Sale of Tanner Store Completed

Transaction was completed this week for one of the oldest businesses in Iowa Park. J. A. Tanner and Son Hardware and Furniture Store was sold to Pete Koonce and Jesse McCullough, and will be known as Koonce & McCullough Supply.

The store will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. each week day. All kinds of hardware will be stocked. A complete gift department will be under management of McCullough's wife. She will have Fostoria crystal and other fine china and gift ware.

Koonce & McCullough have done away with the furniture department and moved the gifts into that building.

Pete and Jesse have no plans for immediate remodeling of the building. They invite all former and new customers to come in and see the new arrangement of the store and browse around. They welcome your patronage and will offer the same friendly service the Tanners have offered.

New owners not only bought the merchandise but the building also. It is one of the oldest in Iowa Park. This stone structure has been a place where early day pioneers and new and old friends always have met to visit and talk of olden times.

Built by Dick Hyde in the early 1890's, it was one of the first buildings on the north side of the railroad track. A fire had destroyed the business houses located south of the railroad.

The late W. H. Dodge, father of Earl Dodge of Iowa Park, hauled rock and stone for the building across the Wichita river. His team had to ford the river as there was no bridge nearby.

Jesse Tanner came from Jacksonboro to work for Mr. Hyde in 1894. Later Mr. Hyde sold to Mr. Lynn and Will Jackson and the place of business became known as Jackson Brothers. In the early 1900's Mr. Hyde bought back the hardware store and Jesse Tanner bought a half interest.

He had married Miss Mae Akers May 17, 1899 in Iowa Park.

Jesse had faith in the future of Iowa Park and "caught the inspiration of the square on the cornerstone of the store and the mortar that cemented the structure and a confidence in its strength," so the day his son Richard Alvin was born, Sept. 15, 1903, he bought the store outright from Hyde.

It became known as J. A. Tanner & Son Hardware and Furniture. A tin building was put up just west of the main store. Later the present building that housed the furniture department was constructed.

In 1910 Mr. Tanner became a funeral director. He and Mae and Buddy operated the business.

Jesse died Jan. 31, 1933. Mrs. Tanner and Buddy and his wife Brownie were all licensed funeral directors, and Buddy was a licensed embalmer.

Mae Tanner died May 1960.

Buddy will now devote his time to the funeral home which is undergoing remodeling and enlargement. It is located at the old Tanner home, corner of Cash and Bond, where Tanner Funeral Home has been located some 25 years.

When completed there will be a new chapel, display room, three staterooms, offices, etc.

Her shoulder-length veil of white tulle was attached to a tiara studded with pearls. She carried a white orchid surrounded by orange blossoms atop a white Bible.

Miss Sue Reid, sister of the bride, participated as honor maid. She was attired in a blue suit with harmonizing accessories, and wore a white carnation corsage.

Judging for the neighborhood improvement program in Valley Farms was accomplished Tuesday. A group met at the Community house for coffee and refreshments and made its first stop at the John Jones farm, where coastal bermuda, brush control and barn remodeling were observed.

Wheat following legumes was shown on the W. B. Shook farm; and a new water system was inspected on Floyd Stermer's farm. Landscaping was seen at Carl McKimmon's, and general crops at John Hopkins and Fenton Dale's farms.

Next stop was the experiment station, Lester Brooks, superintendent. Mrs. Brooks showed her iris gardens. The Dewey Spruiell dairy barn was inspected and it was explained that over five million dollars are derived in this county from the dairy industry.

Wheat on the James Cates farm was seen; irrigation borders at Loyal Barbour's, corrals at Floyd Boyd's, coastal bermuda at Jack Bickley's.

Wheat which had been fertilized was seen on the L. J. Lane farm; general improvements at Dr. Ted Alexander's; a new garage at L. T. Boren's; home improvements at D. McRoberts'. Then a visit in Mrs. Tom Thaxton's iris garden was followed by a tour of Centime farm, where Mr. Kenner, manager, escorted the group.

If your dog should be picked up by Mr. Dutton, call 592-406 and make arrangements to have it released.

The 1964 Wheat Referendum

This is the fifth in a series of articles on the upcoming national wheat referendum by Bob Crocker, county office manager, ASCS.

One of the major changes in the proposed 1964 wheat program deals with certificates.

It is an important change and it is necessary that Wichita county farmers understand it.

Simply, the certificates will provide for a two-price system in marketing. Certificate wheat will be used for food and export, and non-certificate wheat will be used for feed and seed.

