

Jim's Market destroyed by fire Monday

Jim's Market was totally destroyed by fire Monday night, but not from lack of effort of every fire department in Wichita County.

The fire, initially reported at 9:15 p.m., was contained to the one structure at 113 W. Cash, leaving only the exterior walls and refrigerated walk-in boxes standing.

Owner Jim Whitaker said Tuesday morning he plans to re-open, but doubted it would be at the same location. He explained, being in the middle of the block, restricting parking area shared with other businesses on the street, was not as conducive to shopping of customers as it would be elsewhere in the city.

He said he was covered by insurance.

Source of the fire has not been determined, and likely will not be due to the extent of damage. Smoke was first noticed by neighboring business operators. First flames sighted were in the back part of the building, inside near the ceiling.

Realizing the potential of spreading throughout the entire block of business structures, and remembering half the other side of the street's buildings were destroyed by fire almost three decades earlier, every volunteer department in the county was called in to assist in the fight.

Two ceilings in the building, the "drop" ceiling that was installed when the building was renovated, and the original ceiling which was of tin, frustrated firemen's efforts to put water on the flame, which had reached the wooden roof support beams.

Finally, realizing their inability to handle the fire with available equipment and its threat of spreading into adjoining structures, the Wichita Falls department was asked to send its snorkel truck and an extra pumper.

The snorkel unit can expel up to 700 pounds of water pressure, far more than any of the smaller pumper units. The pressure the unit could handle, plus its advantage of extending above the roof line, was used to literally tear the roof apart and douse the overall fire area.

Two firemen, Michael Dozier and James McCord, were treated at a Wichita Falls hospital and released for injuries sustained when a portion of the ceiling caved in atop them. Three or four others were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation and possible frostbite.

The fire was actually never extinguished until the entire roof caved in and part of the blazing lumber put out as it lay on the floor.

The fire was declared under control shortly after 1:30 a.m.

COOPERATIVE EFFORT

There was cooperative effort other than among the firefighters.

Volunteers assisted the owners of Alpine Ski Shop remove all their merchandise and store it in Homestead Ceramics, across the street. Removal was made both in case the fire raged out of control and reached the store, as well as to prevent smoke damage to the clothing.

Volunteers also stood ready to assist Tommy Key remove all the clothing in his City Cleaners, should the fire extend eastward to his building.

Key, Johnny Lee and Carl Pool, all of whom office in the building next to the cleaners, stood ready to remove all their paperwork and equipment.

Key said the next day none of the clothing in his cleaners sustained any smoke damage because of the distance separating the building from the burning structure and because the wind was out of the east.

