City, RAC settle on lease terms

The city council and directors of the Recreational Activities Center board reached a negotiated settlement Monday night, ending several weeks of discussions about how long the new building's lease should be.

The final decision was to lease the facility 10 years, as long as all provisions in the contract are met.

What brought about the negotiation was, Mayor Wayne House had proposed limiting the lease to two years, and the RAC board had asked for 99.

The two terms were set out during the council's previous meeting, when it was decided that Administrator Gary Jones and two aldermen should meet with RAC directors in an attempt to reach an agreeable term.

Aldermen Diane Robnett and Virgil

Woodfin, who already had been appointed to represent the council in other discussions with RAC directors, went with Jones to the meeting.

They proposed an alternative term of 30 years, and a new contract was drawn for council approval.

But when the new contract was proposed Monday, Mayor House repeated his opinion made previously, that he had "misgivings" about any contract longer than two years.

"It's hard to see what the city will be like 10 years from now," he said. "I have no problem with the people on the board, but we don't know who's going to be on the council and board in the future."

Alderman Johnny Crawford said he also favored a two-year pact, and Alderman Johnny Coker's comments appeared to support confidence in the plans House has for city support of the RAC.

An unusual vote followed, after a motion had been made to grant the proposed 30-year lease.

The mayor broke a 1-1 vote, with three abstaining, by voting against it. Woodfin, who had made the motion, voted for it, and Coker voted against it.

Following that action, Robnett moved to alter the lease contract to read 10 years, and the motion was passed unanimously.

Also concerning the RAC, in action taken before the contract decision the council had approved the lowest bid for plumbing fixtures and installation at the new facility.

Heritage Plumbing service was the lowest of six bids, with $2,272.

OTHER BUSINESS

In other business, aldermen approved a painting contract for part of the tanks reportedly in need of work, and increased the speed limit on Smith Road.

The council decided to go with the low bidder to paint the two ground level storage tanks on Texowa, but agreed to wait for more information before awarding the contract for work on the Johnson Road tower.

Low bidder on the ground level tanks was O.L.D. Company, with an offer of $23,372.

Administrator Jones explained to the council his concern that lead-based paint or primer may have been used on the Johnson Road tower.

He said he had sent off a sample of the materials for analysis.

Should paint containing greater than one percent lead been used, special procedures are mandated for removing the material.

If that is the case, Jones said the project of repainting that particular tower could cost as much as $100,000.

The low bid for painting the tower was only $67,700. But that did not include the possible special process of removing the old paint, he said.

The analysis report on the paint sample should be in his office later that week, he told the council.

Proposals to advertise for bids to sell surplus items, and construction of seven valley gutters were approved.

The surplus items are an old truck and a packer unit for a sanitary truck.

The valley gutters, which are designed to carry water in low areas from one side of a street to another, saving the asphalt surface, will be: two at Lincoln and Wood Circle; 608 W. Rebecca; 606 W. Cornelia; Joy and Emma; Kathleen and Emma, and Valley and James.

Aldermen also approved a proposal from the Iowa Park Volunteer Fire Dept., as well as changing both meeting dates in May.

The firemen asked permission to close off parts of Cash and Wall on June 15, to hold a fund-raising carnival (similar to the format of the annual Whoop-T-Do).

The city regularly meets on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. But, in order to canvas the May 4 election results as early as possible, it was decided to meet May 6, instead of May 13. Also, May 27 is Memorial Day, so that meeting was changed to May 20.

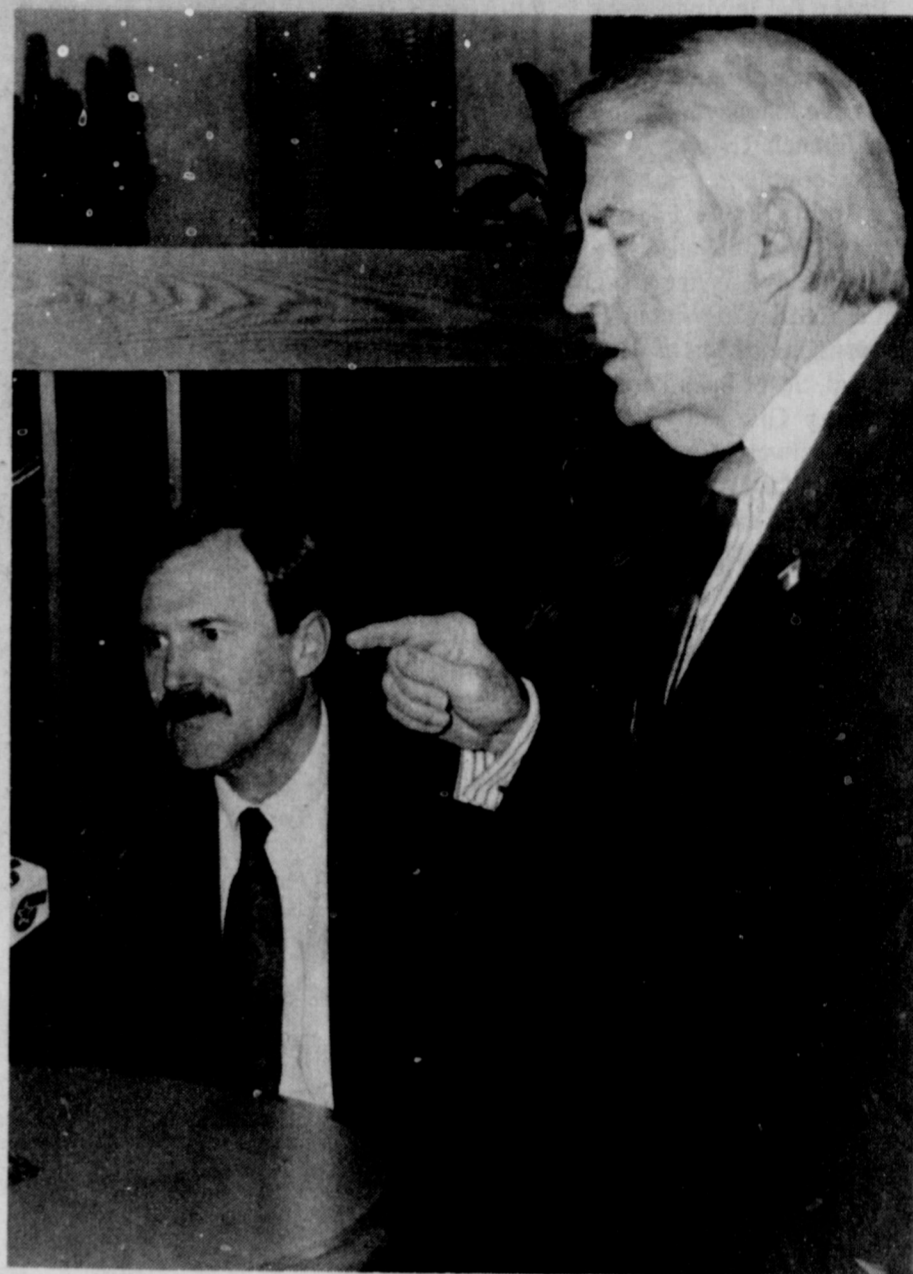

Aldermen voted to change the speed limit on Smith Road, from Jackson to the city limits, to 40 miles per hour.

A discussion was held concerning increasing the speed limit on Magnolia from West Highway to Johnson Road, as well as Johnson from Magnolia to West Highway.

No decision was reached, however.

Public Works Director Mike Price reported on progress of lining the new sanitary landfill; said looping of the water line in the Shiloh and Quail Valley area should be completed next week; said the Cash Street water line project is nearing completion, and predicted the first slurry application on streets will

DR. LIONEL MENO, left, who will become Texas Commissioner of Education this summer, was introduced at two meetings Thursday in Wichita Falls by Bill Hudson, district representative on the state board of education. The first meeting was for the press, and the second was with area educators at the Region Nine Educational Service Center.

Cravens named principal of Bradford Elementary

Patricia Nell Cravens was named Tuesday night the first female principal in Iowa Park Consolidated Independent School District since 1967.

Mrs. Cravens will succeed retiring principal of Bradford Elementary Kenneth Davis.

Action on the appointment followed the second of two executive sessions during a called board meeting.

Not since Miss Ethyl Kidwell retired in 1967, after 33 years in administration, has Iowa Park had a woman serving as a campus principal.

Mrs. Craven's contract is to begin Aug. 1, and is for 207 days of the 1991-92 school year. Her salary was set at $36,500.

She is currently a fifth grade teacher at Bradford.

All holders of administration certifications in the Iowa Park district were invited to apply for the position. There are approximately seven such qualified persons on staff who are not serving as principals.

During the first executive session of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shaw met behind closed doors with the board.

While the topic of the session, listed on the agenda as "Discuss purchase of property," it is speculated around town that the board was negotiating with the

PATRICIA NELL CRAVENS
... named principal at Bradford.

Shaws for the possible purchase of the former Ford dealership property.

No discussion on the subject was held once the meeting was reopened to the public.

The Shaws met with the board from 7:33 p.m. until 8:00, and trustees continued their discussion until 8:53.

The closed session to name the new principal lasted from 9:01 until 9:32.

According to her application, Mrs. Cravens taught one year each at Tahoka and Harlingen, and has been on the Iowa Park faculty the past 13 years.

Her husband, Danny, is a legal assistant to an attorney in Wichita Falls. The couple has two children: Sheri, 20, now attending Texas Tech Univ., and Andy, a junior at Iowa Park High.

The family resides at 800 S. Texowa.

A graduate of Snyder High School, she received her B.S. in secondary education in 1967 from McMurry College in Abilene, elementary certification and Master's in Education from Midwestern State Univ., the latter completed in 1990.

She has completed six hours beyond Masters Degree in gifted education from Texas Woman's Univ. She also is a certified Texas Teacher Appraiser.

She lists as her professional organization memberships: Phi Delta Kappa, ATPE, PTA (life member), TESA trainer; mathematics organizations: NCTM, TCTM and Texoma Math Teachers Assn.

Civic and community organizations in which she has participated include: 4-H Adult Leader, secretary and reporter; Band Boosters (six years), as president, secretary and member; Choir Boosters (two years), charter member; and Athletic Boosters (three years).

City girl, country boy adapt to Texas soil

By Myrna Smith

A couple of transplanted Georgians, "a city girl" and "a country boy" have adapted well to Texas soil.

In fact, they've done so well, Evelyn Adolphus would not want to live in Atlanta again and Jim Adolphus doesn't miss the Blue Ridge Mountains.

