They will be at the Gruver-Nazareth game in Levelland Friday, March 1 at 2 p.m.

Gruver Greyhounds, Kip Pittman, 44, Kelon Morley, Steven Fry, Chad Logsdon, 14 and Luke

Pittman know how to use team play To defeat the Phillips Blackhawks, 68-44.

Kip Pittman, number 44, scored 13 points against Phillips.

It's still the same old story as the Gruver Greyhounds blasted the Blackbirds from Phillips 68-44 Tuesday night in a class 1-A area boys play-off game at Borger.

Gruver dominated the boards 38-18 and held the Blackbirds to two offensive rebounds.

Gruver was led by 6'4" post Kelon Morley, who scored 25 points, including 11 of 12 from the free-throw line. Gruver point guard Kip Pittman hit 13 of 14 from the free-throw line and 2 field goals for 17 points. The fantastic dogs hit 65.7% from the free throw line to make 36 of 42 free throws.

The Greyhounds will take their 19-3 record to Levelland Friday for the regional tournament. The Hounds will play Nazareth in the first round at 2 p.m. in the Levelland Dome.

Sanford-Fritch is the only Texas team to have beaten the Greyhounds this season.

Gruver played their regular ferocious, hustling game as they plucked the feathers from the Blackbirds leading the first quarter 17-11. Midway through the game, the Hounds had almost doubled the score as they led an excellent Phillips team 33-20. The third quarter was even more impressive as they jumped into a 49-32 lead. The last quarter was a disaster for Phillips when Gruver jumped into a 24 point lead.

Over one thousand sweating, howling, excited basketball fans packed the new Borger gym to see this exciting Greyhound team play. The smooth playing Gruver team made only 10 fouls the entire game whereas the Blackbirds made 29.

The Greyhounds will be facing one of the best boys teams in the state when they play Nazareth Friday afternoon at 2 p.m. in Levelland. The entire Panhandle is proud of the Gruver Greyhounds. District 1-3A Perryton lost in their first bi-district game. District 1-4A Borger lost in their first area game. District 1-2A Spearman lost to Paducah. Only Gruver and the Palo Duro Dons are left to represent the Panhandle in regional action.

BY ANGELA AND FORD BOTHWELL

Q. In cold, rainy weather, I often encounter a water condensation problem on the metal ceiling of my camper van. Drops of moisture collect and sometimes drip down inside. I can't find any leaks in the roof. Is there any way to correct this problem?

A. Your van's roof obviously isn't insulated, so the warm air inside condenses when it hits the cold ceiling, particularly when you're running the heater. You can buy some cheap carpet remnants, cut them to fit and glue them to the ceiling with a waterproof glue. This will prevent the warm air inside from coming in contact with the cold metal ceiling and should eliminate the condensation problem.

For a more thorough job in the winter months, line the ceiling with a layer of quality insulation, then cover it with carpeting. Since heat rises, this should keep you nice and snug — and dry.

To God "A note of thanks"

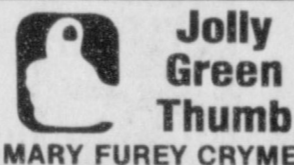

by Mrs. E. A. Greever

Heavenly Father, I really fear as a mortal, I can't do justice to the great responsibility asked of me, but I certainly would love to and prayerfully hope to, for it, the word, tells us as to the destiny of every one of us on earth. It will be life eternal or destruction in a lake of fire. In the article published this week, we will learn perhaps a very small portion of your precious word that tells us of all you, your son, Jesus Christ and the Holy Ghost has done that we can have a glorious hope of immortality eternal life. We find Adam did not do what you asked of him, but ate of the forbidden fruit given him by his help mate that was beguiled by the serpent and death was pronounced. We think of the children of Israel after crying unto God for deliverance from bondage in Egypt on their way to the promised land at trying times murmured and complained and wished themselves back there where they had onions and garlic to eat and Moses, their leader, was so provoked with them, he failed to sanctify the Lord among them by saying, "Ye rebels, shall I fetch water out of this rock?" and by this, he failed to live to enter the promised land. After the law, were the prophets who cried aloud and spared not, but because of the weakness of the flesh, Gods laws failed to be kept.

In the Old Testament scriptures, we read of Job, who was a perfect and upright man and one who feared God and in his case, Satan argued with God, and to prove his integrity, God permitted Satan to try him to the very limit. All his possessions, which were very great was swept away, his sons were slain and he was covered with sore boils from the sole of his foot to his crown and his wife said, dast thou still retain thine integrity? Curse God and die, and in all of this testing or trying of his faith, Job did not sin with his lips, but said, "Blessed be the name of the Lord".

The result in this case, the Lord blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning.

