New school year to begin Tuesday

Construction remains unfinished on all four campuses

Even though construction work will be continuing at all four campuses of the Iowa Park school system, classes will get underway Tuesday morning.

Expansion projects at each of the schools will not be completed by the first day of classes -- it will likely be the start of the spring semester at the junior high school -- but school must go on, and administrators have made provisions to receive the students.

Police Chief Wayne Parsons has issued a request for all drivers in the city to use extreme caution, especially during the first couple of weeks, because of the number of pupils crossing streets in the mornings and afternoons.

As has been the school's policy for several years, classes will be dismissed one hour earlier than usual on opening day, according to Supt. Glen Mitchell.

Actually, the first two weeks of school will be only four days each. Students will get their first holiday the following Monday, Labor Day.

Classes will dismiss one hour early also on Nov. 20, when students and faculty start their Thanksgiving holiday. They'll not have to report back until Nov. 26.

Christmas holidays will extend from the close of school on Dec. 14 until Jan. 2, according to the calendar.

The spring semester will begin Jan. 22, and May 31 is the final day of school.

KIDWELL ELEMENTARY

Continuing construction at Kidwell Elementary will likely cause the greatest amount of confusion, both for students and parents.

Principal Ron Woods has drawn a plan for receiving pupils who are dropped off along Third Street, and the students use the sidewalk by the flag pole; and second graders be dropped off on Fourth Street, using the fence entrance nearest the playground equipment.

In all cases, teachers will be outside the building to direct the children, he said.

Buses, as usual, will be the only vehicles allowed to use the circle drive in front of the building to deliver students for classes.

Students who walk to school should use the first grade and second grade approaches to the building, depending on whether they approach from the east or west sides, Woods added.

Students who arrive on campus prior to 7:55 a.m. are to go directly to the cafeteria.

The project to enclose the front porch of the building should be completed by Tuesday, but construction of the gymnasium likely will not be finished until December.

Woods said his classes are nearing capacity, based on the students who attended school there last year and the registration of kindergarten pupils.

Approximately 160 kindergarten students already are enrolled. There are four classrooms, and students attend only half a day in that grade.

In the seven rooms of First Grade, the average is nearing 21 pupils, while there already is a 22-student capacity in the Second Grade, if all those who attended school here last year return, Woods said.

A new ruling by the state could increase the kindergarten enrollment.

Unless the rule is modified, parents who are considering holding their five year olds out until next year could be making a mistake, Woods warned.

The state has set a policy that does

Projects on city agenda

Numerous project proposals await the city council's approval when aldermen meet at 7 p.m. Monday in council

A second list of streets to be treated with a slurry mix will be considered, as workers near completion of the first 32-block project.

parks will be considered

Two policies will be considered: compensatory time off and enforcement of the existing ordinance requiring alarm permits and false alarm enforcement.

Having had two weeks to consider the proposed budget of the Wichita County Tax Appraisal District, which totals $788,852, aldermen will be asked to vote whether or not to accept it. The proposed budget is slightly less than the previous year's $792,178.

Members of the Recreational Activities Center board are to be at the meeting to discuss with the council alternatives for future development of the new structure which is nearing completion.

Authorization will be sought for authorizing the city administrator to advertise for bids to purchase materials to renovate certain railroad crossings.

Also to be considered is an ordinance accepting a plat of the Country View Mobile Home Park, which is being subdivided under a state condominium provision. The individual lots would be sold for private ownership, if approved.

City approval is required, because the park is in the city's extra-territorial jurisdiction.

Also for consideration by the council is a resolution authorizing a change order for the Colorado Street construction project, to add a storm drainage design which was not in the original street design.

Trustees hold budget hearing

While some additional cuts were directed to be made in the 1990-91 school budget during the school board's public hearing Thursday night, the effect they will have on the tax rate has yet to be calculated.

The public hearing was required by state law, because of an increase in the tax rate over the 1989-90 year.

The proposed budget was based on a 96-cent tax rate per $100 assessed valuation, which, if approved, would be a 15-cent increase over the previous year's rate.

When the residents of the district last fall approved a $2.75-million bond issue, this year's tax rate was automatically increased by 11-cents, just to make payments on the construction financing.

Supt. Glen Mitchell explained to the board that he was asking an additional four cents in order to provide the first balanced budget the district has had in at least five years. Budgets during that period were all deficit budgets, designed to cut down the carryover balance.

Held in the junior high school library, approximately 36 persons attended, most of them faculty members.

The board has scheduled a meeting in the same location Thursday, Aug. 30, at which time trustees will vote not only on the budget, but also the tax rate.

The first question fielded from the audience was why the residents of the district did not know of the rate increase as a result of the bond issue.

Supt. Glen Mitchell explained that a brochure, which included the effect on taxes should the issue be approved, was mailed to every resident of the district well before the election was held.

"We tried to be as open about it as possible," he added.

Ira Hambright pointed out that older people on fixed income might be hurt by the increased tax rate.

He was told that residents 65 years of age and older have their taxes frozen at the rate in existence when they reached that age, and the tax on their homes would only be affected by reevaluation.

In response to a question posed by John Williamson, who wanted to know how many teachers the district has and how much it costs the taxpayers to give faculty members a $1,800 above-base bonus, Supt. Mitchell said there were 110 teachers and the cost is approximately $165,000.

Tom Venhaus asked if the 97-percent tax collection rate was used every year when calculating taxes.

Tax Collector Allan Shewmake said it was, and the figure was very close. He further explained that the remaining three percent is normally collected, but taxes not collected by Jan. 1 are considered delinquent.

