IOWA PARK FIREMEN extinguish a smoldering fire inside a 1985 compact stationwagon. Owner of the vehicle, Kerry Walker, said he had hooked up his battery charger and then left to feed his horses. When he returned, the interior was afire, apparently igniting in the electrical system below the dash. The situation developed Tuesday morning about a mile west of the city limits, at Walker's home.

City facing two hearings

Second winter storm hits area Iowa Park man killed in sand truck incident

The second major winter storm in two weeks struck Iowa Park during the early evening hours Tuesday and was still building at presstime yesterday.

Ice was still on the ground in some areas from the Christmas Day storm when the storm moved into the area, and by noon Wednesday more than an inch of sleet had covered the area.

Virgil Woodfin said precipitation he had melted at 9 a.m. measured .22 of an inch.

An Iowa Park man was killed in an accident Wednesday near Wichita Falls, and while the frozen precipitation was not the cause, the death was related to the storm.

Ronny Feltman, 29, was reportedly killed in an incident involving a sanding truck of the state highway department's.

Feltman had been employed by the highway department more than nine years.

Neither details of the incident nor funeral arrangements were available at presstime.

No weather-related accidents had been reported in the city by noon.

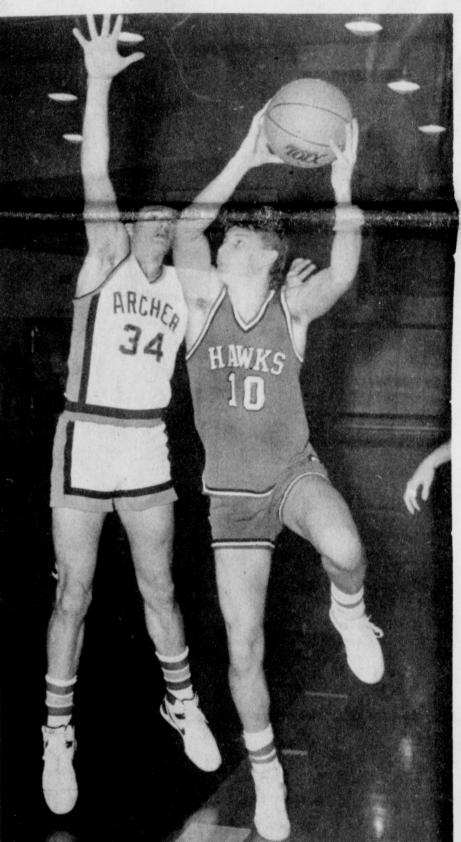

School start here was delayed by an hour and a half because of the weather, and buses ran on that same schedule. No announcement was available on school hours for the rest of the week.

The forecast for the rest of the week included precipitation to continue through most of today, and cold weather to stay through the weekend.

City Administrator James Barrington said crews would be working to assist the public during the bad weather.

A grader would be used yesterday to clear sleet covering the roads near intersections, so drivers could tell where the traffic lanes were. But sand would likely not be put out until the precipitation has ended.

While business was hectic Tuesday afternoon at grocery stores and gasoline stations, businesses reported very little activity through most of Wednesday.

cause the two parties "had not agreed they disagreed."

Mrs. Karstetter has filed to have the city, which leases the property to the southwest of town for its use as a landfill, evicted.

The other hearing scheduled is connected with the city's filing to force the purchase of a tract of land which is under use as the landfill.

That hearing, which is to begin at 9 a.m. in the courthouse annex, is for the court-appointed "commissioners" to hear any comments on the values the appointed group set.

Friday's meeting could be cancelled, depending on Judge Driver's ruling today, however.

Building permits total $1.2 million

A building permit for a new home which was issued during December kept the month's total from being the lowest of 1987.

December's permit total was $32,440.

The year's sum was $1,241,496, but of the amount, more than half was church, city and school construction. Other than those, most of the permits during the year were for remodeling, repairs and mobile homes.

Permits issued during December included:

Randy Cunningham, 1105 W. Cornelia, alteration, $8,000;

Duffy Terry, 409 W. Pecan, alteration, $1,500;

John Reynolds, 1504 Karen, repair, $2,000;

Harry Halstead III, 210 W. Clara, new home, $20,160;

John C. Marshall, 1017 Lanelle, alteration, $630;

Faith Baptist Church, 409 S. Wall, alteration, $150.

Among the four arrests made by Iowa Park Police during the past week was a young man who apparently was here to watch the Iowa Park and Holliday basketball games Tuesday night.

