

Egg Grading Program For Briscoe County

Mr. Floyd Beanblossom, Texas A. & M. College Extension Poultry Marketing Specialist speaks to a group of Briscoe County farmers and business men at the Quitaque Vocational Agriculture room Thursday night, the 12th of January. Mr. Beanblossom gave the group some background information about getting a graded egg program started in the County.

Mr. Beanblossom congratulated the group for first looking to the marketing end of the egg business. The problem at hand now will be moving graded eggs into consumer channels through a service medium that will have to operate on a small margin to start with until sufficient production is built up. Briscoe County farmers will need to have 20,000 hens to make a marketing system worthwhile. This would bring in and income of over $600,000.00 to the County in egg receipts. Graded markets are available now in Lubbock and Amarillo. Ninety percent of the eggs being consumed in the Texas Panhandle are being produced out of state. Minnesota eggs are the prime competitors.

Eggs are graded on weight and quality. A U.S. Department of Agriculture grader puts are official grades on the eggs at the market place and prices are set by these grades. Graded eggs have brought in Texas this year 36 to 40 percent more than current receipt eggs.

Beanblossom told the group that flock sizes of 300 and over should be considered. Flocks of 1000 layers make up a sufficient investment that proper care and management will be practiced all times. It is often the case that smaller flocks are not considered enough investment that the farmer doesn't realize enough from the flock to make him realize the need for proper care and management.

Thinking along a graded egg program for Briscoe County has been going on for some time. Anyone desiring further information should get in touch with the Farm Stores or County Agent Ledbetter.

Local Lions Club Set Tues., Jan. 24 As Clean-up Day

Members of the Quitaque Lions Club have set Tuesday, Jan. 24th as their Clean-up Day.

At the first of the year the club members decided to help give the city a neater appearance and encouraged the local citizens to clean and dispose of all trash and debris from around their homes and lots. With the cooperation of everyone concerned there should be very little work needed from the Lions, however they will attempt to clear away all weeds and trash that hasn't been touched by next Tuesday.

The group plans to meet at the Fire Station at 4 p.m. Tuesday and divide into working crews. Each crew will go to a different section of the city and burn off vacant lots and give the city a new look. They will have the city fire truck ready to make a call should anyone need the Fire Department's assistance.

At the Lions Club's next meeting, which will be Monday night, January 23rd, the members will make further plans to make the Clean-up Campaign a successful one.

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

FAYETTEVILLE, N.Y. EAGLE-BULLETIN: "Are a few dollars in federal aid (which you as a taxpayer, would pay in the first place) worth the sacrifice of the free educational system? Are a few dollars in federal aid worth learning from books and teaching standard established by a vast federal government that conscientiously or unconscientiously would include political thinking in its mandate?"

ANAHEIM, CALIF. BULLETIN: "It might be well for the public power forces to glance toward the State of Washington, long a citadel of their philosophy. Just recently the voters of Stevens county decisively rejected public power in favor of a private utility. The issue, briefly, was, should the private utility buy out the public utility district operations, or vice versa? The question of rates did not enter into the picture. It was strictly an ideological question—private enterprise vs. public control."

ALEDO, ILL. TIMES RECORD: "The combined CIO and AFL would be wise to see that they don't kill the goose that lays the golden egg. When factories shut down, strikes and wage demands seem pretty puny. If business suffers, labor will suffer even more."

LIFETIMES OF STUDY

One thing is sure about the practice of medicine—it is a field where education never ends—where the educational process must go on throughout the physician's entire active life.

That thought comes to mind on the reading agenda for American Medical Association's forthcoming clinical meeting in Boston.

The post-graduate education meeting is expected to be the largest ever held, with an attendance of 4,000. About 200 scientific papers and exhibits have been scheduled for presentation. Papers will be given in three lecture halls, offering the physician a wide variety of choice in subjects. Leading surgeons and obstetricians will be available for individual problem discussions. Closed circuit television programs, originating in a New England hospital, will bring live operations in color to the gathering place. More than 50 motion pictures will be shown. And there will be a technical exhibit with more than 150 displays.

This is a major event. But in its purpose and method it is certainly not unusual. All over the country physicians meet—on the regional, state, and local level—to discuss and to learn. And their educational pursuits are not limited to formal gatherings. The doctor, as his practice, keeping up with medical literature. For new horizons of knowledge are always being explored, and light cast into dark places.

Under our free system, doctors do this voluntarily—not because anyone forces them to. And the fruits are found in the fact that we have the highest standard of medical care of any major nation on earth.

