PARK CLINIC-DR. E.F. WATSON

IOWA PARK, TEXAS

Tuesday is general election day

Iowa Park area voters will join with others across the nation Tuesday in participating in the general election.

Voters will be asked to cast ballots for races all the way from the local county precinct level to the presidency of the United States, and top it all off by deciding the fate of nine Texas constitutional amendments.

Approximately 43,000 votes are expected to be cast in Wichita County, according to Jerry Padgett, county clerk. More than 2,000 absentee ballots had been cast by yesterday morning, and at least half that many more were expected.

Padgett said the absentee poll here, in the school tax office, will remain open for voting until 4:30 p.m. Friday, but his office at the court house will extend its closing until 6 for those who cannot get there during regular work hours.

The polls Tuesday will open at 7 a.m. and close at 7 p.m., Padgett said.

Voters in precinct 32 will cast their ballots at the County Agriculture Building; precinct 33 at Faith Baptist Church; precinct 34 at the West Wichita Coop building, on the north side of the Valley View school building; precinct 35 at the Assembly of God Church at Kadane Corner; and precinct 60 voters at the Valley Farms Community Center, or American Legion Hall.

The contest for president has undoubtedly captured most of the interest of voters, even overshadowing any local races. Candidates and their vice president running mates are both listed on the ballots.

Candidates are, in order as they appear on the ballots, Ronald Reagan and George Bush, Republican; Jimmy Carter and Walter Mondale, Democrat; Ed Clark and David Koch, Libertarian; and John B. Anderson and Milton S. Eisenhower (Lucy is actually the person), Independent.

At the top of the election ballot, voters are given the opportunity to vote a straight ticket; Republican, Democrat or Libertarian. Voters, however, have the right and opportunity to skip this block and vote for the individuals they wish, regardless of party, so long as they vote for only one candidate per office.

Considerable interest has developed in the race for U.S. representative of the 13th district, where incumbent Jack Hightower, Democrat from Vernon, is being challenged by Republican Ron Slover of Amarillo.

The major race locally is for Precinct 3 county commissioner, where Gordon Griffith, Democrat, is opposed by Cecil F. Hard, Republican, for the post being vacated by Buck Voyles.

Griffith emerged winner in a hotly-contested party primary which attracted half a dozen candidates.

Also locally, A.L. Bohannon is unopposed in his bid for re-election as precinct 3 constable.

Voters are also asked to choose between Miles Graham (D) and Elton Winton (R) for county tax assessor-collector.

A heated race has developed for judge of the 78th district court in Wichita Falls between Keith Nelson (R), who was appointed to serve an unexpired term, and Larry Lambert (D).

Otherwise, there are no contested races affecting voters in this area on the local level.

Railroad commission posts are the hottest races on the state level. They include Henry C. Grover (R) vs. Buddy Temple (D); and H.J. "Doc" Blanchard (R), James E. Nugent (D) and David Hutzelman (L).

Two supreme court seats are being contested. Jim Brady (R) opposes James P. Wallace (D), and Will Garwood opposes C.L. Ray (D).

In all the other races, candidates are unopposed.

Captions for each of the nine state constitution amendments read as follows:

1. The constitutional amendment permitting the legislature to authorize banks to use unmanned teller machines within the county or the city of their domicile on a shared basis to serve the public convenience.

2. The constitutional amendment authorizing appeal of certain pretrial rulings of a trial court in a criminal case by either the state or the accused.

3. The constitutional amendment requiring a single appraisal and a single board of equalization within each county for ad valorem tax purposes.

4. The constitutional amendment to authorize bingo games on a local option election basis if the games are conducted by a church, synagogue, religious society, volunteer fire department, non-profit veterans organization, fraternal organization, or non-profit organization supporting medical research or treatment programs and if the proceeds are to be spent in Texas for charitable purposes of the organizations.

5. The constitutional amendment to grant the governor power to exercise fiscal control over the expenditure of appropriated funds as provided by law.

6. The constitutional amendment to authorize the governor to remove appointed officers with the advice and consent of the senate.

7. The constitutional amendment authorizing counties with a population of 5000 or less to perform private road work.

8. The constitutional amendment to change the name of the Courts of Civil Appeals and the names and qualifications of the justices of the Supreme Court and to prescribe the jurisdiction and authority of the appellate courts.

9. The constitutional amendment allowing spouses to agree that income or property arising from separate property is to be separate property.