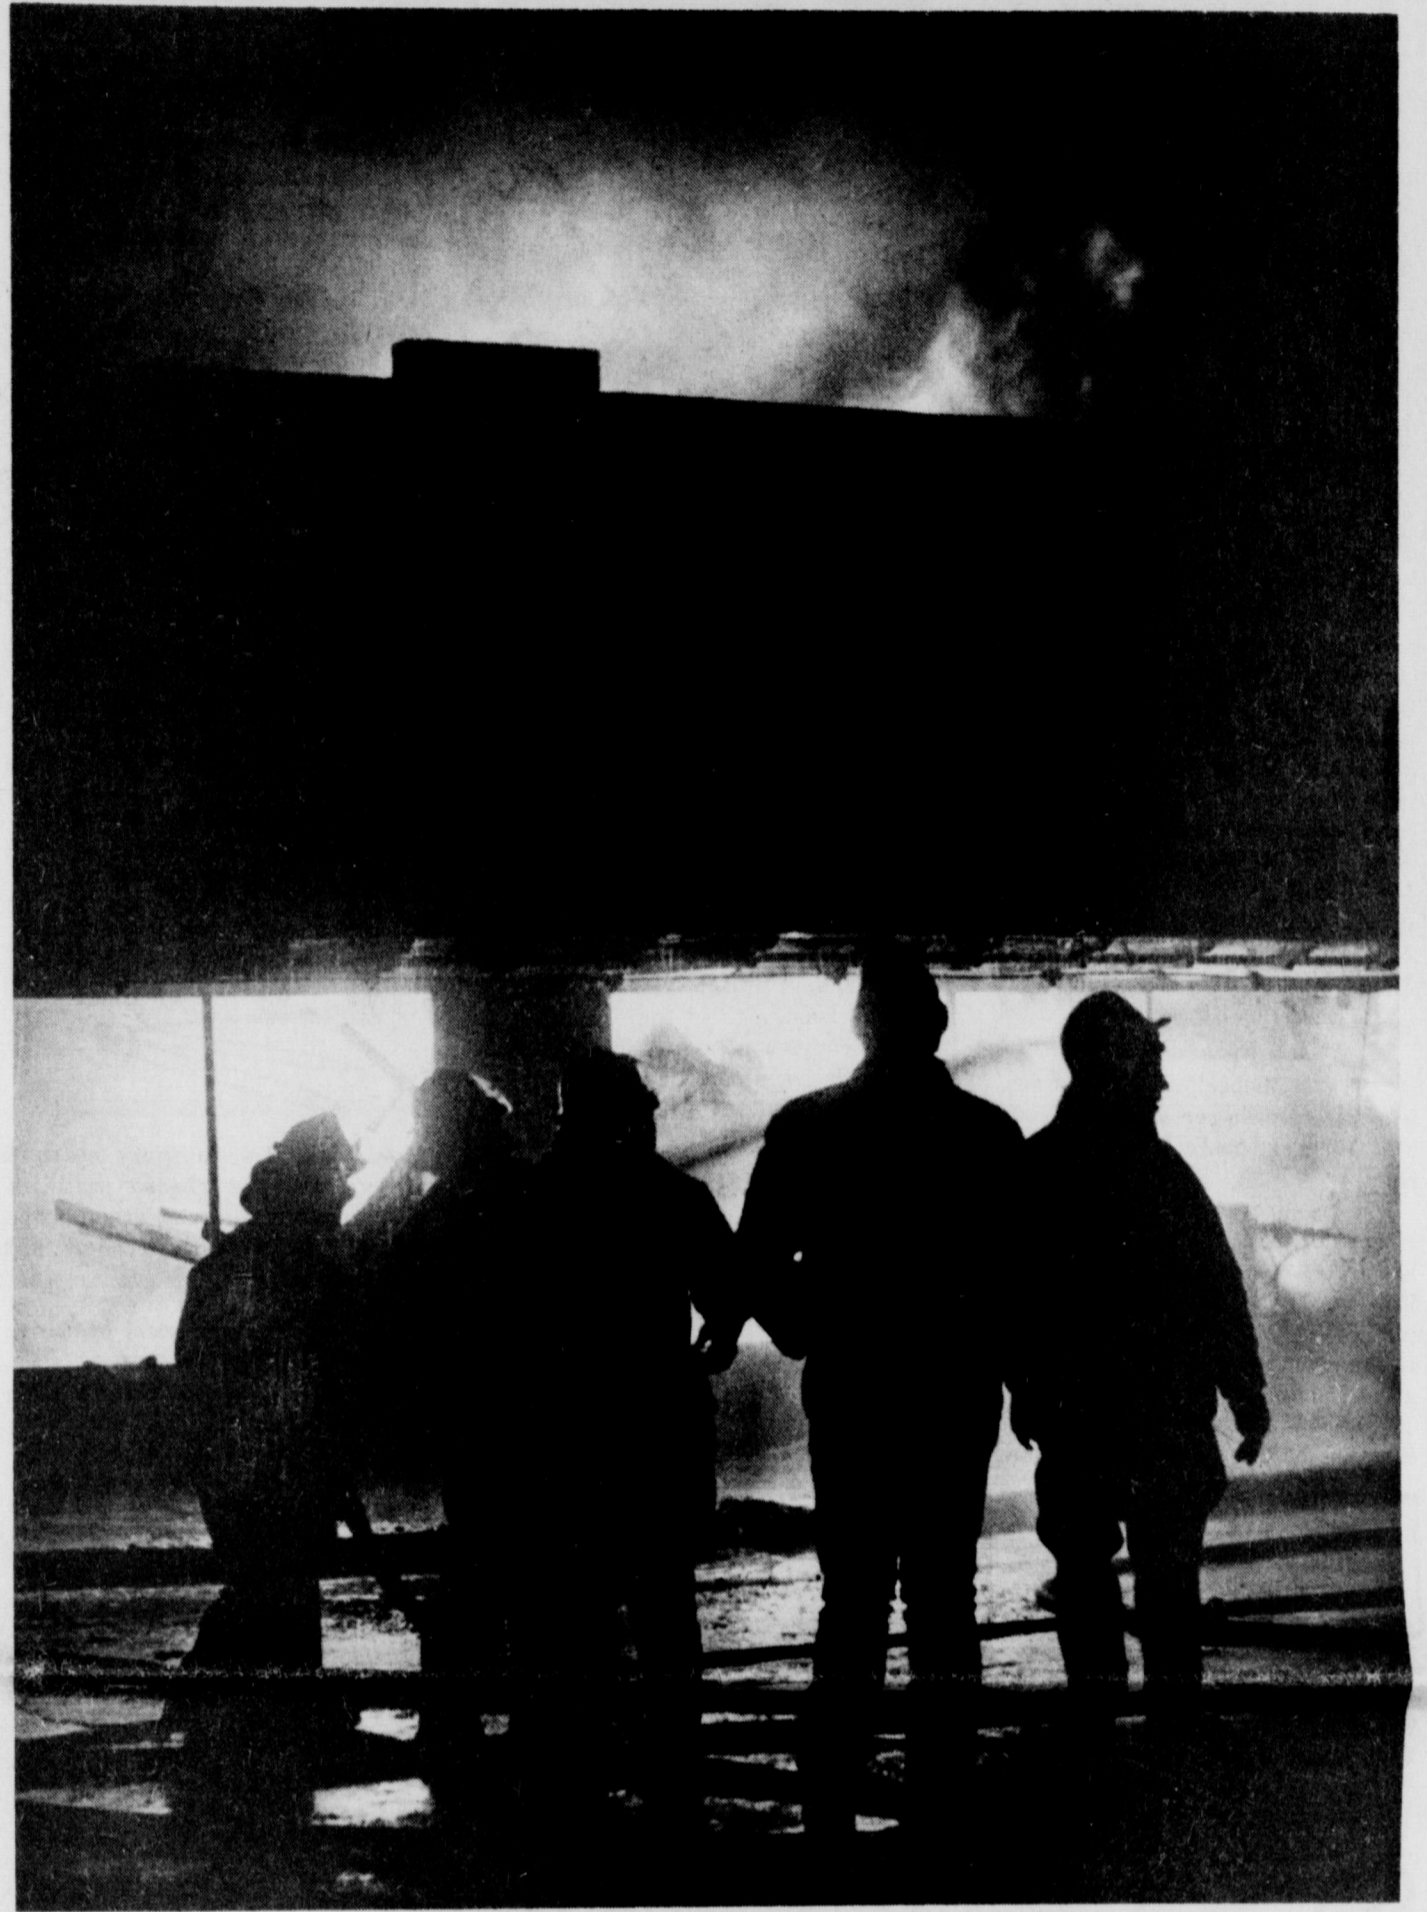

Apparently the only building damaged besides Jim's was the MuleSkinners MuleBarn, which adjoins Jims on the east. No fire damage was located, but there was some water damage from seepage through the wall.

Throughout the night, firemen were treated to hot coffee prepared by Shirley Kissner and Phil McClendon, made in the Kuntry Kitchen and served in the MuleBarn.

The rest breaks were necessary because firemen would become soaked with water and crusted over with ice, due to the extreme cold temperatures and blowing wind. Some firemen sought refuge in the Leader office, also.

Alpine Ski Shop merchandise was moved back into the store the next day and business was resumed as usual.

Firemen began rolling up their hoses and returning to their home stations between 1:30 and 2, but a handful of local firemen remained on the scene until 5 a.m. to douse rekindled flames and watch over the area.

