Historic Herd Will Be Relocated In Caprock Canyons State Park

The Texas Bison Herd that descends from the Colonel Charles Goodnight herd will soon be at home in a new environment but on part of their ancestors old range at Caprock Canyons State Park.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department (TPWD) announced last Thursday that Caprock Canyons State park has been selected as the home of the official Texas Bison Herd.

TPWD has accepted the donation of this historic JA Ranch Bison Herd from ranch owners Monte Ritchie and Ninia Bivins with the stipulation that the herd be moved from the ranch near Clarendon to state-owned property by the end of February, 1998.

Andrew Sanson, TPWD executive director stated, "We are very excited about the opportunity to serve as stewards of the official Texas Bison Herd. Caprock Canyons State Park offers the same habitat these animals have been accustomed to and is the best available site for the bison herd at the present. We hope that in the future, as the herd size increases, a larger site in the Panhandle can be found for the official Texas Bison Herd."

It was over 120 years ago when Charles Goodnight captured bison calves from the last of the Great Southern Bison Herd and cared for these animals on his ranch near Amarillo in the Texas Panhandle. It is the descendants of those animals, a herd of between 40 and 50 bison that have been roaming the JA Ranch since its inception back in the 1870's which will be moved to Caprock Canyons State Park.

Caprock Canyons State Park was selected from a number of potential sites which also included Palo Duro State Park, Matador Wildlife Refugear Paducah, for relocation of the herd because of historical, ecological and logistical reasons.

Ron George, deputy director of wildlife with TPWD, and Texas Bison Herd Project coordinator said "The JA Bison Herd is a very important part of the heritage of the Texas Panhandle and we want to ensure that these animals are properly maintained in the future. The land that is now Caprock Canyons State Park was once a part of the original JA Ranch settled by Charles Goodnight and John Adair."

According to George, Caprock Canyons has topography and vegetation very similar to the herd's present location. Caprock Canyons is also only 45 miles from the JA Ranch and park staff already have experience in handling bison.

"We're committed to conserving our natural and cultural heritage," said Bill Palmer, director of State Parks with TPWD.

Palmer stressed that every step has been taken to make sure the bison project is consistent with park's mission of conserving natural and cultural resources at Caprock Canyons State Park.

Historical estimates suggest that plains bison herd in the U.S. numbered between 40-60 million at its peak. Early Spanish explorers described the herd as a sea of brown, and settlers moving west during the 1800s claim to have had to wait days for bison herds to pass by.

By some accounts, buffalo hunters reduced the plains bison to around 500 head, half that by other accounts. Efforts to restore the herd saw numbers during the mid 1960s and currently, there are between 200-250,000 head of bison in the U.S., according to Alvin Jones, president of the Texas Bison Association.

"TPWD was initially concerned that the entire JA Bison Herd might be crossbred animals, since historic records indicate Charles Goodnight was interested in preserving the native bison or "buffalo" and crossing these animals with domestic cattle to produce "cattalo." According to George, "DNA tests of blood samples taken from five of these animals indicate that there are both pure bison and crossbred animals in the herd, and even the crossbred animals are almost pure bison. Once we have made additional DNA tests, we should be able to select the ones that will be kept for breeding purposes and will be able to have a pure bison herd within one generation."

Blood tests also indicate the bison are currently free of brucellosis and TB, which are diseases of concern to cattlemen. However, George said all of the animals will be re-tested and vaccinated before any animals are moved from the ranch. TPWD has agreed to move the bison off the ranch no later than February 28, 1998 and catch pens are already being constructed on the JA Ranch.

George said TPWD is hoping to capture and transfer the bison herd to Caprock Canyons State Park beginning in November. Caprock Canyons State Park is already home for a herd of 15 of the bison.

Bicycle Safety Class Held In Turkey

by Ann Coker
 The Turkey Lions Club sponsored a Bicycle Safety Class last Tuesday, July 1. Fifteen eager children and their bicycles attended the school. Highway patrolman Sgt. Richard Gribble of Clarendon taught the class.

Sgt. Gribble showed the group a film on bicycle rules. He talked to the students about the necessity of knowing how to ride your bicycle safely. Literature was passed out to the boys and girls.

The group was divided into three groups by their age. Outside there were three different courses laid out to test skills.

The Lions Club furnished the refreshments and the Girl Scouts under the leadership of Kathy Farley, served the students.

Turkey Lions Club members present to help were Marjorie Bell, Melvin Clinton, Louis Randell, Don Turner, Larry Denton, Rick Mullin and Wilburn Leeper from the Quitaque Lions Club.

Several parents were on hand to help out. Students who signed up in the youngest were: Jaycee Proctor, James House, Keri House, Chancy Price Campbell, Payton Price and Cole Brown.

The middle age group were Amanda Mullin, Michael Mullin, Jonathan Farley and John Denton.

The oldest group was composed of Krystle Clinton, Olivia Greene, Connie Reed, Stephanie Estes and Chris McBee.

