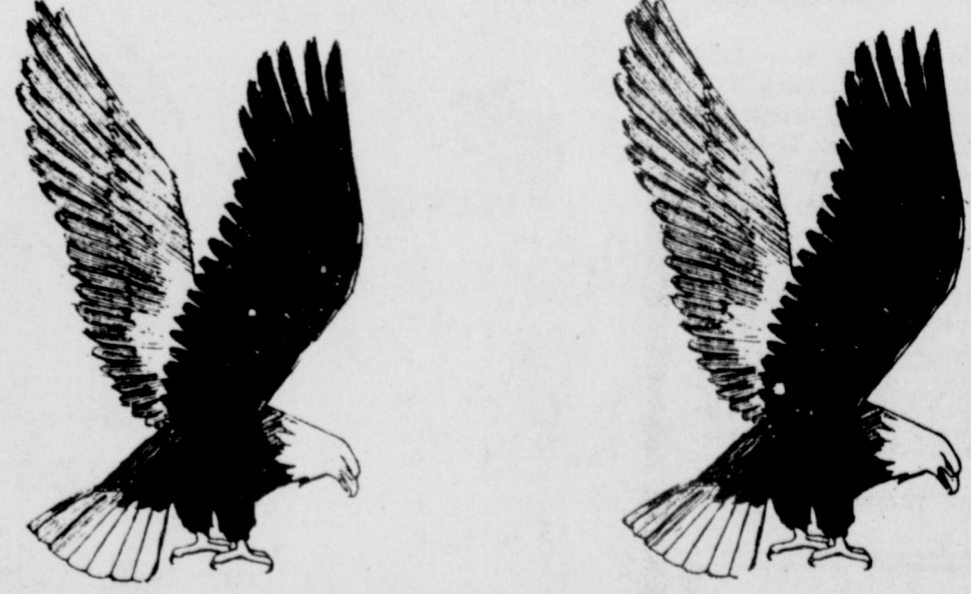

All we ask is your understanding, and your cooperation, to make sure that happens.

If you have a question you'd like answered in an advertisement, write Consumer Information, Lone Star Gas, 301 S. Harwood, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Post election cleaning needed

The national, state and local primaries are well behind us now. However, it appears some politicians don't want us to forget the elections of May and June. Many candidates, especially those who ran for local posts, still have the countryside plastered with their posters and signs. Those cardboard posters and signs still appearing on utility poles, fence posts and in the bar ditches aren't unlike a kitchen table in the morning still cluttered with the previous night's leftovers and dirty dishes. It seems reasonable to assume responsible politicians would strive to set an example for the citizenry by cleaning up after their campaigns. If nothing else, economics would be a good argument for retrieving the signs and posters, because there'll be another primary in four years. In many instances, those same posters could be used again. The next time you see a politician or would-be politician who's still advertising his services, point it out and urge him to clean up his act. -LEWIS SIMMONS

Country Store Treats

The country store near our home was an interesting place for many reasons but I liked the way it was built. The owner had traveled around the country and gathered up rocks from every place he had been — from every state in the union but three. He had built his store with those rocks. He never tired of taking us around the building, pointing out various rocks, telling us an interesting story about where each came from, what it was or maybe about someone he had met on that particular trip. A covered porch graced the front of the building and under its cool shade were benches where old folks passed the time. They would delight us with stories about the old days and sometimes show us tricks. Once a man showed me how he could cut off his finger, put his hand in his pocket and make the finger grow back on. That one was a little tough to figure out. The parking place in front was paved with rusty bottle caps. They had been thrown out there for years and had completely covered the ground. When a car or horse came along they would make a certain chinking sound. It was a nice sound, I think much nicer than concrete or asphalt makes today. When we went to the store we would sometimes get (if we promised to be good for a whole week) a nickel to spend on a treat of our choice. The choice was never easy but our attention would be on the candy counter or the shelves that held stacks of comic books or toys. We would spend a little time thumbing through our favorite "funny book" but we didn't always buy. I usually selected something from the candy counter (my pudgy little body would have given you the clue). A nickel chocolate bar was pretty good sized in those days but a dime bar would practically feed a whole family. The choice was difficult because one had to look at everything several times to make up his mind. Mother would become impatient after it took us so long to make up our minds and say we were leaving whether we bought anything or not. We would quickly have to decide and make our purchases. On the way home I would decide I had made the wrong choice and start wishing I had gotten the same thing my brother had. I'd try to get him to trade with me. "Nothin' doin'!" would be his reply. I'd beg him until he would finally give in and trade but it was usually on the condition that he got to keep his prize, baseball card or whatever. Of course I would have to give him my whole treat, prize and all. I wasn't too smart in those days.

