

Renovation of Clinic to Begin Next Week

by Janice Jarvis

A medical clinic to be located in Shallowater and staffed by the Texas Tech University School of Medicine (TTUSM) has been approved by the Texas Tech University Board of Regents and a contract between the university and Shallowater will be signed next week, according to Dr. Thomas Nicholas, director of Family Practice at the medical school.

Renovation of the First State Bank of Shallowater, the site for the clinic will begin next week. An estimated $155,000 will be spent on acquiring and renovating the building, and purchasing equipment. The clinic will have eight examining rooms, an x-ray facility, a pharmacy and all supportive facilities, according to Nicholas.

It will take approximately three months to complete renovation and the clinic is scheduled to open the middle of October, said Nicholas. Initially staffed by TTUSM faculty, residents will later be included in the clinic, said Nicholas.

The clinic will be privately owned by the Shallowater Chamber of Commerce, while professional services will be provided by the Health Sciences Center, through an affiliation agreement, said Nicholas. The affiliation agreement allows retaining of certain revenues sufficient to maintain operation of the clinic, according to Nicholas.

Two loans were made by the Chamber, one of $50,000 to buy

Grade; Mrs. Donna Reed, Kindergarten; Mrs. Emilia Serna, Title I Aide; Mr. Eddie Hankins, Band Director; Mrs. Janice Smith, Sixth Grade; Mrs. Noma Starnes, Second Grade; Mrs. Mary Truelock, Fourth Grade.

Mr. Joe Tubbs, Math-Head Basketball Coach; Mrs. Martha Clark, Title I Teacher; Mrs. Ruth Walker, Tax Assessor-Collector; Mrs. Mary Warren, Third Grade; Mrs. Kay White, Fifth Grade; Mrs. Jane Thompson, Title I Remedial; Marvana Cave, P.E.; Eddie Wolski, History-P.E.-Head Football Coach; Lydia Eubank, Special Education; Mrs. Carol Witcher, Librarian and Counselor; Mrs. Wana Beth Cook, Secretary-Receptionist.

the old bank building, and one of $70,000 to remodel the building and buy equipment were approved June 29, said Nicholas. Townspeople signed guarantee forms for a portion of the loan.

The medical school received a grant from HEW of $200,000 to operate the clinic for the first two years, said Nicholas. TTUSM will pay rent of $1,250 a month, which will be used to pay off the building loan.

After all indebtedness is paid off a reserve fund will be set up from the revenue to be used for operation of the clinic. The clinic should be able to pay all debts in about one and one-half years, Nicholas said.

Shallowater will be the first city to have a clinic in the West Texas area because it is close to the medical school and can be maintained with present resources, said Nicholas. "The rural areas of West Texas have less than one-third the number of doctors that is average for the United States," said Nicholas. The TTUSM was founded and established to train physicians that can remedy this shortage.

The residents that will work in rotating shifts at the Shallowater Clinic have a years experience, said Nicholas. A patient coming to the clinic will be able to choose which resident he wants. A patient will get more personal care from a resident while being backed up by an experienced staff member, said Nicholas. A person can keep going to the same resident or change if he chooses. Since a resident will stay at the clinic for the time of residency, patients will usually have to change residents yearly, although the faculty staff will remain the same.

A standard fee will be charged for services and medic-aid and medic-care patients will be accepted at the clinic.

Personnel for the clinic will be able to start work as soon as the construction is finished, said Nicholas. In addition to being staffed by TTUSM residents and faculty, nurses from Shallowater will also be working at the clinic. Several people from the community have volunteered services as well as several general practitioners from Lubbock who will assist in the training program.

The clinic will also work with the EMS system by making available training courses for ambulance drivers and EMS technicians.

Coverage for any emergency occurring in Shallowater will be available 24 hours a day, said Nicholas. The clinic will serve as the first stop to a major hospital in town.

The bank building was chosen as the site for the clinic because of its central location. In addition the cement walls remain from the bank's vault which serves as an excellent room for x-ray equipment, said Nicholas. The building is a good solid building and lends itself well to remodeling. Special plumbing will be installed as well as partitions for examining rooms.

