Soil Condition and Water

James Chappell of the Soil Conservation Service in Archer City, took a series of moisture penetration tests on range sites this week to determine the amount of moisture stored in the soil.

Under no cover on a bottomland site, Chappell found one inch of penetration or approximately 0.1 inch of moisture stored.

Under one year's growth of buffalo grass, there were 7 inches of penetration or approximately one inch of moisture stored.

Under a mesquite bush with adequate grass cover, there were 16 inches of penetration or approximately 2.5 inches of rainfall stored.

On a mixed land range site that has been contour chiseled, Chappell found 16 inches of penetration in the chiseled furrows as compared with 7 inches between the furrows.

On bottomland that had been rootplowed and reseeded, he found penetration of more than 38 inches. This would be about 6 inches of rainfall stored, which is excellent for that site.

Chappell points out that physical condition of the soil and adequate cover are the important factors in storing rainfall. Coarse textured or sandy soils take water rapidly but have a lower storage capacity than clays that take in water less rapidly. Since most of the soils in this area are clay soils, it is important to keep them in good physical condition and a good cover on the land in order for moisture to penetrate properly.

Mechanical treatment such as chiseling, pitting and plowing can add greatly to the soil's ability to take in rainfall. However the best aid to moisture penetration is adequate cover. This is the reason proper use of rangeland is so important. By leaving cover on the land we can be prepared for rain when it comes.

Paducah Game Canceled by Flu

The flu bug has hit Iowa Park and its schools, but Supt. Keith Swim felt it would be better to keep the schools open, since some of the pupils are attending classes each day, and those days closed would have to be made up later.

The epidemic seems to be raging all over Texas and causing a large number of schools to close, and football games are being canceled because of the disease.

The Paducah football game that was to be played here Friday night has been canceled. Only 8 members of the Hawk team were able to report for practice Wednesday.

The football coaches, Swim, and High School Principal James E. Elms commended Paducah school people for showing good sportsmanship in calling the game off. The flu has not hit up there.

Unbeaten Archer City Wildcats kept their record clean last Friday night by running over the Iowa Park Hawks, 40-0, in a District 11-A fray. The visitors moved on the ground and through the air for touchdowns in every period.

Hawk offense bogged down each time the gridiron squad tried to score, and the defense was unable to stop their fired-up opponents.

Hallowe'en Fun Offered by PTA Annual Carnival

Executive committee met Monday and made plans for the year. The fall round-up was reported by Mrs. Gene Lowrey to have been a big success with approximately 11 cases of drinks served. Teachers and parents were introduced and became well acquainted.

Mrs. Ray Watson reported 62 cook books sold at the Fair, and thanks went to Mrs. Kenneth Watts for having a good entry in the parade.

Mrs. Billy Joe Solomon reported 741 members and her committee Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Adams still working hard.

Mrs. Watson presided as room representatives made plans for a Hallowe'en Carnival at 6:30 Thursday, Oct. 31. These are the concessions to be found on Iowa Park streets that night:

- 1st grade: Fish pond.
- 2nd grade: Grab bag.
- 3rd grade: Auction sale.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

PRAYER PAYS OFF ON WALL STREET

Faith in God can affect you financially. The Bible states that the love of money is the root of all evil—not money in itself. Money is neither good nor bad. Its morality is determined by what we do with it.

God wants our souls to be enriched and blessed. He wishes us physical prosperity also because 3 John 2 states: "Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth." There are hundreds of people who are reaping the benefits of real partnership with God.

Here is the testimony of a financial advisor of national prominence whose firm is located on Wall Street, N. Y. City. His organization has been paid more than $17,000,000 just for advice alone. As a youth, he attended Harding College, Searcy, Ark., a school controlled by the Church of Christ. He was inspired by its president, James W. Harding, who took practically all of his daily problems to God in prayer and taught his students to do likewise.

Consider the answer that this man received to his prayer:

"It was the most important business deal of my life—more than a million dollars was at stake. But everything went wrong. I couldn't figure it out. It seems someone in the organization was double-crossing us, but who? We puzzled over it exceedingly, until one morning my wife said, 'This is beyond our power—let's take it to God in prayer.' We did—right then and there!

