Governor Dolph Briscoe Calls on Texas Motorists to Drive Carefully Over 4th

Governor Dolph Briscoe called on Texas motorists to exercise special caution over the Fourth of July weekend and to observe the 55 mph speed limit. Noting the predicted death increase, Governor Briscoe said his office has implemented a well rounded media campaign to help make drivers more aware of the dangers of holiday driving. "Besides this heavy media use, increased enforcement of traffic laws will be evident. We also urge the motorist to make use of the many rest stops provided by the Jaycees and by the Texas Highway Department," said Briscoe.

Briscoe went on to say it was most important for drivers to volunteer to drive with care. He said 46 people were killed over the holiday last year and the number will likely increase over this next Fourth. "Texas reflects leadership in many areas, but we continually accept the deaths of over 3,000 people each year on the streets and highways of this State. Two hundred years after the beginning of the American Revolution, traffic accidents have become a greater threat to American lives than were the British guns in 1775. Therefore, I continue to urge your assistance to drive carefully and avoid this needless killing.

"I simply ask one thing. Please, take the extra time during this holiday period to be careful, slow down and enjoy the holiday and let's work toward a fatality free Fourth. Use the free rest stops during extended driving and know your limits of alcohol. Speeding also increases the opportunity for a crash. So by observing the law, resting and reduced drinking, the probability of a safe trip can be increased," concluded Briscoe.

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y.—If it was any more perfect, we couldn't stand it! The weather has been perfect, the fishing is great, the meals have been wonderful.

Lynn, Frances and their three kids arrived on Sunday night and came into the woods the next day. On Tuesday, Lynn, Jack and I went to Cold Brook and, despite reports that the fishing was poor, we caught our limit of trout.

Earlier, after Jack and I had camp comfortable and wood cut for two or three days, he, my wife and I went to Osetah Pond for bass. It was the first day of the season, June 21.

We caught two or three perch and a Punkinseed, all of which we returned to the water. No bass. Suddenly I had a strike. I set the hook and I knew I had a big one. It fought hard and I could hear the gears on the Zebco strip from time to time.

The fish turned docile and I continued to reel in until it got about 15 feet from the boat. When he saw it, he broke water for the first time. It was big.

He dove for the bottom and I kept the pressure on, while Jack grabbed the net and got ready. He fought like crazy as he neared the boat, until Jack got the net under him. It turned out to be a 30-inch Northern Pike, about three inches thick through the back and in the 4-pound class.

Later, Jack hooked a pretty good sized bass, but it spit the hook before he could get it to the boat. Nobody caught anything the rest of the afternoon, but one big pike was enough.

We already had eaten dinner and were on our way in to watch the All America game on TV, so we left the pike on the stringer, which meant at some 1 a.m., I had to clean and scale him. I did that, wrapped him in Saran wrap and put it on ice in the cooler.

The next day I poured bacon fat on the pike, salted and peppered it, poured yellow corn meal over it and then wrapped the fish in heavy duty aluminum foil. I rolled the ends of the foil up tight and placed it on top of the grill.

The maple wood fire I kept at a good heating height, with potatoes wrapped in foil baking in the coals and good butter beans in a pot simmering low on top of the grill. About an hour later, it was all ready and what a dinner that was!

Like everyone else, I had mixed emotions about the game. I wanted the West to win, but I didn't want Steve Sloan to lose. As it turned out, I couldn't have both.

It was a good game for the TV audience, even though two touchdowns were lost due to telephone line trouble. They were shown on replay later, of course. It was a game of big plays, and both teams gave excellent efforts, which was apparent.

Jack and I watched the game from Little Joe's Bar, a bistro on main street that was not well attended that night. On the walls were pictures of a boxer and many baseball players. Joe was or is, a sports fan, and he spent a lot of time talking with us.

One of his good friends is Ernie Stautner, former Steeler and now a coach with the Dallas Cowboys. He kept telling Jack and me to be sure and go up to Ernie, if we ever saw him, and tell him "hello" from Little Joe in Saranac Lake. We promised we would.

Getting back to the game, the East appeared to get better breaks, but if that offense is a sample of what Texas Tech fans can expect from Steve Sloan, it should be exciting this fall.

The coaches did a good job in the short time that they had and Grant Teaff's team could easily have won. It was good entertainment for the fans. And the crowd looked magnificent! At one point Little Joe asked how many fans were there and we said over 40,000.

