Mustangs Drop 46-0 Decision to Number 1 Team in State Friday

The Shallowater Mustangs were matched against the No. 1 Class A football team in the state last Friday night, Seagraves High school. The state ranked Seagraves team proved to be just that by beating the Mustangs 46-0.

At the end of the first quarter, the score stood 18-0 and remained that way on into the half. At the end of the third quarter of play, the score stood at 32-0, and the final was 46-0.

The Mustangs had 94 yards total offense Friday night with 4 for 13 in the passing department for fifty of those 94 yards total offense. The Mustangs had 10 first downs to Seagraves' 22 first downs. Seagraves had a total of 367 yards rushing and 43 yards in the air.

There is probably no better team in the state that the Mustangs could have played.

Shallowater's First Bale of Cotton

The first bale of cotton for the season came from the Wright farm, brought in by John Shipp, to the Shallowater Co-op Gin.

The first load of cotton for this season was received at the Shallowater Co-op Gin Saturday, October 18th. The cotton was cut by John Shipp and came from the Wright Farm.

The grade of the cotton was middling with 31/32nd staple. The turnout was at 22%. The bail of cotton came from one acre of the Wright farm.

Carey Gooch, manager of the Co-op, said that some cotton in the area has already been defoliated and he expects an early start this year on the cotton harvest. The first bale received last year came on November 14th.

Notes from The Mayor

This week I would like to make a few comments on the outstanding Harvest Festival sponsored by the Lions Club in Shallowater this past weekend.

It was kicked off by an outstanding parade with many excellent floats depicting the Bicentennial theme. Many people are due a lot of credit for all the hard work that went into it. I would have hated to have judged the floats this year, as they were all so good.

Some of the comments that I heard around town were: "greatest ever", "I lived in Odessa and it beat anything they had", "I just didn't have enough time to see all that was on the floats", and so on.

I just want to apologize to Dalton Potter for thinking he would never get that giant hog to finish the parade. Instead of bolting out of the parade, the hog and Dalton finished like veteran troopers, with the help of his dog and daughter. Dalton, how are you ever going to top this act?

Our town received excellent publicity because of the festival. Our queen and princess candidates were interviewed on the TFO show by Bill McAllister on KMCC-TV, Channel 28. "Suburban Today" did an excellent job of covering and publicizing it. We also had good coverage in the "Avalanche-Journal" and "Lubbock Today". This lets other people know we are proud to be citizens of Shallowater and proud Americans who are celebrating the Bicentennial year.

The money raised during the festival goes for various projects in our city, such as glasses for needy children, Little Dribblers, Little League Park and other community needs as they come up. Last year, the money helped the Shallowater P.T.A. with the financing on the air conditioning for the school. Also, the funds help the Girls Town and Crippled Children's Hospital.

The money is important, but perhaps one of the main things the festival does is to get us together as a community in one effort, which makes us better neighbors. This all proves to me once again what a wonderful place this is to live.

The Lions Club Bicentennial Harvest Festival was held last Saturday in Shallowater.

The fun started at 10 a.m. Saturday with a parade through Shallowater led by Police Chief Don Rackler and Judge Vance. The fighting Mustang band marched along with the junior band. The parade included floats prepared by area students.

The winners of the float contest were: First Place went to the 5th grade and their Boston Tea Party float; Second Place went to the 3rd grade class and their First Thanksgiving float; and 3rd place went to the FFA float. The parade also included area riding clubs. The winner of the riding club competition was the Lubbock Saddle Club, The Abernathy Riding Club was second and the Shallowater Riding Club was third.

The activities continued in the afternoon with a punt and pass contest held at Todd Field. The winners of that contest were as follows: In the 7 year old class, Davy Rodes took top honors with Matt Martin winning second; in the 8 year old class, the winners were Troy Medlock, first place; Lube Treveno, 2nd place and Greg Cowart, 3rd place. In the 9 year old class, winners were Tracy Cobb, first; Barry Rodes, second; and Jerry Pack, third. In the 10 year old division, Stewart Smith took top honors, Scott Middleton took 2nd and Don Smith took third place. In the 11 year old class, Joe Maldonado took top honors, Elvando Duentez took second and Kelvin Taylor took third. In the 12 year old class, Lynn Mitten took first and Ugene Duentez took second place.

