IPHS graduation Friday in stadium

Iowa Park High School has 99 candidates for graduation when ceremonies are held at 8 Friday evening in Hawk Stadium.

Should weather not permit the event to be held out of doors, each member of the class will be issued tickets to be used by family members and invited guests, according to Richard Davis, principal.

This year's commencement address will be delivered by Carey Roberts, a 1976 graduate of Iowa Park High and now a teacher of home economics at the school.

Davis is to present the class to Superintendent Glen Mitchell, and the presentation of diplomas will be made by Jimmy Howell and Roy Boutwell, board of trustee members.

Counselor Herman Escue is to make the presentation of honors.

The traditional presentation of the school key will be made by Shawn Price, senior class president.

Invocation will be given by Stephen Johnson and benediction by Wes Toller.

The school band, under direction of Greg Miller, will play the processional, recessional and school song.

Junior high's this evening

Eighth Grade graduation exercises will be held at 8 p.m. today in the high school auditorium.

After announcing the top 10 members of the class, Principal Jimmy Alsup will present the class to high school Principal Richard Davis.

Assistant Superintendent Robert Palmer will be the speaker of the evening.

Invocation will be given by Jimmy Duggins, and Bruce Palmer will give the benediction.

Special music will be provided by the Eighth Grade Choir.

The processional and recessional will be played on the piano by Allan Andrews.

Requests for city water prompt resolution draft

The city council will take action on a resolution when it meets Monday night, concerning future requests for water service outside the city limits.

The agenda item is apparently a reaction to numerous requests for water outside the city in recent months, both for treated and untreated water.

Also on the agenda is an ordinance accepting a replat of a portion of Block 16, First Addition.

The council will be asked to consider authorizing the city administrator to purchase a tractor/loader for the sewer plant, and also to sell the animal control pickup.

Administrator James Barrington will discuss with the council drainage work proposed on Colorado between Park and West Highway, an item which was on the last meeting agenda.

Barrington will also ask if the council wants to authorize repairs on a city pickup.

Item five on the meeting agenda calls for an executive session, authorized under the open meetings law as "pending or contemplated litigation."

Monday's meeting, to be held in council chambers, is to begin at 7 p.m.

HANDS ACROSS AMERICA attracted an estimated 600 volunteers Sunday afternoon along US 287 between Peterson Road and Harmony Road, short of a solid line but impressive to highway travelers who honked as they passed by. The scene at the top is a group moving from Pacific to the lake area, where they linked with another group. Above, volunteers begin forming their line at Harmony Road.

Hawks bow to Merkel 6-1

In what Coach Daryl Frazier described as "one of those days," the season for the Hawk baseball team came to an abrupt halt Monday afternoon in Fort Worth.

Iowa Park lost 6-1 to Merkel in Bi-District.

The problem was too many errors and leaving too many runners on bases.

Iowa Park, with its first district championship in baseball since 1975, was credited with seven costly errors, all of which led to unearned scores for the opponents.

And while the Hawks had seven hits, two more than Merkel, only one scored a run.

The third inning was the only time Iowa Park was retired without a runner left on base.

The lone run for the Hawks came in the top of the fourth inning, after catcher Ray Sefcik smashed a triple into the right field fence and Robert Adams followed with a single up the middle.

That tied the score at 1-1. Merkel had scored in the first inning.

The runners-up of Dist. 6-AAA scored twice in the bottom of the fourth, added another in the fifth and twice more in the sixth.

Craig Rickman worked three and a third innings on the mound before being relieved by Adams.

The Hawks missed their best opportunity to get back into the game in the fifth inning.

Jeff Huff walked, stole second and advanced to third on a bad pickoff throw. Mike Williams flied out, but Billy Kenyon walked and stole second.

Rickman struck out, but Dave Taylor loaded the bases when he was walked.

Sefcik connected with a hard grounder, but Merkel's third baseman, Shane Newberry, fielded the ball cleanly and forced Kenyon at third to end the rally.

Iowa Park actually loaded the bases twice more, in the sixth and seventh, but was retired without a score.

Coach Frazier said he was convinced the Hawks were the better team, but it was one of those days like the Hawks experienced at Vernon, when their errors were too much to overcome.

Merkel scored its six runs on five hits, and was credited with only one error.

For the Hawks, the season ended with 13 wins and 10 losses. Merkel advances to the area playoff with an 11-8 record.

They liked it here enough to return, twice

By RAEANN GALENTINE
Special Writer

Iowa Park has been home to John and Karen Church not once, not twice, but three times.

Jack, as he is known to his friends, first moved his family here in 1972, when he was attending an Air Force school.

Even though his time here was only 11 months, he became an active member of the community by becoming a member of the volunteer fire department.

After his school ended, the family returned to the east.

Two and a half years later, in 1975, Jack applied for an instructor's position at Sheppard AFB, and back they came.

In 1979, they were sent to Delaware for a year, and returned to Iowa Park in 1980. And it's here they plan to stay.

Married 18 years, they have a 16-year-old son, Dale, and a daughter, Michelle, 12.