Weather, fires, police 1983 top stories

Weather, fires and the police department were the leading stories of 1983.

Beneficial rains during the spring and early summer, accompanied by cool temperatures, made growing conditions ideal, especially for grass on the ranches of the area.

But, true to form for this part of the country, the rains stopped and temperatures climbed, and the grassfires began. They continued well into the fall, consuming thousands of manhours by members of voluntary fire departments in the area.

Fire destroyed two major food businesses in the community, Ken's Foodliner and Jim's Meat Market, gutted one home and severely damaged at least three others.

Just as the students were let out of school for their annual Christmas holidays, the coldest winter spell in the history of record keeping in this part of the country, began. The spell was preceded by a five-inch snow, and temperatures following hovered well below freezing at least two weeks.

Chief of police Billy Hamilton resigned after a brief period of suspension, as did two of his officers. Hamilton was succeeded by Tom Fenley in the head position of the department.

A month-by-month summation of the year's leading stories follows:

JANUARY

The city council, in a called meeting, accepted the resignation of police chief Billy Hamilton, and appointed Capt. Robert Dean acting chief. The community received a four-inch snow on New Year's Day. Bryan Fowler and Jay Yeakley were named to the 1982-83 All-State Choir. The city paid a $1,000 out-of-court settlement resulting from a suit filed by a local family several months earlier when a former police officer allegedly forced his way into a home without a search warrant. Natural gas service to the 28-unit Country View Mobile Home Park was curtailed when leaks considered seriously dangerous were found. Police recovered three vehicles which had been reported stolen here, one in Burkburnett, another in Bowie and the third in Tyler. Recipients of the annual Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce awards included: H.M. Nipper, Citizen of the Year; Louie McCarthy, Outstanding Agriculturist; Lester Brooks, Outstanding Senior Citizen and Earnie Reusch, Outstanding Educator.

FEBRUARY

City crews experienced trouble collecting trash because alleys were so muddy after a four-inch snow began melting; citizens were asked to leave their trash on the front curbs. The city council approved a rate increase sought by Lone Star Gas Co. Two men, 17 and 33, were found hiding in White's Super Store after their burglary attempt was discovered and foiled. The Hawkette basketball team earned a share of the Dist. 3-AAAA title with Vernon and Azle, but dropped their bi-district playoff with Granbury by a narrow 55-54 margin. The Hawks earned a spot in the state playoffs with a 45-44 final season game over Azle, but were defeated 88-74 by Mansfield in bi-district. Lisa Yeakley and Lisa Sefcik were named All-District. Kevin Biddy was named to the boy's All-District first team; Wayne Hodges and Marc Klinkerman to the second team.

MARCH

Tom Fenley, 34, was hired from Farmers Branch as chief of the Iowa Park Police Department. Young Iowa Parkans earned a lion's share of premium money when their stock qualified for the auction at the Wichita County Junior Livestock Show. The Wichita County Grand Jury indicted former local grain dealer Jim McClendon, Arthur Peevey and Steven G. McInturf of defrauding a Wichita Falls elevator of some 60,000 bushels of grain. Lisa Yeakley was named to the All-State basketball team. The city council agreed to turn over fund-raising, renovation work and operation of the Burnett Memorial Library to a non-profit organization called the "Friends of the Library."

APRIL

Trees and roofs over a wide area were destroyed by abnormally high winds, estimated in excess of 90 MPH. Tim Hunter, Lita Watson and Johnny Coker were returned to their posts on the city council, while Jimmy Howell and Rusty Rusk were re-elected to the school board. Friends of the Library launched their fund-raising campaign with an open house at the Burnett home. Police officer Pat Hannah was suspended from duty by James Barrington, city administrator. Dr. Larry Stutte joined the staff at Park Clinic. Iowa Park High School A Cappella Choir earned the coveted Sweepstakes award for the fourth consecutive year. A Henrietta man was arrested and charged with burglary when he was found after closing hours in Wal-Mart. High winds hampered efforts of the fire department to save the mobile home of Paul Swinburn, 400 S. Victoria, from fire. A state historical marker honoring Tom Lloyd Burnett was disclosed during a ceremony at the Burnett home. James Cowley and Lisa Yeakley were recognized by the 23 Study Club as Outstanding Senior Boy and Girl. Tommy Riggins, Tracy Taylor and Becky Whitaker received the highest awards at the annual banquet of Iowa Park Future Farmers of America Chapter.

MAY

James Cowley was named Valedictorian and Lori Barr Salutatorian of the 1983 IPHS graduating class. Cryovac began a 13,500 square foot expansion program on the west side of the plant. Burglars successfully took a steel safe containing cash and checks, records, an unknown quantity of narcotics and numerous prescription pads from Park Clinic. The city council approved purchase of equipment to directly hook up the local police department with the DPS headquarters in Austin. Iowa Park High choir was named the Outstanding Choir among 4-A and 5-A schools competing in Amarillo's Greater Southwest Music Festival. Allsup's Convenience Store opened its doors for business. Named "Best All Around Students" by the high school faculty were Darla Flick and Robby Hausler. Junior high honor graduates were Brett Hale, valedictorian, and Sarah Owen, salutatorian; Kim Nicholson and Scott Davis received the principal's awards. First meeting to organize a Neighborhood Watch Program was held. Jean Kelley, a Wichita Falls resident, was arrested on a charge of forgery allegedly committed while working as bookkeeper for the Iowa Park Chevrolet dealership.

JUNE

The Bob Cole Memorial Pavillion was dedicated during ceremonies held at Rotary Park. Pacific Avenue Missionary Baptist Church members held dedication services for their new facility. David Baugh was named one of three coaches for the Texas team in the annual Oil Bowl, and he announced two Hawks, Steve Stewart and Paul Rogers, as well as Holliday's Kevin Blankenship, would play on his team. Bill Steger received a probated sentence, paid a fine and resigned his position as school tax collector after pleading guilty to a third degree felony connected with the school's cafeteria. A wind storm caused more than $1-million in damage to homes and structures, destroying two mobile homes.

