Broken water line no major problem

Though Iowa Parkans didn't suffer for lack of drinking and washing water while the water line between here and Wichita Falls was broken, some yard plants probably got a little thirsty and some cars a little dirtier.

Citizens were asked to voluntarily restrict water consumption when a major leak in the transmission line was discovered Tuesday.

As of Wednesday afternoon, the line had been repaired, but workers were still checking to see if the repair would hold, and if any other breaks in the line had gone undetected.

Full service from Wichita Falls was expected this morning, but Steve Morath, city administrator, said citizens would have to be notified when the water use restrictions would be lifted. He said he would use radio and television stations to signal the all-clear.

A break in the transmission line was discovered about 10 a.m. Tuesday. It was at a creek crossing west of FM 369 near the Mounted Patrol Rodeo Arena.

A city crew was dispatched to the area, but it soon became evident that the small back hoe could not reach the depth of the line. Morath said he contacted all municipalities, contractors and government units in the area in an attempt to locate a larger machine, but with no luck.

He then approached a subcontractor working on the new ground storage tank here, and learned that firm had a backhoe which could do the job. But it was in Fort Worth.

The big piece of equipment was called for, and arrived at 8 p.m. Experienced workers for the contractor also were used to repair the break, which was completed about mid-morning Wednesday.

It is about a 24-hour process to check out the line for other leaks while it is refilling from the Cyprus Street water plant in Wichita Falls, where the raw water is processed.

In the meantime, while the transmission line was out of commission, the Iowa Park treatment plant was pressed into 24-hour service to produce 1.25-million gallons of water per day. It has been used 16 hours each day since being renovated a few months ago to supplement water purchased from Wichita Falls.

Morath said the call for conserving water was a preventive measure more than an emergency. All the water storage tanks on the system were full, but should a major fire have broken out, there could have been a shortage develop.

HOLLIDAY HAS SCARE

About the same time Iowa Park crews were working on the transmission line, a break in the transmission line from Wichita Falls to Holliday was discovered about 2.5 miles east of Holliday.

Residents were asked to cut back on their consumption until the line was repaired about 5 p.m.

Ma Bell dials for big numbers

IOWA PARK, WICHITA COUNTY, TEXAS 76367

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company this week filed a $326.3-million request for new rates with the Texas Public Utility Commission.

VOL. XI, NO. 44

While the company says the new rates would produce an overall increase of 11.65 percent in intrastate revenues, the effect would be a cost increase to consumers of about 25 percent.

Should the PUC approve the new rates, Iowa Parkans would be charged the following: one-party, from $5.90 to $7.15, an increase of $1.25; two-party, from $3.85 to $4.65, an 80-cent increase; one-party for businesses, from $15.45 to $19.20, a $3.75 increase.

$3.75 increase.

Additionally, for the standard rotary dial telephone, customers would pay $1.50 monthly instrument fee instead of $1, and rotary dial princess phones would increase from $2.10 to $2.50. There is no increase in the $2.90 for rotary dial trimlines.

"The $326.3-million is our full financial need," said Doyle E. Rogers, vice president. "Our case presented to the commission supports that need."

Rogers said Southwestern Bell continues to be committed to compliance with President Carter's anti-inflation program. The present guidelines expire on Sept. 30, and guidelines for the following year will not be issued for some time.

Rogers said Southwestern Bell has assured the commission that the company intends to comply with the principles of any new guidelines which may be issued before a decision is reached on the rate request.

Rogers cited rapid growth in the state and double-digit inflation as reasons for the rate increase request.

The utility company filed a request in 1976 for an increase of $298.3-million and was granted $57.8-million. In 1978, $214.3-million was requested and $124.5-million was approved. Last year, a request of $243-million was reduced to $145.2-million under anti-inflation guide lines, and the PUC approved $138.7-million for the company.

THURSDAY, JULY 10, 1980

Bell would reduce the monthly call allowance to directory assistance from 10 to five, and would increase the charge-per-call over the allowance from 20 cents to 25. Cost for the service is now about 24 cents to the company, it is reported.

Time expiring between the rate increasing filing and effective date the PUC gives for an increase has been three to five months.

lowa Park is joining a growing number of communities in this part of the country who will probably contest the results of the recent census count.

A preliminary count was released by the census bureau to cities and counties late last week "subject to change." And from all indications, there will be a lot of changing.

