

Banquet speaker believes in free enterprise system

TOMMY WATKINS SHAKES HANDS WITH BURK'S PAT SMILEY
... Head Hawk's swan song was 18-0 win over Burkburnett.

The keynote speaker for Saturday night's annual Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce banquet is not only a believer of the American free enterprise system, he's living proof that it works.

James Roberts, publisher of the Andrews County News, will address what is expected to be a capacity crowd in the high school cafeteria.

To begin at 7 p.m. with a steak dinner prepared by the Iowa Park MuleSkinners, the evening's program also includes announcement of four award recipients, including Outstanding Citizen of the Year, Outstanding Senior Citizen, Outstanding Agriculturist and Outstanding Educator.

Tickets for the event are $6 and are available at the Chamber office, participating businesses and Chamber directors.

The dinner menu includes steak, baked potato, green beans, rolls, dessert and iced tea. The steaks will be cooked outside the building over glowing mesquite coals.

Saturday will end the term of office of Helen Rich, first woman to serve as president of the local Chamber. Assuming the presidency will be Tommy Key. His first vice president will be Philip Welch and Linda Merrick will become second vice president.

Roberts is a strong advocate of the free enterprise system, and feels just as strongly about federal government interference not only in business but in local affairs. His columns are often reprinted under a heading "Worth Quoting" in the Leader.

From a humble beginning during the depression, when he hand-set type for his father on the Andrews newspaper because the family could not afford a linotype, Roberts is now the principal stockholder of Roberts Publishing Company which during the last fiscal year did $6-million gross business.

Besides being publisher of the Andrews newspaper, his holding company includes newspapers at Lamesa, Seminole, Brownfield, Littlefield, Levelland, Hereford, Vernon, Snyder, Azle, Granbury, Gatesville, Quanah and Electra.

Even in this era of computerized typesetting, Roberts says he "often stays up to see the sun rise" on Tuesdays and Fridays when his paper goes to press.

But as busy as he is, working with his holding company while taking an active part in publishing his home newspaper, Roberts finds time to "pay his dues" to his community. He is very active in the Andrews Chamber of Commerce. He not only works to better his community and attract industry which create more jobs there, but for at least a dozen years he has served as master of ceremonies of his Chamber's annual banquet, which will be held this evening.

He feels so strongly about working in and for his local community that he insists all publishers of his newspapers do the same in their respective towns. And they do.

And if all his other responsibilities were not enough, Roberts is currently serving as president of the Texas Press Association, largest state press group in the nation.

Though his life has been in his newspaper, the speaker's background has variety. He served a short time as temporary postmaster of Andrews in the late 1950s.

Roberts was in the army during World War II. He was seriously injured in Europe during a battle, and was subsequently captured by the Germans and spent the rest of the campaign as a prisoner in Stalag IIB.

Because oil production is the major industry in Andrews County, Roberts has become an expert on the industry, and is one of the most ardent opponents of the so-called "windfall profits tax" imposed by the federal government.

"Politicians are like cockroaches," says Roberts. "It's not what they eat, but what they get into and mess up."

Watkins expecting job as head Uvalde coach

Tommy Watkins, athletic director and head football coach at Iowa Park High School, is expected to be hired Tuesday night to the same position at Uvalde.

Watkins confirmed yesterday that he had been verbally hired by the superintendent and principal at Uvalde as athletic director and head football coach. Formal action by the school's board of trustees is expected Tuesday.

Iowa Park Superintendent Harold Cowley said he had agreed to release Watkins from his contract here.

But Cowley would only say, about replacing Watkins, that the school would look within its own personnel first before going outside to take applications.

Uvalde is in the same classification as Iowa Park, but has a considerably higher enrollment. Watkins said it was as large as Burkburnett, which has flirited several years to be elevated to the largest classification, AAAAA.

This will be the second time Watkins has tendered his resignation here. He resigned in early 1972 to accept the head job at Andrews. He returned in February of 1978.

During his first tenure at the Hawk helm he amassed a record of 97-15-4, including one outright state football championship and a share of another.

He returned to Iowa Park after the Hawks had a three-year record of 1-29 and in the past three years brought them to 14-14-2, with 1979 the best at 6-3-1.

No announcement has been made as to whether Watkins will take any of his staff with him.

However, Cowley confirmed yesterday he had released assistant coach Robert Needham from his contract. Needham is dropping from public education to join Whisnand Enterprises, a local oil business owned by L.S. and Bobby Whisnand.

Cowley said he is moving Jim Clapp from junior high to high school to fill Needham's coaching post.

Aldermen disagree on funding issues

Members of the city council could not agree on which projects should receive the highest priority of funding from the federal revenue sharing budget. But they did agree that they wanted 10 channels on the cable television system, and that they liked the city of Wichita Falls' proposal of funding the county tax appraisal district.

Alderman Bud Thompson took exception to budgeting $40,000 of revenue sharing funds for renovation of the city hall and only $25,000 for a fire department sub station on the south side of town.

Thompson said he felt the fire station should take a higher priority than the city hall project, and suggested the second highest priority after the sub station should be a library.

He disagreed, as he has in the past, that the city should wait and see if a block grant would be approved by the federal government to build the sub station.

Mayor Johnny Crawford said a temporary lease for space from Deryl James for a truck's storage should be adequate until a building could be built. But Thompson said it would house only one truck, barely, and two were needed.

Crawford asked Thompson and Fire Chief Danny Skinner to figure a way to get a truck on the south side now, and then make a survey of city-owned property for a future building site.

Alderman Bud Adams said "There's three worthwhile projects here, but we don't have any idea about what we need or the costs."

Raymond Greenwood, manager of the local Cable TV office, attempted to explain that terminology had resulted in a misunderstanding of the firm's pledge of service here.

He had been reminded that the ordinance granting Cable TV a franchise in the city called for "10 channels," and there were not that many being offered.

