COLLEGE BOUND

by Patricia Pirolli

Patricia Pirolli, graduate of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, and now an admissions counselor for the college, answers some typical questions by high school students about college.

Q. When is the best time to begin looking for a college?

A. The best time is during your junior year in high school. This way, you and your parents can look at many schools before narrowing the decision down to three or four. Concentrate on these schools during your remaining year in high school, and then make your final decision.

Q. Who should make the decision of what college I am to attend?

A. Ultimately, the student should. After talking it over with your parents, your high school counselor, and a representative of the college, and carefully considering all other factors, you make the decision.

Q. Before I make up my mind, should I visit the campus?

A. Definitely. Every campus has a different atmosphere, and you may not like it. The time to find out is before you arrive on campus to begin studies. At Monmouth, we encourage prospective students to come to the campus for a day or so during the week so they can sit in on classes, visit the students on campus, and see the dormitories and general life of the school. We set up appointments to talk to professors and students during your visit. In this way, you are exposed to all factors of student life. I would encourage you to do this with any college you are seriously considering.

Q. My family's income is average. Will this keep me from attending my first choice college which is expensive?

A. No. Many families cannot afford to pay college costs from savings or income. Therefore, most colleges have excellent financial aid programs offering scholarships, grants, loans and jobs. Today, the amount of financial aid awarded by a college is closely related to a student's need to attend that college. Contact the financial aid officer at the college of your choice for complete information.

Q. If I have a very detailed question about a college, who should I see?

A. Your high school counselor will be able to help. Or you can ask your high school counselor how to contact the college's counselor. If you have a question about Monmouth College, I would be glad to help. Talk to your high school counselor and he will tell you how to reach me.

Scrivner-Erickson Exchange Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Arden M. Erickson

Miss Shelia Scrivner of Turkey became the bride of Arden M. Erickson of Dallas on Saturday afternoon, April 12, at 4:00 o'clock in the United Methodist Church at Turkey. The pastor, Rev. Roy R. Havens, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Scrivner of Parnell. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arden Erickson of Dallas. The groom is in the Air Force and is a jet mechanic stationed at Sheppard Air Force Base at Wichita Falls.

Miss Joan Lyles of Turkey was maid of honor and Miss Kathy Wedge, also of Turkey was bridesmaid. They wore street length dresses fashioned on princess lines with matching blue lace at the high neckline. They carried two long-stemmed carnations.

Best man was Danny Tiffin of Quitaque, and groomsmen was Joe Mack Jacobs, also of Quitaque.

Miss Suzanne Arnold, cousin of the bride, was usherette. She wore a pastel yellow pleated dress with full pleated sleeves.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of brocade in off-white. Her veil of illusion was mantilla style, falling from a tiara. She carried a white satin covered Bible topped with a white orchid amidst feathered carnations.

For something old, the bride wore a pearl necklace which the groom's mother had worn for her own wedding. Her wedding gown was something new, and she had designed and made the gown herself. Del Ray House made the traditional quarter worn by the bride. The tradition was completed with the pennies bearing the birth dates of the bride and groom.

Vows were exchanged before an archway covered with greenery and satin bells, with baskets of gladioli and blue carnations flanking it. The kneeling bench was used to complete the religious ceremony.

Mrs. Jean Lyles played traditional wedding music throughout the ceremony.

A reception was held immediately following the nuptials in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Miss Ruth Reed registered guests at the wedding and the reception. Misses Katy House and Laura Eudy served the refreshments of wedding cake and punch to fifty-one guests.

The wedding cake was baked in the form of a book. One side read, "I, Sheila, take thee, Arden," and the other side read, "I, Arden, take thee, Sheila." The couple left on a honeymoon trip with no luggage. The younger members of the wedding party ran off with the couple's luggage. After this term of school is completed at Turkey and the bride graduates from high school, the couple will be at home in Wichita Falls, where he is stationed.

Shirttail Sermon

We are all familiar with the story of the Prodigal Son that is found in Luke 15:11. This story is an unusual story in that it is the story of a prodigal who returned to his father. A prodigal is one whose relationship to the Father is wrong. Why do so few prodigals return?

Partly because not all of them are in some far country spending themselves in riotous living. They are not feeding swine; they are simply sleeping in indifference—or they are caught up in some competing activity and do not realize how far from home they have wandered.

Some prodigal do not return because they do not want to face the Father and give an account of their activities. Every man at one time or another has done a thing that he is not proud of and the accounting is not a pleasant thing to contemplate. So many who have wandered just refuse to admit that they have wandered and pretend that they have never left the fold.

The elder brother in the Bible story was self-righteous people today are staying outside the door.

They pat themselves on the back and say to the world, "Look how good I am and no one makes a fuss over me." These people were the most difficult ones that Jesus had to deal with because their sins were not easily seen and their deeds were not easy to discover. They are still the most difficult to deal with today.

Some of us may be standing among the self-righteous.
