

City Council Hears Bond Application Status

Shallowater Residents Seek Shelter from Weather

Residents of Shallowater made a dash for shelter Wednesday night when the siren warning sounded the alarm that a tornado was reported near Shallowater around 8:30 p.m.

Members of the fire department police and civil defense were observing the ominous clouds southwest of the city when the tornado was sighted in the clouds and the warning was given.

This group is to be commended for their interest in the community by watching cloud formations that appear, in order to alert residents when danger of severe weather exists.

Residents seeking shelter from a cloud are advised that the basement at the community building is always open to the public during severe weather and the entrance is on the east side of the building.

Remember the siren warning of an approaching tornado is three blasts. When this sounds, please seek shelter, as a tornado is approaching.

After the danger from the cloud has passed, the siren will blow one long blast to let residents know that the cloud has passed and it is safe to return to your homes.

An ordinance authorizing the sale of bonds passed by Shallowater voters in November, 1974, and a resolution designating the First State Bank of Shallowater as the repository holding the bonds in escrow was passed by the city council in a Monday night meeting.

At that meeting the council also discussed purchasing a city building, the police chief's request for training reserve police officers, and a private citizen's complaints against the police department and a newly elected council member.

The purchase of $200,000 in bonds by the Farmers Home Administration currently is contingent upon that agency's approval of the city's application. Shallowater's application is being handled by a Dallas firm specializing in bond counseling. Monday night, Mack Ed Swindle, the city's attorney, read a letter to the council from the Dallas firm which said that the "city should proceed with authorization of the bonds."

The bonds will be put up for sale within 45-60 days after the FHA accepts the application.

The $200,000 generated by the sale will be used to build a ground storage reservoir and water lines for the city. Monday night, Tony Plumlee, a consulting engineer for the city, told the council that they "were looking at about another two weeks before we start instructions to bidders. They've (FHA) already given us the go ahead on it."

In an interview with the Suburban Today, Plumlee said the FHA main office "gave us unofficially the word that we can put this (the bids) out in two to three weeks." The engineer said, however, that the city would have to ask for alternate bids since prices for construction have risen over the original estimate two years ago.

Plumlee said that the bid will include prices on a concrete storage tank and a secondary alternate price on a galvanized bolted tank.

An additional $100,000 from the bond issue has been set aside for construction of sewer lines in the city. Construction on the lines has been delayed pending approval by the Environmental Protection Agency which will grant matching money, and the Texas Water Quality Control Board, who must approve the project. Plumlee said the Water Board sets priorities on grants which go to cities across the state and Shallowater has not yet made the list. Since construction costs have increased, the city will need to ask the EPA for additional moneys once the project is approved, he said.

"We're just crossing our fingers on it."

Mack Ed Swindle told the Suburban Today that it "looks as though everything has been approved" by the Dallas bond counselors. The attorney said he "would anticipate a couple of months" before the bonds are put up for sale.

The city council also passed a resolution designating the First State Bank as the repository holding the bonds in escrow once they are placed for sale.

A police chief request that the city finance training of reserve police officers was tabled until newly elected council members read the Brownfield ordinance which established a similar force for that city.

According to discussion in the meeting, the police chief requested that the council approve training the reserve officers to ride with the night police officer for safety reasons. The city would finance the training, and the officers would volunteer their time.

Council member Joe Cox reported that he talked to the Brownfield city manager about that city's program and said the city used the auxiliary policemen to help direct traffic. Cox suggested that should the city decide to finance the training, the council retain approval over who takes it. The council member said he had spoken with members of a reserve unit in the City of Idalou and reported that they talked "about how many people they run out of town at night."

In other action, the city discussed the need for a storage building to protect city owned equipment from vandalism.

The council also decided to ask a private citizen who contends the police department harassed his son, to submit a written complaint to the council. Should he do so, the council will authorize a special session to hear the complaint and the department's reply. The same citizen contends that council member Danny Jones "tore down" a political sign posted in his yard during the recent campaign. Jones denied the allegation in the Monday night meeting.