The clinic is expected to become an integral part of the training program for physicians at TTUSM. In addition the clinic will make it easier for people in Shallowater and surrounding communities to get health care when needed.

Jouett - Rackler Vows Exchanged

The First Baptist Church in Shallowater was the setting at 7:30 p.m. Saturday for the wedding of Miss Cindy Renee Jouett and James Steven Rackler. Rev. Gene Joplin of Plainview, uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Jouett, and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Rackler, all of Shallowater.

Vows were exchanged before a background of tapered candleabra, entwined with palm greenery and blue ribbon, flanked on either side with a large bouquet of blue carnations and white gladiolas.

Organist, Mrs. Dalton Potter, presented organ selections and accompanied Mrs. Theronne Baker, soloist, who sang "The Wedding Song", "His Way, Ours" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of alamide nottingham lace. The fitted empire bodice featured a yoke of matching lace and a high fitted collar. Pearls enhanced the bodice front and the sash of lace at the empire waistline. A full lace ruffle bordered the cameo styled yoke to give a softened effect. Long tapered lace sleeves fell to a ruffled cuff. The full skirt fell to slipper length in front. Motifs of Venice lace flowers, enhanced with seed pearls drew attention to the wide lace flounce which bordered the hemline. A satin bow and streamers in the back cast the eye downward to a full circular cathedral train. Matching Venice lace notifs enhanced the wide ruffle flounce, creating the old fashion image of the lovely bride in ruffles and lace. Her finger tip veil of silk illusion fell from a headpiece of lace, accented with seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of blue carnations and white daisies, entwined with baby breath.

For something old, the bride wore a diamond ring, designed with the diamond taken from the first ring her father had given her mother. The diamond had been remounted and given to the bride's older sister as her first diamond, then passed on to the new bride. Something new was her wedding gown, something borrowed was an opal and diamond drop necklace from her sister and she wore the traditional blue garter.

Mrs. Pam Hinze of San Antonio was Matron of Honor. Brides matron was Mrs. Eileen Settle of Lubbock. They wore identical floor length gowns of blue dotted swiss, designed with an empire waistline, and flared A-line skirt, featuring a V-neckline and standup collar. The softly gathered bodice was accented with elbow length puffed sleeves. She carried a long stemmed blue carnation, tied with white bows. Johnny Hunter of Lubbock was best man and Gordon Settle of Lubbock was groomsman.

Candles were lighted by Jeff Darnell of Arlington, nephew of the bride, and Gina Tiller of Dallas, the groom's niece. Ring bearer was the bride's nephew, David Jouett of Lubbock. The flower girl was Janet Hodgkin of Lubbock. Janet and dGina both wore dresses of light blue dotted swiss with empire waistline and flared A-line skirts, with a scoop neckline, edged in lace. The flower girl carried a lovely basket designed by the bride. She also made the ring bearer's pillow of matching satin and lace.

A reception immediately following the ceremony was held in fellowship hall. The serving table was laid with a lovely lace cloth over light blue with an arrangement of blue carnations and white gladiolas. The traditional wedding cake was four-tiered, decorated in blue and green. Crystal and silver appointments were used. Serving was Miss Theresa Davis of Shallowater and Mrs. Carry Kirkland of Lubbock.

The guests were registered by Mrs. Carry Kirkland of Lubbock at a table covered with a lace cloth over mint green.

The groom's table, presided by his nieces, Teresa Pruett and Kelli Sandlin of Dallas, was covered with a lace cloth over blue, featuring chocolate cake and coffee, served from a silver coffee service. An arrangement of fruit accented the table.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Jouett chose a floor length gown of mint green, featuring a fitted midriff with wing style collar, long sheer sleeves and A-line skirt. The gridegroom's mother wore a two-piece floor length gown of delicate pink.

For a wedding trip to Colorado the bride chose a lovely light blue pant suit, featuring a wrap style jacket, overlaying a coordinating long sleeve blouse.

The couple will reside in Lubbock after their honeymoon.

