Moody moved to middle school

Steve Moody was named principal of W.F. George Middle School during the regular meeting of the Iowa Park school board Thursday night.

Moody, who has been principal of Kidwell Elementary the last five years, will fill the vacancy created when former middle school principal, Randy Lovelady, who resigned to accept the position of assistant superintendent at Burk Burnett.

The selection of Moody was made following a portion of the meeting that was closed to discuss personnel. Other action included accepting the resignation of Stephen Stradley, high school English teacher, who has accepted a position with the City View ISD. Also, Brandi Catlin was hired to teach third grade at Bradford, where she did her student teaching last year.

Moody grew up in Banquete, located west of Corpus Christi. He received his BSE and Masters degrees, along with mid-management certification at Midwestern State University. He also earned superintendent certification at Tarleton State University.

Before coming to Iowa Park, Moody spent six years coaching and teaching at Electra High School. He taught eighth grade history two years, and was assistant principal four years at Iowa Park Junior High before becoming principal at Kidwell.

His wife, Mickie, is a grade teacher at Kidwell. They have two daughters and a son, Heather, 15, will be a sophomore at Iowa Park High School next year, Mollie, 11, will be in the sixth grade at the middle school, and Latham is three years old.

"I'm excited about this new challenge," Moody said. "The junior high has had a lot of success, and I hope to continue the programs and look forward to working with the excellent teachers to make the middle school an exemplary campus."

Reflecting on his time as principal at the elementary school, Moody commented "I enjoyed my years at Kidwell and working with the teachers and students there. I'm looking forward to seeing the students again at the junior high level."

Before the start of the regular meeting, members of the Iowa Park High School band who won honors in state competition were recognized by the board.

Michelle Archer, an advocate of school uniforms, spoke briefly during the open forum portion and gave trustees printed material she had collected containing information on the subject.

Superintendent Mike Caplinger gave the results of the school's survey on uniforms, and said not much could be done before a middle school principal was hired. He suggested the new principal could chair a committee of parents, students, teachers and administrators to study the possibility of school uniforms.

80-85% acceptance of the uniforms by parents for it to work.

At the suggestion of Allen Shewmake, director of Food Services, the board voted to reject an increase in the price of school lunches next year. Shewmake said he wanted to stay with the same prices at the two elementary schools, and possibly raise them at junior high and high school. Shewmake, also director of Transportation, reported that he had not received any bids for purchase of a pickup truck.

During his report, Caplinger discussed the Texas Education Agency's procedures for appraisal of administrators. He said the last legislature had changed administrator appraisals to include TAAS scores, and trained teams from outside the district would come in to do the appraisals.

Board of Trustees committees were appointed by Keith Fisher, president. They include: Finance - Larry Dutton and Jeff Watts; Personnel - Martha Dudley and Wendall House; Curriculum - Randy Brown and Martha Dudley; Insurance, Cafeteria, Transportation - Randy Alsup and Larry Dutton; Building and Grounds - Keith Fisher and Randy Brown; Athletic - Jeff Watts and Randy Alsup; and Vocational - Wendall House and Keith Fisher.

In addition to regular business items, other action taken by the board include: Regional Advisory Committee, Region IX Education Service Center;

* adopted commissioner recommended Student Performance Domains for the Appraisal of Principals and Superintendents;

* approved Credit by Exam dates for the 1999-2000 school year;

* accepted Athletic Supply and Equipment bids; and

* approved purchase of a tractor/mower.