The certificate will be worth 70c a bushel and will give the farmer a basic support price of $2 on the national average. Non-certificate wheat will have a loan rate of $1.30, which is the anticipated world market price.

Certificates will be issued to participating farmers on a basis of 80 percent of the normal production of their farms.

The government will share in the certificate program. Though certificates will be issued for some 975 million bushels, on a basis of 80 percent of the national marketing quota, the government will receive certificates for their share of the quota.

The government's wheat will come out of CCC carryover stocks, thus helping to reduce the surplus. Now, if the certificate program seems at first glance to be complicated, it isn't. It must of course be comprehensive enough to cover many situations, but it will operate in a simple manner.

Certificates will be issued at the county ASC office well ahead of harvest. Buyers of grain will purchase both the wheat and the certificate, the wheat at the market price and the certificate at face value, which is 70c.

Any unused certificates not needed due to low yields may be redeemed by the farmer at his county ASC office.

Certificate system constitutes a fine built-in insurance program for the farmer, because should he lose his crop due to hail or other causes, he will have his certificates and they will still be worth 70c each bushel.

If this seems attractive, then the farmer should bear in mind the entire program will depend upon a Yes vote in the May 21 referendum. Two-thirds of the producers must vote for the program if it is to become effective.

Should the program be voted down, wheat would be supported at approximately $1.20 a bushel for those farms that stayed within their 1964 allotments. Others would receive no support at all. This assumes no additional legislation will be passed by Congress and most qualified observers consider additional legislation unlikely for 1964.

For Wichita county farmers, planting time for 1964 is only a matter of five to six months off. Thus if it should seem, in considering a farm program, that 1964 is far in the future, it is a mistaken idea.

We remind voters too, that the certificate program will enable American farmers to compete on world markets without sacrificing their high standard of living.

An area wheat meeting will be held Thursday night, May 2, in the ballroom of the Kemp hotel at 7:30 in Wichita Falls.

W. C. Wedemeyer, director of research and education, Texas Farm Bureau, will present facts concerning the 1964 wheat certificate plan.

This is an open meeting for all wheat producers. Hear this presentation before you make up your mind how to vote on the May 21 Wheat Referendum.

by Raymond Schroeder

When the multiple-price certificate wheat plan is examined closely, it is readily evident that it is a foot-in-the-door approach to "government supply management" for all of agriculture.

While supposedly limited to wheat, it is designed to operate in conjunction with a government supply management program for feed grain. If supply management programs are put into operation for wheat and feed grains, the stage would be set for similar programs for dairy products, poultry, livestock and other farm commodities.

May 21st referendum applies only to the 1964 crop, but the Agriculture Act of 1962 is the law until it is changed by Congress. It will not be changed unless wheat farmers defeat the referendum.

Under the Food and Agriculture Act of 1962, the Secretary of Agriculture would have near total authority over the production and marketing of wheat. He could:

1. Set the national quota as low as one billion bushels and the national acreage allotment as low as he deems necessary to avoid overplanting the quota.
2. Issue marketing certificate allocating the numbers of bushels each producer can sell at the higher of two price support levels without regard to quality or the use made of the wheat.
3. Set supports for certificate wheat as low as 65 percent or as high as 90 percent of parity (currently $1.62 and $2.24).

4. Set supports for non-certificate wheat at the level he deems appropriate. There is no minimum support level for non-certificate wheat.

5. Require producers to retire acreage from production.

6. Make payments for retired acres but only in 1964 and 1965. He could require producers to retire land after 1965 but would have no authority to make payments.

7. He could require that the same land be retired each year.

8. He could enforce strict compliance by imposing heavy penalties for violations.

The "$2 versus $1" theme is a myth designed to scare farmers into voting "yes" in the referendum with a support of $2 on 80 percent of your wheat, and $1.30 on 20 percent, the average price is well below $2 per bushel. Even if the referendum is defeated, wheat is to be supported at 50 percent of parity.

There is an alternative to "supply control." It involves two important steps:

1. A "No" vote in the referendum.
2. The enactment by Congress of a sound program for wheat.

Fellow wheat farmers, the choice is yours. The future of American agriculture is in your hands. Will it be toward bigger markets, greater opportunity and more adequate income? Or will it be toward a government controlled, licensed agriculture, with dwindling markets, limited opportunities, and lower incomes? Would you like to continue to manage your farm, or would you prefer to turn the job over to a government bureaucrat? These are questions you must answer as you make your decision on whether to vote Yes or No. The choice is yours to make May 21st, a day of decision for American agriculture.