Greenwood explained that terminology of his trade and of the lay public could be confused. He said a channel means different points or origin, and 10 different channels were being used, though some were at different parts of the day on the same station.

He explained problems experienced by the firm but said new equipment would be available in the future which would provide customers various programming not now available.

Crawford asked Greenwood to provide a letter informing the city of how and when compliance with the intent of the ordinance would be met.

DISTRICT FUNDING

Aldermen went on record as agreeing with a proposal by Wichita Falls for funding the county tax appraisal district.

Basically, the proposal points out that persons living in incorporated cities pay city and school taxes, as well as county taxes, while those living outside cities pay only school and county taxes.

The proposal, if accepted by the district, would increase the country's share of the $606,000 first-year budget from $96,723 to $200,000, and lower taxes of residents of incorporated cities.

In other business, aldermen approved advertising for sale a 1967 pickup; discussed the possibility of changing speed restrictions on trains passing through the city; expressed dismay with the annual increases in cost of the city audit; and talked about litter problems.

Junk cars, zoning violations targets of city crackdown

A crackdown aimed at removing abandoned vehicles from streets and residential areas, and getting businesses out of areas zoned for residences, is underway by the city.

Steve Morath, city administrator, said violations have been identified and notices are being readied for owners to either correct the violations or they will be summoned to court.

More than 30 abandoned or junked vehicles have been listed by the police department and notices will be sent out during the next few days. Recipients will be given a period of time to remove the vehicles, in accordance with city ordinance and state law.

Four instances of businesses which have been started in areas not zoned for business have been identified, Morath said. They will be handdelivered notices to cease operations or apply for the affected area to be rezoned.

Under the city's zoning ordinance, after being notified and a specified waiting period, the business can be fined $25 to $100 per day until the business is closed and moved, if application for rezoning is not approved.

"We've been getting a lot of complaints about the old junk cars and businesses operating in residential areas," Morath said. "We're going to take the proper procedures as set out in our ordinances to correct the problems, and they will be in the near future."

Peanut butter disappearing from shelves

By KEVIN HAMILTON

Dateline: July 13, 1981, in a home located somewhere in Iowa Park's city limits.

Mom is in the kitchen, hastily preparing a stack of sandwiches for her three sons, soon to be crashing through the front door after a long day at the local swimming pool.

Little Johnny is the first to arrive. As Mom puts the finishing touches on the sandwiches, the nine-year-old climbs atop a nearby stool, standing erect so that he has a birds-eye view of the progress below.

"Aww, not bologna again," moans the boy. "Why can't we have peanut butter and jelly sandwiches like in the good ol' days?"

"Well, Mommy can't get any at the grocery store right now, because they're out."

"But I don't understand!" cried little Johnny, tears welling in his eyes. "It's been so long, I don't know if I can stand it anymore!"

Little Johnny collapses in mom's arms, sobbing uncontrollably. "I've heard they call it 'Carter's Revenge,'" Mom says to herself. "I just knew I shouldn't have voted Republican."

Some are calling it "Carter's Revenge." Others are grumbling at the prospect of not having a major ingredient in America's favorite combo, peanut butter and jelly.

Say whatever you like. It all adds up to one thing - Americans can expect to endure another shortage, peanuts and peanut butter.

Although the little goobers won't reach the point of competing with gold on the world's currency market, JRB manager Ron Ray thinks the availability and price of peanut products are in for a long ride through the upcoming summer.

"Peanut butter has been hard to get since November," remarked Ray in his store Monday afternoon. "We have ordered twice, and received a full order the first time, but only a half order since then."

According to Ray, JRB's major supplier of peanut butter, Proctor and Gamble, has already begun pro-rationing the valued product, and JRB in turn is pro-rationing its supplies to the stores on the basis of past quotas.

"For instance, if a store received 500 jars of peanut butter before the pro-rationing took effect, and supplies were down to one-tenth of past shipments, the store would receive 50 jars," explained Ray.

In holding true with any economic formula dealing with supply and demand, the shortage of goobers has caused a drastic increase in prices. The current price of an 18 oz. jar of one major brand stocked at JRB is $2.09, up 90-cents from the Feb. 1980 price of $1.29, and 60-cents from the Dec. 1980 price of $1.49.

What's really happened is Texas' peanuts were literally and figuratively roasted in the fields during last summer's record-breaking drought, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service of Texas A&M University. As a result, production of the edible grade peanuts in the state is down about 45 percent, and their value has increased markedly.

Supplies of peanuts nationwide for the 1980-81 marketing year, which ends Aug. 31, should total about 2.5 billion pounds, Johnny Feagan, Texas A&M economist, said. That is down from about 4.4-billion pounds harvested in 1979-80.

In East Texas, many peanut producers are reporting the worst crop in at least 17 years, according to Billy Percival, district director of the Texas A&M extension office in the East Texas town of Overton.

A former county extension agent in Houston County, Percival said East Texas has about 25,000 to 30,000 acres planted in peanuts, primarily in Houston, Anderson and Red River counties.

To illustrate the extent of last summer's drought damage in these areas, Percival said the average peanut yield is 1,500 to 2,000 pounds per acre. This year, however, most of the producers harvested a meager 350 to 400 pounds per acre.

Percival explained during fruiting time, which is usually from July to August, the Spanish peanuts grown in Texas require an average of about one and one half to two inches of water each week, "and we just didn't have it this summer."

"Some of them (producers) were literally forced out of business," Percival said.

At JRB in Iowa Park, Ray says the price of raw peanuts has gone so high, even the front office refuses to handle them for now. "The only place we could get raw peanuts was from New Mexico, and they are asking $1.29 a pound," explained Ray, "so the price was way above what we felt could be asked of the customer."

Herb Skinner, owner of H&S, is experiencing the same problem. "Out of 10 to 12 cases ordered, we have received about two of them," he said. According to Skinner, his supplier, Affiliated Foods, ships him whatever is available, and peanut butter is not.