Called meeting tonight

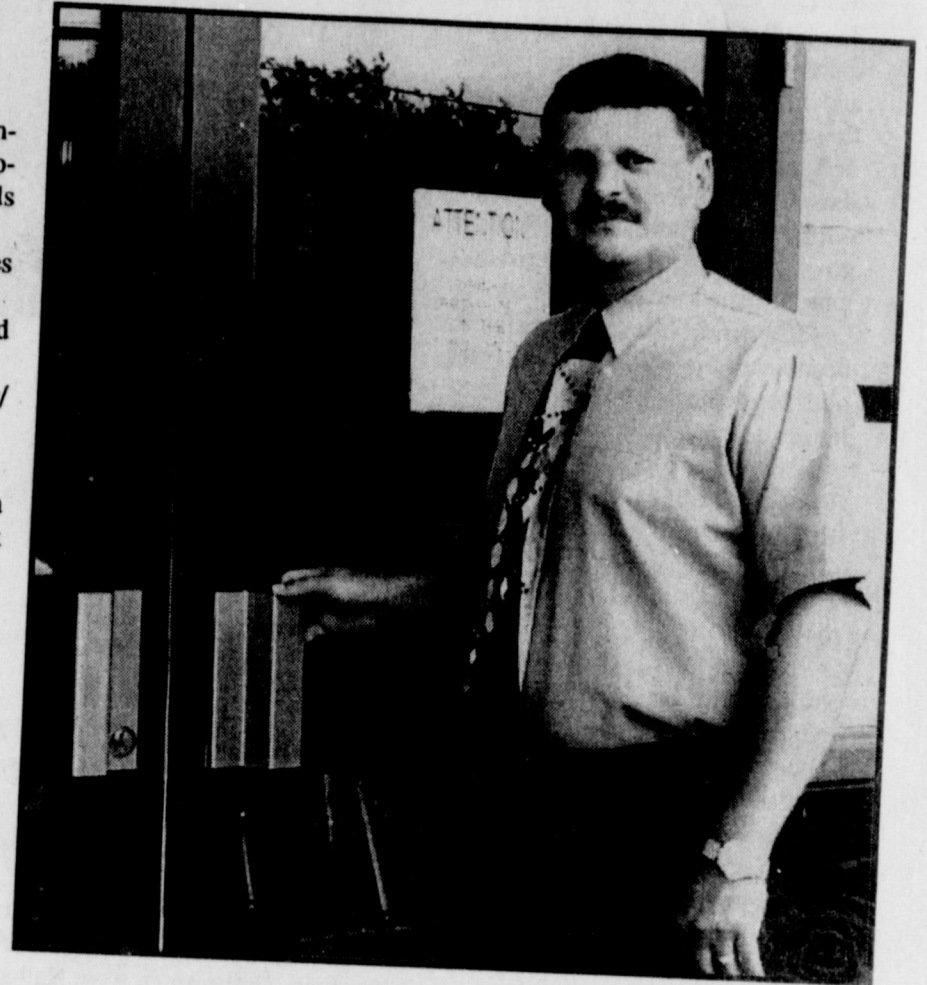

The school board will meet in a special called meeting this evening at 6 o'clock in the school administration building.

The following items are listed on the agenda:

* Discussion and review of schedule for the sale of bonds by financial advisor;

* General approval of preliminary facility plans and date by architect; and

* Closed meeting to (a) accept resignations (b) employ new personnel; and (c) employ and/or reassignment of administrative personnel.

Busy session for council

Every issue taken up by the city council Monday night was approved, but two of them drew early votes.

The fireworks stand to be located at Lake Iowa Park, while the other related to contracting with a collection agency.

The proposal for the fireworks stand was approved, but by a mere 2-1 vote.

Bids were sought for a supplier who would provide the merchandise to be sold, with stipulations that insurance would be provided to protect the city as well as the percentage of gross sales going to the Iowa Park Police Officer's Association.

Only one bid was received, that from Fireworks Unlimited, which promised to pay the city $600 for the lease and 23 percent of the gross to the Association.

The fireworks stand will be allowed to open June 24 and remain open through July 4.

Alderman Wayne House, who argued at an earlier meeting against the proposal, stated, "I wish you wouldn't do this. I don't think we should allow only one group to sell. Maybe we should limit it to only Iowa Park people."

Responding, Mayor Tim Hunter said, "Other people sought me out. No one objected. Nothing has been rigged. I would hope it (the program) would evolve and have more organizations (participating in the future)."

"We've gone this far with it. We need to follow through and get it done," commented Alderman Tracy Fears.

Fears and Ward voted to approve the resolution, House voted against it, and Alderman Bud Mercer abstained. Alderman Joe Singer was absent.

The issue of contracting with the firm of American Municipal Services Corp. to collect delinquent fines and warrant and court fees was approved by a 3-1 vote, with Ward casting the negative sign.

Ward explained he objected because "I have heard collection agencies using underhanded methods. It bothers me."

City Administrator Mike Price explained that the agency would be involved only with "offenders who promise to pay, but don't."

When asked what was involved, Police Chief Lynn Collins reported the amount was approximately $100,000, "and about 80 percent of them out-of-towners."

OTHER BUSINESS

* The council approved a resolution providing for entering a lease agreement which would allow the works stand to be located at Lake Iowa Park, while the other related to contracting with a collection agency.

* Approved a waiver of the contractor's license for work to be done at the First Baptist Church's Fellowship Hall, formerly known as Food Depot, which would allow members of the church to do certain improvements on the building.

* Approved entering an agreement with the Texas Department of Economic Development through its Texas Capital Fund Real Estate Program. At issue is state funding which will allow the purchase of two areas for businesses to occupy.

Gene James Air Conditioning is to occupy most of the old Thompson Tool property, including nine lots, and Kathy's Kakes will be moved into Dudley's Deli.

Only state funding would be used in the two projects, Price explained, and both businesses are expected to increase current employment significantly.

* Approved a proposal to purchase portions of right of way in the 500 block of East Jefferson, 300 block of South Alcott, and 1000 block of South Yosemite. The Jefferson and Alcott lots were requested by the Wichita County Water Improvement District, while the Yosemite area is owned by Jerry Robertson and dead-ends into an alley.

* Approved a recommendation from the Planning and Zoning Commission to allow porches associated with manufactured housing in an R-3 zone to have a set back off the front property line of 17 feet, instead of the required 25 feet.

* Approved a second issue that concerned problems of collecting municipal fines that relate to traffic offenses. The city will enter into an agreement with the Department of Public Safety in its "Failure To Appear" program that provides for all drivers attempting to renew licenses to be clear of any unpaid fines.