At least one meeting has already been held at the Nortex Regional Planning Commission, and others are planned before Monday. Steve Morath, city administrator, said he has until Monday to file a protest of the count, and give supporting evidence.

The preliminary report indicates Iowa Park population is only 6,124, up 328 from the 5,796 reported in 1970.

While Morath and others do not take issue that the size of families are not as large as they were 10 years ago, he has other points which he

Another point of dispute is the count of apartment units in the city, 71. Woodbriar Apartments has 72 units, Country Hill Apartments has 18, and the new apartment complex in the south side of town has 24.

Wichita Falls Mayor Kenneth Hill and County Judge Tom Bacus both indicated they are working on data to sumbit with their claim that both the city and county were grossly undercounted. Graham's city manager, Larry Fields, said the same thing.

Fire calls outnumber fireworks complaints

Radio dispatchers at the Iowa Park Police Department were busier handling fire calls than they were dispatching patrolmen to cover complaints of setting off firecrackers over the July 4th weekend.

Police had anticipated numerous complaints about violations of setting off fireworks inside the city. But only three complaints were registered.

Police weren't complaining about the lack of complaints.

They did share worry along with the members of the Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department about the number of fire calls, however.

Local firemen answered 24 calls locally, Thursday through Sunday.

Most of them were outside the city limits and most were grassfires. The units from here also went to the assistance of Wichita West Volunteer Fire Department.

Estimates are that the cost to the city to answer the holiday fires, not including man hours or depreciation to vehicles, at around $400.

All but one of the fires were reported between noon and 11 p.m.

W.H. Fulfer told police someone had entered his home at 512 N. Park between 8 and 8:45 p.m. Saturday. Entry was through a bedroom window, during which time a television and electric fan were knocked over. Nothing was reported missing, however.

POSSIBLY THE MOST UNUSUAL birthday present in lowa Park's history was presented to Ray Moulton of 1201 N. 3rd Friday night, when his son Ron and three of his riends parachuted from 7,500 feet onto Kidwell school friends parachuted from 7,500 feet onto Kidwell school friends, singing "Happy Birthday" over a radio. The Iowa Park city council will hold its regularly scheduled meeting Monday in council chambers, starting at 7 p.m., but the school board will postpone its meeting, probably a week until the following Tuesday.

Supt. Harold Cowley said the school trustees may hold their meeting July 22 to open bids on construction, but no date had yet

Two resolutions and an ordinance are among several items on the council's agenda.

One resolution would amend the city's policy on extension of water and sewer lines, while the other would authorize execution of a contract with the Texas Commission of Community Affairs for the 1980-81 comprehensive

The ordinance would establish regulations for setting up and maintaining a mobile home in the city. It was considered at the city's last meeting in June but action was delayed for some changes and further study.

Two items on the agenda are actions on recommendations by the Planning and Zoning Commission. One is to permit members of the Catholic church to build on North First and not be required to curb, gutter and pave a street or pave a parking lot for two years after the structure is completed. The other item is to give final approval on a plat for a housing addition between Pacific and Gordon Lake.

Council members will also consider a request from Buck Voyles to permit him to lay a two-inch water line from Bell Road to his proposed building site in Bogan Acres, at his own expense.

Another subject aldermen will consider is a professional liability insurance policy for the police force. Aldermen held a brief called meeting Monday night to give approval on a proposed change of zoning on the northwest corner of Johnson Road and West Highway, from residential to convenience

Wooten, Gilmore wedding vows exchanged Thursday

Evening sunlight streaming through the stained glass windows mingled with candlelight to accentuate the atmosphere of hushed reverence in First Baptist Church Thursday evening when Miss Starla Denise Wooten and Billy Clark Gilmore exchanged nuptial vows. Rev. Howell Farnsworth, pastor, directed the impressive double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dorwin A. Wooten and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Gilmore.

The awe-inspiring altar decorations featured an archway enwreathed with the green vines and leaves and delicate white flowers of ornamental baby's breath. Behind the archway was a handsome arrangement of peach silk roses and white gladioli complemented with a few peach silk roses. Flanking the central decorative appointment were Boston ferns supported by tall Grecian columns. At the terminus points of the altar stood two candle trees entwined with baby's breath.

The unusual aisle markers near the nuptial space were tall brass candelabra holding peach candles in hurricane globes.