"That very morning I decided to see one of my best friends, an attorney not represented in our deal, but with whom I had discussed it several times. I trusted him completely and wanted his advice. I called his telephone number. His firm had 48 extension phones. The operator, by mistake, put me on a busy line. Imagine my utter surprise when I heard him laughing with the leader of our competitors over their success in outwitting me and my clients.

Having learned where the leak was, I was able to solve my problem. Do you think it was an accident that the operator put me on his busy line; on the vital one of the 48 extensions at exactly the right moment? NO! It was God answering my prayer.

I secured exactly the information I needed at my most desperate hour."

One might explain this as a coincidence, or luck, or providence. Let's just call it God. It's this kind of coincidence that has a habit of occurring for me and thousands of other people because we believe in a God who answers prayer.

Dare to have faith in God. You will find he will give you more than you have; make you more than you are! Jesus came to bring us abundant life, physically, mentally, spiritually, and financially.

BAND NOTES I hear from unknown sources a certain junior band member had a slight accident Monday night. Right, Julia? I hope you have a spare pair of pajamas.

Nancy, we missed you Friday and we're wondering if you had the flu or a visitor from Ft. Sill. What night did Potts get in?

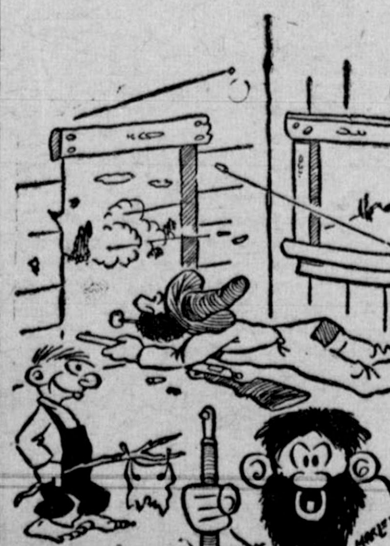

A certain senior majorette encountered a lot of excitement Friday after the game. Did I hear right, Kay? Are you going steady now?

Barbara, what did you find in the beans at Gayla's party after the game Friday?

Illness has been with our band members for some time and we were unable to march last week. I hope everyone, including the director, gets well soon.

Sp3 and Mrs. Eldon Dowell of Auburn Heights, Mich., arrived in Iowa Park last Sunday to visit with relatives on a 15 day leave. Eldon worked with Texas Electric Service company here before entering the army.

Regular meeting of Epsilon Eta was at the home of Louise Berry with June McCarty as co-hostess.

Frances George, president, directed the impressive candle ceremony for initiation of six pledges. Assisting were Theda Voyles and Joan Scott. Pledges receiving pins were Mary McLemore, Helen Rich, Bernice Reilly, Shirley Lowrey, Margie Faulkner.

If anyone noticed Cash street was extra clean Wednesday morning, it was due to the fact that ESA pledges, to prove their civic pride, donned overalls and boots and swept it clean.

In the business session, plans were made to attend District 6 convention at Bridgeport, Nov. 3. Epsilon Eta's candidates for district offices will be Bobbie Mitchell for vice-president and Esta Rutherford for recording secretary.

Reports were heard from Helen Dale Roberts, treasurer; Louise Clapp, social chairman; Bobbie Mitchell, educational director; Billie McCullough, parliamentarian; Bobbie Shaw, ways and means; June Crawford, historian; and Doris Perry, corresponding secretary.

Committees were named for the Thanksgiving dinner. Plans were completed for the Oct. 20 baseball game. Everyone is urged to buy a ticket from members.

Bobbie Mitchell, social service director for District 6, stated the district project for this year is muscular dystrophy.

Refreshments were served to six pledges, 19 members and a sponsor, Maudie Owens.

A. Scott Morris of Luling visited his mother Mrs. Scott Morris last weekend, returning home Sunday.

Jess Tiggrett was admitted to Wichita General hospital this week and is reported in serious condition.

FREE ENTERPRISE

Monday, C. E. Birk, Curtis Sewell and C. C. Morgan attended the Leaders' Workshop at Midwestern university and reported an inspiring program.