* Approved a proposal by the city administrator to sell boards from the old South Bell bridge, which was moved to Lake Gordon. Price explained the boards could not be used now.

IPHS awarded grant

Iowa Park CISD has been awarded a "High Schools That Work" grant by Tech Prep, Texas Education Agency, and the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

Request for applications were mailed to each school district in the 11 counties in the North Texas Region participating with Tech Prep. Iowa Park and Seymour school districts returned grants.

Both grants were sent to the Texas Education Agency for their evaluation and choice. Iowa Park was notified they were to receive the "High Schools That Work" planning grant for May 1, 1999 to August 31, 1999.

Alan Seay, principal at Iowa Park High School, helped develop the grant. James Skeeler will be the "High Schools That Work" coordinator.

Seay, Skeeler, Colleen Ellis and Wendy Meadows all visited two exemplary schools in North Carolina to observe how the schools are making the program work. A Tech Prep/High Schools That Work Site Development Workshop was held in Austin on May 10-12. This was attended by Seay, Skeeler, Tim Bartram, Ellis and Meadows.

Beverly Larson is the representative on the team from the Region 9 Education Service Center and Romona Vaughan, Tech Prep Director, represents Tech Prep on the team. Dr. Gene Bottoms administers this program through the Southern Regional Education Board.

The Southern Regional Education Board is a partnership of states, school systems, and school sites. They are actively involved in making changes in the way they prepare students for work and further education in the 21st century.

High priority is given to the following: (1) meeting the needs of special populations with respect to career and technology education; (2) raising the quality of career and technology education programs in schools; (3) integrating of academic and vocational education; (4) providing a coherent sequence course of study leading to both academic and occupational competencies; (5) providing opportunities for students to develop higher order thinking and problem-solving skills; (6) increasing linkages between secondary and post secondary education; and (7) providing instruction in all aspects of the industry that the students are planning to enter.

A work session was held at the high school with administrators, counselors, and teachers with the team reporting from their visit to the exemplary high school.

Store burglary solved

Three young men were charged Thursday with the April 12 burglary of Amanda's Country Store.

They included Monty Keith Britz, 19, Harley Joe Lane, 18, and Gregory Lee Bryant, 19.

Immediately after the charges were filed, the trio was transported to the Wichita County jail.

They are alleged to have broken out the store's front door glass, entering, and removing several hundred dollars worth of cigarettes.

Eight other arrests were also made during the past week, but were not related to the burglary case, according to the police blotter.

Clint Allen Owen, 39, was taken into custody last Wednesday evening in the 400 block of West Aldine, and charged with Class C assault. He was later released after promising to appear in municipal court.

Early Friday morning in the 200 block of West Highway, Jean Marie Pfeifle, 24, was picked up on a warrant issued by the county sheriff's office.

The warrant was for possession of marijuana, under two ounces, with a fine of $586.25. She was transported by a county deputy to jail.

Fridan evening, John Shannon Sims, 18, was taken into custody on four outstanding Iowa Park warrants: two for failure to maintain financial responsibility and two for having no drivers license.

Total fines facing Sims on those four warrants was $1,302. He was transported to the county jail, according to the police blotter.

Police arrested two men Friday evening at Lake Iowa Park after they had been observed violating city ordinance of consuming alcohol there.

Jerry Louis Venegas, 38, was also found to have an outstanding Wichita County warrant against him for driving while license suspended, with a fine of $281.25.

Buddy Wayne Kinnaird, 19, was charged for attempting to give the officer a false identification.

At Lake Gordon early Saturday morning, Steven Carl Thomas, 37, was taken into custody on an outstanding warrant out of Lawrence County, Mo. He was transported to the Wichita County jail.

Steven Lee Swanson, 27, was taken into custody Sunday afternoon in the 900 block of South Park, after it was determined four commitment orders existed against him.

The commitment order involved four charges, two for assault and two for public intoxication, with a total fine of $1,248. He was transported to the county jail.

Police took Charles Alexander Collier, 27, into custody Tuesday on a Wichita County warrant for criminal non support, involving $2,816, and another warrant for driving while intoxicated, with a fine of $901.

Collier was later transported to the county jail.

Eiben, Turner marry in Saturday afternoon ceremony

Stacy Michelle Eiben and Cyril Howard Turner were married Saturday afternoon in a double-ring ceremony at Faith Baptist Church.

Dr. Greg Ammons, pastor, officiated the ceremony for the children of Gratan and Diane Eiben and Steve and Jo Turner, all of Iowa Park.

Escorted to the altar by her father, Miss Eiben wore an Italian matte satin gown designed by Eden.

The sleeveless dress had a sweetheart neckline and Basque waistline. The bodice was covered with appliques beaded with sequins, seed pearls and round pearls. The fitted waist flowed to a cathedral length train designed with appliques identical to those on the bodice scattered throughout the skirt and train. The back of the gown was low-cut with covered buttons, accented with a small bow.