Muted tones of "The Lord's Prayer" provided the musical background for an important part of the marriage ceremony. Mrs. Kenneth Via, organist, played the background selection, the timehonored marches, as well as the prenuptial medley. Her prelude selections included "Sunrise, Sunset", "We've Only Just Begun", "Nadia's Theme", "You Light Up My Life," "Evergreen", "Always and Forever", "Wedding Song" and "More".

All eyes were on the beautiful bride as she walked the aisle to the altar with her father who presented her in marriage for both parents.

She chose a formal gown with a romantic glow of ivory satapeau enhanced with a molded bodice and high neckline encrusted with pearls. The fitted sleeves buttoned to a close with a slight flounce. Reembroidered lace appliques graced the skirt and hemline of the chapel length skirt. The finishing touch was a lovely double-tiered illusion veil, one tier edged with imported Alencon lace

Speybroecks observe golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Renee Van Speybroeck observed their 50th wedding anniversary July Fourth at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Van Speybroeck, their son and daughterin-law. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Don Graham of Chicago, Ill. were co-hosts.

Following the noon meal, a beautifully-decorated anniversary cake was served.

Two other sons of the couple, Bill of Chicago Ill. and Richard of Iowa Park were present for the celebration.

Grandchildren present were Brian Graham, Debbie Michalski and Sabrina Michalski of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. David Teague Christopher and David, Bobby Van Speybroeck, Christy and Darly Schrieber, all of Iowa Park. Other guests were Mrs. Freda Wiest of Byers and Pauline Duffield of Wichita Falls.

and pearls, which drifted from a Juliet cap to fingertip length.

The bride's bouquet was a creation of ivory and peach silk rosebuds and fresh gypsophila centered with a white cymbidium orchid which was lifted out later for her to wear with her going away dress. She observed bridal traditions by wearing a gold watch, a wedding gift from the groom, for "something new". She carried a handkerchief of the groom's mother for "something old", and wore her mother's diamond pendant for "something borrowed". The touch of blue to the bridal costume was the garter that remains in fashion from year to year with brides.

Mrs. Larry Tepfer participated in the wedding as matron of honor. She wore a flattering peach lace tulle gown over matching peau de soie designed with a square neck, long sleeves and a matching velvet belt centered with narrow white silk roping. Her becoming peach picture hat was banded with a velvet ribbon. She carried a nosegay of peach silk rosebuds and open roses complemented with a few ivory silk roses, baby's breath, satin leaves and a lace background.

Billy Gilmore served as best man for his son. Larry Tepfer was groomsman and James Illingsworth of Dallas was usher. The tuxedos worn by the male participants and father of the bride included toast jackets, light brown vests and pants.

The groom wore a solid toast tuxedo trimmed in light brown velvet, an ivory ruffled shirt and two peach silk rosebuds intermingled with brown leaves and baby's breath for his boutonniere.

The dress worn by the groom's mother was characterized by sentiment. She wore it at the request of the groom since she had worn it at the weddings of his three older brothers, altering or revamping it each time to suit the occasion. The lemon yellow polyester dress was styled with a modified boat neck, long fitted sleeves trimmed with insets of yellow eyelet embroidery which was repeated in a deep overlay on the skirt. Her shoulder corsage was formed of peach and ivory silk roses.

The bride's mother selected a peach Qiana gown distinguished with a low neckline, bands of reembroidered lace over the shoulders, and an attached capelet that dipped lower in the back. She wore a corsage of ivory

The wedding was followed by a reception given by the bride's parents in the Fellowship Hall of the church where decorations were governed by colors emphasized in the wedding.

Guests were greeted by the bride's mother. Others in the receiving line were the groom's parents, bride's father, and the bride and groom.

The registry table in the room was draped to the floor with white tulle attractively trimmed with white lace over white linen. The floral appointment was an arrangement of white gladioli, peach carnations touched lightly with peach silk roses. The table held the bride's book where Mrs. Jim Wiese directed guests to sign with a peach feathered pen. It also held the toast net rice bags which were handed out by Miss Jamie Gilmore, cousin of the groom.

The bride's book table that was set up in the church foyer for guests to register when they arrived for the wedding was covered with a white crocheted cloth, a treasured wedding gift to the couple, made and presented to them by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Lucille Simmons of Milton, Fla. The table held a peach pillar candle ringed with matching flowers, and a framed picture of the bride and groom on an easel. Mrs. Wiese presided at the table.