Jesus, who was with God in the beginning was made flesh, in other words, came into this world as all of us, grew to manhood, a pattern for all and was tempted by the Devil as we are. How are we told to overcome the flesh sin and the Devil? Let us go to Ephesians 6:10-20. My brethren, be strong in the Lord and the power of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the Devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore, take unto you the whole armour of God that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day and having done all to stand. Stand, therefore,

BY MARY FUREY CRYMES

The season's not quite ready yet, but if you look closely, you'll spy the ever-eager gardener, lurking about the plot, picking up bits of winter debris, and peering anxiously at the soil. Most likely it's healthy - the soil, as well as the activity - but experts say even the best garden loam can lack certain nutrients. Looking won't tell you much. Try testing instead.

To avoid planting in the dark - figuratively, unless you use the old "full moon" theory of the Farmers' Almanac, get a soil sampling and either take it off for testing or do it yourself. Garden centers and plant shops have several different kinds of kits to help you discover what's in your soil, and what's not. If you decide to let the pros have a go at diagnosis, look in the phone book under "county agent," "extension service" (can be a University listing) or governmental agricultural center. Call around and you'll locate the right person(s) to test your soil - either free or at very low cost. You can help them by taking a correct sample.

The experts prefer a sampling from 5 or 6 points in the garden plot. Use a spade free of other soil, and dig a scattered pattern. Go for a slice about an inch thick, six or seven inches deep. Put these in a clean pail and mix. Take out a pint or so for testing, bag it and label with date and pertinent location. Avoid touching sample with hands or tools.

Hopefully, the soil you have tested will show need for only a minimal amount of added nutrients. A quick refresher course on these - every plant requires 16 nutrients to flourish. Amounts required vary from plant to plant, and four of them - oxygen, hydrogen, carbon and chlorine - come from air. Lack of the remaining dozen can cause garden problems - and their absence shows up in poor and sickly plants. It's one of the miracles of the plant world that the lack of nutrients causes the same results regardless of area or climate. Another nice point - the same experts that analyze the soil can come up with the exact right formula to improve it. In most cases, a dressing of a good commercial fertilizer will make it right.

having your loins girt about with truth and having on the breastplate of righteousness and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. Above all, taking the shield of faith where with ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked and take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

So, we are to be girded with truth and Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth, and the life. I am the resurrection and the life." The words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life. Jesus said, "Before going back to heaven, my peace I leave with you. My peace I give unto you, not as the world giveth unto you. Let not your hearts be troubled. I go to prepare a place for you and if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also." So, we have faith that he hath promised he will do, for without faith, it is impossible to please God.

We are cleansed from all imperfections by the blood of Christ. I Thess. 5:8 But let us who are of the day be sober putting on the breastplate of faith and love and for a helmet, the hope of salvation (Eternal life). All of this part of the armour is for our protection, over shield and buckler. The sword of the spirit is the word of God, the only weapon we need and the only one God tells us to use. It will make the enemy, the Devil, run on any line and God tells us to rebuke the Devil and he will flee from you.

Friends, how did Jesus answer the Devil when tempted by him? Answer: By saying, It is written so we his followers must know what the Bible says so we can do the same. Study Gods Word. By knowing what it says, when we hear prophesying or teachings, we will know whether it is true or false, and we are told hold fast to that which is good and the very God of peace sanctify you wholly and I pray God your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ for faithful is He that called you who also will do it. I Thess. 5:20-24 I neglected when speaking of the armour, we must wear, to remind us the word says every piece of this armour we put on with much prayer. So I agree with some song writer as to these words.

Oh you must fight, be brave against all evil
Never run nor even lag behind
If you would win for God and the right

Just keep on the firing line.
For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds casting down imaginations and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ. II Cor. 10:4-5 "Thank you God". Through obedience, we will see the Victory.

New information on Reye Syndrome

In the midst of the flu season, important new information has become available about the development - in teens and children with flu - of Reye syndrome, a rare but serious condition that kills 20 to 30 percent of its young victims and leaves many survivors brain-damaged.

The new information comes from a U.S. Public Health Service pilot study of a possible link seen in four earlier state studies between the use of aspirin in treating flu or chicken pox and an increased risk of Reye syndrome.

The Institute of Medicine of the National Institutes of Health and the Centers for Disease Control will continue the study through next winter, the Institute of Medicine advised that the federal government not wait to inform and protect the public.

As a result, Health and Human Services Secretary Margaret M. Heckler has asked manufacturers to remove any recommended use in flu and chicken pox from aspirin-containing products aimed at children - and to add a warning to all aspirin-containing products against use for flu and chicken pox in children and teens.

The pilot study looked at the histories of drug treatments and other factors of 29 young people who got Reye syndrome last year. Use of aspirin for flu or chicken pox symptoms was the common thread shown in 28 of the 29 (whereas ordinarily less than half the young people with flu or chicken pox would be expected to take aspirin.)

U. S. Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, M.D., has said that most childhood illnesses are self-limiting and usually don't require any medication at all. Doctors often suggest that a child with fever simply be made comfortable with cool compresses.