Both have conformed so well, it would be hard to tell they were not Texas born and bred, unless Jim's trace of left-over southern accent might give him away.

"Ever since we got a drink out of Red River, we have considered ourselves Texans. We wouldn't want to live anywhere else, we feel comfortable here," Evelyn commented.

He loves horses and after his retirement from the Air Force at Sheppard AFB with the rank of Tech/Sgt. in 1964 he went into the business of breaking, boarding and training horses.

Adolphus trained Quarterhorses for barrel racing, and while they lived in Eastland he trained race horses.

He has trophies on a shelf in the living room, and boxes of ribbons in storage that he has won in amateur rodeos and playday timed-events.

It is self-evident that this man of slight build and weatherbeaten features is an outdoorsman. You know, even before he tells you "I have got to work outside, I can't stand to be cooped up."

And, it is just as easy to tell that Evelyn gave up her "ciufied" ways and has been an encouragement to Jim in all of his endeavors through their almost 46 years of marriage.

Adolphus was born in Atlanta, but was raised on a farm near Sandy Springs, a town of about 150 people.

His father farmed and was a circuit riding Baptist preacher.

His wife was born in Atlanta, the daughter of an accountant who preached for the Methodist Church.

Adolphus joined the army in 1938, seeing service during World War II. He was in the cavalry for a short time and his first "hitch" was in Panama.

"When I went in the army they didn't have tanks. After World War II started was when the army began mechanizing," Adolphus said.

He was one of 200 soldiers sent to Burma and was one of 10 who survived the battle and malaria. In 1945 Jim got out of the army.

In August that year he and Evelyn were married in Atlanta and moved to the farm at Sandy Springs.

He was called back into service in 1950 for the Korean Conflict and was in an artillery unit. In 1951 the Air Force needed communications people. Since he had worked for the telephone company during the years between 1945 and 1950, he qualified and got a service transfer in 1951, spending the remaining 14 years in the Air Force.

Adolphus came to Sheppard AFB from Washington, D.C. He was sent to Boeing in Seattle with another airman to prepare as an instructor to teach the communications system on the Minute Man missile. They returned to Sheppard and set up the course, wrote the tests, and taught others how to fire the missile to get it airborne.

He may have hung his stripes on the post at Sheppard when he left, as he claims, but he loves his country, and is proud of it and shows his loyalty by flying the flag wherever he lives. Both the American and Lone Star flags.

The couple lived in Arkansas for a year and a half, managing a stable near Eureka Springs. He can tell of some comical experiences he had there.

He said, "You know they can tell Texas jokes and everyone is supposed to think they are funny, but they sure don't like for you to reply with a joke about Arkansas." Also they didn't appreciate him flying the Texas flag. It didn't take long for them to become convinced they had to come back to Texas.

After returning from Arkansas, Adolphus worked on a 3,000-acre ranch near Scotland, where he called himself, manager, cowboy and foreman, and he later worked for Gordon T. West.

Between the times he was buying and selling horses, he also served a year as Wichita County jailer.

Before moving to Iowa Park seven years ago, the couple lived south of Burkburnett where he boarded and broke horses and built stables on 10 acres. He usually kept from 12 to 14 horses. "It takes about four months for one person to break a horse successfully," Jim said.

Did Evelyn help him? "No, I just stood around and waited to pick him up and take him to the hospital when he got hurt," she said.

He did teach her to ride, however, and he says she is a good rider. They used to organize trail rides in the Wichita Mountains. He commented, "Everybody said let Evelyn go ahead, she always gets to the top of the mountain first."

Miley, Lloyd wedding vows recited recently in Wichita Falls

Robert E. Lloyd and his bride, the former Mona Renea Miley, will be at home in Wichita Falls following their return from a honeymoon in London and the French Riviera.

The couple repeated wedding vows April 6 in First Christian Church of Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Lloyd is the daughter of Cecilia C. Miley of Wichita Falls and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.T. Crawford, Sr. of Iowa Park and Mrs. Ruth Miley Gilley of Wichita Falls.

Dr. Derward Cranfill, pastor of the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Wichita Falls, directed the couple in their recitation of vows.

Fifteen-point candelabras were arranged on either side of the altar. These were flanked by lighted ficus trees and large arrangements of azaleas, tulips and greenery.

Additional baskets filled with greenery and imported tulips in shades of pink, supplemented the decor in the nuptial area. Garlands of white tulle were swagged and fastened at each pew with large white satin bows and streamers.

The couple knelt for prayer at a white satin kneeling bench draped with tulle and flowers prior to lighting the unity candle.

Organ and string music was played preceding the ceremony. Debbie Barrow, soloist, sang "In This Very Room" and "To Me."

The bride was escorted to the altar by her brother, John Robert Miley. She wore an exquisite gown of white satin. The satin sheath was styled with bodice of Alencon lace that was designed with a Victorian neckline. The bodice was encrusted with pearls and featured long fitted sleeves.

Her headpiece was a double pouf attached to a 144-inch illusion cathedral veil that was scattered with pearls and formed a sheer cover for her white satin cathedral length train.

She carried a bouquet of imported white French tulips and cymbidium orchids and pink baravada with a white linen and Battenburg lace handkerchief tucked in the bouquet.

The bride's mother was her honor attendant. She wore a white beaded and lace jacket and black chiffon tea length skirt.

Bridesmaids were Dawn Nolen, Connie Nolen, Ami Swanson, Millie Crawford and Sis Kizer.

They were attired in gowns designed with black velvet bodices featuring a face framing sweetheart neckline and dropped waistline that came to a point in front. Their skirts were of tea length white organza over white satin. A large white bow marked the center back waistline.

The bridesmaids carried bouquets of imported French tulips, greenery, and nurene lilies arranged on a linen and lace handkerchief background with streamers of satin.

Mrs. Robert E. Lloyd
(Mona Renea Miley)

Flower girls were Heather Crawford, Lexie Nolen and Pressly Swanson.

They wore dresses styled identical to those of the bridesmaids and carried white satin drawstring bags

Dee Ann Todd feted with shower

Dee Ann Todd, bride-elect of Dean Emberton, was honoree at a miscellaneous pre-nuptial shower Sunday. The courtesy was held in Fellowship Hall of First United Methodist Church.

Hostesses were Freda Beals, Johnnie Brown, Marcella Childers, Kay Cole, Geneva House, Linda Renick, Annetta Reusch, Carolyn Richter, Joan Robinson, Myrna Robinson, Martha Smith, Margaret Soell, and Carole Venhaus.

Guests were registered at a table covered with a pink cloth overlaid with lace.

Refreshment tables were laid with blue cloths under white lace. Focal point of the table holding the punch service was a cut crystal vase filled with fresh flowers from the iris garden of Mrs. Reusch. Nuts and mints were served from a crystal bowl. Mauve napkins printed in blue with heart decorations and the betrothed couple's names completed the decor of the table.

filled with pink and white tissue petals which they sprinkled along the birdal path.

Bobby Lloyd Jr., attended his father as best man. Larry Pond, Howard Morris, Dennis McAden, Mike Ridgell,

The second table held the cake that was decorated in a floral fantasy with the bride-elect's chosen wedding colors.

Adding to the decor of the table, was the crystal candleholder collection of Mrs. Reusch. Each was decorated with pink, peach, mauve, and blue ribbons and held a wedgewood blue candle.

A white lace cloth over peach covered the table where the bride opened gifts. Tables displaying the gifts were covered in peach and blue.

The honoree was presented a beautiful corsage of iris made by Mrs. Reusch with flowers from her garden.

Similar corsages were presented to special guests that included mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. Delbert Todd, Iowa Park, and Mrs. Dale Emberton, Wichita Falls, and grandmother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. Lily Lane, Wichita Falls.

The Todd-Emberton wedding is calendared for May 25, at First United Methodist Church in Iowa Park.

and Robert Nolen Jr., were groomsmen.

Serving as ushers were Pat Schlaes, Dave Styles, and Troy Whitaker. Jayson Pond and Kevin Crawford were candlelighters.

Shelly Gaines and Julie Pond distributed scrolls to guests as they left the church.

The reception was given at Wichita Falls Country Club where the outside entry was decorated with large ficus trees with twinkling lights, French tulips and azaleas and swags of white tulle with satin bows and streamers.

Fresh flowers decorated the bride's six-tiered white chocolate and almond creme cake with raspberry filling. Servers were Angeliq Larson and Gale Crawford.

Jane Styles and Nancy Pond served the groom's cake of dark chocolate that was decorated with fruit.

The strawberry, raspberry and creme punch was served by Kathy Crawford and Kristi Gaines.

A floral chintz cloth covered and draped the bride's table. Large elevated baskets of fern rose to meet the greenery covered chandeliers and formed a canopy over the cake and punch tables.

The large buffet table at the opposite side was decorated to match the cake tables.

A white satin and moire taffeta bride's book was open on a large round table and was accompanied by a plume pen. The table was covered with floral

Couple honored at 'volleyball shower'

Vonna Howe and Michael Bailey were honored with a couples volleyball bridal shower April 14 at the home of Bailey's parents.

Refreshment tables were covered with teal cloths accented with peach bows and wedding bells.

Finger sandwiches, fresh vegetables, dips and desserts were served.

A special guest was Nona Bailey of Chillicothe, grandmother of the future bridegroom.

Hosting the courtesy were Pamela Whitson, Gayla Howe, Kalyn Bailey and David Bailey.

The couple will repeat wedding vows May 4.

chintz and centered with a profusion of candles of different sizes and heights.

The groom hosted the rehearsal party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Swanson Jr.

The bride graduated Rider High School in Wichita Falls and SDA College in Lincoln, Nebr., with a BS nursing degree.

Lloyd is owner and president of Lloyd Electric in Wichita Falls.

The bride and groom departed the reception in a white horse drawn carriage to Kickapoo Airport.

For travel the bride chose a white pleated cotton split skirt suit with a gold embellished top trimmed in matching white.

Are You Really a Nonsmoker?

- Cigarette smoking causes major illness, with lung cancer among the most dreaded. Currently, tobacco smoke is recognized as the country's most dangerous airborne carcinogen.
- Despite the overwhelming evidence which connects smoking with cancer, stroke, and heart disease, one out of every three to four Americans still smoke. That translates into 600 billion cigarettes consumed annually in the United States!
- With all this smoking still going on, the chances that you are truly a nonsmoker are slim.
- Between puffs, more than two thirds of the total smoke of each cigarette escapes into the environment. This "sidestream" smoke has higher concentrations of most poisons and carcinogens than "mainstream smoke" that the smoker inhales.
- As for nicotine, about three quarters of it ends up in the atmosphere, one quarter of it in the smoker's lungs and brain.
- Those of us forced to breathe smoke-polluted air are called "passive" or "involuntary" smokers.
- Involuntary smoking can cause disease, including lung cancer, in otherwise healthy nonsmokers.
- Children exposed to smoking in the home suffer more respiratory infections and delayed maturation of lung functions.
- Environmental tobacco smoke is the largest contributor to indoor air pollution in the United States. Sidestream smoke poses a substantial risk which increases with smoke density.
- For the benefit of everyone, American schools, hospitals, businesses, hotels, restaurants, in short, all public places and workplaces should be smoke-free.