On the bright side, Skinner is receiving raw peanuts through one supplier for less than a dollar per pound. "Surprisingly enough, we can get them (raw peanuts) the same as always," he said.

Preston Giles, owner of Discount Foods, is getting regular shipments of peanut butter, but the price has risen considerably. "We went up 40-cents in one day," he remarked.

Purchase price for a case of 18 oz. peanut butter was $21.01 in December, but rose to the current price of $22.98 for February. Cases of 28 oz. peanut butter has risen even more, according

Burglars hit rural home

One or more burglars ransacked the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Gholson sometime during the daylight hours Wednesday of last week.

Their home, built last year on FM 369 between the expressway and old Iowa Park Road, was entered sometime between 7:45 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., Gholson said. The rear door was heavily damaged during the forced entry.

Taken were a new portable color television set, microwave oven, a 12 gauge shotgun, two men's wrist watches and both their high school senior rings. Estimated loss was $2,000.

Almost every room of the home was ransacked, and there were signs that the burglars spent considerable time in the house, Gholson said.

Garden Club officers are installed Friday

The meeting of the Iowa Park Garden Club Friday in Texas Electric Reddy Room was highlighted by the installation of officers and a covered-dish luncheon.

Mrs. Frank Harlin conducted the installation service using "Roses" for a theme. She presented each officer with a rose bouquet in a color indicating her office as she was installed. Those who assumed duties were: Mmes. W.A. George, president; Marvin Klinkerman, vice president; Vernon Gilbert, recording secretary; David Parkey, corresponding secretary; M.T. Archer, treasurer; and Eddie Worthy, historian.

Mrs. George appointed officers and committees to include: Mmes. Klinkerman, Gilbert, Harlin and George, program; Harlin and Gilbert, publicity; Archer, J.H. Hatten, budget and finance; F.M. Wilson, Myrl Cabe, D.O. James, Parkey, community service; Raymond Good, Arch Hughes, Michael Hodson, conservation; Norman Deason, J.R. Cope, James Sewell, horticulture.

Other committees named were: Mmes. D.H. Ford, Good, Jack Vestal, Thurman Reitz, Hatten, membership and social; Eddie Worthy, Johnny Bernstein, N.D. Hodson, flower show; China B. Smith, I.B. Parker and Miss Ethyle Kidwell, nominating; Harlin, N.D. Hodson, flower show publicity.

Mrs. Charlie Lee was named chaplain and Mrs. R. Bartosh was appointed parliamentarian.

Mrs. N.D. Hodson presided for a short business meeting preceding the installation. Mrs. Harlin gave the thought for the day on helping friends.

Members brought plants for exchange and Mrs. Arch Hughes won a miniature cactus plant for the door prize.

Mrs. Klinkerman announced Feb. 13 as the date for the next meeting when Mrs. Archer and Mrs. Bartosh will serve as hostesses. Programs for the year will also be announced.

ADDIE SADBERRY

Addie Sadberry to be installed

Addie Sadberry of Iowa Park will be installed Most Excellent Chief of the Lone Star Temple No. 13 Pythian Sisters at 7:30 p.m. today. The service will take place at the W.O.W. Hall in Wichita Falls.

The installing officers will be Edna Warren, Grand Chief; Carol Wood, Grand Senior; and Mary Wallis, Grand Manager. The table scarves and candles with baskets of flowers in the colors of the order will carry out the theme "I Believe."

Following the ceremony when nine other officers will be installed, Mrs. Sadberry will host a reception in the dining room. Ed Elliott of Chico, her uncle, a 45-year member of Knights of Pythias, will be a special guest.

Cook of the Week

"She cooks just like my mother" has become somewhat of a cliché in paying tribute to one's talents in the cuisine department. Through the years, women have been careful to plan and prepare food with both eye and taste appeal for their families, and they take pride in knowing that they have pleased them. Twentieth century cooks are no exception because they still have the same ambition.

Maxine (Mrs. Wayne) Young let their three children select the recipes for the Cook of the Week feature in this issue of the Iowa Park Leader by asking them what she cooked that they liked best. They responded eagerly and chose foods that are less time-consuming, the kind that their mother really prefers to prepare. Their choices include two South of the Border, one chicken, one vegetable and a salad, all with familiar sounding names to most cooks, but some prepared with different ingredients or by different methods.

The Youngs have lived in Iowa Park for six years, moving here from Valley View where they had lived for several years. They are Baptists.

She was graduated from Cleburne High School and Carter's Beauty College. She worked in the hair styling shop at Sheppard AFB for five years. She is now assisting her husband, who works for Humphrey Printing, in his private printing business that he has recently established. Their children are: Debbie, a high school freshman, Tracy, a seventh grade student, and Jason, a first grader.

Worth Quoting

Someone once said that nothing in this world is certain except death and taxes.

They ought to add that nothing is as certain as wrong predictions on the oil and gas industry in these United States.

If we had a barrel of oil for every cockeyed, knuckled headed prediction made in Washington about the oil industry, we'd have enough crude to sell to the Arabs.

Remember brother Dingell, that Congressman from Michigan who fought so long and hard against decontrol of the oil industry. He chaired the House committee that kept the oil industry wrapped in so many regulations and hassles that it was easier to find diamonds than drill for oil.

It was he who made the rash statement on the floor of the House that "deregulation would not bring about one new well drilled nor one new barrel of domestic oil".

As usual, the congressman and his eastern counterparts have been proved wrong.

It might interest him to know that here in Texas, through the 12 months of 1980, operators reported 1,324 gas and 717 oil discoveries for the year. Those were the wildcats that hit.

Texas added 12,322 field oil wells and 5,331 gas completions in 1980.

The oil industry has been so busy that rigs, pipe, tools of every kind, personnel, and equipment is in short supply all over these United States. This at a time when in Brother Dingell's home state, unemployment has reached 18 percent because of layoffs in the constituency of the congressman from Michigan.