"This is the ideal place to raise a family," they explain. "It is friendly here; people wave at passersby whether they know each other or not." Good friends aided in their return and their plans to stay.

"We have gotten to know so many nice people through Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, band...whatever the kids have been involved in. It would be difficult to leave them all behind."

KAREN, JACK CHURCH

An easy-going man, one with an ever-present smile, Jack enjoys the challenge of teaching medical equipment repair in the Air Force. It is a demanding job, one that includes having to know not only a multitude of different types of medical appliances and their uses, but also the many different companies that manufacture the appliances.

As Jack explains, "Each company that makes a sterilizer is going to make theirs differently. We must be able to fix each brand of sterilizer, or whatever the piece of equipment is, regardless of who made it."

Upon graduating from the school, Jack's students are sent to military medical facilities all over the world to care for the equipment.

Jack is also a man who plans for the future of his family. He has taken his knowledge gained as an instructor, and created his own business called, aptly enough, Medical and Dental Equipment Repair.

While the Air Force consumes his days, his repair business consumes his evenings. At present, he has four employees working as hard in the evenings as he is.

With 18 months remaining in the Air Force, he has already begun his second career. The day after retiring from the service, Jack will expand his repair business to a full-time operation.

Jokingly, he admits that since beginning his own company, he has little time for recreation.

"I used to bowl, I used to play golf, and there's a boat in the yard that hasn't been in the water for almost two years. But once I retire from the military and see my plans for the business vitalized, then I can spend some time back on the golf course."

While Jack is busy during the day, Karen is just as busy. Ordering parts, scheduling appointments, making up fliers, is all part of her day.

Occasionally, with help from her father, who is also a close neighbor, she delivers the repaired pieces back to the facilities they belong.

While contributing time and energy to Jack's business, Karen makes time for herself.

To sit in her livingroom is a pleasant experience. It is a comfortable room where a guest feels relaxed and at home. It reflects the friendliness of the family which created it.

On the walls are oil paintings, originals by Karen. And off to one side of the room stands an easel holding a work in progress. She is skilled with a crochet hook as she is with a paint brush, having made many afghans as presents for family members.

With a laugh, she states the ones that adorn her livingroom were made by her mother, since what she makes for herself is usually given away.

The enjoyment of our community that Jack and Karen have felt, brought Karen's parents to move here. Having visited on a regular basis 10 years, they sold their home of 35 years and moved here two years ago.

It brought them closer to their grandchildren and to a community they already liked.

With Jack's plans to retire here, and continue his business, Iowa Park is keeping good citizens.

"I would like to keep my business growing here. We have gotten so much from this community: good friends, a nice home, a good education for our kids. I'd like to return the favor by creating new opportunities for Iowa Park," he said.

Indeed, with citizens like the Church family, the community will always show a friendly face.

Johnson, Otto vows solemnized Saturday

Wearing an exquisite wedding gown of white Alencon lace embellished with pearls and iridescents over peau de soie, Miss Tracy Lynn Johnson became the bride of Stephen Joseph Otto in a double-ring ceremony performed Saturday at high noon at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in Wichita Falls. Msgr. Charles B. King was the officiant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Johnson of Kamay and the late Mary Ellen Johnson, and the groom is the son of Mrs. Viola Otto of Wichita Falls and the late Joseph Stephen Otto.

The bride was presented in marriage by her father. The beauty of her gown was enhanced with a bodice fashioned with a wedding ring neckline, sheer yoke, shepherdess sleeves ruffled at the shoulders, and a full skirt that captured attention with a chapel train that ended in multiple ruffles.

She wore a complementary white hat covered with Chantilly lace accented with pearls and iridescents. A circlet of tiny white, peach and blue flowers at the crown held her illusion fingertip veil and blusher.

To complete the charming picture, the bride carried a silk bouquet in cascade style of blue, peach and white carnations with matching streamers, that contained her rosary, a pearled heart and her late mother's baby bracelet.

The bride remembered to keep traditions by wearing "something old" earrings that belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. R.A. Cannon of Wichita Falls. Her gown was "something new" and a garter was "something blue." The "something borrowed" was not a part of her bridal attire instead it was a white satin heart-shaped pillow that the ring bearer carried. The pillow was carried in her stepmother's wedding.

The couple exchanged their vows at an altar flanked by three wicker baskets filled with peach and blue gladiola, morning glories, roses and miniature daisies. Behind the altar were large brass pots holding the same flowers which were repeated in a bouquet on the piano. The unity candlestick entwined with English ivy completed the altar decorations. Preceding the ceremony, parents of the bride and the groom's mother lit the outer candles which burned until the bride and groom extinguished them after they lit the unity candle to seal their vows.

The church pews were decorated with peach and blue bows centered with miniature daisies.

Optimist Club hears deputy

Program for last week's Optimist Club meeting was given by Deputy Artie Woods.

He spoke on safety and protecting one's home while on vacation.

The club presented Woods with the Community Award for his effort in working with children.

Exercise class set

An exercise aerobics program will start in the annex of First Presbyterian Church June 3. Isabelle McLean will be the director.