The Lion's Club auction took place at 6:30 p.m. By far the most valuable item auctioned off was Dalton Potter's beard. The beard now belongs to Charles Krebs.

The highlight of the days activities came Saturday evening with the Queen and Princess contest. The 1975-76 Lion's Club Harvest Queen is Miss Geniese Grawunder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Grawunder of Shallowater. Miss Grawunder was escorted by George Stanton. First runner-up was Kim Young, escorted by Chet Webb. Other contestants and their escorts were Patti Ewing, escorted by Tom Sinclair; Laura Thompson, escorted by Alex Grice; and Gwen Avery, escorted by Brantley Adams. The 1975-76 Lions Club Harvest Festival Princess is Miss Amy Stephenson, daughter of Mrs. Sue Stephenson. Miss Stephenson's escort was Trey Boozer. The 1st runner-up was Miss Steffany Wolski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wolski. She was escorted by Marion Parrack. Other candidates and their escorts included La Rail Wilson, escorted by Randle Reams; Ellen Masten, escorted by Trenton Chandler; and Audra Fairhurst, escorted by Jeff Oliver.

All together it was quite a day with a lot of celebrating going on. The Lions worked together to bring one of the best Harvest Festivals seen in a long time, and they deserve high praise for their efforts.

Shallowater Police Beat

Narcotics, Part II

In the last report of narcotics, I talked about the availability of narcotics in Shallowater and about the problem of Law Enforcement manpower to fight the use and distribution of drugs in the United States. I also talked about the users and dealers of narcotics. This week, I would like to talk about the different types of narcotics and their effects.

The first narcotic I would like to mention is hallucinogens. This is a fancy word for LSD, Pselocybin, STP, DMT, Mescaline and Peyote. These types of drugs cause four types of effects: (1) produces hallucinations; (2) exhilaration or depression; (3) can lead to suicidal or homicidal tendencies; (4) produces visual images to increase and also causes sensory awareness, anxiety, nausea, impaired coordination and sometimes consciousness expansion.

The dangers of taking these drugs are: (1) small quantities cause recurring hallucinations for days; (2) mental dependence possible; (3) damage to chromosomes, and hence to offspring has been demonstrated in scientific research.

The second narcotic I would like to talk about is Heroin. Heroin is one of the most known drugs for suicides in the United States, due to the strength of the drug. There are five different effects in taking Heroin. They are: (1) constipation, loss of appetite and weight; (2) sedation; (3) relief of pain; (4) impaired intellectual functioning and coordination; (5) also, like morphine in all respects except it is faster and shorter acting.

The dangers of taking this drug are: (1) physical dependence is high; (2) mental dependence exists; (3) also, like morphine, dependence develops more rapidly; (4) death.

The third narcotic I would like to talk about is barbituates. They are drugs such as Amytal, Nembutal, Seconal and Phenobarbital. There are five major effects in taking these drugs: (1) sedation and uncoordination; (2) decreases alertness; (3) reduction of fatigue; (4) loss of appetite; (5) insomnia.

The dangers of taking this drug are: (1) sedation; (2) coma and death from respiratory failure; (3) severe withdrawal symptoms.

The fourth narcotic I would like to talk about is Cocaine. There are seven major effects from taking this drug: (1) produces marked psychotoxic effects; (2) hallucinations with paranoid tendencies; (3) repeat doses lead to violent behavior; (4) convulsive movements; (5) restlessness and irritability; (6) toxic psychosis (mainly paranoid); (7) diversion of energy and money.

The dangers in taking this drug are: (1) convulsions; (2) death may occur from overdoses; (3) very strong psychic dependence possible.

The fifth narcotic I would like to mention is Marijuana. Marijuana is one of the most widely known and used drugs in the world. There are six effects from taking this drug which are: (1) to get "high" (euphoria); (2) erratic behavior; (3) loss of memory; (4) distortion of time; (5) hilarity without apparent cause; (6) unpredictable actions.

Some of the dangers in taking this drug are: (1) vivid visions and exhilaration; abusers may lose restraint and act in a manner dangerous to themselves and others; (2) mental dependence leads to anti-social behavior; (3) this drug is usually the forerunner of heavier drugs.