Of course, physicians continue to find aspirin useful and safe for adult, teen and childhood arthritis and other conditions.

Reye syndrome in a rare condition - a few hundred cases a year. It was named in 1963 for an Australian pathologist who described it as a swelling of the brain, combined with liver malfunction and blood chemistry disorders leading in most cases to death.

Improved recognition and early treatment of the disease has helped reduce the death rate, but still about one out of four reported cases are fatal.

It is crucial to take action quickly if Reye's symptoms occur - whether or not aspirin or an aspirin-containing product has been used. The first sign is generally persistent vomiting. The young person may be sleepy and lethargic, but still responsive. Within half a day, he or she can become disoriented, combative and delirious.

Untreated, the teenager or child can go into a coma and die.

Thus, Reye is a medical emergency. A child with Reye syndrome symptoms must be taken immediately to a hospital, where blood and body fluids can be monitored and a respirator used if breathing fails. Surgery may be needed, in some cases, to relieve pressure on the swollen brain. Therefore, act promptly if you suspect Reye syndrome.

Financial aid deadline approaching

Deadlines are quickly approaching for summer and fall financial aid, according to The Scholarship Bank. Students with financial needs should begin now to investigate some of the more than 25,000 private aid sources, according to Steve Danz, Director. These funds are available to students with interests in a number of fields, and many do not depend on demonstrated financial need, as do state and federal funds. For example, students with an interest in business, law, and accounting can receive a stipend from the Exceptional Student Fellowship Fund, and apply to the parent corporation for full time work following graduation. The Scholarship Bank is the largest private scholarship bank in the country for undergraduate and for graduate grants and loans. The computer can help you find sources designed just for you, based on your major, occupational goal, geographic desires, type of aid requested (scholarships, loans, summer work), and special skills and hobbies. According to the director, the computer guarantees each student at least fifty sources of aid. It has been estimated that each package of aid represents approximately $20,000 in potential money for college. Private aid comes from America's largest foundations, corporations, unions, and private donors and totals approximately 500 million dollars, or one fourth of all available aid. Thus, it is an extremely valuable addition to the private and state moneys available. As an example of the depth of the search, the bank reports one student found thirty six sources for the most unusual major of "deep sea diver". Students wishing to use the search should send a stamped, self addressed envelope to The Scholarship Bank, 10100 Santa Monica #2600, La Ca 90067.

"The Prodigal" to open March 22

The film, THE PRODIGAL, which is due to open at the Ellis Theatre on March 22-28, was previewed to Perryton community leaders at a special showing last Tuesday, Feb. 12 at 2:30 p.m.

THE PRODIGAL, produced by World Wide Pictures, Billy Graham's film organization, is a modern-day allegory of the biblical story that intimately probes the interactions of one American family. Set in a contemporary urban framework, writer-director James F. Collier's screenplay examines the gradual spiritual and emotional breakdown of the Stuart family as each member searches for his identity in a world of conflicting values and changing life-styles.

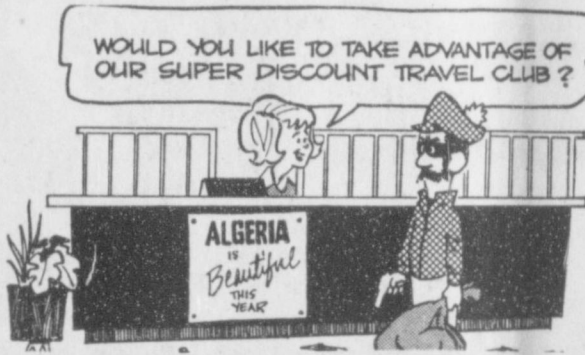

Outstanding actors and actresses make up the cast of THE PRODIGAL.

John Hammond, who plays the prodigal, starred in the television mini-series "The Blue and the Gray." His mother is played by noted actress Hope Lange, who won two consecutive Emmy Awards as Best Actress for her television series. "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir." The father is played by Broadway award-winning actor John Cullum. The other brother in the family is played by Arliss Howard, who makes his motion picture debut in THE PRODIGAL.

Those attending this special preview of THE PRODIGAL have been asked to organize groups from their churches, clubs and schools.

Harrol Waterbury, Eddie Neel from the Full Gospel Church serve on the local committee which is involved in bringing the film to Perryton and the surrounding area.

Hansford ACS Holds Meeting

Members of the Hansford Unit of the American Cancer Society held a noon meeting at the B & B Hospitality Room with the Spearman group serving delectable pizza and cheese cake prior to the business meeting which was conducted by Mrs. Clementine Renner in the absence of the president, Mrs. Mozelle McClellan.

Highlighting the meet were excerpts from the recent editorial "Who Is Getting Rich Off 'Cancer?'" by the well-known syndicated columnist Sylvia Porter. Following is the editorial as it appeared in the most recent copy of "Cancer News".