JULY

Mrs. Dwain Holmes succeeded Mrs. Ray Pittman as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. Iowa Park hosted the district Little League baseball tournament. Two young Iowa Park men, Robert Blair and Richard Young, were injured by a shotgun blast in Nocona. James Cowley was named recipient of the Houston Livestock Show scholarship. A 28-year-old woman was reportedly raped in her home by an intruder. Playground equipment was installed at Rotary Park. Police recovered property in Burkburnett which was taken during a burglary of the Walter Griffin home. Volunteer firemen joined other area departments in fighting numerous grassfires southwest of the city. Don Decker announced he would retire from his position as County Agriculture Agent.

AUGUST

Ken Turman was named Iowa Park post office postmaster. Marc Klinkerman played in the annual Greenbelt Bowl. An automobile reportedly stolen in Iowa Park was recovered in Las Vegas, Nev. and 23-year-old Jimmy Ray Davis was arrested. School trustees adopted a budget for the 1983-84 year of $4,974,057. Drouth conditions continued to plague area volunteer fire departments as grassfires consumed hundreds of man hours. J.D. Morrison retired after 31 years work with Wichita County Precinct 3. First-day enrollment in Iowa Park schools was reported at 1,684.

SEPTEMBER

After some two years of negotiations, studies, hearings and preparations, Iowa Park's new sanitary landfill was opened southwest of the city. The city council approved a $1.8-million budget and purchase of a computer. Alert police officers thwarted an attempted burglary of Park Pharmacy. Martha McSteen, Iowa Park native, was named acting commissioner of the Social Security Administration. Work was begun to remodel the old fire station portion of city hall into offices. Exterior work on the Burnett Library was approved, with metal siding to be placed over all exterior woodwork. Iowa Park hosted the Santa Rosa District fall board meeting and workshop.

OCTOBER

A two-vehicle accident three miles east of town on the old highway took the lives of Peggy Jean Bridges, 27, her four-year-old son and unborn fetus. Fire gutted Ken's Foodliner and was said to be the work of an arsonist. Mrs. Kenneth Watts was awarded the Easter Seal Gallantry Award for her determination and hard work in recovering from a ruptured aneurysm in 1981. For the second consecutive year, the Iowa Park Hawks, decidedly underdogs in their game with Gainesville, upset the Leopards to win their homecoming game, 10-6. Susan Streich was crowned homecoming queen. Homecoming and Whoop-T-Do activities were termed an outstanding success. The Hawk Band received a superior rating in the UIL marching contest. Two days of programs and meetings introduced a drug-search dog program in Iowa Park schools.

NOVEMBER

Iowa Parkan Jeff Kiser received a leg wound when shot by a sniper while he took part in the military operation on Grenada. A second case of arson in as many months caused minor damage to an unoccupied house at 406 S. Jackson. Mmes. Kathleen Hatten and Hester Hofer received 50-year pins from the Iowa Park Chapter, Order of Eastern Star. Joyce Wilson, who lost her appeal to overturn a voluntary manslaughter charge after shooting her husband, was found dead in her home, apparently committing suicide. Three local ranches, the Williamson Farm, Beulah Francis May Ranch and Parker Ranch were inducted in the Texas Family Land Heritage register. Greg Untalon kicked a 32-yard field goal with 14 seconds remaining in the game to give the Hawks a 26-24 win over Azle in their final game of the season

Cook of the Week

"It's the kitchen for me" is still the theme of the housewife even though she planned, prepared and cooked for several days for the bountiful Christmas dinner. No doubt the family is tired of turkey, ham and all the rich food that graced the table on Christmas day, and perhaps most of the food has been stored in the freezers. However, cooking must go on, and those responsible for preparing the meals must face the task "head-on," often without benefit of suggestions from family members, who too often say when asked what they want to eat, "anything except leftovers."

The recipes that Mrs. Jimmy Gilmore shares with us today were given to us several weeks before Christmas, but they sound like they would constitute good eating any season of the year.

One of her congealed salad recipes calls for buttermilk which not only sounds somewhat different but is also a stimulation for one to try it. She is an excellent cook, and the salad must be excellent.

Buttermilk is the liquid left after butter has been churned from thickened or curdled milk or cream. The modern housewife has easy access to it in cartons in the refrigerators of grocery stores. Her grandmother got it from a churn where butter had been made by continuous up and down movement of a dasher. The wooden or crock churn, dasher and butter mold are treasured antiques and collectors items today.

Milk, of some kind is so basic in our daily living, and it seems that it has always been a part of America. Yet, there were no cows here when Columbus discovered the New World. On his second voyage, he brought cows and other farm animals to the islands of the West Indies. The first mainland cows were brought to the Jamestown Colony, and the American dairy industry really began when a large number of cows were brought to the Plymouth Colony in 1624.

Mrs. Gilmore was graduated from Iowa Park High School. She is a member of the Church of Christ where she has taught in the cradle roll and first and second grade departments and Vacation Bible School. She is a member of the Iowa Park Garden Club where she is currently serving as historian. Her hobbies are counted cross stitch, working in the yard and photography.

Vickie and Jimmy, who works for Gilmore Inc., have two children, Jason, four years old, and Bobbie Lynn, three months of age.

DIDN'T MAKE IT TO BRIDGE - A two-trailer UPS rig didn't make it to the Johnson Road iced-over overpass shortly before noon Tuesday. The truck jackknifed only minutes after rainfall began forming ice on U.S. 287. The driver, uninjured, was heading east at the time of the accident.

Worth Quoting

Before the finales ring down on the 1983 high school football season, we want to make comment about one of the strangest endings of a football game in history.

Coach Gordon Wood at Brownwood has been a nemesis in the side of many a high school football team, including Andrews. He used to deal the Mustangs fits when he was coaching over at Seminole.

And in the bi-district playoff game between Vernon and Brownwood in Abilene the other night, it's evident that Wood hasn't changed a bit despite his age.

The other night Vernon had a 9-6 lead over Brownwood with 1:58 to go in the game.

Following the kickoff by Vernon to Brownwood, Coach Wood ordered up the whisper play. After the Brownwood team had broken the huddle and came up to the line of scrimmage, a Brownwood player ran onto the field and the quarterback met him at the far end of the line. The new player whispered something to the quarterback and it appeared that Coach Wood had sent in a new play from the bench.