John Wesley Hill, 17, was taken into custody by Chief Alan Sheffield prior to the start of the games when he observed the Holliday resident in the parking lot at the gymnasium.

Sheffield, according to witnesses, had to forceably lead Hill to his car to take him to the police station.

The arrest was made at 5:58 p.m. on a charge of public intoxication, according to the police blotter, and he was released at 11 p.m.

Chamber seeks nominees

The names of persons believed to be deserving of recognition from the Iowa Park Chamber of Commerce should be submitted to the organization's office by Monday.

Selection committees of the Chamber will consider nominations for the annual presentations of Outstanding Citizen, Outstanding Senior at the Chamber's annual banquet, which will be held Jan. 23 in Iowa Park High School cafeteria.

Tickets for the banquet, which will include a dinner prepared by the Iowa Park MuleSkinners, will be $8 per person and are on sale at the Chamber office.

Keynote speaker for this year's banquet will be Dr. Arthur Beyer of Midwestern State Univ., who was one of the driving forces in Wichita Falls during that community's drive to attract industry.

An offshoot of the drive was Cryovac's locating here.

Nominations for one of the annual awards should include information on the individual, which will be used by committees in making their selections.

Nominations cannot be considered as votes for potential recipients, according to the rules for selection.

least, that is how Dorwin and Marie Wooten feel. He takes great pride in raising a garden, and she enjoys caring for the vegatables.

Two of her recipes this week are vegetable recipes, and she has a recipe for Salmon Salad that sounds like good eating with either one of them.

In colonial America, servants were fed salmon several times a day, but in the last quarter century, salmon has become almost a luxury, particularly in the form of smoked salmon.

When American settlers reached the Pacific they found themselves in the realm of salmon. Few societies have been so closely wedded to a single food as the Indians of that region were to salmon. It has been written that they knew 60 ways to cook them, which is dubious.

The Rhine, Seine, Thames and Hudson rivers that once swarmed with salmon now have only a few or none. The causes for the dimunition are multiple, one of the main causes is pollution. Salmon is still the most important seafood of Alaska where there are at least 19 streams named for the fish.

Marie and Dorwin were high school sweethearts at Jay, Fla. She worked at the Vanity Fair Plant in Hartford later and lived in Japan for a time while he was stationed in the Air Force. While there, she took a course in flower arranging.

The couple have lived in Iowa Park 14 years. They own and operate Quality Plus Auto and Truck Electric on Farm Rd. 369. They are members of the Missionary Baptist Church. She is a member of the Iowa Park Garden Club where she has been recently elected treasurer, and on the board of directors of the Recreation Center. Her hobbies are stamp collecting and tole painting.

Locals to learn why Tech fans like Spike

After the evening of Jan. 16, Hawk fans may well join residents of the South Plains in wearing "I Like Spike" buttons.

Spike Dykes, who has just completed his first season as head football coach at Texas Tech Univ., will be the guest speaker for the annual Hawk football banquet.

The event will begin at 7 p.m. at Chaparral Baptist Camp. Tickets for the event, $10 per person, are on sale to the public at Settle Drug, Scobee's Mini Mart and Louis Jewelry.

Sharing the evening's highlights with the Raider mentor will be the announcements of player award recipients.

The banquet is sponsored by the Iowa Park Booster Club.

Dykes' background is best presented on the pages of this past season's Tech football program. It says:

It is somehow ironic that Spike Dykes would realize his dream only yards away from the place in which he came into this world.

Born in the old St. Mary's Hospital across the street from Texas Tech while his parents were on a trip through Lubbock, Dykes got the break he had worked for all of his 27year coaching career -- a major college head coaching opportunity when he was named the Red Raiders' head mentor on December 6, 1986.

Spike, who got the nickname even before he was born, had only two weeks to get his new team prepared for its Independence Bowl contest. He did it in typical Spike Dykes fashion -- authoritatively organized but yet comfortably laid back.

Even though the Red Raiders lost 20-17 to Ole Miss in the bowl game (the winning field goal hit the cross bar and bounced over), Dykes must be one of the most popular winless head coaches ever. "I Like Spike" buttons and bumper stickers are the norm on the South Plains these days as Texas Tech fans anticipate the continued growth of the program.

SPIKE DYKES

Their reasons for optimism are many. Spike is a straight shooter. He is confident in a humble way. He is a superb judge of talent, whether it be athletic or coaching. He is a proven defensive mastermind who has a knack for getting the most out of his players.