The bride's table presented beauty in a most gracious fashion. The three-layered drape for the table featured peach polyester overlaid with candlelight tulle topped with delicate lace caught up in swags centered with peach silk roses in front. The table was centered with a cake as beautiful and special as the bride was on her wedding day. Flanking the cake were two-branched silver candelabra holding peach tapers and a bouquet of peach and ivory carnations and ivory cushion poms. Also on the table were silver lotus bowls of daisy-shaped mints made by Mrs. John Chapman, and peach colored napkins picturing a bride and groom corresponding with the covers of the matchbooks handed out by the bride's father during the reception.

The bride's cake, a queenly three-tiered structure, was covered with ivory icing and adorned with frosting peach roses with pale green leaves, ivory rosettes, deep drapes and shells, tiny ceramic doves and cherubs and jeweled filigree dividers. The top ornament combined the beloved wedding symbols of hearts, bells, lilies of the valley and net with a kissing bride and groom sitting on a love seat to add a sweet tradition to the cake.

The bride and groom cut the cake with a silver knife and the slices were served with a matching server during the evening, the set was a special wedding gift from Kerry Wooten, the bride's brother.

The punch and groom's tables were laid with tan polyester overspread with candlelight tulle bordered around the top with tan satin ribbon. The first table held a large silver punch bown flanked by apricot candles uprising from single silver

The groom's table emphasized both silver and wooden appointments. The chocolate sheet cake was covered with mocha icing and each square was centered with a leaf design and bordered with leaf-shaped icing. A dark vase behind the cake held a silk iris and dried foliage and was flanked by low holders filled with short peach

The tan napkins on the table were monogrammed with "D-G-B." Also on the table was a silver coffee urn, peach sugar bells for the coffee, and dark wooden trays holding an assortment of hors d'ouevres.

Reception assistants were Mmes. Betty Merriman, Vern Mikkelson, Dudley Smith, Cecil Gilmore, Jimmy Gilmore, Kenny Gilmore and Miss Dana Mikkelson.

The bride and groom were graduated from Iowa Park High School and are both employed by Gilmore Inc. She works in the office and he is trailer parts manager.

The couple departed from the reception for Lake Murray, Okla. for a short wedding trip, the bride traveling in a dress of beige polyester imprinted with peach flowers and green leaves. A white cymbidium orchid put the finishing touch on the dress. They plan an extended honeymoon later in the summer.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner Wednesday evening at their home.

Stolper, Blair nuptials read on Independence Day

The altar of Faith Baptist Church was attractively graced with flowers, greenery and candles for the July Fourth marriage ceremony performed by Rev. Ken Cole to unite Miss Paula Jean Stolper and James Douglas Blair.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Stolper of Iowa Park. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Goodloe of Jefferson and late Charles D. Blair.

Featured in the setting were two seven-branched brass candelabra accented with jade and leather greenery and a white silk bow containing tall white candles which burned during the one o'clock œremony, and the trinity candlestick decorated with the same greenery. Two artistic arrangements of mint green and white carnations scattered generously with baby's breath provided further decorative interest. Family pews were designated with white satin bows.

The prenuptial musical presentation was offered by Mrs. Michael Sargent, organist, and Danny Parkerson, vocalist. The organist played "Oh Promise Me" and furnished accompaniment for the vocalist who sang "Because" preceding the ceremony and "Walk Hand and Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer" during the service. Mrs. Sargent played the "Prince of Denmark March" for the wedding attendants to walk to the altar. The bride entered the sanctuary to the sweet strains of Wagner's "Lohengrin" on the arm of her father who gave her in marriage for both of her parents. For the recessional, Mrs. Sargent played Mendelssohn's composition.

The bride was a charming picture in an original peau de ange and silk organza gown with a fitted bodice overlaid with Venise medallion appliques showered with baby pearls. The distinguishing marks of the bodice were a Queen Anne neckline bordered with lace appliques and sheer bishop sleeves adorned with the applied lace figures and tight buttoned cuffs edged with Venise

The beauty of the semi-full skirt was enhanced with Venise lace medallion appliques scattered over the front. An attached flounce led to a cathedral train edged in narrow Venise lace. The bride's headdress teatured a two-tiered illusion veil edged in chantilly lace that swept to fingertip length and a butterfly face veil caught to a pearl-scattered Chantilly lace cap. Her cascade bouquet consisted of mint green and white carnations, gypsophila and asparagus fern and a lace background.