Hawks host Lions Friday in important loop battle

If the Hawks are to stay in tomorrow night's game with Vernon's Lions, they cannot make mistakes. Just ask the Rams at Mineral Wells. In last week's contest, Mineral Wells out-gained Vernon 11-6 in first downs and 183-169 in total yards, but still lost 42-16. That's because the Lions turned four of the Rams' six turnovers into touchdowns.

When the two teams meet at 8 p.m.

in Hawk Stadium, the Mean Green will be in the thick of the Dist. 3-AAAA title hunt with a perfect 2-0 record. But they will be taking on a team which has beaten them five consecutive years.

Iowa Park and Hirschi are the only undefeated teams in the conference. Hirschi plays Graham tomorrow.

But the Hawks can't be looking a week ahead. They're taking on a team which has outscored them 151-13 in the last five meetings.

"Our defense really came on strong against Amarillo Caprock," said Lion mentor Leo Brittain. "That was the key to our late offensive drives. If the defense keeps giving our offense opportunities, we can score. We need to get good field position so we can open our offense up and throw the ball more."

That's just what the Lions did to the Rams. Vernon quarterback George Copeland completed four of six pass attempts for 84 yards and a touchdown.

But the plays that really kept the Lions in the lead were by Edward Cherry, who ran a kickoff 95 yards for a touchdown, and returned an interception 46 yards for another. Copeland is the key to the Lion offense. Even while the Lions were losing four and winning only one in their non-conference games, he completed 30 of 69 pass attempts for 385 yards and two touchdowns. He was also the leading rusher in those same games, picking up 203 yards in 53 carries.

The Lion defense is built around mammoth noseguard Benny Gaines, the 300-pound all-district selection as a junior. Though he injured a knee in the fourth game of the season against Lawton MacArthur, he was back in action in the conference opener against Hirschi, which the Huskies won 22-6.

But the Hawk defense has apparently come into its own. Iowa Park has given up only 297 yards to Mineral Wells and Graham, while earning the best record against the score, three points, among the six-team league.

And Gaines and company will have its hands full trying to hold down the running of tailbacks Jim Smith, Troy Linthicum and Chris Nethery, all of whom are averaging more than five yards per carry for the season.

Smith has picked up 705 yards in seven games, Linthicum 655 and Nethery 136.

In the current 10-game series between Iowa Park and Vernon, the Hawks won the first five, but Vernon has taken the past five, three of which were shutouts.

Beginning their domination in 1975, the Lions have won with scores of 21-0, 28-7, 40-0, 42-0 and 20-6.

And you can bet they're hoping to make it six in a row, if they can force the Hawks to make similar mistakes as did the Rams at Mineral Wells last week.

Two workers injured as scaffolding topples

Two men were seriously injured when they dropped 26 feet to the concrete floor of the new gymnasium at the high school shortly after 2 p.m.

Tuesday when scaffolding on which they were standing collapsed.

Jeff Betts was in the intensive care unit of Wichita General Hospital yesterday and James Grimes also remained hospitalized as result of injuries sustained in the fall.

The men, according to Jim Martin, job foreman, were atop the scaffolding doing work on the ceiling. They were attempting to move the scaffolding, which is on rollers, by pulling their way along a ceiling beam. This is a common practice, Martin said.

The scaffolding lurched from the top part toward the west, which was in the direction they were attempting to move. It then rocked back to the east, and then toppled length-wise to the floor.

Both Betts and Grimes hung onto the beam for a brief moment, and then dropped to the floor.

Betts reportedly fell primarily on his stomach and head, and Grimes landed on his legs and arms, according to two other workers on the scene.

Though the extent of their injuries are not known, Betts is believed to have sustained severe injuries to his head and a broken arm, among other injuries. One observer said he had a large wound on the left side of his head.

Ambulance attendants placed splints on Grimes' two arms and right leg before he was transported to the hospital.

They had been employed by the firm about two months, according to the foreman.

The scaffolding is erected with five-foot sections stacked one atop the other.

Another scaffolding with two other men was standing just to the east of the ill-fated stand. It, too, would have been knocked to the floor had it fallen eastward instead of to the west, according to the workers.

The workers were loosening supports on the rafters of the roof. The rafters are to be moved to correct a misalignment, which was the subject of a lengthy discussion at the last meeting of the school board.

Morath contradicts Census Bureau count

The U.S. Census Bureau's count in Iowa Park is still unacceptable, Steve Morath, city administrator, told city aldermen Monday during their regular meeting.

A second preliminary report from the Bureau raised Iowa Park's population to 6,182, 58 more than the 6,124 reported in the initial preliminary printing.