Sylvia Porter
Nationally Syndicated Columnist

The American Cancer Society, funded solely by private contributions, leads the voluntary organizations in the field of cancer research and control.

The ACS has 58 Divisions and nearly 3,100 Units nationwide.

Entering the cancer field in burgeoning numbers—to take advantage of the American peoples' generosity and concern—are entrepreneurs whose objectives are suspect.

Do not mistake one group for another. Just because a group calls itself "American" or "National" doesn't guarantee it is more than a local two-person operation with a mailing list. Nor does it mean the operation has any official standing.

It is no accident that groups such as the "American Institute for Cancer Research" and the "National Foundation for Cancer Research" are headquartered in the Washington, D.C., area. It doesn't repel potential contributors to these organizations if by name and location they appear to be linked to the government's National Institutes of Health and the National Cancer Institute.

"The American Institute for Cancer Research"

In 1983, the American Institute for Cancer Research mailed more than ten million people a "Census on Diet and Breast Cancer," as a "public service," asking questions about how much bacon, bologna, coffee and other foods they consumed, as well as about their smoking and drinking habits.

The "census" included an appeal for funds for research into the link between diet and breast cancer, and a promise that contributors would receive a "free analysis of the good things you are eating that may help prevent cancer."

It did not mention that AICR was created in 1982, by two professional fund-raisers, whose private firm was then hired by AICR to raise its money.

Nor did it mention that roughly 75 percent of the first $1.2 million so raised would be spent on a second barrage of appeals, which have continued into 1984.

To date, the AICR has not reported the results of its "census," which could have little, if any, scientific value.

AICR's activities had initially fallen short of standards established by two major watchdog agencies: the National Charities Information Bureau and the Philanthropic Advisory Service of the Council of Better Business Bureaus (CBBB).

These standards require "reasonable" fund-raising expenses and impose strict rules on conflicts of interest and accuracy of solicitation materials.

In at least two states, AICR had not registered with the appropriate state agencies and had been raising funds illegally.

To its credit—and to avoid disciplinary action by government regulatory agencies—AICR is apparently attempting to change its operations. However, until there is complete disclosure of its finances, it can't be claimed that it has rectified its practices.

"The National Foundation for Cancer Research"—Is it a business?

The National Foundation for Cancer Research, founded in 1974 to research cancer and nutrition-related theories, raises about $15 million annually, mostly by direct mail, and has received negative evaluations from both watchdog agencies. NCFR sued the CBBB for libel and lost. The court ruled that evaluations and opinions about charitable organizations are not actionable.

The National Charities Information Bureau says that the group is a "family affair," with the executive director, his wife and a son all on the payroll.

The NCFR has appealed its case to the Supreme Court and has stopped providing financial or other information on its activities to the agencies. It contends that it is not a charity but a business, and hence should be rated by Dun & Bradstreet.

"Project Cure"—a lobby

Project Cure is another new group actively soliciting funds "for cancer research."

Its mailings include "notarized" forms to send to your congressman and senator petitioning a full-scale investigation into what the group says is the medical "establishment and their refusal to use proven nutritional treatments to prevent and control cancer."

Project Cure which is not a charity, but a lobbying group, uses the same direct mail fund-raising firm used by AICR. Contributions to it aren't tax-deductible. Also, despite Project Cure's Washington, D.C., mailing address, all three of its principals reside in Connecticut. □

It was noted by those present that only this past week there had been communications from the "National Foundation for Cancer Research" with a plea for donations — this, among other recent mailings just as dangerous.

At the noon meet plans were made for the 1985 American Cancer Society Crusade with the next meeting to be held at noon March 28th at the B & B Hospitality Room to compile the Crusade packets for the Neighborhood Workers. Plans were also discussed for a Kick-Off Coffee to be held in Gruver and Spearman to mark the beginning of the April Crusade in Hansford County.

Present for the February 21st meet at the B & B Hospitality Room were Georgia Holt and Fran Maupin from Gruver; Clementine Renner, Arbeta Nobles, Betty Davis, and Fay Palmer from Spearman.

Our Heritage of Faith

Sponsors: In the Lutheran Church we have sponsors for infant baptism. Infant baptism did raise the problem through in the faith for the very young. The Baptism Sponsor was first needed as an added assurance that the Christian training of a child would take place should the parents die or be killed. With a longer life expectancy today, the second role of the Sponsor becomes more important. The Sponsor should represent the Church as much as the parents.

NEXT TOPIC: More about sponsors.

Rains soak Hansford

Instead of a heavy, drifting snow, Hansford County grain growers last week got warm spring like rains up to 3 inches in some areas—boosting prospects for both dryland and irrigated wheat.

The rain also thawed frozen fields, raising sub-surface temperatures from 30 degrees or less to as high as 40 degrees.

While the moisture was beneficial and warmed up the ground, farmers report that the rains stopped land preparation for corn and milo plantings.

