

Mustangs Fall to Hale Center 21-12 In Fourth Outing Friday

The Mustangs traveled to Hale Center last weekend hoping to bring back their first victory of the year, but unfortunately, it didn't work out that way, as the Mustangs fell to Hale Center, 21-12.

Hale Center drew first blood in the first quarter. The extra point kick was missed, leaving the score 6-0. Hale Center scored again in the second quarter and kicked the extra point. The score at the half was 31 to 0 in favor of Hale Center. Shallowater made its first touchdown in the third quarter with Johnny Taylor running it over for six points, the PAT failed, leaving the score 13-6. Hale Center scored again late in the third quarter and kicked for the PAT making the score 21-6.

Shallowater scored once again in the fourth quarter and once again it was Taylor for the touchdown. The PAT failed, leaving the final score 21-12. Hale Center over Shallowater.

Johnny Taylor had a fine night, running for 61 yards and two touchdowns. That brings Taylor 28 points total for the season. Chet Webb ran for 57 total yards and Billy Dixon had a very good night offensively with 53 yards on the ground and 75 yards in the air for a total of 128 for the night. The Mustangs forced two fumbles Friday night, and Jackie Randolph made one interception for the Mustangs. The Mustangs had a total of 16 first downs to Hale Center's 17, and 3 penetrations to their 4.

The Mustangs had a total of 244 yards rushing and 4 for 10 in the passing department for 100 yards.

The Mustangs take on Springlake-Earth this Friday, October 3rd, here in Shallowater at 8 p.m. All area residents are urged to come out and help spirit the Mustangs to their first victory of the season.

Stamp Collector Speaks at Lions Club

The Shallowater chapter of the Lions Club International met at the Shallowater Restaurant here Thursday night. Guest speaker was James Winder, postmaster, Plains, Texas and SCF Philatelic Project Officer. As philatelic officer, it is Winder's job to promote stamp collecting and that's what he was doing Thursday night at the Lions Club meeting.

Mr. Winder was representing the U.S. Postal Service in their effort to promote public interest in the hobby of stamp collecting. Primarily the post office is trying to convince younger children, around the 5th and 6th grade level, to take up the hobby. Mr. Winder and Shallowater's postmaster, Milton Elliott, gave several stamp collection presentations to the children at Shallowater elementary school Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Winder has a fine collection of stamps himself. He has been collecting stamps for fifteen years, and with a relatively small investment, had built not only a beautiful collection but also a valuable one. Milton Elliott is ready to help anyone, no matter what their age, start this exciting hobby. Mr. Elliott offers his expert advice as well as starter kits put out by the U.S. Postal Service.

South Plains Maid of Cotton Fete Scheduled for October 17 & 18th

Two days packed with activity await the girls who enter this year's South Plains Maid of Cotton selection.

This year's selection activities begin on October 17, which is jammed with activity. Preliminary judging and interviews with this year's selection judges will fill the morning.

At noon the girls will be hosted to a luncheon at the Lubbock Country Club by the Lubbock Cotton Auxiliary. Following the luncheon they will continue their interviews and preliminary judging.

The evening of the seventeenth will be taken up with a reception and ball at the Lubbock Country Club. The ball will be held for the purpose of presenting all of this year's entries to the public. Music will be provided for the evening by Mark Anthony and his band.

The Lubbock Chamber of Commerce Maid of Cotton Committee will be hosting the ball and Mr. Richard Lackey, committee chairman, stated "the ball will be open to the public. Anyone interested in attending can purchase tickets at the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce. We are looking forward to a very fine evening as this will be the social highlight of the year for the local cotton industry."