Morath told aldermen that the key to the miscout was in the housing units reported by the Bureau. A structure-by-structure count made for the city's comprehensive plan reported 2,422 structures. But the Bureau reports only 2,250 housing units here, which is an increase of 12 over the initial preliminary.

According to the Bureau's count, Iowa Park's population has grown only 385 persons from the 5,797 census in 1970, while gaining 418 housing units.

Morath said the Bureau had even lowered the per-house population count from 2.88 in the initial preliminary to 2.75.

The census of the community affects not only federal funding of programs here, but representation on state and federal levels.

Morath told aldermen he had not decided yet whether to recommend joining with a state-wide organization in contesting the census count in courts.

The administrator said his personal estimation of population here ran between 6,800 and 7,000.

Watch for the little spooks

Extreme caution should always be exercised on Halloween night, but this year residents should be even more cautious.

Friday is Halloween, and the combination of little spooks out trick or treating and football fans going to Hawk Stadium for the Iowa Park vs. Vernon game makes the situation dangerous.

Parents should accompany their little spooks, or at least give them a sincere lecture on watching for vehicles when crossing streets.

Drivers should move at very cautious speeds and keep a sharp eye out for darkly-dressed trick or treaters.

Valley Farms reunion Saturday

The present and former residents of Wichita Valley Farms will hold their 15th annual reunion Saturday at the American Legion Post [Valley Farms Community House].

Registration will start at 5:30 p.m. and the picnic type supper, which will be brought by those attending, will be served at 6:30. Drinks will be furnished.

ONE SCAFFOLD TOWERS ABOVE CRUMPLED DUPLICATE ... two men were seriously injured in 26-foot fall.

Crime increase is explained

Bob Culver, officer of the Wichita Falls Police Department, provided the program on Residential Security through lecture and film for the Thursday evening meeting of the Iowa Park Lioness Club. Mrs. D.O. James and Mrs. W.E. Karstetter were hostesses for the meeting in the home of the former.

"Crime is on the increase in our area," Culver said. "A crime is committed in Wichita Falls every 20 minutes and 40 seconds; a residential burglary occurs every three hours and five minutes; and a business burglary happens every five hours and 45 minutes." He said that rape was the only crime showing a decrease in the area at the present time.

He gave staggering facts regarding the ages of the offenders nation-wide, stating that age 13 is considered the most violent age group; 11-14 the largest age category; and that eighty percent of the crimes committed were by people under 21 years of age.

The officer warned against a feeling of "it can't happen to me" regarding home burglaries and showed a film, "Target for Terror," to emphasize how proper locks, operation identification and other safety measures can strengthen residential security.

Mrs. James used "Which Are You?" for the theme of the devotional period.

Mrs. Sam Hunter directed the business when it was reported that $100.45 was made on the Whoop-T-Do project, and two changes in the standing rules were voted.

During the social hour, refreshments were served from a table covered with a white linen cloth accented with colorful embroidery purchased in the Bahamas. A Halloween motif was carried out in decorations, favors and food.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Needham are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Robin, and Gary Blackerby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Blackerby. The couple will be married Nov. 8.

Miss Needham is a junior at Iowa Park High School where she is treasurer of VOE and a member of the pep squad. Her fiancé was graduated from Iowa Park High School. He attends Midwestern State University and works for Cryovac.

'New Age' speaker's topic

Mrs. Charlie Lee discussed "The Assurance of a New Age" in the last of a series based upon the parables of Jesus at the meeting of United Methodist Women Tuesday morning.

She stated that many of Jesus' hearers felt that the New Age he talked about seemed quite unlikely and far removed. Others were still too dedicated to the Old Age in which they were born and reared to adopt a change. It was for these people that Jesus chose parables dealing with the harvest suggesting that the miracle of growth and change can actually take place. Mrs. Lee mentioned parables of "The Sower", "The Seed Growing Secretly," and "The Mustard Seed" that Jesus used to drive home the idea. She continued by showing how in the "Parable of the Leaven" Jesus emphasized the humble, fragile beginnings of the New Age, but also asserted that his teachings would penetrate and transform the whole world.

Turning to the parables on judgment, Mrs. Lee pointed out how Jesus taught that judgment of the New Age was a continuing progress culminating in a final judgment to be manifest at some time in the future. She cited three parables in this connection: The Closed Door, The Goats and the Sheep, and The Talents.

Mrs. Lee concluded by saying: "To whatever extent that we today feel trapped by forces and systems not under our control, we should be able to understand what Jesus meant in his teachings. The message of the parables and of the whole ministry of Jesus is that these forces are identified, addressed and undone by Jesus, the bearer of the hope of the New Age."