Corn will be planted in Hansford County in a month to 6 weeks. The planting season for Milo is in April and May.

Farmers reported from 1.50 inches to 3 inches late Wednesday and early Thursday. Other moisture fell over the weekend including some snow on Saturday.

This rain was a free watering for Wheat most farmers stated. Farmers note that the unseasonable rains, just like those in April or May will give grain growers a break from starting irrigation motors which have been turned off all winter.

Normally irrigation farmers begin cranking up irrigation systems in late February or early March to water Wheat and prepare for planting feed grain.

With the rains last week, farm and ranch land in the county is saturated with moisture from a depth of 14 inches, to as much as 4 feet in parts of the county.

Agriculture experts believe the rain last week will carry the Wheat crop till late April without an irrigation and greatly help summer crops such as corn, grain sorghum, and soybeans.

This time of year, normally our driest, is when farmers in Hansford County get ready for spring crops. But a good rain now is just hard to beat. Hansford County farmers are comparing the moisture reserve in the ground to those experienced during the winter of 1982-83 when some Panhandle counties recorded 50 inches of snow.

The outlook right now is probably as good as we have ever had farmers say. Many don't remember things looking any better the last of February.

Winter Fair

Bruce McRee manager of Agco of Spearman announced this week that Agco annual Winter Fair will be held March 7, 1985. The fair will be held at the County Barn in Spearman on March 7 from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. If you are involved in agriculture, you're invited to attend.

There will be free door prizes and a grand prize trip for 2 to Las Vegas, air fare and room are included. A free fish fry will feature fresh fish from Punkins Fish Trap.

Seed, chemical, fertilizer, and feed representatives will be there to answer any specific questions that the farmer would have about the 1985 crop. Remember, if you are involved in agriculture you are invited to attend.

Yvonda Pipkin Stokes to serve as chairman

A former Spearman resident, Yvonda Pipkin Stokes, will serve as Conference Chairman when Christian Women's Clubs, Christian Business and Professional Women's Councils, After Five Clubs and Professional Couples' Club meet in Amarillo on March 8-10 for an Area Conference of the clubs.

Spring 1985 conferences will be held in ten cities of the United States' western region. Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada will also be a conference sight. This is the first time Amarillo has been chosen to host a conference. More than 250 participants from New Mexico, Kansas, Oklahoma, and Texas are expected in Amarillo.

Larry Wright, from Phoenix, Arizona, will be the speaker for the banquet to be held at 6:30 on Saturday evening. Wright, a former disc jockey, is president of Abundant Life, Inc. He is a very popular after dinner speaker who

A winning fundamental solves many problems

The story is told of a young man who was asked if he'd ever lie. "Absolutely not!" For $100?

"No."

For $1,000?

"Well, maybe just a little."

It seems to me the athletic community in America has sold out to a price it can't refuse. Would professional and major college sports organizations allow their telecasts to be dominated by beer ads if it weren't for beer bucks? Would the U.S. Olympic Committee allow its name to be prostituted by alcoholic beverage producers if it weren't for the money?

When you drop a frog into a pot of boiling water, it usually jumps out. But if you place a frog in cool water and gradually increase the temperature, it'll adjust and eventually die.

Jeb Magruder of Nixon's Watergate White House observed: "We had conned ourselves into thinking we weren't doing anything really wrong and by the time we were doing things that were illegal, we had lost control. We had gone from poor ethical behavior into illegal activities without even realizing it."

Isn't that what's happening to sports in America today?

There are some absolutes, some standards of ethical behavior that don't change. Everything is not relative and to think otherwise is to begin a moral drift toward doing certain things tomorrow you reject as wrong today.

More of our problems arise from the failure to recognize the unchanging than from our failure to respond to change.

There are at least two things I believe are true and unchanging about human nature: First, we need to feel ownership. Ohio State philosopher Andrew Oldenquist says, "Cause a person to believe there is something larger than himself which is his, a social unit in terms of which he partly defines himself and moreover which needs him, and his group egoism will triumph over his personal egoism every time." I don't think I am unusual in sensing that if, and only if, I perceive a thing as mine, will I be proud when it prospers, ashamed when it deteriorates, and indignant when it is threatened.

Second, people need to sense a belonging. A rehabilitation counselor in Florida told me, "The increase in drug abuse among students is attributed to a lot of factors, far from the least of which is the consolidation of schools. Larger schools mean more youth excluded from participation in athletics and other activities which allow students to have identity and feel a part of things."

You've got to provide a feeling of ownership and belonging to those involved in your athletic program. Involve everyone possible — players, cheerleaders, booster clubs, parents — and regulate them. Those who say you can't make and enforce rules are wrong. People need rules, want them, feel rejected without them. If no one's rules apply to me then I'm not part of anything and become frustrated and litigious.

But make sure your focus is on the spirit and not the letter of the rule.

