JUST IN TIME - A group of campers spent the night on the east shore of Lake Gordon Sunday night, leaving a mess for volunteers who will be participating Saturday in the city-wide Clean Up Campaign. Youths are being asked to report at 8:30 a.m. at the Chamber of Commerce office, from where they will be dispatched with plastic bags to pick up alongside roads and in parks. Residents have free dumping privileges at the sanitary landfill through Saturday, and those wishing large objects picked up in their alleys are asked to notify the city hall by Friday afternoon.

Iowa Parkans tour China

It makes you feel good about being born in the United States, and it makes paying income taxes easier after you've visited China.

At least, that's the feeling Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Williamson had after they returned home following a three-week tour in the nation where Americans had not been welcome for several decades.

After making a guided tour of China, the Iowa Park banker and rancher said it was an experience he wouldn't take anything for, but he wouldn't want to go through it again.

For one thing, an American is totally cut off from the outside world, Williamson observed. He saw only one or two American newspapers during the extended period, but they were several weeks old.

The Chinese appear to be well fed and happy, but Williamson said he figured that was because they hadn't known anything but poverty in centuries. Even so, their culture is still primitive, by American standards.

Probably what bothered him the most was the food and public restrooms.

He got along very well on the breakfast of eggs, tea, or coffee, jelly and butter from New Zealand, but he was able to eat very little of the rest of the Chinese foods. Only in Peking was he able to find anything like Western food. Consequently, Williamson lost some weight on the trip.

Public restrooms were everywhere, but only in the hotels did they find commodes with modern flushing techniques. "The odor would just make you sick," he said. "I've got a pretty tough stomach, but I could hardly stand to go into one of those places. One woman did get sick and had to be taken back to the hotel in one town."

Westerners are an oddity in China, and they draw large crowds wherever they go of people just wanting to see what Americans look like. Williamson, in his western hat and cowboy boots got his share of stares. He said often as many as 100 Chinese would gather around them in a store to observe.

But everywhere they went, the people were friendly and appeared to be generally happy to see the visitors.

Besides a trip to one agriculture commune, Williamson was apparently most impressed by the Great Wall, which is one of the seven wonders of the world, and a bridge built over the Yantzee River at Nanking.

The size and length and realization of the period in which the Great Wall was built awed Williamson.

Ten years were required to build the bridge over the Yantzee, which has two decks, one for vehicles and the other for railroad trains, of which 168 cross it daily.

The Russians were to provide a certain steel for the bridge, but three years into construction the Russians were booted out of the country. It took two years to develop the technique needed to manufacture the particular type of steel, but the Chinese did it, and completed the project.

He was also impressed by the thousands and thousands of bicycles used by the Chinese. Since only government workers are permitted to use automobiles, the citizens must rely on walking, public transportation such as trains, airplanes and boats, or ride bicycles.

At the agricultural commune the group visited, 75 percent of the acreage was in vegetables. The 40,000 who lived there produced enough food to feed 200,000.

Close to Shanghai, the commune also had 200,000 ducks, 48,000 hogs and 100 head of Holstein cows.

The commune had a small health clinic where the residents were treated. They saw acupuncture being applied to patients in the facility.

Every city has a "friendship store" where the tourists were taken. One or more of the clerks could speak English. And almost every city had a real antique store. "They're ready for us," Williamson said, meaning Westerners like antiques.

The antiques are authentic if they have on them a government seal, which guarantees it as an antique. Mrs. Williamson brought back a figurine of a woman, made 125 years ago.

The Williamsons were the only southwestern members of the tour except four from Arizona. Most of the others were from the Chicago and New York area.

The trip was a tiring one, Williamson recalled. They were to rise from bed between 5 and 6 a.m., and be moving soon after breakfast.

Hotel accommodations were very bare. Constructed mostly of concrete, rooms had the essentials such as a bed, chair, table and closet. But that was all.

It was not uncommon for a Chinese

FFA recognizes members adults at annual event

Ronny Sawyer and Stanley Watson headed a list of students and adults recognized at the annual Future Farmers of America parent-member banquet Tuesday in the high school cafeteria.

Sawyer was named Star Chapter Farmer and Watson Star Greenhand. Dale Anderson received the Outstanding Co-op Student award and Wendy Hicks was named Outstanding Agriculture Student. Wanna (Mrs. Alton) Hunter became the first woman recipient of the Honorary Chapter Farmer degree from the Iowa Park Chapter.

Also receiving the degree were Billy James and Bud Singleton.

Eleven students received the annual proficiency awards: Buck Cargal, swine production; Stanley Watson, crop production; Jay Hathaway, beef production; Randy Price, placement in sales and service; Dennis Bogart, sheep production;

RONNY SAWYER and STANLEY WATSON
... receive honors at FFA banquet.

James Brixey, agricultural mechanics; Wendy Hicks, soil and water management; Billy Washmann, poultry production; Dana Hicks, public speaking; and Renee Smith, turkey production.

Barry Mahler, state Young Farmer vice president and representative of the Wichita Young Farmers, told the students "Take time to be proud and enjoy the work you do." He encouraged the students to continue their present and future efforts in the field of agriculture.