Classes will be held each Tuesday and Thursday between 6-7 p.m. and on Saturday mornings between 9-10.

MRS. STEPHEN JOSEPH OTTO

Miss Donna Gibson provided the organ and piano wedding music. Her organ music featured prelude selections, the traditional marches, and "Longer Than," a number played during communion. She furnished piano accompaniment for duet numbers by Mr. and Mrs. Andy Stanford who sang "Looking Through the Eyes of Love," "Annie's Song," "Endless Love," "Truly" and "Wedding Song," the last selection sung while the bride and groom were lighting the unity candle.

The bride's attendants wore identical tea length blue Chantilly lace dresses over blue taffeta designed with tight bodices fashioned with sweetheart necklines and puffed sleeves, and full skirts. They wore applied lace flowers, featuring brims with lace borders. Each carried a silk nosegay of white roses and carnations, blue carnations and miniature daisies.

Miss Tanya Jones of Iowa Park had the maid of honor role in the wedding. The sextet of bridesmaids were Miss Shea Barron of Arlington, cousin of the bride, Miss Frances Otto of Nocona, sister of the groom, Mrs. Mike Morath, Mrs. Limey O'Brien, Miss Rita Ostermann, and Mrs. Donny White, all of Wichita Falls.

Jennifer Otto of Nocona, niece of the groom, the flower girl, was attired in a floor length pink taffeta dress and wore a ring of pink flowers in her hair. She carried a white basket holding peach and blue daisies.

Alan Krechting of Holland was the ring bearer and he was dressed like the male adults who took part in the wedding.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with tails, white pleated shirt, blue cummerbund and tie, and a boutonniere formed of a white rosebud and blue carnations.

The best man was Michael Metzinger of Lewisville. The groomsmen were Philip Otto of Wichita Falls, Michael Otto of Nocona, brothers of the groom, Tony Gilleland, John Macha, Limey O'Brien and Michael Morath, all of Wichita Falls. The reader during the ceremony was Norman Otto of Nocona, brother of the groom, the ushers were Darell E. and Lewis Johnson, brothers of the bride, Shawn Barron and Jason Keller, her cousins.

The ring bearer and male adults who participated in the wedding and father of the bride, wore black tuxedos, white pleated shirts, blue cummerbunds and ties.

The bride's mother wore a light blue chiffon tea length dress styled with a bodice drape and long sleeves. The groom's mother wore a blue silk tea length dress with pleated bodice and skirt. Their corsages were composed of blue and peach carnations.

The bride's parents were hosts for the postnuptial reception held in the St. James Room of Wichita Falls activities center.

Mrs. Carless Hutson and Miss Carolyn Steere presided at the guest book table draped with white lace over blue. It held a portrait of the bride, the couple's wedding invitation imbedded in a candle underneath a glass dome encircled with blue flowers, blue plume pen and book.

The three refreshment tables, those of the bride, groom, and one holding an assortment of hors d'oeuvres, were linked together and covered with blue silk cloths set apart with long ruffled skirts.

A heart-shaped ornament hung on the wall behind the bride's table. The centerpiece and cake top featured Precious Moments sentimental decorations, the one on the table inspired by a "love" theme, and the other a bride and groom set in a heart of peach and blue flowers.

The bride's "cake of cakes" was a five-tiered structure with two sets of dividers. The white icing on the cake was contrasted with peach and blue cascading flowers. The brass punch bowl was flanked by brass candles in five-point candelabra trimmed with English ivy. The bride's colors were noted in the wedding bell-shaped mints and napkins marked with the names of the bride and groom.

Mrs. David Keller and Miss Pat Taylor, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Robert Bradberry presided at her table during the reception, and Mrs. Ronnie Barron and Mrs. Shawn Barron served at the groom's table that held a chocolate cake trimmed with peach and blue flowers.

Members of the houseparty were Mmes. Bob Morath, Jerry Cotterly, Arthur Hemmi, and Greg Mitchell.

The groom's mother was hostess for the rehearsal dinner at the church.

The bride was graduated from Iowa Park High School where she was selected best all-around girl and Who's Who in American High Schools. She was graduated from Midwestern State Univ. where she was a member of Student Education Association. She is employed at City View Independent School District. The groom was graduated from Notre Dame High School where he participated in football and track. He is employed by Custom Metal Services.

The couple took a short wedding trip to Quartz Mountain Lodge and are planning to take a Caribbean cruise later. They will live in Wichita Falls.

The long white cake was decorated with a miniature rocking horse raised on a white pedestal, and pink and blue frosting rosebuds. The crystal punch service, trays of nuts and mints, completed the decorations.

The registry table held a small wicker basket with a teddy bear tucked inside, and balloons tied to the basket handle with pink and blue ribbon. The baby book and blue plume pen completed the setting.

The table where the gifts were displayed was draped with a white cloth and decorated with pink and blue balloons and ribbon.

The honoree was presented with a corsage fashioned of miniature baby shoes and rosebuds made with baby socks.

The home of Mrs. D. Wolfe in Wichita Falls was the setting for the Sunday afternoon courtesy. Mrs. Tommy Bennett assisted with the hostess duties.