Dwight Havens, manager of the US Chamber's local C of C service department, and James G. Roberts, manager of the southwestern division, stressed the importance and necessity for businessmen to resume their positions of leadership if we want and believe in our free enterprise economic system, free market economy, private competitive enterprise system, and all they stand for, to continue.

Both speakers stressed that only when businessmen of character, purpose and convictions of free enterprise, the principles, ideals and biblical truths which provided the foundations for the 20th century America, go represent true Americanism in the halls of our state legislatures and congress that businessmen will determine the road down which those who follow after us will travel. Businessmen of America have been taking a back seat, so to speak; have been letting labor and government take the front seat.

Businessmen are the heart of competition. Survival is the objective which bound early day pioneers together and it must bind us together today.

There needs to be closer cooperation of all members of our community, and we will have to make up our minds as to whether we are going to have a free market economy, and it will be our job to dedicate ourselves to strive for educated leadership in our communities—leadership educated in the value and meaning of Free

Enterprise and all it stands for. Louis B. Green, CPA from Longview, told the audience "We must devote more time and effort to being sure we all are informed on the basic principles already mentioned on which this country is founded, if American Free Enterprise is to survive."

HOME OF THE MONTH

The city beautification committee, of which Mrs. F. E. Hill is chairman for October, is planning to make a tour of residential areas the last week of the month. Members remind us of the many things that can be done in preparation for beautiful yards through the fall and winter and next spring. Since the recent rain, most garden and flower lovers are encouraged to work in their yards, cleaning out flower beds and fertilizing the soil. A few tips that will help: Now is the time to plant all kinds of bulbs except tulip bulbs which can be planted in November. Rose cuttings or plants should be put out in the fall. Balled and burlapped shrubs can be put out anytime of the year, but now is a good time because of moisture and moderate weather. Spraying for red spiders on magnolias may be done now. Iron sulphate put in ground around holly and evergreen acidizes the soil and insures a healthy shrub. Moth crystals put into the surface layer of earth around trees prevent borers from getting into them.

BANQUET, DEC. 2

BACK FROM DESPAIR

Cameron Rebuilding Better Community on Ruins of Old

Cameron is coming back. The town which felt the brunt of Hurricane Audrey's assault on the southwestern Louisiana coastline last June is rebuilding rapidly after being nearly leveled.

CAMERON IS COMING back

STARK-DISASTER still in her eyes, a survivor of Hurricane Audrey is comforted by a Federal Civil Defense Administration official visiting a refugee center in Cameron, La. (FCDA Photo)

In many ways—through disaster funds administered by the Federal Civil Defense Administration, and through $3,000,000 from the Red Cross and gifts from many parts of the nation, including even donations of labor by contractors and construction unions from nearby Texas.

Cameron is coming back through its own efforts. What is one of the nation's first disaster planning commissions has been set up there. It will oversee the rebuilding of most of Cameron within nine months, utilizing gifts and other resources as it sees fit.

In time, it should be a better town than it was. In the past, Cameron and its neighboring communities, Creole and Grand Chenier, each had a tiny clinic. Now they will have a new Cameron Memorial Hospital, built with the help of Federal funds, the American Legion, and others. The Junior Chamber of Commerce will build a public library, which the town has never had.

Even 34 college students, whose resources were wiped out by the hurricane, will be able to continue in school through help received from the Louisiana Department of Education.

Better Street Lighting Is Financial Gain, Too

There's a very real economic side to the crusade for better lighting of city streets and American highways.

The deaths and maimings resulting from traffic accidents on poorly lighted streets and highways are deplorable enough, said Edmond C. Powers, Educational Director of the Street and Highway Safety Lighting Bureau, but consideration should certainly be given to the financial aspect of the problem.

It's a fact that a city or state traffic accident record is the basis for figuring liability insurance rates.

