Extraordinary Offer to All Wanting Employment.

We want live, energetic and capable agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent. profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents, and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every house owner, it might not be necessary to make an extraordinary offer to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear, and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent who will give our business a thirty day's trial and fail to clear $100 in that time, above all expenses can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for claim? Must he not only resume work, them. Any agent or general agent who but also continue it uninteruptedly until them through sub-agents for ninety days, and fail to clear $750 above all expenses, can return all unsold and get their money pend it, can another party during such rs, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the work is completed, enter on the lode and make a valid relocation? Annual Assesment Work. Great misunderstanding prevails respecting the law of annual labor and relocation of lodes. In the mining law de partment of the Chicago Mining Review, appears the following, which should be saved for reference, as it covers the whole ground: Although Section 2,324 of the United States Statutes requires at least $100 worth of work to be done on each Without Change of Cars! lode within each year after that of the original discovery, and until the lode is patented, or what is equivalent, a Receiver's Receipt is issued, the neglect to do that required work for any one or more vears, unless there is intentional abandonment of the claim-does not actually forfeit the title. To work such forfeiture there must not only be such neglect, but there must be also a legal relocation, before resumption of work by the owner, the neglect and such valid relocation combined operating to complete the forfeiture. The $100 worth of work must be done entirely within each calendar year, between January 1st and January 1st, and if $99 of work be done in 1884, and $1 in 1885, the work for 1884 is not complete, nor that for 1885, until a full $100 of work shall be finished in 1885, a fraction of the $100 of work done in any one year not applying or cutting any figure as to work for any other year. If the owner neglects in whole or part his annual labor for 1884, or for several years, he still has the first claim to the lode as long as another has not relocated it, for if no one has taken advantage of the claims being open to relocation, the owner con resume work say on January 1st, 1885, or at any time thereafter, in advance of such relocation, and from the moment of such resumption of work in good faith, past neglect is forgiven, and the negligent owner's title is cured of its defect. If, however, a relocator should commence work on January 1st, 1885, or at any time thereafter before such resumption of work by the negligent claimant, and then conform strictly to the requirements of the law in regard to relocations, the relocator's title is perfected, and the previous owner's claim is forfeited. The question is often asked what amount of work must be done by the original owner after neglect of a previous would like ten or more counties and work the $100 of work is completed, or if he should also resume work, and then susback. No other employers of agents ever suspension, and before the $100 worth of sufficient, and that it entitles the party so resuming to continue and complete his year up to and including Decemder 31st. The last case of this kind noted in the then resumed work the following year, but after doing about $12 of work upon each lode in January, suspended work. Another party entered and attempted to of California decided such relocations to be illegal, and that the original owner during that year. > WAR IN PERU'S CAPITAL.-A dispatch sent from Charillos, Peru, on Thursday of last week, said: "In Lima yesterday there was a storm of bullets for over six hours. Caceres entered the city with his rabble yelling and firing. The night before all the government troops were withdrawn to Cuaytel and the palace, and the entry of Caceres was a complete surprise. His men captured Cuaytel and the churches of Mercede and San Augustine, from which they kept up a fusilade. They also attacked the Gaudalupe railroad station. About 150 persons were killed in Mercaderas and Bodegones streets and near the Palace Square, where the fire was hottest. Finally the Government troops made a sortie and drove out the mob. Three hundred prisoners were taken, but Caceres escaped. The German proprietor of a cigar store was killed while looking from a balcony. All telegraph wires were cut for miles out of the city and no trains ran. Heavy guns have been heard for some hours, but no news as to the locality of the firing was heard up to 9:50 p.m. All was quiet in Lima at that hour and the dead men and horses were then being removed from the streets.

Harry B. Adsit, County Clerk of San Juan county, last week sold the wellknown Summit mine, Ophir, for $22,000, and with half the money bought the cattle and Lone Cone ranch of Jack H. Sears, which has been advertised for the past month in the NEWS and other papers. The Telluride News says:

The ranch and range with 300 head of choice stock cattle, owned by J. H. Sears, and situated in the Lone Cone country, was purchased yesterday, by H. B. Adsit, of San Juan county, for $11,000 cash. Mr. Sears with his roll of cash will remain in Telluride for some time vet with a view of embarking in other business either here or elsewhere as the occasion suits. Mr. McLain who was associated with him, will depart from the ousiness entirely and seek other fields. Mr. Adsit, the new purchaser, will take a look at his new venture and will make such improvements as will enable him to go into business on a large scale. SOLID SULPHURETS.