Congratulations to the Iowa Park City Council for facing up to the city's financial situation, taking the necessary action, and standing up for their beliefs. Council members could well be compared with the wild animal who's been caught in a steel trap, and, in order to survive, suffers chewing off its own leg to escape. The council found itself in a situation not of its own making, like the trap. For the city to survive, by paying its bills, the members had to raise the money. And if you don't think facing your friends and neighbors after raising their taxes is unlike chewing off one's leg, think again.

annual inflation the past couple of years. Not mentioned were poor budgets the past four years, poor mainly because no one knew exactly how much money was available. Not mentioned was the lack of gradual increasing of taxes to keep up with normal increases. Not mentioned was the exact number of population increase. But it was pointed out that, despite the high price of next year's budget, there was nothing figured in it for a salary increase for anybody on the city payroll. Citizens expect, and deserve, a certain standard of service from their municipal government. But all services carry a price tag. And we seldom want those services until we miss or need them. Certainly, we hate to pay for them, especially when the price increases. But our hard-working council has spent uncounted hours pouring over their budgets, cutting wherever they could. And that's a pure, cold fact. One other point. Because I am somewhat connected with the Bicentennial Swimming Pool project, and might know some things about it and the city's money you don't, let me tell you this: The council had no idea they did not have the $10,000 committed to the pool's construction. But they saw the need as a service to the community, and agreed to put that much in it. That $10,000 will not be paid until late this calendar year, at the request of the pool committee. Other arrangements are being made, that the city does not have to put borrowed money into the project. And the council did not know until construction was well underway that it did not have the money. Too late to back out, though I doubt they would have, knowing their strong belief in the need of the facility. The pool has become the whipping boy of those who complain about the new city budget. Remember this, that commitment is 1/100th of the budget, and is less than 1/10th of what is owed or committed but not spent. The $10,000 had precious little effect on the budget, and in fact amounts to just over $1.20 per resident. A bargain!

Retail Committee sets sales event

A town-wide sales promotion is being planned and encouraged by the Retail Sales Committee, it was reported from last week's meeting of the organization. The "sellabration" promotion would begin July 1 and continue through the following Saturday, leading up to the community's Bicentennial celebration on Sunday. Members also told Chairman Don Flowers to proceed with ordering the necessary supplies for the second annual "Try Iowa Park First" Christmas promotion. The Retail Sales Committee is a branch of the Chamber of Commerce.

COUNTRY STORE

Crawford explained that the rate is 70 percent of market value, but if she did not feel her taxes were equal with others, she should appear before the tax equalization board.

In response to a question by A.L. Bohannon as to whether the tax appraiser inspected each home and did not "raise it from the office", one man in the audience spoke up and said he sure did "because I came along and caught him at my house."

When asked if taxes would be lowered next year, after the "catching up" was completed, Crawford said "We should have $120,000 excess at the end of the year to be in proper financial position, to pay bonds due July 1 and to pay expenses until taxes start coming in (in October)." He indicated he did not look for a lowering of taxes next year.

Britton told the audience the city had cut the normal monthly expenses $11,000 last month over the previous four months by cutting down on buying.

Extension Center honor list told

Eight of the 13 students Vernon Regional Junior College's Iowa Park Extension Center named to the Honor List for the spring semester were from Iowa Park and one was from Kamay.

The list includes those students enrolled from seven to 12 semester hours and who achieve a grade point average of 3.0 for all work attempted and have no grade below a "C".

Frances N. Riley was the student from Kamay who made the honor list. From Iowa Park, the students were Linda Janelle Ayers, Judy G. Blewett, Jimmy W. Bradberry, Betty Cannedy, Gerald E. Franks, James W. Frazier, Terry M. Johnston and Vickie Lynn Pierce.

