Plane Belly Lands Near Shallowater

While attempting to land at Shallowater's airport, the pilot of this plane hit an embankment before the runway—shearing the landing gear from the aircraft's bottom. No one was hurt in the accident.

Between four and five thousand dollars damage was sustained to a single engine Cherokee 140 airplane last Wednesday night at 8:30, when it made a belly landing at the Shallowater airport.

The accident occurred when the pilot, James R. Caddell, came in for landing a little low and hit an embankment at the sewer plant across the road from the airport, knocking the landing gear off. He managed to belly land the plane on the airport strip safely. Miraculously, neither Caddell or his passenger, Ken Swanson from Reese Air Force Base, were injured in the accident.

The plane, owned by Larry Jeter of Shallowater, received damage to both wings and the landing gear in the mishap.

Shallowater ISD Election Date is Set for April 3rd

The first Saturday in April (April 3, 1976) has been designated election day for Shallowater Independent School District by the Board of Trustees.

Any qualified voter living inside the district is eligible to run for office. In order to place a name on the official ballot, the individual must file their application with the Secretary of the Board, thirty (30) days prior to the election date in the school business office. This year the last day to file is March 4, 1976.

Three members term of office

A progress payment of five-cents per pound is being made this week by American Cotton Growers, members of Shallowater Cooperative Gin were informed Monday night at a special meeting in the Community Building.

Doyce Middlebrook, president of the Shallowater group and a director of the 3,000-member ACG, presided at the meeting which featured reports from staff representatives of PCCA and ACG.

C.L. Boggs, Assistant General Manager of PCCA, the association which has a contract to provide marketing services to ACG, stated that excellent progress has been made in seasonal pool sales.

"We are right on schedule in making this first progress payment," he said. "This payment, together with subsequent payments over the course of the seasonal pool, will provide you with a better average price than you could have obtained elsewhere."

ACG serves 26 cooperative cotton ginning organizations in the West Texas area. In addition to its marketing concept of pooling cotton and merchandising over a 10-month period which concludes on September 30, the organization is building a $30 million denim manufacturing facility in Littlefield.

Bob Hale, Manager of the Textile Division, also attended the Shallowater meeting and gave an update on progress of the textile mill.

"The mill is progressing entirely on schedule and we will be making some cloth as early as the middle of April," Mr. Hale reported.

When completed, the facility will consume nearly 65,000 bales of cotton annually, spun and woven into indigo-dyed denim. The mill will use the revolutionary new spinning technique called "open-end." A total of 360 looms will produce 20 million yards of denim annually. Approximately 450 persons will be employed.

ACG's marketing program calls for members to be advanced a conservative price level at time of delivery and for progress payments to be made over the marketing season as there is an inflow of cash. The concept is patterned after the successful program employed over the past 30 years by Calcot, Ltd., in the Far West. The program strives to attain for members a strong average price reflecting market prices over a prolonged period such as 10 months rather than only at harvest time.

ACG's payment to its membership this week totals over $4.5 million and represents the organization's first progress payment of the season, in addition to the initial advance of "even the loan."

Dalton Potter Starts "Whole New Ballgame"

"It's not an easy thing to set aside 15 years of one's life and start a whole new ballgame," said Dalton Potter of his decision to leave Pot-Luck Barbershop, February 1, to devote his full time to swine production.

Potter, who has barbered in Shallowater for 10 years, graduated from Sacramento Barber College and studied advanced hairstyling under J. Sebring, originator of the Sebring hairstyling technique. He spent 5 years in California as a hair stylist, and managed the Classic Barber Salon before returning to Shallowater in 1967. He barbered side-by-side with F.L. Luck until 1970 when he purchased the shop now known as the Pot-Luck Barbershop.

"I'm going to be lost without my old men," says Dalton. "The greatest part of every day for me was the time spent in exchange of friendly joshing, good natured ribbing and just general chewing of the fat. These folks have seen me through lots of hard times and rejoiced in the good ones with me."

The little two chair shop has been a gathering place for this community for many years. "I've always tried to maintain a small town "crackerbarrel" type atmosphere where young and old alike can feel free just to drop in to pass the time of day. I didn't care whether they needed a haircut or not, if they would just come in and talk a little. Of course, you understand, they had to listen to me a little too!" People have at one time or another come from as far away as Abilene for a haircut and a little of the friendly banter so characteristic of the shop.