Billy Joe Carter complained that evaluations in the district never are lowered, pointing out his on-going fight with the appraisal district over the value placed on his home.

"You say we're high, but the state says we're low," Shewmake responded.

He said the state checks the appraisals made by the local district, and consistently charge that the local appraisals were too low, other than on utilities.

Thursday's meeting of the board was actually held in two parts: the first to satisfy state law requirements for a public hearing on the budget; the second to allow trustees to discuss questions they had on the proposed budget.

No decisions reached during the second portion are considered official, because there was no action called for on the meeting agenda. Any directions given the superintendent, concerning the budget, will not become effective until the board votes on them next week.

United Way campaign to kick off with feed

The Iowa Park United Way campaign cabinet will kick off this year's fund-raising project in a fun-filled way.

To set the mood, the cabinet will host a "Festival of Giving Kickoff" with the hope of involving all citizens.

The celebration will be at 12-noon Thursday, Aug. 30, at Park Ford, with a meal prepared by the Iowa Park Mule-Skinners and music furnished by the Friendly Door senior citizens.

Reservations can be made by calling the United Way offices at 322-8638.

The annual campaign on behalf of 33 agencies serving Iowa Park, Burk Burnett, Wichita Falls and Sheppard AFB has been highly successful since Iowa Park joined the United Way 13 years ago.

Last year, United Way agencies served over 4,600 Iowa Park residents with emergency services, counseling, day care, educational programs and recreational services.

Police unaccustomed to light work load

Other than an exceptionally high incidence of bogus 911 emergency phone calls and entries for "juveniles in need of supervision," entries in the past week's police blotter were unusually low.

Police assisted troopers from the Department of Public Safety to serve a warrant and arrest one individual.

Jimmy Hand was taken into custody at 5:22 p.m. Sunday in the 500 block of East Ruby and held until he was picked up by a trooper.

Hand reportedly was wanted on a warrant for felony stop and render aid, otherwise known as hit and run.

A resident of the 1300 block of Mockingbird told police Wednesday of last week and again Monday that her home had been burglarized both previous evenings.

Taken the first time was a .22 cal.

Chamber hears proposal for community promotion

Directors of the Chamber of Commerce were presented a proposal for the production of a filmed presentation of the community which could be used to solicit families to move here.

The video tape presentation would be used primarily to attract relocating families affected by the closing of Chanute AFB who will be stationed at Sheppard AFB.

Iowa Parkan Earl Blair offered to produce the film for $5,000.

He explained such a film would necessitate filming of activities around the community over a year's time.

A Burk Burnett businessman has been producing a film for the same purpose, which would feature Burk Burnett, Iowa Park and Wichita Falls.

However, Blair said his film would not have any advertising.

