ATTENTION GETTERS - A California couple caused a lot of heads to turn, eyebrows to raise and questions asked when they rode into town Monday evening on their unusual man-made tricycle vehicles and pulling their sleeping and equipment trailers. Ken Beidleman, 39, said he and June Moxon, 38, started from Ferndale June 18, 1989, and, "Now that we've finally gotten over the Rocky Mountains," expect to reach Kittyhawk, N.C. some time in October. Both are graphic artists. He designed the vehicles for the art division of a bicycle race in California, won it, and they started the trip.

Trustees work through lengthy agenda

School trustees worked through an exhausting agenda Tuesday night that lasted until almost midnight.

Among the major items of business they handled was accepting recommendations prepared by the districtwide educational improvement council, made some minor changes in the dress code, rejected bids to construct a new bus maintenance barn, and, following the oath of office for those elected May 4, reorganized the board.

Three different committees that made up the improvement council provided recommendations concerning computer needs, but finalized plans for at-risk program and homework policy were delayed until the June meeting.

The reporting committee produced a detailed needs list for all four campuses, with an estimated cost of $260,193.

Recommended were the expenditures of $50,538 for Kidwell Elementary, $50,957 for Bradford Elementary, $44,990 for the junior high computer literacy laboratory, $50,343 for the high school keyboard (replacing conventional typewriters) lab, $11,239 for the high school math/English/science lab, and $2,256 for the journalism lab.

High school principal Richard Davis told the board, "We feel we're behind (other schools in the area), and need to catch up." He said he would hope the equipment would be purchased and in place when the next school year begins.

The question of where the money might come from to make the purchases was bantered for a lengthy period.

Glen Mitchell, superintendent of schools, stated, "We cannot spend that kind of money out of our reserves."

He mentioned the new school reform bill includes monies for computer purchases, but that is not expected to be for another five years.

Borrowing the money could be a means, but the cost over a five-year period would be more than $50,000 a year.

The board accepted the recommendation, with the stipulation that it would be on the June agenda at which time financing would be more fully discussed.

In the meantime, a search for possible grants, such as one received this past year by Burkburnett, would be initiated.

Approximately 40 minutes of the meeting were consumed by presentation and discussion of changes in the dress code.

Four mothers of elementary students were in the audience, and they were allowed to express their opinions.

The major sticking point centered around the wearing of shorts in grades kindergarten through fifth.

The final decision was that shorts could be worn during specified months at Kidwell and when desired at Bradford, but at both campuses, the principals will be allowed authority to reject their use when weather threatened the comfort of the pupil.

Specifications for types of shorts are included in the policy.

One change affects all campuses: "Leggings are considered to be an undergarment. Leggings are unacceptable as an outer garment. Tunic tops worn with leggings are unacceptable. Leggings are permitted as long as the outer garment meets dress code policy."

Among the complaints expressed by the mothers were: "Policies create a problem for families;" Kids are growing at this (elementary) age, and outgrow the prescribed lengths by the middle of the year;" "Length of dresses means nothing to kids up to eight years of age."

The widest split among the trustees was developed over the bus maintenance barn topic. The final decision was to reject all bids for its construction.

Some board members wanted to go ahead and accept the low bid, which was less than budgeted, one wanted to reject the bid and immediately advertise for new bids, and other wanted to reject the bids and wait a period of time to determine if a tentative offer on an existing facility might be accepted.

The board met behind closed doors last month with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shaw, apparently discussing the possible purchase of the now closed Ford dealership property, which would be used for the buses.

Even though there was a new board member among the three who read their oaths of office, none was actually new at the board table.

Martha Dudley, a former member, was successful in her bid for election this month, along with incumbents Sheri Kennedy and Wendall House.

Dudley replaced long-time trustee John Sibley, who chose to not seek Changes, bids, abatement on council agenda Monday

Changes in the city council, tax abatement and bids are the major topics listed on Monday's council meeting agenda.

The meeting is to begin at 7 p.m. in council chambers.

Two new aldermen, Mark Raby and Bob Hamilton, along with incumbent Virgil Woodfin, will be administered their oaths of office. All were declared winners in the May 4 election, after the voting results were canvassed at the May 6 meeting.

Recognition for years of service on the council will be given Johnny Coker and Diane Robnett, both of whom did not seek another term of office in the recent election.

Mayor House is to announce his appointments of mayor pro tem, as well as two council members to serve on the Recreational Activities Center council. Both appointments must be supported by council vote.