In this report, we have only covered five different types of drugs, their effects and dangers. It is hard to emphasize and explain to people and especially to younger people, how bad and dangerous drugs are. A Law Enforcement Agency can not do it all alone. We need the help of the parents to fight the drug problem in our city. If everybody got together for the cause of fighting the narcotics problem we have, it would make this small city a much better place in which to live.

Happiness is in part the conclusion that you can't remake people or the world.

Shallowater Study Club

The Shallowater Study Club met at 1:30 p.m. October 21 in the home of Mrs. Carey Gooch. Twenty members answered roll call by naming an Indian tribe.

Mrs. Joseph Hickox was welcomed into the club as a new member.

Mrs. R.W. Woodruff presented the program on the subject of "Indian Rugs and Pottery". The club members were informed of different methods of making and designing pottery. Mrs. Woodruff spoke of meeting the artist, Joseph Lonewolf, and shared with the members about seeing his works of art in Santa Clara, New Mexico. A brief history of weaving rugs was also given.

The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served.

The next meeting of the Study Club will be at 1:30 p.m., Nov. 4th in the home of Mrs. Hank Woodruff.

Local Little Princess Becomes Latest Lions Queen

Miss Geniese Grawunder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Grawunder of Shallowater is the Lions Club 1975 Bicentennial Harvest Festival Queen. That's quite a long title and Miss Grawunder is quite a lady. Back in 1965, Geniese held another title, that of First Lions Club Princess. 1965 was the first year the Lions included their princess contest in the Harvest Festival, and Geniese is the first princess to become a queen. It reads just like a fairy tale, who would have thought it would happen in Shallowater, Texas? A Princess becomes a Queen.

Geniese leads a very active life. She is currently a senior at Shallowater High School and is a member of the band, and also a band officer, reporter. Geniese is a twirler for the band, is an FHA officer and active in FTA. She is also a member of the high school annual staff and is the basketball manager. She is a member of the National Honor Society and an all A honor student.

Geniese was a member of the All Region Bahd, playing oboe, which shows what a fine musician she is. She has been an officer at the Texas Tech Band Camp and

First Lions Club Princess (1965) was active in the 4-H Club for eight years.

Geniese plans to attend Texas Tech University next fall and study speech therapy. She also plans to try out for the Texas Tech Marching Band (the best in the country) as a twirler.

Church Holds Fellowship Meeting

The First Baptist Church held a church fellowship meeting after evening worship services last Sunday for their new members and prospective members. About 100 people attended the meeting. There were three speakers at the meeting including Mayor Jack Dulaney, Lavon McAuley and Mrs. Sarah Masten.

The church also held a fellowship for all students after last Friday's football game. The program and refreshments were provided by the First Baptist Church.

Let's all tell the Lions, their wives who worked, and the others who took part in this successful endeavor, how we appreciate their hard work; especially those school teachers, parents and children who worked so hard on the floats. Did you know lots of the Lions missed two full days off their jobs before and during the Festival, as well as during the clean-up afterwards?

Lions, you make our town a better place to live. Thanks for caring for others.

Texas Tech Homecoming Set for Oct. 31 & Nov. 1st

Texas Tech University's Golden Anniversary Homecoming Celebration, Oct. 31-Nov. 1, will include a pep rally, parade, football game and two full days of business and entertainment activities for the university's ex-students and alumni.

Special recognition will go to the classes of 1925—Texas Tech's first year of operation—through 1934, the Silver Anniversary Class of 1950, and the 30th anniversary class of 1955, according to Wayne James, executive director of the Texas Tech Ex-Students Association.

A reception for members of those classes will be held from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m., Oct. 31, in the Ex-Students Association Building.

A special effort is being made to encourage all students who attended Texas Tech during those periods to attend the reception.

Another special recognition service is planned for former football players who lettered under the late Coach Pete Cawthon. They will be honored at a reception from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m., Nov. 1, following the traditional Homecoming football game between the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Rice Owls of Houston.

Some 80 to 100 former lettermen under Cawthon have indicated their intention of attending and participating in the homecoming activities, according to Dean of Students Lewis Jones, one of those who played and lettered under Cawthon.

Formal activities for the Texas Tech Ex-Students Association and its members begin at 10 a.m., Oct. 31, with a meeting of the Executive Board of the Association and a coffee for past presidents at 10:30.