Clinton Vardeman Elected President of South Plains EMA

Clinton Vardeman, a Shallowater graduate and son of Mrs. Carl Vardeman, was elected president of the newly formed South Plains Emergency Medical Association at a meeting of the group at Lubbock Christian College.

Other officers named were Don Nickson of Lorenzo, vice president; Pat Dodson of Abernathy, treasurer; Bonnie Jackson, recording secretary; Dan Finley, corresponding secretary and David West, parliamentarian.

The association was organized to provide a forum for the exchange of ideas among emergency medical technicians in the South Plains area. Programs will be aimed at improving emergency medical technicians' skills, learning new techniques of emergency care and to encourage positive legislative programs for emergency medical service.

Membership is limited to persons certified by the Texas Department of Health Resources as emergency medical technicians. Meetings will be held at 7 p.m. the second Tuesday of each month at LCC.

Outgoing Council Members

Honored with Dinner Thursday

Mayor and Mrs. Jack DuLaney were hosts to members of the City Council at a dinner Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Gridiron Restaurant in Lubbock, honoring the outgoing members, C.E. Pair and Philip Gerig.

The head table was covered with a white cloth, centered with a lovely floral arrangement of yellow spider mums and white daisies.

The invocation was given by councilman W.A. "Dub" Hardin, who was re-elected to a two year term on Place III.

Words of appreciation were expressed by the council members for their work together on the council.

President for the event were the DuLaneys, City Secretary Jessie Lee Vance, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Mosbey, Mr. and Mrs. W.A. Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Cox and the honorees, Mr. and Mrs. E.C. Pair and Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gerig.

EMT Program

Needs Volunteers

The Emergency Medical Technicians program is in urgent need of persons to volunteer to take the EMT course which will begin a summer session on May 10. The course will last for 16 weeks at Lubbock Christian College.

A total of twelve persons are needed to complete the course so that Shallowater may have an ambulance stationed here.

There are four or five people that have already completed their training and that many have signed up for the May 10 session, but more are needed.

If you would like to participate in this program, please call Richard Hopson, J.D. Young, or call the city hall at 832-4521. The tuition fee is paid by the City of Shallowater.

Band Contests Approaching

by Mrs. G.W. Gates, Jr.
The Shallowater Mustang Band has a very busy week ahead. April 28 and 29 they will be participating in contests. The contest that determines Sweepstake bands will be at Abernathy this year. The contest is April 28 in the Abernathy High School Auditorium, and the Shallowater Mustang band is scheduled to play at 10 a.m. Other bands play before and after our band so there is a chance to hear a great deal of good band music.

Our Mustang band is a great representative of our school and they need our support. Students in the band program appreciate spectators as much as those in the athletic programs.

Mark your calendar now and make plans to be in the Abernathy High School Auditorium April 28 at 10 a.m. to support the band and see them bring another Sweepstake trophy home.

April 29 the band will be traveling to Amarillo to take part in the Greater Southwest Music Festival. This contest will be held in the Amarillo Caprock High School Auditorium and our band is scheduled to play at 1:40 p.m. The band leaves Shallowater about 9 a.m. and will be returning early evening April 29.

The public is invited to both contests so all parents and interested persons are welcome.

Remember, make plans now and we will see you at Abernathy, Wednesday, April 28, and possibly at Amarillo on April 29 to hear some very good band music.

George Wallace hands television viewers a choice in the May 1 Democrat presidential primary. Wallace was in Lubbock last week to solicit votes for his campaign.

During his brief Lubbock visit, the governor of Alabama appeared at a local television studio to tape an interview program. He dismissed statements that he was out of the presidential race, claiming he had received the second highest popular vote total in the Democrat primaries so far.

George Wallace also said the best way to cut down on crime was to jail criminals. In response to questions about the similarity between his and Ronald Reagan's views, Wallace said that people running for president were coming around to what he had been saying over the years.

Emergency Medical Services Committee Appointed by County Hospital District

An advisory committee for Emergency Medical Services (EMS) System was appointed Monday by the board of managers of Lubbock County Hospital District.