Mrs. Gene Owens directed the business meeting which followed the lecture. Details of the annual bazaar which will be held Saturday were finalized under the direction of Mmes. L.A. Thurlow, Miles Thompson and S.B. Keeter, the committee in charge. The bazaar will be held in the Fellowship Hall from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Food will be available all day, consisting of chili, stew, sandwiches, pastries and drinks.

Mrs. Owens announced that Dr. Robert DeLizio, oncologist from Wichita Falls, will deliver a lecture entitled "Let's Talk about Mastectomies" at the meeting next Tuesday morning. He will be accompanied by Paulette Koncelik of the American Cancer Society. The lecture will begin at 10 a.m. in the Suzanna Wesley class room and the public is invited.

Raines, Collins marriage held here Sunday

The sentimental intimacy of a home wedding characterized the exchange of double-ring nuptial vows Sunday afternoon by Miss Carrie Suzanne Raines and Bobby M. Collins in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle W. Raines. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Troy W. Collins.

Dr. Lewis Lemmond of Abilene, a Baptist minister and uncle of the bride, officiated the ceremony in a setting featuring a white wrought iron archway threaded with fern and topped with sprays of fern and pink carnations. Flanking the archway were arrangements of wine-colored chrysanthemums and greenery.

Denny Anderson, pianist, provided a medley of appropriate selections and played "Wedding Song" for the entrance of the bride and groom.

The bride wore a lovely sheer organza gown over taffeta fashioned with long bishop sleeves and a slightly raised waistline. Her three-tiered long train veil appliqued with embroidered flowers was caught to a pearl-studded headpiece. She carried a lacy nosegay of carnations in shades of pink interspersed with baby's breath and fern.

Mrs. Terry Daniels, the matron of honor, wore a dusty pink dress styled with pleated skirt and sheer capelet and carried a single red rose.

The groom wore a white tuxedo, and Terry Daniels, the best man, wore a wine-colored tuxedo.

Immediately following the wedding, the newlyweds were honored at a reception given by the bride's parents.

Refreshments were served from a table covered with a handmade lace cloth, handiwork of the bride's paternal grandmother, over a wine-colored skirt. The centerpiece featured a candle burning in a hurricane lamp encircled with pink chrysanthemums and baby's breath.

MRS. BOBBY M. COLLINS

Each layer of the three-tiered cake decorated with pink roses and lilies of the valley was supported by four cherubs. Dual white satin bells sprinkled with pearls ornamented the top tier. Mrs. Lewis Lemmond served the cake.

Following the reception, the guests showered the couple with rose petals distributed by Misses Crystal and Melissa Sauls, nieces of the groom, who wore identical wine-colored velvet dresses and rosebuds and baby's breath in their hair.

Reception assistants were Misses Anne Chambers, Cindy Rohrbach, Suzanne Rohrbach and Mrs. Carl Raines.

The bride and groom were graduated from Iowa Park High School where she was in A Cappella Choir, FHA and on the annual staff. She attended Texas Tech University. The groom played football in high school and is employed by the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad. The couple are living in Wichita Falls and are planning a wedding trip to Jamaica in January.

Texas editors speak to election issues

Demo party not the same

I have trouble sleeping during State Democratic Conventions. The reasons are various and often have little to do with the business at hand. I've been to three now, and I find the only inspiration in Leigh McGee, venerable editor of the Jacksboro paper, who loves to discourse into the night about the real history of the Democratic Party since the days when Alan Shivers was turning the air conditioning out in his hotel room.

McGee, having seen the ups and downs of Texas politics for more decades than I have drawn breath, is probably not much worried after the Houston convention over the weekend. I, on the other hand, find that I still have trouble sleeping.

The reason is that we, the other Montague County delegates and myself, find ourselves increasingly in an alien land. As you will read elsewhere in the paper, the main event of the convention was a positive humiliation for those of us who call ourselves conservatives. We were left with no real choice in the chairman's race and saw the convention vote resolutions in favor of homosexual rights, abortion on demand and public employee collective bargaining.

How do you explain that to the people back home? The easiest explanation is the fact that the Montague County delegation would have done as well staying home. We were steadfastly ignored, and no one really cared whether our six votes were there or not, even in our own 22nd Senatorial District. The party brass were so busy begging the favor of the Gay Caucus and the Blacks that the interests of the voters in Montague County or similar areas troubled them not at all.