But being wrong about the oil industry is as customary as cornbread and sweetmilk on Sunday night.

Mrs. Arlas Cavett sent us a clipping from "Horizons", Amoco company magazine, in which the various predictions by different government agencies have all been proven wrong.

In 1866, the U.S. Revenue Commission predicted that synthetics were available if oil production should cease. Actually in the next 82 years, the U.S. produced 37 billion barrels of crude with no need for synthetics.

In 1891, the U.S. Geological Survey predicted little or no chance for oil in either Kansas or Texas. Actually, 14 billion barrels have been produced in these two states alone.

In 1908, the same officials in the same agency, U.S. Geological Survey, predicted that the maximum future supply of oil could not amount to more than 22.5 billion barrels. Actually, 35 billion barrels have been produced since 1908, with 26.8 billion barrels proven and available on Jan. 1, 1949.

In 1914, an official of the U.S. Bureau of Mines predicted that the nation's future production would not exceed 5.7 billion barrels. Actually, 34 billion barrels have been produced since 1934 or six times the prediction.

In 1920, an official of the U.S. Geological Survey said that the nation needed foreign oil and synthetics because the country had reached peak production of crude. Actually, in 1948, U.S. production exceeded U.S. consumption and was more than four times 1920's output.

In 1931, the secretary of the interior reported to Congress that this nation must import as much foreign oil as possible to save domestic supplies. Actually during the next eight years, imports were discouraged and 14 billion barrels were found in the U.S.

In 1939, radio broadcasts by the Interior Department said the nation only had enough oil left for 13 more years. New oil found since 1939, exceeds the 13 years' supply known at that time.

In 1947, the chief of the petroleum division of the State Department said sufficient oil cannot be found in the U.S. Actually, 4.3 billion barrels were found in 1948, the largest volume in history and twice our annual consumption.

In 1949, the Secretary of the Interior said the end of the U.S. supply was in sight. Actually, the petroleum industry demonstrated ability to increase U.S. production by more than a million barrels daily over the next five years.

Predictions about the demise of the oil industry, here in the Permian Basin and elsewhere in the nation, kinda remind us of those words of General Custer just before the battle of Little Bighorn.

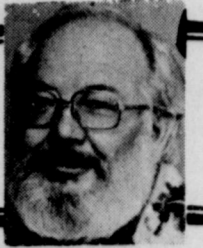

"Where are all the Indians," queried Custer.

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

Big brothers are almost always heroes in the eyes of younger sisters. But Nathan Smallwood has really earned that distinction.

And it can be blamed on a rainy day in November, when students at Bradford Elementary couldn't go outside for physical education.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. James

Smallwood, 1318 Edgehill Trail, came to his sister's rescue recently. The four-year-old girl was eating candy, and became choked when it lodged in her throat.

Mrs. Smallwood and a friend didn't know what to do for her, and the candy was lodged where it kept the girl from breathing.

Eight-year-old Nathan recalled a lecture he and other Bradford students had received from Frank Slemph, physical education instructor, during a PE period when they were forced to stay inside.

Slemph, hampered by lack of space for indoor activities, had opted that day to teach the children a technique of squeezing the diaphragm in case someone was choking on food or foreign object in the throat.

Nathan did as his instructor said; he stood behind his sister; made a ball of one fist and placed it just below her rib cage; then he placed his other hand over the balled fist; and gave a couple of quick, jerking squeezes with his arms.

The candy popped out. The breathing began.

And young Nathan proved so many complainers wrong: physical education can be helpful to you, sometime or another.

Hawks edge Graham, Burk

The Iowa Park Hawks won a couple of cliff hangers over Graham and Burkburnett to remain undefeated in Dist. 3-AAAA play, and share the conference lead with Vernon. In both games, Iowa Park broke out of a tie in the last couple of minutes for the victories. Eventhough the Hawks beat Graham Friday by a 53-45 margin, it wasn't until Bobby Bates broke the tie with a layup to send the Mean

Green ahead 45-43 with 1:27 remaining in the game, and then came back with another eight seconds later that Iowa Park had any breathing room. Tuesday, at Burkburnett, Steve Page broke a tie with only 33 seconds remaining to send the Hawks ahead, 45-43, and then Mark Kirkham gave the team the lead it needed with seven seconds, to win 47-45.

Iowa Park and Vernon now share the district lead with 2-0 records, Hirschi and Mineral Wells are 1-1 and Graham and Burkburnett have yet to win a conference game.

