CHANGING WEATHER - The saturated soils of the area could not hold more than two inches of rain Sunday night and Monday, so the creeks and rivers of the area were flowing out of their banks. On the left, more than a quarter mile of the west lane of Old Highway was under water Monday. Temperatures turned to freezing Tuesday, and light snow began falling late in the afternoon. Traffic (on right) was cautiously slow Wednesday morning, due to slick streets, but schools opened at the regular time, to welcome students back from their Christmas holidays.

Family disputes on 287 get police attention

A couple of unusual family-type disputes on U.S. 287 last week got the attention of Iowa Park Police Department.

At 1:35 p.m. Christmas Day, the department got a call that a woman was standing at the intersection of the expressway and Bell Road, dressed in her pajamas and a coat. An officer escorted her to the police station, where they learned the woman's husband became irate and kicked her out of the house. Her daughter in Wichita Falls was summoned to pick her up.
Friday, a citizen called police to tell them two people were being assaulted at the expressway and Pacific intersection. The man doing the assault returned to his van and drove west on the highway, according to the report.
Officers picked up Stephen Treadway, 19, and Kimbra Lynne Braxdale, 22, along with some to the station. One report indicated they were residents of Wichita Falls, but another gave a California address.

Police learned Treadway's father, Ben Tom Treadway, had been drinking. The young couple said he stopped the van and started fighting with them. The woman had a bruise on the side of her face and the man cuts on his right hand.
Both said they wanted to file charges against the older man, and would go to the district attorney's office to complete the paperwork.
Iowa Parkan Michael Lynn Dumas was arrested at 10:14 a.m. Friday on a murder warrant from the Wichita Falls Police Dept., in connection with a death in a motel in that city. He was turned over at 10:55 a.m. to officers of that department. However, later news reports announced Dumas was released because of insufficient evidence against him.
The incident occurred on the east side through the yard of 205 W. Lafayette late Wednesday evening, knocking over a natural gas meter and causing a leak. The leak was repaired by Lone Star Gas workers, but the vehicle is still being sought.

26.39 year's total

Despite the exceptionally dry summer and early fall, Iowa Park still received 24.18 inches of precipitation, according to records at the Texas Experiment Station southeast of the city.
But that figure was improved considerably with the 2.45 inches measured during December, of which 1.82 fell last week.
The year's total, however, was still short of the 26.39 measured in 1983, and both sums were short of the 29-inch average over the 29 years records have been kept at the station.
If moisture measured the first two months of the year to come, it might be a wet one. Tuesday and Wednesday's measurements totaled .69 of an inch.

1984 looked a lot like 1983

The major news stories of 1984 were almost carbon copies of 1983: business fires, change of police chief, weather.

The business community was hit hard late in the year with a fire that defaced more of the downtown area, displacing three businesses. This occurred just as the city "took the bull by the horns" and cleaned up a burnt structure from 1983.

With the short-notice resignation of Tom Fenley as chief of the police department, the council named Bob Dean to fill that post. Dean, the senior member of the department, had served four times previously as temporary chief, until others were hired to the position.

The year started out with a major weather story, with record low temperatures causing frozen water pipes throughout the community. Weather continued to be the news, as lack of moisture hampered crops, and then the unseasonable precipitation that commenced in October and continued right through New Year's Eve.

Elections also provided major copy for the Leader, with voters electing the youngest mayor, Tim Hunter, in the city's history. And although the turnout in the general election was not a record, 66 percent, the vast majority cast ballots for Republican candidates for federal offices.

1984 was also a frustrating year for everyone who is interested in the city library. Delays upon delays have marred progress of renovating a landmark structure so it can become the Tom Burnett Memorial Library.

The following is a brief recap of the major stories reported during 1984:

JANUARY

Damage was extensive to the school administration building, cosmetology laboratory and junior high metal building after water pipes froze and burst during the extended sub-freezing spell. City crews were kept busy patching frozen water transmission pipes, and police worked overtime investigating wrecks, also part of the freezing weather. Phil Clements qualified for the All-State Band, and Jay Yeakley and Bryan

Fowler repeated their previous year's accomplishments of being named to the All-State Choir. At the annual football banquet, Charles Perry received the Outstanding Hawk award, Brian Fuller Best Hustler and Bobby Halady Ball Hawker. The MuleSkinners put on a feast for all volunteer firemen of Wichita County and Holliday, feeding approximately 200. Glenn L. Stout, 61, owner of an aerial photography and patrol service, and an employee, Bobby Sunday, 44, were killed in an airplane crash near Throckmorton. Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Department recognized two members at the organization's annual banquet: James McCord, Fireman of the Year, and Donald Jones, Special Services Award.

FEBRUARY

The A Cappella Choir of Iowa Park High School sang at the Texas Music Educators' Association state convention in Fort Worth. Recognized at the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet were: Riley Thompson, Outstanding Senior Citizen; Dewey Spruiell, Outstanding Agriculturist; Mrs. Delbert Todd, Outstanding Educator; and the entire Volunteer Fire Department membership as Outstanding Citizens. Rev. Mr. Patrick Burke became Deacon of Christ the King Catholic Church. An Iowa Park man was arrested in Wichita Falls attempting to make a large purchase with a credit card taken from the W.C. Probst home; the theft was made while family and friends were attending the funeral of the late Mr. Probst. Friends of the Library met with assistant state librarian Bill Gooch, who at that time proposed a master librarian work with the architect while renovating the Burnett home into a library. Residents found most of the shrubs in the city had frozen and died, as result of the harsh January weather.

MARCH

Iowa Park city councilmen approved annexation of 72.38 acres along the west-bound access road of U.S. 287. Winds in excess of 60 miles per hour damaged trees and buildings in the city. A membership drive was launched for the Quail Valley Country Club, but the effort was later dropped due to lack of participation. Personal property, including 20 guns, valued at over $10,000 was taken from 1216 N. Jackson. Iowa Park youth dominated the Wichita County Junior Livestock Show's premium sale. EMTs of the fire department were credited with saving the life of a woman whose major artery was severed in a two-vehicle collision at Yosemite and Lafayette. Mr. and Mrs. Harrel Sullivan celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary. Tommy Ross, Cameron University's most outstanding offensive lineman in 1984, was named to the NAIA honorable mention All-America list. The MuleSkinners put on a free feed for 176 senior citizens. Tony Alexander, 26, was struck and killed by an oncoming automobile late in the night near Pleasant Valley Estates. After already having received a $100,000 matching grant from the state, Iowa Park's library received an additional $200,000 grant from the Ann Burnett and Charles Tandy Foundation, to be used for renovation of the Burnett home for use as the Tom L. Burnett Memorial Library. A house on East Pecan was damaged by fire, said to be the fifth arson case in as many months in the city.

APRIL

Four vehicles stolen here, each valued at about $300, were found at Lake Iowa Park, looking as if they had been used for a demolition derby. Brett Hale achieved the rank of Eagle Scout. Tim Hunter became the youngest mayor of Iowa Park in the city election, which also saw two newcomers, Don Decker and Bud Mercer, elected aldermen. In the school election, newcomer Marilyn Hale defeated Jerald Brown as trustee, and Rex Wells was re-elected. Lisa Sefcik won both the activated and triple jump at the district meet to qualify for the regional. Two long-time school administrators, John Sibley and James Ward, announced their retirement at the end of the school year. Sweepstakes were earned by IPHS A Cappella Choir, Men's Choir, Ladies' Choir and Junior High Mixed Choir. Firemen answered calls to five structure fires, three of them outside the city, in one week.