The bride created her bandeau headpiece, formed of white silk roses and stephanotis with white lace leaves, accented with sprays of pearls and cascades of pearls and iridescents. A two-tiered fingertip veil of bridal illusion flowed from the headpiece.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white bridal roses, Virginia and spray roses.

In keeping with bridal tradition, she pinned a handkerchief that belonged to her late great-grandmother, Alice Willis, to the inside of her dress for "something old;" wore a pearl necklace given to her by the groom for "something new;" wore pearl earrings belonging to her grandmother, Lillian Taylor, for "something borrowed;" and the "something blue" was a birthstone "Tigger" pinned to the inside of her gown.

The groom was attired in a white tuxedo with a tailed coat, and vest, complemented by a boutonniere formed with three bridal white spray roses with baby's breath.

Cheryl Frederick was maid of honor, and Jennifer Eiben, sister of the bride, and Chelsea Turner, sister of the groom, all of Iowa Park, were bridesmaids.

Each wore identical full-length purple crepe sleeveless dresses. The dresses were designed with purple satin straps that crossed in the back, centered with a purple satin bow.

Each carried matching bouquets formed of yellow lilies and sweetheart roses.

Rebecca Butler of Iowa Park was flower girl, and entered the sanctuary with the bride and her father.

She wore a full-length white taffeta dress styled with a sleeveless bodice with a sweetheart neckline. The bodice featured beaded applique, and the skirt was poufed and trimmed with a wide satin band at the hemline. She carried a white wicker basket filled with hyacinth petals.

Mrs. Cyril Howard Turner

Erick Turner of Rancho Cucamonga, Ca., was his brother's best man. Groomsmen were Nathan Ables and Jeremy Cribbs, both of Iowa Park.

Jonathan Horton of Iowa Park and Christopher Crase of Wichita Falls were ushers.

The groomsmen and ushers wore black classic tuxedos with a purple vest and bow ties.

Fathers of the couple wore black tuxedos with black cummerbunds and bow ties.

Male members of the wedding party wore boutonnieres of two yellow sweetheart roses with baby's breath.

The groom escorted his mother, and mother of the bride was escorted by Jonathan Horton. They entered the sanctuary together carrying lit candles to the song, "Watercolour Ponies," sung by Shannon Smith. The candles were placed on the altar with the unity candle.

The mother of the bride wore a yellow dress with a floral pleated skirt, complemented with a solid yellow double-breasted short-sleeved jacket.

The groom's mother wore a navy blue floral dress with a peach linen jacket.

Mothers and grandmother's corsages were formed of yellow alstroemeria lilies and baby's breath.

Pianist Linda Burgoyne offered "Bridal Chorus" for the processional, and "Wedding March" for the recessional.

Shannon Smith sang "The Wedding Prayer" during the lighting of the unity candle.

The couple exchanged vows before an altar centered with a white archway intertwined with English ivy, yellow daffodils and purple hyacinths. A unity candle intricately designed with scrolled hearts and cut-out ribbons, was placed to the right of the altar.

Pews reserved for the seating of parents and grandparents of the couple were marked with yellow bows, centered with purple hyacinths.

As guests entered the foyer to the sanctuary, they were greeted by Megan Horton who presided at the registry table. The table was covered in yellow linen with a lace overlay. It held the bride's book and a Cross pen and pencil set inscribed with the names of the couple and their wedding date, a gift from the bride's parents.

Another table in the foyer held yellow and purple programs, a silver-framed picture of the couple, and an arrangement of flowers in the bride's chosen colors.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church.

The focal point of the reception was the bride's cake, an intricately designed cake featuring nine tiers.

A fountain with flowing water, surrounded by ivy and purple flowers, was placed beneath the main cake, which was raised on a dais. Two tiers were placed on the dais, with another tier atop that, separated with Grecian posts. A porcelain Bible with doves and an inscription topped the cake.

Staircases, decorated with purple ribbons caught up in swags with purple flowers, descended from each side of the cake to two-tiered cakes separated with Grecian posts, on either side.

Another staircase descended from those to another single-tiered cake. Each tier was decorated in purple flowers, with ruffle and zig-zag garland, accented with purple stringwork.

The bride's table, covered in white satin, also held "Southern Yellow" punch served from a crystal punch bowl, crystal dishes holding nuts and miniature chocolate candies, and white napkins with the bride and groom's name, wedding date and wedding theme printed in purple.

Presiding at the bride's table were Whitney Richer, Ashley Cantrell and Megan Horton.

The groom's table was covered in yellow linen with a white skirt. It held a large chocolate sheet cake, with a cut-out Texas Tech emblem on top. Silver dishes of nuts and miniature candy the bridal bouquet, and a basket of purple roses filled with birdseed bags and bubbles completed the table appointments.

Glenda Key and Taylor Stephens presided at the groom's table.

Members of the house party were Marianne Yarbrough and Joan Frederick.

The gift table was covered in yellow and was centered with a floral arrangement made by the bride's grandmother, Jean Money. A backdrop, made to simulate a large present, was formed of purple crepe and yellow ribbon.