The mayor also will serve on the RAC council with the two aldermen.

Two resolutions relating to tax abatement, a program designed to encourage increased employment here, as well as throughout Wichita County, will be read by Mayor Wayne House.

One, if adopted, declares the city's eligibility to participate in a tax abatement program, while the second sets a comprehensive policy of guidelines and criteria for governing tax abatement incentives.

The tax abatement plan was initiated recently by the county commissioners' court.

Another resolution noted on the agenda is the adoption of a drug abuse program.

Also on the agenda is a citizen's appearance to request exemption from garbage fees, and the administrator's report on budget preparation.

Assault charge filed

Charges of simple assault have been filed against a 17-year-old male who is alleged to have attacked a man Sunday afternoon in a local eating establishment.

A complaint was filed at the Iowa Park Police Department by Danny Reyna, 21, against Mike Horton after an altercation that occurred at Ken's Pizza.

The incident was reported to the police at 2:30 p.m.

In an unrelated case, police were told Tuesday afternoon of a terroristic threat having been made, but no complaint had been filed as of Wednesday, according to the police blotter.

Police responded to an alert of an attempted suicide by overdose at 6:13 p.m. Friday, in the 700 block of Johnson Road.

A 21-year-old female was attended to by EMTs and then transported by ambulance to Wichita General Hospital.

A 16-year-old female runaway was taken into custody at 6:59 p.m. Wednesday of last week by officers, and turned over to her mother. A report was later filed with the juvenile probation office in Wichita Falls, according to the blotter entry.

Thursday morning, officers investigated a criminal mischief complaint in the 1000 block of Mary, where two tires on an automobile had been punctured, apparently by a knife.

Vogel project to begin

Vogel Street will be closed Monday for about two weeks, while its surface is reworked with concrete, Mike Price, public works director, said.

The city council recently voted to resurface the block-long street.

The contractor will begin Monday removing the asphalt surface. Weather permitting, the project should be completed by June 3, Price said.

Property owners will be able to use the alleys for access to their property.

Residents on the north side of Vogel will allow for all the owners to park their vehicles behind their homes, and maintain an access way through the alley. Owners in the middle of the block on the south side can use their alley for access, but the city is asking owners on the outside of the block to park on the side streets, in order to maintain an open access way through the alley.

The schedule for trash collection for both alleys are on Tuesday and Friday mornings, and the collection truck will need access to the containers at that time.

Residents with questions concerning the schedule or parking arrangements can contact the public works department at 592-2642.

Help needed for promotion party

Parents of the Eighth Grade class are planning a promotion party for the evening of June 1.

Parents are needed who will help chaperone the 6-11 p.m. event, and donations are being accepted.

Coordinating the event, as well as answering questions, are Candy Moser, 592-9330, and Billie Scobee, 592-9440.

Project graduation meeting slated

All parents who plan to work in the Project Graduation project are asked to meet at 7 p.m. Monday in the high school library, according to Carroll Venhaus, project coordinator.

Late sleeper shocks students

A number of girls in a physical education class were surprised into loud screaming and began running for what they believed to be their lives Tuesday morning in Hawk Stadium.