Forney is district ESA president

Dee Dee Forney was installed as president, and Lela Mercer as coordinator at a meeting, last weekend in Granbury, of District VI members of Epsilon Sigma Alpha. Tama McDowell of Eta Gama Chapter in Arlington conducted the installation for the new officers.

Mrs. Forney's theme for the year will be "The ABC's of ESA," and is using the apple for the symbol.

During the awards presentations, Epsilon Eta, the local chapter, received a tie for first in 100 percent chapter report; second place for the Love Fund award, and third place for service monies donated for the year. Outstanding ESAer of Iowa Park, Dee Dee Forney, received second place on the district level, and Pat Lincoln placed second, in district, for Outstanding First Year Member.

During the business session, plans were made for the state convention to be held May 16-20, in Arlington. Lela Mercer of Epsilon Eta is convention co-chairman. Also, annual reports were given.

While most of the meetings took place at The Lodge in Granbury, the outgoing president, June McCallum, hosted a dinner for the 51 members in attendance at her home on Lake Granbury.

Mrs. Forney announced that the next district meeting will be held in July at Fort Worth.

S.P.A.A.C.E. program accepting nominations

Iowa Park's gifted and talented program S.P.A.A.C.E. (Students Provided Advanced Academic and Classical Education) will begin accepting nominations Monday for students who will be in grades 1-12 next year (1991-92).

Nomination forms can be picked up at the Kidwell, Bradford, junior high and high school offices.

Deadline for completion and return of the completed forms is 4 p.m. Friday, May 3.

Criteria for selection includes standardized achievement and ability test scores, teacher recommendations, parent checklists, student products, interviews, and the degree to which the student would benefit from the program.

Classmates sought

The Iowa Park High School class of 1981 is planning a 10-year reunion June 14-15.

A "get-reacquainted" gathering is scheduled for the evening of June 14, and an afternoon picnic and evening dinner and dance is planned for the following day.

Reunion coordinators have had trouble contacting several class members.

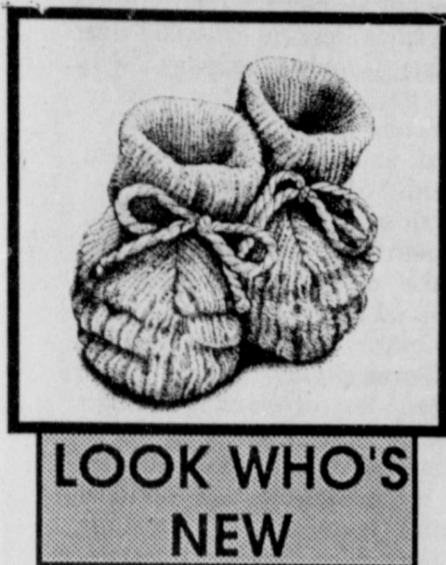

They need addresses for Bill Adams, Frances Blount, Roger Brown, Michael Byrne, Sherry Drabczyk, Todd Huoni, Linda King, Jana Raley Rich, Lori Smith, Gerald Sosebee, Tracey Tolleson and Tony Tucker.

Anyone who has addresses for any of these class members are asked to contact Suddah Griffith McLaughlin, 592-5366, Connie Fitzgerald Nolen, 592-4626, or Steve Smith, 322-3358.

As I See It

By Bob Hamilton

Our new state commissioner of education, Dr. Lionel "Skip" Meno, is going to have a frustrating time, once he takes over the reins of the Texas Education Agency in July, I'm afraid.

He's just got too much common sense to fit in with those in power at the state capital.

Thanks to my friend Bill Hudson, this district's representative on the state board of education, I had a chance to talk, and interview, Meno last week when he was in Wichita Falls.

I like the guy a lot. In fact, if more folks from New York and that part of the country were like him, we'd have completely done away with the term Damn Yankee.

For instance, he's not planning to haul a wheelbarrow full of programs and policies down here, once he leaves his post as deputy commissioner for elementary and secondary education for the state of New York.

"I've learned you can't dictate at the state level and mandate how a school should operate," he said.

"You must indicate the results that are wanted, and then it's the job of those on the local level to figure out how to do it.

"I've learned that there are a lot of very smart people at the local level," he stated.

Meno feels strongly about the need of vocational training in public schools.

"When they get out of high school, they will either go to college, go to work, or be unemployed. And those who do go on to college also need vocational training, learning how to work, working while going to school, and how good work ethics help in whatever they do after college."

Because of all the hassle going on in Austin and its ripple effect over the state concerning finances and public education, Meno indicated he really didn't consider that his problem.

He said, "Our major concern is that the children get the education they need. Finances is the problem of the legislature."

Texas doesn't have the corner on public school dropout problems. Meno said they also have major problems in New York of the same nature. His comments concerning dropouts were interesting:

"They don't feel anyone in school cares for them. They usually have poor basic skills. Most have been retained once or twice. Schools must be more supportive of the child."

He exhibited considerable knowledge of Texas geography when he said consolidation of some very small schools would not work in all cases.

He cited the fact that in many areas of the state, a child can now ride a bus an hour and a half, one way, from his home to the school. A consolidation with another school could force the same child to ride three hours, one way, and that would not be in the child's interest, nor the state's.

Not being an exponent of pre-kindergarten, I asked him his opinion of allowing "disadvantaged" children as young as three years of age to attend school.

He said, "The process is very effective, if followed by an equally strong program until the child is at least eight years old," and added studies attest to the effectiveness.

Meno didn't have much comment on the current fad being proposed of year-around public school scheduling.

He only said Texas has done some good things as far as pilot programs, and from those projects the state might determine if it wants to expand it.

I've not attempted to keep any secret that I was ready for Bill Kirby to do his retiring bit. There were a lot of things the outgoing commissioner said and did over the past couple of years I didn't like, including an outright lie in response to one of my questions.

Kirby seemed to be a real fine fellow, up until recently. I liked him.

Now, I'm gonna wait and watch to see is my impression of our new commissioner will change.

STATE CAPITAL

HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN - Gov. Ann Richards will call lawmakers to a budget-writing special session in July, one which is expected to consider adopting a state income tax to fund a $4.6 billion deficit and take the heat off a projected 34 percent increase in school property taxes.

After lawmakers' glee quieted last week, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock sobered everyone with the reminder that the new school finance bill will prompt a $6.1 billion increase in local property taxes over the next four years, and an $8.3 billion hike over five years.

Calling Bullock's numbers "inflated to the worst scenario," House Speaker Gib Lewis released figures showing that the law will spur a $2.3 billion increase in property taxes over the next four years.

July Special Session

Richards said she would call a special session of the Legislature in July to write the 1992-93 budget for state government, after state auditors and a blue-ribbon revenue-finding panel report their findings.

In the meantime, the Higher Education Coordinating Board, faced with uncertain appropriations, put a freeze on construction and new degree programs.

Other state agencies are expected to follow suit.

Despite the tax controversy, lawmakers probably received more phone calls last week from weary citizens outraged over the revelation the Board of Pardons and Paroles has been releasing prison inmates serving life sentences for capital murders.

State Sen. Ted Lyons, D-Rockwall, a former policeman, outraged by the release of a multiple cop-killer, ripped agency officials for releasing 68 capital murder inmates, 18 of whom were returned to prison for violent crimes.

The Senate's outrage bodes ill for parole board members who voted for such early releases, particularly Kenneth Coleman and Peggy McAdams, two of Richards' appointees facing Senate confirmation.

The governor defended her appointments, but to quell criticism she was soft on crime, called on lawmakers to approve Lyons' bill requiring life sentence inmates to stay in prison until they die.

Senate/House Action

In other legislative action:

- Senators approved the "potty parity" bill by Sen. Gonzalo Barrientos, D-Austin, requiring sports and entertainment arenas to provide twice as many toilets for women as for men.

- The House approved a $2 hike in car and truck inspection fees to pay for complying with federal clean air laws and expanding powers of the Texas Air Control Board over polluters.

- The House also passed a bill by Rep. Mike Martin, D-Galveston, transferring money and authority for cleaning Texas beaches from the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department to the Texas General Land Office.

- State Rep. Pete Laney, D-Hale Center, chairman of the House State Affairs Committee, said ethics legislation will not be considered until late in the session turned over the writing of the bill to five newcomers to the ethics issue.

Insurance Board Split

The State Board of Insurance deadlocked last week over a proposal to raise automobile insurance rates, and it appeared consumers could be spared an increase until this fall.

Primarily, though, it's a shame with all the thousands of laws that police officers have to enforce, that they waste their time stopping folks for possible seat belt violations.

I know seat belts save lives, but so does staying closed in your house, unexposed to risks of the outside world. But I don't want that legislated either.

Mayor House pointed out Monday's meeting would be the last full session for two long-time council members, Coker and Robnett, who are not seeking re-election in the May 4 election.

He added that Woodfin also was completing his term of office, but was running for re-election.

Chief Wayne Parsons reported on several events that had taken place in Austin during a state-wide meeting of police chiefs, and explained an effort has been underway to pass legislation for collective bargaining.

Worth Quoting

I would think that the stereotypical Texan is actually from West Texas.

The stereotypical West Texan being a less sophisticated individual than more; not schooled in the finer qualities of manners or decorum, but rather having qualities that are a throwback to another era. An era where disputes are solved by direct action instead of mediation and West Texas being a place where women are women and men are men, both dignified and satisfied with their roles.

That is the stereotype. Kind of like the ugly American is thought to be from the pushy noisy, northeastern part of the U.S. Stereotypes are stereotypes.

As a stereotype, those West Texans who are ranchers or who have grown up in a ranching background are very often unfailingly polite to each other, they still tip their hat to ladies, and are a polite group.

Those who are in the oil business, and I mean the roughnecks and those who are in the migratory service businesses, have their own stereotypes.

They are the roughnecks or the rednecks, and are often referred to as "Oil Field Trash" but I suppose some of the traits of all of them spill over onto the rest of us.

For instance, when I was teaching drivers' education in Odessa, one of my students was a young married girl of about 15 or 16. As she got out of the car, she announced that she was going in and put a "wrench" on her hair. I was a couple of miles down the road before I figured out the humor in what she had said.