Having grown up in Shallowater, this man has been a familiar part of local color for a number of years. As a youngster he worked with his father, K.L. Potter on a number of farms in the area. He has always been an energetic, enterprising person and has dabbled in a number of ventures.

As a boy he arranged with Mrs. C.C. Vance of the Vancy Hatchery to pick up the culls carried out of the hatchery buildings and scrounged about for feed to raise young fryers. When they became eating size, he rode horseback from neighbor to neighbor selling his fryers. "From training horses in Pennsylvania to "bustin" brones in California, I've tried a little of all of it," he comments.

During high school years Potter was a part of FFA stock shows and began even then to develop any eye and "fifth sense" for fine hogs so that the hog business is more than just a recent dream with this man. "I guess once it gets in your system, you just can't get it out," laughs Dalton. "I've always believed I could develop a fine line of hogs and now I've got my chance to see. It scares me plumb to death, and my banker too, but I believe we have a good

Water District Election Results

Twenty-eight votes were cast in Shallowater in the Lubbock County Water Control and Improvement District #1 election that was held Saturday in the Community Building.

According to Mrs. George Blackmon, presiding judge, there was more interest in this year's election, since usually there are less than 15 votes cast each time.

The three elected to the board were Burl Kizer, C.B. (Cubby) Key, and V.G. Browning.

Kizer, a Lubbock homebuilder, lives at 5415 78th St., and has been a board member since 1964. Browning is a Slaton insurance agent and a board member since 1958. Key, who was making his second bid for the board, lives at 5502 27th St. and is an auto parts dealer.

In the Shallowater election, Kizer polled 17 votes, Key 15 votes, Manuel Truelock 14 votes, Browning 11 votes, Roberts 8 votes, Pate 6 votes, and Curry received 5 votes.

In the Hi Plains Underground Water District election held Saturday in the Community Building, Granville Igo polled 29 votes to serve on the board, replacing Glen Blackmon, whose term expires this year. Blackmon has served on the board since 1968.

The animals previously won trophies in the local show, held in Shallowater. Some of the members will compete again in the Southwest Livestock Show in Ft. Worth, March 14-15-16.

Members who entered animals in the county show were Scott Penny, Ricky Barron, Terri Stanton, Patti Stanton, Barry Randolph, Van Simkins, Cheryl Potter, Celeste Potter, Allen Judah, Benny Judah, Dianne Perser, Ray Seale, Mike Hammersley, Roy Cason, Kelly Simmons, Lane Giles, Brandy Giles and Rod Burgett.

The local departments are under the supervision of Kenneth Carr, Ag teacher, who is doing an excellent job in that department.

will expire this year. They are Mr. Donald Martin, Mr. Melvin Stewart, and Mr. Walter Hutton. These men have a total of 15 years of service to the School District. Mr. Stewart with six years, Mr. Martin with six years, and Mr.

Hutton with three years of service. The Board and school system wish to express their appreciation for their many hours of service.

Making the All Region Band, which will perform at Coronado High School Saturday night, was Dee Ann Cobb, who plays French horn.

The 13-year-old 8th grade student is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clois Cobb and this is the second year for her to play French horn. She holds first chair position.

Dee Ann has been a band student for four years, is an active basketball player, a member of the pep squad and has resided in Shallowater all of her life.

Other students who participated in the contest were Billy Howell, coronet; Kim Medlock, Kathy Boone, and Seena Connors, flute; and Becky Walker, clarinet, all 7th grade students.

Mrs. Mike Stevens, and Karen Stevens, all of Lubbock.

Dawn DuLaney Receives Gold Medal at Meet

The Midland Y.M.C.A. Invitational Gymnastics Meet was held in that city Saturday, January 17, with a Shallowater girl, 9 year old Dawn DuLaney, awarded a gold medal.

Dawn won a first in all-around in the 9 and 10 year age group.

In order to receive the 1st, all-around gold medal, Dawn placed first in beam, with an 8.6 score (which was incidentally, the top score of the meet for all of the 100 contestants), 1st in uneven bars, 4th in floor exercise and 5th in vault.

thing going and I'm going to give it all I've got," he comments.