Beware Of Unlicensed Pest Control Operators

provided by Pammy Millican, CEA-AG
 Be careful when you hire someone to spray for insects in your home. Pest control operators must be trained and licensed. Individuals who work illegally may use chemicals that can hurt you. For example, methyl parathion is extremely toxic and dangerous. It's a pesticide used mainly on cotton. In the sun, it breaks down quickly and poses few hazards, but indoors it can be deadly. Suzanne Deatherage coordinates Extension Service training for pesticide applicators in Texas. She says it is important to ask to see the applicators' licenses before hiring them. She also recommends checking the label to make sure the product is registered and approved for use in your home. She says a missing label or repackaged product is another sign of illegal activity. Cotton Insect Scouting Clinic

by Brad Schnitker CEA-AG
 The Hall County Agricultural Committee will be sponsoring a Cotton Insect Scouting Clinic to be held on Monday, July 14th. The Scouting Clinic will meet at the Lakeview Coop Gin at 9 a.m. and then will go out to the cotton fields to learn about scouting, spray thresholds, and chemical use. Producers can receive up to 2 CEU's towards their private applicator licenses by attending this Clinic.

According to Brad Schnitker, the Hall County Extension Agent, cotton insects and specifically the boll weevil is a major concern with this years cotton crop. The weather patterns and abundant moisture are big keys to the amount of weevil and worm pressure that we will have on cotton this year. In addition, with all of the late planted cotton this year, we really need to prevent and control any other set backs that the crop may face.

THEN & NOW!

THEN AND NOW

by Eunice McFall

Often we speak about the many different hats that are worn by us each day. Mothers are chauffeurs, cooks, seamstress, designers, decorators, bookkeepers, secretaries, coaches, teachers, etc. Fathers are usually considered the breadwinners of the family and we usually put them in one category--farmer, rancher, banker, store owner, policeman, teacher and so on. But have you ever considered the many hats that all of us wear each and every day, hats of concern, love, discipline, compassion, dislike, compromise, fear, administrator, builder, camouflage, distaste, envy, flattery, goodness, hatefulness, inadequacy, joy, kindness, loneliness, menacing, nuisance, offensive, patient, quarrelsome, rational, sincere, thoughtless, unapproachable, vicious, wasteful, yielding or zealous.

Many of these hats are great hats to wear--patient, joy, kindness, compassion and the like but there are many that we should try to avoid if we can, such as envy, hatefulness, menacing, nuisance, offensive or quarrelsome. Other hats must be changed if we are to succeed at being a helpful human who is liked by his fellowman. Such hats as vicious, wasteful, unapproachable, and offensive are a few of such hats to avoid.

All of these hats are ones that everyone has had a taste of at one time or another. I doubt if there is one of us that has not had a distaste for something and let that distaste show or have done some thoughtless deed that we wish that we could take back and do over once again. Many people in our society wear the hat of loneliness each and every day. Perhaps they do not know how to reach out to their neighbors in friendship or maybe they are scared to try after having been rebuffed at one time or another. Guess we should put on our hat of friendliness and give them a helping hand!

Have you ever felt inadequate? Many people go through their whole life never feeling adequate about anything. When was the last time that you felt that someone or something was a menace to you? Did you put on your ferocious hat and be menacing right back or did you try on your hat of caring to try to stop the menace right in its tracks?

Yes, we wear many different hats during the course of a day but we alone can choose what type of hat we will wear--cheerful, happy, ready to deal with friend and foe alike or disgusted, unapproachable and offensive. The choice is ours. Which hat do you think you would rather wear as you step out your front door on your way to greet the world tomorrow? What hat would you rather meet as you greet your friends, neighbors and customers?

TFCE Club Meeting

On June 16th the Turkey FCE Club enjoyed an outing in the Caprock Canyon Park. We really enjoyed visiting the Lake and were lucky enough to be there at feeding time for the fish. We thoroughly enjoyed watching the fish feed.
 A sack lunch was enjoyed by the members and home made ice cream to top it off.
 We took a drive too through the canyons and enjoyed seeing all the wild flowers. Mother Nature had outdone herself this year with the beautiful array of flowers. The prettiest we had ever seen.
 Pictures were made and we all had a wonderful time.

New books at Caprock Public Library include Blood Sport by James B. Stewart. The Pulitzer prize-winning author reveals the facts about Whitewater, Travelgate, and Foster's suicide. He provides a telling portrait of how political combat is waged today.

Two new books by Jodi Thomas, To Tame a Texan's Heart and Two Texas Hearts. A couple of good love stories with happy endings.

For juveniles: a reading program is going on--and it is not too late to sign up. Read at your own pace and fill those long hot days with some good books.

The Reading Program is a read on your own and the winner of each group will receive a t-shirt. There are three groups: up to 4 years; K-2nd; and 3rd and up.

Familiar Face Dons Amarillo Paper

If any of you have read the Amarillo paper for the past few weeks, you have noticed a familiar face appear in the ads from Blunck's Studios. Our very own, Mandy Pigg, daughter of Clayton and Donna Pigg was asked to do a photo shoot for the Studios.