Of course, having grown up in the Center of the Universe in Big Lake, we took "oilfield trash talk" for granted. It was just the way things were. We talked the talk and walked the walk ... and put bumper stickers on our cars that said, "Oilfield trash and proud of it."

That brings us to a few sayings. You know you are sure 'nuff oilfield trash if...

- Your richest relative buys a new house and you have to help take the wheels off.

- You think potted meat on a saltine is an Hor D'oeuvre.

- There is a jackrabbit with antlers mounted anywhere in your home.

- You consider a six pack of beer and a bug zapper quality entertainment.

- Less than half the cars you own - run.

- Your mother doesn't remove the cigarette from her lips before telling the state trooper to "kiss her ____"

- The primary color of your car is bond-o.

- Directions to your house include "turn off the paved road."

- Your family tree does not fork.
- Your wife's hairdo has ever been ruined by a ceiling fan.

- You've ever barbecued Spam on the grill.

- The neighbors started a petition over your yard not being mowed.

- You regularly answer the question "What have you been doing" with "Partying."

- Your brother in law is also your uncle.

- The rear tires on your car are twice as large as the front ones.

- You consider fishing catalogs heavy reading.

- The diploma hanging in your den includes the words Trucking Institute.

- You keep a spit cup on your dashboard.

- You have more than two brothers named Bubba and Junior.

- Your father encourages you to quit school because there is an opening in a roustabout gang with a major company.

- You think a styrofoam cooler is a great invention.

- You have a rag for a gas cap.

- You had a toothpick in your mouth when your wedding picture was taken.

Like many stereotypes, these are not true, but I have seen glimpses of some acquaintances of the past in some of those descriptions.

DAVID WERST
Big Lake Wildcat

In days of old, we used to have a term in this country called "fair play."

Fair play ruled on the playground, in the classroom, in the business world, almost everywhere civilized people met, worked, and played.

But with civil rights legislation, anti-establishment demonstrations of the sixties, catering to quota systems, and all the other do-goodin' foo-foo of the last quarter century, fair play has become as obsolete as prayer in schools.

In the past, fairness should dictate that Japan and Germany ante up their share of the costs of the Operation Desert Storm immediately.

As two countries who benefited most from Middle East oil -- and sat on the sidelines during that operation -- you would think they would be eager to do their part in paying for the conflict. Dream on!

Thus far, neither country has shelled out a substantial amount on the pledges made to the U.S.

We have never joined a boycott. We opposed the boycott of apples, of grapes, of lettuce, of the movement against Farah in El Paso. But unless the Germans and Japanese come across with their pledges in the immediate future, we believe every American ought to boycott the purchases of any goods from those countries.

Every now and then, it falls the lot of the citizens to take the play away from the striped pants boys in Foggy Bottom in Washington, and do what is right, just and honorable.

We feel the same way about car insurance.

Car insurance in Texas is a joke. Every car owner is supposedly, by law, carrying liability insurance on his vehicle. Dream on! Have a collision tomorrow with another vehicle and cat's whiskers to creek milk, the driver of the other car will not have insurance or a driver's license.

Fair play would seem to dictate that all have insurance or no one has insurance. It would be a simple matter if every car owner had to have both insurance and a driver's license before he could obtain license tags for his car. What's so undemocratic about that?

But we could probably get a bill through the legislature to annex Oklahoma easier than we could pass a fair play bill on car insurance.

The same thing is true of medical insurance.

Everybody out to have it or no one carry it. As it stands now, the insured are carrying the load for all.

We have 32 million Americans who have no hospitalization insurance. Here in Texas, 26 percent of the population under the age of 65 have no health insurance.

Consequently those that are insured are saddled with higher costs to make up for those getting a free ride.

Congress, in a futile effort to stem the spiraling costs of Medicare, passed a law cutting Medicare payments to hospitals. The net effect was for hospitals to raise their charges and fees -- to the insured.

Here in Texas, patients with insurance will pay an additional $549 million to subsidize the cuts mandated by Uncle Sam. It's a hidden tax that hits everyone with insurance.

The cuts makes the sixth consecutive year that the Medicare program has not paid its share of hospital costs -- and the result has driven the costs of hospitalization premiums through the ceiling.

Perhaps the only way to get the attention of Congress to reinstate fair play in this country is for everyone to drop their health care insurance. It would be interesting to see the result if we had 260 million Americans without any kind of health insurance.

Needed reform might take place at the state and national level if citizens treated their car insurance and health insurance in the same manner as the Japanese and Germans treat their Gulf War pledges.

JAMES ROBERTS
Andrews County News

According to an Associated Press story last week, 48.3 percent of Amarillo motorists are wearing their seat belts.

My own tendency is inconsistency in wearing my seat belt around Canyon, but pretty close to 100 percent of the time when I leave the city limits and hit the highway. As an adult in the most free country in the world that should be my prerogative, my right. But it's not anymore.

In 1985, big brother in Austin decided that I must wear my seat belt all the time, and if I don't that I should be ticketed as a criminal.

I protested it before it became law, and I'm still protesting it today.

Last week our family took one of those leisurely drives through parts of Canyon following a pleasant eating experience at a local restaurant. It was one of those evenings where we slowly putted around and reinforced with each other how much we enjoyed Canyon, its assets and people.

It was also an evening that a local police officer obviously didn't have anything to do. Our positive thoughts and tranquility were interrupted by a West Texas State police officer who felt compelled to stop us, "because I passed you and didn't see you wearing a seat belt."

He politely checked for my proof of insurance, took my driver's license and then went back to his shiny new automobile to write me a warning ticket for the heinous crime of "not wearing a seat belt."

I'm sorry, I know this probably sounds petty, but I resent it that at 33 years of age I can't make the decision to wear a seat belt. I require my children to wear them, and it doesn't bother me that the law requires that they do, because they aren't adults. I wear mine most of the time, but I don't appreciate it being made mandatory by a policeman.

Helpful Facts

Any person or persons soliciting door to door in any Iowa Park residential area is required to pay a fee of $30 per day, and register at the Public Works office at the city hall.

However, Richards, who made insurance reform one of her top campaign issues, said after the meeting that she expected auto insurance rates to go up.

The three-member board was unable to reach a decision because of the absence of one member, Jim Saxton. Under pressure from Richards, Saxton has announced he will resign but has not yet left.

Census Bureau Undercount

The U.S. Census Bureau says it may have overlooked more than half a million Texans during the 1990 head count.

The bureau, which counted 16,986,510 people living in Texas last April, said last week it may have missed between 236,490 and 632,490 Texans.

"I am encouraged that the Census Bureau appears to be arriving at a count roughly parallel to our own estimates," said Texas Attorney General Dan Morales.

Other Highlights

- State Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, denied any impropriety after news reports revealed his concrete supply company will make $1.2 million for helping build a new prison for which Stiles battled, and which will be named for him. Stiles, vice president and general manager of Transit Mix Concrete Supply, said his company was the low bidder and received no special favors from the general contractor.

- Former Gov. Mark White testified last week that Robert Hardesty was fired as president of Southwest Texas State University by its regents for political reasons. Hardesty, who is suing the university seeking reinstatement and $1.5 million in actual damages, alleges then-Gov. Bill Clements wanted him fired because of animosity toward White and his friends.

- Don't cancel your required auto liability insurance yet, warned officials after the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals ruled that failure to show proof of it is not necessarily a crime. The Legislature plans to amend the language to clarify their intent for every motorist to carry liability insurance.

Mrs. Sid Carlson

Donna (Mrs. Sid) Carlson left Iowa Park after graduating from high school in 1963. She attended Central Texas College at Killeen.

Over the years, Donna has had some interesting occupations. For eight years, she was a police officer in a town close to Killeen, and worked at the Rape Crisis Center at Fort Hood. She said that police work is one of the most fulfilling jobs she has ever had.

She worked for NCR in Wichita Falls and San Antonio five years, and then got her beautician's license.

Donna returned to Iowa Park almost two years ago to help her mother, whose health was failing, run a dress shop. Her mother is the late Verna Reid.

Donna and Sid Carlson were married a year ago in February. Sid is retired from the Air Force, and has worked nine years for Cryovac. Donna has chosen not work outside the home this past year, but now she is working on obtaining her realtor's license.

Between the two of them, Donna and Sid have 11 grown children and nine grandchildren.

The Carlsons love family gatherings. Donna said that she enjoys cooking "as long as I have someone to eat it." That is certainly no problem when their children and grandchildren come to visit. Donna likes to make bread, and when her family gets together, she multiplies by four the recipe for "Potato Rolls." She said that the rolls freeze well, and when heated taste freshly baked.

Cook of the Week

Other activities that Donna and Sid enjoy are bowling in a couple's league, fishing, working in the yard, and playing Bridge and Pinochle.

Potato Rolls

- 1/2 cup mashed potatoes
- 4 - 4 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 pkg. active dry yeast
- 1 1/4 cup milk
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup oleo
- 1 egg

Combine 2 cups of flour and the yeast in a large bowl. In saucepan, heat together milk, sugar and oleo until just warm. Add to dry mixture, add egg and mashed potatoes and mix well. Add remaining flour and knead until smooth and elastic. Shape into a ball, cover and let rise until doubled. Knead once more, then roll out and place in slightly greased pan. Let rise and bake in 400 degree oven. When done, brush with oleo. Can be frozen and used later.

Green Pepper Steak

- 1 lb. beef chuck or round
- 1/4 cup soy sauce
- 1 clove garlic
- 1 1/2 tsp. grated fresh ginger or 1/2 tsp. ground ginger
- 1/4 cup salad oil
- 1 cup green onion, sliced thin
- 1 cup green peppers, cut in pieces
- 2 stalks celery, thinly sliced
- 1 Tbsp. cornstarch
- 1 cup water
- 2 tomatoes, cut in wedges

Cut beef into thin strips. Combine soy sauce, garlic and ginger, then set aside. Heat oil in large frying pan. Add beef and brown. Taste meat, and if not tender, cover and simmer about 30 minutes. Turn up heat, add vegetables and cook about 10 minutes. Mix cornstarch with water; add to pan; stir and cook until thick. Add tomatoes and heat through. Serves 4.

TIP: The beef can be prepared ahead and refrigerated. Add the vegetables and finish cooking later.

Dump Cake

- 1 can cherry or blueberry pie filling
- 1 can crushed pineapple
- 1 cake mix (white or yellow)
- 1 1/4 stick oleo or butter
- Nuts and coconut (optional)

Put pie filling in long loaf pan (even out in pan). Spread pineapple over pie filling. Sprinkle entire box of cake mix over pineapple and pie filling.