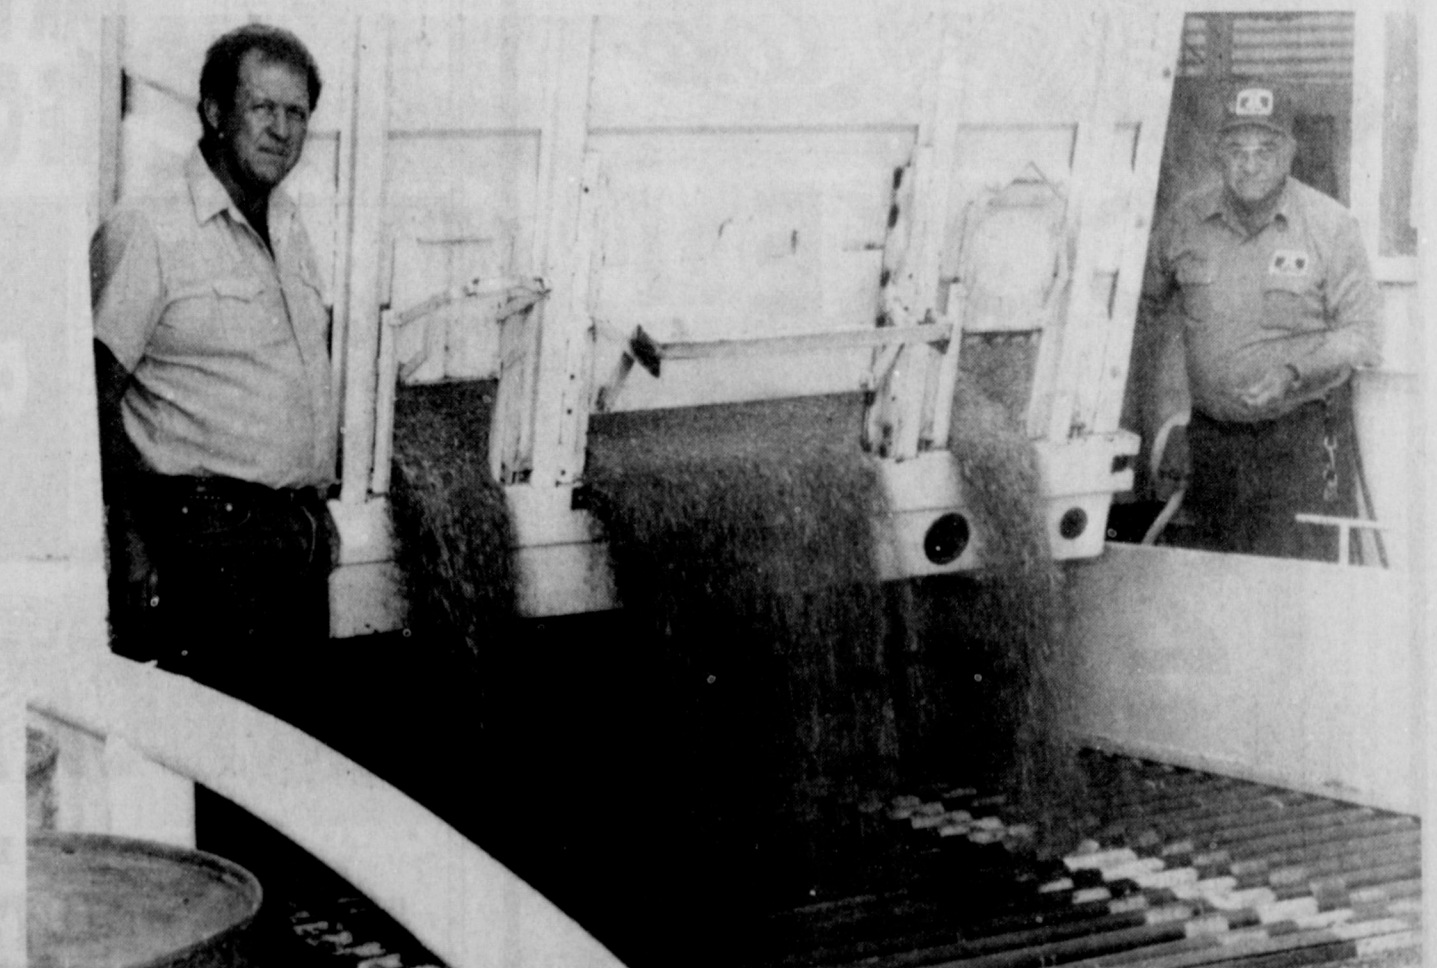

The students had just began their tour of the track, when a bearded and obviously unkept man started crawling out from under the pole vault pad as they passed.

He didn't bother them, physically, and continued to walk away from the campus.

It was later explained by Police Chief Wayne Parsons that the transient had sought a place to sleep Monday night, and found cover under the mat.

He was identified as Glen Bates, 29.

The grounds keeper's mowing of the football field two hours apparently had not disturbed the man's sleep. He had apparently just decided it was time to leave when he heard the students' voices in the area.

FIRST LOAD OF WHEAT in Wichita County was delivered Monday afternoon to Texoma Grain by partners Jack Gholson and Stanley Watson. The Pioneer 2180 variety had a test weight of 60.2 and only 13.2 percent moisture. It averaged 29.5 bushels per acre, and was harvested off land owned by Dr. Erwin Soell, just north of Texoma on FM 368. Gholson is shown on the left with James Hartmangruber, Texoma manager.

Sales taxes still improving

Iowa Park has received 4.56-percent more in sales taxes thus far this year than for the same period in 1990, according to a report from the state comptroller's office.

Sales tax rebates received thus far have been $71,442.99, as compared with $68,326.45.

The city recently received a check in the amount of $16,405.67, representing taxes collected on March sales and reported in April by businesses filing monthly returns, and also includes taxes reported by those filing quarterly.