MAY

George Hammonds, incumbent who ran unsuccessfully for re-election, was appointed by the city council to fill the unexpired term of Tim Hunter, who vacated his seat after being elected mayor. Following a collision of two vehicles on the old

Wichita Falls Road, both drivers were arrested, one for DWI and the other for failure to stop and render aid and possession of marijuana. The farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Peirce northwest of town was a total loss when it caught fire while the couple was at church. Top award recipients at the annual FFA banquet were Rowdy Robertson, Tommy Riggins, Scott Davis and Bobby Whisnand. Scott Young was elected Area Four FFA president. Phillip Davis and Charles Perry qualified for the boys' regional track meet. School trustees approved a $500-above state salary for all professional personnel. In its first step toward opening Fourth Street to West Highway, the city council decided to sell a house standing in the right of way, Susan Sireich was named valedictorian and Mike Bean salutatorian of IPHS Class of '84. Two Emergency Medical Technicians of the local fire department, David King and Michael Dozier, were cited by commissioner's court for saving the life of a wreck victim. The smallest graduating class in 13 years, fewer than 100, received diplomas from IPHS. A four-year-old boy was buried a few moments under hundreds of pounds of gravel at Iowa Park Ready Mix, but extracted without any injury. Robert Palmer was hired from Electra as assistant superintendent of schools here.

JUNE

The Class of 1959 held its 25th reunion, dedicating it to the late Jerry Padgett. A major share of the local population watched a solar eclipse. Police, investigating an activated burglar alarm at Bradford Elementary, discovered an electrical short had caused a fire; damage to the building was held to a minimum, but extensive rewiring was required. Residents took cover when a warning was sounded because of an approaching tornado, there was no damage, however. School trustees heard a report on the Texas Assessment of Basic Skills tests given the previous year, indicating a marked improvement in scores. Bubba Nolen became Dr. Robert Nolen upon completion of dental school. A 20-year-old Wichita Falls man was arrested after exposing himself to several young girls. The Texas Highway Department resurfaced the old highway through the

JULY

Tom Fenley resigned as chief of police, a post he had held since February, 1983, and Bob Dean was named acting chief, later being named by the council as chief. Rev. Betty Meadows was called to pastor the First Presbyterian Church, becoming the third female to pastor an Iowa Park church. Approximately $1,700 was netted by the Volunteer Fire Department at a street dance. The Class of '84 reunion was held. Leader society editor Mrs. Homer Blalock, fell and broke her hip. Local school administrators joined others across the state in trying to prepare for the new school year after a sweeping reform bill was passed by the state legislature, yet providing little information with which to prepare. John Kibler retired from the federal weather service after 35 years with the federal government. A 19-year-old Iowa Park man was charged with rape. Graduates of 1969 held a reunion.

AUGUST

Cryovac plant manager Frank Gossett confirmed the plant will undergo a $7-million expansion, the fourth since it was built, and expand its workforce to near the 500 mark. Police stopped a pickup on a traffic violation and found it was reported stolen from Lubbock. An Iowa Park couple was jailed on charges of burglary of a vehicle and possession of controlled substance. School trustees approved a $4.8-million budget and set the tax rate at 53-cents. The 28th reunion was held by members of the Class of 1956. Iowa Park's Sesquicentennial plan to celebrate the state's 150th anniversary was sanctioned by the state committee. Construction was begun on a music building at Bradford Elementary. Bob Birdett was named national commander of the Order of the Cootie, a veterans' organization. School enrollment continued its downward trend, with 1,673 students in school the first day of the fall semester. Cindy Flanagan, a 1978 IPHS graduate, was named recipient of a Rotary International Scholarship and will study at the University of Hull in England. City aldermen were told by staff that improvements are needed at the waste water treatment plant, possibly as extensive as building a new plant.

SEPTEMBER

A 19-year-old Iowa Park man was arrested with another man in Pennsylvania after a lengthy series of crimes in that area. Iowa Parkans contributed $46,262 to the Greater Wichita Falls United Way fund, a 7.2 percent increase over the previous year, according to local chairman Bob Aulds. Effects of the school reform bill dominated the school board meeting, and golf was eliminated from the athletic program as one measure of cost cutting. Alyce Bondurant joined the O.N. Newman law firm after graduating law school and to await results of her bar examination. One of their highlights of the football season was when the Hawks spoiled Burkburnett's homecoming, 35-6; especially since IPHS was dropped to Class AAA this year. After an extremely dry summer, rain fell the last week of the month in amounts up to three inches.

OCTOBER

IPHS musician Phillip Clements was selected as one of two from Texas to the McDonald's All-American High School Band. Mike's Thriftway store was closed and negotiations were said to be underway for a "bulk transfer" sale. An agreement was reached by Cryovac with the city, to remain outside the city limits and make payments in lieu of taxes. Paula Robinson was crowned homecoming queen. The homecoming football game with Bowie, though won by the Hawks 31-0, was played under difficult circumstances because the previous evening, assistant coach Jackie Denton was killed in an accident. Parkway Furniture and True Value Store was sold by Mr. and Mrs. Harrel Sullivan to Kenneth Via and Glen Miller. Chamber officials assisted in a ribbon ceremony to observe the opening of Family Hair Styles. An Iowa Park woman was arrested and charged with forging checks paid her by an elderly employer.

Christmas season popular for weddings

Costello-Borland

The remarkable lighting effects combined with the artistic skill of decorations to produce extraordinary beauty for the Dec. 22 wedding of Miss Kimberly Sue Costello and Denny Dale Boland at First Baptist Church.

Rev. Larry Washburn, pastor of the Pacific Avenue Baptist Church, officiated the double-ring service that united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest L. Costello of Iowa Park and the son of Mrs. Fred Boland of Throckmorton.

Wedding guests entering the sanctuary of the church noticed that the stained glass windows throughout claimed special attention. A tall white metal candelabrum holding a single white candle encased in an old-fashioned globe stood in front of each window.

The lower altar was illuminated by votive candles in tall candle trees at either side and the two tall candles in the meaningful unity candlestick that burned throughout the ceremony.

The highest point of beauty in the lighting and decorations was seen in the upper altar where the couple stood with their attendants to repeat their vows. An archway covered with flowering Christmas foliage stood in front of a brass arch crowned with votive lights. On either side, white heart-shaped candelabra dressed in holiday greenery held the votive candles. Palm trees stood tall at altar extremities and for lower interest, poinsettias were placed at vantage points to blend with the Christmas decorations on the choir rail.

Pews for family members were marked with three-branched hurricane globe candelabra and other pews were topped with white silk bows.

Miss Bobby Britt secured signatures of guests at a round table in the foyer covered with a full length white satin cloth accented with rose garlands at the top. The table held a white pillar candle framed in a clear hurricane globe handpainted with roses and "Kim and Denny, 12-21-84", a wedding gift of the couple's, the book, and rose frost plume pen.

In one area of the foyer, a large white bird cage with twinkling lights and trimmed with pine, cedar and palm greenery held two large white flocked doves. Elsewhere the decorations consisted of an abundance of potted greenery and the church's Christmas scenes.