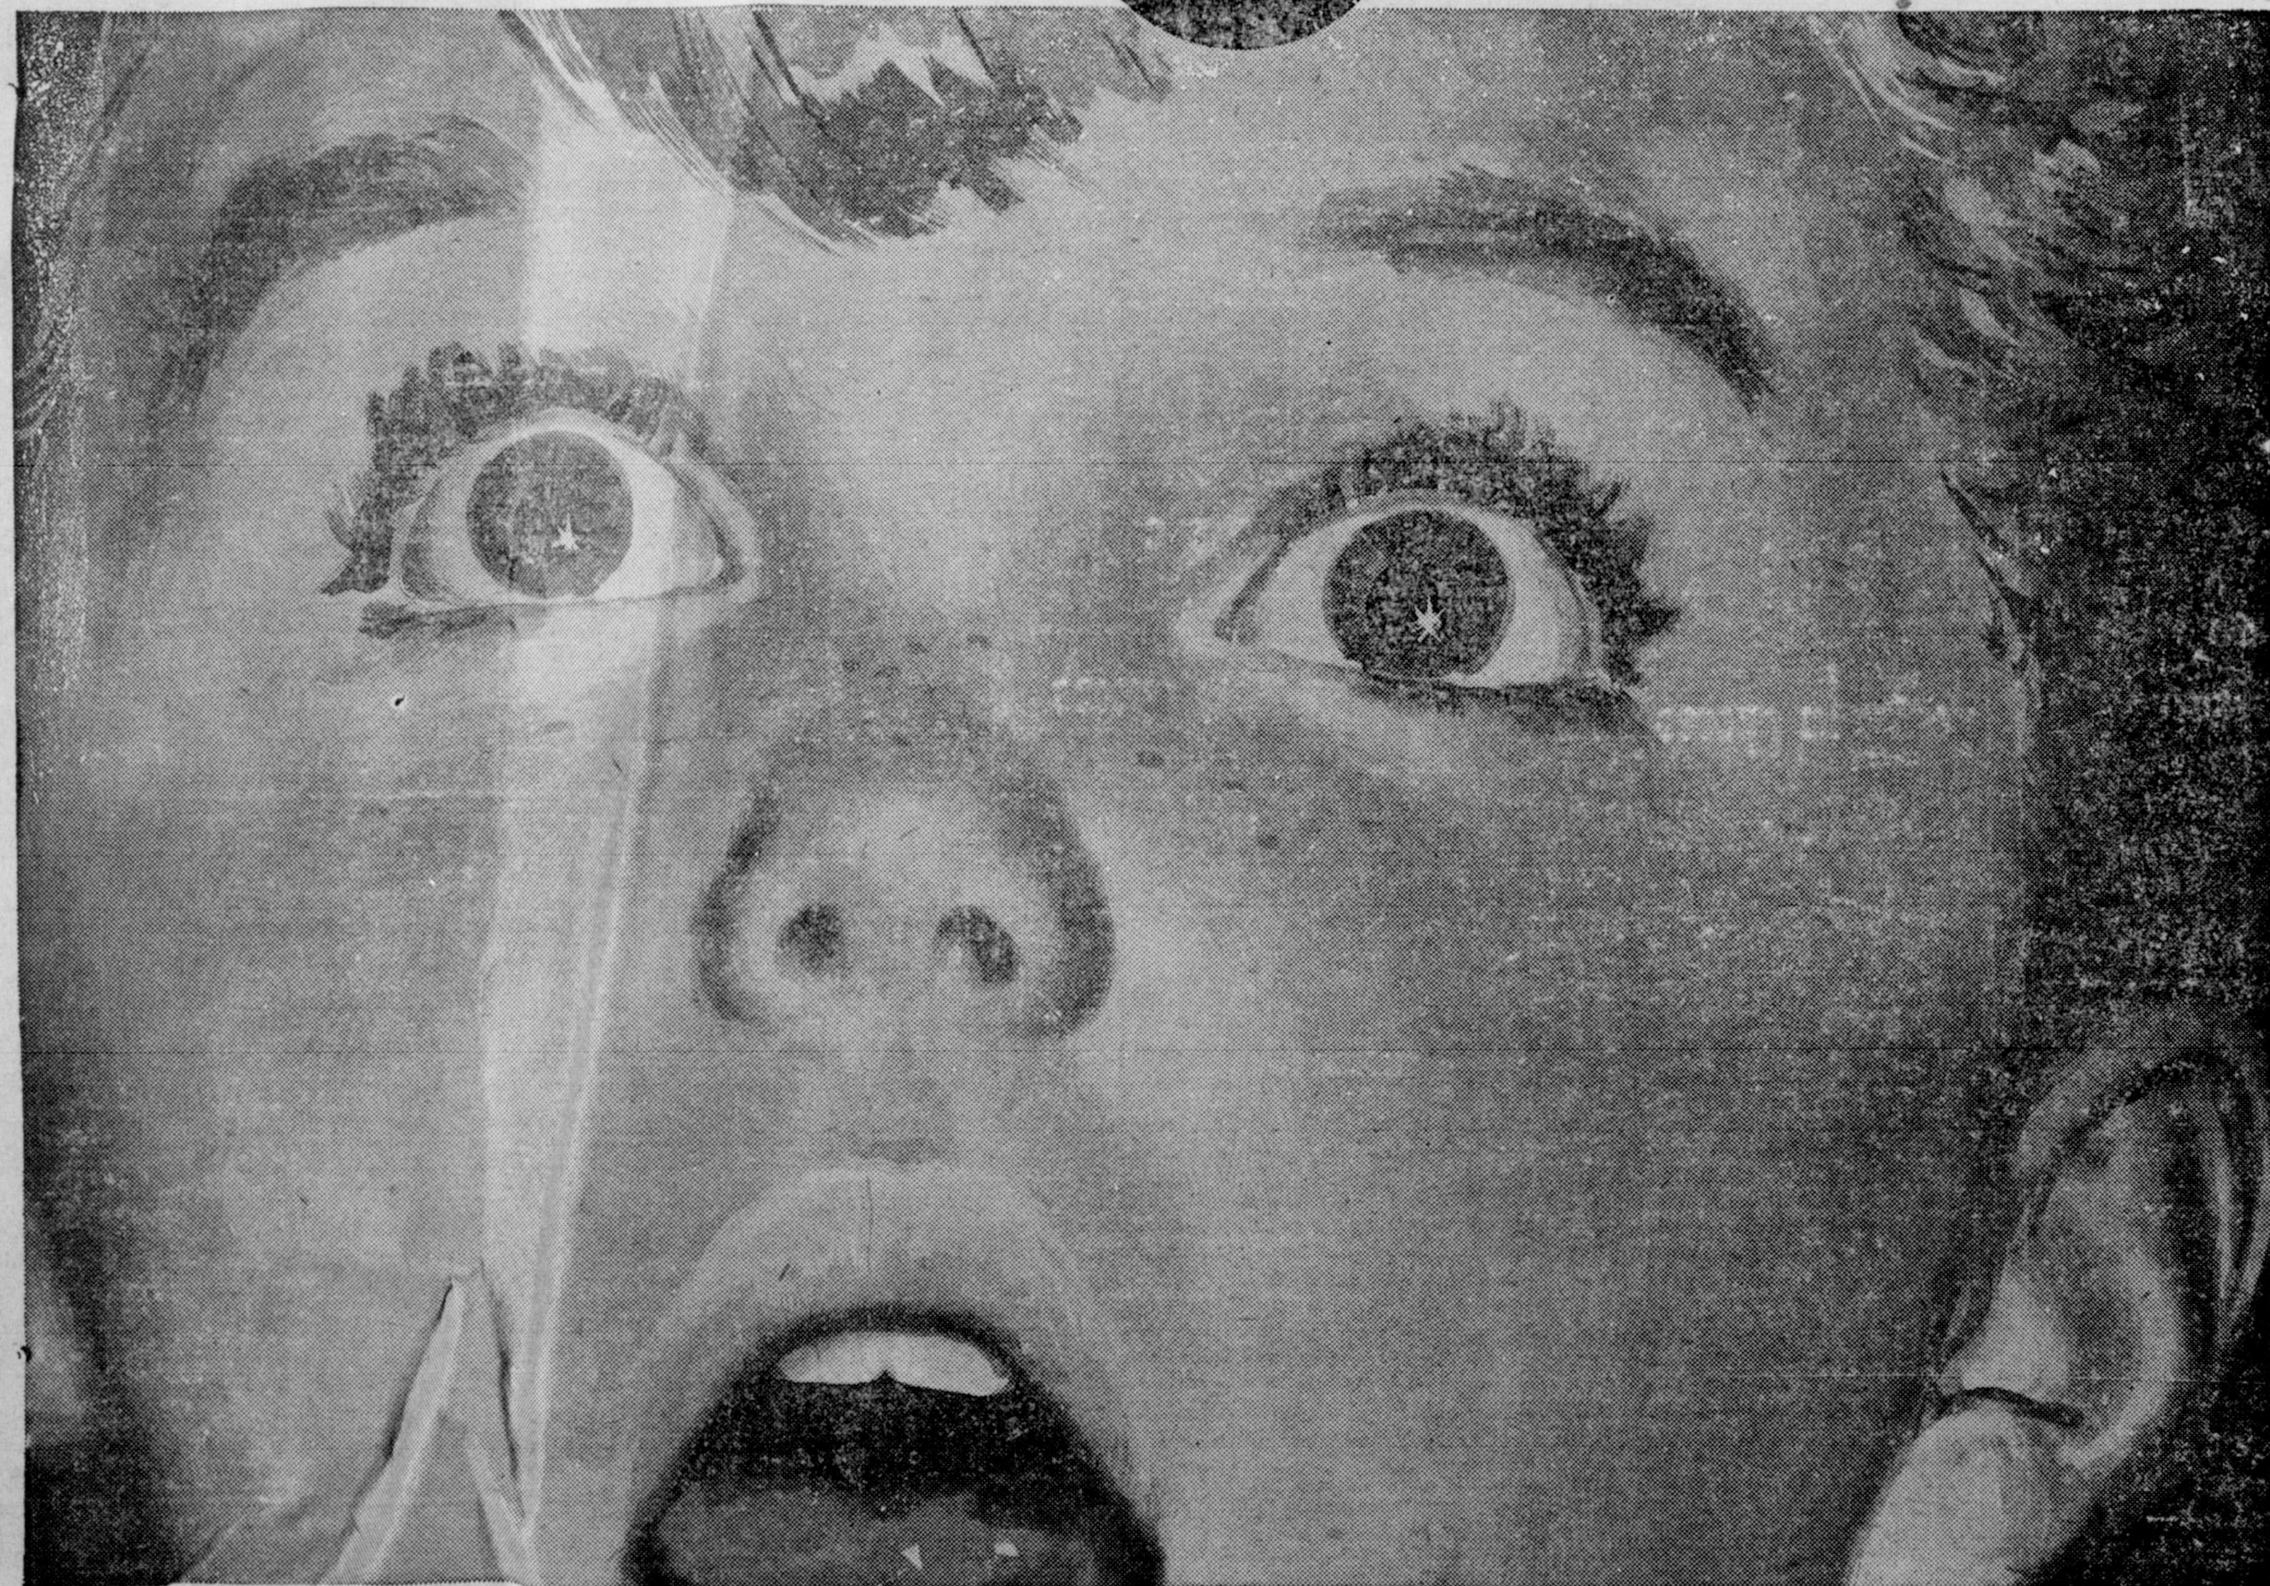

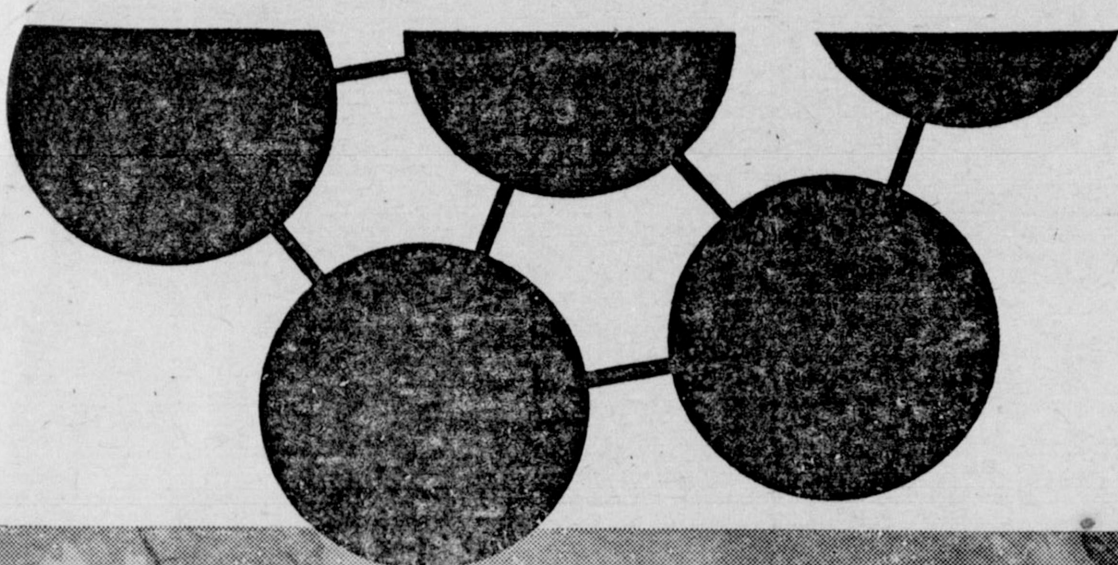

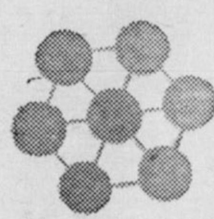

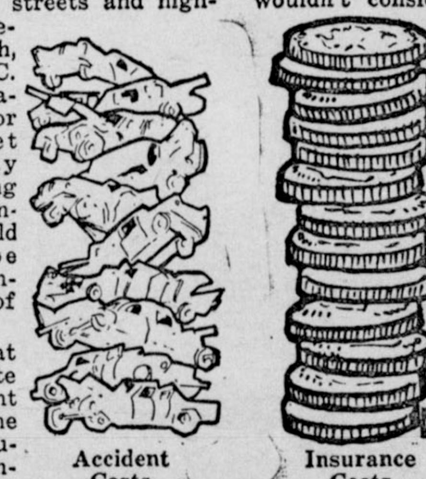

Insurance companies are not in business for their health. They expect to make a profit for their investors. But, first, they must pay for the damages incurred by their policy holders to their own cars as well as to other cars involved. And paying for those repairs and replacements in these inflationary days of high labor costs is another important part of the story.

It's a fact that more automobile owners are insured against liability and property damage than ever before. Most motorists wouldn't consider driving without that protection. They're paying the bills for unsafe driving conditions as well as for the errors of the reckless driver.

