Cities under twelve thousand population were eligible for competition to determine which had made the most progress toward community improvement in the last year.

REPORT FROM THE OFFICE OF CONGRESSMAN BOB PRICE

Congressman Bob Price announced today that effective October 1, the Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation of Amarillo will receive $165,000 to provide emergency food and medical services to an estimated 11,428 low income individuals.

The Texas Panhandle Community Action Corporation operates in Potter, Randall, Dallam, Sherman, Hansford, Ochiltree, Lipscomb, Hartley, Moore, Hutchinson, Roberts, Hemphill, Oldham, Carson, Gray Wheeler, Deaf Smith, Collingsworth, Parmer, Swisher, Childress, Donley, Armstrong, Castro, Briscoe and Hall counties.

Neighborhood centers will be designated in each county where low income individuals can receive medical examinations and vouchers with which to purchase food.

A similar emergency food and medical service grant has been made to the Central Plains Community Action Agency in Plainview. The $15,000 grant is for a 22-month program serving 500 persons through one neighborhood center in Hale County.

"I believe we all agree that no American should go to bed hungry or be without medical services when needed. The purpose of these grants is to make food and medicine available to those who would otherwise have to do without," Price said.

Approximately 700 low income women in eight counties served by the Hockley County Community Action Commission will be eligible for family planning information. The 18th District counties of Bailey and Lamb are included in the Commission area.

Patricia Meacham and Amilie Smith of Lubbock visited over the weekend with the James Lipscombs.

TEACHERS TO BE PAID ON A TEN MONTH BASIS

AUSTIN — Texas public school teachers—those on the state minimum salary schedule—will receive pay raises averaging about $1,050 per year in 1970-71.

Students will go to school—and teachers will teach—an extra five days (180 days instead of 175). In addition, teachers will be on duty for 10 more days of non-teaching work during the year, and will be paid on a 10-month basis, instead of nine.

These changes in the school year and the basis for figuring teacher pay result from amendments to the minimum foundation program law passed in 1969 by the Legislature.

Under the minimum program, a beginning bachelor's degree teacher in 1969-70 was paid $593 per month for nine months, or $5,337 for the year.

In 1970-71, a beginning bachelor's degree teacher will receive $600 per month for 10 months, or $6,000 for the year.

Many Texas school systems pay their teachers more than the state-required minimum salaries.

Texas was ranked 38th among states in average teacher pay in 1969-70. The 1970 raises and a long-range improvement plan are expected to move Texas up to a more favorable position among states in the years ahead.

The new law puts into effect in 1971-72 a continuing compensation plan which will give Texas teachers an additional five percent raise each year and cost-of-living raises in 1974 and 1978. It will allow all Texas teachers to reach the top of the pay schedule — $11,040 for bachelor's degree, and $12,040 for master's degree teachers—within 10 years of service.

The new law has left many people—teachers as well as school patrons—with questions about its work and pay aspects.

The State Board of Education has attempted to answer such questions by drafting an official definition of the 180-day school term and service requirements for teachers in 1970-71 and future years.

Basically, the state board says that beginning on September 1, 1970:

—Texas public schools will have 180 days of actual classroom instruction, (where teachers and students are together in learning situations) instead of the 175 days previously required under foundation program law. (Some schools had already been operating programs longer than the minimum.)

—Most Texas teachers will be paid on a 10-month basis. (Vocational and special education teachers may be paid for 10, 11, or 12 months.)

—In addition to the 180 days of classroom instruction, teachers and other personnel previously authorized for less than 10 months under the foundation program shall be required to be on duty for an additional 10 days, making a total of 190 days, exclusive of holidays approved by the local board of trustees.

—School districts may employ teachers for more than the specified 190 days, but if they do their salaries for work beyond the 190 days must be paid wholly from local funds rather than foundation program funds.

RALPH YARBOROUGH REPORTS ON CONGRESS AND PRAYER IN SCHOOLS

There has been a great deal of confusion recently over Senate votes in 1966 on an amendment which would have drastically altered the constitutionally guaranteed separation of Church and State in America. In the 89th Congress, the late Senator Dirksen introduced a resolution providing for a constitutional amendment relating to prayer in schools.

Leaders of the major religious faiths of this country and leading constitutional authorities viewed this amendment as a serious threat to the guarantee of the First Amendment to the Constitution which prohibits the Congress from making any law "respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof." The guarantees of Freedom of Religion contained in the First Amendment also apply to state and local governmental units. It provides what Thomas Jefferson called "a wall of separation between Church and State."

As Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina, one of the best constitutional authorities in Congress, pointed out in debate on this amendment, it could have set up a system whereby school boards or those administering schools or school systems in any part of the country could authorize someone to write a prayer for use in the schools regardless of the religious emphasis in the prayer. Senator Ervin pointed out how divisive this could be in a community, stirring up rivalries as to what church wrote the "official" prayer.