Potter and his partner, Jay Stanton of Shallowater, plan to increase their swine heard to a 50 sow, as a start. They will be using some of the finest facilities available to swine breeders and will continue to develop a bloodline suitable to modern day market demands. "The competition is tough, says Dalton, "but I believe we have some good things going for us which will give us staypower."

In addition to commercial stock, Potter and his daughters, Celeste 13, and Cheryl 10, will continue to frequent local stock shows with registered Durocs and are looking toward the state and national shows in the not too distant future.

Asked what he felt had been the key factor in his reaching his goal of a hog operation of his own, he said, "There have been many people in this community who've helped along the way, and of course, there's been plenty of hard work, but I believe the biggest thing was my Christian commitment to the Lord five years ago. When I turned it all over to Him, my life began to change and those changes have put me where I am today."

So as the "country barber" lays aside his shears and crawls into his battered overalls, he leaves behind a colorful 15 years, to do what few men do nowadays, see a tow-headed school boy's dream come true.

Mary Ruth Walker Honored With Surprise Party

Mrs. Mary Ruth Walker was released from University Hospital last week following surgery and is doing fine at her home.

Her birthday cake was iced in white, decorated with lovely red roses, encribed with "Happy Birthday Nanie and Ruth." Nanie is what her little granddaughter, April Miles, calls her.

Present for the occasion was Mrs. Walker's husband, Tom, and son Wes, her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Miles and April, a sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Swinford of Wolforth, and a niece, Sheila Gravor also of Wolforth, and Mrs. Walker's mother, Mrs. Inez Redwine.

STAR-SPANGLED HISTORY

HISTORICAL DRAWINGS BY JOSEPH BOGGS BEALE (1841-1926)

NATHAN HALE

Twenty-one year old Nathan Hale had volunteered for a special assignment: he was to obtain information on the British position for General Washington. Disguising himself as a Dutch schoolmaster, Hale had successfully crossed British lines and was returning to the American side when he was captured. Many believe he was betrayed by a cousin. Before being hanged as a spy by the British, he made himself a place in history when he said, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country." SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It was on the amusing side, really. Here was SMU Coach Sonny Allen saying that it was a big win for Tech, that they had to have this game. And, Gerald Myers said the same thing.

In reality, it was a game that both teams had to win, and obviously, one of them wouldn't be able to do it. A victory for the Ponies would have tied them with Tech, kept them in the thick of the fight. Now, SMU is fighting for survival.

A second home loss would have been disastrous for the Raiders, virtually eliminated them for title consideration. Instead, Tech went into first place, tied in losses with A&M, but in front by virtue of two more victories than the Aggies.

In the end Tech won because it went into the one and one sooner, had better success at the free throw line. The Raiders picked up six of nine on the bonus situation, SMU only two of three.

Tech shot better the second half, but SMU had one more field goal. Turnovers the last half were even at eight. And Tech held an edge in rebounds the last half, 25 to 22.

It was the type of game you have come to expect when SMU and Tech meet, and the margins were so thin you couldn't slip a cigarette paper in between them. It was a classic battle and, in the final analysis, the Raiders seemed to want it a little more.

Ira Terrell and Rick Bullock are entirely different types of players and their head-on meeting resulted in another virtual standoff. Neither played up to his potential, but both were important to their teams.

Bullock got a key tipin with 74 seconds left that gave Tech an important five-point edge. SMU was trying to go to Terrell at the end and he just couldn't respond.

There's no rest this week. The Raiders have a pair of tough games, Arkansas last night and Houston there Saturday. And the race is such that the lead may well see-saw the rest of the way.

But Tech and the Aggies have one thing in their favor. Five teams are bunched closely together behind them and, even if they knock off a leader, they will be beating each other. So it really is coming down to a two-team race with half the season to go.

In this first half, six of the teams played their eighth game Monday night—SMU, Arkansas, Houston (all 4-3) and Baylor (3-4), Texas (2-5) and Rice (0-7).

Tech (6-1) and TCU (3-3) played their eighth games Wednesday night and A&M plays its eighth Saturday night. For A&M, it's a rugged eight days, with four games—the double overtime loss to Arkansas and games Monday, Wednesday and Saturday.