The bride completed her costume by observing traditions. For "something old", she wore a diamond necklace and earrings. The something" borrowed" was the groom's sister's veil, and the "something new" was her wedding gown. The garter was added to her costume as "something blue" and she wore the sixpence in her shoe for good luck.

The three bridal attendants included Mrs. Glen Solomon of Wichita Falls, as matron of honor, Miss Joanna Tipton of Wichita Falls and Miss Shannon Young of Iowa Park, the bridesmaids.

They carried nosegays of mint green and white carnations and baby's breath accented with mint green lace streamers to emphasize the beauty of their identically styled gowns. The high-waisted floor length gowns were fashioned with spaghetti straps and flowing skirts made of pale green crepe with dark green and white floral designs. To complete their dresses they added sheer nylon capes of matching design.

Peyton Parkerson, the dimunitive flower girl, wore a frock conforming in color and style to the attendants, and the flowers that she carried in a white lace basket were like those formed in their nosegays. The ring bearer was Aaron Splawn of Missouri City, Texas, cousin of the bride. He carried the rings on a square satin pillow with mint green streamers. His wedding attire matched that worn by the male attendants who wore pale green tuxedos with white shirts edged in dark green ruffles.

The groom, who wore an all-white tuxedo and a mint green carnation encircled with baby's breath for his boutonniere, was attended by Glen Solomon as best man, Danny James and Mike Hageman as groomsmen. Duties of ushering were assigned to Pat Stolper and Ronny Stolper, brothers of the bride.

The bride said "I love you" to her mother and to the groom's mother during the service by presenting them with red roses. Mrs. Stolper wore a teal blue jersey knit sleeveless gown with V-neckline and a long flowing floor length skirt. Mrs. Goodloe wore a floral print white crepe gown with short sleeves and an

A-line full length skirt. Each wore a white japhet orchid trimmed to match her gown.

The wedding reception hosted by the bride's parents was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

Mrs. Kim Henry directed signatures of the guests at a lace-covered table appointed with a bud vase of white and mint green carnations, bride's book and feathered pen.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over white linen and centered with the cake that was in exquisite taste. The crystal punch service and napkins printed with "The first day of our lives together, Paula and James. July 4. 1980." appointed table extremities.

Clusters of velvety roses with pale green leaves and ruffled garlands of icing set off the sculptured elegance of the three pure white tiers of the cake, each tier lifted to give height. Four revolving round cakes decorated with sprays of the white roses at the base of the tall confection, and miniature bride and groom dolls dressed in formal white wedding dothes standing in a cloud of lace, roses and pearls on the top enriched the splendor of the cake. Mrs. Mary Stines served the cake and Mrs. Bob Moore presided at the punch service.

The cover on the groom's table duplicated the one on the bride's table. The focal point of interest was the chocolate cake covered with mocha icing centered with a motorcycle made of icing, a copy of the groom's motorcycle that the couple used to take them to Angel Fire, N.M., their honeymoon destination. The table also held a large silver coffee urn on a silver tray. Mrs. Pat Stolper and Mrs. Mark Reeves served at the table. Rice bags were handed out by Miss Ginger Stolper, niece of the bride, from a white basket decorated with the chosen colors of green. The new Mrs. Blair was graduated from Wichita Falls High School where she was a three-year member of the Lone Star Drill Team. She is employed at the University Park Clinic in Wichita Falls. The groom was graduated from Hirschi High School and received Who's Who in auto mechanics. He works for PPG. They will live in Wichita Falls.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at Salt-Lick Restaurant. Tables were decorated with bud vases of mint green and white carnations.

The bride's grandparents in attendance at the wedding were Mr.

and Mrs. S.J. Splawn and Mrs. Lorene Parker of Wichita Falls. The groom's grandparents present were Mr. and Mrs. C.W. Reed of Holliday and Mrs. Bertha Blair of Wichita

Other out-of-town guests were Messrs. and Mmes. H.F. Goodloe, Electra, Jim Lowder, Lubbock, Don Splawn, Missouri City, Kent Lowder, Carrollton; Miss Elizabeth Lowder, Lubbock, Allen and Aaron Splawn, Missouri City.