During a two-month span in 1980 when I worked with the legal problems of state high school associations, four situations occurred in rapid succession, which changed my thinking and ultimately my vocation. A Salt Lake City football player punned a referee during a state playoff game. A lawsuit ensued but there was no matter of law involved — only a matter of attitude. A principal in Teton, Idaho punched a ref in the face during a playoff football game. A lawsuit followed but again, it was a matter of attitude — and lawyers can't fix that. A Miami, Florida football player was cursed by his teammates for fumbling a handoff which led to a 50-yard touchdown run and win by their opponents, leading to another lawsuit. And finally, a Michigan high school basketball coach was assaulted by a father who was angry because his son wasn't playing enough.

Four lawsuits but in each case, it was really an attitude problem. As athletic directors, you — not the attorneys — are the experts. You have the solution to litigation and financial and morale problems because these kinds of situations stem from lousy attitudes. You'll begin to affect solutions when you become totally committed to athletics as a life-changing instead of money-making enterprise.

I've based much of my professional life on the belief that athletics can change people positively. It's hard to believe that, however, when a coach bites off the head of a frog to fire up his football team or the coaching staff at another high school "moons" the homecoming crowd.

It's hard to believe coaches change lives for the better when half the Pac-10 Conference is on probation, when drug abuse is rampant on pro teams, and when alcohol abuse by high school and college athletes is epidemic. It's almost as if we believe something that nobody practices.

Perhaps we lack the commitment to practice what we believe. Maybe we believe in the innate need of people to belong and thus that every athlete should play in every game — until it costs us a game. Maybe we believe in our innate need to be regulated and thus play by the rules — until it costs us a win.

Thirteen years ago, I was the assistant football coach in a junior varsity game. We trailed 7-6 late in the fourth quarter. We had the ball on our 30-yard line and our quarterback threw a perfect strike to our split end, who caught the ball and scampered down the sideline for a touchdown and apparent victory.

What only a few people had seen was that he'd stepped out of bounds before catching the ball, thus making him ineligible. No official had seen it but the head coach and several reserves had. You can imagine the agony the coach went through as he looked at the scoreboard, at the spot the split end had stepped out, at his players who'd seen the violation.

As the teams lined up for the extra point, the head coach called an official over and reported the infraction. The touchdown was cancelled and we lost the game. Yet it was a victory for the life-changing business of athletics that day because the coach's players learned that honesty isn't a sometime thing. They learned to play by the rules all the time, even if it cost the game.

If you'll commit yourselves to that end and put the kids' interests above your compulsion to win, you'll solve a lot of your problems. The more kids you play, the more their parents feel a part of things and support your programs.

When I coached football, nobody was cut from the squad or stood around during practice. While the offensive starters worked out, I'd have the subs and work on defensive skills. By the season's end, several had become defensive starters. I played every boy in some game every week and every boy had an opportunity to start at least one game on some level during the year.

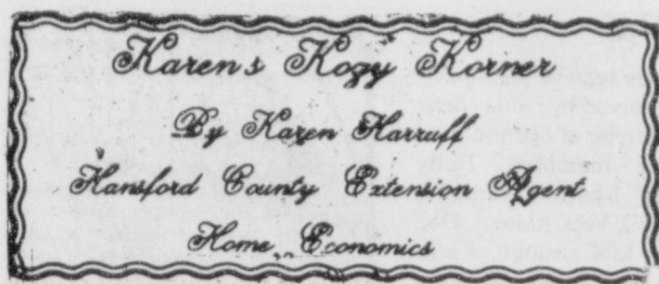

We had the biggest laundry bill in the conference but I submit that we hire and fire coaches not on the basis of wins and losses but on the number of dirty jerseys.

In one JV game, I started a boy at defensive tackle who was terrible. I planned to take him out after a few downs but the other team didn't notice his ineptness and he played well enough so that I kept him in the entire game. Afterwards, the father shook my hand and thanked me. The mother said nothing but the tears in her eyes said it all.

I don't remember if we won or lost that day but I do remember that defensive tackle giving me a big hug in his muddy uniform and hooting for the first time all year. He belonged. He felt a part of the program.

The spirit behind every law in our society and every rule of athletics is fairness. If you're a fair person, you'll treat people fairly — not just when you're required to by rules but all the time. That means giving every kid a chance to play. Not because the school or state association says you must but because it's fair and right thing to do.

If you'll treat every kid and parent as if they're wearing a sign around their neck saying "Please make me feel important," you'll change attitudes and improve morale and solve a lot of problems. This is an absolute that does not change — a "winning fundamental" I urge you to apply daily.

Pizza has an undeserved reputation as "junk food." Yet, nutritional analysis of fast-food and frozen pizza shows it can be a nutritional part of a balanced diet.

Differences in pizza recipes can, of course, have a substantial impact on nutrient content. But in general, pizza contains substantial amounts of the key nutrients. They only thing it's lacking is vitamin C.

