Clara Barton on Woman Suffrage.

A letter from Clara Barton has been given to the press, which may be of interest to many, as coming from one who has devoted her life to the service of her country, which, in turn, refuses her any voice in choosing those who are to rule over its destinies.

"I believe I must have been born believing in the full right of woman to all the privileges and positions which nature and justice accord to her in common with other human beings. Perfectly equal rights—human rights. There never was any question in my mind in regard to this. I did not purchase my freedom with a piece; I was born free; and when, as a younger woman, I heard the subject discussed, it seemed ridiculous that any sensible, sane man should question it. And when, later, the phase of woman's right to suffrage came up, it was to me only a part of the whole, just as natural, just as right, and just as certain to take place.

"And whenever I have been urged, as a petitioner, to ask for this privilege for woman, a kind of dazed, bewildered feeling has come over me.

"Of whom should I ask this privilege? Who possessed the right to confer it? Who had a greater right than woman herself? Was it man, and if so, where did he get it? Who conferred it upon him? He depended upon woman for his being, his very existence, nurture, and rearing.

"Was it government? What were they but the voice of the people? What gave them their power? Was it divinely conferred? Alas, no; or they would have been better, purer, more just and stable.

"Was it force of arms—war? Who furnished the warriors? Who but the mothers? Who reared their sons and taught them that liberty and their country were worth their blood? Who gave them up, wept their fall, nursed them in suffering and mourned them dead?

"Was it labor? Women have

SONG: "THE BEAUTY OF THE WEST."

BY ONE OF THE BOYS.

From Indiana I started, to find
I heard of a distant country, a country sublime;
A land of milk and honey, and water of the best
They call this land, wild Texas, the Beauty of the West.
I landed in Kansas City, but didn't like the town,
The streets, they were narrow, and muddy was the ground;
I went into a hotel, and marked upon my chest
I am going to wild Texas, the Beauty of the West.
I went on board a R. R., M. K. & T. by name,
She stopt at Henrietta, then I changed cars again,
When I got in Iowa Park, I stopped there for to rest,
I was in wild Texas, the Beauty of the West.
Right here in Wichita county, some people grunt and growl
But I pay no attention to the professional howl;
It's true, some years are drouthy and people will be test,
If they are fit for Texas, the Beauty of the West.
The soil of Wichita county cannot well be beat
A little irrigation is only what we need,
Then Iowa Park be in it, so will the German band
And both will stay in Texas, the ten-month summer land.
They talk in eastern countries about the cool west,
They only make a living their landlord's take the rest;
That I'm a Single Taxer, I honestly confess
Against all land monopoly, which drove me to the west.
The Park boys are all clever, the Park girls are kind,
I scarcely think of—the girl I left behind;
The girls of wit, and beauty and temper of the best,
Are the girls of this wild Texas, the Beauty of the West.
The Texas girls are smart, the Texas girls are sly,
I'll marry me a Texas girl, I'll batch it not or die,
I believe in equal freedom for one and every man,
In all that God has made for him, deny this if you can.

Iowa Park, Texas.

always, as a rule, worked harder than men. Was it capital? Women has furnished her share up to the present hour. Who then, can give the right and on what basis. Who can withhold it?

"In regard to my nationality I was born in the old Huguenot town of Oxford, Mass., U. S. A. My father and mother were born there. My grandfathers and granemothers, with two exceptions, were born, lived died and was buried there.

"There is, once in a while, a monarch who denies the right of man to place a crown upon his head. Only the great Jehovah can crown and anoint him for his work, and he reaches out, takes the crown, and places it upon his head with his own hand. I suspect that this is in effect what woman is doing today. Virtually there is no one to give her the right to govern herself, as men govern themselves, by self made and self-approved laws of the land. But in one way or another, sooner or later she is coming to it. And the number of thoughtful and right minded men who will oppose, will be much smaller than we think; and when it is really an accomplished fact, all will wonder, as I have done, what the objection ever was."

G. S. Withey is in town from his ranch in Hutchinson county. Says he and Bert Ketchum have a good time out there, ten miles from any woman, doing their own cooking, washing, punching and nearly everything day entertaining some straggling brother cowman.

Will Harrell, now a rancher in Collinsworth county, is, with his wife, visiting parents here.

Mr. T. J. Johnson returned last night from a five weeks cattle trip to Kansas.