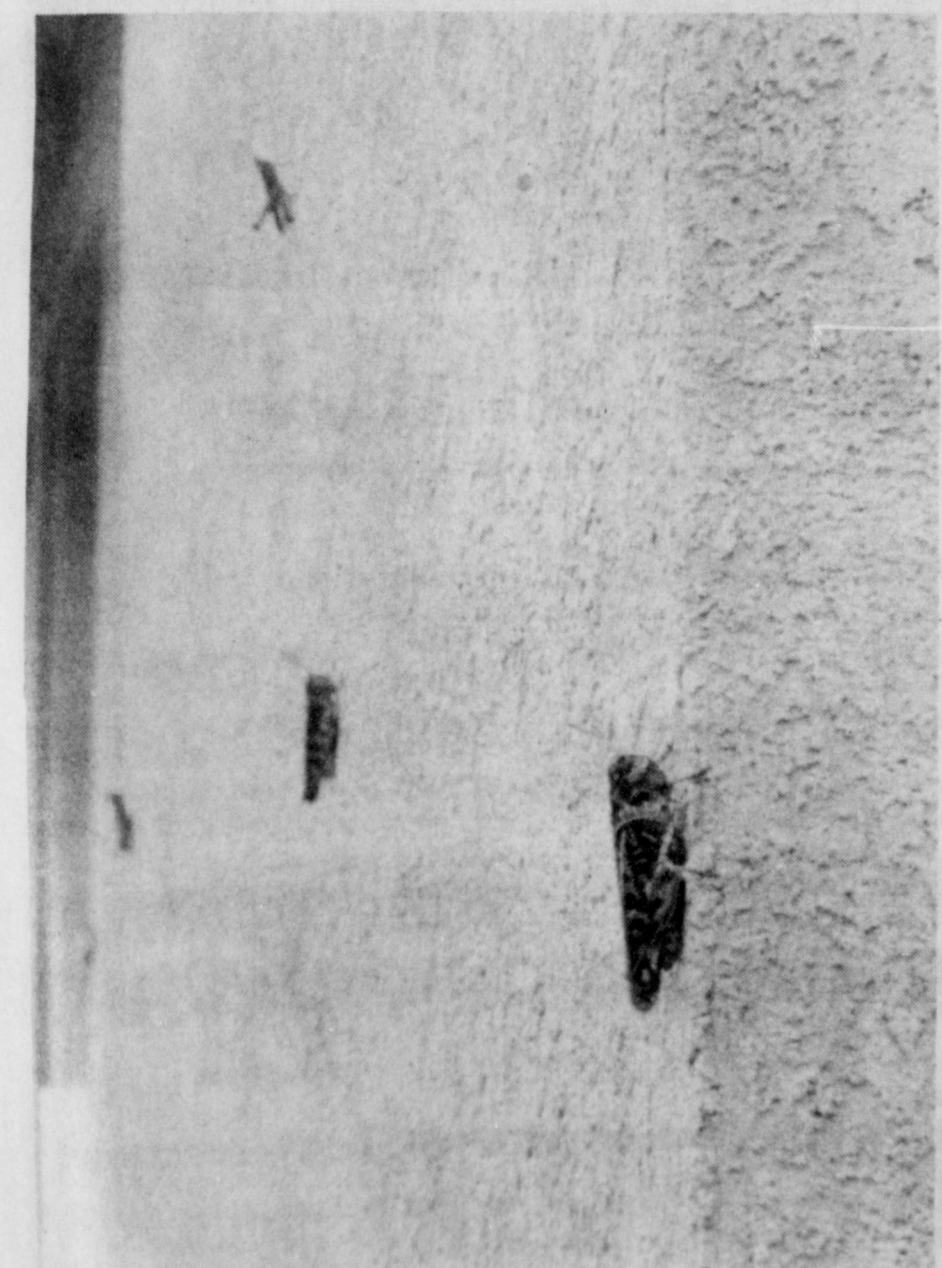

No action was taken on the proposal, but Chamber President Harold Smith said, "If we can get the various groups together (city, Industrial Development Corporation and businesses), to help funding we may be able to underwrite this."

Chamber Secretary Susan Dillard said she would begin Sept. 4 accepting booth reservations for the annual Whoop-T-Do, which will be held Oct. 13.

Non-profit organizations will be charged a $25 deposit for booth space, and will be asked to pay 10-percent of their net receipts, whichever is greater.

Arts and crafts booth reservations will be $10.

Kathy Roberts and Terry Simonton

Engagement announced

The engagement and future wedding date of Kathy S. Roberts and Terry D. Simonton is being announced by the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Barbara S. Roberts of Springtown.

Simonton graduated L.D. Bell High School in Fort Worth and is employed with the City of Hurst as a police officer.

Miss Roberts is a daughter of the late Clifton J. Roberts and granddaughter of Grace H. Roberts of Iowa Park. The Roberts were formerly of Iowa Park. She also is the granddaughter of Gladys Clubb of Lake Diversion and the late James W. Clubb.

Speeding concerns group

The Neighborhood Watch group for North Fourth St. met last week at Tom Burnett Memorial Library.

The meeting topic was drinking and driving, and a representative from the Iowa Park Police Department showed a film on drunk driving.

Parents of the groom-to-be are Mrs. E.L. Simonton of Hurst and Danny Simonton of Las Vegas, Nev.

During the discussion period, led by chairman Mary Alfert, the main concern voiced by the members was the speed of the traffic on Fourth Street. They were concerned for the safety of the children who will attend Kidwell Elementary School, and also for those who use the playground facilities and play ball there after hours.

The couple will exchange nuptial vows Oct. 6 at 3 p.m. in Calvary Temple of Irving.

Miss Roberts attended Iowa Park High School until her junior year in 1975 and graduated Perryton High School, Perryton, in 1976.

Hail, Melton vows exchanged Saturday

Nuptial vows were exchanged by Ramona Alice Hail and Bobby Dean Melton, Jr. of Wichita Falls Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Scene of the wedding was Bible Baptist Church in Wichita Falls, with Rev. David Bryant, pastor, officiating.

The bride is a daughter of Regina Boulware Kremer of Stillwater, Okla., and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Boulware of Iowa Park.

The groom is the son of Bobby Melton of Wichita Falls.

Arrangements of peach carnations and roses provided the setting for the double ring vows.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Jimmy Hail, the bride was attired in a Southern belle styled gown of white satin. The fitted bodice was accented with pearls and sequins and was attached to a full skirt. Her veil of illusion was held by a halo, decorated with sprays of pearls.

She carried a cascade of carnations, roses and gypsophelia with peach streamers.

For something borrowed, the bride wore her grandmother's pearls and something old were pearl earrings that belonged to the groom's mother. She added a blue garter to her complete the tradition.

Tanya Carter of Bessie, Okla., was maid of honor. Her peach colored satin gown was fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt. She carried a bouquet of peach carnations.

Deanna Jiles of Oklahoma City was bridesmaid. She was attired identical to the honor attendant.

Flower girl was Stormie Melton of Wichita Falls. She wore a gown of white lace trimmed with bows of peach satin.

Stark Kremer of Stillwater, the bride's brother, was ring bearer.

Serving as best man was John Wesley Harding of Byers. Ushers and groomsmen were David Preston of Wichita Falls, William Whipple of Stillwater, brother of the bride, and the groom's brother, Rodney Melton, Wichita Falls.

The groom wore a black classic tuxedo with tails complemented with a white cummerbund, white shirt and bow tie. All male attendants were dressed as the groom and completed their costume with peach cummerbunds and bow ties.

Mrs. Melton graduated Cordell, Okla., High School and attended Southwest Oklahoma State University, Weatherford, and Midwestern State University.

Melton is a graduate of Wichita Falls High School.

The bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Boulware, were hosts for the reception in Masters Hall of the church following the ceremony.

Guests were registered by Tammy Wolsey. Presiding at the bride's table were Lisa Medlin, Anita Jo Clayton and Nelda Preston.

Following a wedding trip to Dallas, the couple will make their home in Wichita Falls.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were Jeff Morrison, Gregg Gunning, Linda Rollins and Patricia Keezer.

Optimists hear scouting report

Wesley Davis, chairman of the Boy Scouts Advisory Council for Troop 7 was guest speaker for last week's meeting of the Optimist Club.

Davis gave an informative report on a recent meeting of those who wanted to be scouts. He said 10 adults were present for the meeting.