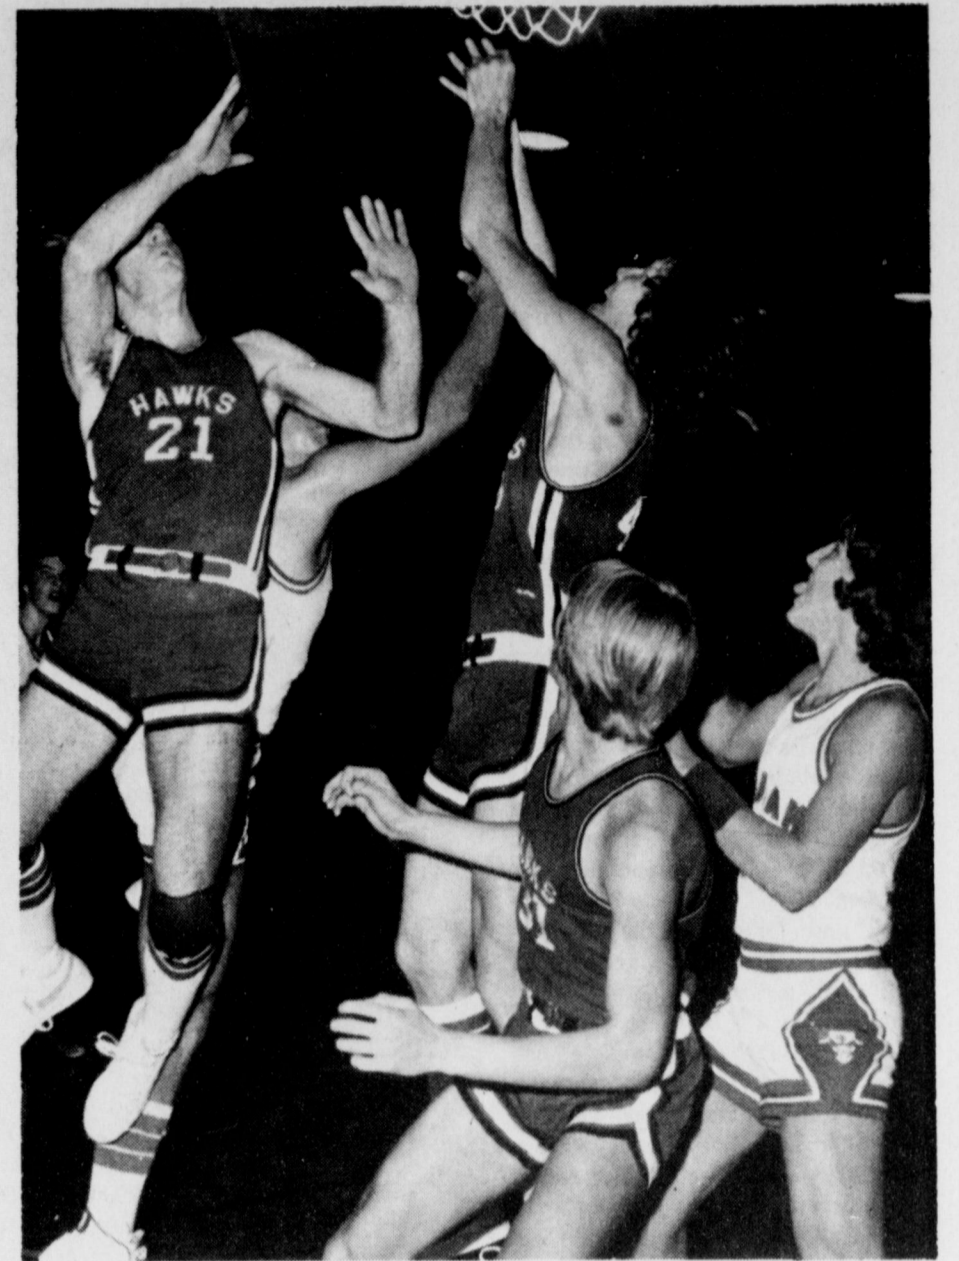

The Hawks are 12-5 on the season. They will host Hirschi, a team they beat earlier in the season, tomorrow night and Vernon Tuesday.

Iowa Park went scoreless the last five minutes of the first quarter against Graham, and fell behind 11-4. But the Hawks narrowed the Steer lead in the second period to trail 20-18 at the halfway mark.

Outscoring the visitors 14-8 in the third period, the Hawks built a 32-28 lead. But that melted to a 43-43 tie with 1:58 remaining in the game when Graham scored three unanswered goals.

Bates scored his pair of layups to give the hawks some breathing room, forcing the Steers to foul in an effort to get their hands on the ball, but Page and Steve Smith sank a pair of free shots each in the final 15 seconds to build the point spread.

Page finished with 14 points and Steve Smith had 13.

Hawkettes tied for lead

Coach Ray Sefcik's Hawkettes won back-to-back district games during the past week, and tomorrow night could emerge with a share of the lead in the first half of round robin play.

The girls blew Graham out of the local gymnasium Friday, 66-45, and Tuesday traveled to Burkburnett where they took a 63-56 decision.

So, going into the final game of the first half of the Dist. 3-AAAA schedule, the Hawkettes are tied with Hirschi and Mineral Wells with records of 3-1. Vernon, only loop team to beat the Hawkettes thus far, is 2-2, Graham is 1-3 and Burkburnett 0-4.

In a round robin schedule, each team plays the other teams on a home and home schedule. The winners of each half, if not the same for both halves, have a playoff for the championship.

The Hawkettes got some big points from Kay Stevenson, Lisa Yeakley and Tammie Richardson, especially from the foul line, in the Graham game. The three of them accounted for 53 of the points, and, combined, they hit 21 of 30 charity shots.

Stevenson had six field goals and seven of 10 free shots for 19 points. Yeakley had 18 points and Richardson 16.

Graham kept pace with the Hawkettes through the first quarter, which ended in a 16-16 tie. But Iowa Park built a 36-30 lead by halftime, and went into the final period leading 52-41.

BURKBURNETT GAME

Host Burkburnett began chipping away at Iowa Park's 20-9 lead early in the second quarter, mainly because of Hawkette turnovers and inability to hit basket from the foul line.

With less than three minutes remaining before the half, Iowa Park led by a scant 27-23 margin, but a shot at the buzzer from deep in the corner by Stevenson extended the Hawkette lead at the half to 34-25.

Iowa Park got some assistance from the hosts when four of the nine players suited out left the floor via the foul route in the fourth period.

Stevenson again led Hawkette scoring with 18 points, canning six field goals and six of seven free shots. Richardson, although playing with a case of flu, had 11 points and Jill Watts finished with 10.

After tomorrow's game here against Hirschi, the Hawkettes, now 8-11 for the season, will host Vernon Tuesday to open the second half of district play.

The Hawkette junior varsity edged Burkburnett 32-30.

BEAT BULLDOGS

Burk's Bulldogs spotted the Hawks a 10-2 lead through the first six and a half minutes of the opening period, but rallied and hung close the rest of the game.

The hosts led 18-14 midway in the second quarter but fell behind 24-18 before the teams went to the dressing rooms for their halftime breather.

Burk led 33-31 late in the third period, but a pair of buckets by Ken Thomason gave the Hawks a 35-33 lead going into the final quarter.

