Voyles quits city

Jim Voyles ended a career as a lawman which had covered a span of more than 16 years, with a one-day notice.

The chief of the Iowa Park Police Department handed his letter of resignation to Mayor Johnny Crawford Monday, announcing his resignation effective the day before.

"I feel my continuation as Chief is no longer beneficial to myself or to the City of Iowa Park."

Voyles said he has plans for the future, but was not ready yet to say what they were.

City administrator Steve Morath said Voyles had told him almost a year ago that he was going to resign, and wouldn't be with the city in April.

Voyles first entered the lawman field when he became a deputy under former Wichita County Sheriff Ham Vance. He was elected sheriff in 1964, but lost his bid for another re-election in 1976.

JIM VOYLES

He was named chief of police here in April 1977.

The city council met in a called session Wednesday afternoon, and named Sgt. Charles Whittingstall acting chief.

City to consider closing street

A public hearing concerning a proposal to close a portion of East Texas Street will be held during the Iowa Park city council meeting Monday night.

At the hearing, which is to begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers, public input will be received on a proposal to close East Texas at the Recreational activities Center.

Though the street which has been in use has never been dedicated, the council felt a public hearing should be held. The street was actually closed many years ago when Burnett ball field was built and fenced.

Aldermen are considering closing the street to through traffic behind the field's bleachers. Parking would be available where the street now exists.

Little League officials have long been concerned about vehicle traffic behind the bleachers when games are underway. And when a group representing a soccer league asked that the street be closed, so the grounds between the baseball field and dam be used for soccer play, closing of the street was proposed.

Dwayne McKee, representing the Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department, is to appear before the council to explain the organization's need for additional volunteers who would be available for daytime calls, and also to request the city establish a sub station on the south side of the railroad tracks.

Two ordinances will be considered, according to Steve Morath, city administrator. One will be for authorization to issue and sell certificates of obligation which will be used to construct an additional ground water storage tank. The other will change the minimum age for a journeyman electrical license from 21 to 18.

In other business, the council is expected to re-appoint Dr. Earl Watson as city health officer, and two new members on the Planning and Zoning Commission, James Whitaker and L.S. Whisnand, will be proposed.

Small whirlwind picks on Young

Kenneth Young is still trying to figure out why a small whirlwind picked his house Thursday.

The whirlwind, often times called a devil duster, passed through his back yard about 3 p.m., according to neighbors. But before it left, it had ripped his patio cover into pieces, depositing most of it on the roof of the house, and other parts over the neighborhood.

None of the other homes in the neighborhood was damaged by the whirlwind, said Young, who lives at 208 Hope Lane.

Iowa Parkans involved in weekend telethon

When the Easter Seal Telethon goes on the air at 10 p.m. Saturday on Channel 6, a number of Iowa Park residents should be particularly

The week of April 21-26 has been designated the annual Clean-Up Week in Iowa Park by the Chamber of Commerce.

Directors, meeting Monday, decided on the dates, but full details of the community-wide project are yet to be worked out with city authorities.

The board approved use of the Chamber office by the ESA sorority this weekend, as a contact point for the Easter Seal Telethon.

Reports were made on a membership drive, building insurance, Friendly Door Arts and Crafts bazaar and annual banquet speaker.

Gas overcomes city employees

Two employees of the city's water department were overcome by dangerous chlorine gas Thursday.

Morgana Thorn was hospitalized two days and released. She is supposed to report back to work Monday.

Department superintendent Donald Vines missed only half a day work, but was cared for by his physician and released.

The two were working in the chlorinator building at the time they inhaled the fumes from an unsuspecting leaking cylinder. Neither noticed the fumes until they left the building. It was then they noticed having respiratory problems and sought medical attention.

Rebate checks show increased

Retail sales for January and February have shown a dramatic increase at both Iowa Park and Holliday, according to a report from the state comptroller's office.

For the two-month period, Iowa Park's sales rebate has increased 29 percent over the same period in 1979, while Holliday's is a whopping 83 percent higher for the same two months.

Though Iowa Park's tax rebate check for February was slightly less than last year, $7,381.80 as compared to $7,779.76, the two-month total is $18,253.11 compared with $14,074.35, according to the report.