The refreshment table, draped with white lace over pink, was centered with a large wicker basket holding an arrangement of pink and blue flowers and tied with a large blue bow. Cookies, decorated with pink and blue icing, nuts, and pink punch were served to the guests.

The table where guests signed the baby book was decorated with a white tree, encircled with a white net skirt, and hung with a large number of miniature baby items.

Mrs. Collins, the former Kari Hamilton, was presented with a corsage formed of pink and white booties, blue and white ribbon on a lace background.

Mothers of the couple, Mrs. Tommy Collins of Kamay, and Mrs. Bob Hamilton of Iowa Park, were given white carnation corsages.

As I See It....

By BOB HAMILTON

I have a feeling that having spoken out earlier with concerns about the Hands Across America project was something like campaigning against the American Flag, Motherhood and apple pie.

There's no question that the American people are ready and willing to help the underprivileged. That fact is backed by statistics of years past. It's the American way.

But folks, try as hard as the people connected with the project might have, I was not convinced about how well the operation would work.

I understand, thanks to the home office info that the corporation was set up to be administered by the "USA for Africa" foundation, that "10% of funds will be allocated for emergency funds" and that the money will go toward the direct assistance of hungry and homeless populations and generally will be for a one-time use and for a specific need, the organization told me that.

But my problem is that no one was able to tell me how the money would be accounted for. Who would tell me what money went where. That, I believe, is essential. At least for my support.

I saw a lot of my friends out in that line Sunday. I admired their effort, as I've admired all efforts to help the less fortunate.

But, folks, we're talking millions of dollars, on a nation-wide effort. And if this newspaper is going to support such an effort, I think we need accountability.

My first question about the whole project was the amount of money being spent on it's promotion. More that $20 was spent just in the mailing of promotional material to this newspaper. That doesn't include the cost of printing, material and handling. Multiply that by the numbers of newspapers, radios and tv stations along the route, and you'll quickly recognize my question.

Again, I point out a lot of our neighbors were involved in the production of the lining of people along US 287. They worked hard, and I admire them for their efforts. They wanted to help.

Maybe part of my problem is that I come from a period many of you missed. That is, in my day those who were "hungry and homeless" were known as "bums," "railbirds," "hobos," and "panhandlers."

This wasn't meant as a putdown on anybody, but rather as a name for those who chose not to settle down, go to work for a living, and try to make a place for themselves.

I'm well aware my own father and his brothers "rode the rails" to get from one place to another. That, in the days of the depression, was about all they had to get from one place or another, by riding the rails without paying for their transport.

But the difference was that those who had nothing during the depression were those who stuck and tried to make a living, and those who didn't, earned the name.

In my opinion, those "street people" we know today are those of latter term, who chose not to find a place in society and work for their living.

We have organizations right here in Iowa Park which work on a daily basis to help the less fortunate. This is as any community should be. But to answer a call from people we don't even know, to go out and stand along the highway, whether we paid a fee or not, to make a bunch of promoters look good, I think not.

And there was a tremendous credibility gap developed in the news media following the project. We were told, by air media, that we had a steady line to the west of town, but my own observation was that the line was non-existent. And I looked from the Harmony Road overpass.

While our own lines through town, from Peterson Road to Harmony, was impressive, my best guess and that of other observers, was that it was fewer than 600.

Another big gap came from the promoters' own news releases. That was their statement that Kenny Rogers would "stand in the West Texas desert" on Interstate 40.

Folks, if you consider that area of the Texas and New Mexico as a desert, then the area between Iowa Park and Electra, without the mesquite trees, is a desert.

And what happened to all those trucks of the various corporations that were to span the distance between those people who were in line and couldn't reach from one to another. I have pictures, in this addition, to prove those trucks, nor the ribbons or anything else, didn't stretch.

No, I'm sorry, but I can't support a program of such magnitude unless there is some accountability. And this is to promise that the expenditures of the money raised locally and nationally will be accounted for. Not just because some promoter said "this is a good thing."

Helping those who need help is something virtually every resident of this fine community has in mind. We've proven it time and again.

Boy, if you don't think education in Texas isn't getting political, you've got another think coming.

Now comes an organization called "Texas Association of Community Schools," which has launched a drive to raise $750,000 for a headquarters building in the state capitol.

This group is alleged to represent those school districts in Texas with only one high school. That tells me that it is dominated by those small districts in the state the legislature had been trying more than 20 decades to consolidate.

Why are they fighting? Because, as is indicated by the famous HB 72 finance structure, the big cities are getting their own way in the way legislation is being written, and the smaller schools are trying to develop lobby power.

Oh, the TACS isn't new. That is pointed out by a recent news release that the organization's leased office rent has increased "500%" in the last 10 years, hence the need both of the organization and its home place.

I can't say I oppose what this group is fighting for. In fact, some 20 or more years ago, when I had the Kress newspaper, I opposed consolidation on a county basis. So I guess I must support what this group has in mind.

Other than the jobs of the people involved, they are fighting for the survival of rural communities. Is that so bad?