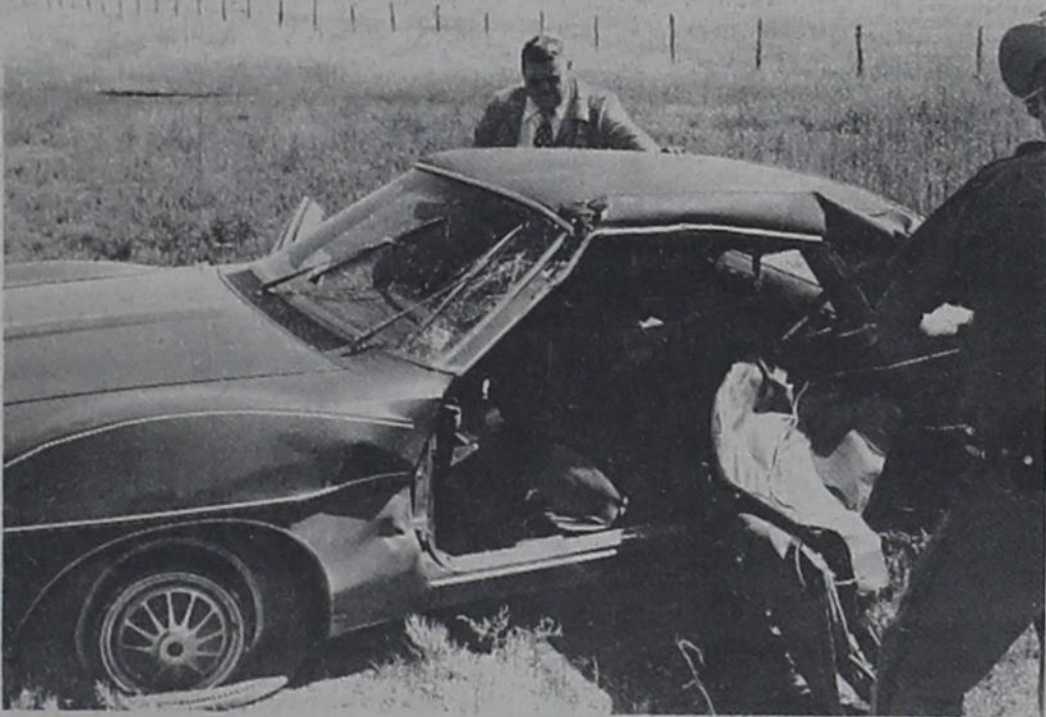

Saturday, October 18, will see the end of the preliminary judging, as the girls finish their interviews. A luncheon for the girls and judges will be held to give the judges a last chance at evaluating the girls prior to the finals. Rehearsals will be held during the afternoon for the finals which are to be telecast over KMCC-TV on Saturday night.

2 Car Mishap Sends Woman to Lubbock Hospital

A wreck involving a General Telephone Company van and a Muleshoe resident late last Thursday afternoon, has left Phyllis Smith in serious condition in the intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital. The wreck occurred at the intersection of Avenue L and Highway 84 outside of Shallowater.

The wreck apparently happened when the driver of the van pulled out onto the highway, hitting Mrs. Smith's car and knocking it into the ditch beside the highway. Officers from Shallowater and the Department of Public Safety, worked for some minutes to free Ms. Smith from the wreckage. Attendants from AID Ambulance took her to Methodist Hospital.

The impact of the wreck smashed the left side of the Smith car and threw the car some sixty feet into the ditch. The driver of the van suffered no injury and damage to the van was small.

Notes from The Mayor

With the use of our new garbage container system, the Sanitation Department and City Council hopes our citizens will all work together to make our town cleaner and to remove things that take away from the beauty of our City.

We know that with this new system, all containers are not placed exactly between homes. This is due to the electric and phone wires which cross our alleys, and also other obstacles which prevent the truck from maneuvering properly in the alleys. With your help and suggestions, perhaps this can be improved.

If we keep the container lids closed and put our wet garbage in a plastic bag and seal it, we believe that you will be seeing fewer dogs in our alleys for food, and rats and flies should be easier to control.

We are sharing these containers with each other, and if we all just do as we wish our neighbors to do, we should have a satisfactory garbage disposal system. We have already heard comments about how much cleaner some of the alleys look.

Our town hopes to pay for these containers and truck by saving labor on the number of employees it takes to remove garbage. Our old way took 3 people about 3½ days, and with the new system, we hope we can do the job with one man in only 1½ days. With the pencil, we figure a 4-year payout on the new truck and containers, but even a five or six year payout would keep us in very good financial position in our Sanitation Department. We hope containers will last ten or fifteen years before need for repair, as they have already lasted ten years in Dallas,

Shallowater PTA To Meet Tonight

The Shallowater PTA will meet Thursday, October 2nd in the school cafeteria at 7:30 p.m.