If you're a typical adult woman who consumes about 2000 calories each day, one serving of pizza represents between 15 and 20 percent of your daily calorie intake. For good nutrition, a food that takes up that much of your calorie allotment should also contribute a similar proportion of your daily nutrient needs.

Pizza meets this requirement. Most pizzas contribute at least 15 to 20 percent of the U.S. RDA of protein, calcium, riboflavin and several other nutrients.

The cheese provides protein and calcium. Both the cheese and the crust contain riboflavin. The pizza crust also contributes thiamin, niacin and iron. Vitamin A is in the cheese and tomato sauce. If any vitamin C is present, it comes from the tomato sauce.

When you add toppings to pizza you add calories, but you can also add substantial amounts of nutrients. For example, red or green peppers supply vitamin C that isn't present in a basic cheese pizza.

People on low-calorie diets can enjoy pizza too. One slice of cheese pizza, at about 145 calories, makes it a good alternative to other low-calorie lunches.

Pizza's one significant nutritional limitation is the amount of sodium it contains. It isn't a good food for low-sodium diets because both mozzarella cheese and tomato sauce contain substantial amounts of sodium, and some pizzas contain added salt or other sodium-containing seasonings.

On the go with Joy

This week has finally got here. This is the time that I look forward to every year. The week that I claim that I am going to get down to the nitty gritty and get my Spring Housecleaning done, the garage cleaned out and the yard ready for gardening. You see the kids are out of school, the weather is going to be real nice (will, one out of ten years it is) and I'm in the mood. Well, I was 'til we got a 2 inch rain and now I'm knitting a sweater.

But I ran across an article by Judy Horton who is an Arkansas housewife that has a few thoughts similar to mine and probably has a family and house like mine, she says "I'm a no-till housekeeper."

Housecleaning is truly a hard dog to keep under the porch. I've always had too many farm chores to do to get down on the floor on my hands and knees with a scrub brush. My idea of housecleaning is to sell out and build a new one (Nobody would buy mine. It is fit to be condemned J.H.)

My lifelong dream is to hire a full-time, live-in maid who is crazy about work, but that will be about the time that roosters wear socks.

I think we had our brains caught in our zippers when we built our house in the first place. We should have pitched a tent.

I've even thought of ripping out the living room carpet and spreading pine shavings in its place. Then the floor would be completely maintenance free and at least it would smell better. If something spilled, all we would have to do is take the shovel and dip it up and throw it outside, or just let the dog in.

One day a month we play the refrigerator game. You open the door, take everything out, and try to guess what it once was.

My utility room smells like Bowser slept there, and on occasion she has, with a litter of new pups on a 10 degree night. In the past five years there have been lots of varmints in that room. My kids have had an owl, a rabbit, a hawk, kittens, frogs, turtles, a bobcat and a pig in there.

And one there was an uninvited snake that I stepped on. After my husband peeled me off the ceiling, we confirmed that it had slithered through a hole in the screen that the bill collectors made.

I'm scared of only three things: tornadoes, snakes and NBC canceling "Days of our Lives" before the plot ends. May it never end (Our family is Lisa addicts J.H.)

If I could operate a vacuum cleaner as good as I can a Massey Ferguson diesel, (our brand is John Deere, J.H.) I'd be in tall fescue. Sometimes when I'm driving the tractor, I don't know if it is the machinery squeaking or my husband screaming at me for going the wrong way or for some other ungodly reason. At Christmas I heard a rumor that I was going to get a new set of rings; it turned out to be for the tractor (I usually got mine on our anniversary J.H.)

I certainly don't have time to do windows, doors, or cabinets, or to wax floors (I got kitchen carpet, J.H.) Actually, I don't do much of anything inside. Maybe it is because I don't want to.

There is one advantage of having a filthy house: You don't have much company (except when people bring news items for the newspaper or parents come and in-laws etc. J.H.)

The ones that do visit don't stay long, and they don't dare scratch and sniff either)

The last time I swept and mopped it took me 2 days and that was just in the kitchen. The other day after I gutted everything out of three closets, my husband stuck his head in the back door and yelled "How high is the hayfield, Mama?" Well that just about knocked my "Farm Bureau" cap in the creek!

If this Chief Grub maker and Pot Scrubber is not out cleaning fence rows or hauling hay, she's gathering eggs in the laying house seven days a week. And always while I'm working, some fool passes by with a boat and trailer going to the lake (or snow skiing J.H.)

I guess I use all this as a good excuse. If we every sold out and moved to town (Heaven forbid) there would be no reason to avoid cleaning house.

While I might not be president of a big company, I do have some muscles on my arms that Popeye would envy (my muscles are located elsewhere J.H.) I don't believe I could stand a 9-5 job anyway, having a boss-hog breathing down my redneck all the time.

A farmer needs two wives, in my opinion. One to keep house and one to work on the farm (my husband disagrees-he can't feed but one. J.H.) I'd have to take the latter. You're not going to get aid for either job anyway.