The bride is a 1973 graduate of Shallowater High School, attended Texas Tech and graduated in June from the Methodist Hospital School of Nursing. The groom graduated from Shallowater High School in 1972 and received his Bachelor of Business Degree in Accounting in May from Texas Tech.

Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Rackler were hosts at a rehearsal dinner at K-Bob's in Lubbock for members of the Jouett-Rackler wedding party and guests, following rehearsal Friday night at 7:30 at the First Baptist Church.

Volunteers Needed

More interested volunteers are urgently needed in the Shallowater Emergency Medical Service to learn how to man the ambulance, furnished by Lubbock County Hospital District, by attending classes at Lubbock Christian College for a 10 week course that begins August 23.

Classes will be held on Monday and Thursday nights from 6 p.m. until 10 p.m. with 80 hours of classroom work, 40 hours of in-hospital training, five ambulance runs, and pass both the written tests and skill tests to receive certification from the Texas Health Department.

The tuition and book fee is furnished by the City of Shallowater, and all that is required by the volunteer is the time required to take the course.

The ambulance went into operation on August 1, and has already made four runs for the Shallowater community, with presently only seven members included in its operation. Those volunteers are J.D. Young, Richard Hopson, Ernie Rackler, Debbie Turner, Sid Leonard, Harry King and Dardie Williamson.

The group wishes to express their deep appreciation to the First State Bank of Shallowater for furnishing them with name plates. And also to the local Lions Club for purchasing orange jump suit uniforms for the group to wear when they are on call, which will enable them to dress identically for the emergency runs. The uniforms haven't arrived yet, but should within the next week or two.

Anyone interested in taking this course should contact any of the above members for information concerning the program.

The first responsibility of the American Red Cross is to help people in trouble. And over the past 12 months we've given emergency aid (food, housing, clothing or medical care) to over a quarter of a million people. As a result, we face the balance of this year millions of dollars short of disaster relief funds. So we're asking you for help, to pass along to someone who needs it. If your garden has produced more squash than the family can eat fresh, then pickling may be one different way to preserve them.

Pickled squash are similar to traditional bread-and-butter pickles. Several types of summer squash may be used for pickling. But yellow and zucchini squash are most commonly used.

Below are two tasty recipes for pickled squash you may want to try.

Yellow Squash Pickles
8 cups sliced yellow squash, ½" thick.

- 1 tablespoon pickling spices
- 2 cups chopped onion
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup apple cider vinegar
- ¼ cup granulated sugar
- ½ teaspoon mustard seed
- ½ teaspoon celery seed

Wash and slice squash. Sprinkle with salt and set aside for one hour. Bring vinegar and sugar to a boil. Add squash, onion and green pepper and bring to a boil again. Pack hot squash, onion and papper into hot sterilized jars. Add mustard seed and celery seed to vinegar-sugar mixture. Bring to boil again. Pour over squash to within one-half inch of top of jar. Place lids on jars. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath.

Curried Zucchini Pickles
24 (7 pounds) medium zucchini
¼ cup pickling salt
3 cups granulated sugar
3 cups vinegar
½ cup mustard seed
4 teaspoons celery seed
1 tablespoon curry powder

Cut zucchini in ¼ to ½ inch slices; sprinkle with the salt; add cold water to cover. Let stand three hours. Drain, rinse with cold water.

In 10-quart Dutch oven combine sugar, vinegar, mustard seed, celery seed and curry. Bring to a boil. Add zucchini, heat through, but do not boil—about five minutes. Pack zucchini and syrup into clean, hot pint jars leaving one-half inch head space. Adjust lids according to package directions. Process in boiling water for five minutes. Start counting time when water returns to boil. Serve chilled. Makes nine pints.

When moving, take along your old telephone directory—not just your own personal address book. You may need addresses and phone numbers of doctors, dentists or merchants.

In-between meal snacks, such as cookies, cakes, pies and candies contribute to the formation of dental caries. These particular foods should be eaten at mealtime, followed by a thorough brushing of teeth.

Although there is some concern about the safety of cosmetic products, FDA statistics show that the average number of adverse reactions to cosmetic products in general is 1.97 per million population.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

Have the Yankees begun their customary—since the days when they ran wild—slide? Events of recent days would seem to indicate that they have begun to unravel.