The program will be given by Mrs. Howard Preston, who will present a talk on the history of Shallowater.

Everyone is invited to attend.

Shallowater Police Beat

One out of every nine children in the United States, one out of every six male children, will be referred to the Juvenile Courts in connection with some delinquent act (other than traffic offenses) before his eighteenth birthday.

The term "Juvenile Delinquency" is relatively new, coming into general usage in the United States only within the past century.

The situation has been getting worse. In fact, the number of juveniles who have been detained has sharply increased during recent years, and more and more are becoming involved in serious crimes.

Does this surprise you—perhaps alarm you? They have alarmed the leaders of our country, especially since studies indicate that many adult offenders begin their criminal careers by acts of delinquency.

The possibility of a child becoming involved in delinquency is increased when he is reared in a broken home, a functionally inadequate home, a socially, morally, or culturally abnormal home, or an economically insecure home.

Juvenile delinquency occurs throughout the United States, affecting some children of all religious beliefs, every economic class, and each ethnic group. No area, no group is immune. Juvenile delinquency consists of misbehaviour by children that leads to referral to the Juvenile Court. Juvenile delinquency ranges from the most serious crime such as robbery and murder, to irritating but trivial acts such as playing ball in the street.

One in every nine youths (one in every six males) will be referred to Juvenile Court before his eighteenth birthday. Boys are arrested five times as often as girls, for every one girl brought to the attention of the Juvenile Courts, there are four boys.

Parents themselves are deeply concerned. They regard rearing well adjusted children as one of their major life projects. The most serious cost of delinquency, however, is the scarring effect on the children themselves.

Related to the juvenile gang, the lone delinquent is the exception, because most acts of delinquency are carried out by two or three boys. Around one million suspects were arrested for serious crimes this past year. Of those, 49% were under 18 years of age; one out of four of these (approximately 231,000) were under 15 years of age.

The exercise of discretion is an important part of a Police Officer's role with working with juvenile delinquency. The police officer must have the education to cope with this problem because, as one can tell by this article, juvenile delinquency is a problem that will get worse with time.

In the weeks to come, we will discuss possible causes of juvenile delinquency.

Mrs. Marie Chandler from Columbia, Ohio, arrived Saturday afternoon by plane and is spending the week with her son, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Chandler, Kim and Tim.

First Load of Grain, Again!

Two weeks ago, the Suburban Today reported on the arrival of the first load of grain. We were wrong. Actually the first load arrived August 18th at Goodpasture Grain here in Shallowater.

The grain was cut August 16 by Hank Woodruff on his farm. Mr. Woodruff brought in a load total weight of 8,620 lbs. of gain at the price of $4.90. Mr. Woodruff received the $50 bonus for the first load from Goodpasture.

Just Five More 6 Weeks to Go

by Caran Conner

With the first six weeks coming to an end, everyone has come to the realization that we ARE in school and that we have five more weeks to go.

We can review the first session of school and see how much we are involved; we're used to all the old teachers and have met the new ones, had our first tests and have seen how much we really don't know. We've learned that we have to act a year older than last year and take on the responsibilities of that higher grade. The Third Annual Shallowater Mustang Homecoming, two other football games, and Fair Days are behind us. With this and lots more happening in six weeks, look what we have to cope with all year. So let's just set our minds to it and get this year over with.

Take this short article and remember it through the year.

Has Eager Beaver Lost His Fever?

Many students contract "Eager Beaver Fever", a "disease" observed during the first month of school.

The fever begins with ambition and manifests itself through accomplishment — homework, study, team tryouts, hard work — in short attainment through effort.

Unfortunately, the fever diminishes in too many cases, and an impressive beginning shrinks to

What happened? After a lazy summer vacation, the thinking student promises himself that he will do better than last year. He will strive to do his best in every subject. As a thinker, he realizes the importance of better-than-average work. He knows that the relatively few years he spends in school must help to prepare him for the many, many years in a world of successful adults. That implies a host of wonderful things.

So he starts off in August with a BANG! By September, his work has diminished to an itty-bitty ping.

Why? Are the intentions of August no longer valid in September? Hardly.

If you have lost your "Eager Beaver Fever" sit down and think for a few minutes. Think in selfish terms. Ask yourself: "What's in it for me?" Think hard now...