Last month's rebate check for Holliday also indicated a reduction for the month when compared with 1979, $3,568.09 to $4,023.94. But, for the year, Holliday has received $15,504.10 as compared to $8,442.63 received in 1979.

Pruett-Arrington wedding vows are exchanged here Saturday

Miss Theresa Lynn Pruett became the bride of Paul Andrew Arrington in a double-ring ceremony performed in the Faith Baptist Church Saturday evening by Rev. Ken Cole.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Pruett of Burkburnett and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew N. Arrington of Iowa Park.

When the bride walked to the altar on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage for both parents, she was wearing a formal gown of poly organza and Alencon lace chosen for the special day in her life.

The fitted lace bodice was showered with seed pearls and designed with a wedding ring neckline and bishop sleeves terminating in lace cuffs. A pleated front panel edged in lace imparted interesting distinction to the full skirt, and the delicate lace ornamentation was repeated in motifs on the chapel train.

For her headpiece, the bride wore a bandeau cap of Alencon lace dotted with seed pearls holding a cascading chapel length illusion veil highlighted with lace motifs and seed pearls. Her complimentary teardrop bouquet consisted of silk apricot and white roses, azaleas, lilies of the valley and gypsophila.

The traditions the bride chose to complete her costume included a white lace-covered Bible for "something old"; her mother's diamond drop necklace for "something borrowed"; the popular blue garter and lucky sixpence. The sentiment of the occasion was enhanced when she presented red roses of love to her mother and the groom's mother during the service.

The ceremony was solemnized before an altar illuminated by candlelight. The candles filled a wide-spreading brass oval-shaped candelabra swathed with boxwood greenery in the center and spiral candelabra on either side. The candles shed soft light on the white-cushioned face-to-face prayer bench in the foreground.

The outer altar held two baskets of white gladioli supported by brass stands and the unity candlestick which held the candle the couple lighted to seal their vows.

The aisle leading to the altar was bordered by candles aglow in hurricane globes uplifted by tall posts decorated with apricot and white cushion mums and long matching streamers.

Tim Adcock, organist, and Gregg Pittman of Burkburnett, the bride's cousin, the vocalist, presented the wedding music. For pre-nuptial selections, the organist played "Claire de Lune", "Moonlight Sonata", "If Thou Be Near", "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us", "Whither Thou Goest", "O Perfect Love", "To a Wild Rose", "Our Wedding Prayer" and "Liesbestraum". His offerings also included the time-honored processional and recessional, and he accompanied the vocalist for his selections, "Always and Forever", "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride was preceded to the altar by her sister, Miss Christy Pruett, the maid of honor, Miss Connie Dolan of Dallas, her cousin, Miss Karen Arrington, sister of the groom, and

MRS PAUL ARRINGTON

Miss Denise Freeman of Wichita Falls, the bridesmaids.

They were attired in formal peach poly organza gowns with wedding ring necklines, caped sleeves, blouson bodices and full skirts. They wore headpieces of apricot silk roses, baby's breath and deep orange accents. They carried brassy snuffers trimmed with apricot silk flowers, apricot and beige streamers that held lighted apricot candles.

Julie Pruett of Duncan, Okla., cousin of the bride, the flower girl, wore a white eyelet Cinderella frock trimmed with apricot ribbon and white eyelet beading. Jonathan Mitchell of Wichita Falls, who carried the two rings on a white satin pillow, was clad in a white tuxedo.

Candles were lighted for the ceremony by Scott Dolan of Burkburnett and Gregg Lowe of Iowa Park.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo and wore a boutonniere of apricot silk roses and baby's breath. The male participants in the service wore brown tuxedos with apricot shirts.

Steve Arrington served as best man for his brother. Groomsman were Bobby Pruett, brother of the bride, Mark Clark and Max Solomon. Ushering and seating guests were Mike Davis and Craig Lewis.

The bride's mother wore a formal sheer poly organza gown featuring a light brown cape bodice with round neckline and crystal clasp at the center of the waist and a full light beige skirt. The groom's mother wore a long beige polyester gown imprinted with apricot and beige designs and topped with an apricot chiffon vest. Each wore a cymbidium orchid.