Survivors include his wife, Mary Lee; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Lou Martin of Houston; two sons, Don Wheelock of Yuma, Ariz. and Dann Wheelock of Irving; eight grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Birk Circle meets

Mrs. C.E. Birk was the moderator for the Bible lesson Tuesday morning for the meeting of the Lucy Birk Circle of First Presbyterian Church at the home of Mrs. Edna Lemond.

Mrs. L. Shelton, circle chairman, directed the business meeting.

The topic of the Bible study was "The Significance of Holy Week". Mrs. Birk stated that the physical form and countenance of Jesus are nowhere described in the scripture. "The situations in which Jesus lived and the events in his earthly career are recorded, the greatest events being those of his death and resurrection", Mrs. Birk said.

Assisting with the program discussion were Miss Titia Belle Blanks, Mmes. Shelton, John Clapp Sr., Gale Lowrance, Norman Nettleton and Lois Holloway.

Marion Hurshel Pierce

Services for Marion Hurshel Pierce, 70, of Bowie, a longtime resident of Iowa Park, were held Monday in Owens and Brumley Funeral Home in Bowie.

Dr. Ronnie Armstrong, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiated. Burial was in the Burkburnett Cemetery.

He was born May 9, 1910, in Cleveland County, Okla. and had lived in Bowie eight years, moving there from Iowa Park. He was a retired machinist with Wilson Manufacturing Co. and a member of First Baptist Church in Bowie.

Survivors include his wife, Ina Faye of the home; two sons, Thomas of Lancaster and Randall of Wichita, Kan.; a sister, Mrs. Willie Mae Fraquhar of Houston; and six grandchildren.

A.E. 'Bewey' Frazier

Graveside services were Saturday morning at Highland Cemetery for A.E. "Dewey" Frazier, 77. Rev. G.W. Milner, pastor of First United Pentecostal Church, officiated. Burial was under direction of Tanner-Aulds Funeral Home.

Frazier, a retired truck driver for Barbour Trucking Co., was born Sept. 21, 1902, in Grand Saline. He had lived in Wichita Falls 18 years. He

Big week for Wendy

Though this entire week will be a busy and exciting period for Iowa Park delegates to the Texas Association of Future Farmers convention in Houston's Astroarena, today and Friday will be special for one of them.

Wendy Hicks is one of 50 recipients of $6,000 scholarships presented by the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, which will take place this afternoon.

And then tomorrow, she is a candidate for state president when some 6,000 FFA members voted on their officers for the 1980-81 year.

Miss Hicks has established a series of firsts during her FFA career, having been the first female to serve as president of the Iowa Park chapter, as well as the district and area.

She has received the Santa Fe award, was named Star Greenhand, Star Chapter Farmer and participated in National Honor Society and band. During her courses in wcational agriculture, she has raised turkeys, lambs, show barrows, wheat and beef calves.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hicks.

downfall of our great nation. I've said the auto workers were the leaders in union efforts with their calendarscheduled strikes for higher wages and matching benefits.

Those who side with the unions have every right to do so, but those of us who don't just have to pay the higher bills right along with everyone else. That just isn't right.

It's been no surprise to anyone that the American automobile companies have dictated in the past what we, the public, wanted and would have. They've told us what we wanted and we've always gone along with them.

That is, until the past few years. Now Americans don't want what our home country corporations want us to buy. We don't like the performance, we don't like the price, and we certainly don't like the workmanship.

So what do the American auto manufacturers and unions do? They turn to the federal government and say it's un-American what's going on, letting all these foreign imports come ashore is wrecking the business and putting people out of work, so the imports should be restricted or cut

Because the American manufacturers have bowed year after year to the union workers, our home-made cars are priced out of competition. Foreign manufacturers can build cars in countries where the inflation rate and cost of living is far greater than here in America, send those cars here where the dollar is worth less than it has ever been, and still sell it for less than an American-made vehicle.

Our auto manufacturers don't need tax dollars to bail them out. Nor do they need less competition from foreign countries.

What they need is a crash course in free enterprise. It wouldn't hurt if their workers and members of congress were invited to attend along with them.

The Living Word

Is there anyone who has not known the agony of loneliness and the ache of emptiness? There are two basic kinds of loneliness. The first is ISOLATION OF SPACE. This is the person far away from home and loved ones, fulfilling their military obligations-this is the loneliness felt by the businessman away from his family as he works his assigned territory-this is the loneliness of parents whose children are grown and now live in some other part of the country. There is something deeply satisfying in being close to those we love and who love us.