And your answer must be that you will keep the fever of the Eager Beaver and strive even harder to do your best work this month too. And next month. And every month after that.

Good luck and may this year be the best. Yea, '76.

Mustangs On The Move

by Christopher Hutchings
Last Friday night, the Shallowater Mustangs were on the road to Hale Center. Many people were on hand to watch the game. It started off with a bang after Hale Center fumbled early in the first quarter. It was a fast first half with Hale Center succeeding in a drive to give them a 6-0 lead at the half.

In the third quarter the Owls chocked up 7 more points. The Mustangs then sustained a drive that gave them 6 points on the board. In the fourth, Hale Center completed a drive for 8 more. The Mustangs scored another 6 points. The final score was Hale Center 21, Shallowater 12.

This Friday night, the Mustangs host Springlake-Earth at 8 p.m. Everyone is invited to come.

4-H'ers "Babysit" Farm Animals

Have you ever taught baby chicks to feed off of the seats of a miniature farris wheel? Or helped a parakeet get ready for a circus performance, complete with tent and trapeze? Shallowater 4-H'ers did just that this year. Some 20 boys and girls spent the first Sunday afternoon of the South Plains Fair encouraging ducklings to slip down a slide to a watery landing, handing out smiles and pamphlets about the 4-H program, warding off eager fairgoers from offering fingers to biting animals and numerous other activities involved in babysitting barnyard animals. This is just one of several fair activities in which these young people participated.

Two thirds and a fourth place headed the winners list among 4-H'ers with animal projects. Celeste Potter, showing a lightweight Duroc, placed third in her class. Scott Penny followed closely with a fourth place in middleweight Duroc. Rod Burgett took third place honors in the Poland China Class. Other participants in the livestock shows were Lane and Brandi Giles, and Celeste Potter showed three Caster Rex rabbits.

REMEMBERING...

By BILL D. BROOKS

FIRST GRADE

My mom took me to my room the first day. Good thing, too, I probably couldn't have found it by myself. The school was big, a maze of hallways, big rooms and dusty trophy cases. A friend of mine a year older than me had told me there were over seventy-five students in that school in the twelve grades and I believed it when I saw the building. My teacher seemed nice enough that day. She smiled at my mom and asked me if I had all my supplies. I held out my big chief tablet and cigar box of used-up crayons but she didn't take them. She told me to take the desk in the third row, four seats back.

The desks were made of heavy black cast iron and had wooden tops and seats, complete with carved initials, ink stains and scratches. There was a groove in the top for pencils and a big round hole. I learned later the hole was for an ink bottle, though we weren't allowed to have one. Traditionally, the bottles were used to dip pigtails into and our teacher wasn't going to have any of that. The desks were all hooked together with wooden runners and the front of my desk was the back of the next one. Joel sat in front of me. He seemed nice enough. One day I looked down and discovered my shoes were wet. Joel didn't think about going to the toilet soon enough.

None of us liked to go to the toilet. It was the outdoor type and was very dirty and smelly. Older kids sometimes gave little ones trouble out there. They would threaten to drop you into the hole or throw your books or lunch down there or other things just as bad. There was never any toilet paper in the toilets and that made matters worse. One kid's mother made him carry some with him all the time in his hip pocket. We kidded him about it but we used to borrow from him when there was a real emergency.

Our room had big high windows but they were too high off the floor for us to see outside. Kids might be distracted from the learning process if they could see outside. The teacher furnished our pencils. They were big fat ones with no eraser. We weren't allowed to sharpen them, she took care of that for us.

We did get to dust erasers once, though. The blackboard erasers were clogged with chalk dust and the teacher sent three of us boys out to dust them. We pounded them on big flat rocks out behind the building. But there were so many we got to goofing off and started dusting each other. Covered with chalk dust, we looked up to find the teacher, hands on hips, glaring at us. That was the last time we got to dust erasers but the first of many times we got paddled.

I either learned enough that year to go on to second grade or the teacher just wanted to get rid of me. I was glad, though, because second graders were big kids and they got to do what they wanted. They got to pick the desk they wanted. They could keep a notebook with real notebook paper and they even got to sharpen their own pencils.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

I can think of more pleasant ways for a new coach to break into the Southwest Conference football championship race than by playing Texas. And Steve Sloan knows it now better than anyone else, unless it be J.T. King and Jim Carlen.