DISTRICT ACHIEVEMENTS
Several members of the Iowa

Park chapter were honors recipients at the Wichita FFA District meeting last Thursday.

Wendy Hicks won the district's nomination to run for a state office. Mickie Gregg was nominated to run for Area IV president.

Dana Hicks was nominated for an Area IV office.

Stanley Watson was judged first place in the district's Star Greenhand competition and will compete on the area level May 9 at Stephenville.

Also to compete at the area level will be Ronny Sawyer, who was first in the district's Star Chapter Farmer competition.

Play cast to state

Iowa Park High School's one-act play cast has qualified to compete in the state contest at Austin May 1-3.

The cast participated in the regional University Interscholastic League competition at Odessa last weekend. Iowa Park and Snyder High School qualified for the state contest, while Hirschi was named alternate.

Lynne Wright was awarded Best Actress, Kevin Davis was named to the All-Star Cast and Keith Fedo honorable mention.

Iowa Park and Snyder will be representing Region I at the state finals. Two other schools from the remaining three regions will also be entered.

The play, titled "The Room," is set in the late 1950s in a small apartment house. Written by Harold Pinter, it depicts life as insanity and shows that mankind struggles for peace in one's life. Directing the cast is Brenda Beebe, who is teaching her first year since graduating from college.

Two individuals going to state

Two Iowa Park High School individuals qualified to compete next weekend in the state University Interscholastic League literary contests.

Jeff Shaw won first place in persuasive speaking last week at the regional contest at Odessa, and Connie Heard placed second in shorthand.

Ronnie Reusch placed fourth in number sense, but did not qualify for the state meet.

City meeting Monday could be lengthy

Three items on the city council's agenda for Monday's meeting could require a lot of time for discussion and action.

The 7 p.m. meeting, to be held in council chambers, could last well into the evening.

Aldermen will consider an ordinance changing the 100 block of West Cash from a two-way to one-way. The change was agreeable to several businesses represented at the last meeting, in order to increase the number of parking places.