It was announced that Saturday has been set for trash pickup at the home of Ruth Gensler.

Couple feted at post-nuptial shower

A post-nuptial shower inspired by the recent marriage of Raylyn Compton and Bryan Smith was given Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Sasser.

Sharing hostess duties were Mmes. Mike Leath, Preston Leath, Glen Miller, John Cummings, Neta Hughes, Bill Curry and Clyde Patterson.

Decorations featured summer pastel colors with special emphasis on blue and touches of pink and white.

Focal point in the entertainment rooms was the refreshment table draped with a delicate white nylon appliqued cloth. The centerpiece was fashioned with a bouquet of blue and white silk roses, stephanotis and baby's breath arranged in a crystal bowl. A crystal punch service at one side and dainty tea cookies and napkins at the other completed the table decor.

A special area for the couple to greet relatives and friends was arranged in the den where they opened their gifts. They were assisted by Miss Becky Leath, who registered the gifts and donors. Miss Dee Warren arranged the gifts for display. The new Mrs. Smith was presented a pink carnation corsage by the hostesses.

As I See It...

By BOB HAMILTON

Before someone starts stomping their foot and yelling "I told you so!" let me point out no one ever guaranteed the school construction projects would be completed and ready for the first day of classes.

Of all the projects, only the first and possibly easiest of all areas of work, the addition onto the football field house, is now done.

There'll be a lot of people inconvenienced because the projects are not completed, including students, teachers, maintenance personnel and construction workers.

And you can add to that list many of the parents of students who attend Kidwell Elementary, because dropping their kiddos off at the designated place (please see front page story) will not always be handy for them.

Oh, there's plenty of blame to go around. You can blame the school board for its timing of the bond election, the architect for some mistakes in a few details, and the construction companies and their workers for some lagging.

But the point is, the improvements are being made, and our school system, including the students and the faculty, will be the better for it once all is completed.

Delay in completion of school construction isn't new. Remember when the students were disappointed back in 1969?

The high school building wasn't completed, as planned. So the high school students had to stay in the old W.F. George building another semester, and the junior high pupils had to put up with them that much longer.

But everyone was happy once the move was made, and it's all been better since.

And while all this change is going on, there's one other change I still want to see.

I want traffic to slow down on Fourth Street. Most specifically between Van Horn and the Access Road.

People, there's kids all over that part of town, especially when school is in session. Many of those youngsters walk to Kidwell, either to attend class or to catch their bus to another campus.

It should not be necessary to have a policeman staked out in that neighborhood, watching to catch some unthinking driver.

But I can just about promise you there will be. And if you're caught speeding there, I hope you get what's coming to you.

I speak of Fourth Street, because I drive it daily. I often have to dodge a mother taking her children to school, as well as others who have nothing to do with the school, especially in the mornings.

I speak specifically of Fourth Street, because I travel it every day. So I'm more aware of it. I know the same thing likely happens around all the other campuses.

But I plead with you, wherever you drive, to slow down. These youngsters don't know how much a hurry you are in, and they might not see you in time to get out of your way.

gun and a television the second time. And on both occasions, food also was reportedly taken.

A 48-year-old Iowa Park man was transported to a Wichita Falls hospital Tuesday by his wife after he reportedly attempted suicide with medication.

The subject was later described by hospital personnel as being in a stable condition.

Sometime Tuesday night, someone reportedly used a spray can to damage two automobiles in the 200 block of West Clara. A trash dumpster was also victim of the painter.

Hallford serving in Red Sea

A second former Iowa Park resident reportedly is serving with the military in the Middle East.

Lt. Com. Wayne Hallford, a fighter pilot, is aboard the USS Eisenhower in the Red Sea.

First Iowa Parkan reported to be called for duty in the show of force after the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait was Army Capt. Ronnie Reusch.

not allow the school to enroll a child in kindergarten during the 1991-92 year who will be six prior to Sept. 1, 1991. The child would have to be enrolled in the first grade.

"There is much opposition to this ruling and it could be changed. However, it would create an extreme hardship on the student and on the school to have them enter the first grade without kindergarten training.

"This is your (parent) decision since kindergarten is not yet mandatory," he said.

BRADFORD ELEMENTARY

The new classrooms being added onto Bradford Elementary also will not be ready for the start of school, according to Principal Kenneth Davis.

And though the new library, which is being developed by taking out a partition that was between two rooms, will be complete, new furniture will not be in place.

Students will continue to use the temporary classroom buildings until the addition construction is completed.

The music room will be pressed into use as a classroom for the time being, and the music teacher will have to go to different rooms for instruction, Davis said.

"We're still in a mess," Davis described his campus situation.

JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

The entire new wing being added onto the junior high school will likely not be completed until the start of the spring semester.

And on top of that, it was not known as of presstime whether Principal Jimmy Alsop would be on campus to receive his students.

Alsop became ill Sunday. He underwent testing the first two days of the week and was at home awaiting results of the tests Wednesday.

In his stead, temporarily, is his new vice principal Dennis Brooks.

Alsop earlier reported only one class will be inconvenienced this semester. He said George Brandt has been scheduled to teach one class each afternoon in the cafeteria.

HIGH SCHOOL

Neither the three new classrooms nor the choral room of the high school will be completed by Tuesday, though everything else expectedly will be, Principal Richard Davis said.

Some of the student parking area will be consumed by construction fencing, but there is still adequate space, Davis said.

"If they'll just park as far west as they can, there'll be plenty of room," said the principal.

Students will report directly to the auditorium Tuesday morning.