The Truly Local Advertising Medium

"All business is local" is still a 100 per cent factual statement," says Editor & Publisher. "The sale has to be made at the local level. It takes the only truly local advertising medium—newspapers—to do the selling job."

The newspaper is the running history of its community. Its advertisements are read because they appear beside the news and other material that people are interested in. That's why, despite the growth of other forms of mass communication the local newspaper still tops the list.

Attic Insulating a Cinch For the Home Handyman

Insulating the attic is a job the do-it-yourself enthusiast can tackle without placing second-best to the professional.

So says the October issue of American Home magazine.

The first order of business is calculating the area to be insulated, says the magazine. Single most important measurement is the distance between studs. Any building material dealer can translate attic measurements into the amount of material needed. He'll provide batts or blankets of the appropriate width. Many dealers rent gun-type stapling machines.

Stapling is generally preferable to tacking. It is faster and more efficient.

Before installing insulation remember this—the vapor barrier, the impermeable side of the blanket, should always face the warm interior part of the house.

Begin by laying insulation between the studs, joists or rafters to be insulated. At the end of each insulated space, insure a tight closure by cutting off an inch of insulation, thus making the vapor barrier at this point serve as a flap that can be stapled down. Staple every six inches, keeping the vapor barrier flush with the room-side of the stud.

Tight fit is a key to effective insulation. When a new piece of insulation is to be applied, be sure Stapling mineral wool blankets is generally faster and more efficient than nailing.

It is snug against the insulation already in place.

In a pitched roof, provide a ventilated area above the insulation by attaching the insulation to the collar joists. The area above these joists should then be ventilated by louvers.

Mr. Cecil Payne has been on the sick list during the early part of this week.

Backyard Living Makes Rear Door A Decorating Key

Many home decorators today believe too little attention is given to the back door.

There was a time when the rear entrance was a mere architectural gesture to youngsters and tradespeople. But today, with growing emphasis on backyard living, and with so many living rooms being placed in the rear of the house, the rear door has become a decorating focal point, second in importance only to the front door.

These are some tips for the back door:

1. Choose a style that is in keeping with the architecture of the whole house. Ponderosa pine paneled doors are available in styles appropriate for all types of architecture, from Tudor to modern. They are treated with a chemical preservative which for all practical purposes prevents sticking and warping.

2. Paint the rear door the same accent color as the front door. As a focal point of interest, it should be colorful.

3. White is generally a poor door color if there are young children around. It's hard to maintain.

CHILDREN'S PICTURES TO BE TAKEN AT TURKEY JAN. 31

It is an undisputed fact that the responsibilities of tomorrow's world, our Nation, and Community will rest upon the shoulders of the children of today. Since this is true, the publishers of this newspaper would like to give you a good look at these future "World Builders".

The only way we can do this is by publishing pictures of them in a feature series. To assure the latest and best reproduction pictures... they must all be of uniform size and quality... we have invited the Woltz Studios of Des Moines, Iowa, a nationally known portrait studio, to take these special pictures for us.

An expert children's photographer for the Studio's, with all the necessary equipment for this specialized work will be here Tuesday, January 31. Pictures will be taken at the newspaper office and will be open from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

No Charge to Parents

There is no charge to the parents. There are absolutely no strings to this invitation. It is bonafide in every sense of the word. Parents do not have to be subscribers, nor even readers of this newspaper, to take advantage of this feature. Neither are they obligated to purchase pictures.

The Enterprise simply wants pictures of all the youngsters and the more, the better. So the Mothers and Fathers of the community in which this paper circulates should remember the date January 31 at the newspaper office and not to fail to bring their children to the photographer.

You will be mighty glad, afterwards, if you did not, and very very sorry if you did not permit your children to participate in this event. The kiddies will have much fun and both Mother and Dad — and the youngsters, too — will be very proud to see their pictures in print later.

Vic Vet says

VETERANS WITH GI LOANS CAN MAKE EXTRA PAYMENTS TO THEIR LENDERS AT ANY TIME OR CAN PAY OFF THE ENTIRE LOAN WITHOUT PENALTY CHARGE

For full information contact your nearest VETERANS ADMINISTRATION office

Only eligible GI insurance policyholders who wish to change the method of payment for the regular annual 1956 dividend are required to notify Veterans Administration of the payment method desired, VA said today.

Those who wish to receive their 1956 dividend in the same manner as in the past are not required to notify VA of that fact because their previous payment method will be applied automatically.