In May of 1990, the rebate check was 2.76-percent lower, or $15,965.47.

Every city in Wichita County, for the first time this year, is showing a gain in taxes for the year. The percentage gains are: Burkburnett, 8.65; Electra, 4.88, and Wichita Falls, 0.88.

Holliday also is reporting gain, with 52.47-percent more than 1990. Thus far that city has collected $34,440.58.

Jennifer Newman

Jennifer, a native of Cleveland, Ohio, has been visiting in the home of her father and stepmother, Mr. and Mrs. Marc Newman. While here, she has had a chance to get acquainted with her younger brother Wesley, and newborn sister, Alexandra.

Jennifer was born at Sheppard Air Force Base and moved to Cleveland with her parents when she was eight months old. She continues to live there with her mother, Carolyn Woods.

A graduate of Lakewood High School in Cleveland, Jennifer has attended the University of Dayton one and a half years. She is planning on returning home soon and will enter nursing training in August.

She said that she enjoys swimming, basketball and working with children.

Jennifer enjoys cooking and has a good collection of recipes. She talked about some of the regional differences in food, and said that she couldn't find many of the food items here that are her favorites in Ohio. On the other hand, she had no idea what a brisket is. She said that outdoor barbecuing is not as popular in Ohio, where they cook mostly hamburgers and steaks on the grill, as it is here.

The recipes she chose to share with us this week are an indication that many foods are favorites and enjoyed by people nationwide.

Members learn Christmas craft

Gail McIlroy was in charge of the program for the Iowa Park Arts and Crafts Association, who met Tuesday night at TU Electric's Reddy Room.

Mrs. McIlroy taught the members how to make Christmas "Kissing Balls" using a folded star pattern.

During the business session directed by Vice President McIlroy, the minutes were read by Sheri Albus, and the treasurer's report was given by Billie Railsback. Mrs. McIlroy reported that the garage sale, put on by the group last weekend, was a success.

It was announced that Helen Reed and Tommie Smith will have their work displayed at State National Bank and Tom Burnett Memorial Library during the month of May.

The program for June will be devoted to making items for the association's display at the Fourth of July celebration and opening of the new RAC building.

Understanding Alcoholism

- Alcoholism is an illness suffered by more than 10 million American men and women of all ages, races and income levels.
- Alcoholism does not imply a weak or immoral character.
- Alcoholism has some specific warning signs. They are:
 - Family, social, job or financial difficulties due to drinking
 - Loss of ability to control drinking
 - "Blackouts," or forgetting what happened while drinking
 - Distressing reactions if drinking is stopped
 - A need to drink increasingly more to get the desired effect
 - Changes in behavior or personality when drinking
 - Getting drunk frequently — more than four times a year
 - Injuring oneself or someone else while intoxicated
 - Breaking the law while intoxicated
 - Starting the day with a drink.
- Like most illnesses, alcoholism is treatable, and the chances of recovery are better the sooner help is sought. The most important factor in the successful treatment of alcoholism is a strong commitment to overcome alcohol dependence.
- Alcohol may cause undesirable interactions with prescription and over-the-counter medications. If someone you know has an alcohol problem, your pharmacist can advise them on the possible interaction of alcohol and medicines.
- A good start toward getting help is to talk to a trusted person about the problem. Once the problem has been acknowledged, an important step towards recovery has been taken.
- Alcoholism treatment programs exist in a number of settings; most are on an outpatient basis. For information on a treatment program near you, look for the Alcoholics Anonymous listing in your local telephone directory. Families of alcoholics can get help through their local chapter of Al-Anon, also listed in the phone book.

For more information about alcoholism — Ask your pharmacist.

As I See It . . . By Bob Hamilton

My deadlines for producing this issue cheated me out of hearing an address at noon Wednesday by one of my old friends, Jack Powers, director of human resources for Cryovac.

Jack made a presentation during a noon meeting of the Wichita Falls Board of Commerce and Industry, and his message was one we should all learn.

He was understanding, after learning I had to turn down an invitation to hear him speak, and brought me a copy of his text.

Jack is concerned about the work force of the near future, both in numbers and education. And the data he has supports his concern.

Included in his talk are the 1987 Study by the Hudson Institute and the 1990 Towers Perrin Survey of 645 businesses across the nation.

What both indicate are:

- * there will be fewer young workers.
- * the work force is aging.
- * there are more women in the work force.
- * we have an alarming "skills gap."
- * and the nation has an increasing cultural diversity.