Prior to coming to Texas Tech as defensive coordinator in December, 1983, Dykes honed his coaching skills at such places as Texas, Mississippi State and New Mexico. He knew the importance of the assistant coach, so immediately he surrounded himself with some of the best in the business. Sorry football coaches change professions before they are 40. Dykes attracted seven who have reached the magic middle-age number. Along with experience, all bring excellent coaching credentials with them.

If anybody knows West Texas, it's Spike. He has spent three-quarters of his life in the area developing friendships while thoroughly learning the coaching ropes.

After earning All-State recognition as a center at Ballinger High School, he started his college career at Rice, transferred to San Angelo JC and graduated from S.F. Austin College in 1959 with a Bachelor's of Social Studies degree.

He began his coaching career in 1959 at Eastland, and after one year, returned to Ballinger as an assistant for two seasons. He served as an assistant for two years at San Angelo Central starting in 1962, working under Emory Bellard.

Dykes' first head coaching opportunity arose in 1964 in Coahoma, and he left after compiling a sparkling 24-2 record during a two-year period. He went on to post a 58-28-1 record during his first eight years with coaching stops at Belton (1966), Big Spring (1967-69) and Alice (1970-71).

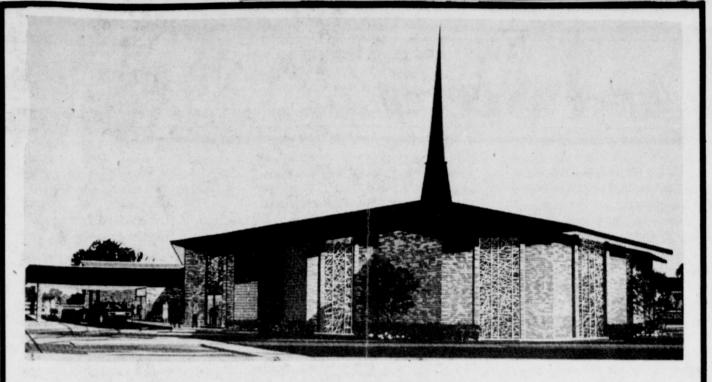

Spike joined the college ranks with Darrell Royal as freshman coach at Texas in 1971, coached the ; offensive line from 1972-74, special teams in 1975 and the defensive line in 1976. One of his pupils his last season at Texas was Brad Shearer, who went on to win the Outland Trophy in 1977.

Dykes moved to New Mexico with Bill Mondt in 1977, coaching the defensive line before becoming defensive coordinator in 1978. In 1979, he coached the offensive line at Mississippi State for Emory Bellard before returning to West Texas to coach Midland Lee in 1980.

In his four years at Lee, Dykes was 34-11-1, running his overall record as a head high school coach to 93-39-2. His Rebels defeated Odessa Permian twice in 1983 -- the first time any team had defeated Permian twice in the same season. Lee wound up the season with a 13-3 record after dropping a 25-21 decision to Converse Judson in the Class 5A state championship game.

A week later Dykes arrived at Texas Tech and immediately made an impact as defensive coordinator and linebacker coach. He helped the Red Raiders to a No. 20 national ranking in total defense during his first year in 1984. Tech led the nation in pass defense that year and finished second nationally in 1985. This past season Dykes' defenders were the best ballhawkers in the Southwest Conference with 41 takeaways.

"Where the Bible is taught, the Family is emphasized, and everybody is somebody."

Thursday, Jan. 7, 1988

I felt a very slight twinge of selfdoubt when he wagered a steak dinner, but agreed.

You can pretty well accept anything Holliday School Superintendent Dan Owen says, if he backs it with a wager.

I figure Dan is so close with his money that he'd take a beating rather than hand over his money willingly to a robber.

But we had agreed we disagreed on a subject I felt just as confident I was as expert as he.

And I was wrong.

Several months ago, when Midwestern State Univ. announced it was going to resume its football program, Dan asked me if I knew what teams played the final game on

MSU's Cullum Stadium field. When I said I didn't, he said he believed it was Iowa Park and Jacksboro, in the 1969 playoffs. Forgetting that he was then the coach at Jacksboro, I said Iowa Park hadn't played on that field since I had been covering the Hawks.