For those who fail to stipulate in writing how they wish their regular dividends to be handled, VA is required by law to set up a dividend credit to their insurance account and to use this credit to pay premiums as they become due and are not otherwise timely paid.

Unused dividend credits will draw interest compounded annually until they are withdrawn by the policyholder or are paid out at the maturity of the policies in conformance with the policyholders' wishes.

All eligible policyholders also may request VA in writing to pay their regular dividends to them in cash or to apply the dividends in payment of future premiums.

Permanent plan policyholders have one more choice. They may request VA in writing to place their regular dividends on deposit drawing interest compounded annually and subject to their control.

Payments to eligible policyholders will be made after the anniversary date of each policy, beginning this month and ending in December, 1956. Accounts for veterans living in Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi are maintained in the VA District Office at Denver, Colorado.

HOME OWNERS' QUESTION BOX

Q—Is there any way to remove squeaks from stairs?

A—Yes, usually one or more nails through the tread into the riser will stop the squeaking. Screws will do a more permanent job.

Q—How can I replace old windows and still maintain the authenticity of an early-American house?

A—Ponderosa pine double hung windows come in a wide variety of different styles. Among these are a number of early-American type windows, with small "multi-paned" panes. All ponderosa pine windows are chemically treated to keep them from sticking and warping.

Q—How can I prevent cold water pipes from "sweating"?

A—Cover them with insulation. Insulating warm water pipes gives another benefit. It prevents heat loss and protects adjacent wood-work.

Q—The lights in my kitchen occasionally dim. What does this

A—This probably means there is not enough electricity coming into the kitchen. When the lights dim, this indicates that an appliance is taking some of the electricity needed for keeping the lights bright. The remedy is to have an electrician install an additional electric circuit in the kitchen.

Q—Is there any reason a thermostat must always be in the living room? I'd like to move mine somewhere else, where it won't be so noticeable.

A—The room that is most frequently occupied by the family is recommended by the Coleman Heating and Air Conditioning Institute, Wichita, Kan. The living room, dining room, or den might be equally satisfactory places. The thermostat should be at least two feet away from an outside wall and not more than four feet above the floor. Don't put it in the kitchen, for heat from the range or oven might affect it. Keep it away from lamps, the radio, or the television set.

Fertilizer — The Dirt Farmer's "Secret Weapon"

Better Order it Now!

The farmer who makes his living from the soil is the man who best knows what good fertilizer means to him in dollars and cents. It's his "secret weapon".

He also knows how important it is to start his cropping operations the moment spring weather lets him get going, which means he wants his fertilizer on hand — no waiting for deliveries from suppliers, no delays in planting.

It's darn good management to get your fertilizer supplies ahead of time, says the Agricultural Service Division of Union Bag & Paper Corporation — makers of multiwall paper bags for fertilizer. And this simple bit of good farm sense is echoed by every shrewd farmer in the country.

Suggesting you get it well in advance doesn't imply there's any shortage. It's just that many farmers wait till the last minute to order fertilizer, and it's physically impossible for the manufacturers to crowd into a few weeks all the fertilizer needs of the country. Result: Delays in shipping—delay that can waste days and ev-weeks. Ordering it now is just good sense.

There is no problem in storing fertilizer. Simply keep it in a dry, well-ventilated place off the ground, and off concrete, if the concrete floor is in direct contact with the ground. To avoid undue compression, it's best not to pile bags more than six or seven high. Yessir, "on the farm storage"—getting your plant food supplies advanced—is just smart "farm management".

SAN ANGELO — General Telephone Company of the Southwest employees were back on their jobs last week after a six-day strike throughout the Company's five-state territory ended with the signing of a new contract between General and the Communications Workers of America last Friday (Jan. 6).

The new contract which will be in force 15 months, includes the following major changes over the old contract.

1. Wage increases totaling $175,000 annually which, when added to the wage adjustment granted in November, 1955 result in an hourly increase per employee equivalent to the wage increases received throughout the telephone industry.

2. Different plant areas for wage schedules were established.
The number of traffic and commercial areas for wage schedule purposes were reduced.

3. Increases in the board and lodging allowances for unlocated construction personnel of $1 per week.

4. Increases from 75 per cent to 100 per cent in on-the-job injury benefits.

A Company spokesman said the new contract is substantially the same as that which was offered by the company prior to the strike. He estimated employees not working lost $25,000 per day in wages during the strike.

The strike started at midnight
December 31 when the former Union-Company contract was terminated by the Union. It was the first authorized Company-wide strike in the history of the Company.

And never remember coming