Concerning preparation for the problems which will become apparent as soon as the year 2000, and how should we respond to demographic and labor force trends, Powers said,

"My personal opinion is that we cannot be prepared at all. If we attempt to do it alone, as individual companies or individual towns, or individual educational systems, or individual churches, etc.

"Unless we join hands in this community and collectively work together to get prepared, Wichita County will become a place where our children must leave to find desirable employment and a high quality of life."

Jack suggests development of a technical training center, right here in the heart of Wichita County.

Without it and what it would produce, industries will go to other areas of the nation where adequately-trained people can be found.

Such training has already met with successful industrial growth in parts of Kentucky, he offered as an example.

There will be a severe lacking not only of adequately educated and trained people, but also people of working age.

For instance, employment opportunities are increasing at a rate of 1.3 percent per year, but the population is increasing only .75 percent annually, Powers reports.

And then the trend toward early retirement is reducing the work force. He offered the statistic that 83 percent of all workers between the ages of 55 and 65 were still at work in 1970, across the nation.

That was lowered to only 67 percent by 1986, his studies stated.

I hope our Chamber of Commerce, school district and interested citizens can get together to do a study on Jack's suggestion for a technical training facility here.

That, apparently, would be a more constructive method of developing growth and stability for our community and area than the offering of tax abatements and other incentives used to attract industrial jobs.

MAYOR WAYNE HOUSE and his wife were among several hundred Sheppard AFB personnel and area dignitaries who attended an event at the Carter McGregor Ranch north of Wichita Falls Monday in honor of the North-Atlantic Treaty Organization Air Chiefs. A highlight of the evening was a mock battle put on by 23 Confederate Air Force craft.

Former Iowa Parkan handing down wand

Former Iowa Park resident Randy Keck recently gave his step-son his childhood magic wand.

The six year old boy, Paul Blankenship, is rehearsing magical gestures and state etiquette so he may be a part of magician Keck's 1991-92 season performances.

Keck began public performances at the age of 15. He graduated Iowa Park High School in 1975, where he was named Best All Around Boy and received the 23 Study Club's Outstanding Boy of the Year award.

He sang in the choir and played on the varsity basketball team.

His magical performances helped finance his degree from Midwestern State Univ. and remained a solid hobby as he actively pursued a computer career over the past decade.

"My nine-to-five profession is in computers, which can be just as creative as magic," Keck said. "But I intend to continue the mystery of magic long after I retire from the computer field."

"By then," he continued, "Paul will probably have his own show."

Young Master Blankenship is scheduled to portray a dancing clown, a goblin and an elf, as well as the traditional magician's assistant, beginning in September with appearances in several states. He will make his debut in Massachusetts performing at birthday party shows in June. His entertainment calendar will bring him back to Texas in February.

"Paul enjoys performing," Keck said. "He frequently captures our attention with impromptu performances based on his favorite programs. When he sees an audience he, well, becomes a bit of a ham."

Keck has been a magician since his Iowa Park days and understands the boy's interest. Young Blankenship's creativity sprouted from cartoons and Keck, yet his prime motivator was a movie created for adults.

"My all time favorite is 'There's No Business Like Show Business' because everybody dances and sings all the time -- even through water fountains," Blankenship said. The apprentice entertainer mimics the dancers on the hardwood floors at his new residence.

"I really like all those floors," the boy said. "I can just tap and tap. We didn't have floors like that in Texas."

Blankenship relocated to the New England area because his step-father, a management information systems director by day, was relocated by his employer.

"At first I didn't like it here," young Blankenship said. "People didn't say their words right and I didn't know anybody."

"I love it here now," the boy

Randy Keck with step son, Paul continued. "I love my teacher and the kids in my class are great. My gym teacher is the bestest."

Content with the new environment, the child now focuses on learning magic from Keck, who targets children and adult audiences.

"There is a widespread perception that magic is for children," Keck said. "But adults, even though they may not admit it, have as much fun watching magic as children do."

Magic has been labeled the most universal of all the arts, according to British magician Milbourne Christopher's Panorama of Magic, a 1962 book from Dover Publications in New York.

"Magicians are legitimate deceptionists," Christopher wrote. "They challenge the mind, stimulate the imagination and offer a brief respite from worry and pressure."

Yet Keck prefers to humor and entertain audiences, not fool.

"I think it's dishonest to claim powers you don't have and I want Paul to be honest," Keck said. "I can honestly teach him how to pull rabbits out of hats," he added with a laugh.