"No, you're wrong, Dan. It was in Coyote Canyon. Since I've been here, the only thing we've had to do with Midwestern's stadium is to buy the pressbox, ticket stand, goal posts, lights, scoreboard and fence," I responded.

All, except the lights, are still in use at Hawk Stadium, by the way.

The old coach assured me he was pretty sure he was right.

Well, I told him I would look back in our file copies, but never thought about it when I had the time.

Then he caught me between games of Holliday's basketball tournament a couple of weeks ago, and pressed the issue once more.

I was just as sure as I had been, until he bet that steak dinner. But I still forgot to look it up when I got back to the office.

I just knew we had played in the old Coyote Stadium. I could just see the crowds and everything in my memory. So I accepted the bet, smiling, because I could just taste a meal Dan Owen had paid for.

Yesterday morning when I picked up the mail, there was an envelope from Dan, and in it was a clipping of the pre-game story. It plainly stated the game was to be at Cullum Stadium.

So I dug back in my files, and sure enough, he was right.

Jacksboro and Iowa Park met in Cullum Stadium for the Class AA semi-finals. Both teams were 13-0, Dan was the coach of the Purple Power and Tommy Watkins mentor of the Mean Green.

When the lights of the scoreboard were turned off at its final official function, Iowa Park had posted 21 points. Jacksboro was a big 0.

I didn't remember until reading the clipping he sent, but the week before that game, Owen's Panthers had defeated Gladewater 9-7, giving him his 100th victory as a coach over the past 11 years.

I'm going to live up to my part of the wager, and buy a steak dinner for Dan.

And for dessert, I'm going to ask him to account for the reasons why the Hawks had 442 total yards offense and the Tigers only 141.

Untimely eviction

I really don't know what you would call a woman that would spoil Christmas for a family. A pregnant woman, due in less than a month, a boy 2, a girl 4.

They lived at 124 Westview in Iowa Park, their rent was due on Dec. 17th. On Dec. 22nd, when my granddaughter came home around 5 p.m. she found an eviction notice on her door. They gave them 24 hrs. to vacate the house. Her husband would get paid on Wed. Dec. 23rd. She wouldn't even wait for that. My granddaughter being pregnant had to move all that heavy stuff out because her husband had to work untill 8 o'clock. They had to take their Christmas tree down the little kids did not know what was going on. I can't believe that a woman would not have any compassion for people. I guess when you have money, thats all you need, the world and all thats in it don't bother you.

My granddaughter and family moved in with me for awhile, suppose it had been a military family with nowhere to go. So I hope people will be real careful who they rent from.

Rules are explained Dear Mr. Hamilton and Citizens,

I notice there is a proposal to eliminate the "present rules governing the placement of monuments and headstones" in Highland Cemetery!

There is no such rule, never has been, only a rule that "concrete footings" for "stones" be of such a depth and width that will prevent the "tilting," that we are plagued with now, and that the same footings be flush with the ground, so that it will not damage the lawnmower.

Placement of flowers, vases and arrangements are now "at the descretion of the lot owners" providing the fot owners do all their own main-

The public school system in Texas may undergo a complete change in the not so distant future, thanks to a ruling by Judge Harley Clark in Austin on June 1. This ruling, if allowed to stand, could mean the end of public schools as we have known them and will have a serious impact upon those of us in Perryton. Supt. Doug Fiskin has briefed the school board on this Clark ruling and while the Perryton schools, like all others in Texas, are marking time waiting for an appeal to go through the court system, it is actually a kind of time bomb waiting to go off and school people around the state are mighty uneasy.

What did Judge Clark rule? He said that the current system of funding the public schools of this state is unfair and results in unfair education for students in poor districts. The school district in San Antonio which complained that taxable values in their school district were so low as to keep the district from levving enough taxes to insure a quality education. The judge agreed, and in the process spread out a future scenario which might include closing down small schools, consolidating school districts, requiring all school tax money to be sent to Austin and returned on the basis of need, and in general a complete change in schools. The Perryton school district is one of the "rich districts" which presumably is providing a richer education for local students than those in the poor part of San Antonio. To cure this, the judge would have us either lower our level of education by cutting out the frills in order to be on the same level with Edgewood, or else send the state some of our tax money so they can give it to Edgewood and enrich their program. They call this progress and fairness. Overlooked is the fact that the Perryton school district tax rate is 96 cents while in Edgewood it is 80 cents (assessed at 89.9% of market value). Surely the "poor" districts can raise their tax rate up to the level of the "rich" districts.

tricts which now spend a disproportionate amount of money per student. This means that certainly Waka would be consolidated, and probably Darrouzett, Follett, Higgins and possibly even Booker. There is even talk of having one super school district headquartered in Amarillo to handle the entire Panhandle by collecting and dispensing tax money for all schools.