The Raiders and Aggies are running neck and neck. Tech's loss to the Aggies here hurt and leaves it 3-1 at home, 3-0 on the road. A&M is 2-0 at home, 2-1 on the road, so the edge there is about equal.

Houston is 4-0 at home, but 0-3 on the road; Arkansas is 3-1 at home, 1-2 on the road; SMU is 3-0 at home, but 1-3 on the road. TCU is 3-0 at home and 0-3 on the road.

The race is far from over and it should be exciting for the fans right down to the wire—and tournament.

Back in the days when SMU ruled the conference and then when Tech came along to challenge, it was rare that either team used more than six players, sometimes a seventh.

It was nice to have a capable bench and depth, but these players seldom saw service, unless a regular wasn't doing well, or was in foul trouble. That seems, obviously, to be changing. Both Tech and SMU sent nine players into action.

Fortunately, Gerald Myers saw fit to go with his starters, primarily, in the last half, and it paid off. Even one substitute can upset the rhythm of a team.

That was obvious the first half Saturday, when Tech seemed on the verge of blowing the Ponies off the court. But subs came in, the Ponies got back in the game and when the regulars returned, they had lost their momentum.

Not quite two-thirds of the season has been played. The players ought to be in shape, certainly in good enough shape to play 40 minutes. And it was only Tech's second game of the week.

By all means replace players in foul trouble, or who aren't contributing, but it ought to be done cautiously. Let the top five play. It's hard to play hard, cool off and then come back with the same style displayed initially.

One last Cotton Bowl story. My wife and I were asked, along with Ish and Marylou Haley (Times-Herald) to escort the Arkansas players to the Gran Crystal Palace dinner-show theater. The two chartered busses were accompanied by the Arkansas State Police car. Regardless of lights, it blocked intersections and herded the buses straight through.

A couple of the Arkansas players were laughing and told us what had happened the first night the State Police car had been with them.

"We looked up and saw flashing red lights and Dallas police had pulled the state police car over. After a long talk, the Dallas police fell in and escorted us the rest of the way too!"

Sheridan's Ride

If you've been around anywhere in these parts during the last year, then you know that good old Roy Rogers, that Saturday afternoon movie favorite of all of us way back when, has emerged from the shadows of a kind of retirement and has gone back in front of the cameras.

You might say he's back in the saddle again, but that is only partially true. For in his new picture, "Mackintosh and T.J.," a Penland Productions release, his companion is a beat-up pickup truck, though he does get in some bronc busting during the course of the film. The picture, PG-rated and running 96 minutes, is the upcoming week's big excitement, for it has its world premiere at the Winchester Theater just a week from today, February 5, with a grand splashy Hollywood opening to-do. Roy and wife Dale Evans, will be on hand for the event which is a benefit that affects us all. Proceeds will go to the Ranching Heritage Center at The Museum of Texas Tech University.

The hoop-la will open with a reception for the premiere moviegoers in the lobby of the theater at 7 p.m., and "Mackintosh and T.J." will take over the screen at 8 p.m. Tickets are set at $10, $25 and $50, with the $50 holders in a special Golden Row section. These lucky ones will attend an after movie supper party with the Rogers.

The seats are all reserved and may be purchased at the Tech Museum out on 4th Street, or by writing P.O. Box 4612, Texas Tech University, Lubbock.

About 20 or so of us were given the chance to see an advance preview of "Mackintosh and T.J.," this past week, and let me go on record here to say, that all of you who have deplored violence, sex and all the rest of the current movie fare, can head for the Winchester Theater. You'll find a genial, warm family film that is not without its thrills and its threats—some baddies try to pin a murder on Roy but truth will and does win out in the end.

The plot tells of Rogers and 14-year old Clay O'Brien as Mackintosh and T.J. respectively, and the older man's task in making a man out of a rebellious, wayward youngster against the richly colorful and hard-living backdrop of the famed 6666 Ranch in Guthrie. There are a number of solid characterizations in support, Joan Hackett as a none too happy ranch wife, and Andrew Robinson as a peeping tom who kills Billy Green Bush after being surprised in the act of eyeing Bush's wife, Miss Hackett. A couple of nasties, played by James Hampton and Dennis Fimple, try to shift the blame to Roy, but are thwarted.