The advisory group, to coordinate work of community agencies and improve service, includes five members from EMS stations within the county. They are J.D. Young of Shallowater, Jose Rosales of Wolfforth, Alex Webb of Slaton, Tim Ward of Idalou and Larry Fields of Abernathy.

Others on the committee are Bill Payne, Lubbock Civil Defense; Dr. Leslie Ansley, Lubbock-Crosby-Garza County Medical Society; Maj. C.W. Bell, Texas Department of Public Safety; Capt. Jack Thomas, Lubbock Police Department; Dr. Royce Lewis, American Trauma Society; Mrs. Bonnie Jackson, Lubbock Christian College; and Chief Deputy Albert Smith, Lubbock County Sheriff's Office.

Harold P. Coston, executive director of Lubbock County Hospital District, reported progress in the emergency power generating system for Health Sciences Center Hospital and the Texas Tech University School of Medicine. He stated that the hospital staff has been able to remove 860 KVA's from the possible emergency load, and that if the medical school can help remove 202 more while keeping the building within code restrictions, an additional emergency generator will not be needed.

Honor Society at Tech Names First Male Member

The Texas Tech chapter of Mortar Board, previously an all-female senior honor society, accepted its first male member after nineteen years as a chapter of a nationally recognized service organization.

Ron Hutchison, of Dumas, and son of Mrs. Duane Smith of Dumas, an accounting major, was chosen out of ten men applying to the organization. In all, 33 Tech students were taped. Membership to this organization are selected on basis of scholarship, leadership and student service.

Taped for Mortar Board was Miss Jan Kassahn of Bovina who is a former student of Shallowater. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Kassahn of Bovina.

Publicity is a dangerous habit; some people make fools of themselves over a little bit of it.

Family Reunion Unites Five Generations

The home of Mr. and Mrs. O.D. Sanders, who reside in the County Line community, was the scene of a family reunion of five generations recently in observance of Mrs. Will Sanders' 93rd March birthday.

The youngest member of the Sanders family attending the get together was Hillary Ann Queen of San Antonio who was born Dec. 28th and is Mrs. Will Sanders great-great-granddaughter.

Other members of the generation group were Mrs. O.D. Sanders, Hillary Ann's great grandmother, Mrs. Bill Allen of Pecos, her grandmother and her mother, Mrs. Dan Queen.

The happy event was attended by approximately twenty members of the Sanders family and a lovely birthday cake for Mrs. Sanders was made by Mrs. Rod Sanders.

Mrs. Sanders resides at Quaker Manor Nursing Home in Lubbock where she has lived the past two years.

Five Generations—Mrs. Will Sanders, Mrs. O.D. Sanders, Mrs. Bill Ann, Mrs. Mary Queen and Hillary Ann Queen.

Robert Sanders Receives Award

Thirteen-year-old Robert Sanders was awarded a superior rating certificate recently from the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rod Sanders, is a student of Mrs. Dovie Barron of the County Line Community.

The active seventh grader has been taking piano lessons from Mrs. Barron for only a year and by receiving this rating he has shown a great accomplishment in his love for music in such a short time.

Shallowater 4-H Club Meets

Members of the Shallowater 4-H Club met Monday night at 7 o'clock in the Community Club House.

Twelve members and six parents were present for the short business meeting prior to adjourning for the girls dribbler basketball game.

Shallowater 8th St. Birthday Club Holds Meeting

The monthly meeting of the 8th Street Birthday Club was held Friday morning at 9:30 a.m. in the party room of the First State Bank with 14 ladies present to help Mrs. Bertha Hardy and Mrs. Oneta Elliott observe their April birthdays.

Hostesses for the occasion was Mrs. Hardy and Mrs. Corene McAuley.

The Easter motif was used in table decorations with a tapered green candle, nestled in green grass, flanked with various colored Easter eggs on the serving table.

Refreshments of coffee and cake was enjoyed by those attending and an out-of-town guest, Mrs. Coy Garrett of Washington, D.C., was present. Mrs. Garrett is here visiting her parents, the Penny Stegalls, who reside on 8th Street.

Shallowater Study Club Meets

The Shallowater Study Club met at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 20 in the home of Mrs. S.H. Robinson, 1014 14th St. Twenty members answered roll call by sharing a childhood memory on something pertaining to Walt Disney or Mickey Mouse.