"Over 40,000!" he exclaimed. "Why, that's more than six times as big as this town!" And he couldn't get over the size of Lubbock, either.

When it was over, it was up the river by the light of a full moon and a flashlight to show up the bouys, clean the pike and hit the sack. Sunday we all slept late, of course.

Early in the afternoon, as Jack and I were taking my wife to town, we ran into Jim Whitelaw, who was on his way in to fish Pine Pond. I told him we'd be back soon and he told me to wave when I was ready to go fishing with him.

Before we could turn around, Jim had caught a Red Salmon. He rowed over to show it to us. The top of the back was blackish and the sides a beautiful silver. He said that it was a 3-year old fish and about two feet long.

Later, after I had joined him, I caught one about four inches shorter, which he said was two years old. He didn't give much fight until he saw the boat and then he acted.

Fishing for salmon is a patience type of thing. Jim rowed the small homemade boat and we both trailed about 40 or 50 yards of mono line. On the end were "Lake Clear Wabblers", about which I've written before.

There are two types: one all silver and the other silver on one side, bronze on the other. Both are like melon slices that are curved and about three inches of short leader trailing a No. 10 hook, baited with a worm.

We both had other weak strikes. Jim lost one earlier, long before it came near the boat, and I lost one that came within 10 or 15 feet. Neither time did they break the surface and both times they spit the hook without our feeling it happen.

Since then we have been out for salmon only once and without the wabblers, since the night crawlers we bought died. I had no luck with artificial lures, either Rooster Tails or flies.

Before we got here, they told us it was raining every day. So far (as of last Friday) there has been no rain, the weather has been in the upper 70s or low 80s and the mountains have been crystal clear.

The nights have been great, too, down in the low 40s twice and generally in the low 50s. It's good sleeping temperatures without being uncomfortable. I'm still not used to the humidity, though, and much of the walking is uphill, which winds me.

Tomorrow we plan to go back to Cold Brook and take the East branch, which is narrow, shallow and warmer water. It's not as much fun fishing, but there are some beaver ponds I never have seen and they say that they are loaded with trout.

In a few minutes I'll be headed back to camp. I'll pick up Lynn and the women and let them have a shot at bass fishing. I hope they do well. Conditions are good, because there's just a light breeze and it's been some time since we've had rain. Here's hoping!

TOPS

It always happened the same way, one person would bring his top to school with him one day. That would trigger it and the next day the school grounds would be literally covered with kids playing tops. The tops were made of wood then and could be bought in any dime store for a few cents. There were different shapes and sizes with different types of points. Some had sharp points and some had round points that resembled balls. A string came with them with a knot in one end and a loop in the other. The loop was usually removed and a button or coke lid was used in its place to hold the string between your fingers.

The game was usually played by drawing a circle on the ground about three feet in diameter. Stakes were placed in the ring by each player. The stakes were small objects or trinkets, such things as bottle caps, buttons, marbles, steel balls and sometimes even coins if the teacher wasn't looking. Tops were spun into the ring to try and knock out the stakes (you won as many as you could knock out). When a top quit spinning, it usually rolled out of the ring but not always. The rule was that no player could reach into the ring to retrieve his top, it had to be bought out by placing more stakes into the ring or knocked out by another top. If another player knocked your top out he had the option of keeping it, if he was a rat; giving it back, if he was a really good friend; or selling it back to you for stakes, if he was like most. The game ended with recess, the winner easily recognized because of his bulging pockets full of stakes.

The games sometimes got wild because the tops were thrown very hard. It was a favorite thing among some to try to split their opponent's top if it got stuck in the ring. This was done by throwing the top hard enough and hitting the other top just right, splitting it right down the middle. I knew a guy once that really enjoyed breaking other's tops. He had a giant top called a "Lumberjack". It was so big he had to use some trout line for a cord. To make matters worse he drilled out the center and poured it full of lead. With that top he was the terror of the school ground.

Kids usually changed the looks of their tops in some way. Designs were sometimes painted on them. Points were filed to different shapes. One boy I knew drilled two holes through his and when it spun it made a whistling sound. I ruined two good tops trying to get one to do that.

Tops were fun to play with and fun to watch. It was one game where size and strength didn't matter. It was truly a game in which all could compete and for the price of just a few old bottle caps at that.