Iowa Park High student in summer program

An Iowa Park High School student will be among 26 from the area participating in the Spectrum program this summer at Midwestern State Univ.

He is Greg Huff, son of Mrs. Doreen Gaston, and is completing his sophomore year this week.

Spectrum is a program designed to introduce talented high school students to the experiences faced in college ranging from the classroom to the dormitory.

Students participating enroll in two academic courses and receive full college credit for all courses completed during the summer.

Classes are offered concurrently with the MSU first summer term and students take the courses alongside regularly-enrolled college students.

Various courses are offered including areas such as history, computer science, geology, psychology, sociology, literature, government, biology, chemistry and physical education.

Credit earned during the program may be applied toward a degree program at MSU or at another institution of higher learning. Selection of students is based upon a college entrance test score or PSAT score and on a competitive high school grade point average.

Scholarships are awarded to participants to cover tuition and housing, if the student chooses to live on campus.

This year's program begins Monday and concludes with finals July 3.

WANTED: Part time delivery person for nationwide company. Must be neat in appearance, have dependable transportation. Good pay, other benefits. For further information, call Bogus Advert at 234-5678.

The above would appear a simple enough classified advertisement and might appeal to somebody who is out of a job and looking for work. Yet in these United States there are from 20 million to 60 million people who can't read it.

These are functional illiterates, and according to the Census Bureau, they now make up 13 percent of our population. These are not people who have been deprived of a free public education. For the most part they are people who have gone through 12 years of schooling and have a diploma to prove it.

Yet they can't read well enough to understand a classified ad, cannot read a simple menu or understand a plane schedule.

The Census Bureau made the study of illiteracy only recently and announced their findings a couple of weeks ago. Before this study the government had estimated that only one half of one percent of Americans ages 14 and over were illiterate.

It is shocking to find that in a country which leads the world in technology, between 17 million and 20 million people cannot read English.

Most of these are not illegal aliens from Mexico, either. Most are people who have slipped through the cracks of our public education system.

The illiteracy rate for those whose native tongue is not English jumps to 48 percent but we need to be more concerned about the others. It is now beginning to be discussed openly that integration of our public schools has not done all that was expected for minorities, especially black students.

When schools were first integrated, the blacks were eased along because it was felt that their background was not as good as their white fellow classmates. In order to avoid charges of racial bias, teachers and administrators felt compelled to move these black students along until in far too many cases, they were moved along right out of high school without having been made to read and write.

We are familiar with the case of the basketball star from Creighton University who finished four years of college and yet was so inept in reading and writing that he enrolled himself in a third grade class in Chicago and finally learned how to read and write English. In fact, he then moved on into higher education, proving that he was not substandard intellectually but that the system had been too easy on him.

The Census Bureau disclosed that a whopping 50 percent of all black 17-year-olds are functionally illiterate today, a statistic that would have been concealed just a few years ago.

The study shows that some 15 percent of graduates from urban high schools read at less than sixth grade level and one million teenagers cannot read above the third grade level. This is not only hard on those who can't read, but it is costly to the nation.

An estimated $10 billion is forfeited in lost income each year by persons unable to read and write. Each year more than $8 billion in welfare goes to adults who cannot find and hold a job, largely because they are illiterate. An untold amount of damage is suffered by industry from workers who can't read well enough to understand the safety labels on the machines they operate.

The U.S. military pays a high price as well. Nearly 34 percent of naval recruits were recently described as "a danger to themselves and costly naval equipment because of their inability to read and understand instructions."

It is little wonder that training manuals don't look like they used to look. Today they are comic books with lots of pictures and few written words because recruits cannot read well enough to understand a technical manual.

Much as we criticize the Ross Perot committee for their reforms of the Texas educational system, we have to give them credit for trying to do something about the illiteracy problem.

The tests given to Texas high school juniors a few months ago was to determine how well they can read and write and then make changes in the educational system that will do something about it. The part of the program that toughens up the absence penalties, the controversial "no pass, no play" edict, all are aimed at improving education and in the end will result in more competent students.

We in the newspaper business have a deep and abiding interest in the program to improve reading habits of Americans.

Without people who read we can't sell newspapers and eventually we of the printed word will be out of business.

Television is a great entertainment medium but it is not much on education. TV news casts hit the highlights and emphasize the sensational because this kind of news draws the most viewers. It has been found that the average first grader has already been exposed to more hours in front of the television set than a college student spends in class to get a bachelor's degree. This indicates that something is out of balance.

Our schools can teach students to read and write. But they must operate under rules and regulations that encourage and even demand that this be done. Under the new plan, social promotions are out, tests must be passed in order to graduate, and emphasis is being turned toward basic education.

It is coming none too soon. A comprehensive effort is needed to reduce illiteracy. Failing that, several million Americans are condemned to a life of failure, frustration and futility.

The promotion called "Hands Across America" is floundering and it appears that there will be far less people than needed to hold hands from coast to coast.

There are just a small number expected to hold hands across the Texas Panhandle and the promoters have decided to let anybody hold hands along the highway without paying the $10 minimum fee.