Mrs. Kenneth Via, organist, presented a medley of prelude music, including "You Light Up My Life," "Evergreen," "We've Only Just Begun," and "Savior, Like a Shepherd Lead Us," and the traditional marches. She accompanied Buddy Mercer for his solo numbers, "The Wedding Song" and the "Lord's Prayer."

The lovely bride walked gracefully down the aisle to the altar with her father who presented her in marriage for her parents. For the special day in her life, she chose an exquisite gown of white chiffon and Alencon lace over peau de soie. The high-waisted lace bodice was sprinkled with iridescent and fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, sheer bishop sleeves, and a striking window effect of netting in the back. The full simple skirt that swirled into a chapel train was unadorned except for four Alencon lace appliques on the front and a lace hemline.

MRS. DENNY DALE BOLAND

The bride's headdress was a camelot cap of lace and pearls and an illusion veil that drifted to waistlength. The loveliness of her gown was enhanced with her silk cascade bouquet of white open tea roses, stephanotis, baby's breath, strings of iridescent jewels arranged against a background of white colonial lace.

In observing the bridal tradition of wearing "something old," she chose her late grandmother's wedding ring. For "something borrowed," she wore her maid of honor's earrings. She selected her wedding gown for "something new" and added a garter for the touch of "something blue" to her attire.

As she neared the altar, she paused to present her mother with a long-stemmed rose, and as she and the groom left the altar she presented his mother with an identical rose.

A maid of honor, matron of honor, and bridesmaid made an attractive picture in their identical rose frost sheer gowns worn over taffeta. The currently fashionable style of the gowns featured off-the-shoulder necklines bordered with multiple small ruffles that dipped in the back, softly pleated sashes, and hemline ruffle that lifted in the back to form bustles. They carried colonial nosegays of sweetheart roses and baby's breath in the bride's colors of rose frost, mauve and raspberry.

The trio of bridal attendants consisted of Miss Kristi Cooley of Iowa Park, Mrs. Rusty Smith of Longview, and Miss Angela Holder of Wichita Falls.

Little Miss Trisha Pulley, the flower girl, wore a long white satin dress styled with empire waist, high collar, sheer yoke, Chantilly lace sleeves and a satin sash that tied in a bow at the back. She carried a white lace basket that contained sweetheart roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with tails and cummerbund, a white shirt and bow tie and a white rose boutonniere. Marc Ming, nephew of the bride, wore a less formal white tuxedo and carried a white satin ring pillow.

Harry Hibbitts of Oklahoma, the best man, Dale Riley of Throckmorton and Eddie Widders of Wichita Falls, the groomsmen, wore pearl gray tuxedos.

Mrs. Costello, mother of the bride, chose a rose polyester ensemble with a street length skirt and long sleeved jacket complemented with a silk blouse in a lighter shade for the wedding. Mrs. Boland, the groom's mother, wore a mauve silk polyester street-length dress designed with a high collar and long sleeves. They wore corsages of rose frost sweetheart roses and white stephanotis.

The bride was graduated from Iowa Park High School and is employed at Wal-Mart. The groom, a graduate of Throckmorton High School, is employed by Gearhart Industries. Before the couple left the church, the bride changed from her wedding gown into a dark grey suit trimmed in a lighter shade and wore matching accessories.

The groom's mother was hostess for the rehearsal dinner Thursday evening at Frontier Steak House.

The Fellowship Hall of the church, the scene of the wedding reception given by the bride's parents, was a lovely place that repeated the beauty of the sanctuary.

The bride's table covered with white satin with a skirt that fell to the floor from pleats and a garland of greenery was the conversation piece in the room. A handsome four-branched silver candelabrum in the center was placed on a long mirror sprinkled with diamond dust and arrayed splendidly with Christmas greenery and roses and lilies in the bride's colors.

The three-tiered cake at one side was a white confection, its attractiveness heightened by clusters of rose frost drop flowers in frosting designs and tiny white doves. Lifted by filigree pillars, the top tier added decorative and romantic interest in a Precious Moments ornament where a youthful bride and groom stood on a dais under an arch of flowers.

The other table appointments that completed the decor included a silver punch bowl, trays, coasters with mints, and bridal napkins imprinted with "Kim and Denny, 12-21-84."

The background for the table was a white trellis with a gate at the center opened to show a white tea cart appointed with a votive cup candelabrum and an arrangement of phalenopsis orchids, roses and baby's breath. A shelf at the base held the rose frost net rice bags in dainty baskets.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Randell Yarbrough, Miss Connie Stiles and Miss Kristi Lemmon.

Mrs. Steve Fairchild and Miss Gina Duncan presided at the groom's table covered to the floor with candlelight satin. On the table were a unique shell filled with a floral arrangement, a chocolate sheet cake decorated with clusters of flowers to match those on the bride's cake, two carved hearts, one bearing the names of the bride and groom and the other their wedding date, and two white doves, and the silver coffee service.

Among the out-of-town guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Kenneth Don Boland of Borger, C.N. Boland of Abilene, and Tony Boland of Throckmorton.

Miss Darla Denise Flick and Benjamin Ray English pledged their marriage vows in a formal ceremony performed Dec. 29 at the St. Paul Lutheran Church in Wichita Falls. The date of the wedding was especially significant in that it marked the 28th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Flick. The groom is the son of Sanda English Mitchell.

Rev. Thomas Handrick officiated the double-ring ceremony before an altar decorated with an arrangement of red and white carnations flanked by tall white candles. The unity candlestick, a significant part of the altar decor, and candles aflame in black wrought-iron pyramid candelabra in each of the stained glass windows enhanced the solemnity of the occasion.

The wedding decorations coordinated with the Christmas decorations in the sanctuary, a tree trimmed with chrismsons and the choir rail draped with greenery and red bows, to produce pleasing balance and unity. Family pews were marked by three-branched white candelabra tied with red satin bows, and other church pews were designated with white bows.

The candles for the service were lighted by Miss Kianna Rathgeber and Miss Kristi Rathgeber.

Leland Frese, organist, played a prelude of Christmas music including "Angels We Have Heard on High," and "Still, Still, Still." For the entrance of the bridal attendants, he played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach and changed to "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" by Purcell to signal the entrance of the bride. During the ceremony, Kent Roberts sang the first stanza of "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty," then the congregation joined in singing the last two stanzas.

During the time the bride and groom were lighting the unity candle, Mrs. Jim Meisel of Lawton, Okla., sister of the bride, and Roberts sang "Love Divine, All Love Excelling," and for the benediction solo, she sang the "Lord's Prayer." For the recessional, the organist played

When the bride's father escorted her to the altar and presented her in marriage for her parents, she was wearing a luxurious white gown of Chantilly lace over peau de soie. A look of romantic appeal was created in the design of the gown that featured a natural waist bodice accented with a sweetheart neckline, a yoke showered with seed pearls and sequins, and long sleeves. The three-tiered skirt that extended into a chapel train lent itself beautifully to the bodice.

The bride's three-tiered illusion veil of waistlength was attached to a wreath of lilies of the valley and pearls. She carried a teardrop bouquet of fresh white carnations, baby's breath and Hahn's ivy accented with scattered red feathered carnations.

The bride chose to wear the wedding band of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Roy Kaiser of English, Ind. for "something old" tradition. Sentiment was attached to her "something borrowed" and "something blue" choice which was the garter that her mother wore for her wedding, and she completed the rhyme with her "something new" gown.