As long as many of our readers have been actively engaged in mining, but few have ever seen solid sulphuret ore. As an almost invariable rule, this class of ore is decomposed and mixed with adjacent mineral, but a short while ago, in the Hope vein, a small (very small) pocket of solid sulphuret ore was found. This was assayed, for curiosity, by two assayers, who gave, respectively, 3,412 and 3,420 ounces in silver. Sandy Campbell and Theo Barlow located a claim on adjoining ground, and call it the Dayton.

The Pasadena is depending upon this vein for its lime flux, and as the ore even at present carries enough silver to make the development of the property promise much, the owners have no thought of suspending operations. The vein is a large one and one which can produce a great amount of mineral. This week it was found that in the ore was some gold, and tests for that metal will be made. At present, the packers are transfering about six tous daily to the smelter.

MOUNT WILSON.

George Higbee went up to the Magpie and Sunlight Sunday, returning a day or so later. He reports very favorable progress. Every preparation will be made for winter work

J. A. Ross and Jas. Morris have been working on several claims and intend to ties of precious metals. The ore is prinrun a tunnel 350 feet next season, which will develop the Hiddeu Hand, Wheel of Fortune, Silver Crown and Silent Friend lodes. The first two are owned by Ross, individually, and the last two by Ross and Morris. The veins have produced some heavy lead ore, running as high as 53 per cent: in lead and 60 ounces in silver. The work planned for next season is calculated to show the claims in their ring. condition at a considerable depth; work for the present is discontinued.

THE C. H. C. The C. H. C. is a mine which is rapidly coming into notice, upon the only basis which counts-its ore-bodies and ore-production. The mine is being worked by only a small force of men and but two of them are working in ore. They have been taking out about 3 tons daily of late and it is supposed that it will run 200 W. W. Parshall, A. L. Raplee, W. T. Williamson, ounces or more in silver per ton. On John Eder Wednesday of this week the first ship Josiah Hicks, ment to the Pasadena was made. There D. We explained to Mr. Davidson that he did not misconstrue our intentions. We knew that Mr. Clay and Mr. Meredith would be in attendance upon the convention and supposed that one or the other of them would hold the

The First Victim of the Six-Shooter Who Occupied a Grave.

More or less interest always attaches to the first unfortunate who, in a booming camp, falls a victim to the death-dealing six-shooter. On August 31st, 1879, five years ago last Sunday, the first man fell in Rico with a bullet through his heart. At that time Rico was less than a month old and to say that it was lively faintly expresses the situation. On the 31st of August, which also fell on Sunday that year, as well as this, a party of neople came into town from the Mancos, among them being a man called "Frenchy," whose real name was never known. During the forenoon this individual imbibed freely of the ardent and circulated himself promiscuously up and down Glasgow avenue, then a long row of tents and unfinished Tica Knowles. A. Jay Seeley, Jno. F. log cabins. About noon he encountered George McGoldric, one of the numerous "The Kids" of the country, and wanted to fight him, although he had never seen "The Kid" before. McGoldric at first avoided him and crossed over to the saloon of W. G. Morrow (who, a few days later, shot and killed himself accidentally) but soon re-crossed the street and stood in the door of John Foote's saloon, twirlcame up foolishly drunk and bantered him for a fist fight. "Frenchy" wore a leather belt, in which was a large butcher knife, but no gun. "The Kid," gun in hand, backed into the street followed by the drunken man, who continued to follow him, in the face of repeated threats from "The Kid" to kill him if he did not stop. Finally, a man named Hamilton, who came in with "Frenchy," went to him and the latter pulled his knife on Hamilton, but put it up again and started for "The Kid," who again warned him not to come any closer and fired a shot into the ground in front of him to scare him. "Frenchy" was too drunk to scare very much and told "The Kid" he was afraid to shoot, and pulled his shirt open with both hands and was standing with bared breast from ten to twelve feet distant from "The Kid," daring him to shoot. The latter raised his pistol, took deliberate constable, coroner or sheriff in the then young town, but 'Squire Jake Ross, from this paper.