The bride's parents honored the newlyweds at a postnuptial reception held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The three tables in the setting were draped with white organza over polyester from which full net skirts dropped to the floor from beneath full swags of the organza caught up with nosegays of apricot azaleas and phlox.

The bride's table possessed special grace and charm. Two tiers of five-branched silver votive candelabra artistically decorated with bouquets of apricot carnations and cushion poms, white gypsophila, sprengeri fern and leatherleaf formed the centerpiece.

The four-tiered white bride's cake beautifully decorated with delicate sprays of hand moulded apricot roses with pale green leaves, draped garlands, piped shell designs, and two sets of Grecian pillars made the occasion more memorable. The top tier was adorned with two white feathered doves nesting on three white satin wedding bells rimmed with seed pearls. The ornament was softened with the addition of poufs of white net accented with jewel-centered apricot silk flowers.

Other table adornments were the crystal punch service and bridal napkins engraved with the newlyweds names in gold. Mrs. John Hardy, Miss Carla Camp and Miss Karen Criss presided at the table.

The groom's table held a five-branched silver votive candelabra decorated identically to the pair on the bride's table, the silver coffee service and the interlocking rings-shaped chocolate cake decorated with frosting sprays of apricot roses and green leaves. Mrs. Paul Gauthier served at the table.

As guests entered the reception room, their signatures for the bride's book were secured by Miss Jan Antwine at a round table holding a crystal vase filled with apricot carnations, sprengeri fern and leatherleaf, and two baskets filled with apricot and white satin rice rosebuds.

The bride was graduated from Burkburnett High School and is employed as secretary of nursing service at Wichita General Hospital. The groom, who is employed at the Iowa Park Post Office, was graduated from Iowa Park High School. The couple will live in Iowa Park following a wedding trip to Eureka Springs, Ark.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Underwood's Friday evening.

Out-of-town relatives and guests included Mrs. Christine Bradley of Burkburnett, Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Pruett of Randlett, Okla., grandparents of the bride, Mrs. Curtis Jennings of Graham, grandmother of the groom.

Others were Messrs. and Mmes. Jerry Pruett, Duncan, Okla., John Hardy, Weatherford, Okla., Robert Goode, Randlett, Okla., George Henry Warren, Devol, Okla., Bill Cook, Throckmorton; Mrs. Wayne Harrelson, Sherri and Vicki of Mesquite, Charley Jennings and Jain Lawrence, both of Dallas.

Sargent-Hebel nuptial vows solemnized Saturday evening

Our Redeemer Lutheran Church in Wichita Falls was the scene of the Saturday evening wedding ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Therese Lorraine Sargent and Gary Lee Hebel. Rev. Todd Dittloff, pastor, was the officiant.

The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Sargent of Iowa Park and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hebel of Albany.

Nuptial music was provided by William Fiese, organist, who presented prelude selections, the wedding marches and accompaniment for Miss Lynette Flick, soloist, who sang "O Lord All Love Is Divine", "Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Soft lighting from cathedral candles uprising from branched candelabra on either side of an altar arrangement of white carnations and gladioli provided a candlelight setting. The candles marked the aisle leading to the altar. Two burned in the unity candelabrum during the wedding and were used later by the couple to light the center taper symbolizing that they were joined together in holy matrimony.

The bride approached the altar with her father who presented her for marriage for both of her parents. She wore a formal gown of white organza and Chantilly lace fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline trimmed in lace and pearls, long sheer bishop sleeves cuffed in lace ruffles. The full skirt featured a layer of ruffles forming an apron effect and extended into a chapel length train with layers of ruffles in the back.

Her waltz length bridal illusion veil was enhanced with matching lace and drifted from a Juliet cap. She carried a lace-lovely-style colonial bouquet composed of white sweetheart roses and miniature carnations, baby's breath and generous touches of lace. The bride wore an heirloom diamond necklace for "something old"; her sister's veil for "something borrowed"; and followed the custom of wearing the garter for "something blue". For luck, she wore the sixpence in her shoe.

Mrs. James England, sister of the bride, took part in the wedding as matron of honor. Her long light blue crepe gown was accented with dark blue sheer chosen for the overbodice and sleeves, and a lace-trimmed hemline. She carried a colonial bouquet of blue miniature carnations and baby's breath complemented with lace effects. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the matron of honor, were Misses Cindy and Missy Hebel of Albany, sisters of the groom, and Mrs. Terry Wirmel of Wichita Falls. Kristi Lee of Scotland was flower girl, and Alan Hebel of Albany, nephew of the groom, was ring bearer.