Miss Emily Flick, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a stylish formal gown of red satin designed with a scoop neck, waistline that dipped in front, and leg-of-mutton sleeves that tapered to points at the wrists. She carried a crystal bell with cascading red and white carnations, a gift from the bride as a remembrance of the wedding.

The bridesmaids wearing identical red satin gowns and carrying identical bells were Mrs. Joe Raines, Mrs. Jim Meisel of Lawton, Okla., sister of the bride, and Miss Susie Cameron.

The diminutive flower girl was Ginger Hodges. She wore a white lace and organza party dress patterned with a ruffled skirt and red satin sash. She carried red and white carnations in a white lace basket.

The ring bearer, Brent Richter of Chickasha, Okla., carried a heart-shaped, lace-covered satin pillow.

The groom, the male participants and ring bearer wore black tuxedos with white pleated shirts with wing tip collars, red satin cummerbunds and bow ties.

Stanley Watson attended the groom as his best man, and the groomsmen were Billy Wachsmann, Todd Duncan and James Dunsmore. Guests were ushered and seated by Greg English, Richard English, brothers of the groom, Rowdy Robertson and Joel Raines.

The mothers of the bridal couple complemented their dresses with corsages consisting of three red carnations and seed pearl hearts.

Mrs. Flick wore a tea length silver grey lace dress with a matching jacket designed with a cascade of ribbon ruffles and pearls down the front, mandarin collar, long sleeves, and a satin bow and grey silk rosebud tie at the waistline. The skirt terminated in scalloped satin ribbon ruffles.

Mrs. Mitchell's dress was fashioned with a cream-colored long sleeved top of lace over a matching underlay tied at the waist with satin ribbon. The camel-colored skirt was edged with scalloped lace.

The postnuptial reception was given by the bride's parents in the Fellowship Hall of the church, a room that was a picture of red and white beauty in keeping with the bride's colors.

The cloths on the serving tables featured white lace over red satin and white satin skirts that fell to the floor from swags of red and white ribbon caught to lilies of the valley.

The bride's colors brought to her table a rare charm. For the centerpiece, red candles were arranged in a five-branched silver candelabrum to match the silver services on the table and the bridal attendants' bells were laid at its base.

The punch bowl and cake at opposite sides of the table were placed in clusters of red ribbon and white lilies of the valley. The four-tiered white cake on a pedestal stand featured designs of cascading frosting red roses and teardrop bordering, and a kissing youthful bride and groom for the top ornament.

The groom's table was highlighted with a chocolate cake decorated with cotton and wheat depicting his occupation.

During the reception, refreshments were served at the bride's table by Mrs. Joe Tom Collins, Mrs. Jerry Pruett, Mrs. Dwight Howell and Miss Dee Lynne Miller, and at the groom's table by Miss Barbara Kern and Miss Lara Kern of Dallas, cousins of the groom.

In lieu of rice or bird seed bags, a table in the room held miniature wheat bags, the grain grown by the bride's father, and satin book marks, mementos for the wedding guests.

Miss Cindy Marten presided at the registry table in the church foyer. Covered with white, it was appointed with the couple's wedding invitation framed in needlepoint, a vase holding a red carnation, and a red plume pen.

The bride and groom were both graduated from Iowa Park High School. She was a cheerleader for two years, member of the National Honor Society, and a seven-year member of the band. She is a junior student at Midwestern State Univ. He was vice-president of FFA, Student Council representative and class favorite. He is employed by Marten and Flick Conservation Contractors and Farms.

Following a trip to Dallas, the newlyweds are at home in Iowa Park. For travel, the bride wore an ensemble featuring a red corduroy skirt and bolero jacket, white blouse, and a corsage of red carnations and seed pearls.

The groom's mother was hostess for the dinner held Friday evening at the church in connection with the wedding rehearsal.

Special wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Kaiser of English, Ind., grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. E.V. Wilcox of Vernon, grandparents of the groom. Others from out-of-town were Mr. and Mrs. Billy Kern of Dallas, Mrs. Mary McLain and Douglas, English Ind., and Mrs. Dwight Howell, Barbara and Laura of Longview; Ernie Braband and Julie of Hempstead.

Adams-Marlar

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Wayne Marlar, who were married Dec. 22 at the First United Methodist Church in Wichita Falls, are now at home in that city following a wedding trip to Dallas.

The bride is the former Miss Carol Ann Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Adams of Henrietta, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Marlar of Iowa Park. Dr. Philip McLarty, associate pastor of the church, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The altar decorations, keyed by beautiful simplicity, featured a votive candle tree, and red and white Christmas poinsettias and greenery. White silk bows on the church pews were accented with lilies of the valley and net with long streamers that ended in bows gathered to net.

Casey Cantwell, organist, presented the prelude music and played the traditional wedding marches. Mrs. Rick Carlton, pianist, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Brian Marlar for their duet renditions of "The Wedding Song," "Ruth" and "Charity."

The bride walked the aisle to the altar with her father who presented her in marriage for her parents. She was radiant in a formal gown of white satin overlaid with Chantilly lace that she chose for her wedding. In design, the gown featured a sheery yoke sprinkled with seed pearls and bordered with a wide ruffle, bishop sleeves and a flattering skirt fashioned with ruffled tiers draped and caught with lace flowers that flowed into a chapel train.

She wore a camelot cap of lace and pearls that held her two-tiered bridal illusion waistlength veil bordered with lace and adorned with appliques roses and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of fresh pink and burgundy carnations and white stephanotis arranged against a background of Christmas greenery.

The bride wore her mother's pearls for "something old" and "something borrowed"; the traditional garter for "something blue"; her wedding gown for "something new"; and a penny dated the year of her birth in her shoe for good luck.

Mrs. David Strickland of The Colony had the honor of serving as matron of honor for her sister. She was attired in a formal pink crepe dress designed with a high collar, graceful lace yoke, bishop sleeves, and full skirt gathered to a natural waistline. She carried a clear hurricane globe on a brass base with pink streamers that held a burgundy candle encircled with burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Miss Tammy Stone of Wichita Falls and Miss Lisa Harris of Houston, the bridesmaids wore burgundy crepe gowns styled like the matron of honor's gown, and they carried pink candles in their globes decorated in the same style as the one carried by Mrs. Strickland.

Crystal Adams of Geronimo, Okla. and Melissa Adams of Burkburnett, cousins of the bride, the flower girls, wore pink dresses duplicating those worn by the bridesmaids.

Miss Casey Aday of Dallas, cousin of the bride, a train bearer, was dressed like the matron of honor, and Jason Aday of Byers, also a cousin of the bride, another train bearer, wore a pearl grey suit.

Joshua Marlar of Snyder, nephew of the groom, was the ring bearer and was attired in a pearl grey suit with white shirt and burgundy bow tie.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with tails and vest, white shirt and ascot tie. The men that took part in the wedding wore pearl grey tuxedos with vests and ascot ties.

The groom's attendants were Terry Kubena of Snyder, the best man, Charles Lee of Iowa Park and David Strickland of The Colony, the groomsmen. Ushers were Bill Thomas and Ernest Imhoff of Wichita Falls, and Steve Adams of Henrietta.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue Qiana shift-style dress designed with round neck, full butterfly sleeves and set apart with a V-shape of chiffon that extended from the neckline in front and back to the hemline of the dress. The groom's mother wore a dusty rose sheer dress that featured a ruffled V neckline, bishop sleeves and fitted waistline. Their corsages were attractive miniatures of the bride's bouquet.