I have only two requests when I die. Number one is when my obituary is written I want to be known as a farm wife instead of a frowzy housewife. Number two is that I be buried in my jeans, t-shirt and boots on. I might have to do a few chores when I get to that big farm in the sky! (My third request would be no housework either! J.H.)

Eight Wrestlers make state finals

At the Amarillo Civic Center an event took place that all of Gruver can be proud of. Eight out of our eleven state entries made it to the finals. Jace Dawson, Jason Ward and Brennan Johnson fought long and hard but failed to qualify. Our state finalists finished as follows: Div. I-60 lbs., Wylee Maupin, 5th; 60 lbs., Bailey Barkley, 2nd; Div. II-48 lbs., Skeeter French, 4th; 60 lbs., Ryon Atwood, 6th; Div. III-87 lbs., Trent Seagler, 1st; 70 lbs., J.J. Boese, 2nd; 94 lbs., Clint Bell, 3rd; and 70 lbs., Chad Brown, 6th.

Book Review

Welcome to Gruver City Library where you are invited to come in, browse around, and perhaps leave with one of our many new or all-time favorite good books! Each week we will highlight a new book, and then remind you of some of the titles that are available right here in your own library.

The Bridge Across Forever, by Richard Bach. In Johnathan Livingston Seagull, Richard Bach wrote about a seagull who practiced for a lifetime to begin to know the meaning of kindness and love.

In Illusions he wrote of a man surrounded by miracles, yet privately haunted by the ghost of a wise mystical lovely lady who lived just around a corner in time. The Bridge Across Forever is Bach's quest to find her, to learn of love and immortality not in the hereafter, but in the here and now. Yet caught in storms of wealth and success, disaster and betrayal, he abandons the search, and the walls he builds for protection become his prison. Then he meets the one brilliant and beautiful woman who can set him free, and with her begins a transforming journey, a magical discovery of love and joy. The Bridge Across Forever will thrill the millions of readers who loved Bach's other writings. It will also bring new readers into a remarkable world where, ready or not, dreams do come true!

"Hank the Cowdog" is going to Hollywood as a television star, and also in the hopes of upgrading children's programming. You can find "Hank" and his adventures in the Gruver Library along with many other selections for your reading pleasure!

"Taxing" was a registration for the purpose of assessing a poll tax. One registration was when the Roman emperor, Augustus, decreed it, and Joseph and Mary went to Bethlehem for that purpose, and Jesus was born there instead of in Nazareth.

"And Joseph also went up from . . . Nazareth . . . unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David) to be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife . . ." — Luke 2:4-5

Cub Scouts held Pinewood Derby

The Gruver Cub Scouts met Monday, Feb. 18, to have their annual Pinewood Derby. Rev. Dan Vanzant, Rev. Larry Miller and Rev. Kerry Hurst were the judges. After much discussion over the beautiful cars, the men made a hard choice. 1st place went to Kyle Deeds; 2nd place to T. D. Peters and 3rd place to Kevin Spivey.

The evening began at 6:00 p.m. with the cars being weighed in by Gary Evans. After the cars were judged for appearance, the races started at 6:30. The line judges were Gary Evans and Steve Gaines.

Brad Spivey was the announcer and Doug Frick kept the heat charts, which he so graciously drew up for the scouts. Roy Deeds was the Assistant Cubmaster for the evening.

As the evening progressed with exciting races, a free concession stand was enjoyed by all.

The winner of the first place trophy was Galen Slough; 2nd place was T. J. Bayless; and 3rd place was David Gilbert.

It was a wonderful evening that was enjoyed by all. Many thanks to everyone who helped make this evening possible.

We would also like to thank Michele Davis, Paramedic from Spearman, who came over Jan. 26 to our pack meeting to teach the boys about first aid. She showed them how to handle a choking victim, a rattlesnake bite, some CPR, and how to bandage and care for a cut.

The boys thoroughly enjoyed the evening with Michele. If one boy is able to save or help just one person, Michele's time was well spent. Thanks Michele.

Art Club Meeting

The Tri-City Porcelain Art Club met at La Dee's Collectibles in Berger Saturday, February 16 at the regular appointed time. A short business meeting was conducted with instructions being given to the delegates and others who plan to attend the State Convention in Ft. Worth in March.

At the close of the session, the members painted on bisque eggs for Easter under the instruction of the very capable Clara McDowell of Fritch. She displayed a large number of beautiful eggs she had painted demonstrating different patterns, colors and techniques suitable for this type of painting. Lunch was served by Jettie Davis and Athalie Traylor of Spearman to the following members: Betty Blankenship, Sheila Walker, Clara McDowell, Veta Alaway, Dee Carp, Elmyra McGarraugh, Kathleen Filkins, June Edwards, Doris June Pipkin, Delores Duncan, Corinne Getman and Mattie Grieb.