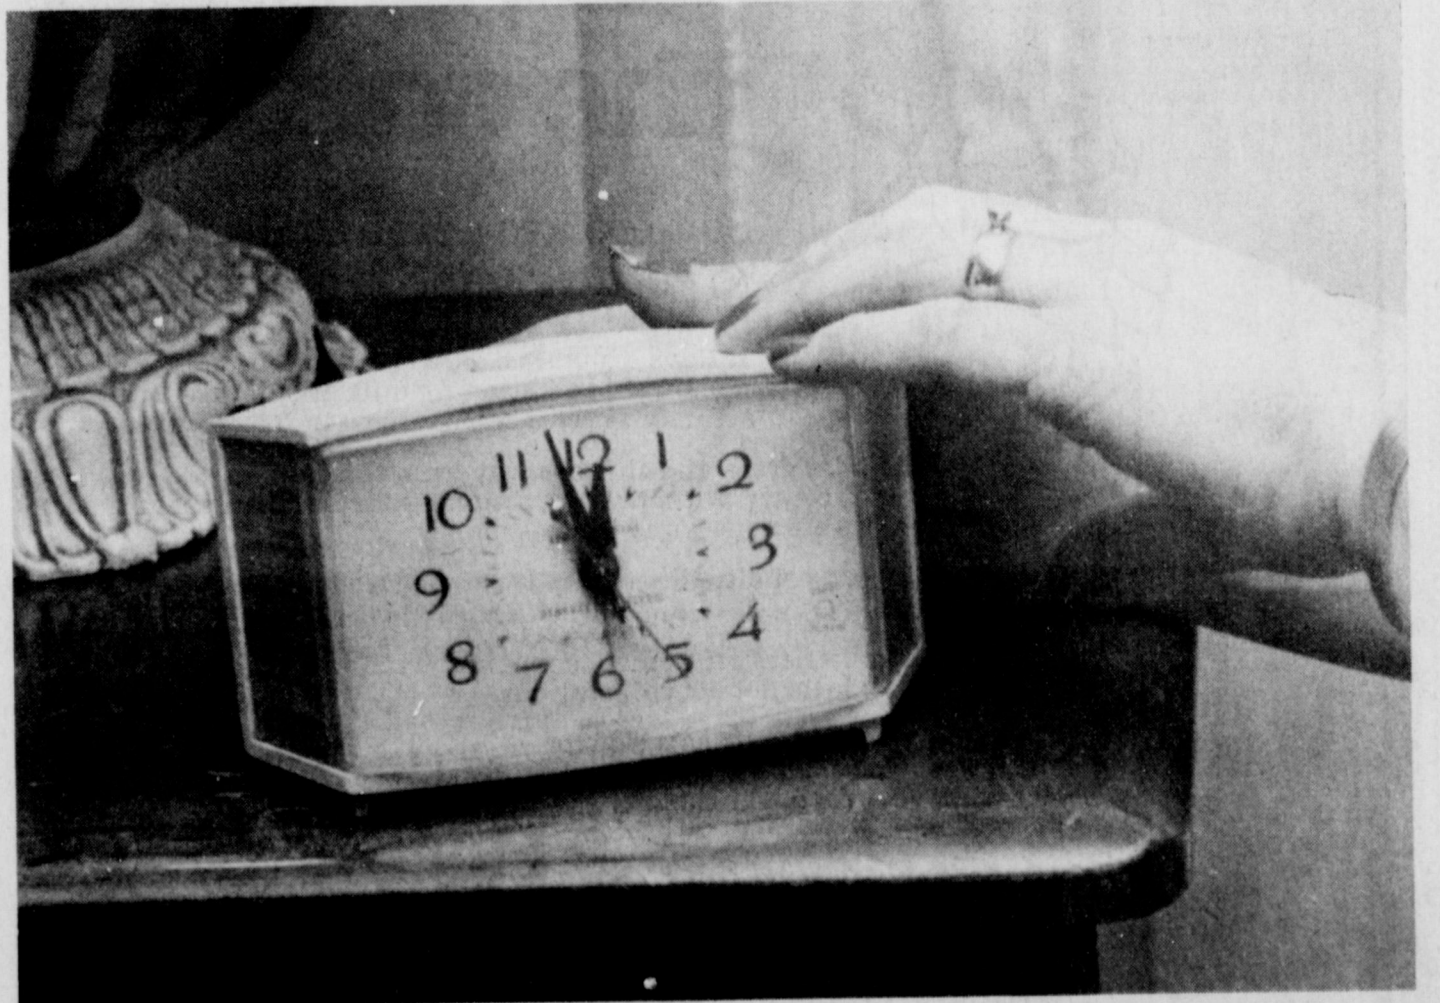

There has been no indication anyone will voice an opinion against the change to one-way traffic, however.

A resolution authorizing a contract for the city to provide grave digging service at Highland Cemetery reportedly will draw fire from a Wichita Falls businessman who plans to contest the city doing the work.

Though there is no indication any action will be taken, council members are to receive a report from the Planning and Zoning Commission concerning zoning of mobile homes in the city. The issue has been under consideration by the Commission for some two months.

In other business, according to Steve Morath, city administrator, the council will consider advertising for a storage building for the maintenance department; a lease agreement for Iowa Park Ready Mix; and the mayor's appointment of department commissioners and mayor pro tem.

DON'T FORGET SATURDAY NIGHT to change your clocks, or you might be late for church. The nation goes on daylight saving time Saturday night, when all clocks will be set forward one hour. It will cost sleepers an hour in bed, but they can make it up next fall when time pieces will revert back to standard time.

Sosebee-Smith nuptials recited

Miss Sherry Denise Sosebee became the bride of Bruce Ray Smith Saturday evening in a double-ring ceremony performed in the First Primitive Baptist Church in Wichita Falls by Elder Charles Taylor, minister.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sosebee of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith of Iowa Park.

For the recitation of their vows, the couple stood before the communion table centered with a Bible opened at the 23rd Psalm. On either side of the table tall yellow candles burned in seven-branched candelabra entwined with leatherleaf and yellow ribbon. The decorations were completed with the candlestick holding the two candles representing the couple before they were joined together in holy matrimony and the center candle that they lighted to symbolize their union.

Honoring their mothers, the bride presented them with yellow long stemmed roses during the service.

Miss Debbie Watson, pianist, played "We've Only Just Begun" and "Love Me Tender" for pre-nuptial selections and the traditional marches.

When the minister asked the bride's father, "Who giveth this woman in marriage?", he replied, "Her mother and I".

For her wedding, the bride chose a white satin gown designed with a Victorian neckline, Chantilly lace yoke, sheer bishop sleeves with lace insets and empire bodice accented with lace appliques in front. The full skirt flowed into a chapel train. Her fingertip illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap of lace and pearls.

The bride carried her bouquet of yellow daisies, miniature white carnations and baby's breath with cascading ribbons on top of a Bible, a gift from her parents. The Bible was covered with lace, done especially for the occasion by Mrs. Irene Wells, grandmother of the bride. Inside the Bible was a blue linen handkerchief that had originally belonged to the bride's great-great-grandmother which she chose for both "something old" and "something blue" additions to her costume. She remembered to slip the lucky sixpence in her shoe.

Miss Kimberly Sosebee, cousin of the bride, participated in the wedding as maid of honor. She wore a yellow taffeta gown featuring a tiered skirt overlaid with yellow lace and a lace capelet. Mrs. Terry Walls, the bridesmaid, wore a yellow taffeta gown topped with a yellow lace capelet. They carried nosegays of miniature yellow daisies and carnations.

Misses Susan and Charmion Sosebee, sisters of the bride, lighted the candles for the service. They were attired in yellow polyester dresses and wore corsages of yellow silk roses.

Angela Dixon and Scott Choate, took part in the wedding as flower girl and ring bearer, respectively.

The groom wore an ivory tuxedo trimmed in brown and a yellow daisy boutonniere, and his attendants were attired in brown tuxedos. Dallas Newsom was best man and Terry Walls was groomsman. Guests were ushered by Terry Hatcher, Jerry Hatcher and Freddie Smith, brother of the groom.

The groomsmen and the mothers wore with their long gowns were formed of white carnations and yellow daisies. Mrs. Sosebee wore a brown polyester dress and Mrs. Smith was attired in a multi-print voile dress.