During the reception, a video was played which depicted the lives of the bride and groom, to the music of "Somewhere in the World Today," and "Watercolour Ponies."

Guest tables were covered in yellow with various snapshots of the couple between the tablecloth and a clear tablecover. Wedding cameras were also on the tables for guests to use.

The bride and groom are graduates of Iowa Park High School, and are attending Texas Tech Univ. After a honeymoon trip to Jamaica, the couple will return to Lubbock to finish school.

When the couple left for their honeymoon, they wore matching yellow shirts and khaki shorts.

Special guests for the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. G.H. Taylor of Belton and Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Money of Big Spring, grandparents of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Corporon of Enid, Ok., and Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Turner of Wellington, Ka., grandparents of the groom.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wood of Springtown, Faye Payne of Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Lindemann and Bret Lindemann, both of Rowlette, Lindsey Eiben of Odessa, Hope Galoway of Austin, Taylor Stephens of Arlington, Dr. and Mrs. Bill Corporon of Marlow, Ok., Judy and Keri Johnston of Ponca City, Ok., and Nancy O'Banoon of Claremore, Ok.

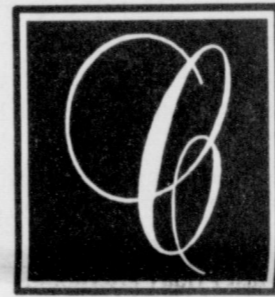

Also, Stan Parker, Mr. and Mrs. Erick Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Simpson, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Hagood and Rachel, and Alex Geesbrecht, all of Fort Worth.

Lovell recipient of VRJC scholarship

Kimberly Lovell has been named a recipient of a $500 Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCalb Memorial Scholarship to Vernon Regional College for the 1999-2000 school year.

Kimberly is a 1999 graduate of Iowa Park High School. She played varsity tennis where she was all-district and most valuable player, and she was on yearbook staff. She plans on majoring in nursing.

The scholarship was established as an endowed scholarship in 1995 by family members. The scholarship is awarded to students who plan on attending VRJC full-time. The student must demonstrate academic achievement and good character.

COOK of the WEEK

Sherry Fowler

This week's featured cook, Sherry Fowler, has a strong commitment to her family and community.

Sherry says her activities when she isn't working as an Iowa Park Police Officer, are mainly focused around her husband and nine-year-old son, James.

She said James enjoys swimming in the family's pool, roller blading and fishing at Gordon Lake. She also said that Wednesday night is family night at their home, and James gets to pick where to eat and an activity to follow.

Sherry and her husband, Derwood, have been married 27 years. Sherry grew up in Cordell, Ok., where she met James, who worked in the oil field. She said they married in St. Louis, and for the first year of their marriage they lived in hotels all over the United States, due to his line of work. After the first year, the couple decided to settle in Iowa Park, where Derwood's family lived.

Sherry became a certified police officer last August, and before that was administrative assistant to the Chief of Police here. She said she enjoys her work, and the positive difference it allows her to make in Iowa Park.

When she has time, Sherry said she also enjoys reading, working on the computer and playing pool.

Red Cross begins summer blood drive

The American Red Cross has begun this summer's blood drive campaign "Hot Blooded Texans II." Iowa Park residents will get a chance to participate in the promotion on Wednesday, June 23, from 1:30 - 6:30 p.m. at the Masonic Lodge, 700 W. Washington.

Memorial Day weekend typically starts the decline in blood donations, due to the school closings and family vacations that usually lasts through the Labor Day weekend. To deter the blood supply level from dropping to dangerously low levels, the American Red Cross is asking area residents to donate blood and in return, donors will be one of the first people to receive a specially designed "Hot Blooded Texan" t-shirt.

Eligible donors must be in good health, weight at least 110 pounds and be at least 17 years old. Donating blood is safe. A new, sterile needle is used for each donation. It is then disposed of, never to be used again. The donor is in absolutely no danger of contracting HIV/AIDS, hepatitis or any other infection.

Appointments may be made by calling the Red Cross at 322-8686, extension 21 or 23. Walk-ins are welcome.

As I See It...

By Bob Hamilton

Seeing all the big wheat harvesting crews and their equipment in the area recently brought back memories of the two summers I worked in a crew as a boy. Not only was I impressed with all that fine and very expensive equipment, but what was traveling with them... the moter homes and trailer houses.

There likely would be few, if any, workers join a crew if they had the accommodations our crew had.

Only 15 years old, I jumped at the offer to work in a crew that was headed by a man and his two sons, when offered the job.

Man, $20 a week, with all meals provided!

We had three combines with 24-foot headers. My job was to drive a tractor that pulled one of the combines. The owners were the combine operators, and all the others in the crew were adult men.

Our sleeping accommodations? We provided our own cots and covers. We slept in the open, unless it was raining. In that case, we pulled the cots under a truck bed for whatever protection that afforded.

We'd eat breakfast and dinner at a cafe, and pick up a sack lunch to eat in the field.

Both years, the crew began cutting at the Pitchfork Ranch near Paducah. From there, we'd go back to Hereford, where we all lived, and cut there.