DeWitt Weaver had only one opportunity and, like the others, bit the dust.

Victories over Texas have been about as rare as fresh water in the ocean. Weaver didn't score one in the league, while King succeeded once in six tries and Carlen, once in five.

Except among the most rabid faithful, there was little optimism of a Tech victory Saturday night. The Raiders had not shown in two games the type of muscle needed, let alone the finesse.

Florida State used an attack that put a type of pressure on the defense not usually faced, while New Mexico had little in the way of a ground offensive. Both games were won by Tech, but the Raiders didn't show the type of offense or defense that would bother Texas that much.

There's really not much of anything fancy about the Longhorns. In fact, I wouldn't doubt but what Darrell Royal would be happy to send his play book to any opposing coach. It wouldn't help a bit, because the coaches know what Texas is going to do.

The Longhorns are going to line up, nose to nose, and say here we come, stop us. It's going to be Earl Campbell up the gut, Marty Akins on the keeper or maybe a pitch to a halfback.

It became painfully obvious right after the kick-off that Tech's defensive theory was lacking. Richard Bell is sorely missed, because he was a master of taking material, disguising the defense and coming up with defenses that worked.

But Tech doesn't have Richard Bell, unfortunately, and it was obvious that the Raider defense was incapable of stopping the Horns. Just as obviously, they didn't.

The only glimmer of hope for the rest of the season is that Tech's offense performed pretty well, if you'll close your eyes to four—count 'em—four fumbles and two interceptions. Mistakes like that make it extremely difficult for any team to win.

But when the Raiders took the ball after the first Texas touchdown and marched methodically, there is basis for hope. The fumble, of course, killed the drive and, to all intents and purposes, Raider hopes for a victory.

It reminds me of the time the Chicago Bears beat the Washington Redskins 73-0. Early in the game a Redskin dropped a Sammy Baugh pass in the end zone which would have made it 7-0.

After the game a Washington reporter, I think it was Burt Hawkins, now traveling secretary for the Texas Rangers, asked Baugh if catching that pass would have made a difference.

"You bet!" Sammy snapped back. "If he had caught that pass we'd only have lost by 73-7!" Q.E.D.

I'd say, as a result of that painful lesson in Austin, that the Raiders will have to go back to the drawing board on defense. It's obvious that the philosophy will have to change and a defense developed that will take advantage of what available material can do.

Tech hasn't stopped the end sweep, or pitchout, in three games. The middle, except against New Mexico, has been suspect. The defensive backfield woefully lacking against the pass.

Offensively, the Raiders showed marked improvement in moving the ball against Texas by both running and passing. And the latter was the one department not strong prior to Saturday night.

The problem is that, against teams of equal or superior strength, Tech will have to outscore opponents to win and, although that sounds trite, it isn't strictly from the standpoint that the Tech defense won't be able to stop the opposition.

As stated weeks ago, this is the part of the schedule that will be a major test of what the season holds. Texas has already shown how rough that schedule probably will be. In rapid succession comes Oklahoma State, Texas A&M and Arizona.

If, after those next three games, Tech is 4-3, it's going to be a good season. Right now, though, you'd have to say that Tech is below SMU, maybe Rice, and a step above TCU. And, right now, Sloan must be wondering why Bear Bryant urged him to take this job.

The baseball playoffs begin this week and more than the usual interest should be shown, if for no other reason than that a new face has shown up, the Boston Red Sox.

Oakland should take the Sox, but it could be interesting. The Sox have shown good pitching and strong hitting. In addition, they could have the impetus of challenge and enthusiasm on their side. Still, the A's have pride and should win, even without Catfish Hunter.

As for Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, the Red Machine ought to come out ahead of the Pirates, lest they have lost their momentum. The Red Machine has been awesome this season.

And if it should wind up the A's meeting the Reds in the World Series, I'll go with the Reds this year. The Reds have been helped by the return of Don Gullett and they have Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan. How could you pick against them?

*****

By all means go out to Jones Stadium tonight and see the Picadors and Shoats in action. Both teams have future stars on their rosters and it should be a good game.