Students are to pick up their class schedules today: seniors and juniors, 8:30-11:30 a.m.; sophomores and freshmen, 1-3:30 p.m.

We said it would happen!

Congressman Larry Combest faxed us a letter Tuesday he received from a colleague in the House calling for a windfall profits tax.

The letter came from Paul E. Kanjorski, congressman from the 11th district in Pennsylvania.

The first paragraph of the letter went like this:

"I would like to invite you to become an original co-sponsor of legislation I will introduce when the House reconvenes in September to reinstate the Windfall Profits Tax and use the proceeds to reduce the cost of the Savings and Loan bailout to taxpayers.

The congressman from the Keystone state went on to argue in his letter to other members of the House:

"Over a seven year period, the original Windfall Profits Tax generated $79 billion for the U.S. Treasury, 30 percent more than the administration's original estimate of the cost of the S&L bailout and roughly the amount of money it now says is necessary to complete the bailout. Why should we add hundreds of billions of additional dollars in unnecessary interest costs when we can pay for much of the bailout cost now by reinstating the Windfall Profits Tax?"

"Reinstating the Windfall Profits Tax also makes sense because the boom and bust in oil prices is responsible for much of the problem we are cleaning-up today. Reinstating the tax will also have a leveling effect on the economy of the Southwest thus preventing another boom and bust."

The congressman conveniently overlooks the fact that the $79 billion paid into the federal treasury by the windfall profits tax was used for the benefit of all states -- including Pennsylvania.

You might say that Texas and other oil producing states have already paid in advance for any "boom and bust in oil prices and the resulting S&L problems."

It's evident that Americans are Americans only when threatened from without -- not from within -- its borders.

Congressman Combest will be in Andrews August 23rd and local citizens can attend the public meeting and get Larry's response to the Pennsylvanian's letter.

Andrews County News

Here's a suggestion for Denton County officials who don't like their salaries.

Resign, move to a county that pays more and run for office there - please.

County Commissioner Sandy Jacobs Monday proposed raising the county judge's salary by $8,500 and the sheriff's by $6,000 next year. Jacobs, a Republican from Carrollton, said both positions should pay more because officeholders in 11 areas similar to Denton County earn higher salaries.

County Commissioner Lee Walker joined Jacobs in voting for the higher salaries. County Judge Vic Burgess, who lost his bid for reelection in the March Republican primary, joined Democrats Buddy Cole and Don Hill in voting against the proposal.

Jacobs has carpied for years that qualified people won't run for county office because the pay is so low when compared to private industry. Now, she will just be satisfied if the salaries are just equal to those paid in other counties.

The county judge and sheriff both make about $50,000 a year, but Jacobs says that's not enough to attract good candidates. I've never noticed a shortage of candidates for county office, although I agree that many probably wouldn't qualify as captains of industry.

I think we should go ahead and make do with officials who are just good enough to make $40,000 or $50,000 a year.

Pilot Point Post-Signal

The most refreshing bit of news I have come across lately is from the University of Texas campus in Austin.

A group of demonstrators, billed as a campus atheist society, announced plans for publicly burning a U.S. flag on the campus mall as a form of political protest.

They showed up to demonstrate. They were met by around 400 other students, armed with fire extinguishers, jugs of water and other material with which to quench a blaze.

The fire never got started because the anti-protestors kept the flag from being burned. Some of the would-be flag burners accidentally got sprayed with the fire extinguishers and the water.

The anti-protestors said they were merely exercising their right of political protest, and indeed they were.

Campus police broke up the demonstration and everyone went home with the flag not having burned, at least not on the UT campus.

Worth Quoting

I bought a number of Amos 'n Andy tapes a while back and it has been truly delightful to listen to this page out of the past. I realize that there is a generation to whom Amos 'n Andy mean nothing but to a lot of us this radio legend brings back memories and also brings laughs to the present. These tapes, made by the famous duo of Freeman Gosden and Charles Correll, were suppressed for years by the efforts of the NAACP and other black organizations on the grounds that the Amos 'n Andy humor was demeaning to the black race. A Supreme Court ruling has let the tapes be distributed and these programs are bringing joy to a lot of listeners.

Amos 'n Andy were perhaps the top rated radio show in the 1930s and continued into the 1940s. The tapes I have span those years and while we know that Gosden and Correll were white men engaged in blackface humor it makes no difference. These tapes contain the original commercials, too, and we hear about the virtues of Rinso soap powder even though it is no longer made. The NBC chimes are very evident, too, something we haven't heard in years. The comedy involves Amos and Andy and Kingfish George Stevens and his wife Sapphire, Shorty the Barber, Gabby Gilbert the lawyer and the other characters.

This comedy is clean and funny, much like the Bill Cosby show which has been top rated in television for a long time. The dialect is perhaps dated by today's standards, but it is still funny. This show on radio was followed by a successful television series, but those video tapes are still suppressed and are not for sale. Maybe some day they will be and we can enjoy the antics of the Amos 'n Andy cast again. This is an American humor classic.

The 1930s and 1940s were the Golden Age of radio and American families spent their evenings in front of the radio set listening not only to Amos

'n Andy but also Jack Benny, Fred Allen, Bob Hope and other entertainers who made the move from radio to television. Radio was thought to be in mortal danger when television burst on the scene, but radio is still alive, although in much different form. Network radio has faded. Radio listening audiences are fragmented and specialized. And when the 6 o'clock news comes on television, radio is dead, whether the radio people want to admit it or not.