Mrs. Jay Lankford, sister of the bride, presided at the bride's book table which held a pot of ivy tied with a yellow ribbon in the church foyer before the wedding and at the reception held in the Fellowship Hall of the church following the wedding.

The tables in the setting were covered with full length white silk cloths accented with wedding bells tied with yellow ribbon at the corners.

The bride's cake was the focal point of interest on her table. The cake of three raised tiers was decorated with clusters of roses in colors chosen for the wedding. The top ornament was a bride and groom standing before three wedding bands covered in pearls and touched with puffs of tulle. The bride's bouquet was placed in front of the cake and the crystal service appointed one extremity of the table.

The groom's table held the chocolate cake decorated with yellow frosting roses and a six-branched candelabrum filled with yellow tapers.

Reception assistants were Misses Robin Sosebee, Shelia Thompson of Amarillo, Glynda Titchie and Mrs. Jay Lankford, sister of the bride.

The bride was graduated from Rider High School where she was in Vocational Office Education. She attends Midwestern University and works for Snak-Time. The groom attended Iowa Park High School. He is employed by Stephenson Materials. After a trip to Dallas, they are at home in Wichita Falls.

Foreign airmen are guests here

Five foreign airmen who are taking training at Sheppard Air Force Base, accompanied by Iline Swadley and Mark Goodrich from the base, were guests at the covered dish dinner held by the Christian Workers Church Thursday. Composing the group were Major Subandi Hudoyo, Capt. Mudjijino, Capt. Wismiyarso and 1st Lt. James Saroinsong, all from Indonesia, and Capt. Chainarong Pandee from Thailand.

The dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Otis Gay, Mrs. Ida Parker and Mrs. Kathleen Hatten. The tables were decorated with green and white floral place mats and orange candles in crystal holders.

For the program, the foreign guests talked briefly about their families and countries, and Mrs. Gay led the group in singing hymns. Herman Mahler conducted the business.

Twenty members were present.

Night WMU starts study of new book

Mrs. S.B. Reaves started the study of "The Listening Woman I Am" by Josephine Powell Monday night at the meeting of the Night WMU of First Baptist Church.

She stated that the purpose of the book was to show that experiences of biblical persons point Christians in the 20th century to experiences that God has for them today.

She used case studies of Sarah, Abraham and Moses from the Old Testament and their counterparts, Mary, Banabas and Paul from the New Testament to emphasize the purpose of the study.

The meeting was held in the home of Mrs. Roy B. Smith and opened with the special prayer for missionaries on the birthday calendar.

Mrs. V.I. Woodfin was in charge of business. A nominating committee composed of Mmes. Elmer Singleton, J.C. Roby and Miss Helen Reed was elected. It was voted to disband during the summer months.

Summer is just around the corner.

So here are some tips to get ready for it.

1. Have a qualified serviceman inspect your home's air conditioning unit. His help before summer arrives can save you money later on.
2. Trim grass and shrubs away from the outside compressor. Without obstructions, your unit can operate more efficiently and for less money.
3. Check your air conditioner's filter. It should be cleaned or replaced once a month.
4. Caulk and weatherstrip around doors and windows. The cool air will stay in, and the hot air will stay out.
5. Make sure your attic has adequate insulation. No sense letting the cool air you pay for escape through the roof.

Sasser-Lynn nuptial vows recited in home wedding

RONALD WILSON and JEANNA DICKERSON

Announce engagement

Miss Jeanna Dickerson and Ronald Wilson will be married August 16 at Faith Baptist Church, according to an announcement that is being made today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Dickerson. The groom is the son of Jack Wilson of Dallas and the late Mrs. Wilson.

Miss Dickerson is a student at Midwestern State University and is employed at Sprague Electric. She was graduated from Iowa Park High School where she was president of the Student Council during her senior year.

The future groom is also a student at MSU majoring in drama. He was graduated from Bryan Adams High School in Dallas and served in the U.S. Army six years.

The sentimental intimacy of a home wedding characterized the nuptials performed Saturday afternoon uniting Miss Laura Sasser and Mickey Lynn.

The ceremony was officiated by Rev. Howell Farnsworth, pastor of First Baptist Church, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Sasser. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Cal Walker of Lawton, Okla.

For the recitation of their vows, the couple stood before the fireplace where the mantel was centered with a long and low arrangement of blue and white carnations and daisies intermingled with baby's breath. The hearth was flanked by brass candelabra entwined with emerald, leatherleaf and lemonleaf.

A musical background was provided by appropriate recorded selections.

The bride was a picture of spring beauty in her white Chantilly lace gown over white satin enhanced with elegant ruffle trim. A wide ruffle encircled the low neckline and formed the cuffs of the long sleeves of the tight bodice. Below the waistline, the ruffles set in at the side seams of the full skirt to form an apron effect and the ruffled hemline fell into a short train.

The bride's illusion mantilla veil was bordered with wide lace, and she carried a cloud bouquet consisting of blue and white carnations and baby's breath on the white Bible that her mother carried at her wedding. She chose the Bible for the "something old" tradition. Another sentimental accessory was her mother's necklace centered with a blue opal surrounded by rubies. The necklace was fashioned by the bride's father for her mother and was a perfect "something blue" and "something borrowed" addition to her costume. She was given in marriage for both parents by her father.