The apprentice magician has some big footsteps to follow. The lure of entertaining people brought the boy's mentor to the stage two decades ago: persistence and achievements kept him there.

The six-foot-four magician received the Wizard of the Year Award in 1976 from the Wichita Falls professional magicians' group. In the late 1970s he served as president of the International Brotherhood of Magicians in Wichita Falls, and in Fort Worth during the early 1980s.

The International Brotherhood of Magicians is more than 50 years old with chapters, known as rings, in most major cities and more than 10,000 members worldwide.

Keck entertained audiences throughout North Texas. His performances ranged from full-scale stage shows at plush hotels in Dallas to simple stand-up routines for small school graduations.

His accomplishments earned him the Outstanding Young Man of America nomination in 1983 and 1985. He was nominated to Who's Who of American Men last winter.

Keck currently resides in historical Arlington, Massachusetts, with his wife, Jenny Blankenship, an award-winning journalist, and apprentice magician son.

Worth Quoting

I don't like to admit getting older but I cannot escape the fact that I am of a generation that doesn't quite understand what is going on these days. I refer specifically to an ABC news special I watched, with some disbelief, on Tuesday night of this week. The special had to do with the issuing of condoms to high school students in New York City, Detroit, Indianapolis, Indiana, and several smaller schools. There did not seem to be much question but that passing out condoms to those who want them is a good idea. What the big debate was about was over whether or not a kid should get parental permission to receive the rubber goods.

Most of the high school age boys and girls interviewed thought it was a good idea to have condoms available, most of them mentioned the prevention of unwanted pregnancy and others stating that using a condom would help prevent getting the incurable disease of AIDS. Nobody questioned the use of condoms and sex. I got the idea that there are a lot of teen age youngsters who regard sex about as common as a handshake these days. This is beyond my comprehension.

I can guarantee you one thing. When I was a 16 year old kid in high school the idea most removed from my mind would be whether or not to ask my parents if I could pick up some condoms at the school.

It is no doubt true that the spread of AIDS is a growing problem and the disease has spread from the homosexual male segment of our population to females and others who are not gay. It is no doubt true that the use of condoms will help check the spread of AIDS. But in all of this television program only one woman pointed out the safest way to keep from getting AIDS or venereal disease or unwanted pregnancy. This method is simply to refrain from premarital sex. This worked for generations but now is apparently too old fashioned.

HAROLD HUDSON
Perryton Herald

Earlier this year we did a series of articles concerning where you spend your money. We attempted to point out that the Olney merchants were certainly more than worthy of your shopping dollars and support since they are always the first contacted for donations to everything that takes place here. We later did everything but name names to those who "shopped elsewhere first" despite saying words to the contrary.

Well, in this week's Enterprise is a sad announcement of another hard-working businessman who is simply closing the doors to his large retail business because he didn't have the word "discount" included in the name of his establishment. The prices charged were usually less than what could be found in the "big city" discount stores, but then how would the majority of the people know because they never came in unless it was for an emergency item or when there was a 50 percent sale? Another empty building on Main Street, five or six residents without jobs.

When is the bleeding going to stop? When will the businesses, the government agencies, the shopping public realize that in order for them to continue, in order for City of Olney, the Olney Public Schools, Olney Hamilton Hospital to remain open and provide services, they have got to spend their money at home ... in Olney.

The constant complaint that it costs more to shop in Olney is mute when a business like Ben Franklin closes. How much does it cost to buy "a red ribbon for her hair?" How much more is it going to cost each of us because there won't be sales taxes collected on the sales that won't be made here? Doesn't anyone care? Is anyone listening?

I was talking to Rob Roark about the oil business Tuesday morning. I told him I had read that a number of economists are predicting that oil prices will go down again.

Rob doesn't believe this will happen, and indicated that he doesn't think economists can always be relied on for accuracy.

He said it was probably this same group of prognosticators that accurately predicted 26 of the last three depressions.

Fuhrman and Barker have been at Little Cypress, as was Skeeler, who was hired last week. Clensay is head coach at Deweyville.

"THE ABANDONMENT OF MORAL PRINCIPLES"

Recently Al Thomas of the Los Angeles Times Syndicate, wrote on the growing irrelevance of some modern churches to the moral needs of our day. It is interesting to observe what someone who is not a preacher thinks about the abandonment of moral principles by religious leaders. Thomas called attention to three items in this regard.