The groom was attended by Dusty Smith of Dimmitt as best man, Patrick Sargent, Danny Sargent, brothers of the bride, and Jim Gates of Albany as groomsmen. The ushers were Michael Sargent, the bride's brother, and James England. They wore blue tuxedos with ruffled shirts and bow ties to match the groom's attire.

The wedding reception was given at Gateway Inn by the bride's parents. The buffet and cake tables were covered with white damask and decorated with blue and white bells and streamers.

The bride's three-tiered cake claimed special interest in the appointments. Arranged above a splashing fountain, staircases winding from the top tier on either side of the confection to smaller cakes at the base achieved a distinctive look. The groom's cake shaped like a cowboy boot was apropos for his ranching occupation.

Reception assistants were Mrs. Larry Lee, Mrs. Ward Campbell, Mrs. Mike Stillely and Miss Cheri Robinson. Miss Darla Flick served at the bride's book.

The bride was graduated from Iowa Park High School where she was in the pep squad and vocational education. She has been employed at Wichita Falls Clinic. The groom was graduated from Albany High School. They will live in Albany.

The groom's parents gave the rehearsal dinner at Salt-Lick Restaurant.

Out-of-town guests included Mmes. Charles Wolfinger, Wes Wolfert and Johnny Medgola from Penn.; Messrs. and Mmes. Bob Hebel, Danny Hebel and James Smith from Albany.

Cook of the Week

Onion Bread, or, at least, the new and modern recipes for making it, seems to be a food conversation piece among both cooks and diners right now. It is versatile and delicious eaten with meats, vegetables and salads, or used for sandwiches, dips, etc.

The onion, a succulent vegetable, remarkable for its pungent odor and taste, has been around for a long time. In fact, archeologists have lost track of its early history. Its native land seems to have been Western Asia around the eastern Mediterranean. There have been many superstitious beliefs in connections with it in times past, one of these being that various uses of it could help young girls know who their future husbands would be.

Sandra (Mrs. Randy) Watreas has a delicious-sounding recipe for Onion Bread. It is made by a quick, modern method which could be an incentive for both novice and experienced cooks to try.

The former Sandra Esparza was graduated from Iowa Park High School. She worked as a file clerk at Region IX Education Center for several years, and in production at Johnson & Johnson for five years before starting to work at Cryovac where she is a bag machine operator.

She works with the four-year-olds in Sunday School at First Baptist Church. She enjoys cooking, reading and jogging. Her husband works for Washex Machinery.

ONION BREAD

3 cans 1869 brand biscuits (large cans do not substitute)

2 sticks oleo
1/2 lb. bacon, fried crisp to crumble
1 cup chopped green onion
1 cup chopped bell pepper
1/4 cup chives
1/2 cup Parmesan cheese

Let biscuits stand at room temperature for about 15 minutes. Melt oleo in medium skillet, then add onion and green pepper. Cook over low heat about 3 minutes (be careful not to burn margarine).

Cut biscuits into quarters; mix other ingredients all together in large bowl. Pour into ungreased bundt pan. Bake at 350 degrees 40-45 minutes.

CHOCOLATE CAKE

[Randy's favorite]

1 box Pillsbury Plus Devil's Food Cake Mix
1-21 oz. can cherry pie filling
1 t almond extract
2 eggs

Mix well, heat at medium speed about 5 minutes. Scrape bottom of bowl often. Mixture will be rather thick. Grease and flour 9x13 pan or two round pans. Bake at 350 degrees 30-40 minutes or until toothpick inserted comes out clean.

ICING

1 cup sugar
1/4 cup milk
5 T margarine
1 t vanilla

Mix together in small saucepan and boil for about 3 minutes or until sugar is well dissolved. Remove from heat. Stir in one cup (6 oz. pkg.) chocolate chip morsels. Cool slightly and pour over cool cake.