Mrs. Mike Leath attended her sister at matron of honor. She was attired in a light blue dotted swiss street length dress and carried a smaller version of the bride's bouquet.

Rebecca Leath, niece of the bride, the flower girl, wore a white lace frock and carried a ball-style bouquet with a ribbon-decorated handle.

The groom wore a white tuxedo and white shirt trimmed in blue. His boutonniere was a white daisy-centered blue carnation.

Rick Sellers of Lawton, Okla. served as best man.

For the occasion, the bride's mother wore a plum-colored polyester crepe dress styled with a V-neck, long sleeves and pleated skirt. The groom's mother chose a blue polyester dress with sheer sleeves. Each complemented her dress with a white gardenia corsage.

The wedding reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

The special attraction in the setting was the refreshment table covered with a blue satin cloth featuring a floor length pleated skirt. The appointments in the decor included an arrangement of silk flowers in earth tones, the cake and silver punch bowl.

The cake, which differed in appearance from the traditional style wedding cake, immediately captured attention. It was formed of a square cake topped with a heart-shaped cake bordered with large frosting puffs. A bride and groom stood on top and a cluster of light pink roses, daisies, and pale blue forget-me-nots formed of icing trailed from the point of the heart to a larger cluster of the floral ornamentation on the square cake, then spread to each corner. The icing on the front of the lower confection formed two deep pillars and the space between them was filled with alternating roses and daisies to complete the heart of roses theme.

The bride was graduated from Iowa Park High School and attended Midwestern State University. She is presently employed as assistant manager of the Pizza Hut in Lawton. The groom was graduated from Lawton High School and attended Cameron University. He is special events representative for Pepsi-Cola in southwest Oklahoma and works as a radio announcer for KLAW. The couple will live in Lawton.

Out-of-town wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. W.B. Crofford, grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Crofford and family and

Mr. and Mrs. Lou Pepper, all of Fort Worth; Mr. and Mrs. Orvil Patterson of Tecumseh, Okla., Leslie Sellers and Bob Lawson of Lawton, and Mrs. Roy Anderson of Wichita Falls.

23 Study Club ends year's work

The 23 Study Club closed the year's work Thursday at a covered-dish luncheon at Texas Electric Reddy Room. Hostesses were Mmes. Earl Watson, Keith Aulds and Travis Smith.

The highlight of the meeting was the presentation of plaques to Tanya Jones and Tim Adcock named Outstanding Senior Girl and Boy of 1980 in the club's annual project. Mrs. James A. Sewell, chairman of the youth committee, made the presentation. Other special guests were parents of the young people, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Jones and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Adcock, and Meri Lynne McIlroy and Pam Forman, who presented musical numbers.

Mrs. Chauncey Weiler conducted the installation service using Catalyst for a theme. She used each letter of the word to describe the duties of the separate officers and presented each with a pendant in purple and gold, the club colors.

Those installed and their designations were: Mmes. China B. Smith, president, chief; C.A. Hicks, vice-president, aide; L.E. Brooks, recording secretary, truth; Keith Aulds, treasurer, accuracy; Erwin F. Soell, parliamentarian, law; Earle Denny, corresponding secretary, yeoman; T.M. Thaxton, Travis Smith, executive committee, sincerity and thoroughness.

Mrs. Soell, outgoing president, presented each officer and member with a card of appreciation for cooperation during her two-year administration.

During the business conducted by Mrs. Smith, the budget and club projects for 1980-81 were approved. The new president was elected delegate to the state convention at Amarillo this week end and Mrs. Soell was elected alternate.

Tables for the luncheon were covered with checked gingham cloths in shades of pink, blue, green and yellow and showered with confetti. The appointments were inflated balloons lettered with "Tonya and Tim."

Corey Lee Bridwell announces the arrival of his new sister, Wendy Leigh. She was born April 15 and weighed six pounds and five and a half ounces. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Buddie Bridwell. The mother is the former Shirley Bradberry.