"A special committee of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) proposed that practicing homosexuals be ordained as ministers and that the Seventh Commandment proscribing adultery be disavowed, along with all other prohibitions against sex outside of marriage. It took the committee four years to concoct something it calls a 'justice-love' test to supplant the doctrine it once espoused.

"A committee within the Episcopal Church recommended that Bishops be allowed to ordain homosexual seminarians to the priesthood. 'I think the church is ready to take a little more progressive stance,' said Bishop George Hunt of Providence, R.I., who headed the committee.

"A new book by the gadfly Episcopal Bishop John Spong claims the Apostle Paul, who condemned homosexual practice, was himself a repressed homosexual."

Thomas has a rather biting criticism to make of these men. "It used to be said of the pietistic that 'they are so heavenly minded, they are of no earthly good.' Surely it must now be said of these 'progressives,' who are nothing more than heretics and apostates in clerical garb, that they are so earthly minded, they are of no use to heaven or to anyone on earth."

One might expect such disregard of Biblical principles from Phil Donahue, whose recent programs have espoused the cause of gays and lesbians, but for those who claim to be followers of Christ and spokesmen for His cause to make such statements is shocking to most sensible people, as is evidenced by the writing of Al Thomas.

In my estimation, these religious leaders will not only meet the disapproval of Christ, but will also lose far more than they will ever gain in membership as they court the favor of the world in flagrant disdain of God's Word. All of this emphasizes all the more the need to be blameless and innocent, children of God above reproach in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom you appear as lights in the world." (Philippians 2:15).

Reception to honor Davis

By LaRAE COLLINS

Kenneth Davis has taught "everything except Home Ec." and has been principal in the Iowa Park school system for 21 years. But in a few weeks, he will retire from education.

Saturday, May 18 his friends and the public will honor him with a reception from 3-5 p.m. at the home of Tom and Karen McCluer, 1704 Quail Valley.

In the case of bad weather, the reception will be at Bradford Elementary School.

Davis began his teaching career in Megargel, TX. where he taught "almost everything." He then moved to Valley View School as a 5th grade teacher.

His first principal's job was at Valley View School, where he stayed for four years.

When Valley View consolidated with the Iowa Park School District, Davis taught Texas history and art at Iowa Park Junior High School.

He moved to the assistant principal's position at Iowa Park High School and after seven years, took the job of principal at Bradford Elementary School, where he has been for nine years.

Davis said one of the best things about his long career in Iowa Park education is the closeness he has had with the students.

"Now I've got kids of the kids I had in school, and even some of those have graduated. That's a good feeling," he said.

Davis feels that many people are to thank for supporting him through the years, but his wife, Earlene, is the most important one.

"Ever since the beginning, Earlene has stuck with me. Through the hard times of getting my degrees and starting out with the low salaries and when we first had the kids, she was great. She's been my inspiration; she's always been there when I needed her," he said.

He will miss the students and co-workers, but some parts of the job he is glad to leave behind.

"I will not miss the paperwork and long hours and discipline problems, but I'll miss the people tremendously, especially the bunch at Bradford. They're good people," he said.

Closing the office door for the last time will be a bittersweet time for Davis. But he feels that it is the right thing to do.

"You know, people always said you know when it's time to quit, and it's time. I'm tired and I want to do some of the things that I want to do. I want to hunt, fish, work on some oil paintings, play a little golf and go on one more elk hunt," he said.

Teacher, principal, educator. Davis has helped children grow into adults and parents. Although he will not be in the office at Bradford, his influence will be felt in the lives he has touched.

Cheerleader tryouts scheduled June 1

Saturday, June 1, has been slated for Top of Texas Cheerleader tryouts. They will be held in the high school stadium at 10 a.m.

Those interested in trying out should attend the first meeting Monday, May 20 at 4:30 p.m. with a parent at the high school tennis courts.

Twelve cheerleaders will be chosen to represent the Pee Wee and Midget Football Leagues.

Pee Wee Hawks are represented by third and fourth graders and the Midget Hawk cheerleaders will be selected from the fifth and sixth grades.

A mascot from kindergarten through second grade is chosen for each league.

New cheerleaders will have the summer to choose uniforms, learn cheers, and prepare for the games which begin in September and include travel out of town.

GOING UP - Students and equipment from Sheppard AFB worked Tuesday with local Little League volunteers to raise the first of the light poles for the Senior League Field.