The plot is relatively simple, but what makes it readily tick, is a combination of factors. Primarily, it is the open simplicity that Rogers brings to his film comeback, an older, warmer, wiser, broader-in-beam, Rogers in his hold straw hat, cotton shirt and faded jeans. Complimenting the older man very nicely is young O'Brien who plays with a sureness and touching awareness. The aforementioned supporting players round out the portrait, aided by a number of stuntmen and 6666 personnel. The music by Waylon Jennings also ably enhances the West Texas scene, while the stunning photography by Terry Mead, of the open highway, the sweep of the ranch, and quick shots in Dickens and Matador, comprise some of the best and most realistic upper Texas backgrounds since the memorable shots in "Hud."

The director, Marvin J. Chomsky, had a rapport with the screenplay, but even more importantly, for his background and the characters of his cast, bringing to somewhat stereotype figures, a knowing kind of warmth that sets them off nicely.

It comes as a kind of shock to realize that it has been 24 years since Roy Rogers was seen in "Son of Paleface," and almost that long since his television series. Of course, we have had Roy and Dale Evans with us as rodeo entertainers, but to see him in the screen's larger-than-life portrayal again is a kind of gratifying nostalgia bit for many of us.

Tim Penland is the producer of this modest film. He is formerly out of Fort Worth and, I suspect, that his Texas background meant a considerable deal in capturing the land, the ranch, and the present times, in "Mackintosh and T.J."

So, Thursday coming up, February 5, is the Big Day at the Winchester Theater, and I can say that if you are counted among the premiere attendees you will gain two things. You will be making an important contribution to the most worthy Ranching Heritage Center at The Museum at Texas Tech, and at the same time, you will be right in the swing of real premiere excitement. And, you'll be watching a very nice piece of picture-making, an unusual treat in these callow days. "Mackintosh and T.J." is a bit of Americana that comes along just right in the Bicentennial scheme of things. And when the Ranching Heritage Center opens formally this July 2-5, "Mackintosh and T.J." will have had a good hand in contributing to the history of ranching in the western United States.

When this Midwest town was struck by a massive tornado, Red Cross didn't have to be invited in. We were there.

To feed people. To house and clothe them. To make sure they got the right medical treatment.

And when extra help is needed, Red Cross has disaster teams in communities all over the country. We have flying squads of experts with long experience in disaster management. They're on their way from regional headquarters or Washington, D.C. in a matter of hours—to help local Red Cross volunteers cope with what often seems the uncopable.

Red Cross. It's working in your neighborhood. And it's ready to go to work anywhere in the country, when there's a disaster—doing all those things you'd do yourself, if you could.

Basketball Spotlights

by Chris Hutchings

The basketball spotlight this week is the Fillies' Judy Waller, and the Mustangs' Benny Judah. Judy Waller is a tough forward on the Fillies' basketball team. Judy is 5'6". She uses her jumping ability to grab rebounds and get the ball back up on the boards. Judy can also play guard.

Benny Judah is a guard on the Mustang team. He is 5'6". Benny is a terrific playmaker and surehanded ball-handler. He has a great shot that makes his opponent play him close.

Mustangs Lose Close One

by Kim McMenamy

Last Friday the Shallowater Mustangs played the Plains Cowboys at Plains. It was close the entire ballgame. The score flip-flopped back and forth as they tried to build up a lead. With about six minutes play, the Mustangs held a seven point lead. Plains put on a rally at that point and started slowly gaining on the Mustangs. With a minute to go the Cowboys got a one point lead. The Mustangs made two and led the Cowboys with 30 seconds left. Plains scored and the Mustangs could not score in time and lost a heartbreaker, 45 to 44. Ray Jackson was high point for the Mustangs, with 14 points.

The J.V. girls won by a score of 41-15 and the J.V. boys lost 39-37.

8th Grade Boys Tournament

by R.J.

The Shallowater 8th grade boys traveled to Olton for their second annual basketball tournament. The opening game for Shallowater was played against Olton. Shallowater won with a score of 49-23. High point of the game was Rodney Jackson with 26 points. Shallowater's next game was played against Tulia. The Ponies came out on top once more 41-35. Neal Luck was high with 15.