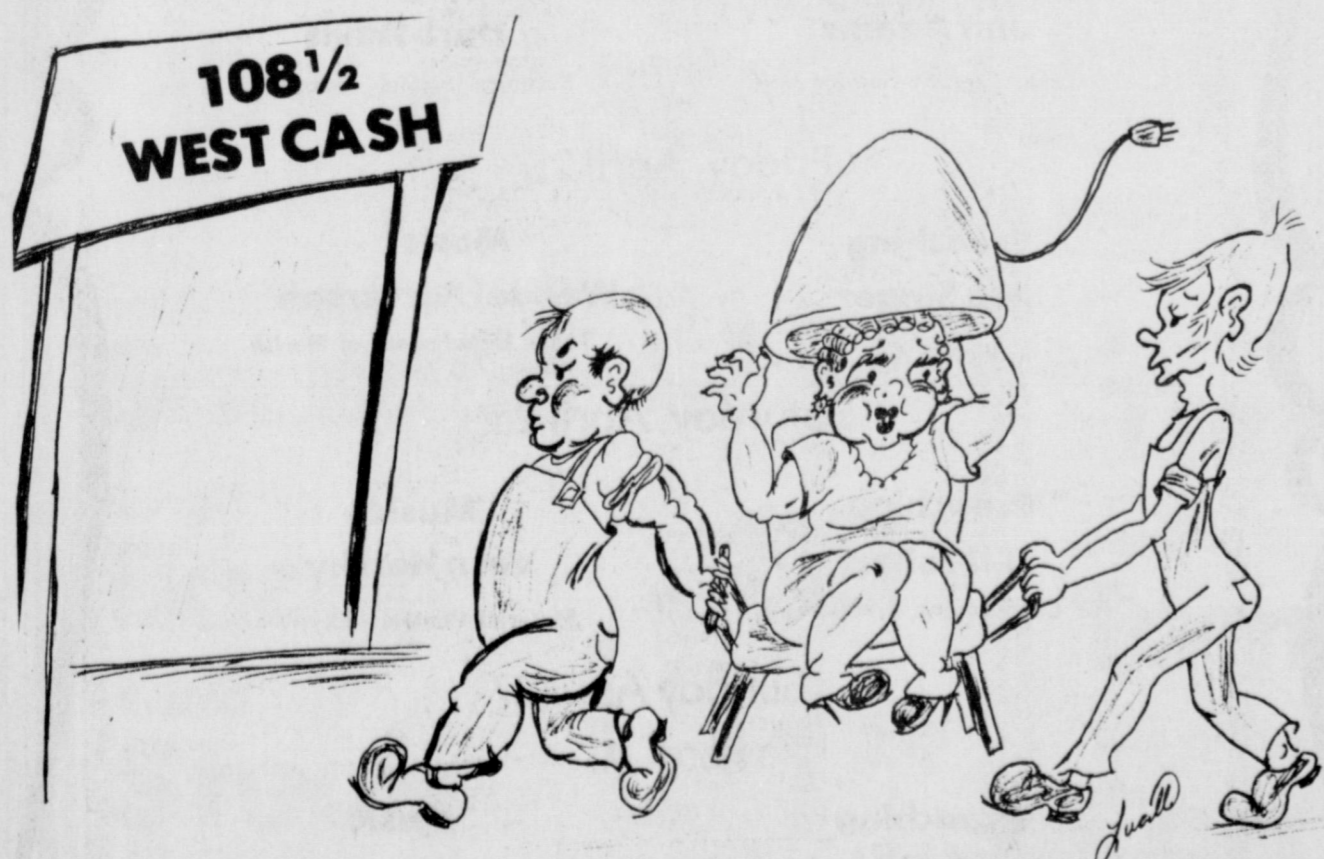

Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. G.B. Bridwell of Wichita Falls and Mr. and Mrs. S.M. Bradberry of Iowa Park. The great-grandparents are Mrs. Marion Wood of Wichita Falls and Mrs. Leslie Bradberry of Iowa Park.

Miss Kidwell opens series

Now, the fight for human rights is of necessity universal.

She continued by stating that in 1948, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and called upon all member countries to publicize the text throughout their lands. The principles of human rights were elevated to a level of universal acceptance, consensus and standards, according to Miss Kidwell, who observed that all countries had not attained the standards and that no nation may ignore them if it wishes to be held in high regard by other nations.

She pointed to Iran, a country that is looked upon with universal disfavor because it is holding the American hostages, a clear violation of human rights.

Miss Kidwell pointed out that religion is one of the major sources of human rights. In regard to the Christian religion, the speaker said that the teachings of Jesus were all in line with human rights since fairness, responsibility and forgiveness are hallmarks of the Christian religion, pointing toward freedom and justice for all.

Mrs. Gene Owens presided during the business session. She announced that the local prayer group of UMW would meet each Thursday at 9:30 a.m. and a church-wide covered dish supper for May 4 at 6 p.m. Following the meeting an important meeting of the administrative board will be held.

officers and representatives. Hosts will be the Board of Education and PTAs of Iowa park.

The Life Membership banquet, one of the highlights of the convention, will be held at 7:00 p.m. in the high school cafeteria, with John E. Sibley of Iowa Park, District 13 president, presiding. The Rev. Michael Jackson, minister of the First United Methodist Church, will offer the invocation. Harold Cowley, superintendent of Iowa Park Consolidated Independent School District, will extend the welcome.

Special music will be presented by the Madrigal Singers of the Iowa Park High School under the direction of Janet Walker.

Life membership awards will be given by Mrs. Ted Tally of Wichita Falls preceding an address by the featured speaker, the Rev. Jerry Kirby, pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church at Neocoma.

The first general meeting of the convention will be held Saturday morning at First United Methodist Church, with John E. Sibley presiding.

The Blue Bird group led by Wanda Wilson will present the colors and pledge to the flags. Johnny Crawford, mayor of Iowa Park, will extend greetings and Mrs. Kenneth Johnston of Seymour will respond.

The keynote address will be given by Mrs. Dewey Hearne of Fort Worth, state vice president. Another state officer, Mrs. James Wingham of Bowie, will give the health service report following the address.

At 10:45, Dr. Barbara Brewer, counselor at the Electra High School, will discuss Parents in the Adversary Role, using "Us Against Them" for her subject.