Sechovec-Johnston are wed recently in Chicago church

The Saint Alexander's Catholic Church in Chicago, Ill. was the setting for the June 5th ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Patricia Ann Sechovec and Randall Mark Johnston. Officiant for the four o'clock double-ring nuptials was Father Thomas Dulski.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Marie Sechovec and E.J. Sechovec Sr. of Chicago and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnston of Iowa Park.

Wedding music was provided by Kerry Johnston of Iowa Park, brother of the groom. His selections included "Aria" by Peters, "Tocata and Fugue in D Minor" by Bach and "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" by Wagner. For the professional, he played Wagner's Bridal Chorus and played "Tocata from Symphony No. 5" by Widor for the recessional.

The church was lighted with a profusion of candles and the altar was decorated with white potted mums.

The bride's father presented her in marriage. She wore a white embroidered silk organza gown over pink. Her fingertip illusion veil was held by white and pink silk flowers accented with tiny pink bows. The bridal bouquet was fashioned of white orchids, pink rosebuds and baby's breath.

Miss Andrea Sechovec of Houston, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. She was attired in a floor-length pink jersey dress with a sheer cape. She wore baby's breath in her hair and carried a water bouquet consisting of white carnations, small pink roses with pink ribbon accents.

Miss Catherine Sabaski participated in the wedding as maid of honor. She wore a full length pink jersey dress with a sheer cape and a picture hat with a cascading veil in the back. She carried a water bouquet featuring the same flowers in the junior bridesmaid's bouquet enhanced with white and pink ribbon trim.

Miss Lynn Hamilton of Savannah, Ga. and Miss Carol Van DenEeden of Chicago were bridesmaids. Their gowns were identical to the one worn by the maid of honor. They wore picture hats without veils and carried water bouquets like the flowers carried by the junior bridesmaid.

Rebecca Sechovec of Chicago, niece of the bride served in the role of flower girl and wore a long pink chiffon frock patterned with long sleeves and hoop skirt and wore a headpiece of baby's breath. She preceded the bride to the altar scattering rose petals in her path from a white basket filled with white carnations and pink roses.

M.K. Johnston of Iowa Park, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Michael Jacobs and Russell Sechovec of Houston.

For the wedding, the bride's mother wore a floor-length pink silk shantung dress and a white orchid tinted pink. The groom's mother chose a long spring green polyester crepe dress, complementing it with a green-tinted white orchid.

The newlyweds were showered with rice as they left the church for Oakbrook Terrace Holiday Inn banquet room for the reception dinner where 100 guests were served.

Members of the wedding party were formally introduced as they entered the reception room in procession, the bride and groom entering last when they were introduced as Mr. and Mrs. Johnston for the first time.

A white covered table at the entrance held the bride's book and wrapped wedding gifts for the couple. The bride carried a white silk purse for the monetary gifts.

The table where the wedding party sat for the dinner was covered with white and the bridal attendants' bouquets provided the decor. The white-laid guests tables held pink and white carnations in crystal holders.

Following the dinner the bride and groom cut the wedding cake, then fed the traditional bites to each other. The confection was then cut, wrapped in individual packages and placed on the table at the entrance to the room for guests to pick up when they left.

Throughout the evening, traditional ceremonies were held to include throwing the bride's bouquet, removing the garter, the unveiling and tying on the apron.

The bridal suite was reserved for the couple.

The bride was graduated from Willowbrook High School in Chicago and the Chicago College of Commerce. She works as secretary at Foley's Department Store in Houston. The groom was graduated from W.F. George High School in Iowa Park and Midwestern University where he belonged to the band and Kappa Kappa Psi. He is band director of St. Pius High School in Houston where the couple will live.

"How can I control my air conditioning costs this summer?"

UNDERSTANDING YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

Here's a checklist of things you can do to keep your cooling costs down when the temperature is up.