The other kind of loneliness, and far heavier to bear, is the ISOLATION OF SPIRIT. The lonely person may decide that his unhappiness is peculiar to persons in his age group, or in his social class, or in his race. Loneliness strikes without regard for age, place or condition. It can affect the very young whose parents have too little time for them. Teenagers are not immune. Many feel misunderstood and alienated from their elders. There is the loneliness within marriage, where many couples feel estranged from their partners even while living together in the most intimate of relationships. Most poignant of all is the loneliness of the aged who often feel useless and unwanted. The clue to what loneliness really is can be found in this line from the 142nd Psalm "No man cares for me." Loneliness is the feeling of being cut off from other live without a relationship with God. There is no real meaning to be found in life apart from Him. The greatest single evidence of loneliness today is the number of people who express a complete lack of purpose in life, an emptiness, a basic meaninglessness about human existence. Man was created in the image of God. In the beginning there was companionship with God-a closeness between Creator and creature. Then came man's desire for freedom. He went his way rather than God's way. An estrangement between God and man resulted, an estrangement which there has been a longing in the heart of God for man's return. This is the prodigal son. "Our souls are never at rest, until they find rest in Thee."

Cook of the Week

The vegetables and fruit kingdoms need exploring during all seasons because they offer a wealth of minerals and vitamins.

Vegetables have family trees that go back to the dawn of history. One of Ramona (Mrs. Dale) Robbins' recipes this week calls for lettuce, a vegetable, and avocado, a fruit.

Lettuce is probably the oldest and most popular of all the vegetables known to man. The Persian kings, who called it kahn, served it on their royal tables as early as 550 B.C. Aristotle praised it and the Chinese savored it. Columbus took the seed with him to Isabela Island in the Bahamas. The name "lettuce" can be traced to the old French "laitues".

The avocado is the fruit of a tree that belongs to the laurel family. It is sometimes called the alligator pear. It is a native of the Western Hemisphere from Mexico south to the Andrean regions.

It did not receive serious horticulture attention until about 1900 when horticulturists found that production of grafted trees was simple. Since then flourishing industries have developed in Florida and California in the U.S., Africa and on somewhat smaller scale in several other countries. The avocado is popular in a variety of dishes, salads, desserts, soups and spreads.

Some of Mrs. Robbins' recipes for the week attest to her feeling that cakes play an important role in the most significant moments in lives of families.

Ramona was graduated from Iowa Park High School and attended Draughon's Business College. She has worked in the library at Texas Tech University in Lubbock and at Petete's Drapery Center in Wichita Falls. At present, she has a child care center in her home

She and her husband, Dale, who is associated with Life and Casualty Insurance, have two children, Michelle 5, and Gregg fifteen months old. They are members of the Garden Edge Church of Christ in Wichita Falls.

Ramona's hobbies include cooking, sewing and reading.

Four teams are champs

What do the Rangerettes, Blazers, Slick Chicks and Sizzlers all have in common? They're all champions.

Play in the Iowa Park Girls' Softball League was completed last week, and all of the teams are winners of their respective divisions.

The Rangerettes and Blazers tied for first place in the beginners division with identical 6-2 records. The Mermaids were second, 5-3; Butterflies third and Chargers fourth.

In the intermediates, the Slick Chicks took the title with an 8-1 record. Next were the Fireballs, 5-4; Good News Bears and Bat Benders.

With an impressive undefeated season, the Sizzlers were the undisputed champs of the senior division. They won all eight of their games. The Thunderbirds were second and the Angels third.

Plenty of room

There's still plenty of room for participants in the new summer recreation program.

The program is held each weekday morning from 9 a.m. until noon at the high school campus, where instruction and participation in track, baseball, tennis and weightlifting is offered.

Five supervisors are available for the program, which is co-sponsored by the city and school. Two of the supervisors are coaches, Jim Arnold and Dick Wineinger, and three are upperclass students.

The program will continue through July, Arnold said.

junior high science teacher, Mrs. Jan Bennett as assistant band director, Robin McLaren as home economics teacher, and an applicant for the vocational agriculture teacher.

All four were given the green light, with the vo-ag teacher to be named later after resignation procedures from the teacher's former position are complete.