The Association Council will attend a luncheon meeting in the University Center, at which time the annual Top Techs Staff Award recipients will be honored by the Ex-Students Association. The awards to two to four full-time employees with a minimum of 10 years employment at Texas Tech. Nominees are judged on their loyalty to the institution and quality of service to students, faculty, staff and university community as well as their integrity and moral character, James said.

A committee made up of members of the faculty, staff and ex-students will select the recipients from nominees.

The council's business session will be held the afternoon of Oct. 31, when new officers will be elected.

Friday night events include the pep rally and the 15th annual dinner meeting of the Texas Tech Century Club. The rally, sponsored by the Saddle Tramps, will be near the site of the new swimming pool in the west part of the campus. The Century Club dinner will be in the University Center Ballroom at 6:30 p.m. with Humorist Jerry Clower as the principal speaker.

The annual Homecoming Dance will also be Friday night, 9 p.m., at the KoKo Palace.

An estimated 75 campus organizations, including the academic colleges, will host breakfasts, coffees, open houses, teas, receptions, dances, reunions and other activities for the returning alumni and ex-students on Nov. 1.

The parade will start from downtown Lubbock at 10 a.m. and move on Broadway to the campus.

Other activities on Nov. 1 include a coffee honoring the classes of 1925-1934 and former members of the faculty from 9:30 to 11 a.m. in the University Center, with a special invitation to all persons living in Lubbock in 1925; the reunion for the class of 1955 from 9:30 to 10 a.m. in the University Center, a reunion for the class of 1950 from 10 to 11 a.m. in the Ex-Students Association Building; and the annual luncheon honoring ex-students, sponsored by Furr's Inc., Gold Bond Stamps and Furr's Cafeterias, in the Coliseum at noon.

The Homecoming football game between the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Rice Owls will begin at 2 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 1, in Jones Stadium. The coronation of the Homecoming Queen will be a highlight of pre-game ceremonies.

A leader should be intelligent, honest and unselfish, and there are few of them about.

Greater Lubbock Press Club to Sponsor Public Forum Tuesday

State Senators Max Sherman of Amarillo and Kent Hance of Lubbock will present opposing viewpoints on a new Texas Constitution during a public meeting Tuesday, Oct. 28.

The pro and con discussion will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 28 at the Hilton Inn, rooms one and two, under sponsorship of the The Greater Lubbock Press Club.

The public is invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

Voters will decide on the new constitution during a special election Nov. 4. The proposed charter is broken into eight propositions to be voted on separately. Those propositions will govern the powers of the legislature and the governor, new practices in taxation, changes in the powers of county government, education and voting.

Sherman is a member of the Senate Committee on the Constitution and helped put the proposed charter in its final form. He will present the supporting viewpoint on the new constitution.

Hance, in his first term as a state senator, has been asked by the group, Citizens to Preserve the Constitution, to present its arguments against the proposal.

Tuesday's program will permit each speaker to discuss the pros and cons of each of the eight propositions on the ballot. They will then answer questions from the audience.

Sherman, an Amarillo attorney, is 11th in seniority in the Texas Senate. Hance represented the 28th Senatorial district for the first time last session.

Merlin the Magician on how to solve your heating problem

"Those drafty old castles are notorious even today for being dreadfully hot in summer and frigidly cold in winter. We didn't have the heat pump in those days, of course. I think what I like best about the heat pump is its simplicity. One unit provides heating and cooling . . . complete comfort in any kind of weather with one setting of the thermostat. And the heat pump is environmentally sound . . . when heating, it actually provides more energy than it uses. Yes, if I'd had a heat pump, I wouldn't have been so cranky about passing on my magic secrets."

Horrible Thought Dept.: Maybe, just maybe, Texas Tech has won its last football game in 1975.

If you rush for 340 yards and pass for 182 more, you've probably won a ball game, haven't you? Yes, you probably have, unless you play for Texas Tech.

That's what the Raiders did Saturday night in a wild battle with Arizona. Tech rushed 68 times to 46 for Arizona, completed 12 of 14 passes, compared to 12 of 28.

But, as they say in the comics, a funny thing happened to Tech. It certainly wasn't funny, hah! hah! But weird.

The Raiders managed to fumble six times, keeping their consistency up, and they drew 10 penalties for 83 yards, compared to only two for 10 against the Wildcats.

And the kicking game fell down on three occasions: 1. A missed 56 yard field goal; 2. A missed 41 yard field goal; and 3. A weak punt of 33 yards late in the game that set up the winning Arizona field goal.