When this project started there was talk about raising $160 million for the poor and homeless. This has dwindled down to some $18 million now, but that is still a lot of money.

In all of the publicity about Hands Across America, the emphasis has been upon getting the donations and the people and very little has been said about the specifics of dispensing the money raised.

I hope that when the smoke has cleared that Hands Across America does not go down as one of the biggest sucker schemes ever put on the American public.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Hamilton,
Child molestation and indecency with children are serious matters. Victims have to live with what happened to them for the rest of their lives. For a child to see their offender not get punished for the crime is a traumatic experience. Victims have to tell their story of abuse over and over to total strangers, and for the final outcome to be "nothing" is like a slap in the face. Victims never forget, instead they have to try to adjust and go on. Offenders can go on, if not helped or punished, to probably do the same thing to someone else.
I have heard that if one commits a serious offense in Wichita County, the probability of getting punished for it is very slim. I doubted that statement when I first heard it, but now I'm inclined to believe it. Where is the Justice for All? In Wichita County there appears to be Justice for the Offenders, not the victims.

I'm saddened to think that I chose to stay in this area and raise my family. Maybe I should move, move to a city where the offenders are punished and the victims can then have some peace of mind.
I hope the citizens who are selected for jury duty don't let their own disgust for child abuse black them from the realization that these serious crimes do happen in our communities. I hope they start remembering the victims when they attempt to see Justice done.

Cook of the Week

Three of Mrs. Mike Scholl's recipes for this week attest to the important place beef has in American cuisine.

"Beef," wrote Marie Antoine Cardene, the great nineteenth century chef, "is the soul of cooking." George Buffon of the eighteenth century said "Without the use of beef it would be difficult to live."

More beef is eaten than any kind of meat throughout the world, even taking into account the areas where religion forbids it, India where it is too expensive to eat, Japan and Hawaii where beef cattle were introduced in fairly recent years and have never succeeded in winning the natives from their favorite pork.

The roast beef of England is proverbial but Americans consume more beef per capita. The French consume more per capita than the English, and in Argentina it is the daily dish, even for the poor. Beef is popular in New Zealand and Australia among consumers who eat it chiefly in the form of steaks and roasts.

There were domesticated cattle in Egypt at least by 3500 B.C., according to one food authority. There are many references to them in the Bible. The possession of cattle in ancient times was equivalent to wealth.

The great feasts of Homeric times consisted chiefly of beef, and it was the archetype of meat in medieval times. The butchers' guild of Paris had two sculptured oxen on the facade of their church.

As early as 1854, Harper's Weekly had noted that the commonest meat in America, from coast to coast, was beef. The versatile meat is consumed in steaks, roasts, hamburgers, casseroles, etc.

Diane Scholl was graduated from Woodrow Wilson High School at Dallas. She and her husband, Mike, who is self-employed with S&S Services, have lived in Iowa Park 16 years. They have two sons, Jeff, who is in the U.S. Navy stationed in Florida, and Matthew, a fourth grader.

Diane worked for Texhoma Credit Union for ten and a half years. For the past two and a half years, she has worked in member services with Cryovac Federal Credit Union. She is a member of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. Her hobbies are reading and gardening.

Spray pecan trees

By DAVID FINLEY

The pecan nut casebearer alert went out for Wichita County this past week as casebearers were found in record numbers on Monday, May 19. Emory Boring, Donnie Peters and I looked at an orchard near Midwestern University that Virgil Woodfin manages. We found 50 percent of the young pecans with eggs on them and 02 percent damage. This is the indication for spraying that orchard.

For those home owners and commercial growers that have not sprayed or are gearing up for the second application, I thought it would be appropriate to write a column on the casebearer and how they can be detected.

There are several ways to detect the presence of pecan nut casebearer in pecan trees. The earliest way is to find terminal growth and shoot damage. In the spring when larvae emerge, they will feed for a short time on the buds and later tunnel into the shoots. These damaged shoots can be detected by the dead larvae near the tips. Upon closer observation, the young stems will be hollow and a larvae may be found inside.

These larvae will make adult moths that can lay as many as 150 eggs on the tips of the nutlets. The eggs are just visible to the naked eye and are greenish-white in color when deposited. They can also be laid on the side of the nutlets in the groove just under the tips. The eggs will turn reddish just before they hatch and after they hatch, will turn opaque white.

The young larvae will then feed on the buds just below the nuts for about two days. They finally migrate to the young nuts and will enter them near the base. before this entry is the time that control must be achieved. After the casebearer larvae enter the nuts, control is unattainable.

A second application for the pecan nut casebearer may be needed 7-10 days after the first one, and the application for the second generation can be applied 45 days after the first spraying.

There are several chemicals on the market for casebearer control. Most commercial growers and applicators use Pydrin or Zolone on the trees. Home owners can use Malathion 50% EC at the rate of one tablespoon per gallon of water, Diazinon 15% EC or Zolone 34% EZ at the rate of 1 1/4 teaspoon per gallon on their trees. Use Zolone when there are no gardens present. But, if a garden is close, it would be advisable to use Malathion. The label has the rates on them. Be sure and read and follow all the label directions when mixing.