Iowa Park's 38-33 lead early in the final frame melted, during a time when Hawk fans felt the game had gotten out of control of the officials and play became rough.

The Bulldogs gained a 43-43 tie with 1:15 remaining, but Page sank a pair of charity shots with 33 seconds remaining. Markham missed a free shot with 21 seconds showing on the clock, but got another chance 14 seconds later, and sank them both for a 47-43 lead.

Burk was not challenged on the last field goal shot which narrowed the score to two points.

Steve Smith finished with 20 points on five field goals and 10 free shots. Thomason had 11 and Page eight.

The boys' JV rallied in the final period but lost 45-44.

Strong-arm thief takes equipment

There's a thief loose in town who is either very strong or has a real need for oil field equipment.

Willie Potter is missing an eight-foot-long, 300-pound Casen Swab Jar, taken the evening of Jan. 15 from the back of his pickup parked at 122 W. Garden. Value was set at $2,000.

Sometime between Jan. 16 and 19, a green tool box filled with S&K brand tools was reportedly taken from the back of Bill Harrington's pickup. Estimated loss was $283.

Sometime between 6 and 7:30 p.m. Saturday the coin box at the east stall of Davis Car Wash was reported stolen, containing an estimated $70 to $80 in quarters.

Soccer Club sets Monday meeting

The Iowa Park Soccer Club will have a special meeting at the Recreational Activities Center at 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Purpose of the meeting is to initiate a membership drive for 1981 and to discuss the spring soccer season. All parents are urged to attend and contribute their ideas.

Glover, Stone nuptials exchanged Saturday

Miss Wendy Ann Glover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester D. Glover of Marietta, Ga., and Randol Keith Stone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Stone of Holliday exchanged matrimonial vows Saturday afternoon at Holliday First Baptist Church.

Rev. Mike Gresham, pastor, performed the ceremony in an altar setting dominated by an arch candelabra entwined with boxwood greenery. Two seven-branched candelabra holding glowing candles and a brass kneeling bench completed the altar decor. Church pews were marked with blue silk bows.

Candles for the service were lighted by TaWayne Glover, brother of the bride, and Eric Thompson, who also served as ushers.

The prelude wedding music was furnished by Miss Debbie Stone of Arlington, sister of the groom. She played the guitar accompaniment for two vocal solos, "That's the Way Love Goes" and "Wedding Song." Clay Morgan, organist, played the traditional processional and recessional.

The bride's father accompanied her to the altar and gave her in marriage for both parents. Her formal wedding gown of white organza and cluny lace was fashioned with a slightly raised bodice accented with a high collar of the lace and a V-shaped Brussels lace yoke. Cluny lace ruffles outlined the yoke and spanned the shoulders to form cap sleeves.

The full A-line skirt of the gown was graced with vertical rows of the lace and the hemline was attractively trimmed with three rows of banded lace and ruffles that flowed into a chapel train.

MRS. RANDOL KEITH STONE

For her headpiece, the bride chose a two-tiered fingertip veil of bridal illusion edged in matching lace that was caught to a cap of lace and pearls. She carried a cascade of blue and white pixie carnations centered with a white cymbidium orchid for her to wear with her going away costume.

She kept bridal traditions by wearing pearls that belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. Lois Glover, for "something old" and "something borrowed." Her bridal gown spoke for itself as "something new" and the popular garter was "something blue."

Mrs. Steve Mills of Arlington and Miss Sherry Gayle Womack of Wichita Falls, aunt and cousin of the bride, took part in the wedding as matron of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. They wore baby blue Victorian-style lace gowns over blue organza designed with high necklines, ruffled V-shaped yokes and long skirts with hemline flounces. They carried long stem blue and white carnations, baby's breath and leather leaf.

Miss Amber Dawn Mills of Arlington, cousin of the bride, the flower girl, was attired in a long gown featuring a white Qiana bodice with round collar, long sleeves and a baby blue Qiana skirt with a hemline flounce. She carried blue and white carnations mixed with baby's breath in a white basket.

Mothers of the bride and groom complemented the dresses they chose for the wedding with blue and white carnation corsages. Mrs. Glover was attired in a baby blue dressed styled with a shirred bodice and sheer blue organza cape. Mrs. Stone wore a waltz length cream satin dress overlaid with matching organza.

The wedding reception was given by the bride's parents at the church.

The refreshment table, which claimed special attention in the Fellowship Hall, was covered with white lace over blue, and these colors were noted in the appointments. Four-branched candelabra holding white candles and a bouquet of blue and white carnations formed the centerpiece.

The cake achieved a distinctive look for the table. The sculptured elegance of the three pure white tiers was set off with deep-cut baby blue garlands of frosting caught with matching bows around the base tier banked with white frosting carnations. The base and top of each tier were designed with crescents and zigzag scallops touched lightly with blue forget-me-nots. Grecian pillars framed by filigree raised the top tier to show a bouquet of white carnations and blue forget-me-nots accented with tiny white lovebirds on the second tier.

The top ornament lent a sweet tradition to the cake in a bride and groom dressed in formal white standing under a filigree arch bordered with blue silk roses and lilies of the valley intermingled with white satin leaves and topped with two white lovebirds.

Mrs. R.L. Craig, Mrs. Lois Kuykendall and Mrs. Shorty Riddle served refreshments during the reception. Houseparty members were Mrs. Tom Haggard of Pampa and Mrs. Chick Fenoglio of Big Lake.