While the two players were whispering to each other, the center snapped the ball back to the tailback who rambled for big yards - but the play was called back because the two whispering players were in motion.

Three plays later, the Brownwood player was sacked in the end zone for a safety to give Vernon a 11-6 lead.

But on the free kick following the safety, Brownwood huddled together behind the ball which was teed up at the 20. Suddenly, the entire team broke in a dead run toward the ball, and the kicker booted an outside kick up the middle - and Brownwood recovered.

Two complete passes moved the ball to the 50 where Brownwood called its last time out with 17 seconds remaining on the clock. On the next play, Brownwood passed 20 yards for a first down on the 30 but with the clock still running and Vernon fans and players charged on the field, whooping up their victory over Brownwood.

But the officials cleared all the fans and players off the field, declaring that one second remained on the clock when the official stopped it to move the down markers.

On the next play, Brownwood's quarterback lofted a perfect pass into the end zone for a touchdown and the Brownwood fans erupted and chased out on the field to celebrate their victory.

Long minutes went by as Brownwood fans and players celebrated all over the field and Vernon players sprawled out on the ground after their tremendous efforts had seemingly been wasted.

Then a counter-roar shook the stadium.

And Vernon fans spilled back out on the field to celebrate the victory - game officials had declared that the final play had been run after the clock had expired - that once the down markers were in position and the referee's arm had gone down in signaling start of time, that the Brownwood center had not centered the ball by the time the one second had expired from the clock.

With fans and players from both schools out on the playing field celebrating victory, fifteen minutes after the game was over, game officials clarified their ruling: The word was announced that the official had held the clock only long enough for the yardage markers to be set in their proper positions, and that as soon as he counted off one second to himself, the time expired, and the Brownwood pass into the end zone did not count.

Word is out that Coach Gordon Wood, who is in the neighborhood of 72 years of age, is retiring this year.

Seems kinda fittin' that he'd go out with that kind of bi-district game ending... one thing you can say about the mentor, he's been consistent as a coach full of surprises - for everyone.

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

An editorial in yesterday's issue of Brand X, otherwise known to some as Wichita Falls Record News, kinda rankled by community pride and parts of it need to be corrected.

The basis of the editorial, concerning cooperation of fire departments in fighting Jim's Market fire Monday night, is good and I take no issue with it. In fact, I support it.

Two phrases are the subject of my ire: "... without the water Iowa Park purchases from Wichita Falls the fire could not have been controlled," and "... the massive assistance rendered by Wichita Falls firefighters. . ."

I don't know where the author got his or her information, but we had adequate water in storage to fight that fire and still maintain service to the rest of the community.

The fact is, the pump to bring water here from Wichita Falls never turned on until well after the fire was over.

We had 1.85-million gallons of water in our tanks, not including that in the basins at the treatment plant. Our plant is capable of producing half a million gallons a day. Best estimation the city could come up with was 490,000 gallons were used during the period of the fire, and that takes into consideration the water line break leaks.

Almost overlooked was the mention that this community does pay for all the water received from Wichita Falls.

And the other statement about the "massive" assistance from the neighboring city is a dandy. Two units, a snorkel truck and a pumper, were sent over in the company of either four or five men.

I don't downplay the effectiveness of the snorkel and pumper, but massive? I think not.

In my 14 years here, this was only the second time Wichita Falls equipment has been used to fight a fire in Iowa Park. The last time was when White's burned. Our community has had an agreement with Wichita Falls for such assistance, and we in turn will give the same assistance whenever called.

Massive? What would one truck be, a whole bunch?

The help received from the Wichita Falls fire department was both needed and appreciated, but I don't think it should cause the writer at Brand X to break his/her arm in bragging.

Stay warm, drive with care and maybe we'll all have a Happy New Year.

Winter weather causing churches, city problems

The extended harsh winter weather is beginning to take its toll, as two churches have been damaged by water line breaks and the expense of maintaining streets and water service by the city is mounting.

Broken water pipes have damaged both the First Baptist Church and First Christian Church.

A line to the water fountain in the foyer of First Baptist burst sometime Saturday night. Water soaked much of the carpet in the sanctuary and members were forced to meet Sunday morning in the congregation's fellowship hall.

A crew has taken up the carpet in an attempt to dry it.

A broken pipe caused extensive damage in the educational wing of First Christian sometime Monday or that night. Most of the damage was to carpeting, but some furnishings and sheetrock were also damaged.

Mrs. W.C. Franklin, church secretary, discovered the flooded building Tuesday morning. The sanctuary was not damaged.

The city's costs are rising from sand purchases and employee overtime, according to James Barrington, administrator.

Supply of sand, which is expensive, is becoming "non-plentiful," Barrington said, and soon will not be available at any cost.

The street department is using the sand sparingly. For the past three or four days, sand is used only at hazardous intersections.

The water department has been able to maintain adequate pressure in the lines, but there are more line breaks than workers can handle, even though they are working 10 to 12 hours every day. Some residents have been inconvenienced with water shutoffs, but only temporarily while workers are repairing lines.

A pump at the water treatment plant has to be heated every two or three days to keep it from freezing, otherwise all equipment has been functioning as designed, Barrington said.

Two thefts investigated

Police are investigating two thefts reported during the past week.

Roger Mathews, 910 E. Bank, told police someone between Dec. 5 and 27 took from a garage behind his home $1,400 worth of tools consisting of a Porta-Power unit, floor jack, drill press and large assortment of hand tools.

Two 7.5 gallon butane tanks and 10 gallons of butane were reportedly taken off a camper trailer parked in the back yard at 101 W. Aldine. Bill Curry, who filed the report, estimated the loss at $160.

Football banquet tickets on sale

Tickets remain on sale for the annual banquet honoring all Iowa Park High School football players.

The event will be Jan. 7 in the school's cafeteria. Tom Mueller, defensive coordinator for Texas Christian Univ., will be the guest speaker.