Missed field goals you can forgive, because there's a large element of luck involved. Weak punting in clutch situations is something else. It was caused by a 10-man rush and protection that failed, with an Arizona player almost blocking it.

Still, Arizona managed three field goals, the margin of victory—three of three for Arizona, NONE of two for Tech.

The Raiders continue to cause elation one minute and complete despair the next. There is no consistency and the defense is about at Border Conference standards.

Junior high school teams tackle better than the Raiders, who probably have no fingernails left. They trap a back and then let him get away for a good gain. They reach, instead of putting shoulders into the tackle—like A&M did.

And when it comes to pass defense, the Raiders hardly seem to know how to react. Two completely unnecessary pass interference penalties were called, and they hurt.

But the way Tech was beaten deep was pretty horrible. Sure, 12 of 28 seems like pretty good defense, except when the opponent gains 204 yards and scores twice through the air. And especially when two key passes are completed to lead up to the winning field goal.

Let's be honest, friends, this is not a good football team. It makes far too many mistakes, silly mistakes, unnecessary mistakes. It beats itself.

The offense is beginning to click and look like a winner—until a delay of game penalty, a fumble, a missed assignment, or something else crops up. The less said about the defense the better. It must be learning and that will help in the future, at least.

Above all, I feel sorry for Steve Sloan and I hold him in great respect. Not once have I heard him alibi or complain. All he has done is grit his teeth and go back to work, to say nothing of taking the blame for the poor showings on his coaching.

There's an old saying in baseball that you can't make chicken salad out of a certain ingredient. Players who consistently make mistakes may be hustling, but they leave a lot to be desired in thought processes.

And, continuing on Steve Sloan, not once has he mentioned the veteran players who quit the Tech squad, players who might well have made the difference in half the losses.

Nor has he cried because he is using a lot of inexperienced sophomores and freshmen. This obviously isn't going to be the year, but the foundation, as I've said before, is being laid. Steve Sloan is a winner; Tech will be too, one of these days.

Rain halted the World Series and, by this time, the outcome is known. Never having had the reputation as a gambler, I'd have to say that the rain helped the Reds and that they won the Series.

Regardless of how it came out, the first five games were good ones. Don Gullett was overpowering his second time out and Luis Tiant showed guts and craftiness in his two tries.

The Red Sox made a fight of it, daring the Reds when they were on the bases, fighting back when down, showing some good pitching and getting hits, lots of hits, off probably the best mound staff in the National League.

Cincinnati might just have one of the best three or four teams in baseball history. They have hitting, power, pitching, defense up the middle—everything it takes.

My personal pick for the most valuable Red is Pete Rose. He's a battler and a hustler. He'll beat you anyway he can, with bat or glove. He may look bad this time, but don't let it deceive you. He'll get you the next time.

He reminds me a lot of Jackie Wilcox, when he was a Hubber. He also would battle you every step of the way and he'd do anything to win. And winning is the name of the game.

What's with A&M? The Aggies barely got by TCU and it makes you wonder if the Aggies were so sky high for Tech that they suffered a letdown, or whether they held TCU in such low regard they couldn't get mentally ready for play.

This week the Cadets face Baylor and, even though the Bears have fallen on rocky ground, they could prove to be embarrassing. The Aggies, up and down all year, will have to be up for this one.

Texas' defeat of Arkansas was, and wasn't, a surprise. It is beginning to become apparent that the two best teams are Texas and A&M—which might make the finale between A&M and Arkansas a redfaced prediction by ABC Sports.

The Razorbacks finally got untracked in the second half, but the Horns already had done the damage. You can't spot Texas that much lead and win, unless you have a super team.

PERSONALS

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all of the citizens and merchants of the Shallowater community for their generous support of this year's Harvest Festival. Many people gave of their time and money to make the event a success. I know that many of you will go unrecognized in your efforts, but I also know the joy that is found in helping others is yours. My special thanks goes to all those hard working Lions who made my job as chairman easy.

Rays of Hope

Right Under Our Noses

The story of the Wright brothers who were the first to build an airplane that could fly is absolutely fabulous. The brothers, Orville and Wilbur, lived in Dayton, Ohio. On December 17, 1903, they took this strange looking contraption down to the beaches of Kitty Hawk, North Carolina. There they flew the plane. Oh, not very far, but it flew. They sent a telegram back to Dayton: "Today is the first day of sustained flight. Very happy. Coming home for Christmas."

