The invocation will be given by Rev. J.B. Bitner, pastor of Wolfforth First Baptist Church. and the benediction given by Rev. Richard Pittman, pastor of Wolfforth United Methodist Church.

Commencement exercises will be Monday night at 8 o'clock in the school auditorium.

David L. Butts will give the salutatory address and Nancy Drake will present the valedictory address.

Presentation of awards will be made by C.B. Strong, who will also present the graduates for diplomas. J. Weldon Bennett and Don Davis will award the diplomas to the seniors.

been keeping a very close eye on the striped bass situation at Lake E.V. Spence near Robert Lee reported last week that they have netted female stripers which have evidently spawned in Lake Spence.

The fishermen had doubts that the exotic saltwater transplants would spawn in the fresh water lake and they still are not sure if any of the eggs hatched. They say more study and 'net' work will have to be done before a thorough analysis can be made. However, fishery chief Bill Follis has successfully raised striped bass in hatchery equipment at Lake Spence, thus insuring a supply of stripers for

Lake Spence and other West Texas lakes. While fishery men have been busy with the striped bass program at Spence, anglers have been taking some excellent hauls of black bass and 'giant' crappie. Crappie have moved into shallow water and some good sized ones have been noted lately.

Page 2 Curbs are urged on sports

By DAWN ROGERS Copiey News Service

If you're making your boy warm up for Saturday's baseball game every day after school, you may be throwing him a bad curve.

That is the opinion of Dr. H. Paul Bauer, an orthopedic surgeon in private practice and team physician for the San Diego Padres baseball club, who advised against dads and sons throwing the ball every night. "It can cause problems," he said.

"In youngsters under 16, the elbow just won't take a great deal of stress." And the reason is, he explained, that the growth center on the inside of the bone, the epiphysis, hasn't united with the rest of the bone. Extensive use of the elbow, as in a lot of pitching, tends to pull or prevent these elbow parts from joining.

Throwing curve balls also aggravates the condition, said Bauer, and he is for banning its use in boys' baseball.

"Of course if one team is using the curve ball, and another team isn't, you're going to have a problem. I'm for setting up uniform rules on Little League."

The rules, he said, should ban the use of the curve ball until a youngster is 16, and pitching should be limited to three innings. Little League fans may not agree, but say the doctors, the youngsters' health must be considered first.

Parents may have to cool their enthusiasm for winning and concentrate on the antidote prescribed by Dr. E. Paul Woodward: Winning isn't everything. Teach kids to be good sports.

Dr. Woodward, team physician for the San Diego Chargers, and in the private practice of orthopedics, said that he feels that sports are good for kids, but with certain re-

"It is important that parents do not regiment all of their children's time into playing sports. They need more time to do other things,"

"More emphasis should be placed on learning sportsmanship, rather than always

Dr. Woodward also added his suggestions on what can be done to reduce injuries

Many times, he said, knee which catches, causing the knee to lock and twist. "I recommend that we change the type of shoe - either use smaller cleats or eliminate them altogether. Use ripple-sole or tennis

> Woodward was also against open field blocking, and for limiting blocking in Pop Warner to above the waist. "Studies have shown that this can be done effectively, and reduce injuries."

For the athlete who is past the years of Pop Warner and Little League, a little young for the rocking chair, but enjoys a game of tennis, the doctors also had some advice.

At one time or another you may dislocate your finger. (Even if you are an armchair athlete, you can do it flipping open the beer can.) And if you're a do-it-yourselfer, you may be tempted to pop the old finger back in place.

Dr. James Borden, a hand surgeon, grimaces at the thought. "Don't do it yourself," he advises. "It's just not a good idea.

"It may be that you also have a fracture, and if you replace the finger, it may be that a doctor can't see it, even after it is X-rayed."

New table wines premier

By MARY LESTER Copley News Service

Three outstanding table wines will be premiering any day now in the marketplace: two are red and one white. Although both reds are Zinfandel, that is where the comparison stops. By HECTOR SERNA As the school year ends, there has to be someone that deserves a lot of credit for working so hard with the Junior Class. Our sponsors are Mrs. Cole and Mr. Grigsby. Both of them deserve a lot of thanks for helping us so much.