Tickets, $8 per person, are being sold by Nancy Young and other members of the sponsoring Iowa Park Booster Club.

and a 4-6 record. Mike Dodd, local attorney, said he would not run for state representative although he had announced earlier he was considering entering the race. Elected at the annual Chamber of Commerce membership meeting to serve in 1984 were: Dr. James Edwards, president; Dr. Erwin Soell, first vice president and H.M. Nipper, second vice president. Twelve members of the Class of '29 attended a reunion. The University Interscholastic League announced Iowa Park would be lowered to Class AAA beginning in September, 1984.

DECEMBER

The city council approved a resolution to have the home rule charter issue included on the April election ballot. Hawk tackle Charles Perry, a junior, was named to the 3-AAAA All-District team. Wichita County Young Farmers hosted 18 European farmers on a one-day tour of the area. Randal Wayne Trahan, 32, was arrested in Galveston after being found in a car reported stolen from here. Bradford and Kidwell P-TA groups sponsored a fingerprinting session for students as part of the Child Find program. Friends of the Library successfully exceeded $100,000 in donations and pledges to qualify for a matching $100,000 to renovate the Burnett home for a library. The city council considered a request to furnish effluent from the sewer treatment plant for irrigating a nine-hole golf course proposed by developer Rip Smith; no action was taken but council members encouraged Smith to continue his studies on the proposal. Iowa Park received 17.93 percent more sales taxes through the first 11 months of the year than it did last year, the only city in the county reportedly on the plus side in sales. A five-inch snow followed by a lengthy succession of sub-freezing temperatures ushered in Christmas and New Years. Jim's Meat Market was totally destroyed by fire.

Conservation tillage explained

By MICHAEL A. ISBELL
Soil Conservation Service

Farmers in Wichita County have continually shown an interest in practices which will improve their farming operations. One of these practices, conservation tillage, continues to grow in importance.

What is conservation tillage and why is it important? Simply put, it is doing less and leaving more. How many farmers would like to do less and yet have more for their money and time invested. Let's apply this theory of more for less.

Most farmers, when they harvest their wheat (or other crops), will plow 5-7 times between harvest and planting of their next crop. Doing less, means less tillage operations.

Leaving more, means leaving more residues on the soil surface. Through the use of chemicals a farmer can control weeds if needed and either reduce the number of tillage operations or farm to till where soils permit.

What are the advantages of no tillage or reduced tillage farming? First and foremost is the conservation of our most valued natural resources, soil and water. The extra residues keep top soil in the field where it belongs, increases the moisture intake, reduces moisture lost from evaporation by tillage and direct sunlight, and purifies the water that leaves the farm and runs into our lakes and streams.

In addition a significant amount of fuel and time is saved. This savings helps preserve our diminishing energy supply and provides the farmer more time to complete other important jobs around the farm. Also, wear and tear on farm equipment is reduced.

How are farmers accepting the changes from clean till farming to a trashy type of farming? Nationwide in 1972 fewer than 30 million acres of cropland were under conservation tillage. During 1982 that figure topped 100 million acres or about one fourth of all cropland. Locally, farmers such as the Brockreide Brother, Fred Dwyer, the Lalk Brothers, Terry McAlister, Frank Morton, Barry Mahler, and many others are trying various crops under a variety of reduced tillage methods to see if it will fit into their farming operation.

Conservation tillage saves soil, water, time, moisture, equipment, and even money. Its use and application will vary from farm to farm and year to year. It may not fit every farmer but does provide another method to increase farm efficiency while protecting your soil for future production.

The Soil Conservation Service is here to serve you. If you are interested in conservation tillage please contact us at 592-4176 or write to Soil Conservation Service, 303 A N. Jackson, Iowa Park, Texas 76367. Our assistance is available to everyone interested in conservation.

FmHA resumes emergency loans

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will resume making economic emergency loans by the beginning of 1984, according to FmHA County Supervisor Joe W. Gilbreath.

"Economic emergency loans are designed for farmers who are in a cost-price squeeze or face other financial difficulty beyond their control," Gilbreath said. "In other words, the loans are for a financial emergency rather than a natural disaster such as a drought or flood."

The economic emergency or "EE" program was in operation from 1978 to 1981. The program expired in 1981 but was later reauthorized by Congress. It is being reopened under an order by the U.S. district court in Washington, D.C.

"Under the program, loans will be available to farmers who are suffering an economic emergency through no fault of their own. They must show that they have tried unsuccessfully to get a loan from another source before coming to FmHA and that they can repay the loan over a period of time, depending on the use of the funds. The funds can be used for farm operating purposes, and under certain conditions, to finance debts and related uses," Gilbreath said.

The interest rate for direct loans fluctuates with the cost to the Government of borrowing money. The interest rates for guaranteed loans, which are made by commercial lenders and backed by the Government, are negotiated between the borrower and the lender.

Applications for economic emergency loans will be available at the FmHA county office.

'83 good year for Holliday

Holliday News

The Year 1983 was good to Holliday, overall, with several new business openings, initial construction of a potential 100-home subdivision started, and a climax to a court case between the City of Holliday and City of Wichita Falls, with city officials here expressing optimism as to the city's water future.

JANUARY - Holliday volunteer firemen displayed their new Jaws of Life equipment to the public, paid for with donations and fund raising activities by the group. Firemen elected Chuck Parker president and Randy Stone vice president for 1983. Others elected were Rod Dolberry, chief; Melvin Bills, assistant chief; Bob Bryan, secretary/treasurer; John Arrigal, captain; Hershel McDaniel, training officer; Dickie Kreidler, lieutenant; Charlie Wilson, reporter; and Jennifer Wylie, mascot. Harold Parsons, Kevin Blankenship and Jeff Belcher were named to the Class AA All-State team by the Texas Sports Writers Association. Holliday school trustees called for an April 2 election to fill two seats, and reaffirmed the school transfer policy, disallowing further students from outside the school's district. Holliday Senior Citizens' Center received a first aid kit from the Archer County Hospital. City officials learned the federal government would give Holliday $16,156 more in revenue sharing money that was previously anticipated. Texas Speaker of the House Gib Lewis announced the appointment of Fennell to the chairman's seat on the committee on aging and retirement. Nine Holliday Eagle Band students and five junior high musicians earned seats on the All-District Band through auditions. The Holliday VFD Women's Auxiliary was formed with Ann Bills elected president and Reba Dolberry vice president. Mrs. Charles Fennell was elected secretary of the Legislative Ladies Club.