Corvair Monza Club Coupe

Who needs muscles?

Do you know how easy it is to take a corner with a Corvair or park one? Turn this newspaper sideways and it will give you a pretty good idea. The wheel handles just about that easily.

The Corvair's engine is in the rear, for not only greater traction, but more balanced weight distribution. And that's what makes the steering so completely effortless.

The engine is air cooled, too. No radiator. No water or antifreeze. No boiling over or freezing up to worry about. It takes the weather and the terrain as it comes.

So think about those trips to the beach this summer, those bright sunny days and balmy moonlit nights.

And besides, looking at it from a very practical point of view, it's Trade 'N' Travel time right now at your Chevrolet dealer's. He's got some beautiful buys.

But you had better hurry before somebody muscles in ahead of you. Spring's here. Summer's coming fast. And with these sporty good-looking Corvairs selling the way they are, he who hesitates will want to kick himself.

Make Safety Glazing Mandatory

F.H.A. Closes The Sliding Glass Door On Accidents

New F. H. A. specifications made safety type glazing mandatory April 1, 1963. Pressure of public opinion expressed through the U. S. Public Health & Welfare Department and the National Safety Council, has provided for itself (the public) an end to the appalling record of injuries and deaths caused by what was a growing menace of cheap glass doors. No longer will the public need to depend on decals pasted at eye level on sliding doors to prevent the horrible injuries of going through it closed. After all, children have a different "eye level".

It has been estimated that there have been at least 40,000 accidents per year on a national basis. Glass doors have become such a problem in Riverside County, California that officials revised the building code to require glass in sliding doors to be a quarter of an inch thick or bear visual identification such as decals. Dade County Florida also took action; it requires at least 7/32 of an inch of glass thickness, which is evidently not the solution. A doctor in the county reports he is patching up several glass-door victims each month. Nor is the hazard restricted to children. In fact, said Dr. Marvin Weil of Miami Beach, "I can think of more adults than children who have gone through doors."

Usually, victims deceived by the transparency of the glass don't realize it is there and try to walk through. Other, especially children, don't stop to look. Some, although aware of the glass, accidentally bump against it. In any case, the glass breaks, showering the victim with sharp jagged pieces.

This awareness of "Public Safety" was presupposed by Samuel I. Oshiver, architect and developer of Philadelphia's Park City West. The first high rise project in the world to be enclosed in a wall of Arm-R-Clad tempered insulating safety glass. This fulfillment of an obligation to provide "Safe" living as well as comfort preceeded any "regulation" by many months.

The need to supply the safety offered only by tempered safety glass in building is recognized nationally . . . by others beside F.H.A. builders. Rutenberg Homes of Florida, who sell a home every 7-1/2 hours, 24 hours a day, insist on using the new tempered safety glass in every home they build. Rutenberg homes are not affected by the new F.H.A. regulation on safety glazing.

Arm-R-Clad tempered safety glass, manufactured by Hordis Bros., Inc. of Pennsauken, N. J., provides up to five times more resistance to impact . . . plus eight times more resistance to both hot and cold thermal shock than conventional glass. Only under extreme localized, direct impact will Arm-R-Clad break . . . then, and only then, it disintegrates into harmless, tiny, rounded particles. Never into the usual jagged blades or spears . . . as does ordinary glass. It is especially effective in preventing injury in "High-Hazard" home areas such as the bathroom equipped with these new safe shower and tub enclosures, or the high trafficked patio entrance/exit with Arm-R-Clad sliding patio doors. (these are the ones parents close . . . but children think are open).

Thanks to Public Opinion, the F.H.A. and safety glass manufacturers home buyers can get panoramic glass doors that provide a "Bright Outlook" instead of a gloomy picture.

YOU'LL WANT TO KNOW ABOUT THE ADVANTAGES OF A FLAMELESS ELECTRIC WATER HEATER

There's no better time than right now—while you're planning your new home—to discover the wonderful benefits of a flameless quick recovery electric water heater. Besides the dependable hot water supply you'll get, here are other reasons you'll be glad you chose electric:

FAST—High-speed electric heating elements are immersed in the water, heating it and not the tank. The tank is insulated all around—including the bottom—to prevent heat loss.

SAFE—Flameless electric water heating gives you peace of mind. No flame to blow out, no pilot light to worry about.

CLEAN—No by-products of combustion. No unpleasant fumes. No flue to accumulate soot. An electric water heater is as clean as an electric light.