The Dayton news reporters didn't comprehend the real significance of what had happened. They didn't see that that first sustained flight was the forerunner of our riding in airplanes today and the beginning of our trips to the moon. Do you know what the Dayton newspapers reported? A small item read: "Wright brothers coming home for Christmas."

Many people today are failing to catch the significance of the events that are taking place right

A lot of excitement is left and much of it may be over the order of finish among the "also rans."

Start A New Halloween Tradition

Surprise the family with a new Halloween tradition this year, a party at home for children and friends. This will help assure a safe holiday season, devoid of broken razor blades or other harmful materials that are plaguing the Halloween celebrations in recent years.

Games and food can be planned around a theme. Older children can research the local library to learn all they can about pumpkins and Halloween before the party. And younger children could talk with their oldest friends or relatives to find out all they know about pumpkins. Then everyone can tell stories around a large pumpkin jack-o-lantern named "The Great Pumpkin."

Among items to consider for both decorations and refreshments are apples, popcorn and cheese, along with pumpkins, all available at the local food store.

We Salute Bob Hodgkin . . .

Bob Hodgkin, owner and operator of Acid Delinters Inc., took ownership of the company earlier this year. Acid Delinters offers a very important service to area cotton farmers. They take the seed and remove the fuzzy lint, then chemically treat the seed. The result is a seed that has a higher percentage of germination, with increases of up to 30%, which gives you a higher more uniform stand of cotton. Acid Delinters will provide the trailers needed to transport your seed from the gin to the delinting plant.

Mr. Hodgkin, who bought the business from his deceased brother's estate, is experienced in delinting and farming. He worked with his brother, Louis for two seasons, so he has a real understanding of the necessity for a quality product.

Bob and his wife, Janet, have two girls and one boy and have been married for ten years. All of Mr. Hodgkin's spare time is devoted to his favorite pastime, farming.

Senior Spotlight

by Melissa Martin

This week's senior spotlight shines on Laura Thompson and Terry Briwtow.

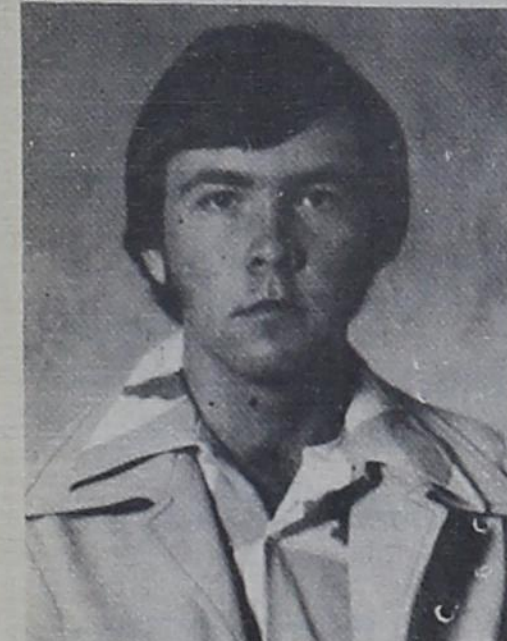

Laura is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.L. Thompson. She is a 17 year old Aries. Weekends and boys seem to be her special interests. Orange is her favorite color and homemade ice cream is her favorite food.

Laura is involved in many activities this year including: FHA, basketball, and pep squad. She is senior representative of the pep squad, and also of the senior class. Like many, her favorite subject is basketball.

Her comment on her senior year is, "My eleven years at Shallowater Schools have been great. I plan to make the twelfth year the best of all."

Laura is excited about her plans to attend Texas Tech University next fall.

Terry Bristow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Urby Bristow, fills the other half of our senior spotlight this week. Terre was born January 14, 1975. He is president of DECA, which is his favorite subject. Last year he received the D.E. award.

"School Daze"

by Caran Conner

School days, school days,
Dear ol' golden rule days,
Readin' an riten' an rithmetic,
Taught by the rule of the hick'ry stick.

I was your bashful barefoot beau,
You were my gal in calico.
I whispered, "Dear, I love you so",
When we were a couple of kids.