Rockin' Hawkettes registration Saturday

Registration for the Rockin' Hawkettes will be 10 a.m. until 2 p.m., Saturday, at the ASCS building. The organization is for girls who will be in grades one through six next year. Its purpose is to support Top O' Texas football teams. Those who can't register on Saturday, but want to register early, can do so by calling Jo Lynn Cockrum, 592-4436, or Donna Lively, 592-2565. There will be a late registration after the cheerleader tryouts in June. Anyone from the previous years who want to sell their uniforms should bring them to the ASCS office by 9:30 a.m. on Saturday.

Hawks are champions

Playoff game date unknown

The Hawks successfully defended their Dist. 4-AAA baseball crown Friday by knocking off Graham 6-2, in the Steers' own pasture.

Coach Daryl Frazier is watching action to the southwest, where it is still anybody's guess which team will face Iowa Park in bi-district action.

In the meanwhile, the Hawks will play Henrietta this evening in a tune-up game. That will start at 7:30 p.m. at Hoskins Field in Wichita Falls.

Weather permitting, Denver City was scheduled to play Brownfield, and Kermit taking on Seminole, as Dist. 3-AAA winds down in tight fashion.

Brownfield and Seminole were the district leaders, but Denver City and Kermit were one game back. Should the latter defeat the former, the conference would end in a four-way tie, Frazier said Tuesday.

However the games came out, a district winner and runner-up must be decided by midnight Saturday, according to University Interscholastic League rules.

Frazier, who will not know where and when the bi-district game will be played until the 3-AAA tangle is unraveled, said he hopes to play bi-district Tuesday in either Abilene or Snyder.

This is the sixth year in his nine-year tenure as head baseball coach of the Hawks that Iowa Park has advanced into the playoffs -- four times as champions and twice as runners-up.

Hawk hurler J'Bill Merrick limited the Steers to only three hits Friday, almost matching his one-hit performance against Graham in their first meeting.

Meanwhile, Iowa Park was pounding out 11 hits, including a home run by Robert Denton and doubles by Patrick Kennedy and Jeremy Carroll.

The Hawks got all the runs they would need in the first inning, when they took a 3-0 lead. They added another in the second and one each in the fourth and fifth frames.

Graham was held off until the sixth and seventh innings, and both scores were empty-bases home runs.

Merrick aided his cause with his bat, collecting three hits in four at-bats. Denton and Tony Lozopone were two for four, Kennedy two for two, Carroll one for three and Jason Miller one for four.

Breckenridge had a boys' relay team qualified for the state track meet Saturday, but they didn't get to make the trip. Seems after they placed in the regional meet at Odessa, some or all of the members went out on the town. No, not drinking. They reportedly went on a stealing spree...and got caught. The items, which they are said to have sold for several hundreds of dollars, hadn't been paid for at last report.

Remember the name Chuck Curtis, one of the finalists for head coaching job here? Well, he finally got one. He's been named athletic director at Mineral Wells, but isn't doing any coaching.

ss ss ss ss ss ss

Observing very closely the Class AAA boys' discus event at the state track meet was a familiar face and name to Iowa Park fans. He was Bill Carter, the man who directed Iowa Park's only successful bid for a state track title.

Band Boosters to meet

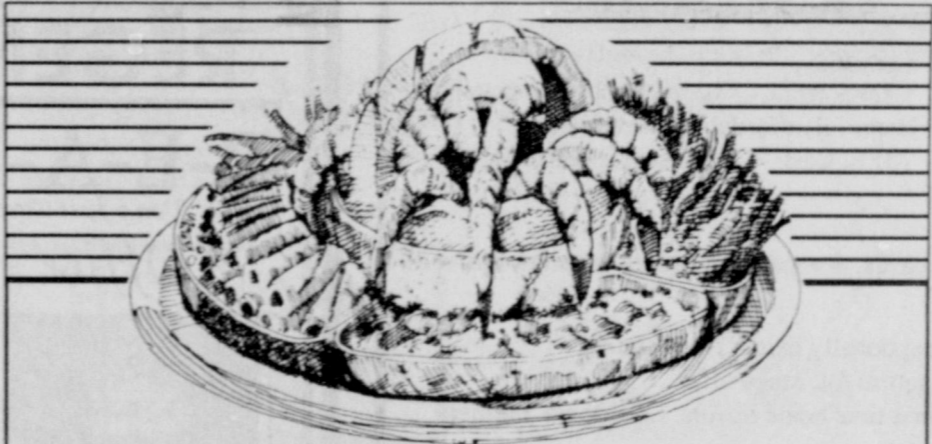

Iowa Park Band Boosters will hold their final meeting of the year Tuesday in the High School Band Hall.