It's a fact that when an area's traffic accidents soar, up go the liability and property damage rates when it comes time to renew annual insurance policies.

Proper lighting of city streets and of highways is a good investment that will pay off in long-time savings, by greatly reducing accidents, continued Mr. Powers. Often, he said, slow-acting government officials are forced to act on improvement programs by pressure from citizens and financial interests.

THE WONDROUS YEARS OF OUR TIME...

Man's use of petroleum — of oil and natural gas — began before the first records of history.

But petroleum's full usefulness to man has been a matter of decades only.

They have been wondrous years, those decades. Years that saw automobiles built by the millions because gasoline was available as a cheap source of power. Years that saw the oceans dwindle under the high speed of great ships powered by oil. Years that saw the evolution of a more comfortable living in homes warmed by oil and natural gas. Years that saw rubber, fibers, paints and many other useful items of everyday living produced from petroleum's hydrocarbons. Years that saw the earth shrink under the wings of the airplane, and great wars decided by the availability of oil.

Thus, the oil industry has led the way into the wondrous years of our time. The industry, through foresight, ingenuity, research, and risk-taking, has found and produced the oil required in greater quantity each year, has conserved oil for the future, has devised the transportation systems that move oil economically, has built the refineries and plants that convert crude oil and natural gas to the hundreds of useful products needed by a growing United States.

The Humble Company, founded in 1917, has participated in petroleum's progress during four great decades, and has pioneered in the development of many current techniques for finding, producing and refining oil. This week, with the industry, Humble invites you to consider the variety and extent of oil's progress... Surely no other industry has contributed more to the making of modern America.