Other alternatives coming out of this court decision is one of placing a cap on school spending for the "rich" districts and have them send money to the "poor" districts so everybody would be equal. The reasoning goes that if the state cannot affort to pay for high quality programs everywhere, then all programs should be brought down in order to be equal. Other proposals include cutting out funding for extracurricular activities such as athletics, music and speech or require participants to pay their own way. This would mean football players would have to buy their own uniforms and pay their own way to Another result of the Clark decision is the study of proposed changes designed to lead to more efficient use of funds for public education. One of the proposals is to consolidate school districts and do away with small dis-games. This certainly will not go over, but has been proposed.

As it stands now, the school districts which are classified as poor get more state aid than those classified as rich and nobody really objects to this. Some school districts are "budget balanced" meaning that they get nothing from the state but fund their own programs. The court decision would eliminate any such action by denying the use of local funds for local schools unless such wealth is shared with poorer school districts. This is the Robin Hood approach in which you take from the rich and give to the poor. The Sheriff of Nottingham and the folks in Sherwood Forest may have gone along with this, but it is my guess that thousands of Texans will voice a mighty objection to it. The matter will be taken up by the legislature when they convene in January. Somehow, I don't think I would like to have to face such a weighty problem, but somebody has to do it. because a few thoughtless persons have insisted on driving on the fragile roads, cutting deep ruts in them, necessitating costly repairs!

When the cemetery was nothing more than a "hayfield," many people rocked and curbed their lots, to keep maintenance to a minimum, and that was fine. The trouble began when those folks died, just as we will, their heirs moved off, the plastic under the rocks deteriorated, and the weeds took over the rocks. Since the cemetery is now being maintained like a lawn, yesterdays "beautysites" have become todays "eyesores!" The high curbs have become a hazard to the lawnmower!

We've done much in three years. Please support your Highland Cemetery Association in its attempt to continue to leave to the next generation, a cemetery they can be proud of, not one like we inherited. You can make the difference, be persons of action, not reaction!

Hawks look strong as district nears

With the exception of losing to Archer City in the finals of that school's tournament Saturday night, the Hawks took revenge on two teams that had defeated them earlier. And one of those wins was exceptional.

After knocking off Notre Dame in the first round of the tournament, 92.56, the Hawks edged Graham, a club that had beaten them earlier.

But it was how they won that still has fans who saw that New Year's Day contest buzzing.

After the two teams had retired to the dressing rooms tied 26-26 at the half, the Steers took command in the third period and lead 40-32 going into the final frame.

Regulation time ended with a 40-40 tie. Graham had not scored a point.

Graham scored first in overtime, but the Hawks tied things again with two seconds remaining on the clock.

As a Steer was attempting to inbound the ball from under the Hawk basket, sophomore center Jimmy Duggins stepped in front of him, arms extended.

The Graham player, in desperation, tried to throw the ball over him, and the ball hit the gym's rafters, turning the ball over to Iowa Park.

Oddly enough, however, Graham is one of only two teams to have beaten Archer City this season.

Marc Johnson, who sank seven of eight free shots in the third quarter, was high-pointer against Notre Dame with 28. Bill Chandler had 22 and Toby Brown 17.

Chandler and Johnson scored 18 and 14 points, respectively, in the Graham game.

Chandler was also high for the Hawks against Archer City with 19. Johnson had 17 and Duggins 14.

DEFEAT HOLLIDAY

Using a fast break here Tuesday evening, the Hawks revenged an earlier 60-58 loss to the Eagles with a whopping 86-66 score.

Both teams had exchanged the lead in the second and third periods before Iowa Park finally outran the visitors in the fourth quarter.

Iowa Park led 17-14 at the end of the first period, and thanks to a desperation three-pointer that was fired by Johnson while he was running at and then outscored the Eagles 30-15 in the final frame.

Chandler equalled his career high with 34 points. Three other Hawks finished in double figures: Johnson 22, Duggins 14 and Brown 10.

LADY HAWKS LOSE

The Lady Hawks, who open District 6-AAA play at Bowie Tuesday, lost all three of their games during the past week.