Slice oleo and scatter over mixture. Add nuts and coconut, if desired. Bake at 350 degrees 35 to 40 minutes, or until done.

Easy Biscuits

- 4 cups self-rising flour
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1 cup milk

Work shortening into flour, add milk, then work in enough extra flour until you can knead easily. Roll out on lightly floured surface until about 1/2 inch thick. Biscuits should bake up to about 1 1/2 inch thick. Makes 8-10 biscuits.

Sweet Cornbread

- 1 cup self-rising flour
- 1 cup cornmeal
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 2 tsps. baking powder
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1/2 cup oleo

Mix dry ingredients, add eggs, milk and melted oleo. Beat until smooth. Pour into hot, greased round skillet or 9x9x2 inch pan. Bake at 425 degrees 20-25 minutes or until done.

Musical program highlights meeting

Members of 23 Study Club had their final meeting of the year Thursday, April 18, in the home of Mrs. Jim Medlinger.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. C.E. Birk and Mrs. John Rentschler.

The meeting was opened with a meditation given by Mrs. Harold Marlar.

Mrs. Warren McDonald served as leader of a musical fine arts program. The quotaton, "Life Is a Song--God's Love is the Music," introduced the program.

Club members were taken down memory lane with a 20th Century Hit Parade.

Informative presentations about musical hits through the years were given by Miss Frances Park, music prior to 1900; Mrs. McDonald, 1900-1919; Mrs. Medlinger, 1920-1939; Mrs. Keith Aulds, 1940-1949, and Mrs. Joe Singer, 1950-1970.

Musical renditions were given by Mrs. Medlinger, organist, Mrs. Rentschler, pianist, and Mmes. McDonald, Singer and Aulds, vocalists.

Miss Park gave the Texas Trivia portion of the program. In keeping with the program theme, she told about the writing of "The Eyes of Texas", and the part Carry Nation played in the origin of the University of Texas school song.

Miss Park, club president, presided during the business session when plans were made to help with Iowa Park Clean-Up Fix-Up Week. Members would pick up trash in the 200 and 300 blocks of W. Park.

23 Study Club's Outstanding Youth Awards will be presented at the school Award Dinner.

A certificate of appreciation was presented from the Iowa Park RAC for the club's monetary contribution.

Refreshments were served to 16 members.

Friendly Door volunteers to be honored next week

Five volunteers for the Iowa Park Friendly Door will be honored during the week of April 29.

Volunteer Recognition Awards will be given to Lloyd Holmes, Linda Hicks Ayres, Jack Reynolds, Pauline Singleton, and Kathy Hicks.

Mrs. Ayres and Mrs. Hicks supply flowers and cakes, respectively, for the monthly birthday party. Others to be honored volunteer at the Friendly Door.

Awards are sponsored by BJD Engraving, KLUR, Wichita Falls, and the United Way.

Spring has arrived and our residents are eager for the warmer weather and the chance to get out of doors more often.

We would like to encourage youth who will soon be out of school, or older adults to come and join our volunteer group. We always need compassionate and loving people to devote some of their extra time to make life a little better for our senior citizens. If you think you might be interested, just contact me, Cindy Edwards, I will match you with an activity or person in your preferred field.

I would like to thank the Philia Study Club for bringing our monthly birthday party for our residents born in April. The residents had a ball and have talked of nothing else for a week. We appreciate your group volunteering their time to help us celebrate.

We also had a group come and entertain us Saturday, April 20. It was the "Just Friends" band. They have become one of our residents' favorite groups. They play great music and really have our residents tapping their toes to the music.

At our monthly staff meeting held April 10, our employee of the quarter was named. This was Becky Lightfoot, a cook in our dietary department. She has worked for our nursing home on and off for about four years. She is very well liked by staff and residents alike. Congratulations Becky, and keep up the good work.

Cora Lewis had a small family reunion last week. Two of her sisters and a number of other family members dropped by for a visit. She was so proud to see them.

We've lost these dear residents the last two weeks: Myrtle Williams, Bill Hogan, Elsie Bloodworth, and Elsie Skinner. God grant them peace.

We recently had a contest on re-naming our monthly newsletter and getting a new logo and motto. Rita

Henderson, food service supervisor came up with the winning suggestion. Stop by our nursing home and get a copy and see the new updated version.

Our bingo winners for the last couple of weeks were Cora Lewis, Eltha Kirkpatrick, Dicie Taylor, Irma Stone, Leola Dodd, Betty Smith and Loree Dunegan.

We have two residents in area hospitals. They are Mary Park, Wichita General Hospital, and Leola Dodd, Bethania Hospital.

We would like to begin to spotlight our volunteer groups on a regular basis. As our selection in this column, I would like to spotlight Geraldine Miller. She has been bringing Wednesday afternoon Bible study to our residents for more than 10 years. It is people like Geraldine that make my job a little easier. Thanks Geraldine, we love you.

Feature film to be shown at First Christian Church

A feature film entitled "Wrestling With God," will be shown in Fellowship Hall of First Christian Church at 7:30 p.m. May 1.

The cinematography is interesting and informative as it tells the story of Alexander Campbell's younger years and his struggle to discover his faith.

The film was a Silver Award winner at the Houston International Film Festival.

Jeanne Lange, actress on Broadway, in television and in the movies was the producer, co-author, and the driving force behind production of the film.

The film gives insight into the struggle many Christians had with organized religion in the early 1800s.

Paul Mercier is most convincing in the role of a young Alexander Campbell and is joined by a professional cast that keeps the story flowing.

While Campbell is the center of attention, his wife Margaret Brown Campbell, played by Allison Gregory, helps to show the caring and struggling nature of the scholar Campbell as he formulates his faith and leadership.

Everyone is invited to come and view "Wrestling With God," for an insight to early American religion. The film should be of interest to Christians of all denominations.

SURGERY

Although the only surgery I have ever had performed or ever anticipate was having my tonsils removed as a boy. I have always been nervous about surgery. I learned the right to be fearful by watching the Three Stooges routine as a child. Surgery conjures images of large mallets and loggers saws, the standard equipment of Dr. Howard, Dr. Fine, and Dr. Howard. It is difficult to talk to a doctor today without hearing a strange rendition of "Three Blind Mice" ringing in my ears.

The word surgery strikes fear in the hearts of most people. I have never met a person who really enjoys "going under the knife." At times all see the need for surgery and realize the benefits to our health.

Would it surprise you to hear that there is one surgery I constantly want? There is one operation that I continually need. It is painful, but I don't mind the pain. Let me describe the procedure: "For the word of God is living and active and sharper than any two-edged sword, and piercing as far as the division of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow, and able to judge the thoughts and intentions of the heart. There is no creature hidden from His sight, but all things are open and laid bare to the eyes of Him with whom we have to do." (Hebrews 4:12).

God is a surgeon who is always available. His scalpel is always sharp and when it cuts, it cuts deep, exposing all that we really are. What a skillful physician we have! He can see what is happening inside of us and knows the problems. Even more important, He knows how to correct the problems!

Going under His knife is essential to our spiritual well-being. We cannot go on just hoping the problems will just go away. We cannot continue to deny the pain of a cancerous sin that is growing within us. If we refuse His surgery, we will become weaker by the hour and eventually we will die spiritually. Surgery is needed. His sword must open us up and lay us bare every day. The cancerous sin must be cut away! The great Physician wants to help! Will you let Him?

Bobbie Shaw is recognized

Eta Rho Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha was well represented at the Springtime meeting held in Granbury April 20-21 and the nine members in attendance returned with a number of honors for the chapter.

During the business meeting held the final day of the meeting, Eta Rho was recognized for their many contributions such as service hours, service monies, donated goods, and educational programs.

Colleene McDowell, educational director was recognized as the Outstanding Director in District VI.

Eta Rho was also named second place winner as Outstanding Chapter. Bobbie Shaw was named Outstanding Member of the District and will represent the Chapter and District VI in state competition in May during the annual convention that will be held in Arlington.

Colleene McDowell received her 15-year service pin and Bettye Fowler and Bobbie Shaw received their 35-year service pin.

It was considered a successful meeting by the 51 members attending the meeting at The Lodge in Granbury.

Other Eta Rho members attending were Bernice Ball, Johnnielou Cobb, Carol Hughett, Ruedeen Leach, Joyce Tidwell, and Rosea Touchon.

Locals are named MSU top students

Two local residents received outstanding honors Thursday night at the Midwestern State Univ. annual Honors Recognition Banquet, held at D.L. Ligon Coliseum.

Shannon Pugh of Holliday was named MSU's Woman of the Year.

Cheryl Frederick of Iowa Park was named Outstanding Graduating Student in Education.

Card of Thanks

We would like to thank all the men that came to our aid when we called 911 April 14th.

Although we didn't know any of them personally, they all seemed to share our concern.

They were a great help and comfort. The citizens of Iowa Park are very fortunate to have such a dedicated group of young men.

Thanks again,

Sex Awareness seminar slated Saturday

Faith Baptist Church will host a Sexual Awareness Seminar Saturday at the church facilities.

The seminar is designed to stress the biblical principles of sexual awareness in a spiritual environment.

Parents will be instructed by a Dawson McAllister series on how to discuss sexuality with their children from a biblical perspective.

Even if the child is not in the youth group are you are a parent of an elementary-aged child, this seminar will still be of benefit.

Meeting separately from the adults will be the youth, grades seven through 12. They will meet with Cliff Cummings, formerly of Iowa Park. He is Minister of Education at Immanuel Baptist Church in Enid, Okla. He will be discussing with them the biblical principles of sexual purity.

Cummings, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cummings, graduated Iowa Park High School in 1975. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Oklahoma. He was licensed to the Gospel Ministry by Faith Baptist Church and ordained to the Gospel Ministry by First Baptist Church of Iowa Park.

He has been in full time youth ministry for 13 years, and is presently serving as family minister of Emmanuel Baptist Church in Enid.

Cummings is married to the former Pamela Clark, also a 1975 graduate of Iowa Park High School. They have two children, Joy and Zachary.

The seminar will begin at the church Saturday morning at 9 and will conclude at 4 p.m.

There will be a $25 fee charged per family, regardless of the size of the family. This will include a lunch provided for each person and materials for the study.

Money is available for those to attend who cannot afford the cost. Contact Rev. Greg Ammons or Mike

"My heat pump's so efficient it saves money. And it's a clean system. I like what it means for the environment." —Elta Chandler
Park Board Member

Elta Chandler cools and heats her home with a heat pump because it saves money and energy. And since it's electric, it's "wonderfully clean."