Even more important, the battle is in a great cause. It supports the Shrine's burns institutes. And what a wonderful hope it gives to people to know that there is somewhere to turn in case of bad burns, far more common than you'd think.

Get behind this effort and support it tonight.

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton

You Can Be Healed Emotionally
Probably at some point in life, every person has needed an inner healing. This is true because of the hurt and harm that most people have experienced within the heart.

Jesus said, "I have come to heal the brokenhearted and to give deliverance to those who are bound." (Luke 4:18)

Many adults are needlessly suffering from the hurts and memories of the past. Some are still reacting to the things of the past because their hearts are not whole.

"Out of the heart are the issues of life." (Prov. 4:23) Our hearts must be made whole if we are to experience the fullness of life. There are many people who are suffering physical sickness because their heart and hurts need to be mended by God's power.

We must give our painful memories to God and allow Him to shine His healing antiseptic light into the dark corners of our life.

We also need to open the windows of our heart and let the Lord air out the mustiness of buried bitterness, jealousy, and fear.

I have seen many people emotionally healed as they allowed God's Spirit to touch the area of the heart and emotions.

There are also some children that definitely need inner healing. They need a release of the feelings and needs that they have locked within.

If you need prayer for inner peace, you definitely should seek help.

Postal Rates Not Scheduled to Rise Until After Yearly Christmas Season

Postage rates will not increase until after Christmas, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar announced today. Bailar said that the Postal Service will file with the Postal Rate Commission for the new rates "some time in the next two weeks."

If the Commission does not act within 90 days of the filing, the Postal Service may increase rates on a "temporary" basis.

The exact amounts of the increases to be requested have not been finally determined, but they are expected to include 13-cents for the first ounce of ordinary first-class mail, with appropriate increases for other classes of mail. They will most likely take effect during the week following Christmas, although the precise date cannot be set until after the filing with the Rate Commission. The Postal Service ran deficits of over $430 million for fiscal year 1974 and approximately $825 million in ifscal 1975, and estimates current losses at approximately $200 million per month.

Coach Goodin is our teacher spotlight for this week. Coach and his wife reside in the Shallowater area. His wife, Lily Goodin, is employed by the Frenship School District.

He is our speech and drama teacher, assistant football coach and head track coach. Besides sports, he is sponsor of the one act play and the freshman class.

Coach said that most of his interests are centered around sports but he also enjoys working with animals.

His comment on Shallowater is, "Shallowater has a very warm and friendly atmosphere, and the community has a strong concern for the education of its youth. The school system itself has made giant steps in meeting this concern for education."

We all welcome Coach Goodin and his family to Shallowater and to SHS.

There will be a meeting of the Future Teachers of America Tuesday, October 7, 1975 at 7:30 p.m. Officers will be elected and plans for the new year will be discussed.

Any high school student is invited to attend this meeting. FTA members grade papers, put up bulletin boards, student teach, etc. to receive points. At the end of the year, students with the most points are eligible to attend the FTA State Convention in Houston.

We plan to have a great year with lots of activities. Your attendance will help us reach our goal.

Football Spotlights

by Kim McMenemy

The football spotlights this week are Jackie Randolph and Johnny Taylor.

Jackie, a senior, plays tight end on offense and he plays outside linebacker on defense. Jackie is a tough guy to beat at 6 ft. 2, 160 pounds. He works hard to keep the football team going. Jackie had hard luck last year, when he hurt his knee early in the season. This year Jackie is staying healthy and is playing great.

Johnny is 5 ft. 10 inches and weighs 165 pounds. Johnny plays tailback on offense, and he is leading the Mustangs in rushing yardage and total offensive yards gained. Johnny plays outside linebacker on defense. Johnny says he loves to score touchdowns, and likes to hurt his opponent.

Stamp Collectors in Shallowater High

by Sue Wall and Melissa Martin

Thursday, September 25, a portion of the high school students attended an assembly on stamp collecting. The assembly was presented by Mr. James Winder, postmaster of the U.S. Post Office in Plains, Texas and Mr. Milton Elliott, postmaster of the Shallowater Post Office.