From Hereford, we went directly to Hardin, Montana. That's where, at the time, the world's largest wheat operation existed. There was 44,000 acres, all together, and crews from numerous states went there.

It wasn't until my second year, 1947, that I saw my first self-propelled combine. It was in a crew that worked at Hardin, having traveled all the way from California.

I couldn't believe that one man could drive and operate a combine, all in one operation by himself.

That huge wheat farm was unique. Called the Campbell Corporation, all the acreage was leased from the Crow Indians, because it was on their reservation.

Both years, I had to leave the crew just before cutting the acreage we had contracted, in order to get back home and begin fall football practice.

For a youngster, it was an experience that will always be with me, working with a harvesting crew.

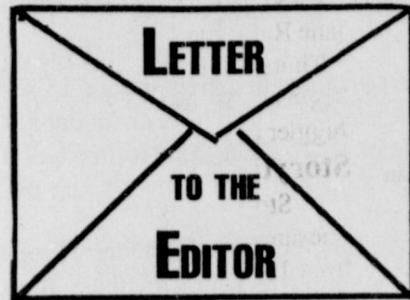

Like, for instance, one of my responsibilities every night at Paducah was to go down to the railroad area and "steal" water from a rail car.

You see, the water in Paducah's system back in those days was full of "gyp" and if you weren't used to it, it'd make you sick. The railroad had to haul in good water, because they couldn't pump it into their steam locomotives, for it would corrode their systems.

Both years while we were traveling to Montana, we passed through Chyenne, Wyoming during that city's huge rodeo festival. We never stopped, but seeing all the activity in the city during such a well-known event was memorable.

Also, at Hardin, we made a side trip to see the site of Custer's Last Stand. I was the only kid in school at Hereford who had ever viewed that well-known site.

Ah, memories! They are one of the benefits of growing older!

Enjoys reading paper

Dear Mr. Hamilton,

I could not do without the Leader. I enjoy it every week. Enjoyed the story about Ida Lehman so much. I read it from page to page. So happy you put my name in there. Thank you. Billie Young

Takes issue with idea

Dear Mr. Hamilton,

Thank you for inviting a dialogue on a golf course for Iowa Park. I hope the opportunity is used by the people of Iowa Park. First off I want to say I am not against a golf course in our city. The financing is another thing. It sounds like you are taking the same route as the mayor of Wichita Falls when she suggests a sales tax increase to pay for the coliseum and I do think this is wrong also. If a golf course is needed for our city then why have we done so well all this time? If it would be so well used and supported then let those that use it along with industry and merchants pay for it. You would be forcing something down our throats the same as the MPEC was, we helped pay for something that isn't even in our city.

Again thank you for opening up the can of worms and hope many make their views known so if a vote is taken on increased taxes those voters on the fence will have an idea how others feel on the subject.

Sincerely,
Marion L. Wilkins

Upset with cable

Dear Fellow Cable Subscribers:

Are any of you as fed up with Friendship Cable as I am? Imagine this. It's the last 10 seconds of the fourth quarter. The Cowboys are down by two. Cunningham is lined up to kick. The cable goes out!

A few months ago they sent us a survey asking what new channels we wanted. What happened to it? It does no good to call the 800 number. There are no people there. My neighbor said she talked to a human once, but she may be delusional. Some of the wonderful channels we don't get are A&E, Sci-Fi, The History Channel, and MSNBC to name a few. (Burk and Iowa Park must be the only towns in America that don't get MSNBC.)

Someone find a solution!! Please!!
Sincerely,
Gayle Cleghorn

Letters to Editor policy explained

The Leader receives numerous letters which cannot, for one reason or another, be published.

Letters will not be printed unless they are signed. A typed name will not do. And, for the sake of verification, the writer's telephone should be included.

Should the writer not wish his/her name printed, it will be omitted upon request. However, the letter will be kept on file to be read upon request.

Letters also must be free of libel. If not, they will not be published, because we will not edit the content of any letter.

In letters supporting political candidates or issues, the Leader reserves the right to limit their lengths.

We encourage your Letters to the Editor, and offer the paper space as your forum for discussions of ideas and observations.

WORTH QUOTING

A man decided to buy a saw to cut down some trees on his property. He went to a hardware store, where a salesman said, "Look, I have a lot of models, but why don't you save yourself a lot of time and buy the top-of-the-line model? This chainsaw will cut 25 cords of wood for you in one day."

So, the man buys the chainsaw, takes it home and begins cutting the trees. After half a day, he manages to cut only one cord. He quits and decides to work all day the next day, but still manages to cut only three cords.

Deciding he has a bad chainsaw, he takes it back to the store. The salesman, baffled by the man's complaint, pulls the cord and starts the gas-powered model.

"What's that noise?" asked the man.

Cryovac's early years in Iowa Park are details in recently-printed book

The 8300 Machine

(The following article is an excerpt from a book, "The CRYOVAC Story, North America, by John R. Ross, Ph.D., copyright 1997, and is reproduced with permission.)