FEBRUARY - Burglars broke into the Holliday Elementary building doing extensive damage to the superintendent's office and school vault, with an undetermined amount of money taken. Despite taking in over $1,200 in donations at the firemen's bluegrass jamboree, officials reported that $1,400 was still needed to complete payments on the $5,600 Jaws of Life equipment. Holliday City Council accepted a bid from Case Equipment Co. of Wichita Falls for purchase of a new front-end loader, totalling $21,859. Holliday Eagle roundballers defeated Jacksboro but lost to Olney to end up runner-up to the Cubs in District 11-AA basketball. School trustees discussed several ways to reverse a trend of depleting finances in the school budget. The Eagles lost in bi-district to Ranger 60-52.

MARCH - Mike A. Parker was chosen unanimously by the district's coaches to head the All-District Basketball list along with Olney's Blanford Paul. Two other Eagles made the squad, fellow seniors Kevin Lilley and Brad Harmon. Fennell introduced a bill in the house proposing a statewide procedure for rail crossing safety information. Lady Eagle Debbi Long was named to the first team of the All-District basketball team, while teammates Kim Blankenship, Laura Lowder and Angie Addison earned mention on second team and honorable mention. Absentee voting in both city and school elections began, with incumbent trustees Gene Harmon and Terry Parnell receiving a challenge from businessman Gary Shaefer. In the city race, incumbents John Goforth, Jimmy Willis and Jim Virdell all indicated they would seek reelection. School trustees agreed to over 10 changes in school policy, including the teaching of kindergarten in two sections lasting one-half year each, combining the sixth, seventh and eighth grade classes into a middle school, and hiring personnel discussed during a three-hour closed executive session. The Eagle track team edged Childress in team totals to win the Henrietta meet. Owners Carol Parker and Erma Lee Dillard held a grand opening of their shop, Holliday Antiques. H.H.S. students Terri Davis, Leslie Mankins, Erick Neal, Deborah Noll, Billy Kincaid, and Jeff Belcher advanced to regional U.I.L. Literary competition after placing among the top two in their respective events. A straw vote question was added to the city ballots asking voters whether or not they were in favor of constructing a new city hall.

APRIL - Gary Shaefer unseated Terry Parnell to highlight the school and city elections held April 2. Gene Harmon earned another term on the board, while in city elections, the straw vote concerning construction of a new municipal building failed by 13 votes, and incumbents Jimmy Willis, Elizabeth Gorman, Jim Virdell and John Goforth won added terms. Council discussed problems in the city's new waste water treatment plant, asking representatives of companies involved in its construction to answer questions that had arisen. The Eagle track team was edged by Iowa Park in team totals at the Eagle Relays. Tommy Mankins was once again elected school board president after a year's reign by trustee Durhl Caussey. Holliday Eagle Band earned the Sweepstakes Band trophy after earning division "1" ratings in marching, concert and sightreading. School trustees agreed to close the school campus for the 1983-84 school year, a first in the school's history. Junior Leslie Mankins placed for the second year in calculator application at the state literary meet. City council approved an amendment to the water ordinance restricting future water taps outside the city limits. Kevin and Kim Blankenship were named 1983 Mr. and Miss Spring Sports at the annual all-sports banquet, with former pro player Scott Appleton the keynote speaker. Brad Thompson was named valedictorian and Kay Platt salutatorian of the 1983 graduating class at H.H.S. Laurie Mankins and Stephanie Fleming were named honor students for the eighth grade graduating class. Nine Eagle tracksters advanced to regional competition, as the Olney Cubs edged the Eagles in team standings at the district level.

MAY - Fennell moved two bills through the legislature successfully, with Gov. Mark White's signature approving enforcement of vehicle weight restrictions and remodeled state retirement plan. Chamber of Commerce officials began plans for a June Fest to revive the old Settler's Reunion hosted by Holliday several years ago. Eagle high jumper Pat Capps advanced to state competition in Austin for the second straight year, placing third. The Eagle baseball team were edged by Nocona in a one-game playoff 2-1 sending the Indians and Boyd Yellowjackets to the state playoffs. Holliday businessman Don Talley met with the city council to discuss tentative plans to begin construction of a new housing addition. Fifty-nine Holliday High School seniors graduated in ceremonies held May 27. Dr. Ed Thornton indicated his interest in starting practice in Holliday. Allsup's convenience store opened for business after a few delays in construction.

JUNE - The first annual June Fest celebration in Holliday received support from the House of Representatives in the form of a proclamation lending "support and recognition" to the event. City fathers approved purchase of a new pickup and copy machine with financing from the revenue sharing funds. Holliday Appliance, owned by Dusty Cunningham and Rusty Stubblefield held ribbon cutting ceremonies. Eagle standouts Kevin Blankenship and Harold Parsons were named to the Texas squad for the Oil Bowl. Search for a new band director commenced with the resignation of Tom Woody after three productive years. Tina Morrison was named over-all Queen to represent the City of Holliday and Chamber of Commerce during June Fest activities held over three days. Winds from a violent spring storm did extensive damage in both Wichita and Archer Counties.

JULY - City council passed a "No Parking" ordinance for the 400 block of South Main, prohibiting parking near the new fire station. Two miles of resurfacing Holliday's streets took place over the month. Mark Cartwright was named the school's new band director at the school board meeting, and several policies were added to the student handbook. Wichita Falls' realtor Charles Chandler and engineer Mike Brannon presented to city council plans to construct homes in a new "Judy Ray Estates" subdivision. Owen's Book-keeping Service observed grand opening ceremonies with owner Doris Owen cutting the ribbon. Holliday residents experienced a loss of water pressure to their taps when pressure to the city's storage tanks and peak water usage drained resources.