Mr. Winder showed a film, "Image of America", and held a short discussion afterwards. The film had two main purposes. First, to promote the bicentennial of our country and secondly to show that the history of America can be traced through postage stamps. The movie also made a third point; how commemorative stamps are made.

During the discussion, Mr. Winder told the students of several ways to collect stamps. The easiest and most inexpensive is by keeping the canceled stamps off letters received through the mail. The second way he showed was collecting stamps in a block style and the most expensive way was in a commemorative style. This style supplies the collector with a block of stamps, an explanation of what they stand for, and engraved pictures of the stamps.

Mr. Winder showed a portion of his stamp collection, also. His complete collection includes approximately 1000 stamps. He commented that he has been collecting stamps for 15 years and his collection then was worth $200.00. He said that the worth has increased immensely the past few years.

Mr. Winder is a member of the Adult Stamp Club and is a sponsor of the Young People's Club in Plains. He is the Philatelic Project Officer of the Lubbock Section Center and he speaks in 83 area towns.

The program was interesting and factual and students appreciate Mr. Winder and Mr. Elliott coming to speak to them.

Senior Spotlight

by Geniese Grawunder

Dean Vickrey and Amy Boring are the two senior spotlights for this week.

Dean attended Shallowater High School his freshman year, and then moved to Corona, New Mexico. About coming back to Shallowater, Dean says, "it's different than it was. I like it better now."

Dean is a Mustang football player. His hobbies include welding, woodworking and building model space ships. Dean plans either to follow a career in welding or science.

Amy Boring is one of Shallowater High's new students. Amy moved to Shallowater from Halton High School in Fort Worth. Halton High School is a very large school, and it was a big change for Amy when she came to Shallowater. About small schools, Amy says, "You meet people faster. I like a small school better."

Amy is a very active member of FHA. She likes to bowl and sew. One of her special hobbies is making flowers from fabric scraps. She plans to attend college after graduation. She hopes to have a career working with children.

Seventh Graders Undefeated

by Robert Sanders

The Shallowater Ponies marked another win to their record as they defeated Hale Center last Thursday night, 12-0. Hale Center won the toss and Shallowater kicked off. The Ponies' defense would not give a yard to the Hale Center offense so they had to punt. Late in the first quarter when Shallowater had the ball, action really started. Fullback Marcus Lara ran 30 yards for the touchdown. Shallowater tried the 2 point play and was unsuccessful in scoring. So the score stood Shallowater 5, Hale Center 0.

Starting the second quarter off, neither team was successful in moving the ball. But late in the second quarter, quarterback Robert Sanders, threw a 30 yard pass to split-end Mark Gungman to the two yard line. Then the Ponies went in for the score making the score at halftime Shallowater 12, Hale Center 0.

Starting the second half, Shallowater kicked off to Hale Center. Hale Center offense moved the ball 63 yards to the 8 yard line. But Shallowater's defense prevailed and Hale Center failed to score.

Action really started in the fourth quarter when quarterback Robert Sanders threw to Marcus Lara twice for 13 yards, but time ran out. The final score was Shallowater 12, Hale Center 0.

English Class Takes Field Trip

by Kim McMenemy

Last Monday the Shallowater English IV class went to Lubbock to eat and take in a play. The group of 25 Shallowater Seniors boarded a school bus at 6:00 p.m. and headed for the Santa Fe Station. The Santa Fe Station is a new restaurant, patterned after the old Santa Fe railroad station. After filling up on Mexican food, the class headed for the Lubbock Theater Center to see the sensational play "Showboat."

The musical Broadway hit was really enjoyed by the class. The play had a cast of about 30 characters, with about 8 main actors. The play had its funny parts and sad parts both, but everything turned out perfect in the end.

The English IV class really had a nice time, and they would like to thank their teacher, Mrs. Kulm, for taking them.

FHA Installation

by Anita Alvarado

FHA will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday, October 6th. Invitations have been mailed to parents. Initiation for new members will precede candlelight installation ceremonies for 1975-76 officers.

Breakfast will be served to all new members Monday morning at 7:30 a.m.

Plans are now underway for the FHA float. The float will take lots of hard work, time, and cooperation from all the FHA girls.

"We would like to have all of our girls participate in these activities," commented Mrs. Harrison.

We Salute Shallowater Restaurant...