The bride and groom were honored at a beautifully-appointed postnuptial reception given by her parents in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The bride's table was covered with white linen overlaid with white lace accented with garlands caught by burgundy bows, pink roses and baby's breath. Her bouquet complemented the three-branched silver candelabrum holding burgundy candles at the center of the table. Other appointments were a silver urn for the hot punch, a white cake, pink and burgundy napkins lettered with names of the bride and groom and their wedding date, and mints in the chosen colors.

The cake, a four-tiered confection, was sumptuous in its structure and decorations and made distinct with two sets of Grecian pillars, lattice heart scrolls, and cascades of burgundy and pink flowers. The top tier was richly adorned with three tiered satin bells trimmed with lace, pink and burgundy silk flowers.

Serving at the bride's table were Mmes. Jerry Wright, Bill Schutz, Larry Compton and Foster Watkins.

The groom's table was covered with a white linen cloth with a burgundy taffeta skirt and topped with white lace draped with pink bows.

The centerpiece, an arrangement of pink and burgundy flowers and pink candles in a footed crystal bowl, was

Hicks-Ross

Honeymooning on a ski trip to Durango, Colo. this week are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howard Ross, who were married Saturday afternoon at the First Baptist Church. Rev. Howell Farnsworth, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Floydada, officiated the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the former Dana Denise Hicks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray O. Hicks, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory L. Ross.

The bride entered the sanctuary with her father to the organ strains of Wagner's Lohengrin. He walked the aisle to the altar with her where he presented her in marriage for her parents.

The bride's natural beauty was enhanced by her exquisite wedding gown of white satin, Alencon lace and sheer, carefully selected for the special day in her life. The bodice, gently fashioned of reembroided Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls featured a Queen Anne neckline, sheer see-through bishop sleeves, their delicate beauty enhanced with lace insets on the sleeves underneath.

The full skirt was bordered in lace and drifted into a chapel train to complete the distinctive look of the gown. Her two-tiered bridal illusion veil bordered in lace fell softly to waistlength from a camelot cap of lace and pearls. Completing the lovely picture, the bride carried a bouquet of fresh phalenopsis orchids, stephanotis, sonia roses, sprengeri and ming fern in cascade style.

MRS. THOMAS HOWARD ROSS

She observed bridal traditions by carrying her late paternal great-grandmother's handkerchief for "something old." She wore her mother's pearl earrings for "something borrowed"; her wedding gown for something new"; and a garter for "something blue."

The altar decorations for the wedding reflected extremely good taste, beauty and ingenuity, the last being expressed in four Southern-Mansion type columns heavily draped with fresh Boston fern and based with fresh white mums, spathiphyllum, ivy and diffenbachun greenery. In addition to the columns, the upper altar was centered with a large arch candelabra flanked by spiral candelabra, each entwined with English ivy and uplifting tall white candles that provided a distinctive atmosphere of illumination.

On either side of the lower altar, the piano and organ walls were covered and draped with peach rubrum lilies and gerbera daisies. An impressive part of the decorations in this area was the candlestick that held the unity candle for the bride and groom to light as a symbol of their union.

The organ music for the wedding was provided by Eric Birk. He played "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" and "Adagio" for prelude numbers, then followed with "Prelude in Classic Style" for the wedding attendants to take their places in the nuptial space. Continuing, he played the traditional processional for the bride to walk the aisle to the altar. At the close of the service, he accompanied Mrs. Vance Nault and Buddy Mercer for a duet number, the "Lord's Prayer," then concluded his offerings with the traditional recessional.

Mrs. Jerry Gholson, pianist furnished accompaniment for two duet numbers by the vocalists, "To Me" and "Nobody Loves You Like I Do," and for a solo, "Time for Joy." The bride was preceded to the altar by Mrs. Steve Moody of Electra, the matron of honor, and two bridesmaids, Miss Wendy Hicks and Miss Misty Hicks, her sisters.

For her attendants, she chose identical formal hunter green taffeta gowns of intermezzo length. Their raised bodices were designed with sweetheart necklines and circle flounces over the drop shoulders that extended in the back to the waistlines. The A-line skirts were accented with fashionable side drapes. They wore combs of baby's breath in their hair and carried free form-style bouquets of peach rubrum lilies, gerbera daisies, baby's breath, stephanotis and sprengeri.

The groom wore a white tailed tuxedo with matching vest, shirt and bow tie and a complimentary boutonniere. His attendants, ushers and fathers wore black tuxedos, white shirts and black bow ties.

Mike Hays of Fort Worth was the best man. The groomsmen were David Broughton of Garland and Johnny Romero of Lawton, Okla. The ushers were David Ross, brother of the groom, and Steve Moody of Electra.

Mrs. Hicks, the bride's mother, wore a cream-colored two-piece linen suit with a teal blue blouse, and Mrs. Ross, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink rose polyester dress with a pleated bodice and sleeves, belted at the waistline. They wore corsages formed of white phalenopsis orchids.

The Fellowship Hall of the church was the scene of the reception hosted by the bride's parents immediately following the wedding. Each table in the setting was draped with white lace over white satin or linen.

The rich and beautifully executed decorations for the reception were given dignified accent at the bride's table with its lace overlay featuring garlands of English ivy caught up with peach silk bows.

The flowery ornamentation on the four-branched silver candelabra upholding peach candles in the center of the table was provided with an arrangement of peach gerbera daisies, roses, and baby's breath.

The three-tiered white cake was an ornate confection decorated with clusters of peach frosting roses and sprays of lilies of the valley. The top tier held aloft by filigree dividers was adorned with three white satin bells bordered with peach lace and filled with silk flowers in the same shade, the bells tiered up on a heart-accented dais. Other bits of table interest included the crystal punch service, crystal trays filled with peach-colored mints and nuts, and the peach napkins marked with the names of the bride and groom and their wedding date in gold.

Mmes. Dennis Dillard, Russell Guyette and Mark Patterson presided at the cake and punch services.

The interesting decor of the groom's table was highlighted with a chocolate cake decorated with a simulated blue lake, miniature hunter with his gun, and aquatic birds seeking cover from the hunter under bushes around the lake. A ceramic mallard duck holding a silk arrangement of marigolds, eucalyptus, cattails and baby's breath, and the silver coffee service added further bits of interest to the table where Mrs. David Ross and Mrs. Vance Nault served.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the Hilton Inn.

Special wedding guests were Mr. and Mrs. Odis R. Hicks of Indianoma, Okla. and Mr. and Mrs. S.B. Geisert of Wichita Falls, grandparents of the bride.

The bride and groom were graduated from Iowa Park High School. She was a seven-year member of the band and was band queen in 1982. She was also a two-year member of A Cappella Choir. She was very active in FFA and received many local and district honors. These included Area IV vice president two years and district reporter one year. She served as vice president, reporter, and advisor of the local FFA. She was Greenhand president and received the Greenhand award.

Other awards were: outstanding ag student, outstanding horticulture student, and pre-lab horticulture award. She also exhibited the grand champion barrow at the Wichita County Livestock Show one year. She is employed by Parker Square Bank.