Well, they should be troubled. They cannot forever serve up outrage after outrage and continue to take the rural and small town votes for granted in the Democratic column.

With all due respect to my party, it has turned into a freak show. And its most decent and able men, like Jerry Craft of Jacksboro, have gotten to where they stay home. The rest of us who are active continue to go to the State affairs and listen to a string of liberal one-issue quacks parade their causes before the convention, while the middle class and rural citizen is ignored or forgotten.

Why are the liberals in control and we so impotent? The truth is that the liberals are winning by default. They win because Montague County voters don't turn out to vote at gubernatorial and presidential elections, so we get fewer local delegates to State conventions to represent their views. The people who gripe the most somehow fail to show up at precinct and county party conventions, and then they cannot understand what has happened to the party.

And the liberals win because the local party will not do the work to forge the ties with other conservative and agricultural delegates that will give the liberals something to contend with. One can only hope that the disgust over the last convention will fuel a war on the freakish elements of the party in the next two years.

We lose, in short, because we don't take part. The policies finally adopted at the national level have their genesis in the precinct conventions held across the country. If you are not prepared to fight for issues and for decent candidates all along the line, then it should come as no surprise when the lunatics take over the asylum.

I'm proud to be a Democrat in the tradition of Jackson and Houston, of Rayburn and Johnson, and today of Charles Stenholm. But that tradition is today a minority position within our party. To fail to recognize that is to lose all hope for retaking it.

Carter's record his problem

Carter has done a masterful job of keeping attention off his own shortcomings and on the warmonger image he has tried to slap on Reagan. A cartoon in the Odessa American Tuesday summed it up well. It showed the president, looking somewhat unkept because he had been busy throwing mud at Reagan. The caption, in the quotes, said "If you think I'm dirty, you should see how Reagan looked after I threw all this on him."

Now that the issue is once and for all settled, Carter and Reagan can begin discussion of real issues - beyond the "whether or not I should debate" dilemma.

The biggest enigma of the entire scenario is the two Jimmy Carters we see. One is Carter the politician, who runs the smoothest (if not the cleanest) election campaigns I've ever seen; and Carter the president, who seems unsure of himself at every turn, and has appeared bewildered by his job ever since he's had it.

We should examine some of the dichotomies of this amazing man - broken down by his two personalities. Carter the politician, in 1976 said, "I am committed to economic growth, putting our people back to work, controlling inflation and having a balanced budget."

Carter the president (often by events he could not control, it should be conceded) has seen his nation's federal budget grow by $231 billion, an increase of 57 percent, since he took office.

Federal deficits have reached new all-time highs during Carter's presidency. For the fiscal year ended in July, the president had to concede that the federal government had operated $60.9 billion in the red. Since he's been in office, the national debt has GROWN by $300.9 billion! I can remember, not too many years ago, when the ENTIRE federal debt was only (only is the wrong word) $300 billion!

American taxpayers now pay $526 billion in taxes (fiscal 1980), compared with $300 billion in 1976.

After nearly four years into the Carter presidency, the average American family is paying $817 a year more in federal taxes than when he took office, so there's little doubt about who's paying for his joy ride.

Much of the campaign talk of 1976 revolved around the job Gov. Carter had done in streamlining the state government of Georgia, and he pledged to do the same on the national level.

The facts, however, show that Governor Carter:

1. Increased funding for the governor's office in Georgia by 64 percent.
2. Increased total state employee numbers by 23 percent in four years, and tripled the size of the governor's personal staff!
3. He kept his promise not to fire state employees by spending $2.5 million in extra pension dollars that had to be paid when he forced a large number of state employees to retire early so he could show a drop in employee numbers in certain agencies.
4. The number of agencies was reduced, but few functions of government were dropped.

That doesn't sound like very swift reorganization to me!

On the national level, we've seen a similar story. For openers more than 400,000 federal employees have been added. Two new unnecessary departments - (Energy and Education) have been added to the federal bureaucracy.

Education was supposed to be some sort of spin-off from HEW, the president assured us, but the net increase in employees is 1,121. The Energy Department is costing us $13 billion a year and the Education Department is costing $14 billion a year already.

The White House staff is not reduced, as pledged by Candidate Carter. It's the same size as it was under President Ford, and has a budget TWICE AS LARGE as four years ago.

Georgia's new governor, George Busbee, also a Democrat, had this to say as he took office. "We must do better," when addressing the problem of Georgia's slowed economic growth under Jimmy Carter (during his term it fell from 35th to 36th among the states in personal income.) Americans everywhere can say the same thing, after four years of presidency by this well-meaning but ineffectual incumbent (whiz politician that he is). It's time for a change. Reagan and Bush offer that welcome commodity. Let's give'em a try! We have nothing to lose.