Entertainment has changed over the years and it has to be admitted that television rules the roost these days. Television has not only pushed radio aside and knocked the motion picture industry from its perch. Television has been called the most significant industry in the 20th century and that is probably true because TV has changed the average American family more than anything else. And television itself has been changed, too. Cable television and independent networks have eaten into the three networks until all television audiences are fragmented these days.

In the race for more viewers, television has gone more and more into sex and violence until a great many experts fear for the future of the younger generation because of this influence which leads to a decline in morals and an increase in crime. The motion pictures of today are a far cry from the old days when the hays office kept a tight censorship on all pictures and would not allow anything to be shown that was the least bit offensive in the way of sex, violence or foul language. Today's movies pay no attention to this and try to outdo one another in seeing which film can produce the most shock value.

If a person is looking for a big buck these days, it comes from the entertainment industry. The television performers, the movie stars and the professional athletes draw down the big money. When a Dolly Parton can get $700,000 for a week's work at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas and when Michael Jackson can make $50 million a year from stage performances, you have to know that the big money comes from those who want to be entertained. This may say something about the way American values have changed.

This year, because of many hours of volunteer time and work, the Booster Organization was able to commit $6,000 to help outfit the new field house. Also contributed are funds for a flagpole and needed equipment for the baseball complex. Both of these areas involve the athletes of Iowa Park directly and we are very proud.

Every parent of any athlete in the school system is an automatic Booster and we encourage you to attend our meetings to help in our efforts. Booster meetings are announced weekly in the Iowa Park Leader.

Any fan of Iowa Park athletes is a Booster and we ask that you attend our meeting to keep up with all the events throughout the year. We could use your volunteer help if you are interested.

The Boosters held financially in areas such as charter buses for playoff games in football and baseball, concession for basketball and baseball games, Football Awards Banquet, All-Sports Spring Awards Banquet, refreshments during scrimmages and the Pre-Season Watermelon Bowl, plus many areas of spirit boosting.

Please help this organization with your financial commitment.

Three levels of contributions will be offered this year: Hawk Fan; Hawk Booster; and Mean Green Backer "MGB." The first 100 registered MGBs will receive a special recognition button.

Local woman relieved by Dr. Red Duke

By Myrna Smith

Benign Essential Blepharospasm.
What is it? What are the symptoms? Can it be cured? What is the treatment?

And what about the patient's perspective?

One patient, Mrs. Everett (Alice) Boulware, has been asking these questions for almost 15 years without a diagnosis.

Now that she has finally been diagnosed as having BEB after seeing many doctors, she and her husband both feel relief.

No longer does she feel like she is imagining things, as many have tried to convince her—even her husband.

Mrs. Boulware had been treated for nervous disorders, for myasthenia gravis, arthritis, dry eyes, depression and other conditions to no avail.

BEB, or Benign Essential Blepharospasm is an involuntary forcible closure of the eyelids. However, there can be related disorders, which Mrs. Boulware has experienced.

Although BEB was first described in a North American medical journal in 1895, only in recent years have physicians begun to recognize it as a physical and not a psychological disorder.

Blepharospasm is often diagnosed because of the relative lack of awareness among physicians, especially among the non-neurologists and non-ophthalmologists. Too often it is diagnosed as a psychiatric problem.

There is no specific test for diagnosing these disorders.

BEB cannot be cured, but there are effective treatments which reduce the symptoms and permit the patient to maximize their productivity.

In Mrs. Boulware's case, she experienced the related disorders prior to the BEB. She has had spasms of the lower face, throat, neck, hands and voice, which is termed Meige syndrome.

"My hands got so bad about eight years ago that I couldn't write. Then they began to get better," Alice said. She added that since the doctors had told her there was nothing wrong with her, she decided maybe it was all "in my head".

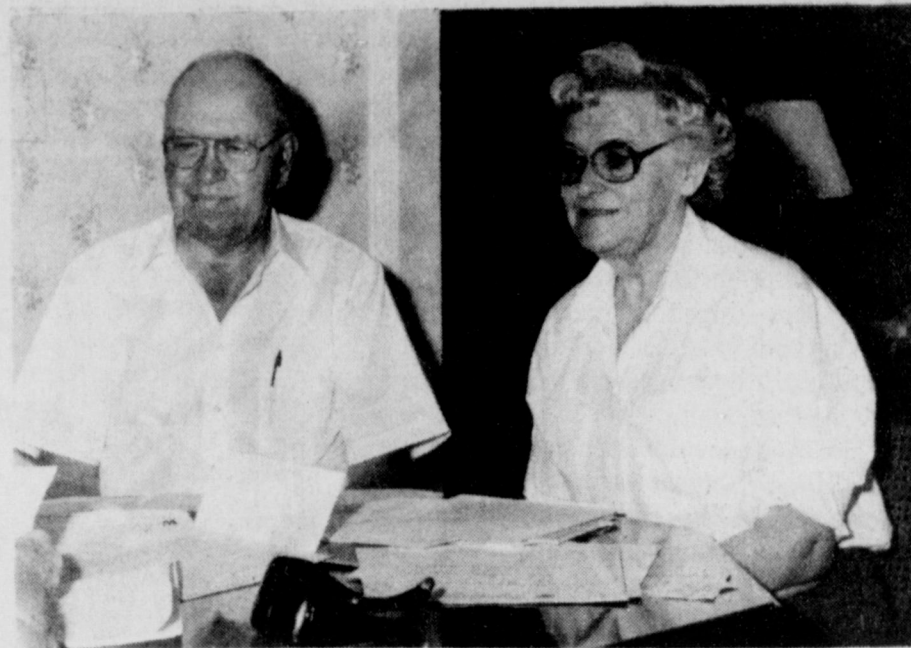

When her voice left her, she was told by physicians that she had a stroke. Then it began to come back, but not back to her normal speaking voice, and it still isn't. That was about five years ago.