Do not forget to spray for the pecan nut casebearer. If this is not done, the chances for a good pecan crop will be reduced greatly.

Iowa Park dominates All-District listing

CLEARING COMPLETED - City workers this week completed clearing of an entire block between Third and Fourth Streets, where the city council proposes to construct a civic center. Clearing of the tree-covered area created a new skyline in the neighborhood, complimenting the area to the east (some call it the Hill Place), and across West Highway on Cryovac's land east of the plant.

District 5-AAA baseball champion Iowa Park landed seven players on first team All-District, three on the second team, and had one member share the Most Valuable Player honor.

Selection of the team was made by coaches of district teams.

Ray Sefcik, one of only three seniors on the Hawk club, was named MVP along with Chris Thompson of Vernon.

Robert Adams, an All-District selection last year as a sophomore, made the first team this year as a pitcher and second team as a third baseman.

Selections to the honor teams were as follows:

PITCHERS - Robert Adams, jr., Iowa Park; Steve Wallon, jr., Springtown.
CATCHERS - Ray Sefcik, sr., Iowa Park; Lynn Villari, jr., Springtown.

SECOND BASE - Dave Taylor, sr., Iowa Park; Kirk Wooten, jr., Vernon.

McMurry wants Stephen Bidy

Stephen Bidy has been named to receive a Presidential Scholarship at McMurry College in Abilene for the coming school year, according to Dr. Thomas Kim, president.

Bidy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bidy.

To be eligible for a Presidential Scholarship at McMurry, a student must graduate in the top quarter of his high school class. A score of 21 or better on the ACT qualifies a recipient for additional Presidential Scholarship funds.

Library News

By STACIA BROWN

Children of Iowa Park will have the opportunity to "Celebrate Texas" by participating in the 1986 Summer Reading Club at the Tom Burnett Memorial Library. This program will begin on Saturday, May 31, at 9:30 a.m. with a fun filled registration day.

This program is co-sponsored by our library and the Texas State Library. The reading club is designed for children ages six to twelve years. However, there are two additional programs which will also be open for registration on the day of registration. The new programs are: 1) The Newborn Texas Reading Club which requires parents to read to their children who are between the ages of 0-3 years. 2) The Read-To-Me Reading Club which requires older children to read to younger ones, not necessarily to relatives, between the ages of 3-5 years.

This will be a very exciting day for all who participate. To join the fun filled activities that day: 1) Be at the library at 9:30 a.m. for registration. 2) Bring a sack lunch for the lawn picnic. Drinks will be provided.

Children will participate in several activities throughout the morning. Groups for learning Texas Songs, playing Texas games, and listening to Texas stories will meet. Then at 10:30 a special attraction will take place right on the lawn at the library. "The Shootist" a western comedy team from Wichita Falls will perform for the children as well as adults. All are invited to attend their performance at 10:30 a.m. There is no charge for admission. The performance will be followed by a sack picnic lunch on the lawn for the members of the Summer Reading Club. The morning's activities will close with the opportunity for the children to check out books.

Upon registration, the members of the reading club will receive "Celebrate Texas" reading logues, pencils, and bookmarks. Certificates of Participation will be awarded at the Texas Reading Club Awards Ceremony on July 19. For further information please contact the library at 592-4981.

Worth Quoting

Somehow or another in this country, we have a habit of associating intelligence with bigness.

We have a tendency to believe that the bigger the company, the more "smarts" it must have.

T'aint necessarily so!
A study of some of the biggest companies in this country reveal that about all one can say is the bigger the company the bigger the mistakes.

We've got a sneakin' hunch that Exxon, Amoco, Texaco, Mobile, Shell and the other giants in the oil business don't have any more idea where the price of oil is headed than the Sheik of Araby.

Take Exxon for example.
That company invested something like $400 million to develop an office furniture line of the furniture -- an investment that it has now abandoned. It's the same company that put $300 million into a revolutionary electric motor that fizzled.

Mobile bought Montgomery Ward that had successfully fought Sears for over 100 years -- and ran it into the ground in less than five years.

Texaco will be fighting for the next ten years to get out from under the lawsuits engendered by its naughty treatment of Pennzoil.

And the entrenched management of Phillips so loaded that oil company with debt to fight off takeover attempts, that it may not survive into the next decade let alone the next century.

General Motors, Ford, and Chrysler were taken to the mat by the little Japanese imports and it has taken ten years for them to adjust.

About all you can say for bigness is that there are more people to share in the blame when a big project bombs.

That's probably the reason that most discovery oil wells are made by little guys, little independents who have just as much "smarts" as the big'uns.

Later, the little'uns sell out to the big'uns who come in and develop the field or the product because as one old timer once said: "a pioneer never made a dime on nuthin' -- it's the fellers who come after him who reap the rewards!"

In belt tightening moves, some of the majors are spinning off marginal or low production leases. The moves are dictated by the "smarts" in the company.

And some littl'uns' who have just as much "smarts" will be buying these leases. That's the way littl'uns become big'uns.