Mrs. Collins, daughter of former Midwestern State University president Dr. Travis White, worked for the Holliday school system last year as teacher's assistant. Mrs. Collins was also highly recommended by Iowa Park administrators. She taught freshman science in Iowa Park two

Mrs. Bennett received her teaching certificate from Midwestern State University, and taught elementary classes in Lawton last year, while her husband taught orchestra in high school. Mr. Bennett accepted a job at Rider High School this year, and the move made Mrs. Bennett available for the position as assistant band director here.

Mrs. McLaren was hired earlier by another school system in the Abilene area, but left the option open to be hired by Holliday. Trustees hired Mrs. McLaren for a one-year term. SENIOR TRIP of seniors, and problems involved in the senior trip, discussed at length and finally set guidelines to phase out the trip altogether by 1984.

Several problems concerning the senior trip were brought out by trustees and high school principal Bill Lee, including the length of traveling time, number of miles, number of days taken for the trip, and fund raising projects involved.

Holliday is the only school in this area where senior trips are still taken. Archer City dissolved its senior trips two years ago.

A motion passed to phase out the senior trip by the year 1984. The 1980-81 seniors will be given five days for a trip; 1981-82 seniors four days; 1982-83 seniors three days; and, the 1983-84 seniors limited to one senior day during the school year, and will also be dismissed three days early at the end of school.

Voting for the proposal were trustees Larry Finnell, Tommy Mankins, Durhl Caussey, Jack Ayers, and Jake Cottrell. Voting against were Gene Harmon and Terry Parnell.

In regards to the fund raising projects, trustees ruled that parents of seniors would no longer pay dues, as has been done in the past, and voluntary dues for extra distance or time was nixed.

In other business;

FOR CITY HALL

Council again to seek bonds

Holliday city council voted to add a proposal to the November general election ballot, calling for the issuance of bonds to construct a new city hall with the addition of a storm shelter.

But the most pressing problem during Monday's meeting seemed to be the lack of air conditioning in the old city hall.

Before the meeting even had begun, the lone air conditioner used to cool the city office, went on the blink. With temperatures hovering over the 100 degree mark outside, the meeting looked to be in jeopardy, until alderman Fred Daume saved the day by bringing in two fans.

Council members voted to purchase a new air conditioner, but Tuesday morning, mayor Tom Hall found the problem to be in the electric wiring, not in the air conditioner. "There wasn't a thing wrong with the air conditioner, it was in the wiring," Hall said. "We have blown several fuses in the past when it overloaded."

Virdell motioned that a new proposal be added to the November general elections calling for the construction of a new city hall. A similar proposal calling for $75,000 in bonds to construct a city hall was rejected by Holliday voters in the May Democratic primary.

The new proposal calls for a basement to be added to the original building plans to serve as a storm shelter, as well as meeting place for senior citizen groups and community center. The original design included offices for the city hall, police station and fire station.

One resident present at the meeting asked Virdell how much he figured the addition of the basement with the original figure of $75,000 would add to the city's bonded indebtedness. "With the addition of a basement shelter, I would imagine around $85,000 to $90,000," replied

In other business, council okayed, in a split vote, to add Leon Addison as an alternate to sign checks made out by the city, and met in executive session to discuss personnel.

Laverne Slatton, Hall and John Goforth are currently the only persons authorized to sign checks made out by the city. It was decided a fourth person should serve as alternate, in case a situation arose where one was needed.

However, when a motion was made to name Addison as the alternate, council member Jimmy Willis and Addison himself cast negative votes. Daume and Virdell voted for the proposal, and Hall cast the deciding

Although the council met to discuss personnel, no action was taken.

Water meters, census figures don't jibe

United States Census Bureau are correct, there are several water meters that are being used and paid for by non-existent Holliday residents.

Tentative figures received by city secretary Laverne Slatton recently places the population for Holliday at 1283, or an increase of 235 since 1970, when the last census was taken.

But the confusing aspect of the census is the average per household, which is 2.83, compared to 2.63 in 1970.

One possible way of disputing the report is to multiply the average per household with the number of water meters in Holliday, currently numbering 617. The population then would come to 1746 in Holliday, a more accurate figure according to Mrs. Slatton.

And, with the distribution of federal monies resting on the official census, Holliday could very lose precious dollars because of an imcomplete or innacurate filing of census forms. "I don't know why some people have failed to fill out the census forms," Mrs. Slatton said, "but it is obvious by the figures that many have not taken the time to do so."