In processed meats and cheeses, laminates still made inroads in Cryovac markets. They ran on automatic machines, an application which wasn't possible with Cryovac's dip method of sealing. Again Cryovac met the challenge.

Baird on one of his trips to Japan returned with a catalog of equipment which he gave to Perdue. Perdue looking through the catalog saw a rotary chamber vacuumizing machine which used heat sealing to package rice cakes. Perdue ordered one of the machines from Furukawa Manufacturing and modified it to produce a rotary vacuum machine that heat sealed.

Cryovac initially used the machine to package smoked and processed meats. As the machine was technically improved, it was possible to enlarge it to the sizes which the packers needed for fresh red meat. A significant need was met with the delivery of 26 twenty-four inch 8300 machines to Cryovac's largest customers. Cryovac was in the forefront of the packaging industry.

Growth of the boxed beef business and demand for the barrier bag prompted Cryovac to build a new plant in Iowa Park, Texas in 1974. The location was close to the major beef packing plants, especially the new plants locating in the region. The new plant provided rapid delivery and technical support to its customers. Camarillo and Simpsonville were poor locations in respect to the changed fresh red meat market, and Cedar Rapids had limited room for expansion.

The Iowa Park plant also contained two additional film lines to meet the growing demands of the market. Films and barrier bags accounted for seventy-six percent of sales growth between 1968 and 1973. Without the new plant, Cryovac expected to be short on production capacity for both products by 1975.

Grace questioned the new plant since Cryovac had built Camarillo just three years earlier. Miller prevailed, and the new plant took shape.

Charlie Lee, plant manager at Cedar Rapids, moved to Iowa Park to manage the new plant. Initially he didn't want to make the move. But it turned out to be an enjoyable experience. Cryovac's plant was the first manufacturing plant in the area, and residents were more than receptive. The mayor and president of the bank kept entertaining Lee, even after the plant was operating.

Finally, Lee told them, "Consider us part of the community." When Lee retired from Cryovac, he remained in Iowa Park and served as mayor for two years.

Lee staffed the plant with volunteers from Cedar Rapids and Simpsonville. He selected twenty-two people, about half from each location. A few he asked specifically, including Fran Harney. Harney wasn't interested either, initially. But he took his family to visit the town, and after the first day he was ready to move.

Harney became production manager with responsibility for bags. Ray Youngblood managed the films operations. Other members of Lee's immediate staff were Jeff Crabbe in personnel, Bud Robinson in finance and administration, and Dick Kinard in technical.

In 1982, Frank Gossett followed Lee as plant manager and served until 1987 when he returned to South Carolina to manage the Simpsonville complex. Gossett brought to Texas an effective management style, developed at Simpsonville and Duncan, and continued the improvements in quality and safety begun by Lee. Gossett had begun as an electronic technician at Simpsonville in 1955 and rose through the ranks, working in printing, bagmaking, laminates, accounting, and manufacturing planning.

Along the way he learned from his superiors: Con Scovel taught him how to treat each employee as an individual and to spend money carefully; Ray Mattson, whose door was always open, led him to take time to listen and help his people; and Bob Prevost, through his supervision, displayed the value of persistence and the importance of making points without offending anyone's feelings.

Sam Laird followed Frank Gossett as plant manager at Iowa Park. Laird, a graduate of Clemson University, joined Cryovac in July 1964, after having worked for Allied Chemical and Du Pont. Laird first worked in films under Al Engelmann; in 1968, he transferred to manufacturing as manager. Between 1971 and 1977 he was manager of the South plant. During the next six and a half years he was engineering manager at Iowa Park. After a brief stint as technical manager at Simpsonville, he returned to Iowa Park as plant manager.

Like Lee, Laird found Iowa Park a pleasant experience. The employees worked together, were dedicated, and wanted to succeed. Upon the retirement of Bob Prevost in 1992, Sam was named VP of manufacturing.

Vernon to perform at state convention

When the lights are dimmed and a hush descends upon an audience of more than 7,000 at the state's largest annual youth convention this July, a local FFA member will share the spotlight in vocal performances.

Crystal Vernon of Iowa Park will join FFA members from across the state in providing musical entertainment for the more than 7,000 members and guests at the 71st State FFA Convention, July 4-9, in Amarillo.

Crystal, is the 16 year old daughter of Buster and DeAuta Vernon.

Members are selected from applicants from all across Texas to be part of the 1999 State FFA Chorus.

Participants are recommended for the chorus by their local FFA chapters, and agricultural and music education instructors. They are selected on the basis of their instructor recommendations, an audition tape, and past experience.

State looking for acreage to lease for dove hunting

Got a weedy field not in production or being rested this fall?

The Texas Parks and Wildlife (TPW) is once again looking for just that type of land to lease for public dove hunting this fall.

Last year, the department leased 113 special dove units comprising over 40,000 acres. Entering its sixth year, the public lease dove hunting program is aiming to significantly increase the number of units.

"It's a program that's been well received by landowners and hunters because everybody wins," said Herb Kothmann, TPW public hunting director.