"Through the years I have been very frightened and frustrated. I have been embarrassed and I couldn't understand what was happening to me or how I was going to convince anyone that something was wrong," Alice said.

Then came the involuntary closing of the eyelids about three years ago. "This was even worse. I went to eye specialists and they told me I had 20-20 vision and they could not find anything wrong. It was a little eyelid problem." To the patient it is not "little."

This latter condition had worsened in the past six months. One of the first things she noticed was a sensitivity to light.

They attend Faith Baptist Church and after the new sanctuary was built with the ceiling lighting that it has, she began noticing that it bothered her eyes.

MR. AND MRS. EVERETT BOULWARE

Boulware says a lot of times she would get up and leave the building before services were over. He began to be even more concerned now.

Next her eyelids would close completely. On one eye she could not take her hand and "pry" it open, but she could hold her eyelid up at times on the other eye.

This condition causes a great deal of stress, frustration and depression. One moment the patient can see and the next moment he or she may not.

Boulware says friends would pass by and wave and she could not see them. "We were afraid some would think she was ignoring them, because they did not understand."

But, even considering the seriousness of her condition and the burden she has, the jovial couple can still see some humor.

"When I could see I would do the cooking and when I couldn't he would cook," said Alice.

"Sometimes when my eyes would shut and I would walk down the hall I would meet him and we would run into each other," Alice said, nodding toward her husband.

Boulware said, "We like to watch the Texas Rangers games, but she couldn't see. I would watch on tv and she would have the radio on in another part of the room listening to the game."

He is visibly embarrassed that for so long he wanted to believe what the doctors said and that maybe she didn't have anything especially wrong except a nervous disorder.

Even her children will admit, now that a name has been given to her problem, they too had decided the doctors should know what they were talking about.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Boulware are thankful he was watching tv one night when Dr. Red Duke described her disorder and gave the address of a place they could get help.

Boulware called for information and was directed to some doctors in Dallas and sent additional information.

On Aug. 8 Mrs. Boulware had Botox injections in the muscles around her eyes and they have afforded great relief already. Her eyelids are staying open. They tell her the injections usually last a minimum of three months or a maximum of nine months.

The Botox (botulinum toxin) injections recently approved by FDA are the current treatment of choice. The injections temporarily weaken or paralyze the muscles so that forced closure is impossible.

Also the Boulwares found out there is a surgical approach to the problem, termed myectomy whereby some or all of the squeezing muscles around the eyes are removed. But this is reserved for patients who have failed in both drug therapy and botulinum toxin.

The Boulwares are planning to attend the Eighth Annual BEB International Conference at Duke University, Durham, N.C. in September for physicians and the lay community. There physicians specialized in BEB will be available for conference with patients.

Cause of the disorder is unknown but research is being done. Among the suspected causes are chemical imbalances and/or brain lesions.

It is not known how many are affected because the number has not been documented. Reports from a recent study indicate there are 25,000 or more cases.

Those who would like more details and information concerning this disorder may contact Benign Essential Blepharospasm Meige Syndrome & Related Disorders, 2929 Calder Ave. Suite 304, P.O. Box 12468, Beaumont, Tx. 77726-2468

Energy conservation encouraged

Summer is back, and that means higher utility bills in this hot Texas climate.

Business owners and managers should consider energy conservation measures not only to save energy, but also to save their companies' money. Energy efficiency can be a great "profit-making" opportunity for small businesses.

The heating, ventilating and air conditioning (HVAC) system often makes up the largest part of commercial energy expenditures. In Texas, about 60 percent of a typical small business's total energy expense is attributed to HVAC. Although this is a substantial amount, business owners have many opportunities to reduce HVAC costs.

For example, by simply operating air conditioning and ventilating systems more efficiently, business owners can make a significant cut in their summer energy bills. Whether the system consists of window units, rooftop units, or split compressor/condenser units, all work better when solar gain is minimized.

Shading the equipment, without restricting air flow, can accomplish this. Filters, coils and freon levels also should be maintained for optimum efficiency. Training employees to leave thermostats at set temperatures (i.e., 76 degrees in summer, 67 degrees in winter) and to turn cooling systems off in unoccupied areas also will save energy.

The heating system also can be operated efficiently for energy savings. Check controls on all heating systems regularly to ensure the system is not working when it is not needed. Also, heat exchangers should be kept clean and unobstructed. When using boilers, clean the insides periodically to prevent scaling, which reduces boiler efficiency. Another useful tip is to turn pilot lights off during the cooling season or to install electric ignition devices.

Lighting in small businesses is usually the second largest consumer of energy, and in retail stores it may be the largest. Three types of lighting are commonly used: incandescent, fluorescent and high-intensity discharge (HID). There are opportunities to save energy with each of these types of lighting.

Incandescent lamps cause the most energy per unit of light, and are often more expensive to use because of their short lifespan. For example, incandescents average 750 hours of life, whereas fluorescents last 20,000 hours or more.

If possible, replace incandescent lamps with fluorescent lamps. If incandescents are necessary, try using one bulb of higher wattage rather than two of lower wattage to provide better lighting and to save energy. Incandescents are good for display areas or for accent lighting.

Fluorescent lamps are more expensive to buy than incandescents, but prove to be more efficient in the long run. Fluorescents last up to 25 times longer than incandescents, and use two-thirds less energy.