SILENT—No annoying start-up or shut-off sounds. No noise at all while water is being heated. A flameless electric water heater is completely silent and carefree.

INSTALLS ALMOST ANYWHERE—Because a flameless electric water heater needs no flue, it can be installed almost anywhere in the house, close to the point of greatest use. This saves long pipe runs and waste due to water cooling in the pipes.

Reader Writes

DEAR EDITOR:

It was a calm Sunday in March 1922, in the Crosstimbers of north central Texas. I was riding out the brush for stray cows; many of them often stole away to Big Sandy river during calving season.

It was mid-afternoon when a fierce wind came out of the north bringing the smell of a prairie fire. Heeling my mount, we made a right turn and raced out upon the tableland just in time to see three giant headfires crawl over the rim from Connor basin.

Only escape route was a plowed field a mile to the west, in which there was a small house. Fortunately I was astride the toughest, fastest and most beautiful roan that ever packed leather. Perhaps 100 yards from the field was a rundown corral in which two calves cavorted in dense smoke. Nearby were two water barrels under a clump of liveoak, with a tarp covering.

Suddenly, a teenage girl slithered from under the tarp and ran screaming down a trail. Briney sensed the danger, danced a short jib, and dashed toward the girl. A hazy horse if ever there was one, I soon scooped the girl up. She bit and clawed like a wildcat but we beat the headfire by a few seconds.

When I lowered the girl to the ground, glanced back through the smoke, fell to her knees and cried hysterically, "My Lord, my little brother!"

Again I wheeled the roan who this time raced for keeps. When I rolled the burning tarp from the barrels a small boy bounced up. Red of eye and soaking wet, he said, "Where's Beckey?"

Forty-one years since I pulled Dave Brunson from the barrel. Now 6-1, 210, a commissioned officer in the air force, in the States on leave, he came by my house about 10 days ago. Dave learned my whereabouts while visiting Backey and her family near Flagstaff, Ariz., where they have ranch holdings.

At a recent picnic lunch their children and grandchildren insisted that we again do that fire-ride. Dave said for his part they would have to use a windmill water tank.

A grinning glance at me, Beckey laughed: "That old thing haul ME up on a horse?"

A grandson of 4 offered to sit in the water barrel; a 12-year-old girl volunteered to run down the trail; menfolk would set bonfires to create a smoke screen.

When the old saddle tramp said the best he could do would be to use a rope and drag the girl along the trail, little Dorsey Brunson chickened out.

There a many people in this area and the Connor Basin who personally know about the incident. So Dave, Beckey and other members of their families are writing their memoirs of the original, and others of, they said, the most dramatic stories ever heard during their childhood.

Space permitting, some of them may appear in the Herald.

Sincerely
LONNIE LEE

Teachers Study Reading Method

Iowa Park elementary teachers attended the annual Reading Conference at Midwestern university recently. The conference was sponsored by the Texas Association for the Improvement of Reading and is considered one of the most outstanding state programs offered to teachers each year.

Dr. Helen Murphy of Boston university was speaker. She is a noted authority in the field of primary reading and the teachers were impressed with her ideas on teaching.

It was gratifying to many of the teachers to find they are already using ideas she suggested, and interested in many suggestions new to them. Several local teachers have been trying some of the suggested methods.

Attention is being given to the diagnosis of reading levels, which is more or less an approach to the ungraded primary school.

Mrs. Phyllis Dawson, a sixth grade teacher in Kidwell school, was chairman of the junior high sectional meeting in which student of Iowa Park participated.

Mrs. Frankie Hendrick returned Monday from a trip to the Ozark mountains in Arkansas. She also visited in Morrilton with her mother-in-law Mrs. May Hendrick.

SENATOR
RALPH W. YARBOROUGH

U. S. SENATOR RALPH W. YARBOROUGH, right, confers with Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall on plans for development of the Padre Island National Seashore Recreational Area, off the Gulf Coast of Texas. Senator Yarborough was author of the Padre Island Park bill, to set aside 8 1/2 miles of the island for preservation for public use. Secretary Udall said that Padre Island, which extends along the Texas coastal counties of Nueces, Kleberg, Kennedy, Wilcox and Cameron, will become one of the state's greatest assets because of its drawing power as a tourist attraction. The Texas legislature has recently passed a concurring bill clearing the way for the Interior Department to begin buying the land for the Padre Island National Park site. Senator Yarborough said he had received assurance that Interior Department personnel will be at work on Padre Island within 60 days.