First, they dropped four of five to Boston, followed by losing three straight to Baltimore. Then they recovered just briefly, only to be clubbed by Milwaukee and then the Orioles. And it was the debacle against Baltimore that told the most.

When the Yankees were ruling the roost, they achieved success by beating the brains out of the second division teams, splitting with the first division clubs.

But modern Yankee teams haven't done the same. And when they lose nine out of 10 to first division teams late in the season, they're in trouble. For the last few years the Yanks have gotten off to a good start, then folded. Could this be a repeat?

Modern day local sports writers, unfortunately, seem to have little knowledge of the past, even the immediate past. For example, recent stories that involved, in passing mention, Jack Kirkpatrick of Post, Walter "Yippy" Rankin of Midland and Sam West.

In order, Kirkpatrick, possibly the best quarterback in Tech history; Rankin, husband of Judy Rankin, the golfer, and a pretty fair Tech hand; and West, probably the finest outfielder in American League history.

Kirkpatrick came along at the same time as Jerry Johnson, from Hale Center. Jack had so much natural ability it almost hurt; Johnson made it on guts, determination and confidence. Between them they gave Tech outstanding quarterbacking.

Jack was a rodeo hound in college days and defied an edict from DeWitt Weaver not to participate. He did, anyway, was hurt and was slowed in one season.

For sheer all around ability, Kirkpatrick has to be considered almost by himself. He could—and did—play defense as well as offense. He was a fine passer, a strong runner and football savvy to such a degree that he could call plays without signals.

Kirkpatrick was cast in the same mold as Sammy Baugh, except that he didn't punt. The only thing he didn't do was take tickets—but if he had, he would have excelled at that, too.

I have long urged recognition for West, urging that apparently has fallen on barren soil. He was a great fielder, who also played first base and hti with the best.

Sam played in the first All Star game, which ought to tell even the most uninformed something. His lifetime batting average is around the .300 mark or better. He led the American League outfielders in fielding percentage so much that it became almost monotonous.

Sam also coached for the old Washington Senators and, at one time, was being considered as manager. A Washington source asked me to do a story on Sam, but not to indicate that he was being considered as manager—and yet find out if he would be interested.

I did the story, but Sam was far too sharp. He perceived the managerial slant and typically his answer was direct.

"Nope, I'm not interested," he said. "It would mean going back down to the minor leagues and I remember those old bus days too well. I don't have experience as a manager and I'd have to start low. No, thanks, I wouldn't want to do all that again."

The Southwest Conference tub thumpers have opened fire for this season and the initial blast, based on returning experience, puts Baylor's Bears on top.

The basis for the figuring is one point for each returning letterman, another point if he is a starter and a third if he is a senior. On those grounds, Baylor amasses 59 points. Rice and Houston tie for second, followed by UT and Tech, tied, with TCU, SMU, A&M and Arkansas trailing in that order.

I forgot to mention that one point also was subtracted for each letterman and starter lost. Even so, the basis for predicting the finish in the race is nebulous and uncertain.

What doesn't enter the picture is the ability of the players returning, or the ability of newcomers. It's an interesting August exercise and helps pave the way for football talk. But don't rush out and bet the house rent money on the predicted outcome.

The pro season is upon us and two weeks of games already have been played. I guess, if you have nothing else to do, they're interesting to watch and they do kill time.

Unfortunately, the games mean nothing and the results mean even less. The players aren't completely in shape and the games are merely exercises to find out what rookies and other newcomers can do. The old pros hold back for the regular season.

Norm Williamson and I were talking about the Olympics the other day. We agreed that it would have been great to have been there, but you probably saw more on television. And when you consider that boxing, track, weight lifting and other events were going on at the same time, TV made the difference. You might not have seen it all, but you saw more of a variety. And, except for the died-in-the-wood fan, that's the best menu.

Sandwiches are so called from the Earl of Sandwich, who passed whole days in gambling and ate his meat between two pieces of bread so he wouldn't have to stop playing.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

Well, the big circus, Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey, that is, has come through our town, delighted thousands before that long silver train hauled out late Sunday for Amarillo and beyond that points north, east, south and west.