This was the theme for the first "Senior Banquet" at the First United Methodist Church.

It wasn't your "standard banquet", it was staged in a "Little Red School House", with lots of first graders (seniors). Clothes were a bit different; short dresses, bloomers, knee socks, oxfords, boy's short pants, bow ties, white shirts, and freckles.

As we walked in and waited for the "morning bell" we were served morning snacks. It was time to start the day, and it was done with a game. Each child was given a balloon with the girls in one line and the boys in another. We blew our balloons up and ran to a chair and sat on the balloon. BANG! When you heard that sound you ran back to the line. I'm sure it sounded like a regular "shoot-out" on the outside.

Finally lunch time, Yea! The tables were decorated with apple placemats at each setting and we all received our "First Senior Tablet" with a pencil attached. There were school buses with a picture of each "first grader" when he becomes a Senior. The meal was really grand and some of our "first grader" boys showed their true age.

As the day goes, recess is next and we were entertained by The Rasmussens, a singing trio family. School days aren't all fun and play, so our "lesson" was brought by Mr. Bob Nash, assistant general manager of KFYO. He told about the different origins of our food. The day was brought to a close by Russell Martin.

The Senior Class of 1976 would like to thank the Methodist Church for all the time and effort it took to make the banquet. It was thoroughly enjoyed by all and will be remembered for many years to come.

THANKS!

Tests Being Given

October is SRA month for the Shallowater schools. Students at all three levels are taking tests that will measure either their educational development or their aptitude for learning.

At the elementary level, first graders will soon be taking the Short Test of Educational Ability, (STEA), which is a group intelligence test. This score, along with their performance in class, will be used to help plan an individualized program to fit each child's ability and needs.