Senator Ervin, along with many other Senators, including myself, felt this amendment was in direct conflict with the First Amendment to the Constitution. We were being asked to amend one of the basic guarantees of liberty written in the Bill of Rights. Religious leaders of the nation

Mr. and Mrs. John Hutton and girl of Mineral Wells visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hutton, and Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Johnson over the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. David Guest visited their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Guest in Fort Worth.

were equally concerned about the proposed amendment. Opposing the amendment, either during committee hearings, or through various Senators during the floor debate, were: the Second General Convention American Lutheran Church; General Conference of Seventh Day Adventists; Southern Baptist Convention; Greek Archdiocese of North and South America; Religious Action Center, Union of American Hebrew Congregations; American Baptist Convention; United Presbyterian Church in the USA; Lutheran Church in America; Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs; Unitarian University Assn; Central Conference of American Rabbis; General Board of Christian and Social Concerns of the Methodist Church; Synagogue Council of America; the National Catholic Welfare Conference, and many other church and religious leaders.

The Congress has never passed a law limiting or prohibiting voluntary prayer in schools. The Supreme Court has never prohibited voluntary prayer in schools. The Senate was not voting in 1966 with regard to anyone's belief in prayer or right to pray, at home, in church or at school, but the vote was on one's faith in the Constitution of the United States and the belief that the nation would best be served by retaining the separation of Church and State as set forth in the words and the intent of our founding fathers in the First Amendment to the Constitution. It was a vote for separation of Church and State.

NEXT SATURDAY, JULY 11 IS TRADES DAY AT TURKEY

Next Saturday, July 11 will be Trades Day in Turkey once again. Folks are reminded that some twenty-nine nice gifts will be given away at a public drawing to be held at 4:00 o'clock that afternoon. You must be present to receive a prize if your name is called.

Several have found the drawings to be quite profitable, having their name called for two prizes and there have been instances when a person's name has been drawn as many as three times in a single afternoon.

All of the items to be given are worthwhile, but the top goodie, of course, is the $25.00 Savings Bond given each time by Peoples State Bank.

NEW CONCEPT BEING TRIED AT WAYLAND
 PLAINVIEW, TEXAS, Special—A new concept in Wayland Baptist College - Plainview relationship will be tried this summer with the production of "Blithe Spirit", a moving three-act comedy by Noel Coward, in Harrel Memorial Auditorium, June 25-27 at 8:00 p.m. as a college-community cooperative.

The play will be under the direction of Jerry P. Watson, assistant professor of speech and theatre at the College, and will be financed by the College.

Plans call for the effort to be jointly presented by the theatre people of the college and the city of Plainview. "This could be the beginning of a very fine community theatre program for Plainview," Watson states.

"Blithe Spirit" concerns the two wives of Charles Condomine, one living, Ruth, and one dead, Elvira. After a madcap seance, Elvira's spirit, summoned by the eccentric Madame Arcati, refuses to leave. When a vase moves about the room, even Ruth believes her husband's report that Elvira has come back, but neither knows of her scheme to make Charles a spirit, too.

There is a slip-up, however, in Elvira's plan, and Ruth instead of Charles joins Elvira. Charles, thinking he is rid of both of them, prepares for a trip but, as the spirited ending of the play proves, he is not unescorted.

Critics say that "Blithe Spirit" offers several of Coward's best characters and most hilarious scenes in addition to a good measure of his typical satire.

Cast members include from Plainview, Sue Bradford as Ruth Condomine, and Kay Jones as Madame Arcati. Wayland students in the cast include Jane Smith as Edith, Ric Hunt as Dr. George Bradman, Karen Cumiford as Mrs. Violet Bradman and Marti Hunt as Elvira. Watson will play the part of Charles Condomine.

Corky Johnston, a Wayland senior, is serving as technical director and Debby Daugherty, also of Wayland, serves as stage manager. Plainview people serving as crew members include Judy Willis as assistant stage manager, Linda Wright and Kathy Zeek, properties, Pauline Watson and Mrs. Russell Harberer, costumes, Sara Houlette and Sharon Morgan, make-up, and Mike Chesser, lights. Wayland students Pat Teague and Kenny Wood round out the crew, working costumes and house manager, respectively.

Tickets for the three performances may be purchased at the door of the theatre on any night of performance.

At Six Flags In 1970 Tiny Big Attraction

A carousel spins, a volcano erupts, geysers of blue water squirt a full six inches into the air and in the midst of it all stand hundreds of people 3/4 of an inch tall, with their 3/16ths-inch children at their sides.

It's all part of one of the newest attractions at Six Flags Over Texas. The tiny people populate a 10'x10' model of the famous theme park.

The model took some 14 months to build at a cost of about $20,000. Experts from Cost Systems Engineers, Inc. of Fort Worth built the display. To assure accuracy, engineers worked from the Park's original plans for all buildings. Color photographs and on-the-grounds measurements were used whenever there was doubt.

The result was a perfect 1/16th scale model.