Who's calling the kettle black?

The liberals across the country are squealing like a pig caught under the gate about religious groups in this country getting involved in politics.

Democratic National Chairman John White of Texas stopped just short of hysteria last week in denouncing right-wing Christian groups such as the Moral Majority. White charged that the groups are manipulating their followers for political purposes.

Look who's calling the kettle black.

The National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches have supported every wild, crackpot, blue-sky scheme yet devised by bleeding heart liberals.

Did the liberals scream about separation of church and state when Protestant preachers from the North marched alongside the Rev. Martin Luther King on the road at Selma?

Did we hear any protests about keeping church and state separated when clergymen joined the mass picketing of lettuce growers in California? Did we have a vast outpouring from media and government officials when priests urged their congregation nationwide to boycott grapes from California?

Where are the protests calling for separation when main-line churches, especially those in the northeast, have actively supported politically, abortion, homosexuality, the super-welfare state, the government-run child care, and the Equal Rights Amendments?

Holy liberals were the ones that organized "The Religious Coalition for Abortion Rights." And the National Council of Churches has not only supported gay rights legislation in Congress but has been vocal and outspoken for every radical guerrilla operation in the Third World.

Where were the outcries when Roman Catholic Bishop Francis F. Reh of Saginaw, Michigan ordered schoolchildren in his diocese not to participate in a state art contest sponsored by the U.S. Navy because he believed the contest promoted the Trident submarine, USS Michigan.

What the outcry boils down to is the fact that holy liberals are all for church participation in politics as long as it is on the side of social activism.

In other words, it's fine as long as you think like we do. But if you're conservative, it's a violation of the separation of church and state.

Somehow or another, the liberals see something sinister in preachers taking to the pulpit to denounce aborting, homosexuality, the welfare state, and the Equal Rights Amendment.

Personally, we think it's time that the moral majority stand up and declare to the world that we've had enough of all these tiny, small vocal minority groups attacking the home, the Christian life, and a government at the federal level that seeks the lowest common denominator in morals.

And we see nothing wrong in a preacher standing before his congregation and urging the membership to go and vote for men and women who put solid priorities on country, family, and high moral standards.

And the churches down here must be doing something right. During the past 20 years, those "progressive" churches that have dabbled in minority or special-interest causes have lost membership.

Those churches that have stood firm for moral commitment and offered spiritual fulfillment have enjoyed a steady, sustained growth.

Maybe the squealing from the holy liberal is more fright than protest. . . after a quarter century of leading the nation down into a quagmire of welfarism, socialism, and moral degeneracy, the gate may finally be swinging the other way.

The sleeping giant of the moral majority may have finally awakened.

As I See It...

By BOB HAMILTON

I can hardly see how anyone could have used Tuesday night's big deal television debate between Reagan and Carter to determine which candidate would be their choice.

That is, unless those figuring to make up their minds by watching the debates have had their heads in the sand and completely ignored statements of the two candidates during the past year, and Carter's activities the past four years.

Neither candidate did anything new. . . except possibly Carter's admission that there might be some points which could be changed on the Salt II agreement. All other times he had said it was the best agreement we could get from Russia, and we should pass it as is.

I thought the most appropriate thing about the whole program was the placement of the candidates. Carter on our left and Reagan on our right. That told the story about as well as the candidates did themselves.

In other words, Carter and the national Democratic party propose government as the answer to all problems, while Reagan and the Republican party use the conservative theme of allowing local government and individual incentive to care for our own problems. Reagan has the right idea.

About the other races on Tuesday's ballot, there's not too much to say. But I would like to comment on one of the state constitutional amendments: Number 9.

It proposes to "allow spouses to agree that income or property arising from separate property is to be separate property" and this is a bunch of bunk, in my opinion.

When two persons marry, they should have every intention to remain married. The only reason to have separate property would be to marry with the possible idea of divorce in the future.

When I married Dolores, she agreed to accept me with whatever faults, indebtedness and other failings I brought with me. She is also entitled to whatever good things, including any private or separate properties I might have, also.

I find nothing but fault and an easier reason for divorce should constitutional amendment 9 be adopted by the voters of Texas.

Like I said in an earlier column, I certainly hope you have studied the issues and the candidates before you vote in this election.