- Have your air conditioning unit checked to be sure it's operating at top efficiency. Try a thermostat setting in the upper seventies. Keep filters clean. Check them every month. Keep air vents clear so air can flow freely.
- Close fireplace dampers. Keep direct sunlight out with awnings, draperies, blinds or shades. Keep doors and windows closed. Try to limit traffic in and out. Vent clothes dryers to the outside. Use kitchen and bathroom exhaust fan only to remove excess heat and moisture. Schedule cooking, washing and ironing for the cooler times of day to avoid adding excess heat to your home. Raise your thermostat at least five degrees if you're going to be away for several hours. Turn off air conditioning unit when on vacation unless there are items that might be damaged from heat. Attics should be well ventilated to prevent excess heat buildup. Make sure your insulation is at least up to the latest FHA standards. Weatherstrip or caulk around all doors and windows. Keep shrubbery trimmed back from outside units to allow good air flow. Consider cooking outdoors more this summer. Consider storm doors and windows. Think of them as insulation. Remember that a window unit is designed to cool only one room. Turn it off if that room is not being used. If buying new air conditioning, get the unit with the highest energy efficiency ratio (EER) — at least seven or better. For a free copy of our newest booklet on how to save electricity, give us a call. Or request one on the comment portion of your bill.

Chief speaks on crime

Police Chief Charles Beaver addressed the United Methodist Women in their meeting Tuesday morning on "Crime and Public Safety".

He gave many useful deterrents to crime that citizens of Iowa Park can help police enforce, such as: keeping safety locks on houses, using caution and common sense when leaving homes for even the shortest time, keeping cars locked at all times, keeping serial numbers on appliances and a list of all valuables.

He cautioned against carrying or flashing large sums of money, urged parents to warn children about taking rides with strangers, advised his listeners to stay off dark streets at night and to store packages and valuables in locked trunk of car when shopping. He further advised to beware of hitch hikers, to never let repairmen in houses when no one is at home and to stay informed and follow news, keeping posted on local crime problems so as to be forewarned.

Chief Beaver suggested organizing Neighbor Buddies or Block Mothers as a good way to help in reporting suspects and goings-on of a suspicious nature to police. He stated that citizens could be partners with the police to prevent crime if they would report all vandalism, become acquainted with Iowa Park police and know the rules and regulations of the department. He reported that Iowa Park rates lower in crime percentage than some of the other area towns.

Mrs. George Trammell, president, used "God Is on Our Side" for a devotional topic.

During the business, Mrs. Miles Thompson asked that a deserving person be selected for life membership before Sept. 7. Mrs. Don Beals reported that plans were finalized for a memorial for the late Mrs. Gordon G. Clark and the group voted to complete the memorial which is being made by Mrs. Riley Thompson.

Refreshments were served by the H.T. Maclin Fellowship.

Also attending the last meeting of the year were Mrs. Bertha McDonald, H.M. Carter, M.L. Hines, Rafael Carrillo-Miranda, Jim Connatser, W.M. Owens, C.L. Thompson, Riley Thompson, Evie Teal, Carl Sullivan, Bessie Brohard, Eugene Lowrey, David Springer, E.L. Gallop and Miss Ethyle Kidwell.

Bond bids termed 'superb'; Enis resigns as principal Holliday school board awarded the sale of bonds Tuesday night for the district's mammoth construction project. The low bid accepted was termed as "superb".

Also at Tuesday night's called meeting, several school personnel changes were approved by the board including acceptance of resignation by Grady "Bud" Enis, high school principal.

Four financial syndicates bid on bonds to be used to finance the district's $1.25-million construction project which was approved by voters here in April. The low bid was submitted by Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith,

BUDENIS

Inc. and White, Weld Co. The two companies combined their efforts for the single low bid which set the net interest rate at 5.89 per cent.

Herb Smith, the school board's financial consultant, called the low bid "superb." "The school board should be indebted to them (the low bidders)," said Smith of Wichita Falls. "I was pleased with the bid."

Other syndicates which submitted bids and the net interest rates they proposed included Rowles, Winston Division of Owen and Co., 6.07 per cent; Schneider, Burnett and Hickman, 6.24 per cent; and Underwood, Neuhaus and Co., 6.31 per cent.

He said the bid approved by the board was an "aggressive bid" in terms of today's sometimes unpredictable financial situation.

Bids were opened shortly after 8 p.m. Tuesday, and upon the recommendation of Smith, the board quickly endorsed the successful bid.

One factor in the bidding process was at least partly determined by the fact that the school board had applied for bond rating for the district. Moody's Bond Rating Service in New York set the district's bond rate at Baa-1, Smith said.