The groom was All-District in football two years, All-District in track one year. He also won the Ball Hawker award. He received a B.S. degree in business administration from Cameron Univ. where he made the Dean's Honor Roll three semesters, he was NAIA All-American and tried out as a free agent with the Denver Broncos. He is employed by G.H. Bear Industries.

Turber-Christmas

Sandra Kaye Thurber and Joel Lynn Christmas were united in marriage Dec. 15 in the home of her brother, and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Brad Wynn.

The father of the groom, Bob Christmas, pastor of Jefferson St. Baptist Church of Wichita Falls performed the ceremony.

The mother of the bride is Mrs. Lila Wynn of Iowa Park. The parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Bob Christmas of Wichita Falls.

A reception followed the ceremony. The bride is employed at Texas Recreation and the groom by Burcamp Steel in Wichita Falls. The couple will reside in Iowa Park.

one of the couple's wedding gifts. The table also held a double-ring chocolate cake with pink and burgundy trim, silver coffee service and compotes filled with nuts. The refreshments were served by Mmes. Charles Lee, Terry Kubena, Ron DeJesso and Steve Slinn.

The houseparty members were Mmes. Charles Rogers, John Ruddy and Andy Frerich.

Securing signatures of wedding guests were Mrs. Wesley Pickens. She sat at a white linen and lace-covered table where decorative interest centered around a bridal doll from the bride's doll collection, and a candle imbedded with the couple's wedding invitation.

The groom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Frontier Steak House.

The bride was graduated from Henrietta High School and from the Univ. of Texas with a B.S. degree in elementary education. At the university, she was a College Scholar, a member of the University Council on Teacher Certification, president of Pi Lambda Delta and secretary of the Dean's Council on Education. She is employed by the Wichita Falls Independent School District.

The groom was graduated from Lefors High School. He attended Texas Tech and received an AAS degree in petroleum from Western Texas College where he was on the Dean's List, a Student Senator and a member of Phi Theta Kappa.

Letters to the Editor

The December 26 issue of the Wichita Falls Times had a headline "Wichitans share gifts with needs." The Leader could change Wichitan to Iowa Parkian and tell a similar story. With the help of many, the Iowa Park Ministerial Alliance was able to deliver food, toys and Christmas trees to twenty-five families at Christmas. Volunteers from seven churches met Friday, December 21 to box and deliver food donated by citizens of Iowa Park which was collected and brought to the Alliance by Mary Loving's Girl Scout Troop and the Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Dept. 52 children received Christmas stockings, half of them made by the youth of the Presbyterian Church, and youth of other churches collected and wrapped toys, and others donated toys through the TV Cable office. Hams were purchased with money donated by the Rotary and Noon Lions. The Optimist Club furnished Christmas trees. Truly, this was a city-wide project.

Recognition and thanks should go to the citizens, service clubs, churches and volunteers. A special thanks is due the members of the Ministerial Alliance; Ken Cole, Patrick Burke, Jack Meyers, Betty Meadows, Dale Walling, Ole Olds, Rusty Stowe and Charles Hensley, not only for sponsoring the Christmas project, but for the many other programs they support through the year. Except for the Alliance, there would be no Food Pantry in Iowa Park nor would there be USDA Commodity Distribution. Our community, to be eligible for commodities, needed an organization to sign a contract with the Wichita Area Food Bank agreeing to support the Food Bank and abide by their rules and regulations. Prior to September 1983 when the ministers accepted this responsibility, eligible families had to journey to Wichita falls to get their commodities. Over 200 families are now saved that trip. The pastors also share in leading the Bible study at the Friendly Door and in conducting worship services at the nursing home. Iowa Park is indeed "The Town of Friendly Living." Its citizens make it that way.

Sincerely,
Name Withheld by Request

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

What will 1985 bring? Have you given any thought to what you'd like to see happen during this new year, other than your personal income to increase more than your costs?

Here's a few hopes my typewriter would like to report:

REBUILD AND REVITALIZE THE LOCAL BUSINESS DISTRICT.

At the suggestion of Mayor Tim Hunter, a meeting is already being planned on this subject. When called, community leaders will be asked for their ideas about what is needed, how the ideas can be carried out, and also possibly how it can be funded.

Political and business leaders of the community have become alarmed and aware of the deterioration of the downtown business area, especially with the loss of Discount Foods and Bee Hive to fire. We now have five glaring massive vacant lots in the area, all caused by fires. And then there are the vacant business buildings all over town that could, and should, be filled.

The only way I can see for investors to build on our vacant lost is to see the necessary demand for more businesses to open here. And there's only one way that can happen. We've got to hold more business in our community, spending less in Wichita Falls.

COMPLETE THE LIBRARY PROJECT.

Everyone in the community, those who have volunteered their time to be responsible for the library as well as the citizens who want to use it, is ready for the Tom Burnett Memorial Library to be completed and occupied.

After all, it's been two years since the house was donated to the community!

HOLD DOWN STATE SPENDING.

Right on the heels of the most expensive tax increase in the history of Texas, the state legislature begins meeting this month, and all indications are that more tax money of some sort is needed to meet the demands of government.

It's anybody's guess where this money will come from. But you can be assured, you and I will be paying it in one form or another.

IMPROVE MARKET FOR OIL.

Since the bottom fell out of the oil market a little over a year ago, the economy in this part of the country has fallen.

There's little any of us can do to improve the market, because foreign production is the key. But I can assure you, regardless of all the industries and businesses we bring into the area, our area's economy is still based on petroleum.

LET 'BIG BROTHER' TAKE CARE OF HIS OWN.

By this, I mean your local newspaper, Electra's and Burkburnett's would like for the Wichita Falls newspaper to take care of that city's advertising and leave our markets alone.

We, the publishers, feel the county seat paper has enough business to satisfy its hunger for advertising dollar, without sending its agents into our communities to cut our revenues.

Each of us feel we have our community's best interests at heart, that we live and die with the business we have. If we invaded the Wichita Falls market, in competition with the Times and Record News, more commonly referred to by us as "Brand X," we could see their attempt to move into our markets. But that is not the case.

When we have more business than we can handle, then we'll be glad to invite the multi-million-dollar newspaper into our communities. But until then, we'd like them to stay at home, and hopefully improve their own product.

council entered into an agreement with owners of a downtown building, some 10 months after it was gutted by fire, to have it cleaned and cleared. David Kirk was named recipient of the Pressler Scholarship at Midwestern State Univ. B&R Thriftway opened with Gary Manes as manager. Sixty-six percent of all eligible voters in precincts 32 and 33 cast ballots in the general election, with the greatest number supporting Republican candidates such as President Reagan, Phil Gramm and unseating Rep. Jack Hightower with Beau Boulter. A 26-year-old local man was arrested for burglarizing an apartment. The Hawks were disappointed with their 7-2-1 season record, missing the playoffs because of two district losses, but somewhat appeased by the 0-0 tie with Vernon's Lions, who advanced to the state semifinals. School trustees officially changed trustee election procedure from at-large to voting by place. More than $1,000 worth of tires were ruined on Van Horn and Foley streets by tire slashers. Chamber of Commerce members elected Dr. Erwin Soell president, H.M. Nipper first vice president and Rip Smith second vice president. Stanley Watson received the FFA's American Farmer Degree. Iowa Park schools received a glowing "A-plus" report following a two and a half day accreditation study by Texas Education Agency monitors.