A heat pump uses the energy in the air to keep her home comfortable all year. Even on cold winter days there's heat in the air. A heat pump captures that heat and uses it.

And it costs less to operate than a gas furnace. It's so efficient that for each unit of energy it uses, it creates two to three units of heat.

In the summer a heat pump becomes a high-efficiency air conditioner, capturing the heat inside the home and removing it.

For more information, call a heat pump dealer or TU Electric. It's your chance to save more than money.

FmHA launching new program

The Farmers Home Administration is launching a new program to help local farmers obtain credit from local lenders, according to Neal Johnson, FmHA state director.

Known as the Interest Assistance Program, it provides strong incentives for commercial lenders to make loans to farmers who otherwise could not qualify.

Under the new program, FmHA will pay up to four percentage points of interest for farmers to help them qualify for FmHA guaranteed loans.

"If a creditworthy farmer can't cash flow with a guaranteed bank loan at regular interest rates, we can pay part of that interest for him until he can," Johnson said.

The percentage of interest FmHA will pay depends on the financial condition of the farmer. FmHA will pay only the number of points necessary to help the farmer cash flow with a small reserve.

An FmHA guaranteed loan is made by a bank, PCA, or other lender with an agreement from FmHA that if the loan goes bad, FmHA will compensate the lender for up to 90 percent of its loss.

"That guarantee plus the new interest assistance," Johnson said, "should greatly increase availability of farm credit through the private sector."

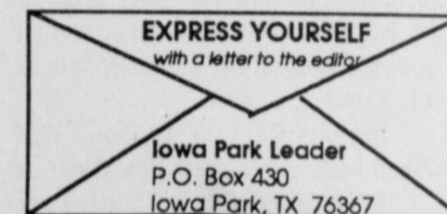

The program, made law in late 1990, was put on a fast track, so as to assist farmers in time for the 1991 planting season.

According to Johnson, the level of interest assistance will be adjusted each year, based on a review of the borrower's need for continued assistance.

In addition, a borrower must be able to project a positive cash flow, including a 10 percent debt-service reserve to qualify for assistance.

This is the same rule for guaranteed loans not receiving interest assistance.

Couple adapts to Texas soil

Adolphus spoke of his brother and sister-in-law in Florida who "think I should be committed for living the kind of life we do, but I tell him I wouldn't be a couch potato like some people I know."

He and Evelyn live west of Iowa Park on 20 acres he says he has a lifetime lease on from a man who was a student of his at Sheppard.

He tore down an old house someone didn't want and built a small house on the land. "I got Evelyn up on the roof one time while I was building it, but that was the first and last time," Jim remarked.

"I've had a continuing liberal education ever since I married him, starting with him and his dad, who tried to convince me pineapples grew on pine trees," Evelyn bantered.

He doesn't break horses anymore. The 72-year-old Adolphus said, "For some reason the ground has gotten harder."

He has had to curtail his horse business the past few years. He has a mare of his own and one he is boarding.

Jim has had three cancer surgeries, but if there is no recurrence by his next check-up, which is soon, he can feel that he does not need to worry. Evelyn also had gallbladder surgery in February.

Mentioning their health problems gives Jim an opportunity to witness for God and prayer. He said he had people in four churches in the United States and one in South America praying for him during his bouts with cancer. He believes that is the main reason he has done as well as he has.

"Jimmy has always kept his guardian angel working overtime, I'll tell you that," Evelyn said.

She commented about how fortunate they had been that both of them were not sick at one time, so they could take care of each other. Jim added, "I'm no gourmet cook, but we sure won't starve."

The couple read their Bible each day and are active members of the Episcopal Church in Burkburnett.

Jim wants to get back in the horse business in a smaller way. He would like to work with young people again as he has in the past.

He is a member of the Wichita County Mounted Patrol and she rides in the parades. He also is a member of the American Legion and of the Masonic Lodge 1024 in Burkburnett.

Mrs. Adolphus is a member and past president of Iowa Park TOPS 138 and currently serves as assistant weight recorder.

Before their illnesses, they both worked with the Literacy Program and hope to get back into that activity.

He likes to fish and she likes to go along to Lake Buffalo or Lake Arrowhead with him. "She has always been a good supporter, and encourages me in things I want to do," Jim complimented his wife.

They have a stock tank and Jim also has it stocked with fish.

As his neighbors and acquaintances have found out, if they need help of any kind, they know who they can call on, because Jim is always willing.

That is another Texas trait the couple possess. Whether they picked it up in Texas, or brought it with them from Georgia, I didn't ask.

Jim and Evelyn have three daughters (all born in Georgia). They took the opportunity to praise their sons-in-law at this point, saying that was another way God had blessed them.

The daughters are Mrs. Raymond (Claire) White and Mrs. Ronnie (Barbara) Cubine, both of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. George (Ann) Sparks of San Diego, Calif. They also have seven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren, and can hardly wait until the eighth one arrives.

Quiet week for police

It was an unusually light week for Iowa Park police, but they're not complaining.

Only two arrests and one theft were recorded on the police blotter during the past week.

The department was contacted at 12:11 a.m. Wednesday by a motorist with a cellular telephone, stating two hitch hikers were in the area of US 287 and FM 368, and expressed concern both were wearing hard-to-see dark clothing.

The officer located the two, and arrested them for public intoxication.

Taken into custody were Jason Lyle Sales, 28, and Tonya Jay Sales, 21. Both were released at 5:50 a.m., after signing personal recognizance bonds.

A car's license plate was reportedly stolen while it was parked in the 1000 block of Lincoln, police were told Monday afternoon.

The number was immediately listed in the state computer, but as of mid-day Wednesday no report of its recovery had been received.

Altrusa Club seeking scholarship applicants

Altrusa Club of the Red River is soliciting applicants to its scholarship program.

Two $500 scholarships will be awarded for the 1991-92 academic year. Awards will be made for post-high school study at an institution within Wichita County.

A focus of Altrusa is the training and education of persons re-entering the work force or seeking to upgrade current job skills. Special consideration will be given to applicants meeting this criteria.

For additional information and an application, contact any of the area high school counselors, or college financial aid offices.

Altrusa is an international association of business executives and professionals who volunteer their energies and expertise in projects dedicated to community betterment.

Membership is extended to individuals representing diverse professional and business activities. This diversity provides creative and effective programs for the area.

Dee Decker of Iowa Park is president of Altrusa Club.

McNeely does it again!

Hawks win fourth consecutive 1-point game

If you walked up to the Hawks' baseball field in the bottom of the seventh inning Tuesday afternoon, you probably felt you were having a flashback from two weeks earlier.

The bases were loaded with Hawks, two outs, and Scott McNeely walked up to the plate.

Bang! He hits the ball to the outfield and Iowa Park wins by a run.

Two weeks earlier, it was the sophomore's shot into the outfield that gave Iowa Park a come-from-behind 9-8 win over Breckenridge.

This week his hit -- which also was his only one in the game -- ended a scoreless pitching duel between the Hawks' J'Bill Merrick and Graham's Toby Dollar.

Iowa Park won 1-0. It was the fourth consecutive one-run win for the Hawks in 4-AAA action, giving them a first-half district standing of 4-1 and season record of 14-8.

The exact same situation occurred in the second inning, but failed to materialize. McNeely struck out that time, retiring the side.

Merrick struck out seven Steers, walked only two and gave up only one hit, that coming in the first inning. The Hawks committed two errors.

Dollar registered 14 strike outs -- nine of them in a row, starting in the fourth through the leadoff in the seventh. He walked four, two in the second and two -- one intentionally -- in the seventh. Graham had one error.

The other Hawk hit was by Gary Green, leading off the second inning.

Green struck out to lead off the seventh inning. Todd Pulley then walked.

Then Merrick struck out, but the low pitch bounced off the ground, caromed off the pitcher's leg protector, and away, allowing the junior hurler to reach first base safely. In the meantime, Pulley had advanced to third.

Graham intentionally walked Jeremy Carroll. Jayson Miller, with a 3-2 count, attempted to advance Pulley with a bunt, but was called out.

That's when McNeely did his thing.

Graham had posted a 12-4 win over Breckenridge Friday.

Merrick blasted a two-run homer in the fourth inning Friday to earn a 2-1 win over the Jackrabbits at Bowie.

The Hawks were limited to only two hits the entire contest. Both -- Pulley's single before Merrick's four-baser -- were in the fourth.

That also was a come-from-behind victory for Merrick and the Hawks.

Bowie's leadoff batter of the game was walked, and produced the only 'Rabbit score.

Merrick gave up only one hit the entire contest.

The Hawks will host Vernon Friday and will be attempting to avenge their only conference loss -- the 2-0 district opener -- starting at 4:30 p.m.

But Iowa Park will be without two key players in that contest. Designated hitter Gary Green will be at the regional track meet in Odessa, and freshman shortstop Tony Lozipone has been declared ineligible.

Tuesday, Iowa Park travels to Breckenridge for another 4:30 game.

Iowa Park has only one home game remaining on the schedule. The Hawks go to Bridgeport May 3, Hosts Bowie May 7 and closes out the season schedule May 10 at Graham.

Small Business seminar slated May 8 at SAFB

A small business seminar and open house will be conducted at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday, May 8, in the Operational Contracting Division, Building 1664, at Sheppard AFB.

A bus tour of the base will follow. The seminar will include presentations by the Sheppard Operational Contracting personnel on the Air Force Small Business Program and doing business with the Air Force.

Service Corps of Retired Executives and the Midwestern State Univ. Small Business Development Center will also make presentations concerning their organizations and how to contact them.

Small business contractors interested in attending the briefing should contact Jerry Holmes at 676-4138, by May 6.

Former outstanding Hawk football player Rocky French has been named head coach at Deweyville High School. He, according to Head Hawk Lucky Gamble, was elevated from an assistant to Robert Clensay, who has resigned to become an assistant here under Gamble.

ss ss ss ss ss

Carmen Lozipone of Iowa Park has been elected representative of Dist. 3 of the Texas Basketball Officials Assn. He says he is the first ever to serve in that capacity from the Wichita Falls district.

ss ss ss ss ss

Graham High School won both the boys' and girls' Dist. 4-AAA golf championships.

Record-size fish caught

Iowa Parkan Toby Whitaker is going through the process of having his prize apaloosa catfish recorded as a state record.

Whitaker said he took the 122-pounder off his trout line at Lake Buffalo Tuesday afternoon. There also was a 95 pounder with it.

He added that he took a 109 pound cat from the same lake in November.

Tracksters heading for regional meet at Odessa

Nine Iowa Park High School athletes will be competing Friday and Saturday at Odessa in the Region One track and field championships.