It cost the district $650 to apply for the rating, but Smith said the estimated saving due to the rating would be about $46,600.

Smith told the school board members that applying for the rating was "a very wise decision on your part, and you certainly made good use of the school district's money."

Having received the favorable bond rating, interest rates submitted by the financial syndicates were lower, Smith said.

Smith was accompanied at the meeting by Murphy Davis, who is associated with Smith's consulting firm in Wichita Falls.

Also at the meeting was Chuck Goldner of Dallas, who provided the board with legal services. He presented various legal documents requiring board members' signatures, although none required formal action.

ENIS RESIGNS

Letters of resignation from two employees were accepted by the board Tuesday night. Two new instructors were hired.

One of the resignations was asked by Grady "Bud" Enis, principal of Holliday High School the past five years.

In a letter addressed to Supt. Ray Coe, Enis simply stated, "Please accept my resignation as Holliday High School principal effective at the end of the 1975-76 school year."

In February when the board held its annual personnel contract renewal executive session, the board took no vote to extend Enis' contract which was due to expire at the end of the 1976-77 school year.

Enis, who was out of town and unavailable for comment, has taken a position as high school principal at Decatur.

Susan Byers, third grade instructor here, also submitted her formal letter of resignation.

Rexine Harding, a teacher at City View, was hired to replace Mrs. Byers.

Edith Cook of Lubbock was hired as new homemaker teacher, replacing Jeannette Ruiz, who earlier resigned her Holliday position.

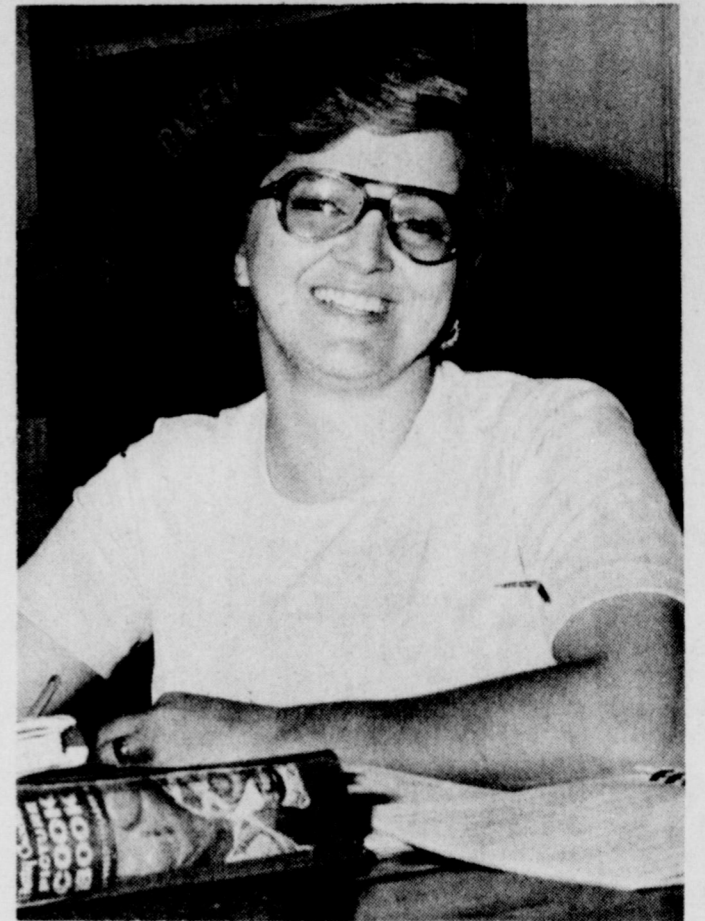

In other action Tuesday night, the board heard a report from Don Talley, a Holliday insurance agent, who said the district would be required to carry workmen's compensation insurance on its employees in the future. Talley said the coverage was required by new state law, and would cost the district "a little less than $2,500 a year."

The full school board was in attendance at Tuesday night's called meeting.

Also attending was Supt. Ray Coe and Louis Hodge.

Cook of the Week

Jeannette Ruiz

You couldn't tell it by a single glance and people who have known her for months may find it hard to believe, but Jeannette Ruiz' veins run with Mexican blood and she's proud of it.

Her reddish brown hair, fair complexion and hazel eyes seem to conceal the fact.