The program was given by Mrs. J.U. Cone on "How to be Your Own Best Friend" from the book of the same name. Tips were on self improvement.

Mrs. H.V. Newman, Jr., gave the next part of the program (Nostalgia—A Look at Walt Disney and Mickey Mouse). After giving a short history of Mickey Mouse, the club viewed a cartoon of Mickey Mouse and Pluto.

The meeting adjourned and refreshments were served.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

Oh, Alfred baby, I love you! That may start this column with what might seem a bit of irrelevancy but, believe me, I meant every word I said. The "Alfred" to whom I have publicly ascribed my affection is, of course, the 70ish motion picture director-producer Alfred Hitchcock whom the Lord has spared so that he keeps on turning out his singular and fascinating films.

His newest effort, "Family Plot," which is unspooling daily at Showplace 4, is, happily, one of his best. The old boy whose work I have been admiring since his early British days of "The 30 Steps" and the likes, has come up with a brilliant comedy-suspense story that is the epitome of what that old line used to say "Movies are your best entertainment." Entertainment his film is, from start to finish. And, too, the film shows that Hitchcock has moved along with the times, for some of today's language is there, not the bombastic kind of "Cuckoo's Nest," but common garden variety vulgarisms that fit the character and the place. There is a nod to today's sexual mores, too, not underscored, just admitted.

You take an old weathy grande dame who is troubled by the fact that she engineered the giving away of her sister's illegitimate baby years back, who finds her end coming and wishes to locate that baby and give him the family name and fortune. She seeks out a medium (phony) to contact her sister in the beyond.

She engages the medium to help the search, who in turn enlists her unemployed actor boyfriend, quondam taxi driver, and they eventually find themselves involved with the real missing heir, who is engaged in some high activities in kidnapping for diamonds for ransom, along with his expert-in-disguise and unwilling paramour and his henchman, a dedicated "hit" man. From then on the fun is tops and the thrills and intrigues abound.

You'll love "Family Plot," I did. But, be sure to see it from the beginning.

The cast is superb all the way. The medium and cab driver are Barbara Harris and Bruce Dern, ideally matched; the con artists and kidnapers are perfect, William Devane and Karen Black. Cathleen Nesbitt, from the stage's "My Fair Lady" original, as old Mrs. Rainbird, is a gem, while Ed Lauter as the balding hit man is menacing. There is a raft of lesser roles, all excellent. They all spell "Family Plot," ace number one.

While waiting for the above to start, I stepped into the next booth to watch about 20 minutes of a comedy called "The Duchess and the Dirtwater Fox," a pseudo western type. This is the film that award presenters Goldie Hawn and George Segal kept intrusively mentioning on stage during the recent Oscar ceremonies. The film is pleasant, shallow and with good western photography. Like so many of its kind these days, even though it's a PG-rated film, the crude language is there and, in the mouth of Miss Hawn particularly, it is not exactly an asset. Everybody in the film does creditably with what they have to work with (from what I saw) but the film is somewhat lackadaisical and never achieves that belly-laugh level that somebody along the way had obviously intended.

I want to touch base again about last week's mention of "The Bad News Bears," the Walter Matthau-Tatum O'Neal comedy at the Fox. (I called it "The Big Bad Bears" last week, which probably gave an indication of my private, subconscious thinking.) I saw the whole in the interim and found it occasionally, funny, the whole concept marred by the little league baseball team of misfits mouthing some pretty rocky language which proved disturbing and witless, to me. Matthau is good as the drinking coach, a somewhat standard Matthau stint, while O'Neal has past the sharpness of the "Paper Moon" days.

The Lubbock Theatre Centre opens the fourth and final production in its current Bicentennial season plays with Howard Lindsay and Russel Crouse's mild comedy, "The Great Sebastians" at 8:15 p.m. tomorrow, Friday, at the LTC Playhouse, 2508 Avenue P. The play repeats at 8:15 p.m. Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, with a 2:15 p.m. matinee on Sunday.