J. N. BROUGHTON, of the Rico Carriage Works, has within the past few months made two road vehicles, which are both beautiful and substantial. One of them is a double-scated carriage, with top, which is finely finished and painted and is just the thing for use in the San Juan country. The other vehicle is a double seated buckboard, and is equally well made. Both are strongly built, substantially ironed and are calculated to stand the rough usage of mountain travel The painting, which adds so much to their beauty, was done by Race Dunton. These vehicles are for sale and anyone wishing to purchase road wagons of these descrip tions would do well to examine them.

ARCTIC OBSERVATIONS.

It is stated in the diary left by Sergeant Rice of the Greely expedition that the mean temperature at their camp dur ing the month of December, 1881, was 32.01 degrees. Early in January, 1882, the pendulum piers were erected-so we learn from the same source-and the work of making observations furnished arduous and exacting duty to the astronomer, "who, in addition to the tedious counting of the swings of the pendulum hours after hours, was compelled to make astronomical observations for the determinations of time." These pendulum observations were continued fifteen days, and up to January 16, when the station was swept by a severe storm and caused such a remarkable fall in the thermometer that Lientenant Greely had the range of the instrument closely observed and recorded every fifteen minutes. The reading show. ed a temperature of only -12½, which was a raise of about 18 degrees in a few hours. The wind blew at the rate of sixty miles an hour, carrying with it clouds of snow and spicular ice, which cut the faces of the men like powdered glass or sparks of fire, and prevented them from reaching either the "themometer shelter" or the tide gauge. "Everyone who was after purchasing tickets and upon their out," we are told, "came back more or less bruised, and with their faces covered by a mass of frozen snow. The frosty $77.65. The regular fare to Denver was particles were also driven through the thickest coats, forming a white lining on the inside." The velocity of the wind finally increased to seventy-five miles an limited to 2 days or $22.50 for unlimited. hour, and the thermometer ranged from -95 to - 32.1. A summing of January a saving over local fares each way of temperature shows a mean of -38.27, a minimum of -58.1, and a maximum of 91 degrees. February came in cold, the average temperature for the month "being more than 50 degrees below zero," with the mercury frozen solid all the

On February 11 the standard thermometer stood at 60 degrees below zero, the corrected difference of temperature between the inside and outside of quar ters being over 110 degrees. "It is surprising," remarks the sergeant, "the amount of cold that can be supported without injury while the atmosphere is at rest. Comfortably clothed and no air stirring, we could move about without risk or great inconvenience taking care only of the face, which sometimes became touched and required the application of a warm hand, which could safely be withdrawn from a warm covering for a short time. Give me -65 degrees and calm weather rather than -20 degrees and the wind moving ten miles an hour. It is a mistake (as stated by an eminent Arctic explorer, Payer) that perspiration ceases at-50 degrees. This was disproved by the experience of us. Swathed in cumbrous clothing, such exercise as pushing behind a loaded sledge would frequently produce perspiration in no meager quantities, and at lower temperature than that mentioned."

During February experiments were ade with shot guns and chronographs to ascertain the rapidity with which sound travels through Arctic air. It was as certained that lubricating oil had to be removed from the guns, as it would freeze solid and not allow the machinery of the weapon to work. When on February 23 the sun had begun to again show its light, members of the party suffered with weak eyes and presented a "bleached-out appearance of countenance like the potato vines that grow in cellars." An important record is made of the fact that February of 1882 was the coldest month ever noted in the Arctic region, and far in excess of the thermometric range given by the discovery party in 1876. as the mean temperature was -46.47 and the minimum -62.1 degrees. Although the sun was to be seen for a few hours every day, the colony life had become so mo notonous that "the return of every bunter was the signal for questions, and the smallest circumstances was a topic for conversation."-New York Herald.

"How glorious it is to be engaged in a purely intellectual occupation,"murmured a Boston maiden gazing rapturously into the admiring eyes of a country editor, "your own mental faculty for tools, and the whole universe for a workshop. "Now tell me," she added, "what do you consider the most difficult thing connected with your noble profession?" "Paying the hands," said the editor.