"The kids didn't know I was Mexican until I told them," Mrs. Ruiz remembers at the conclusion of a year on the faculty at Holliday High School where she taught home economics and sponsored FHA.

She admits her students weren't absolutely sure of her heritage until she had given several class lectures. That's when the accent surfaced.

"Well, you've got an accent, too," she would humor her students.

Holliday school board accepted her resignation last month. Supt. Ray Coe indicated Mrs. Ruiz was an outstanding teacher and had quickly gained the respect of her students. She also taught home economics one year at Wichita Falls State Hospital.

Mrs. Ruiz and her husband Sgt. Robert Ruiz will be leaving the end of June when he is discharged from the U.S. Air Force.

They will be returning to their home, Brownsville, where she will continue teaching and he will return to the college campus.

Mrs. Ruiz, a graduate of Texas A & I University at Kingsville, considers herself lucky to have an advanced education.

"Out of 12 kids, I had to put myself through school," she explained.

Although she was born and reared in Texas, Mrs. Ruiz' father is a Mexican native, who now has his American citizenship. Her mother is from a Texas border town near Brownsville.

Her great-grandfather and his parents came to Mexico from Spain, Mrs. Ruiz says.

Unlike other cultures where parents and children put as many miles between them as possible, Sgt. and Mrs. Ruiz want to return to Brownsville to be closer to their families.

"We like to be with our families," she says.

"Mexican people are the happiest people," Mrs. Ruiz maintains. "The atmosphere is so happy. Both Robert and I are very close to our families."

So with an understanding of her heritage, it is easy to understand why she chose these particular recipes to share with Leader readers.

But a word of caution: don't expect these dishes to taste the same as typical Tex-Mex food served in restaurants around here.

She says Mexican food around here has been "Americanized."

About Mexican food restaurants here, she quips, "I don't see how they can call themselves Mexican restaurants."

In fact, many of the ingredients for traditional Mexican foods cannot be found in North Texas, such as goat meat.

Tripe which is used in preparing menudo also is hard to find, and the spice coriander included in her ranch style beans recipe is unavailable in most markets.

BEEF TONGUE

- 1 medium beef tongue
- 1 medium onion
- 1 medium bell pepper
- 1 medium tomato
- 1 can tomato sauce
- 2 T oil

Salt, pepper & garlic to taste
Cover tongue with cold water, add salt and boil until tender. Let cool and remove skin. Slice tongue and fry in oil over medium heat until a little brown on each side.

Add chopped onion, tomato, bell pepper, salt, pepper and garlic salt. Fry until mixture is tender. Add tomato sauce and 1 C hot water. Cover and simmer for 10 minutes while stirring occasionally.

For gravy, dissolve 2 T flour in 1/2 C water, then stir into final mixture.

FRIJOLAS A LA CHARRA

- [Ranch Style Beans]
- 4 C pinto beans
- 1 medium onion
- 2 medium fresh tomatoes
- 2 cloves garlic
- Corriander

The spice corriander may be hard to find. If your favorite market doesn't have it, it may be omitted from the recipe—but don't expect it to have that extra Mexican zing.

Soak beans over night and cook in the same water. Add salt, black pepper and garlic and let boil. When almost done, add quarter onion and fresh tomatoes to beans and cook until beans are soft and tender. Serve hot.

NACHOS

Quarter ready-made corn tortilla chips and drop into hot oil, frying until crisp. Drain. The chips may be eaten plain or with hot sauce.

Another favorite is to top the fried tortilla chips with cheese and a slice of jalapeno pepper. Pop into hot oven until cheese melts.

MEXICAN CHICKEN

- 1 cooked hen or fryer, boned
- 1 chopped onion
- 1 t garlic salt
- 1 t chili powder
- 1 can Toret tomatoes (green chilies)
- 1/2 lb. cheddar cheese, grated
- Dozen tortillas
- Chicken broth
- 1 can cream of chicken soup

1 can cream of mushroom soup

Dice chicken into a mixing bowl. Add onion, garlic salt, chili powder and tomatoes. Reserve 1 C cheese for topping, and add remaining cheese to chicken mixture. Soften tortillas in chicken broth. Line large cooking dish with tortillas. Add chicken to dish along with 1/2 C broth. Spread both cans of soup over chicken mixture and sprinkle remaining cheese on top. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes.