The Ponies took on Littlefield for first place on Saturday night and were defeated. The score was 42-31. The Ponies played a good game and to prove it Randy Middlebrook and Rodney Jackson were tied for high point with 12 points.

The Square Ring Gladiators

by Melissa Martin

Time was, to be a successful boxer, you had to be a very self-reliant person. It helped considerably to be broke, hungry, Irish and endowed with an abundance of intestinal fortitude. Even now many boxers get started by a need to improve their economic position rather than an eagerness for a place in the limelight.

Things have changed some, now there are many classy looking fellows with well trimmed beards and without that hungry look. Most boxers skin has added a little color, shades of brown and black. Maybe this is because a lot of whites have grown so used to the easy life, that climbing out of a new sports job and into the squared ring is just too much of a climb.

Yet, give these luxury laden athletes a fan club, pretty cheerleaders, large roaring crowds, the best coaches money can buy, and a sport that doesn't require much weight reduction, but instead places a premium on great height or size, and these ladie-Os will come forth with their utmost.

Courage is another ingredient every athlete must possess and I know of no better way to measure it than in the boxing game, from one bell to the next.

Boxing is a sport that calls for athletes who would rather perform alone. He wins on his own and he loses on his own, and often times he trains alone. If he can't learn to take a loss, he doesn't box for long.

The really good boxers seem to possess a sixth sense. They also possess an insensibility to blows. Outside the ropes he is usually just average with no noticeable mental or physical endowment, but after the bell rings, decisions become instant, thinking becomes brilliant.

May they come into the hearts and appreciation of sports fans everywhere. HAIL! the Square Ring Gladiators!

Rosary Held for Wm. C. Heinen

Rosary for William Conrad Heinen, prominent 55 year old farmer of Rt. 1, Shallowater, was held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in Resthaven-Singleton-Wilson Funeral Home Chapel in Lubbock. Mass was read at 10 a.m. Monday in St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church with the Rev. Tito Sammut, pastor of the University Catholic parish, officiating.

Burial was in Resthaven Memorial Park.

Heinen, who was a World War II veteran, was dead on arrival at Lubbock Methodist Hospital Thursday at 3:37 p.m., following an apparent heart attack at his farm home southwest of Shallowater.

A member of the University Catholic Church in Lubbock, Heinen moved to the Shallowater area eight years ago from Littlefield, where he had lived all his life.

Survivors include his wife, Norma; three sons, William J. of 5401 4th St., Lubbock; Robery and Tony, both of the home; five daughters, Mrs. Michael Rathbun of Houston, Bridget of Williamsburg, Va., Peggy, Susan and Rosemary, all of the home; two sisters and a grandchild.

Pallbearers were Judge Pat Boone, Jr., James Davidson, Dr. R.E. Maurer, Arthur Duggan, E.R. Aday and Walter Lupton, Jr.

Cheerfulness and content are great beautifiers, and are famous preservers of youthful looks.

Rays of Hope

by Pat Stanton
King Solomon is known for his wisdom and great understanding. His writings from the Proverbs offer to man great truths of wisdom and riches.
We as Christian believers need to continually feed upon God's Word, and the Proverbs should be in our daily diet of spiritual food. Listed below are practical guidelines for our lives.
Prov. 15:13—A joyful heart makes a cheerful face, but when the heart is sad, the spirit is broken.
Prov. 15:32—He who neglects discipline despises himself, but he who listens to reproof acquires understanding.
Prov. 15:33—The fear of the Lord is the instruction for wisdom, and before honor comes humility.
Prov. 16:3—Commit thy works to the Lord, and your plans will be established.
Prov. 16:5—Everyone who is proud in heart, is an abomination to the Lord; assuredly, he will not be unpunished.

Prov. 16:7—When a man's ways are pleasing to the Lord, he makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.
Prov. 16:18—Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before stumbling.
Prov. 16:24—Pleasant words are a honeycomb, sweet to the soul and healing to the bones.
Prov. 16:32—He who is slow to anger is better than the mighty, and he who rules his spirit, than he who captures a city.
Prov. 17:27—He who restrains his words has knowledge, and he who has a cool spirit is a man of understanding.
True wisdom is found in Jesus Christ. Accept His life fully and receive of His wisdom and understanding. Col. 2:3: "In whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge."