We attribute the same kind of intelligence to the bigness of the state of the state government and to the folks in Washington.

Austin has wasted more money in the past five years than most countries have people. Soaring oil prices put more money in the state treasury than at any time in history -- and our "smarts" managed to spend every bit of it -- without raising our taxes.

Visit elderly

State Rep. Charles Finnell today urged citizens of the 80th district to visit a local Senior Center, nursing home or the homebound elderly during "Older Texans Month," as proclaimed by the governor and president.

"Older Texans have contributed much to make the State what it is and what we enjoy today. Please take time this month to have lunch with your local Senior Center or nursing home," Finnell said, adding that based on his experience "you will find this to be rewarding and uplifting."

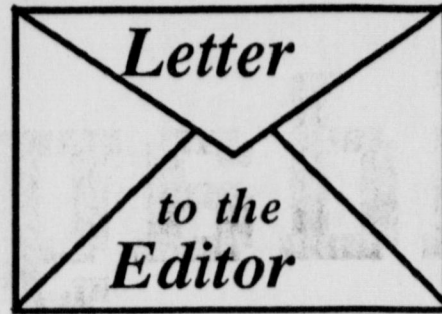

"I also urge local employers to consider employing Older Texans," stated Finnell, highlighting the valuable contributions of Older Texans as productive members of the State's work force. "Our Senior Citizens possess unique capabilities and skills acquired through years of experience and hard work," emphasized Finnell, a board member of Senior Texans Employment Program.

Eagles 3-2 winners; advance to regional

The Holliday Eagle baseball team are Area champs after coming from behind at the bottom of the seventh inning to win 3-2 against Southlake Carroll in the Class 2A bi-district play-off game Monday.

With the Eagles trailing 2-0 in the final inning of the game, Eagle mainstay, Larry Krob, hit a spectacular homerun to bring in all three runs.

Letter to the Editor:

I am opposed to the city of Holliday, Texas paying attorney fees for city officials who have been subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury, as was requested by one official.

The grand jury is a fact finding body, set up to receive and record information, and make determinations. To be subpoenaed is not an accusation, charge or an indictment, just an order to appear and give information.

In the on going investigation of suspected arson in the city of Holliday, Texas, the citizens have been very helpful. Cooperating even to the point of some individuals taking polygraph examinations (lie detector test).

I don't believe the city of Holliday should make the grand jury proceedings more difficult and time consuming by cluttering up the process with a bunch of questions and objections, from a city paid attorney.

The cost of this service could be enormous, the funds are not budgeted and the city should not bear this unnecessary expense.

I realize some people might feel more comfortable with legal council and this is their privilege. It should be paid for by private funds, not public funds.

The city of Holliday, Texas does not require its employees to violate the laws in order to perform their duty. The city of Holliday will not be subpoenaed. The city of Holliday will not be charged or indicted.

Let's not spend city funds in this unnecessary manner.

Graduations slated

Holliday eighth grade and high school commencement ceremonies will be held Thursday and Friday nights, respectively, at Erma Barton Auditorium.

Eighth grade graduation, featuring valedictorian Carla Carr and salutatorian Teresa Noll, will begin at 8 p.m.

High school graduation ceremonies will begin at 8 p.m. with a salutatory address by Robert Parkey and speeches by Rhonda Rasmussen and Lad Cole, ranking seniors.

Next, a special song, "Just for a Moment," will be performed by seniors Robert Parkey and Ginger Potts.

Laura Bills will then deliver her valedictory address, followed by the presentation of the DAR Award by Mrs. Fern McAllister.

Bill Lee, high school principal, will present scholarships and awards, including scholarships by the Holliday Lion's Club, Holliday Chapter of Young Homemakers of Texas, Lynch Memorial Scholarship, Association of Texas Professional Educators and the Future Farmers of America Booster Club.

The presentation of diplomas will be by Holliday School Board members, Jack Parkey and Gene Harmon, the fathers of two of the 32 graduating seniors.

School leaders attend retreat

Members of the Holliday School Board and Holliday school superintendent Dan Owen attended a second annual school board retreat recently at Chaparral Baptist Assembly Camp.

Board members and superintendents representing the Iowa Park, Archer City and Henrietta Independent School Districts also attended the retreat.

The program included talks by the superintendents of the Holliday, Iowa Park, Wichita Falls and Henrietta school districts, as well as two representatives of Region IX Service Center.

Supt. Owen said he is hoping that the session will go towards the 20 hours of training required of all school board members.

were already on base after each grabbed single base hits.

The No. 9-ranked Eagles, with a record of 13-2 on the year, drew a bye in the area playoff round and will advance to regional playoffs against the winner of Wall and Whitney playoff game, played Wednesday.

Tax office closing told

The Holliday tax office will be closed during the month of June and Supt. Dan Owen asks that all tax business be completed before Monday.

In the past, the tax office operated all 12 months of the year, but for cost efficiency reasons it has been cut to 11 months.

Summer starts this afternoon

When the final bell rings at 2:30 today, Holliday students will officially begin their summer vacation.

With the exception of this year's graduating seniors, students will not return to school until September 1.