School trustees heard recommendations to repair and improve Hawk Stadium and track that could cost $200,000. Verna's Apparel, whose entire stock was ruined by the Discount Food and Bee Hive fire's smoke, reopened with new merchandise in Park West Shopping Center. City aldermen approved a project to "loop" the water lines in the south part of town to improve pressure and service in that area. Girls' basketball coach Ray Sefcik suffered a heart attack that hospitalized him some two weeks. Thirteen Hawks were named to All-District honors, seven first team and six second team. Minor flooding was reported the last day of the year, due to heavy rains onto already saturated soil.

Old Community House needs lots of repair

As the new year is ushered in, so are the hopes of the Wichita Valley Farms community residents that their own Wichita Valley Education Center, known to most as the "Community House," might receive a long overdue restoration.

virtually nonexistent maintenance fund, the center is in dire need of repair.

The renovation of the Education Center will cost an estimated $346,080, and will begin as soon as possible, according to Tim Hunter. The steering committee for the project is awaiting a tax-exempt status before a fundraising effort is begun.

It is planned to restore the house to its original state, both inside and out. Included in the cost of the renovation are new metal siding and insulation, a handicapped ramp, fencing, central heating and air conditioning unit, complete new plumbing, replace the electrical system, and remodeling of the existing restrooms and kitchen, to name a few.

The Education Center was built approximately in 1936 during the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration, and was sold to 90 Wichita Valley Farms families in 1945 for the sum of $500. It was to be maintained solely for "recreational, educational, charitable, benevolent, and other community purposes, in conformation with the laws of the State of Texas," according to the deed.

Also in the deed it states, "The grantee . . . shall maintain and keep in good repair the said buildings and other improvements. . . ."

The renovation of the center will allow it to be used to a greater capacity, thus generating enough funds for maintenance of the building and property.

Through the years, the Center has seen it's share of activities. When first purchased, the Center was used primarily for courses in nursing, singing and music, mattress-making, quilting, sewing and weaving.

It is reported that a good many farm wives got their homemaking education at the Center. It has also been used as a meeting place for farm groups, Boy and Girl Scouts, a dance hall, a bingo parlor, and is frequently rented out for private parties. It is also a reunion hall for Wichita Valley Farms residents.

Anyone wishing to help with the project or give a donation may contact Hunter, Marsha Borman, Don Daugherty, or David Parkey. Also, anyone having any history or pictures of the education center should contact Marilyn Reaves.

Hawkettes swamp WFHS; open district Friday

Coach Earnie Reusch figures the sugar plums were still dancing in the heads of his Hawk basketball team Friday night, when they went to Burk Burnett and was blown out of the gym, 39-69.

Unable to explain why the score was so lopsided, especially when the Hawks had beaten the Bulldogs earlier, Reusch said the players "... just didn't have their heads in the game."

The two teams stayed close through the first quarter, with the hosts holding a scant 9-8 margin. And the game wasn't out of hand at the half or even through the third period, with the 'Dogs leading 24-17 and 42-31, respectively.

But the fourth quarter spelled doom for Iowa Park, as Burk outscored the Hawks 21-8.

The Hawks were so cold, they missed the front end of six consecutive one-and-one opportunities at the foul line, and thus dropped their season record to 8-4.

Stephen Biddy was the only green-suited player to finish in double figures, with 10.

Burk also won the junior varsity game, 56-46.

FOR WAL-MART

Violating Blue Law not a regular policy

A local chain store stayed open Dec. 23 in defiance of the Texas Blue Law, but it won't be a regular practice unless the law is repealed.

Chris Hanson, manager of Wal-Mart, confirmed he opened the store to business the Sunday before Christmas. "Because the competition (other chain stores) in Wichita Falls did."

He said he made the decision the previous Friday, after learning the intent of the Wichita Falls stores and conferring with his district manager.

Reaction to the store's five-hour sales day was one lone complaint. Hanson said he had a telephone call from one of the local preachers who said he was disappointed with the store's decision to violate the Blue Law.

Business-wise, the store did about $14,000 in sales. That was considered "acceptable for the payroll me met," he said, pointing out the "small crew" of employees were paid time and a half for working on a Sunday.

"I'm not sure in my own mind that being open on Sunday took away from Monday's sales," he said.

Wal-Mart is not participating with other chain stores operating in the state to repeal the Blue Law, Hanson stated.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank everyone who helped and were concerned when the accident occurred at the post office on December 20th, especially the members of the E.M.T's, the Postmaster, the Iowa Park Fire Fighters and Police. We are ever grateful.

Schools open despite weather

Classes were begun at the regular time yesterday morning, when students returned from the extended Christmas holidays, despite some slipping and sliding on the snow-covered streets.

Supt. Harold Cowley told the Leader he had received a few calls from parents who wanted to know if school would be held. The calls began soon after the snow began falling.

He said parents can listen to any of the Wichita Falls radio or television stations in the mornings, when there might be some change in school opening because of weather, and learn if classes will be delayed or cancelled.

"Robert Palmer and I leave our homes at 4 every morning, when we have bad weather, and drive out each of the bus routes," Cowley said. "We know by 5 if buses won't run, and let the radio and television stations know by telephone."

He said he does not call the stations if classes will be held, only if they are not to be held.

PLAY TONIGHT

The Burk game was the first of six consecutive road trips for the Hawks, who travel tonight to Graham, tomorrow night to Wichita Falls High, and Tuesday to Rider, before opening district play Jan. 11 at Decatur.

Tomorrow's trip to Graham will be a triple header, with the freshman boys starting at 5 p.m., and the JV following.

'Dogs humiliate Hawks gave an indication that the local gym was not going to be hospitable to the visitors.

The senior center's first attempt at the basket didn't fall through the net. She took the rebound and shot again. ... and repeated process until she sank the fourth attempt.

Needless to say, Holloway led all scoring with 14 points, and the Hawkettes won their final pre-district game, 60-28.

Iowa Park outscored WFHS in each quarter, 23-4, 10-4, 12-5 and 15-25.

Sherri Schweiss also scored double digits, 11.

The Hawkette JV won their game, 49-39, but the freshmen failed in a come-from-behind effort, losing 37-40.

That Frosh game would have been something, had Iowa Park won, after trailing 1-19 at the end of the first quarter.

OPEN DISTRICT PLAY

The Hawkettes open district play tomorrow night, when they host Bowie at 6 p.m. They will play here again Tuesday, when Bridgeport comes to town, before having to hit the road Jan. 11 to Decatur.

Iowa Park enters district play with a healthy 11-2 record.

Information about your changing telephone service from Dan Adams, Manager-Community Relations

Expense cutting saves millions

If you're like me, you've probably been hearing a lot lately about expense and budget cutting on the national and state levels. Southwestern Bell Telephone is also cutting expenses. These cuts saved the company millions in 1984.

Just like on the national and state levels, we know financial health begins by holding down expenses. We're doing that by ensuring every dollar we do spend provides maximum benefit.

The buck stops here

- Here's how we're tightening our belt in Texas:
- reducing our work force — by not hiring behind retirements and other losses. On an annual basis this is saving us more than $50 million.
- mechanizing jobs and procedures — where there are potential savings and efficiencies.
- holding the line on overtime — we've cut these expenses by 33 percent since 1983 for a savings in Texas of $25 million.
- renegotiating contracts — with outside office equipment suppliers. Compared to previous contracts, we're spending $5 million a year less on office supplies and machinery.
- reducing customer telephone-line reports — our statewide effort is paying off. Total trouble reports are down 88,000 a month compared to last year. Savings in report processing costs exceed $45 million a year.