If you haven't, don't vote. Let those of us who have do your deciding for you.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Sir,

I am fairly new to this town, but would like to share at least one thing that has really impressed me about this community. I really appreciate the hospitality and friendliness found here. Having grown up in Houston, I am well aware of how people can become unfriendly, self-serving and self-centered. Since I have been here I have been treated with respect and courtesy through many acts of Iowa Park's citizens.

I would like to speak to one particular act that has most impressed me. It was not something directed at me, but at an opponent in football. It was an act of true class that took place in last Friday's game in Graham, with 9:22 left in the game. I hope this little poem expresses it well.

Crash and boom and bang and bam, The Hawks last week beat our foe Graham; In the fourth quarter an injured Steer, Stayed on the ground and we did fear;

That his hurt was really bad, And no true sport, at pain, is glad. Quickly two Hawks knelt on the grass,

And showed some well-taught sportsman class; As they carried an injured foe, Some real class they did show. I praise the parents and thank the coaches,

For teaching Hawk class that no one approaches!

Sincerely,
Lee "Choo-Choo" Balinas

There's problems among our workers

We had a couple of pumpers come in and take us to task about our message last week that declining productivity in this country might be partially attributable to too many days off, too many weeks vacation.

But the pair, long time friends, backed off a bit when we showed them a copy of a letter from a major oil company to a long time employee explaining the new benefits going into effect.

The letter enumerated a 11 1/2 percent increase in salary, the addition of dental benefits to the company's hospitalization program, two additional weeks of vacation for 30-year employees.

Then we rode down to the service station for one of the pumpers to fill up his family car with gasoline. . . and the pumpe, chewed on the station operator all during the fill-up because of the high price of gasoline.

That's our friend. . . and the difference is the fact that the Japanese worker can produce the equivalent of 55 cars a year while his American counterpart can only manage 15 cars a year.

In Japan, production results from a cooperative attitude between labor, management, and government. In this country, all three fight each other - that's the difference.

Hawks blank Steers, 28-0

The Hawks kept their district championship hopes alive Friday with a convincing 28-0 victory over Graham's Steers Friday.

Iowa Park doubled Graham in the statistics, as the defensive unit contained the speedy Steers throughout the night.

The victory was credited by observers to the execution of play by the Hawks, and an outstanding coaching performance by Coach Tommy Watkins and his staff.

The Hawks broke Graham's spirit by giving the Steers some of their own medicine: strong defensive play and a pair of long runs.

In the first quarter, after stalling on their first possession at Graham's 15 yard line, the Hawks lit up the scoreboard when Jim Smith broke through the line of scrimmage on a fourth and one gamble, and raced 52 yds to the end zone.

Mike Ray, who had a perfect night place kicking, split the uprights and Hawks led 7-0 with 2:37 remaining in the opening stanza.

It was another long run that set up Iowa Park's second touchdown, which came with 1:26 remaining in the first half.

This time it was Troy Linticum, who scampered 66 yards to the Steer 12 before being hauled down from behind. Smith punched his way over from a yard out for the TD.

The Hawks were ready for more when the second half opened, and the stage was set when Robert Hastings returned the kickoff 44 yards to the Steer 46. Seven plays later, quarterback Curtis Martin hit Hastings, who was standing all alone in the end zone, with a 15-yard aerial for the third touchdown of the evening.

Whatever fight Graham had left was snuffed soon afterward by the Mean Green defense. The Steers had marched deep into Hawk territory, mainly on a 38-yard run, but could get no closer than the two yard line after earning a first down at the eight.

Smith set up the final touchdown of the evening with a pass interception at the Steer 42, and a major penalty against the frustrated hosts took the ball to the 27.

Reserve tailback Chris Nethery carried the ball five times and was only inches short on his last carry from the goal line. Then, on fourth down and from the five yard line after a penalty against the Hawks, Martin rounded his left end and scored by diving into the end zone.

A good part of Graham's frustration was brought about by the Hawk defenders, who not only held the vaunted Steer offense to only 188 yards for the evening, and allowed none of the nine pass attempts to be completed, but also captured three Steer miscues, including three fumbles.

Graham also added to its own troubles by being penalized 10 times for 90 yards, with four of the flags being thrown on major penalties.

Smith was the workhorse of the Hawk offense, carrying 20 times for 125 yards. Linticum gained 93 though his number was dialed only nine times. Nethery gained 59 on 10 carries.

Ace Reid

Ace Reid, 82, died Sunday in a hospital at Santa Anna. Services were held Tuesday at the First United Methodist Church in that community.