As all know, the Coliseum was a literal "hot box" during the weekend stay, but those same people know that the gaudy, gala, lavish Bicentennial edition of the show was one of the, if not THE, best production that the Greatest Show on Earth has brought us to date.

Who can forget that superstar Gunther Gebel-Williams and his vocal control over horses, tigers, elephants in a series of not less than four appearances during the course of the show? Without a doubt, this is the most singular, most spectacular performer in the annals of show business.

Highly volatile, this long-haired German-born has class. And a temper, to boot. Witness. Sitting alone on what would be called the 50-yard line in the Coliseum, I watch as Gunther made tracks across the arena to meet a passing elephant parade. Unfortunately, there was a plain circus hand in his way and they bumped shoulders. Heavens, the look that Gebel-Williams gave that poor man in passing was for the books and I pity whatever confrontation took place once the star was off stage.

But, to go back to the overall show. I suppose I've seen Ringling Bros. times without number. I have seen them here in Lubbock. I have seen the past shows in San Francisco, New York City, Louisiana, Houston, Dallas, Chicago, Milwaukee—and I am living testimony to the fact that there is no other world so enchanting, so enthralling than this big three-ring venture into excitement and thrills.

Who will forget easily La Toria and her 50 spine-cracking gymnastics? Who will forget the superb artistry of the Carillo Brothers on that high wire over my head?

The clown colony gave us laughs under the leadership of 50-year veteran Lou Jacobs and his pint-sized partner, Knucklehead, that lovable puppy, while the high-flying trapeze artists were as slick and as smooth as always.

I have, since I saw the show, tried to pick put what I thought was the best. Certainly, Gunther Gebel-Williams. After that, La Toria? Wolfgang Holzmair toting a huge lion on his shoulders? The spectacular production numbers in red, white and blue that were lavish, unbelievable in concept and in execution?

Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circul only makes the town every other year or so, but when it comes its impact on the citizenry is magic, not only Lubbockites but citizens from all over the area into Eastern New Mexico.

A friend has criticized the circus visits as draining the local economy during its three-day stay. Bosh and twiddle! They patronize the butchers for meat, other businesses for their needs, lodgings and the rest of it—and look what they leave us. They bring a gift of wholesome, clean, exciting entertainment, strength, color, laughter and fascination and what more pleasing commodity can there be? As that silver train makes its way up, and down, side to side, to the tour's end at Christmas in Florida, our blessings are upon each and every one of them. Ya'll come back, hear?

I did not make the Hayloft play this month. It is called "Eat Your Heart Out," a new comedy. My lapse was due to unavailable transportation and regrettably so. However, I shall be on deck for the new show which starts its three preview performances on Tuesday. This is a time-tested, sure winner. It is the late Agatha Christie's mystery, "Ten Little Indians" and it can hardly go wrong. It'll be at the Hayloft into September and I can vouch for the entertainment before I even see the present handling.

Incidentally, with fall hurrying in, it comes time again for the Panhandle South Plains Fair in town. The entertainment line-up is a strong one and here it is for your reference. That marvelous country entertainer Charley Pride opens the parade on Sept. 26. Then comes Freddie Fender and Barbara Mandrell; Charlie Rich and Neil Sedaka. You can enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope and your money at $4, $5 and $6 to Box 208, Lubbock, Texas 79408, and make sure you have at least one of these smashing events under your belt.

Yes, I did go to the movies this past week. I'm afraid I can't wax enthusiastic about either of the films I saw, however. First, at Showplace 4, there is a return of the pirate genre, this one called "Swashbuckler." If you are around my age, the tottering stage, you'll remember pirate films of the past, "Black Pirate" with the late Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., "Captain Blood" with Errol Flynn, and Britain's "Treasure Island." I'm afraid I'll have to report that "Swashbuckler" just hasn't got it. It is an incredible mish-mash of scenes without connection or credibility. It's too bad. A good pirate picture would fit the bill these days. "Swashbuckler" was a good idea but that's all. The powers that be messed up the whole project and the results are virtually nil. So much for that one.