This recipe may be cooked in one large or two small dishes.

The Giants got no-hit pitching from Marc Klinkerman and Wayne Hodges, and a home run and double from Bully Hoffman in defeating the Dodgers 9-3. A single by James Lewis

She was dressed in native costume and displayed souvenirs that she brought back from the Central American country when she went on a mission trip with her husband, Rev. Kenneth Flowers, following the recent earthquake.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Pat Kagy. Mrs. James Wadsworth was program leader and Mrs. Norman Hodges was in charge of the birthday calendar for missionaries. Others attending were two guests, Mrs. Donald Hill and Mrs. V.R. Munden, and Mmes. George Francis, Andy Arrington, Larry Balsley, L.P. Adams, Thomas Cowart, Don Jagger, Jacky Newton, Jim Miller, Emil Schram, C.G. Callon, Frank Morris and Jim Thompson.

Local girls win Burk tournament

It takes a lot of talent to be the best at something the first time it's tried.

And Iowa Park is apparently developing the best among girls' softball players, because they are champions their first time out.

Iowa Park was invited to enter a team in the Burkburnett Junior Girls

VBS at Kamay

The Kamay Baptist Church will hold Vacation Bible School June 21-25 from 9 to 11:30 a.m. each day. Rev. Roger Deerinwater, pastor, will be the principal.

The school will be held for children from four years of age through the sixth grade. The bus will run each day. For more information, call 438-2364.

Commencement will be held at 7:30 p.m. the last day of the school.

Tournament last weekend. They went, and they won it, undefeated.

Problem was, the tournament was slow pitch, and Iowa Park girls have played only fast pitch softball. Burk girls play only slow pitch.

Coached by Jim Frazier and assisted by Don Ehler, the girls won three games Saturday, and the championship Sunday afternoon.

All Star honors went to Carla Friday, Regina Sargent and Brenda Kenyon. Other members of the team were Stephanie Frazier, Dawn Jari Ehler, Joann McClurg, Gayla Wells, Brenda Ritchie, Cheryl Dowell, Laurie Long, Angie Guyton and Susie Painter.

Challenge play starts

Challenge play between Iowa Park Tennis Club members will start this week.

Categories on the challenge ladder include men's open, women's open, high school boys, high school girls, junior high boys, junior high girls and beginners (boys and girls).

Players will be able to challenge in their categories, or in case of senior boys and girls, they can challenge in the men's or women's open, according to Mrs. James Bowerman. She stated that no one will be put on the challenge ladder until he has paid his dues which are $5 per person or $7.50 per family per year.

Plans are being formulated by experienced club players to give beginner tennis instruction in the near future. Those interested in challenge play or learning the fundamentals of tennis may contact Miles Thompson 592-4525, Jerri Gray 592-2032, Dick Winger 592-5658 or Mrs. Bowerman 592-5726.

Grassed waterways are completed here

Several farmers in Wichita County have constructed grassed waterways this year. The farmers have constructed the waterways in preparation for terracing of their land to be done next year.

Farmers who have constructed waterways in the Iowa Park area are Ray Hicks and Rex Wells.

Grassed waterways will provide safe outlets for terraces and limit soil erosion to a minimum. These conservation minded farmers have constructed approximately 54 acres of grassed waterways this year, and should be commended for their conservation efforts.

Boosters vote donation

In a called meeting of the Hawk Booster Club Monday evening, members voted to donate funds carried over from last season to help pay for work on the film projector.

President Jack Stevens reported that the members voted to donate $332 from the organization's bank account to the school. The money will help finance modification of the film projector used by football coaches in evaluating games.

Before the project is undertaken, however, Coach Pat Tone's request to the school board for an expenditure must be approved. Total cost of the work is over $500, and the balance would come from the athletic budget, Stevens said.

Booster Club meetings will be changed from Monday nights to Tuesdays during the fall, Stevens reported. Coach Tone asked for the change, because Monday nights are when he and his staff plan to grade the previous Friday's game films.

Club members also gave Tone the go-ahead on contacting a speaker for next year's football banquet. The new mentor said speakers were easier to obtain at such an early date, before their calendars became booked with other appearances.