The comedy about a married mind-reading act behind the Iron Curtain, their involvement over a collector's stamp and international intrigue served as a vehicle for the great Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

We'll talk about the cast in the follow-up; the play is directed by Wayland Winstead.

Ticket information can be gotten by calling Lubbock Theatre Centre, 744-3681.

This is the first night of the two-night benefit dinner premiere preview of Texas Tech University drama, music and dance departments production of Alan Jay Lerner-Frederick Loewe musical about King Arthur's court, "Camelot," first performed on stage in 1961.

The regular performances of the ambitious show start at University Theater Saturday and plays daily at 8:15 p.m. through May 2.

The director is Joseph B.Kaough, with John Gillas as associate director, Peggy Willis the choreographer and Ron Williams as music director.

As in the aforementioned LTC play, we'll deal with the lengthy cast, in our summary in next week's item. For ticket reservations, give Tech's University Theater a ring.

Four Texas Tech bands will join in a Bicentennial concert, open to the public without charge, at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Municipal Auditorium, and the Air Force Academy Band takes the same stage at 8:15 p.m. Thursday.

There is an engrossing book at the Public Library, just out. If you like movies and remember back when, I think you'll like it. It's by the man who wrote "The Last Detail" and "Cinderella Jones" and bears the provocative title "Tom Mix Died for Your Sins."

Indeed, this is the biography of the famed movie western star, former Oklahoma (from Pennsylvania) cowboy Tom Mix, told in fiction form, with the narrator a fictional companion Kid Bandera. Through this device we follow the rises and falls of Mix and Tony and Bandera through Oklahoma, Montana, Calgary Stampeded, New York, Washington, D.C. (for a meeting with President Theodore Roosevelt), Hollywood and Arizona where Mix met his death in an auto accident.

His enormous popularity with fans in the United States and in Europe, the unfortunate passages of his personal life, his libertine habits and his headstrong and winning manner, his ventures after his movie days had slackened with Sells Floto and other circuses, including his own, are all here, told disarmingly and fascinatingly. The term "Tom Mix Died for Your Sins" came from a graffiti painted on an old water tank somewhere in the old West that Mix so loved. Watch for the book; it's worth your time.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

Texas Tech completed three weeks of spring grid drills last Saturday and there was marked improvement over the second week's scrimmage. And that's the way it should be.

The contact was harder and you could hear the action in the stands. Also, the offense looked a little more polished and the defense looked a little stronger. You must remember, though, that it was the No. 1 offense and No. 1 defense going against the rest.

The encouraging thing is that, when you put the squad together, there is somewhat more strength than a year ago. The starting backfield is almost certainly set and Saturday's scrimmage did nothing to make it look weaker.

Despite the score, the offense wasn't consistent enough, but one pleasing thing was a punt return for a touchdown, along with three TD passes.

The defense has a way to go, although there were bright spots. It indicates that this phase, which was weak last year, should be stronger, although still not of the overpowering variety.

Don Roberts, who started at quarterback and then was shifted to flanker last year and to defensive halfback at the start of drills this spring, impressed again at a cornerback. For two weeks now he has stood out.

Tommy Duniven and Rodney Allison continued on an even-Stephen basis at quarterback, but it was Duniven who took his squad on a long sustained march for a TD. The drive looked strong.

Duniven's passing was adequate, although he overshot receivers a couple of times and he also had passes dropped. Coach Steve Sloan wants to bring a third quarterback along and put Allison on the red shirt list and he may be able to do that.

A week from tomorrow will be the spring game and a big crowd isn't anticipated. Unfortunately, spring games at Tech never have drawn well, although they usually are interesting.

But the real football fan will get his money's worth, because the players will go all out and you can't hide individual ability. The players who look good in the spring game are the ones who will be stars next fall.

I'm not a member of the National Rifle Association, or any other group interested in preserving the freedom of American citizens to bear arms, but I'm sympathetic.

Legislation to control handguns, or any other firearms, seems to me to be a waste of time and money. The criminal element is going to get any guns it wants, while law abiding citizens would be forced, under proposed laws, to give up the ones they have.