Others who will appear on the program during the morning include Mmes. D.O. James of Iowa Park, District 13 recording and corresponding secretary, who will give the report of the nominating committee; Bill Pittard of Burkburnett, credentials chairman, and Elbert Adams, character and spiritual chairman.

The awards luncheon will be followed by the installation of officers directed by the state vice president.

During the luncheon, awards will be given by Mmes. Garland Lehman of Iowa Park, cultural arts chairman; Bill Studdard of Wichita Falls, Publicity Books; Harrell Riggins, of Iowa Park, PAFLE (Parent and Family Life Education); Bill Lawhorn of Bowie, yearbooks; and Ted Tally of Wichita Falls, silver tray award.

Hugh Robert Gilchrist

Col. Hugh Robert (Bob) Gilchrist, who created Wichita Valley Airport shortly after World War II, died April 18 at a rest home in Littleton, Colo. Funeral services were held last Wednesday with military and Masonic rites.

Born at Waukomis, Okla., his 85th birthday was to have been the day following his death.

After business college at Enid, he joined the Air Corps and flew surveillance planes along the East Coast in 1917-18. After the war he owned and operated airports at Cinton and Weatherford, Okla. He also served in WWII.

Col. Gilchrist married Geneva Schuman at Guthrie, Okla. in 1920. The couple planned to celebrate their 60th anniversary in June.

Besides his wife, he leaves his daughter, Mrs. Hathaway, of Littleton, and a son, H.R. Jr., a captain with Braniff International; six grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Flanagan recognized in ceremonies

Cindy Flanagan was co-recipient of an honor which was announced Thursday at Midwestern State University.

The 1978 Iowa Park High graduate was named along with Julie Muth as outstanding junior woman on campus at the 16th annual Women's Recognition Banquet.

Doris George received the honor of Woman of the Year; Michelle Muth, senior; Margaret Coles, sophomore; and Zoe Leahy, freshman.

Miss Flanagan, daughter of Mrs. Georgia Flanagan, is a theater major and has a 3.94 grade point average on a 4.0 scale.

She is recipient of the E.W. Moran Honors Scholarship in Drama, and has received numerous other scholarships. She has been selected as Outstanding Young American the past two years.

Miss Flanagan is listed on the Dean's Honor Roll and was chosen Outstanding Freshman Woman in 1979.

Now serving her second year as editor of the Wai-Kun, the school annual book, she has been a member of Alpha Lambda Delta, Mu Phi Epsilon, Alpha Psi Omega, Artist-Lecture Series and Council of Presidents.

The same evening she was being honored at the Women's Recognition Banquet, she was also tapped for Cap and Gown, an organization which selects outstanding juniors based on their achievements in the areas of scholarship, leadership and service.

Upon completion of her drama major, she plans to continue studies toward her doctorate, and teach on the college level.

Phi Kappa Phi to induct Nipper

Approximately 275 new members will be initiated into the Texas Tech University chapter of Phi Kappa Phi honor society Wednesday. Junior, senior and graduate students who are invited into membership must rank in the top 10 percent of their graduating class.

New members include Mike Nipper from Iowa Park.

Nipper, son of Mr. and Mrs. C.A. Nipper, is a pre-medical student. He is a member of Who's Who at Texas Tech, the Student Senate, chairman of the Student Health Services Committee and a member of the Student Service Fee Advisory Board.

Schedule for:

Recreational Activities Center

The Saturday night dance this week will feature "The Silver Shadow," from 8:30 p.m. to midnight.

Watch next week's Leader for the starting of new classes.

School will be out soon and the RAC is planning a big program for summer. There will be special thought put into things for the first through sixth grade age group. More details soon.

Little named honor student

Travis Little, 1979 Iowa Park High School valedictorian, is among 981 University of Texas engineering students who have been recognized as honor students for the fall semester.

To achieve the engineering honor roll, a student must have maintained at least a 12-hour course load throughout the semester, passing all courses with a minimum grade-point average of 3.25.

Education is a high priority in the country. Children are started in kindergarten as early as three years of age, but it is optional. There are three levels of education beyond that, with the first school being required. To advance to the second school, which is equivalent to junior high school, the student must pass a test. They are also tested before being allowed to enter the third school, similar to our high schools. Universities are also available on a competitive level.

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

As inflation continues to eat away at everyone's budget, more and more people are trying to find ways of cutting expenses, or at least trying to stretch their money as far as they can.

Of course, there are a lot of ways to cut expenses. Paying cash instead of interest on time payments is one a lot of people have found. And, naturally, people are looking at ways of cutting down on their utility costs by fixing up their homes to be more efficient.

And it goes without saying, people are driving less because of the high cost of gasoline, even if they have a highly-efficient automobile. I can't help but throw in a shot to encourage more people to cut down on gasoline costs by shopping stores here, instead of in Wichita Falls. It makes the bottom line of an expenditure look much better.

But there's some ways of cutting down on costs of feeding the family which can be done without cutting the quality or nutrition one bit. In fact, you could be eating better, for less.

I am not an economist, but I've heard talks on the subject and have some ideas which might help, if you've not tried them.

For instance, did you know that you can eat very well on the specials grocery stores have in their weekly advertisements?

It's a little-known fact that most large grocery stores have their weekly specials planned not only by the advertising and buying departments, but with the aid of a nutritionist.