"We use money from the sale of Annual Public Hunting permits to purchase dove hunting rights from landowners and only those individuals who purchase a permit may hunt on these dove leases."

TPW representatives want to lock dove leases by July 1, said Kothmann, in order that lease maps may be prepared and distributed to hunters in time for dove season.

"We started the program in 1994 as a way to provide quality dove hunting to urban hunters," he explained. "While continuing leasing efforts along the Interstate 35/37 corridor from Dallas-Fort Worth area through San Antonio to Corpus Christi, this year we will be looking for suitable public dove hunting lands anywhere in the state."

"We are also looking to lease lands for hunting legal game other than just dove," Kothmann said. "Property offering good hunting for waterfowl, pheasant, or rabbits is also of interest to us. If it is located near an urban area, we may be able to pay a little more for rights."

Generally, lands acceptable for the program should have a food source for dove, such as sunflower or grain, as well as water and roosting or resting cover.

Additionally, each tract must have a public access point where hunters can park their vehicles, from which they will walk to the hunting area.

Temporary signs will clearly identify property boundaries. Game wardens and other departmental staff will monitor the units to ensure compliance with all regulations.

Kothmann said most entrance points are designated for parking to protect the private property and reserve the maximum acreage for actual hunting activities.

"We expect our public hunters to respect the land and the landowners who have been so generous. We want to maintain a good relationship for the future," he said.

Tracts of 100 to 400 acres are the most desirable, however, Kothmann said tracts as small as 75 acres or as large as 1,100 acres have been included in the program.

Lands in the Conservation Reserve Program can be leased with no effect on US Department of Agriculture payments.

Landowners or operators with leasing rights who are interested in the TPW Public Dove Hunting Lease program should contact the local Texas Parks and Wildlife biologist.

For the name and number of the wildlife biologist near you, call (512) 389-4505.

GARDENING HINTS

BY MARK TERNIG

Q. What is destroying the leaves on my Cannas in my Wichita Falls landscape?

A. The cause of the damage on your Cannas is a common insect known as a Leaf Roller.

These insects feed on the leaf tissue (both young and old growth) and are protected by the rolled foliage on Cannas.

You will have to treat the Cannas with a systemic insecticide like Orthene. You may have to treat again at a 14-day interval.

THREE IOWA PARK HAWKS attended a one-day football mini-camp Friday at Texas Christian Univ. in Fort Worth. The seniors-to-be include, from left, Shane Dunn, J.R. Mattot, and James Williams. After spending the entire hot, steamy day at the TCU practice field, one of the boy's fathers asked if they intended to to their regular workout in the Hawk fieldhouse when they arrived home, the boys looked at each other, saying, "Did he say something? I didn't hear him say anything. Did you?"

Hawk football camp nearing

The 1999 Hawk Fun Football Camp is just around the corner, but there is still plenty of time to be part of the fun.

Head coach and Athletic Director Weldon Nelms and his staff will be running the camp, which will start on June 28 and run through the 30th at the High School Football Field. Registration will begin at 7:30 a.m. on Monday the 28th, with camp running from 8:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Cost of the camp will be $55 which will include a camp T-Shirt.

Groups will be divided by current school grades with group one consisting of grades 2, 3 and 4, group two will have fifth and sixth graders, while group three will have seventh and eighth graders.

Highlights of the camp will include proper tackling and blocking techniques, proper running back skills, proper throwing and ball handling skills, proper catching and receiving skills, stance and starts, introduction to football formations, introduction to positions and techniques, a punt, pass and kick competition, and 7-on-7 passing games.

This will be a non-contact camp and no pads will be needed. Campers will be tested in several areas including 40-yard dash times, vertical jump, jump rope, and agility course.

Prospects who haven't already signed up for the camp may call coach Nelms at 592-9969 to sign up or for any additional information.

TXU customers are due refund

Just as the hot season begins, TXU Electric customers will receive a $115 million refund on their June electric bills.

The public Utility Commission (PUC) approved the company's request to refund the fuel over-collection beginning with June bills.

The refund to customers is possible because of milder than normal fall and winter weather in the TXU Electric service area and declining natural gas prices from June 1997 through February 1999.

Under the company's refund plan approved by the PUC, a residential customer who uses an average 1,000 kilowatt-hours would receive a refund of about $12.50. The amount of the actual refund will depend on the quantity of electricity used and will appear as a credit on June bills.

An electric utility under PUC jurisdiction recovers its fuel costs from customers through a fixed per-kilowatt-hour charge approved projection, the utility files a request to either refund or charge the difference to the customer.

Since 1986, TXU Electric has made thirteen refunds to its customers totaling more than $929 million and two fuel surcharges totaling more than $240 million.

TXU Electric, a subsidiary of TXU, serves approximately 2.5 million customers in 91 counties of North Central, West and East Texas. TXU is one of the top energy services companies in the world, with revenues of more than $16 billion and assets of $40 billion. It provides electric and natural gas services, energy trading, energy marketing, telecommunications and other energy-related services to some nine million customers primarily in Texas, the United Kingdom, continental Europe and Australia.