Improvements in fluorescent lamp design have made them easier to use. For example, some new models include built-in ballasts, so adapters are not needed, and new compact fluorescents allow the lights to be put in smaller places than ever before.

One tip for more energy efficiency is installing lower wattages, such as 34 watts instead of 40, when replacing fluorescent lamps.

Another tip is to consider using fewer lamps, where possible, but always remember to disconnect unused ballasts. Ballasts without lamps draw approximately 16 watts themselves.

High-intensity discharge lamps last a long time, but have a few negative points. Lifetimes of HID lamps range from 12,000 to 24,000 hours, but they often have poor color rendition. Also, HID lamps have delayed startup time that can be anywhere from three to 15 minutes long.

Light level is another point to consider. Suggested light levels vary for different types of rooms, and can be adjusted by removing or replacing lights. If a room has too high a light level, disconnect unneeded lights. Or try replacing existing lamps with more efficient lamps to adjust light levels and save energy, too.

Another tip for energy saving on lights is to keep a regular maintenance schedule for cleaning light fixtures. And, as with HVAC systems, train employees to turn off lights in unoccupied areas and use only necessary lamps.

More information on HVAC and lighting are in the factsheets "Lighting in Small Businesses" and "Heating, Ventilating and Air Conditioning Systems in Small Businesses," available from the Texas Energy Extension Service.

Other publications in the Small Business Series include an energy management checklist, as well as factsheets that go into detail about energy management in restaurants, laundries, worship centers, supermarkets, and hotels and motels.

Request your free copies by calling the Texas Energy Hotline at 1-800-643-SAVE.

The Energy Hotline is operated by the Texas Energy Extension Service, a program of the Governor's Energy Management Center.

QUARTERBACK ROBERT DENTON FAKES HANDOFF TO JUSTIN GOODKNIGHT ... during intrasquad scrimmage Saturday morning.

Hawk-Eagle scrimmage Friday

The 1990 edition of Iowa Park Hawks will get their first taste of hitting someone besides their own teammates Friday night in Hawk Stadium.

They will be hosting Holliday in the first of their two pre-season scrimmages.

Coach Len Williams said the first session of the scrimmage will be between the two schools' junior varsity clubs, and that will likely get underway at 6 p.m.

Holliday does not have enough players to field JV and freshman clubs, so the Iowa Park Frosh will host Henrietta at 3:30 this afternoon.

Williams said he was very pleased with the play of his athletes Saturday, when they held their intrasquad scrimmage. That was only the second day the players had been allowed to wear their pads, according to UIL rules.

The Hawks will host one more scrimmage, the following Friday with Olney, before they hit the road for their season-opener Sept. 7 at Burkburnett.

Their first regular season home game will be the following Friday, when Abilene Wylie comes to town.

Season tickets on sale

Season tickets for the five Hawk varsity football games are on sale at the high school principal's office.

Fans who had season tickets last year have until the first home game to renew their option on the same seats again this year.

A book of five tickets will cost $25. Reserved seats after the first home game will cost $5 per game also, but must be purchased in advance at the principal's office.

General admission tickets this year will be $2 for students and $4 for adults, if purchased before the game. All general admission tickets sold at the gate will be $5.

Office hours are 8-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Boosters slate fish fry tonite

A fish fry and soap project are on tap this week, sponsored by the Hawk Booster Club.

Fans are being invited to attend a fish fry at 6:30 this evening at the field house, where they can meet the players and coaches, tour the new addition, and dine on MuleSkinner fish.

Cost of the meal is $4 for adults and $2 for children 10 and younger.

The Boosters will be asking at least one bar of bath soap per person as admission to watch the scrimmage between Iowa Park and Holliday Friday night.

The speculation is over. Matthew Blackman will not be a Hawk his senior year. He has transferred to Rider. Coach Len Williams confirmed this week. Blackman, who was a transfer here from the City View district, gained 1,833 yards rushing in his two years here. As a junior, he gained 1,094 yards rushing, scored 126 points and was an unanimous All-District selection.

SS SS SS SS SS

Ray Sefcik Jr. will not be coaching this fall at the high school, as announced in this space last week. Coach Len Williams said he had learned that UIL rules prohibit a student teacher from work with high school athletes. He will, if assigned here by MSU to do his student teaching, be working with the junior high athletes, until graduation at the end of the fall semester and is hired by the local district.

SS SS SS SS SS

Graham's Coach Charles Hesse has been keeping his Steers on the field for extended periods, introducing them to their new "triple threat" offense. He says it's a combination of power rushing, option running and a controlled passing attack.

SS SS SS SS SS

Jabe Brazzle last week resigned as head varsity baseball and assistant junior varsity football coach at Vernon, apparently not wanting to accept change in coaching assignment. He has coached 36 years in Vernon schools. AD Leo Brittain announced the hiring of a VHS graduate who has been coaching at Hereford, David Ashby.

SS SS SS SS SS SS

Jason Dozier, son of IPHS grad Lynn Dozier, is a captain on this year's Wichita Falls High Coyote varsity.

COOLING SYSTEM TUNE-UP

When was the last time you had your car or truck's cooling system serviced?

Most of us take for granted that as long as the system is serviced with anti-freeze to a specific level that it will not freeze in winter, and all requirements have been met. THIS IS NOT TRUE.

Most auto manufacturers recommend we check the radiator, heat and air-conditioning hoses for leaks or damage every spring and fall and to replace the belts, radiator and heater hoses and antifreeze every 30 months. When did you last tune up your vehicle's cooling system?

We at PARK FORD SALES, 600 West Highway, have the necessary equipment and trained technicians to perform your tune-up. Call us for an appointment at 592-4106.