The other film is the one with the awkward, helpless title. "The Sailor Who Fell From Grace With The Sea." Heavens to Betsy. It's at the Cinema West on 19th Street. It has Sarah Miles and Kris Kristofferson and a passel of the nastiest five kids you've ever hoped to see. The theme is simple. A widowed mother of one of the kids (a budding psychopath) meets a second mate of the freighter "Belle" out of Boston and falls in love. They rough and tumble on the bed in nudity (no frontal), watched through the peephole by Junior, (who has also watched a masturbation scene), and decide to marry. However, the kids have other ideas, spearheaded by the most obnoxious brat in memory, and the ending is both shocking and saddening. I wouldn't recommend this one. The direction is incredibly slow and plodding and only the gorgeous seascapes and the English countryside can save this one. It's a bomb, dear readers, and no amount of acting talent and expertise of the two principals, Miles and Kristofferson can offset the dismal results. It is, of course, R-rated and runs a very, very long time.

At the Fox is yet another clinker. This unhappy number is called "Harry and Walter Go to New York." It's PG and it is a dud. Michael Caine, Elliott Gould, James Caan and Diane Keaton are involved in this silly charade about a band heist and I would assume that any one of the principals heartily wish they had never heard of the script, the producers or the directors.

Someone once said that if you couldn't say something nice about someone, they dont don't say anything at all. Well, I haven't much good to say about this week's crop of films—so I'll call this off. I still think "Silent Movie" at the South Plains Cinema and "The Shootist" at Showplace 4 are your best bets. So, pay heed and head thataway. I'll be back this away shortly. So, be good and bless you.

Young Gymnast Practices for Fun

Dawn DuLaney's uneven bars may be an inconvenience for anyone walking through the living room, but Dawn needs time and space to practice her gymnastics at home.

by Janice Jarvis

"She never walks through the room, she swings through it," said Mrs. Jack DuLaney of her ten-year-old daughter, Dawn. Because of Dawn's growing interest in gymnastics, the DuLaney's living room looks like a gym with uneven bars and a beam, a part of the setting.

Dawn, who is a member of the Gym World U.S.A. team in Levelland, has taken gymnastics for almost two years. She first became interested in the sport when she went with her older sisters to a tumbling lesson. From then on she has been practicing on the uneven bars as well as the beam and vault.

She started on the team last year and her coach, Johnny Hamilton, has entered her in several meets. She won a gold medal for being first as all around gymnast in her age group in competition at Midland. She also entered the Gattis Junior High Invitational gymnastics meet and took first place on the uneven bars and the balance beam.

Recently, Dawn attended a gymnastics camp which only the top 60 gymnasts who applied to the camp were accepted.

Dawn practices about four afternoons a week, according to Mrs. DuLaney. She usually spends about five hours working out at Levelland, where her coach designs her routines. In addition she takes ballet lessons for an hour each week to help perfect her coordination, said Mrs. DuLaney. As far as hopes for the 1980 Olympics, that's quite a way off, according to her mother. At least for the time being, Dawn has plenty of activities to keep her busy.

In addition to practicing gymnastics, Dawn must also find time in the day for practicing the piano, an art she has been practicing for five years. She has played in Little Dribbler Basketball and during the summer enjoys swimming.

Dawn, who has been active in the 4-H Club is also quite a seamstress for her ten years. For a 4-H project she made three blouses and a pair of shorts, and has won ribbons in competition among other 4-Hers. Despite her many activities, she continues to be an excellent student.

All activities have their inconveniences and for Dawn gymnastics is no exception. Besides the numerous minor injuries suffered when falling from the bars, Dawn also finds it difficult to take time for dinner. Too often she will take a sandwich for dinner and then spend the evening practicing, her mother said.

Asked why she spends so much time working in gymnastics, Dawn replied, "It's just fun." for ten-year-old Dawn gymnastics has turned into something not only fun but quite impressive to watch as well, and for now having fun at the sport is all that really matters.

Cold war.

It was bad enough we had to fight the British for our freedom. But on top of that, we had to fight the weather, too.