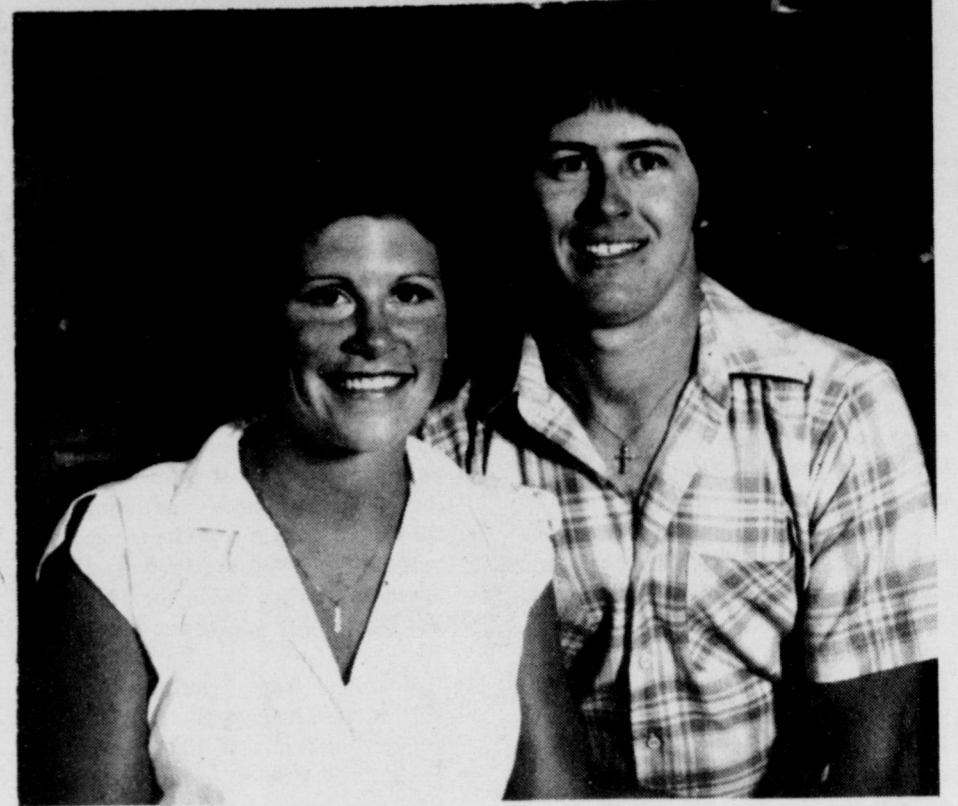

Miss Robin Knouse of Wichita Falls, cousin of the bride, directed signatures of wedding guests at a table covered in like fashion to the refreshment table.

The groom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at K-Bob's Steak House in Wichita Falls.

The bride was graduated from high school and Barbican Modeling School at Kailua, Hawaii. The groom was graduated from Holliday High School and Vocational Welding Tech School. He is working as a welder at Adams Supply Co. After a short wedding trip, they are now at home in Holliday.

Other out-of-town wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ayers and sons of Davis, Okla., Danny Shearman of Merrimac, Okla., Tom Haggard of Pampa, Steve Mills of Arlington.

Petrolia sweeps Holliday teams

Despite good play on the part of Holliday's varsity basketball teams Tuesday night, both teams lost close games to petrolia in District 13-AA second half action.

The Eagles, using the hot shooting of Shannon Owen, who contributed 17 in the contest, kept close to the Pirates throughout the game. After trailing by one, 48-47, going into the final stanza, the Eagles could only match the score of the Pirates, finally losing 56-55. Kevin Lilley had 14 in the losing cause, and Lindy Dolberry 15.

The Lady Eagles, despite having three players scoring in double figures, lost to the host Petrolia girls 54-49. Kristi Lucy led in scoring with 15, while Cinda Grantham added 14 and Debbie Long 13.

Tomorrow night the varsity squads host Boyd, district leaders after first round action. The girls game begins at 7 p.m., immediately following a girl's junior varsity game against Rider, which starts at 5:30.

Journalists earn honors in contest

Two Holliday High School journalism students placed in the Second Annual Journalism Contest, sponsored by the Texas Press Women's Association (TPW) at Midwestern State University, according to a recent announcement.

Susan Parker won first place in news writing, and Mollie Walker placed third in headline writing.

The contest was held in conjunction with the TPW Journalism Workshop, held at Midwestern State University in October.

Pharmacist club speaker

The Iowa Park Lionsess Club held the first meeting of 1981 Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. Grover Cleveland. The co-hostess was Mrs. Sam Hill.

Mrs. D.O. James introduced Mrs. Glenn Sehell who presented the devotion, choosing for a theme "Areas of Achievement for the New Year." She named four worthy goals to work toward which included: contribution to fellowman, striving for peace, serving the Lord and caring for loved ones. She closed with a poem, "New Year's Wishes."

Mrs. Keith Aulds introduced Roy Cleveland, a pharmacist at Walgreen's Drug Store, who gave an informative talk on "Dos and Don'ts of Over-the-Counter Prescription Drugs", facts about generic drugs and also gave suggestions on how to save money when purchasing drugs.

In stressing the urgency of taking drugs only when prescribed or needed, he cited cases of "too drug oriented" to point out some of the dangers. He advised people who were taking drugs to keep a list of them in their purses, and to let their doctor and pharmacist know what they were. He also suggested a list of all medications in an envelope or vial in the refrigerator along with the person's name, birth date, blood type and his doctor's name.

Mrs. Sam Hunter presided during the business following the program when changes in the club's by-laws were adopted.

P-TA to observe Founder's Day

The Bradford PTA will observe Founder's Day during the meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria. Pat Polk, district president, will be the guest speaker.

During the evening, the third grade class will present a program on stage and four teachers will be presented with appreciation awards.

to Giles. The December price of $32.56 has risen three dollars to $35.71.

As for raw peanuts, Giles has a consistent supplier out of Amarillo. In fact, Giles has ordered cases from his supplier to be resold to stores in Dallas. "They (Dallas) are experiencing real problems," remarked Giles.

Harold Newman, sales representative for Kraft Inc., said the company's sole peanut product, peanut brittle, is no longer available.

"Peanut brittle was one of our bonus products for salesmen in September and October," explained Newman. "But in November, we were told that peanut brittle was no longer in stock because of the shortage, and to double our bonus on marshmallows."