Eight Shallowater Girls Return from Western Texas College Basketball Camp

Eight girls from Shallowater returned home Friday night from attending basketball camp at Western Texas College in Snyder, where they stayed in the girl's dorms and reported a very enjoyable week of training in basketball.

Out of the eight girls who attended, four of them were on the all star team, and four out of the eight received merit certificates out of only seventy girls who were attending the camp.

Making the all star Class A team were Melissa Cox, Kathy Hohertz and Sharon Howell. Lesa Gates made the all star Double A and Triple A team.

Melissa Cox was awarded a certificate for the best offensive player on her team. Lesa Gates received a certificate for the best defensive player on her team, and Dee Ann Cobb, Maureen Pair and Kathy Hohertz were presented a certificate for determination and hustling on their team.

The girls played in tournament Friday evening at the close of the camp.

Those going to the playoffs from Shallowater and to return the group home were, Mrs. Charles Hohertz, Mrs. Sue Pair, Mrs. Kay Pair, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cox and Jordan, Terri Stanton and Beverly Pair.

The eight girls attending the week's activities were Melissa Cox, Dee Ann Cobb, Lesa Gates, Kathy Hohertz, LaDonna Pair, Jana DuLaney, Sharon Howell and Maureen Pair.

Baby Shower Honors Mrs. Charles Coats

Mrs. Newman Lusk and daughter, Cindy, were hostesses in their home Saturday afternoon beginning at 3 p.m., for a baby shower honoring Mrs. Charles (Rita) Coats. Co-hostess was Mrs. Martha Rhodes.

Pastel colors of green and yellow were carried out in decorations. The serving table was centered with a tall stork, carrying a miniature baby in his bill. White and yellow flowers completed the decor.

Corsages of tiny baby rattlers, enhanced with flowers were presented the honoree and honored guests, Mrs. B.C. Coats and Mrs. Melford Carthel of Lockney. Other special guests included the honoree's sisters, Mrs. Lonnie Lotur from Pampa and Mrs. Archie Bybee of Lockney and Mr. Coats' sisters, Mrs. Kenneth Swanner and daughter Pamie of Lubbock, Mrs. C.W. Perser, Dianne and Debra of Shallowater.

Other out of town guests registering were Mesdames Dale Setliff, Lois Bedwell, Gladys Offield, Nita Senter, T.I. Loter, Jimmy Howell, all of Plainview; Myra Booth, Lubbock; Mrs. Annie Cunningham, Miss Carolyn Cunningham, Mrs. Delwin Bybee, stephanie and Shander, Mrs. M.C. Cook, all of Lockney and Mrs. J.L. Burnett of Levelland.

Dainty fingerprint cookies, punch and mints were served to the 52 guests who signed the guests book.

It's always easy to stand on the sidelines and criticize the players.

Historic 156-Year-Old Engraving of Declaration Displayed at Library

The George and Helen Mahon Library in Lubbock is the stage for a very special bicentennial guest—an elaborate engraving published by John Binns of Philadelphia in 1819. It was a special attraction 156 years ago as well, because up until 1818 the American public had not seen the Declaration of Independence as a handwritten document with its great variety of interesting autographs. It had appeared only in print, in broadsides and newspapers. Now, the public would be given the chance to see how it looked in writing. It would be done the hard way, since modern copying processes had not been developed.

Quoting Dumas Malone's "The Story of the Declaration of Independence": "In 1816 John Binns, publisher of The Democratic Press in Philadelphia and an Irishman by birth, announced his intention of issuing an engraved copy of the charter with signatures, but a professional penman, Benjamin Owen Tyler, got ahead of him. Tyler copied the Declaration and imitated the signatures. This engraving was published in 1818. John Binns got his own engraving on the market next year." The latter was much more artistic and elaborate. The text and signatures of the Binns print were surrounded by seals of the states, drawn by famous artist Thomas Sully, while pictures of Washington, Hancock and Jefferson adorned the top.

With what awe did an admiring public look on this sacred document in 1819? It was indeed a work of art, a massive cooperplate engraving, made three years before steel engraving was introduced. It is hoped that the West Texas public will enjoy half so much the original and authentic print now on display in Lubbock. It, too, has a romantic history. Lubbock architect, Deane Pierce, bought it at an auction in Copenhagen, Denmark, some ten years ago, on commission for Briercroft Savings and Loan. Thus, this rare memento of the Declaration of Independence became the first major artifact in the Briercroft collection, which now numbers scores of original objects of Early America.