AUGUST - City council reported good news to residents, stating that the estimated budget for fiscal year 1984 called for no new tax increase. Students attending Holliday schools registered for the coming year. Jeff Belcher competed at the annual Greenbelt Bowl as a member of the winning East team. School trustees approved a revamped budget saving district taxpayers almost $40,000 from the previous year's amount. Doors to the school opened August 19 for business. First-day enrollment showed a slight decline over the previous years, with a total of 727 students enrolling.

SEPTEMBER - School trustees passed a proposal to raise taxes by 7.8 percent over the previous year's rate. Stone and Wilson Feed and Fertilizer opened its doors for business. The Eagles opened the 1983 gridiron season with an avenging 10-6 win over defending state champs Eastland. City fathers set a tax rate of 40-cents per $100 market valuation, a lower rate than the preceding year. School trustees set a tax rate of 58-cents per $100 valuation, less than eight percent increase. The Holliday Art Association was formed with Mrs. B.W. Jackson elected president.

OCTOBER - Reba's Gift Shop, owned by Reba and Rod Dolberry, observed ribbon cutting ceremonies. School trustees referred a problem of compliance with contracts between the school and Larry Ledbetter Enterprises to the school attorney Roger Lee. The Holliday Chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas officially organized with Renee Collier elected president.

NOVEMBER - The Lady Eagle volleyball team placed second in District 11-AA behind Chico. District re-alignment for the 1984 football season saw Seymour and Electra dropping a notch into Holliday's district. Head coach Don Lucy added that Iowa Park will once again be added to the Eagle's schedule, renewing an old rivalry. City fathers rejected a rate increase proposal from TESCO after suspending action for 120 days. School trustees approved use of school facilities for religious groups subject to certain guidelines. A long-awaited court battle between Holliday and the City of Wichita Falls finally took place in Judge Calvin Ashley's 30th District Court, with Ashley ruling that Wichita Falls could assess a rate increase only once but at any period within the five-year limit, and that Wichita Falls could not base its increase on increased capitalization of its system.

DECEMBER - Fennell drew a record number of supporters to his traditional fish fry, while challenger Durhl Caussey held a brisket supper exactly one week later, saying he was a serious candidate and challenging Fennell to a debate. School trustees began a study on anticipated growth of the school district and potential increase in enrollment, naming trustees Gene Harmon, Larry Fennell and president Tommy Mankins to a building committee to discuss possible new construction to handle the expected increase.

$50-MILLION CAMPAIGN LAUNCHED FOR 4-H

A five-year, $50-million nationwide campaign has been announced to double private support for 4-H, the nation's largest out-of-school youth educational organization.

The campaign seeks support for 4-H in five major areas: enriching educational experiences for youth by expanding recognition programs; updating curriculum and educational materials and developing pilot programs; updating curriculum enhancing leadership development of adult and teen leaders and professional staff; increasing public awareness; and improving conference and training facilities at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase.

Robert B. Gill, vice-chairman, J.C. Penney Company, will serve as chairman of the campaign committee that includes corporate and civic leaders nationwide.

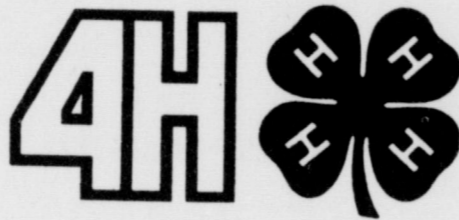

The campaign is a cooperative effort between state 4-H programs and the National 4-H Council, a non-profit organization, says David Tunmire, Wichita County Extension Agent. It will not only build upon traditional support from the corporate community but also will seek expanded support from foundations and individuals.

4-H, the youth program of the Cooperative Extension Service of state land grant universities and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, has nearly five-million members in every state plus the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and Micronesia. These young people are led by a cadre of more than 620,000 volunteer leaders, backed by professional Extension staff.

4-H programs emphasize a learn-by-doing approach to a broad range of subject areas, from traditional projects in agriculture and home economics to programs in computers, ecology and career education, notes Tunmire. Members participate in 4-H through clubs, camps and special interest groups. Programs are geared to youth needs and community resources. Since its inception in the early 1900's, more than 40 million people, from rural and urban areas, have been involved in 4-H.

4-H is a prime example of the public-private sector partnership, says Tunmire. Throughout its history, 4-H has received strong private support to motivate young people by recognizing achievement and excellence to provide citizenship and leadership training for adult volunteers, youth and staff, and to conduct international exchange programs with 82 countries having similar youth programs.

MICROWAVE MENUS

COOKING EASIER THAN YOU EVER DREAMED

By Rita Marie Schneider

Convenience, ease and flexibility are only three of the very good reasons you should be enjoying microwave cooking. If you're a new or prospective microwave oven owner or even if you've had one for several years, you probably haven't explored all its possibilities.

Many people think microwaves aren't for roasting, simmering, cooking and baking. It's simply not so! By experimenting, using the right recipes and the right utensils, you can discover all the capabilities of your marvelous microwave.

In addition to saving time, by cooking with microwaves you'll be saving energy. That's good for you and good for all Americans. Foods will retain their shape and color and more of their important nutritive values.

If you're a new microwave owner or haven't been using yours to the fullest, here are a few hints to help you:

- Start a file of microwave recipes. They're different from conventional recipes and you should get used to those differences.
- Experiment with different types of recipes and make notes of your results for future reference.
- Using the appropriate microwave utensils is important. Those made from Udel polysulfone won't warp, distort, disintegrate, melt or absorb odors from the food being microwaved. Even better, there's no burning or crustiness and the utensils are stain-resistant so cleanups are a breeze.
- Standing time will be a new concept for first time microwave users and it's an important step. Most microwave recipes say to let the food stand for a certain amount of time before serving. The food actually continues to cook during that time and it's vital for properly cooked foods.

Here's a recipe you might like to try:

MEAT BALLS AND TOMATO SAUCE
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 medium onion, finely chopped
2 tablespoons olive oil
2 cans (16 oz. each) tomato pieces
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 bay leaf
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon thyme
1 pound lean ground beef
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
In a two or three quart polysulfone casserole, place