Prohibition didn't keep people who wanted liquor from obtaining it; banning of firearms wouldn't prevent people wanting guns or obtain them, either.

In a way, the featured story in Sunday's Easter morning edition of the local advertising bird cage litter gave support to how ridiculous gun control is. The story featured a murderer, whose method was decapitation with a scalpel, knife, or some other sharply honed instrument. No bang! bang! for him.

They're playing baseball in the major leagues and despite Saturday's 17-1 and 18-16 games, most of the battles have gone about the way most "normal" baseball games go.

West Texas fans probably didn't even raise an eyebrow over the 17-1 and 18-16 scores, not if they used to watch WT-NM League games on Sundays. They almost called for a saliva test in those days if the scores were 2-1, or anything like that.

It isn't too late to salute Willie Mays for observations he made at the time of the lockout, the quasi-strike and the general who-shot-John disagreement.

Willie remarked that his biggest concern was for the fans who didn't give a tinker's dam about who was right or wrong, but who wanted to see baseball. Willie said that he always put the fan first, and that's the way he did play baseball.

The poor slob making $10,000 a year or less and who sees taxes eat heavily into that isn't going to sit around spilling tears in his beer over players demanding $1 million a year or over three years.

That guy, who pays hard earned money, where he can, to see a major league game isn't going to be concerned for either side. All he wants is baseball and to heck with the rest of the world.

THE ROUNDUP—The All America game is only two months from this past Monday . . . Donny Anderson said, at the Red Raider Club dinner t'other night, that his greatest joy is working with young boys . . . I sat sandwiched between Dr. and Mrs. Wally Hess and the Jackie Sullivans, while across the table were Pete West and Herman Brown. And I came out of alive! . . . Bobby Knight, who obviously is successful, came through as a somewhat irreverent young man with slightly more self confidence than most. But there was meat on the bone in his talk if you listened . . . and then there's my neighbor who thought that an Aggie was a prize marble.

People who hurry through this life meet death that much earlier.

Few people complain about being over-rewarded by life's fortunes.

Track Results

by Kim McMenemy
 The Boys Regional Qualifiers went to track meet at Sundown last Friday. The meet was a tough meet with a lot of good competition, but all of the Shallowater qualifiers were able to place in their event.

Chet Webb came in fourth in the 220, Ricky Hawkins came in fifth in the mile, Rod Warren got fifth in the discus, Kim McMenemy came in second in the 880, and Bill Dixon placed first in the pole vault.

The Girls Regional Qualifiers in track, had a meet at Dawson on Saturday. It was a terrible day, but they still managed to place in two events. The 440 relay (Jackson, Evans, Blumer, Truelock) came in fourth, and the 880 relay (Jackson, Blumer, Truelock, Horton) came in sixth.

Senior Spotlight

This week's spotlight shines on Joe and Lupe Martinez, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Martinez.

Joe was born on Jan. 31 which makes him an Aquarius. Joe's favorite subject is Ag Mechanics, because, he comments, "We do different things and don't ever get bored in the shop."
 Joe's favorite "things" are cars and hot rod magazines. His hobbies are watching television and reading interesting books.
 "The thought of getting out of school forever," has been the most enjoyable part of his senior year. After graduation, Joe plans to work for a while then attend a mechanics school. He is looking for a career in auto and diesel mechanics.

Lupe was born on Feb. 19. His favorite school subject is Auto Tech which he is taking in Lubbock. Cars are his favorite things and watching television his hobby.
 Lupe is a member of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). After graduation, Lupe plans to work then attend a mechanics school. He is seeking a career in auto mechanics.

YHT Meeting

Twelve people from Shallowater attended the demonstration at the Ready Room of the Pioneer National Gas Co. The demonstration was on Mexican Food. Nan Poe, Home Economist, presented a background of the influence of the Spaniards on the Latin American foods. She prepared flour tortillas, burritos, and Mexican corn.

Emily Carehope, another Home Economist, prepared Enchiladas and a dip, Chili Con Queso, which she served with crisp tostadas.

These foods, along with Ponche de Pina (pineapple punch) were tasted and enjoyed by all those present. Copies of these and other recipes were given to everyone.