That's right. Most large food sales organizations have their ads planned so that a family can buy the specials and plan an entire week's menu around them.

One speaker said at a meeting I attended that a family can save 15 to 30 percent of its weekly food budget by planning their week's meals from each week's advertisement.

All you do is sit down each Thursday with a copy of the ad from your favorite grocery store. From the items listed, you plan your day-by-day menus, make your shopping list, and go to the store.

Spontaneous buying is where most shoppers get into trouble. A lot of shoppers have their lists when they enter a store, but the real dents to the budget are those purchases of items which don't fit into the menu, but the shopper decides to buy the non-specials anyway.

Some market managers might hit me over the head, but I'm convinced sandwich meats are the most expensive things you can have in your shopping cart. Ever compare the cost, by ounce, of sandwich meat with a good steak or roast? Try it.

I think the frugal planner should buy a large roast, either beef or pork. The family can eat the roast first, as it comes hot out of the oven. They can make sandwiches for the second meal, by slicing the meat, or putting a portion of it into a blender, which makes easy and tasty sandwiches.

The remainder of the roast, and hopefully it has some bone, can be used in stew.

How about the other parts of the stew, you ask?

Well, at our house, we never serve leftover vegetables. They are put into a container in the freezer after each meal. About every two or three weeks, we have enough leftovers to make a good stew. And it costs only a few cents.

One real money-saving meal is a favorite around our house. Pinto beans and cornbread is simple to prepare, tasty and filling, and the family can eat for less than $2.

Probably the finest addition to the kitchen of the century is the slow cooker. The working woman can have meals going all the time, and never have to worry about overcooking them.

Saving money is important with today's economic situation. But there's no reason people should cut back on their standard of living, at the dinner table, if they shop and prepare properly.

Saturday bad day for tracksters

Saturday just wasn't a good day for Iowa Park tracksters.

Kit Brown failed to place in her hurdle event at the regional track meet.

The Hawk varsity may have established a new low in points at a district meet.

And the Hawk freshmen scored about half the points they've been racking up during the season.

Brown not only failed to qualify for the state track meet, but was shut out at the Odessa event. The premier 100-meter hurdle racer from the area, Brown's time in the preliminaries was a disappointing 16.4 which kept her out of the finals.

She had clocked her best time of the year the previous weekend, winning the Dist. 4-AAA title with 15.38.

The Hawks, running in the Dist. 4-AAA track and field championships at Vernon, finished with a scant 15 points, of which only one came from running events.

The low finish wasn't a complete surprise to local track fans, after speedster Troy Thompson wrecked his knee the previous week at Azle in the long jump. Thompson has been the team's major point earner this season.

BRIGHT SPOT

Ten of those 15 points came from the effort of junior shot put specialist Mike Ray, who captured first place in his event.

Ray's heave of 55-11 1/2 was almost a foot short of his record, but it was a foot and a half better than the second-place finisher.

In winning the event, Ray qualified to compete in the boys' regional meet at Odessa this weekend. From that meet, the first and second place finishers qualify for the state meet.

Russ Hayley took fourth place in the high jump. Despite a pulled groin muscle, he was able to clear 6-0.

The lone point in running events was earned by Kevin Thompson, who placed sixth in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles with a clocking of 42.93.

Probably the most disappointed Hawk at Vernon, besides Thompson who watched while supported by crutches, was Troy Linthicum.

The junior pole vaulter has consistently been clearing 13 feet this season, and the day before the meet went over 14-2 in practice.

But he couldn't clear the qualifying height of 11-6 Saturday, and was denied any points.

Iowa Park and Hirschi were tied with 15 points each when the final event of the day, the mile relay, got underway. However, the Huskies out-ran Iowa Park, placing fifth, and finished with 18 points. Weatherford edged the Hawks out for sixth place in the event.

Vernon won the championship for the second consecutive year with 124 points. Burkburnett finished second.

In the freshman competition, Iowa Park failed to muster valuable points in events where they had been picking them up through the season, and finished fourth place with 76 points.

Mineral Wells won the freshman division with 115 1/2. Weatherford edged out Iowa Park for third place by six points.

HAWK STRONGMAN MIKE RAY
... only bright spot on track scene Saturday.

Hawks beat Vernon 11-5

Iowa Park baseballers got on the winning side of the ledger Tuesday, knocking off Vernon 11-5.

The host Lions were leading 3-0 going into the fifth inning. In fact, Iowa Park didn't even have a hit at that point.

But the Hawks found themselves from that point, scoring nine runs in the fifth and adding two more in the sixth.

Tommy Ross went the distance on the mound, and joined Keith Mowrey, Roger Combs and Jim Smith, all of whom were credited with two runs batted in apiece.

Council postpones several topics

The Holliday city council discussed several topics during Monday night's meeting, but tabled most of them until the next meeting, scheduled for May 5.

Discussed and tabled were the purchase of civil defense sirens, a request from George Spiers for a larger water line, condition of fire plugs, and the water rate proposal from Wichita Falls.

The council voted to purchase two 48-inch square city maps from Biggs and Matthews of Wichita Falls.

Council members also voted to hire an assistant for Louis Hodge to help with the tax reappraisals.