On top of all these measures and others, we'll take up the spending belt a few more notches in the coming months. Our major operating departments in Texas have already committed to doing their jobs in 1985 with a zero budget increase.

That means they'll have to absorb the traditional expenses — inflation and growth.

Additional mileage from the network

Beyond expense measures, we recognize there's also an important revenue side of running a well-managed, self-sufficient business.

We're continuing to look for new sources of revenue outside of the "rate arena." And we're also constantly seeking opportunities to get additional mileage from the telephone network investment already in place.

It takes months, and sometimes years, to bring a new service on line, successfully market it, and then realize a revenue stream. But we're working on developing these new services. In fact, we have a number of them in the works which should produce new revenue in Texas in the near future.

Providing you with quality service

So, as you can see, there's plenty going on in Texas to improve our business from within. These internal efforts have helped us provide you with more efficient and responsive telephone service than ever before.

Southwestern Bell Telephone — meeting your telecommunications needs today and tomorrow. We're at your service.

Do you know a Southwestern Bell Telephone employee who should be honored for performance above and beyond the call of duty? If so, Southwestern Bell Telephone is accepting nominations for the Rider Service Award. If you'd like to nominate someone, please write us for a nomination form (deadline for all forms is February 15): Rider Award Nomination Forms, Southwestern Bell Telephone, 308 S. Akard, Room 1409, Dallas, Texas 75202.

Tanner goes into business by buying Speede's Grocery and Deli and holds ribbon cutting ceremonies for her Tanners Kountry Store and Deli.

OCTOBER: The city receives a Community Development Block Grant approval for $169,000 to improve the water system. City administrator Jim Hannigan commended for his work on the project by the city council. Health clinic hours reported

The Texas Department of Health will conduct an Immunization Clinic at the Church of Christ Annex Building in Holiday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon Tuesday.

Immunizations against DPT, polio, measles, mumps, and rubella will be offered, according to public health nurse Zandra Underwood. She also asks that all persons utilizing this service bring their immunization records with them at this time.

The Year of 1984 was for the most part good for the City of Holiday, as nine new businesses opened its doors, and city sales tax rebates signaled optimism for the present, as a very stable financial position among all businesses in Holiday.

Another first was the approval of a Community Development Block Grant for $169,000 to improve the city's water system, proving indeed that even a small town such as Holiday can benefit from a paid professional city administration.

JANUARY: Seniors Mike Muse and Don Hopgood lead a list of several Holiday players to be named to the District 11 AAA All-District team, which also included Jim Rogers, Shannon West, Jay Burks, Gary Samore and Jeff Wise. City council approves preliminary plat for annexation of 23 acres to be known as the Garland Ray Addition. Freezing temperatures for an extended period cause major breaks in the water lines in Holiday, making the holiday season less than enjoyable for city workers. School superintendent Dan Owen received a three-year extension on his contract after serving his first year as head of Holiday schools. Holiday PTA initiates a program to fingerprint children enrolled in the local schools, along with APEE, Association of Texas Professional extensions and contracts for the school's faculty. Senior trackster Pat Capps begins his fifth season with a double win in the Berger Relays at Henrietta, placing first in the 400-meter dash and in the high jump. The Holiday Art Association presents its first annual West-Of-Wichita Arts and Crafts Show at the high school cafeteria. Teresa Noll wins first place at the Midwestern State University Science Fair. Pat Capps keeps his winning streak alive with a high jump with a first place finish in the Tiger Relays at Electric.

APRIL: Settling a two-year-long dispute between the city council from Holiday and Wichita Falls, the Holiday City Council approves a new water contract with the other town's officials. The local APEE Association of Texas Professional Educators receives an award as the Local Unit of the Year in Texas. Former alderman Mike Parker is elected as Holiday's new mayor in the April elections. Elizabeth Garman receives the nod for another term as city councilwoman and Leon Addison is defeated by J.E. Franklin for the other contested alderman spot. In the school elections, Mike Brown and incumbent Alice Carver head in their respective school board candidacies. Five IHHS students advance to regional literary competition sponsored by Leslie Manning over three years.

Terri Davis, Deborah Battles, Laurie Manning and Tommy Berens. William Oliver becomes what will be the first of three to accept and later resign a child's office in Holiday. Pat Capps and Chris Oliver earn a spot at the regional track meet in Bonenburg. Bobby Fitzsky captures the "All-Around Cowboy" title at the three-annual Holiday High School Rodeo.

MAY: Holiday High School senior Roberta Shawnee is crowned as Queen of District 11. Lions Club in a district convention held in Wichita Falls. Patricia Parker is elected to the regional competition title after winning the district tournament. Rep. Charles Finell overviews a cross town rival. Dunn Chasey for another term in Austin. City officials enter into what will improve to be a very rewarding partnership with Governmental Services Agency of Dallas, as Holiday seeks to apply and receive a Community Development Block Grant. Pat Capps wins a regional, earning his third trip to the state track meet in Austin. Three Capps places third, his highest finish. Very few seniors are graduated from IHHS in everones May 25.

JUNE: Three businesses observe grand opening ceremonies, including Jackie's Kountry Kitchen, Road 4 Gift Shop, and 5 Stores (Flour Yard). Holiday Volunteer Fire Department continues work on its new fire station with help from local donors. Holiday Chamber of Commerce holds its second annual JuneFest celebration, and the third-annual Holiday-Garland Reunion is held. Eagle runner Larry Krot earns all-district honors in baseball.

JULY: The education reform bill passed in the last week of January by the Texas Legislature receives widespread criticism, including a label of "assault" from superintendent Dan Owen. Rep. Finell remained opposed to the bill despite heavy lobbying, but Senator Ray Farabee approved. Prince O'Brien Oliver is cited for meritorious action at the city council's bi-monthly meeting after preventing a potentially hazardous situation during the JuneFest street dance, when a high speed chase through Holiday threatens the celebrating crowd.

AUGUST: Eagle football players begin two-day workouts in preparation for the 1984 gridiron season. City council approves the fiscal budget for 1985 and sets the tax rate at almost eight cents less than the previous year's rate. Eagle Band members also begin practice early in preparation for marching season. Holiday school trustees learn after several budget sessions that the tax rate will be raised approximately 20 percent to generate around $975,000 in order to run the schools under implementation of the new school reform bill. Local opposition is raised when the public learns of the possibility of a rationative waste disposal site located in Archer County. Enrollment figures at Holiday Schools shows an increase over the 1983-84 year. In the local city council meeting of the month, Mayor Mike Parker indicates he will resign from the post after receiving a consensus vote of no confidence from members of the council.

The Holiday Chamber of Young Homemakers of Texas, which still in its infancy stages, has managed to make a lasting impression in the social scene around town through various fundrasing and civic projects.

Newcomer's third-year girls crew membership to the Young Homemakers group continues to grow, and sponsors the club's activities. Prior to the Christmas holidays, the Holiday chapter created over 600 of the city's elders a festive customary to the season, and afterwards sang carols to the responsive group.

Some holiday recipes from the Young Homemakers appeared in the Christmas edition of the Leader, but because of a lack of space, the following recipes from members of the Holiday club were saved for this week. They are the Cooks of the Week and we applaud and encourage their efforts in and through Holiday.