Every week a selected picture from her layout is displayed with their ad. In February, Donna accompanied Mandy to the Blunck's Studio to take these pictures and one of her pictures is also displayed in a grouping at the studio itself.

Caprock Library Receives CD

by Arlene Hinkle

The Ranching Heritage Association announces the donation of "The Ranch Dance Fiddle: Frankie McWhorter" to libraries throughout Texas. This CD/cassette project documents the cowboy and the ranch dance tradition of the Texas Panhandle and the Llano Estacado. Featured on this recording is cowboy fiddler and ranch foreman Frankie McWhorter assisted by former members of Bob Wills and His Texas Playboys.

Frankie McWhorter is one of the last heirs to the Texas frontier fiddle legacy. Raised a cowboy, he began playing fiddle at the JA Ranch chuck wagon while listening to the wagon boss whistle tunes. He also learned directly from horse trainer and fiddler Boyd Rogers and renowned Texas fiddler Eck Robertson.

During his professional career, McWhorter toured and performed with the Miller Brothers and the legendary Bob Wills. From Wills, he learned the authentic frontier fiddle style. With mentors like Rogers (b 1895), Robertson (b 1897) and Wills (b 1905), Frankie McWhorter is a rare link to the past. His knowledge of Texas fiddle tradition taps a memory pool of tunes and style spanning two centuries.

"The Ranch Dance Fiddle: Frankie McWhorter" is sponsored by the Ranching Heritage Association in conjunction with the Southwest collection at Texas Tech University.

The recording is made possible through support from the following foundations and organizations: The Lila Wallace-Reader's Digest Community Folklife Program, administered by the Fund for Folk Culture; the Lubbock City Council as recommended by the Lubbock Arts Alliance; The CH foundation: The Summerlee Foundation; The Hank Smith Historic Retreat: The Plum Foundation;

At a meeting Monday night at the city hall the Quitaque fire department was reorganized under leadership of Frank Gillespie as fire chief and fire marshal, who had been named to this position by the city council at its meeting Friday night. The department is composed of 20 members, thus complying with the regulations of the state fire insurance commission.

(The first practice session was scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, but due to a small fire in the north part of town the boys got their first workout at 11:20 o'clock Monday night.)

A committee was named to draft a constitution and by-laws, composed of Frank Gillespie, Paul Hamilton, Marion Roberson and Bill Middleton.

To insure a driver of the truck at all times of necessity, three were named in ranking order, Gradus Partain first driver; Bill Middleton, second driver; Roy Leslie, third driver.

Nozzlemen named were Hal Overstreet, Leslie Curtis, Jesse Spencer, Venus Gillespie; plug men, Keith Tiffin, Joe Bedwell, Gene Berry, Jack Hutcheson.

The personnel of the reorganized department is as follows: Frank Gillespie, fire chief and marshal; Paul Hamilton, assistant chief; Marion Roberson, secretary; Keith Tiffin, Bill Middleton, Hal Overstreet, Joe Bedwell, Barney Bogan, J. C. Rhoderick Jr., Slim Eddleman, Leslie Curtis, Jesse Spencer, Gene Berry, Gradus Partain, Jack Hutcheson, Roy Leslie, Jim Baird, Glynn Morrison. ☐☐

Mesdames Joe B. Robinson and Pat McLaughlin of Haylake spent Tuesday here with relatives. ☐☐

On The QT

The EMTs have been quite busy during the past few days in Quitaque. Olivia Stockton fell and broke her hip. She was taken to Lubbock Methodist Hospital. Annetta Helms also was transported to the Plainview Hospital with a broken hip. Joyce Price had a fall that resulted in a broken wrist for her. Mel Clardy was taken to the hospital in Lockney.

Jimmy Don Davidson of Sterling City was a visitor with his parents over the Fourth of July Holiday.

Weldon and B. J. Griffin, accompanied by their grandchildren, Emily and Ben Venable of Shallower joined her brother and wife, Earl and Ann Woods on a trip to Red River for the July 4th holiday. They enjoyed fishing, traveling to Santa Fe one day and the Red River Fourth of July Parade, not to mention the shops and sights of Red River.

On the trip home they left Emily and Ben at Ceta Canyon where their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Steve Venable are involved with the 6th & 7th grade camp for Methodist youth.

Feeding Children Nutritious Foods

by Calley Payne, CEA-FCS

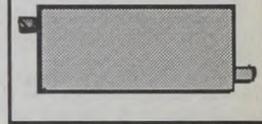

Diet plans primarily target adults. So how do you know what to feed children? Extension nutritionist Dr. Dymple Cooksey says three meals a day are not enough for kids. They have smaller stomachs, so they need smaller, more frequent meals and snacks.

To make sure they get the proper nutrition, she suggests categorizing foods. For instance, one important group includes breads, cereals, rice and pasta. These foods are good sources of complex carbohydrates, fiber and B vitamins.

The best source of calcium would be milk, yogurt and cheese. So that's another nutrient group. Fruits and vegetables contain essential vitamins such as A and C and they add fiber to the diet.

The last group includes meat, poultry, fish, dry beans, eggs and nuts. This protein group also provides vitamins, iron and zinc.