Out of that contest, athletes who place first and second advance to the May 10-11 University Interscholastic League meet in Austin.

All nine Iowa Parkers qualified for the regional meet by placing first or second in the Dist. 4-AAA contest two weeks earlier at Breckenridge.

Six of the competitors are members of the Lady Hawks. Of those, two qualified in three individual events and also are on two relay teams.

Two of the three Hawks who are advancing to the regional did so in two individual events.

Senior Kerri Dornier advances to region in the 200-meter dash, long jump, triple jump, and is on the 800-meter and 1600-meter relay teams.

Sophomore Erica Knight also qualified in three individual events, the triple jump, high jump, 100-meter hurdles, as well as the two relays.

Christi Welch and Dee Ann Warren are the other two relay members.

Qualifying in individual events were Jennifer Ricks, in the discus, and Gina Inman, in the 800-meter run.

Gary Green won both the discus and shot put events at district to qualify for region. He's a senior.

Green's classmate, Patrick Birk, qualified by winning the 1600-meter run at district, and placing second in the 800-meter run.

Junior Joey Boyd earned his ticket to Odessa by placing second in the pole vault.

First events at Odessa are to get underway Friday morning. At 11 a.m. the boys' pole vault and girls' long jump, discus and high jump begin. At 1 p.m., the boys' discus event starts, followed at 2:30 by the shot put.

Preliminaries in all running events Iowa Park athletes will be competing in except the 800 and 1600 meter runs.

The 100-meter hurdles will be at 2:50; 800-meter relay at 3:35; 200-meter dash at 4:30, and 1600-meter relay at 4:50.

The girls' triple jump will be the only event Iowa Park will have Saturday morning. That gets underway at 10.

All running event finals will be held Saturday afternoon, starting at 12:15. The 1600-meter relay, final event of all high school track meets, will begin at 3:15, according to the schedule.

The qualifying athletes competed Saturday, but not in the same meets. The Lady Hawks not only competed in a qualifiers' meet at Kimbell High in Dallas, but won it.

Meanwhile, the Hawks got a feel of Odessa's facilities.

Besides winning the girls' division in Dallas, Knight earned high point individual honors, with 40 points. She won the high jump, matching her personal best of 5-4; triple jump, 35-1; and 100-meter hurdles, also matching her personal best of 15.05.

The 800-meter and 1600-meter relay team also won, with somewhat slower clockings of 54.42 and 4:15.64, respectively.

Part of the reason for the slower relay teams was the fact that Dornier hurt a knee on her first attempt in the triple jump, and did not compete any more. She said Monday, however, that she will be ready for this weekend.

Dornier's lone attempt in the triple jump, 31-6 3/4, was still good enough for fourth place. She also placed second in the long jump.

Inman took Dornier's spot in the high jump, cleared 4-10, and placed second.

Ricks placed second with a discus toss of 99-10 1/2.

Marcy McCarthy filled in for Dornier on the 800 and 1600 meter relay teams.

McCarthy also teams with Inman, Welch and Warren to run a 54.42 in the 400-meter relay, good enough for third place.

McCarthy added a first place in the 300-meter hurdles, in which she was clocked in 50.10.

Meanwhile in Odessa, Green placed second in the shot put and third in the discus, as none of his throws matched his performance at Breckenridge.

His 52-11 1/2 in the shot was shaded by 53-0 1/4 from Scott McCloud of Midland Lee.

Ahead of his 155-10 in the discus were tosses by Toby Guy of Crane, 164-0, and Kevin Harris of Lubbock Estacado, 160-3.

Birk ran a 2:04.60 in the 800-meter event to place sixth. Stanton's Jeremy Stallings won with 1:55.89.

His 1600-meter time of 4:42.95 was an improvement over the 4:47.82 that won the district title for him, but it was good enough only for fourth place against all size school athletes.

Marc Peterson of Canyon ran a 4:39.25, Hector Murgia of Crane, 4:40.27, and Joe Machado, San Angelo Central, 4:40.42, placed ahead of the Hawk distance runner.

Boyd's 11-6 placed him seventh in the pole vault, where the winning height was 13-6, set by Coby Heller of Dimmitt.

Law affecting facilities for public seminar topic

The Americans With Disabilities Act will soon affect most employers and virtually all private entities whose operations affect commerce.

That includes: lodging, food service establishments, places of entertainment, public forums, places of public display, parks and zoos, private schools, public transportation terminals, recreation facilities, retail sales establishments, service businesses, and social services.

The Job Service Employer Committee, the Texas Employment Commission, and the Region Nine Education Service Center will co-sponsor a seminar to address the employment and public accommodations part of the Act.

The seminar will be conducted at the Wichita Falls Sheraton Tuesday, May 30. The meeting will be from 7:30 - 11:30 a.m. and begin with breakfast.

Dan C. Dargene, Employment Law Attorney from Dallas, will present the program following the meeting. Handouts will be available and a question and answer session will follow the program.

There will be a $20 registration fee to cover the cost of the seminar, breakfast, meeting room, and handout material.

Registrations will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Persons interested should contact the Texas Employment Commission at 692-1221 or mail a list of participants' names, firm name, and $20 per registration to: Job Service Employer Committee, P.O. Box 4671, Wichita Falls, Tx. 76308. Make checks payable to: Job Service Employer Committee.

This may be your one chance to get acquainted with this far-reaching piece of legislation before it affects your business.

For further information concerning the seminar, please contact Fred Jackson or Susan Ulrick of the Texas Employment Commission at 692-1221.

RICHARD McCANN, son of Jeri McCann and the late Ralph McCann, completed his second year at the state competition Youth Bible Drill in Abilene. A fifth grader at Bradford Elementary, he is a member of Lamar Baptist Church in Wichita Falls.

Visits to grandma's house compared

By Linda Swift

(Editor's Note: The following article is being published in cooperation with the journalism department at Midwestern State Univ., as a class project. The writer is a senior student from Wichita Falls.)

"Beep, beep, beep."
The sounds from the Nintendo game broke into the quiet of a Sunday afternoon at Gramma's house.

My 7-year-old son yelled excitedly, "Mamma, I'm in the fourth world!" This was my cue to watch as he took "Mario" through the obstacle course.

His nimble fingers rapidly worked the controls as his dark eyes focused intently on the screen. Amazed, I looked on, as time and time again, he obliterated all deterrents.

This entire scenario had been played out numerous times before at my mother's house. I thought of how different my grandparents' house had been in the '50s, compared to his grandparents' house. Actually, how different the grandparents, themselves, were.

Matthew's grandmother, a real '90s kind of gramma (or "Na Na," as she is called) walks two miles each morning before work to keep in shape. His grandfather ("Pop Pop") prefers the treadmill. Cholesterol never touches their table.

Their house in the city offers all the necessities required by the typical child of the '90s -- VCR, movie videos and Nintendo.

Matthew lives only 10 minutes from his grandparents. I lived hundreds, and sometimes thousands of miles away, depending on where the Air Force transferred my father.

The trip to Gramma's and Paw Paw's farm was always an adventure, and I grew more excited with each passing mile. But finally, Daddy would turn off onto the long-winding dirt road that served as their driveway. Like Matthew's Nintendo game, an obstacle course of ruts, all shapes and sizes, dared us to pass and claim the prize. But we relished the challenge. As we tightly gripped the seats, Daddy floored it!

He swerved the green and white '55 Oldsmobile from one side then to another. POW! We took a jolt. He jerked the wheel to the right. The car careened up the embankment and down. "Haw, we missed that one!" shouted Daddy gleefully. Then the straight-away.

He maneuvered sharply around a series of insignificant little grooves. Victory looked closer.

He took the curve. Ahead of us, stretching the full width of the road lay the granddaddy of all ruts, mocking us.

Determined, Daddy met it head on. PLOW! The car bounced wildly in. With bottom scraping and springs squeaking, the car fought its way out. We had made it through once again.

The house seemed to rise up in front of us. Gramma and Paw Paw stood waiting on the porch, the approaching cloud of dust churned up by our bumping caravan had signaled our arrival.

Undaunted by our real-life Nintendo adventure, my parents and I righted ourselves and piled out of the car.

Then everyone jockeyed into position to await their hug. Gramma pulled me to her, smothering me in a soft wide expanse of flesh. Passed to Paw Paw, I was lifted up, up and held against his bony frame. A smile beamed from his craggy, sun-darkened face.

Finally, we drifted into the little white-wooden farm house. Though consisting of only four rooms, somehow it was ample enough to welcome us. Gramma always managed to find room for one more. The rooms, rather stark in their furnishing, were decorated in hodge-podge fashion, with treasures collected over the years.

Framed pictures of loved ones set upon tables, homemade cushions softened the hard wooden rockers. Quilts, of all different patterns covered the beds. Wooden floors were bare except for an occasional rug. The rough-hewn dining room table could seat as many as 10, when friends and relatives dropped by for Sunday dinner.

No video games or VCR graced the premises. In fact, the house had neither electricity nor running water. At night, kerosene lamps dimly lit the rooms with a yellow glow, casting shadows on the ceiling and walls. A black wood-burning stove heated the room and our back-sides as we bunched in closely, arms and hands extended toward the heat.

Water was brought in from the pumphouse and heated on the stove for baths in the number-two metal tub. An ice box, with a 50-pound block of ice in the top, kept food from spoiling.

Behind the house, were chicken coops, pumphouse, and a smokehouse, where meat was hung to cure.

Fenced-in pasture land, fields of corn, a barn, Gramma's garden and the inevitable outhouse broke the landscape. The farm possessed all the usual animals -- pigs, chickens, mules and a cow; it was all a veritable playground for a young city girl to explore.

As Gramma's shadow, I helped her feed the chickens, gather the eggs, pull vegetables from her garden, or sit on the porch and snap peas. Sometimes, we'd make cookies. She called them teacakes. She'd roll, and I'd press the various shaped cutters into the dough. We made a good team, as pan after pan of dough boys, turkeys, circles and stars came out of the oven.

At times, I watched fascinated as her huge arms pushed the handle of her churn up and down with a rhythmic grace.

As the sun faded from the sky, Paw Paw would come in for supper, one strap on his blue faded overalls always undone and hanging down his long lanky frame. Afterward, I'd stand beside his rocker as he took out his favorite brand of tobacco, Country Gentlemen, and his smoking papers.

With fingers, stained brown from this daily ritual, he would crook the paper with his left finger, then tap the pouch lightly, filling the paper with tobacco. After rolling it into a cigarette, he'd brush it across his tongue to seal it.