Another opinion echoed by all those interviewed is that peanuts and peanut products will become harder to find, at least through summer. "Nothing much will change for now, unless the U.S. Agriculture Department releases import quotas on foreign supplies, which hasn't been done in seven years," commented Ray.

Public knowledge of this current dilemma probably won't result in hoarding jars of the precious substance, but one thing is for sure - the practice of making a peanut butter and jelly sandwich in the future will seem more like a ritual, and the first savoring bite a little more enjoyable, if that's possible.

Skinner remembers one woman who came into the store to buy a sack full of peanut butter. "She said she was on her way to Colorado to visit relatives," he said. "They told her all the stores were completely out, and for her to buy as many as she could."

Even more reason to hope for a milder summer.

The Association of Texas Professional Educators (ATPE) has labeled the federal judge's order that would require public schools to provide bilingual education for Spanish-speaking students through the twelfth grade as "totally unrealistic."

ATPE's Executive Director, Mike Morrow, said that U.S. District Judge William Wayne Justice's ruling is "not only educationally unrealistic, but will also perpetrate segregation of Hispanics and Angolos."

ATPE, whose state president teaches at Santa Rosa in the Rio Grande Valley, supports the bilingual program currently in effect which provides for classes to be taught in Spanish from kindergarten through the third grade. Students are then mainstreamed into regular classes.

"The unkindest thing that we can do to our Spanish-speaking students is to create an atmosphere that is totally unrealistic to the world they must face upon graduation. The fact is that for individuals in this state and country to succeed, they must be proficient in English, both written and spoken. One of our main objectives, therefore, is to teach English," Alafair Hammett, ATPE state president and a veteran teacher of 30 years, said.

She maintains that most children who are in the current bilingual program and are encouraged to learn English, are proficient enough by the fourth year of instruction which is the end of the third grade, to perform in English-speaking classes.

TESCO manager duties expanded

Wayne House, long-time manager of the local Texas Electric Service Co. office, has been given additional responsibility, it was announced last week.

While remaining headquartered here, House now assumes management of the Electra TESCO office.

J.K. "Dub" Johnson, who has served as manager of the Electra office some 20 years has been transferred to Wichita Falls where he will serve as administrative assistant to Jack Redding, division manager.

Not replacing Johnson with a full-time in-town manager is part of the TESCO policy of cost-cutting, which is being applied in numerous smaller communities throughout the system.

Assisted by John Rains, House said either he or Rains would be in Electra office each day of operation, and that Electra personnel would remain the same.

The week before the announcement of Johnson's transfer, the Electra Chamber of Commerce honored him as the community's "Man of the Year." House received the Iowa Park Chamber's "Citizen of the Year" award for 1975.

Speaker describes new phone concept

Frances (Mrs. Andy) Lenox, business officer supervisor for the Southwestern Bell Phone Center in Sikes Center, was guest speaker for the Evening Lions Club Tuesday. She was introduced by Gordon Griffith.

The speaker described the phone center store as a whole new way to shop the system, and stated that the concept is a savings in money and time. "People can go into the store and browse for telephones just the way they would shop in any other store, see the style of telephones, pick them up and compare styles and realize that most everything they have done by telephone can now be done in person," she said.

During the meeting, Paul and Tim Blackwell were recognized as new members. Mrs. Johnny Huff, Andy Lenox and Bill Robinson were guests. Special music was provided by Mrs. Otis Gay and Katherine Jacquart.

Bilingual program said 'unrealistic' without qualified teachers to carry it out," Morrow said.

"If such a plan is mandated, an inherent danger would be that the few bilingual teachers available would be expected to teach subjects for which they do not have the proper training and certification," Morrow said.

Citrus fruit prices lower

Recently, the Wichita County Farm Bureau board of directors voted to participate in a member-to-member sales program, according to Fred Dwyer, county president.

"Through this program, producers throughout the state can now sell their products directly to other members," Dwyer said. "Texas Farm Bureau members will receive high quality produce at a reasonable price."

Citrus will be the first commodity to be offered to members. Forty-pound boxes of valley oranges and ruby red grapefruit can be ordered. The cost per box will be $8.65 for oranges and $8.40 for grapefruit. Other farm products will be added to this new marketing program at a later date. Orders and payment are being received at the county Farm Bureau in Iowa Park. Deadline for orders is Feb. 6. The citrus will be delivered the week of Mar. 1.

1980 drouth was expensive

The Wichita County agricultural income took a nose dive in 1980 compared to the previous year. The gross agricultural income fell $7-million as a result of drouth and scorching summer temperatures and faltering livestock prices.

The estimate 1980 agricultural income was $23-million compared to a little over $30-million in 1979. Net farm income was off even more due to the skyrocketing production costs.

Dry weather and record breaking summer temperatures took the greatest toll. It was much drier year than the yearly rainfall record indicates. The 1980 rainfall amounted to 25.92 inches compared to the average of 27.22 inches, however, two-thirds of the moisture fell in the fall after crops were ruined.

Wheat continued as the largest income generator from field crops. The wheat crop was much better than promised by early prospects by making 20 bushels to the acre. This brought in nearly $6-million. Cotton was hard hit by the summer heat wave and yields fell to less than 100 pounds of lint per acre compared to 375 pounds of lint per acre in 1979. Cotton income amounted to only $1.6-million

The schedule for classes is Monday through Friday, 8:15 a.m. to 4:15 p.m. The program covers all phases of cosmetology. Financial assistance is available for qualifying students.
The Texas Cosmetology Commission requires 1,500 clock hours before testing for a cosmetology license. Mrs. Kathleen Beavers, Cosmetology Instructor for Vernon Regional Junior College, invites you to Vernon for a personal tour of the facilities. Ask an interested friend to join you, and come to VRJC to explore the possibilities of a career in Cosmetology.