Born Mar. 22, 1898, in Taylor County, he moved with his parents to Fowkies Station, between Iowa Park and Electra, when he was about 12 years of age. He married Kellie Bishop and farmed and ranched and was a cattle trader.

He is survived by two children, Ace Jr., Doris, both of Kerrville; three brothers, John of Mineral Wells, Willis of Olney and Hugh of Orange; and four grandchildren.

Subscription rates hiked

Beginning Nov. 1, annual subscriptions to the Iowa Park Leader will be increased by $1, according to Bob Hamilton, publisher.

The rate increase has been brought about by increased news print prices, but primarily by the anticipated change in zip codes by the U.S. Postal

"We could have absorbed the newsprint price increase," said Hamilton, "but the cost of changing the zip codes in the next few months will actually be greater than the increase we're taking."

Though the date and information when the Postal Service will require seven digits has not yet been announced, all information available indicates it will be sometime during 1981.

To change the addressing stencils and cross index filing cards will be an expensive and time-consuming process which must be passed on to the subscribers, according to Hamilton.

The annual subscription rates will be: $7 in Wichita and Archer counties; $9 elsewhere in Texas and Oklahoma; and $11 anywhere else in the continental limits of the United States.

Criminal mischief case is reported

One case of criminal mischief, theft and attempted burglary were reported during the past week to the Iowa Park Police Department.

Glenn Whitner told police between 5 and 6 p.m. Thursday two juvenile boys were found with paint cans in hand, and paint had been slung and poured on the patio floor and walls at 908 W. Louisa. The boys reportedly named another as being responsible while denying they had anything to do with the damage.

Sometime Friday night the cover of the soft drink machine on the outside of Ayres Tire Co. was broken in an apparent attempt to burglarize the machine.

A battery was taken recently from a pickup parked overnight in the 100 block of S. Victoria. Robert Merritt said the cables had been cut and a $50 battery taken.

St. John's Church, where in 1775 Patrick Henry gave his stirring "Give me liberty..." speech, still stands in Richmond, Virginia.

United Way campaign enters final week

With only one more week remaining in the United Fund campaign, neither Iowa Park nor the general drive combining Iowa Park, Wichita Falls and Burkburnett have reached their goals.

Iowa Park is at the 62 percent point in reaching its goal of $30,533. The general goal of $1,508,993 was reported yesterday to be 77 percent complete, when $1,156,230 was reported.

O.N. "Newt" Newman (assisted by Harold Cowley and Phil Weleh) has headed the seven-week long drive in Iowa Park.

Locally, two agencies are funded by the United Way: the Friendly Door and the Iowa Park Recreational Activities Center. There are 34 agencies in the three cities funded by UW.

Newman stressed the importance of Iowa Park's contributions make to the overall campaign. "Our citizens have the opportunity to use not only our home-based agencies, but the other 32 as well. If United Way funding were not available, many of these agencies would not exist and the use would be denied," he said.

He encouraged all workers to "pick up all the packets still out and help wrap up the campaign on time."

Drouth hurts hunting here

Like the farmers, sportsmen in the area are paying for Mother Nature's drouth during the summer months.

Butch Shoop, enforcement division officer with the Texas Department of Parks and Wildlife, told the Noon Lions Club Tuesday that bird and animal hunting here and in most other areas of the state were strongly affected by the drouth.

In fact, Shoop said when the deer season opens Nov. 15, he expects very few bucks in the northern areas to even have horns, which is a result of dry conditions.

The dove hunting was possibly the poorest he had ever seen in this part of the country, and he was raised at Wichita Falls.

There are some migratory birds beginning to show up on area lakes, he said.

Wichita County

Paid for by Committee to Elect Miles Graham
Eloise Mason, Treasurer- 2502 Ruskin, Wichita Falls, Tx. 76309

Elton Winton appreciates your vote and support FOR Tax Assessor-Collector Wichita County

The Tax Assessor-Collector office requires a person that is: honest - capable and efficient.

My past record will show that I meet all those requirements

However — It has been questioned whether the Democratic nominee can be efficient with the several outside interests he is involved in.

1. Full time minister, pastor of a church in Electra, Texas
2. Active real estate salesman, (Broker) offices in Wichita Falls.
(This is an extreme conflict of interest)
3. The duties and responsibility are much greater as Tax Assessor-Collector than that of a deputy.

It is important to the Taxpayer of Wichita County that they be represented in the tax office by someone that can be depended upon to be a working full time official, on that is EXPERIENCED in all the departments of the tax office.

I have no outside interests and my sole job will be to serve you, the people of Wichita County.

Elect Elton Winton Nov. 4