CHEESE ENCHILADAS

10 corn tortillas
Velveeta cheese
1/2 cup chopped onion
1 - 15 oz. can chili
1 - 10 oz. can cream of chicken soup
Crisco

Quickly fry tortillas in hot fat, turning once. Drain on absorbent towel. Roll each tortilla with a generous slice of cheese. Line in casserole dish. Pour chili over enchiladas, then sprinkle with chopped onion. Spread cream of chicken soup on top. Bake at 350 degrees until bubbly.

MEXICAN CORNBREAD

1 cup yellow corn meal
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup sweet milk
1/2 t soda
3/4 t salt
1 No. 303 can cream style corn
1/2 cup bacon drippings

Mix the above ingredients and set aside. Brown 1/2 to 1 pound ground hamburger meat. Put on absorbent towel to drain.

The following ingredients are prepared and placed on separate mounds ready to be used:

1 large onion, finely chopped
1/2 lb. cheese, grated
4 canned or fresh jalapeno peppers, chopped fine

Grease a large iron skillet, heat and sprinkle a very thin layer of meat in bottom of pan and brown slightly. Pour 1/2 of batter in skillet. Sprinkle cheese evenly over batter, then the meat, onions and finally the pepper. Pour the remaining batter on top. Bake 45 to 50 minutes at 350 degrees.

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

OF COURSE, IT'S NO CRIME JUST TO FALL FOR AN FBI SET-UP... UNLESS WE CAN FIND A LAW AGAINST "AGGRAVATED STUPIDITY"....

Iowa Park needs more recreational facilities. At least, that was indicated at a meeting of the city's Parks Commission meeting Monday night.

Representatives of boys' baseball, girls' softball, adult softball, and boys' and girls' soccer organizations met with the Commission to see what can be worked out for use of existing facilities, and proposed additional fields be provided by the city.

Things used to be real simple here. All we needed were three boys' baseball fields. That was plenty for the minor, major and senior Little League teams. The senior field was used by a team of high school players, even before IPHS put the sport back into its program.

Then came boys' soccer. That worked out pretty well, but the teams had to use school football fields and sometimes Little League fields on which to play.

Girls' softball came next, and some parents worked it out with the city to use some land on the east side of town to build three fields. That worked out very well, also.

But now we've got girls' soccer and adult football on the scene, and we just don't have enough facilities for them all. At least, that was what came up Monday.

Some of the soccer people have obtained use of the land between Burnett Park and the dam at Gordon Lake. They plan to improve the area so it can be used, after a block of East Texas Street is closed.

However, this leaves some more playing areas for soccer to be found, as well as a field that can be used by the adult softball people... and that's men and women teams, I understand.

Practice fields can be found throughout the town, on vacant lots, if the permission from owners is obtained. That has been no problem in the past, because we have lots of such tracts.

But the softball playing field can be a problem.

You just don't play softball on a baseball field, especially during the same season. The baseball pitching mound, difference in baseline lengths and time schedules just don't work out.

Therefore, it appears our community needs at least one, or possibly two, more fields for softball play. The question is, are those involved in the sports supposed to obtain the land and fix up the fields, or is the city supposed to do it.

In the past, those involved in the particular sports have done it. The city has, especially the last two or three years, come up with some help in maintaining and cost of water and lights.

Representatives of each of the sports are getting together to work out what they can. Parks Commission chairman John Sibley is working with them.

I hope they can come up with a workable program. Things almost got to dealing with personalities Monday, and in conversations leading up to the meeting as well.

One thing is for sure, here in Iowa Park. If there is a need, and enough interest, we somehow always work out a solution and get it done.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Hamilton:
We, the parents of the Valley View Dribblers' wish to say thank you to Steve Parr and Karla Wallace, the P.E. teachers at Valley View.

They have unselfishly given their time and efforts to teach our boys and girls sportsmanship and the fundamentals of basketball.

We have just completed an excellent season of basketball with boys and girls consisting of 23 teams.

We wish to express our appreciation to the high school basketball players who helped officiate and to the Scout troupes 37 and 38 who were responsible for the clean-up of the gyms. A special thank you to Mrs. Nancy Young who organized and operated the gates and concession stand.

Without people like Coach Parr and Coach Wallace a basketball program like this would never have been possible.

The Iowa Park Consolidated Independent School District is very lucky to have two such great teachers in their school system.

Thank you Coach Parr and Coach Wallace for caring.