The artists, engineers and model builders tackled unusual problems in animating some of the familiar Six Flags features. In the finished model, the elevators in the Oil Derrick travel up and down. The Boom Town carousel goes 'round and 'round, as do the miniature models of the Sombrero Ride, Missile Chaser and Flying Jenny. Tiny cars on the delicate replica of the Astrolift travel back and forth from one side of the model to the other. The pint-sized volcano in the Mexican section spurts real smoke. And, in front tiny streams of water spurt from the center of a scale-model lake.

An "N gauge" railroad train—an exact copy of the Park's steam driven trains—circles the entire model on a track with ties smaller than toothpicks.

The attention to detail shown by the artists who created the model is surprising to visitors. Even the tiny shingles on the roofs of various buildings are perfect.

The exhibit is the centerpiece for Six Flags' new tourist information center in the Park's Boom Town section. The sign over the door reads, "Luther's Land Office" (Luther is Luther Clark, Six Flags president).

Inside, in addition to the model, are huge enlargements of both color and black and white photographs showing Texas' scenic wonders. And, at a special booth in the building, a friendly Six Flags hostess supplies pamphlets and maps telling of the state's many tourist attractions. The Texas Highway Department and the Texas Tourist Development Agency are working with Six Flags to keep the center supplied with the most up-to-date and interesting information available.

It is hoped that a visit to the exhibit will launch many an out-of-state guest on a full-scale tour of Texas.

ALL E BONDS EARN INTEREST; NONE HAS REACHED "FINAL" MATURITY

"All outstanding E Bonds are still drawing interest regardless of age—none has reached 'final' maturity," Rex Brack, Senior Vice President, Braniff International and volunteer state chairman said today.

Brack made the statement because of wide public misunderstanding of terms and conditions of U. S. Savings Bonds.

"E Bonds now being issued have a maturity of 5 years, 10 months, with an automatic 10 year extension," Brack said. "Older E Bonds—with original maturities ranging from 7 to 10 years—have been granted one or more 10 year extension so no E Bond has reached 'final' maturity and they continue to earn interest."

Brack said the current rate is 5%, if held to maturity. Yield is 4.01% the first year; thereafter, 5.20% to maturity. Older bonds earn at the new 5% rate, beginning with the first semi-annual interest period starting on or after June 1, 1969, if held to maturity or extended maturity. "Many holders of older Bonds don't realize how their value has appreciated," Brack said. "For example, a $100 Bond bought for $75 in July 1941, is now worth $191.64."

Bonds is their tax advantages. Interest is exempt from all state or local income or personal property taxes. It is subject to Federal income tax until Bonds are cashed, making possible creation of 'Tax Break' retirement and tax-free education funds."

Shirttail Sermon

"But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and maketh known to the King Nebuchadnezzar what shall be in the latter days." (Daniel 2:28)

These words were spoken by Daniel to King Nebuchadnezzar after the king's wise men were unable to tell and interpret the king's dream.

"But there is a God in heaven." What thought-provoking words these seven are. Example, after example is found in the Bible to indicate the workings of God in heaven. How often in life do we need to remember these simple words that express such a great truth.

When we have sinned we should remember that there is a God in heaven who is grieved that we have gone astray. This God loves us and wants to forgive us if we will turn to Him in His appointed way.

When sorrows come upon us and troubles and temptations abound, let us know that there is a God in heaven is ready to help and comfort us. When death steals into our homes and takes those dear to us, let us remind ourselves that there is a God in heaven who cares and can sustain us in these hours.

Finally, let us remember that God will still be in heaven in that last great day. On that judgment day, when we stand before the Creator, what will be our plea? We cannot plead any goodness of our own. Only through the shed blood of Jesus can we be justified.

COTTON INSECT CONTROL CHANGES ARE NOTED
COLLEGE STATION—Like most other things, cotton insect control has changed over the past few years.

Gone are the days when a cotton producer could follow a program of regularly scheduled applications of any one of several insecticides with good results, says John Thomas, entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Because of insect resistance to insecticides, the economics of cotton production and other factors, today's cotton producer must base control decisions on a whole new book of rules, adds Thomas.

First, the producer must know the insects which normally are destructive in his area. Then he must learn to read the danger signs; namely, when are populations high enough to warrant control, when should the first insecticide application be made and what insecticide should be used? Thomas says weather conditions and insect populations vary from year to year and from farm to farm; therefore, in order to keep control costs to a minimum, each grower must know the situation on his farm.

Thomas points out that at least 10 species of insects and mites have developed resistance to one or more of the organic insecticides and cites the bollworm-budworm situation as one of the toughest problems to solve. He emphasizes the importance of insect counts in the fight against these two pests. Early season pest control should be practiced on the basis of infestation rather than as a routine measure, he says. In areas where thrips perennially cause damage, systemic insecticides can be used to good advantage, he notes.

As the plants begin to square, heavy infestations of fleahoppers can cut yields. When populations reach the damaging stage, they must be controlled. The choice of insecticide is very important since beneficial insects may be working in the field and they will be needed later in the fight against bollworms and tobacco budworms, explains the entomologist. Thomas concludes that cotton insect control is no longer simple and easy and how well it is done will have a strong bearing on yields and profits.