As he smoked, I'd sit on his lap and we'd chat. I was the favorite of this rough old gentleman, and as a result many hours were pleasantly passed with him.

Each night, I'd retire exhausted from the day's adventures.

Then, all too soon, our visit would end. I returned to the city with my head filled with a new collection of memories.

I wonder if my adventures would be too tame for my little modern son, whose excitement currently comes vicariously via remote control.

Matthew broke into my reflections. "Mamma, I'm going to the fifth world!"

"Mamma, are you watching?"
"Yes, Matthew, I'm watching."
Hm, maybe, I'll take him on in a game.

Helpful Facts

Iowa Park landfill stickers are available to persons living inside the city limits for $2 per year, and are available at the Public Works office at city hall. Hours of the landfill: 8-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m. Monday-Friday; 8-6 Saturday-Sunday. When purchasing a landfill sticker, be sure to bring the license plate number of the vehicle on which the sticker is to be attached. All litter taken to the landfill must be covered to avoid spillage. For larger items or for persons not having a vehicle to affix a landfill sticker, a city dump truck will be placed on your property over a week-end and removed the following Monday morning on a first-come, first-serve basis, for a $10 charge.

ATTENTION:

It has become necessary to ban the use of benches, birdbaths, etc. in the cemetery, as well as planting of shrubbery on the lots. One tree per full lot (12 spaces) will be allowed.

Watering must be limited to a one-hour period, twice a week, and must be monitored personally or by a meter. More frequent watering or run-off will result in a shut-off. The city has been very generous. Let's respect the FREE WATER. We can't afford a $3,000 a month water bill!

Many of you failed to receive the rules governing arrangements and decorations. Please note that there is a limit of 2 arrangements and/or decorations per site, with absolutely no glass, ceramic, or other breakable materials.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Exmoor Oil & Minerals, Inc., has posted first production figures for a new producer in the Wichita County Regular Field, seven miles northwest of Iowa Park. The well is designated as the No. 9 C. N. Prothro "E."

It was taken to total depth of 1,730 feet and will produce from a set of perforations 1,660 to 1,672 feet into the wellbore.

The well showed ability to produce 16 barrels of oil per day.

Location is in a 76-acre lease in the HT&B Ry. Co. Survey A-474.

Location has been staked for the No. 4 Pearl Boyd in the Wichita County Regular Field, four and a half miles east of Kamay. With a total depth projected to 1,999 feet, it is in a 150-acre lease in the J.T. Lewis Survey A-462.

It is an exploration venture of Athena Resources, Inc. of Dallas.

Two developmental wells are planned by Landrum West, Inc. in the Wichita County Regular Field, two miles west of Burkburnett.

The wells will be known as the Nos. 2L and 4L Preston "1." Both will seek production at total depths of 1,999 feet.

Location is in a 70-acre lease in the O. Farish Survey A-383.

A new producer has been brought on line in the Wichita County Regular Field, with Quatro Oil & Gas Co., Inc. as the operator.

Located seven miles southwest of Iowa Park, the well is in a 200-acre lease in the Mrs. M.A. Willis No. 1 Survey, A-547.

The well pumped eight barrels of oil per day and bottomed at 500 feet. It will produce from a perforated interval in the Permian Formation, 277 to 293 feet into the hole.

At a location six miles north of Iowa Park, Exmoor Oil & Minerals, Inc. has finished a new oil producer in the Wichita County Regular Field.

The well is designated as the No. 184 Ruyle Unit "E," pumping 16 barrels of oil per day.

Location is in a 441-acre lease in the SP Ry. Co. No. 2 Survey A-437.

Bottomed at 1,820 feet, the well will produce from a set of perforations, 1,650 to 1,670 feet into the wellbore.

Finnell Oil Co. has brought a new producer on line in the Wichita Regular Field, about seven miles southwest of Iowa Park.

Designated as the No. 7 Chilson "D" it pumped seven barrels of oil with about 60 barrels of brine per day.

It probed to total depth of 810 feet and will produce from a set of perforations at 684 to 745 feet into the wellbore.

The same operator has posted first production figures for the No. 3 Cullum "C" in the Wichita Regular Field, three miles north of Holliday.

It showed ability to pump nine barrels of oil daily on an open choke.

Finnell bottomed the hole at 800 feet and perforated for production at 747 to 752 feet into the hole.

First production figures have been posted for the No. 1 Mary Middleton in the East Lockett Field, Wilbarger County, one mile west of Lockett. Madison Oil and Gas Ltd. is the operator.

The well potentiated at 10 barrels of 40-gravity crude per day plus 135 barrels of waste water.

It probed to total depth of 5,816 feet and will produce from a perforated interval at 3,582 to 3,570 feet into the wellbore.

Location was about six miles northeast of Quanah.

The well probed to 6,554-ft. TD and was perforated to produce from the Chappel Formation, 8,549 to 8,554 feet into the wellbore.

Texaco Producing has brought the No. 4 W.G. Walthers on line in the Quanah Field, Hardeman County, 2.5 miles north of Quanah.

It pumped 47 barrels of 41-gravity crude per day plus 72,000 CF casinghead gas and 50 barrels of waste water.

Texaco took the well to total depth of 6,000 feet and plugged it back to 5,972. Production will be from a set of perforations in the Palo Pinto Sand, 5,885 to 5,910 feet below the hole.

Flowing 190 barrels of 49-gravity oil along with 220,000 CF casinghead gas daily, the No. 1 Wofford has been completed by Trio Operating Inc. in a lease nine miles northwest of Chillicothe in Hardeman County's Thrash Field.

Trio bottomed the well at 8,552 feet and perforated the Chappel Formation for pay at 8,520 to 8,552 feet into the hole. Potential was gauged on a 12/64 choke. Flowing tubing pressure stood at 600 PSI.

Bohner Oil Co. has filed first production figures for a pumping oiler in the Wichita Regular Field, about one-half mile northeast of Kamay.

Designated as the No. 20 Kemp and Allen "C," it pumped five barrels of 36-gravity oil per day plus a minor volume of gas and 20 barrels of salt water.

Production is from a set of perforations at 1,570 to 1,574 feet into the hole.

Landrum West Inc. of Wichita Falls has filed first production data for the No. 7 Thomas and Thomas "EE" in the Wichita Regular Field, 1.5 miles northeast of Kamay. The well showed ability to pump three barrels of 42-gravity oil plus 25 barrels of brine per day.

It was drilled to total depth of 850 feet and will produce from a set of perforations in the Cisco Sand, 652 to 655 feet into the wellbore.

Winfrey Oil Company has posted first production figures for a new producer in the Wichita Regular Field, Wichita County, five miles north of Kamay.

The well is designated as the No. 38 T.J. & J.L. Waggoner "C," and is located in a 260-acre lease in the Hezekiah George Survey A-454.

It was taken to total depth of 900 feet and will produce four barrels of oil per day, plus 150 barrels of water from a set of perforations 765 to 770 feet into the hole.

Pumping 26 barrels of oil per day, the No. 12 T.J. and J. L. Waggoner "B" has been completed in the Wichita Regular Field, three and one-half miles north of Kamay.

S & J Operating Company is the operator.

The company drilled the well to total depth of 1,860 feet and perforated for production at 1,806 to 1,812 feet into the hole.

The well is located in a 168.4-acre lease in the Hezekiah George survey A-454.

Primrose Operating Company has posted first production figures for a new producer in the Wichita Regular Field, Wichita County, three miles west of Burkburnett.

The well is designated as the T. Hicks and is located in a 6.55-acre lease in the Williams Rivers Survey A-245.

It was taken to total depth of 1,730 feet and will produce from a set of perforations in the Gunsight Formation, 1,667 to 1,673 feet into the wellbore.

The well showed ability to produce eight barrels of oil per day, plus six barrels of water per day. It showed flowing tubing pressure of 1,665 PSI.

Finnell helps with Desert Storm committee

Rep. Charles Finnell was recently asked by Gov. Ann Richards to name a member to the committee responsible for organizing a statewide event to welcome home the Texas military personnel mobilized for Operation Desert Storm.

The highlight of the Capitol Salute to Texas Troops will be a memorial service at the state capitol followed by a military parade and fireworks display at Austin's Auditorium Shores on Sunday, June 30.

"Texas provided more military personnel for Desert Storm than any other state, and I want our salute to be the best in the nation," Richards said. "Over 50,000 military personnel supporting the effort to free Kuwait were from Texas bases, and we want to be sure they know how proud we are of how well they represented us."

"I will be honored to name a member to this district committee," Finnell said.

"The first attack on Iraq was led by a pilot from San Antonio," he continued. "But we plan to honor everyone who took part in the operation, including the personnel who were here at home in supporting roles."

Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who will serve as chairman of the committee, said the statewide event will not only welcome home the Desert Storm personnel, but also recognize many other military contributions Texans have made in past wars.

In addition to the June 30 activities, plans include a weapons display at Camp Mabry on Saturday, June 29, which will include the types of helicopters, vehicles and equipment used by the U.S. military during the Persian Gulf War.

Special programs and exhibits will also be held at the capitol and other public facilities July 1-3.

Finnell said he will choose a representative from Northwest Texas to serve on the committee, which will include civic, military and community leaders from across the state.

He also said private funds are being sought to finance the costs of the celebration because it would be impossible to organize an event like this without help from the private sector, given the state's current fiscal problems.

Texas BIC directors seated

Auction market owner Milton Ward of Gainesville and meat export executive John Bellinger of Houston were recently seated as new directors of the Texas Beef Industry Council.

Ward was nominated to the BIC board by the Livestock Marketing Association of Texas. Bellinger's nomination was by the Southwestern Meat Association.

Texas BIC board members represent the nine organizations in the state that deal with cattle and beef. Ward and Bellinger join 11 other beef producers in directing an organization charged by law with collecting and administering the $1 per-head checkoff in Texas.

Other directors and organizations they represent are: S.M. True of Plainview and Harlan Huffman of McGregor, Texas Farm Bureau; Jimmy Owen, Tyler, and Jim Eller, College Station, Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Assn.; Byron Gossett Jr., Dumas, and Clark Willingham, Dallas, Texas Cattle Feeders Assn.; Jim Schwertner, Austin, and Roy Wheeler, Pleasanton, Independent Cattlemen's Assn.; Calvin Buchanan, Decatur, dairy industry; Lucille Sterling, Colorado City, Texas Cattle Women; and Don Jobs Jr., Houston, Texas Purebred Cattle Alliance.

In addition, True serves as president, Buchanan, president-elect, and Sterling, secretary-treasurer of the board. They, with Willingham and Jobs make up the executive committee and Anne Anderson is executive director.