The Binns print is prominently displayed immediately west of the main check out desk of the Mahon Library. A special signing desk has been prepared so that viewers may sign their own reaffirmation of the Declaration of Independence throughout the remainder of 1975 and 1976.

A 2000 foot roll of parchment paper inside the signing desk will accommodate the signatures and will, in turn, be preserved for posterity in the vault at Briercroft Savings and Loan. The print will be on loan to the library through July 4, 1976.

For more information on the Briercroft collection, call Ford Mitchell, 747-5181; or write to Box 6190, Lubbock, Texas 79413.

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton

What are you doing with your time? How many times do you wish that you had more hours in the day? The Bible has much to say about time. Read these and see if your time corresponds. Psalm 34:1, "I will bless the Lord at all times". Psalm 106:3, "Blessed are they that keep judgment, and he that doeth righteousness at all times." Psalm 62:8, "Trust in him at all times; ye people pour out your heart before him; God is a refuge for us." I Peter 1:17b, "pass the time of your sojourning here in reverence." Col. 4:5, "Walk in wisdom toward them that are without, redeeming the time." Eph. 5:16, "Redeeming the time, because the days are evil." Romans 13:11, "and that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep; for now is our salvation nearer than when we first believed."

We as Christian believers are responsible unto God in regards to the way we use our time. We can really have the "time of our life" if we have given our lives, plus our hours, to the Father's kingdom.

What this country needs is good people and you can do your part along this line.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin—Gov. Dolph Briscoe's veto of 136 college building projects (which he estimated would cost more than $1 billion) may be the subject of a court case.

University of Texas Board of Regents Chairman Allan Shivers said UT regents will defy the veto and go ahead with at least two of the rejected projects.

Shivers claims the veto is unconstitutional. He said the attorney general long ago held the governor cannot veto appropriations bill riders which do not call for specific expenditures.

The chairman further contends that UT projects will be financed with constitutional funds which cannot be controlled by an act of the legislature.

Briscoe maintains that UT, like other schools, must get College Coordinating Board approval of its construction projects under a new law—or specific legislative approval. He vetoed the projects, in the first place, because he interpreted them as an effort to bypass the new statute by a subterfuge prior legislative approval through the appropriations riders.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock has indicated he will approve none of the UT building project vouchers in controversy without an attorney general's opinion. It has been hinted regents may seek a declaratory judgement in court to uphold their position.

Campaign Begins

Campaign for adoption of the proposed new state constitution November 4 already is shaping up.

Former Texas Supreme Court Chief Justice Robert W. Calvert will lead the drive for voter support.

Top officials who are supporting the new charter include Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, House Speaker Bill Clayton, Attorney General John Hill and Supreme Court Chief Justice Joe Greenhill.

Governor Briscoe did not attend the initial meeting to kick off campaign plans. He made clear later that he has not made up his mind whether or not to support the revision. He has never been a supporter of annual legislative sessions, Briscoe reminded. The new constitution would provide for annual legislative sessions. It also would broaden powers of the governor considerably.

Committee Recesses

A House committee studying possible impeachment proceedings against 229th District Judge O. P. Carrillo recessed until July 9 to allow its staff time to catalogue evidence.

Chairman Rep. De Witt Hale of Cropus Christi said he is hopeful the committee will complete its work and vote on its recommendations by August.

If the committee recommends impeachment, the House will convene three weeks later to hear the case. Should the House vote articles of impeachment, the Senate then must "try" the case. A two-thirds majority would be necessary to impeach.

Courts Speak

The State Supreme Court upheld an intermediate court judgement dissolving an injunction by Judge O. P. Carrillo against oil operations on the Clinton Manges Duval County ranch.

The Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed a life sentence given a Laredo rancher in the 1972 shooting of five Mexican aliens on his ranch.

A $535,866 judgement for a truck driver who was disabled when he ran into a train on a foggy night was upheld by the Supreme Court.

An Austin district judge stopped Austin and Dallas commercial colleges from enrolling new students until they refund $230,000 in tuitions to former students. The judge also restrained an Indiana truck driving school from violations of the property school act.

Attorney General Opinions