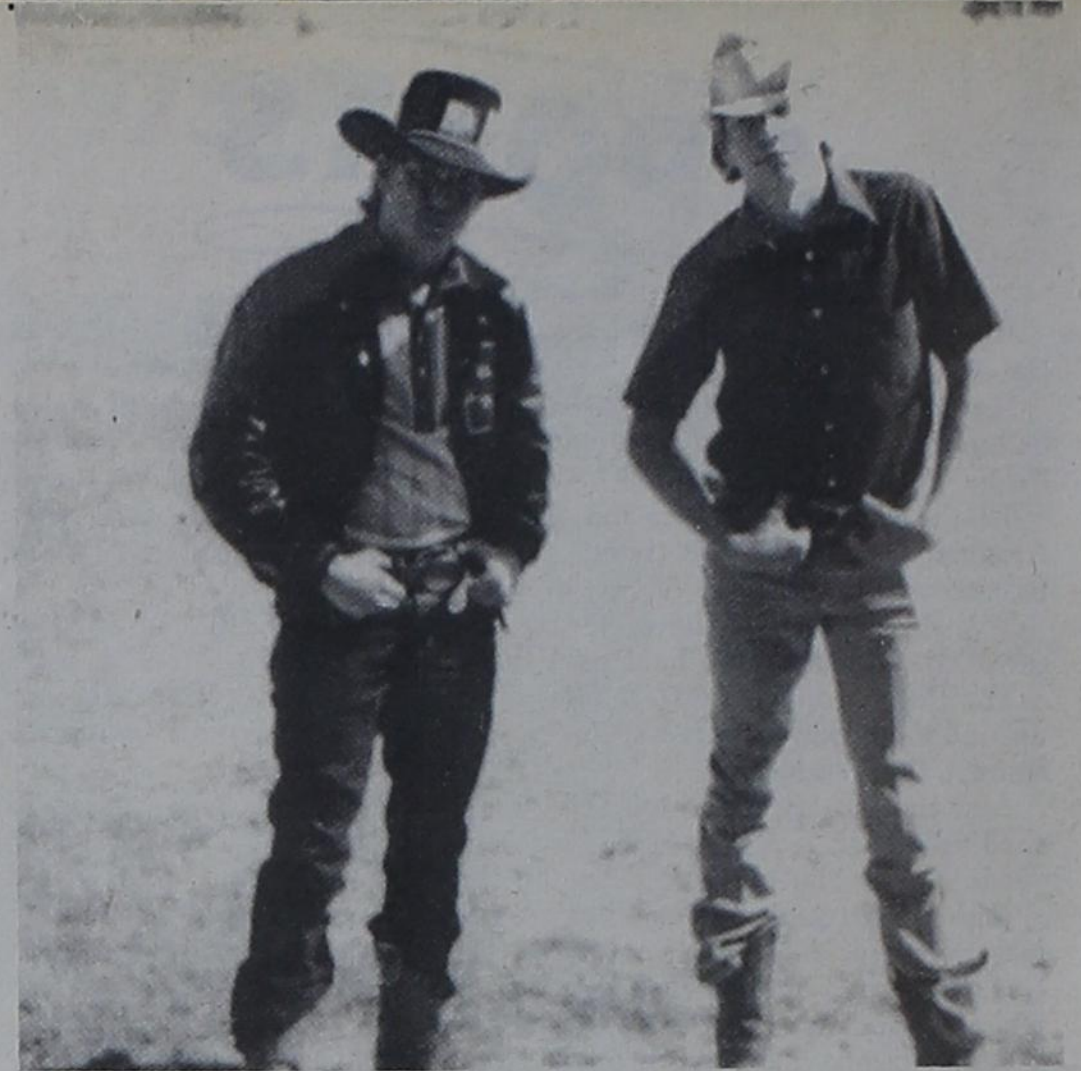

In order to keep individualized programs up to date, standardized group tests are given at established time periods to measure changes that occur in each child's educational growth.

The Primary Mental Ability (PMA) tests are given to the fourth and seventh graders to record changes in growth in the intelligence quotient.

Educational achievement, also called grade-level achievement, is first measured in the third grade and again in the sixth grade. Ninth graders take the Iowa Test of Educational Development (ITED) which assesses each student's mastery of material that has been covered in the classroom during the first eight grades.

These tests will be scored by machines and results should be available for students and parents by early December. Further information about any of these tests can be obtained from Mrs. Carol Witcher, school counselor.

still open for anyone wishing to join.

Two "Honery Grits" caught the eye of the roving photographer, Chris Hutchins, as they sauntered in off the range recently. Bill Dixon and Kim McMenemy, are two of a number of Mustang Football players who dressed in western attire this past Tuesday. "This is just to let the Plains Cowboys know they're coming up against some tough hombres," commented one of the players. The game will take place Friday night at Todd Field.

Football Spotlight

by Kim McMenemy

The football spotlights for this week are two juniors, David Montieth and Wes Walker, in fact they are the only juniors on the Mustang football team.

David Montieth plays split end on offense and end on defense, too. David is a very aggressive football player and he loves rough contact sports. David is 5'11" and weighs 170 pounds and he is ready to play at a moments notice.

The other football spotlight this week is Wes Walker. Wes is a big tackle on offense and defense. Wes is 6'3" and weighs 215 pounds. He has got the body and power to really get after the opposing team on the field. Wes was hampered by a motorcycle injury last season, but this year he is coming on strong.

Stars of the Six Weeks

by Suzie DeAnda

Dana Vickrey and Chris Hutchings have been dubbed "Stars of the Six Weeks" by the National Honor Society.

Dana Vickrey

Chris Hutchings

"Stars of the Six Weeks" will be the honorary title given to two deserving students every six weeks, according to Suzie DeAnda, National Honor Society Reporter. Selections will be made by N.H.S. from a list of students submitted by the High School faculty.

Dana Vickrey is a 15 year old sophomore who, in addition to commendable academic standing, finds time to play clarinet in the Mustang Band and be an active participant in Pep Squad. Dana moved from Corona High School in New Mexico to Shallowater. She really enjoys it here.

Chris Hutchings is a well-known face around Shallowater High. He is a senior whose activities range from being a center in basketball to reporter on the staff of the school paper.

Congratulations are in order for both of these students.

Teacher Spotlight

by Melissa Martin

Math puzzles and brain teasers are special interests of Mr. Terry Forbes, Shallowater teacher spotlight this week.

Mr. Forbes resides at 3402 Belmont, Lubbock. He taught math and science at Brownfield High School for four years. He now teaches math and science for Shallowater Junior High.

Mr. Forbes is active in many school activities. He is sponsor of the Junior High Number Sense. When asked about Shallowater schools and community, he replied, "I am very proud to be associated with such a fine school system. The small size of the school system provides an opportunity to be more informal and more personalized in instruction and human relationships. Until beginning work here, I had not realized this was such a strong and growing community."