After pulling into a 32-32 tie at the end of the third period of their tournament opener at Archer City against Notre Dame, Iowa Park lost 45-36.

In the consolation bracket, the Lady Hawks were dropped 38-21, with Lori Allen and Shonna Weaver Iowa Park's high scorers with only four points apiece.

Tuesday, Holliday broke away with a 25-10 second quarter splurge and went on to drop the Lady Hawks 64-47.

Allen led the locals against Holliday with 20 points and Paige Knight had seven.

They finished in the same order against Notre Dame: Allen 13 and Knight 10.

The Seventh Grade won handily, 41-14, while the Eighth Grade edged Graham, the only team that defeated them as Seventh Graders, 23-17.

Robertson was high for the Seventh Grade with nine, while Beall had six for the Eighth Grade.

Both teams have identical 7-0 records so far.

Graham won both the boys' games, defeating Iowa Park Seventh Grade 37-20 and Eighth Grade 46-38.

High scorers for Iowa Park were Childs, eight, for the Seventh Grade, and Goodknight, 10, for the Eighth Grade.

Editors are always seeking good picture opportunities. If you think your story merits a photo, talk to the editor about it. If a newspaper photographer cannot make it to your event, take one yourself and include it with your story or release.

Always try for action, rather than posed, pictures. If little Jane Doe, for example, has been presented an award for volunteering at the local hospital, a picture of Jane at work is much better than one of the mayor presenting her with an award. Write the cutline, or description, of the photo on a separate piece of paper rather than the back of the photo, and list names left to right.

Use your simplest English. Never use fancy wording or terms that only a member of your club would understand. Watch the newspaper to learn its style. Most important, be honest, impartial, accurate and brief. Never use a quote unless it is direct and accurate, and always identify your sources.

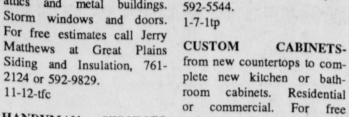

VEWS

Remember that there can be different writing styles for different parts of the newspaper. Use "I" only in letters to the editor or opinion columns. Give more description in feature stories. Keep your newswriting to the point, with the most interesting and important information first.

When you write letters to the editor, always include your name, address, affiliation (if any), and phone number. As a matter of accountability, and to protect the newspaper from irresponsible letter writers, newspapers rarely publish a letter without this information. If you have an opinion, remember that the opinion or editorial page is considered the property of the public; it's your page, so feel free to use it. Editors appreciate receiving your views for this page.

Only one person from your organization should be in touch with the newspaper.

It is often said there are three rules of journalism: accuracy, accuracy, and accuracy. Write everything down, check the spelling of names and never trust your memory.

Get your story to the newspaper as soon as possible. Know the newspaper's deadlines. Whenever possible, let the newspaper know about an event before it takes place.

Use creativity. If you have an idea for a feature story, suggest it. Newspaper editors appreciate fresh ideas.

Never try to obtain publicity by pressure of friendship or business connections.

Your newspaper sees a constant barrage of paper. You're already one step ahead if your news release or story is obviously local. However, remember that the typical editor must make quick decisions regarding newsworthiness. As a newspaper reader you know that your reading decisions are based first on the headline, and then on the first paragraph of the news item.

Give the most important information first. Be sure to give the "who, what, when, where and how" of the story right away. Background material should come last.

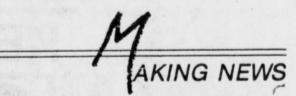

Include the name of the contact, the group, and a phone number at the top of the page for quick reference.

When submitting a story to your local newspaper, type it double-spaced on one side of 81/2-by-11-inch paper. Start about one-third of the way down the paper on the first page and leave ample margins. Number your pages. When you're done, type this symbol: # # #

Editors choose their news according to the importance of an event to their communities. A fire, a crime, or an accident is importantbut so is the award your club gave last week. Club elections, new projects, unusual actions, social events, milestones, athletic events, benefits that need public support, and member participation in local, national or world events are all of interest to your community newspaper editor.

Pre-planned events should always reach the editor's desk well before the last-minute rush. Learn your newspaper's deadlines, and keep as far ahead of them as possible. It is always best to stop by or call the newspaper office after the last issue has been published, rather than just before the presses roll. Remember that there will be times when an editor or reporter is simply too close to deadline to talk to you.

Chances are, if you follow deadlines, concentrate on accuracy and maintain a good relationship with your editor, your organization will make the news and your information will make it out to the community.