But Mrs. Cole has really been wonderful to the Junior Class. I have never seen a teacher who displays as much patience over OUR Junior Class of 1973. The class needed a lot of unity and discipline at the beginning of the year. Mrs. Cole accomplished this impossible task

Mrs. Cole unified the class to a successful car wash, to a successful Junior Play, and to a successful Jr.-Sr. Banquet. The Jr.-Sr. Banquet was the goal of the class from the start of the year. Mrs. Cole was a new teacher in Shallowater High School and was appointed as a sponsor of the Junior Class. What a job for a newcomer to this school! As President of the Junior Class, and in behalf of all the class, thank you!

Merrell graduates

Cres Merrell, of Route 1, Shallowater, was a member of the 1973 spring graduation class of McMurry College in Abilene, Texas. Commencement exercises were May 20, 3:00, at the Abilene Civic Center Auditorium. He has attended McMurry all four years and will receive a diploma representing a Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in religion and a minor in history. Cres will graduate with a 3.45 grade point average out of a 4 point system. At McMurry, Cres is a member of the Phi Alpha Theta international honorary history society; has been secretary and historian of the Eta Epsilon Iota men's social order; vice president of the college choir the McMurry Chanters; secretary and assistant floor counselor of Hunt Dormitory; member of Kappa Delta Sigma, and named on the Dean's List and the 4.0 Dean's List.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Merrell of Route 1, Shallowater, and is a 1969 graduate of Shallowater High School.

The weather has really become very beautiful! As the days become warmer, the school bells are now resting after a long nine months work. The halls will be empty and lonely without the three-hundred students rushing back and forth to classes. It's really been a good year for all of us. We're all trying to learn as much as we can, but we still like to have a little fun. And that fun always includes sport events. Through Football and basketball. we've all backed the teams through wonderful victories and agonizing defeats.

We saw so many little things at school also. Learning has to be a little entertaining, because not every day is the same. Each day. something new occurs which inspires many to learn more about this big world and its problems.

The teachers have really been wonderful this year. They have so much patience and understanding in trying to help us young students as we mature into promising responsible adults like those reading this article. We, the young people, will always try our best to become better citizens and straighten out some of the problems that are in life right now.

A special program aimed at preparing people from minority and low socio-economic groups for new careers in social and rehabilitation services in public schools will enter its fourth year of operation this summer at Texas Tech University through the renewal of a federal grant.

The program trains teacher aides in speech, hearing and language problems in pre-school and early school-age children through the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Texas Tech.

Upon completion of the training program, the aides, or paraprofessionals, are able to work as teacher aides to speech clinicians or in bilingual education programs, migrant education programs, and programs designed to teach English or Spanish as a second language.

The program re-funded by a $50 thousand grant from the Social and Rehabilitation Service of the Health, Education and Welfare Department, includes three levels of training.

The first level is an eight-week training program in the Speech and Hearing Clinic at Texas Tech. Approximately 20 individuals are trained in the eight-week procedures and machine operation, and how to structure material used by teachers in language lessons.

Advanced levels of training are given through workshops at the university and in the schools where the aides are employed. In its fourth year, the program will conduct more training through workshops for aides already employed, said Jason O. Rodriguez, program coordinator. Some 170 aides have already been trained during the program's first three years, he said. The program is interested in introducing more members of minority groups to the profession of speech and hearing training said Rodriguez. The program offers a professional level of training to advanced individuals who are qualified and wish to pursue a degree in speech and hearing therapy at Texas Tech, he said. Trainees in the progra must meet certain qualifications before they can enter training, said Rodriguez. Applicants for the program must be unemployed or under-employed at the time of application, but must be under consideration for employment by specified maximum income or an income below that.

Applicants must have a high school diploma or a GED certificate and be able to take class notes and participate in discussions and practice sessions. They must enjoy working with children regardless of their ethnic background or handicap. he said

While in the training program, the grant monies pay for travel expenses for commuters or room and board in university facilities. for those who live too far from the campus to commute. Textbooks, notebooks, pens and materials for language presentation are also furnished through grant funds. Trainees are paid a per diem stipend while in the training program, explained
