Special Fund To Supplement Boll Weevil Control Program

Cotton producers in this area are being given an opportunity to join in a special effort to combat boll weevil damage to their crops. The project will insure additional insecticide treatments, as needed, beyond the applications which may be available through the regular Diapause Boll Weevil Control Program, said Earnest Kiker, Briscoe County Extension Agent.

To provide the supplemental treatment for cotton in the established diapause control zone below the Caprock, 90% of all cotton producers in the control zone must agree to pay $3 per land acre of cotton. The money must be paid by June 15 in order for the U. S. Department of Agriculture's Plant Protection and Quarantine agency to secure insecticide and contract for the applications, if needed.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., has agreed to serve as the collection agency, as it has since 1964 for the diapause control program. This special fund is in addition to the 50 cents a bale collected for the diapause program. It will be administered on the same basis as the regular funds, and used exclusively below the Caprock.

Money can also be left at the Peoples State Bank in Turkey.

The special fund will be deposited in an account separate from any other account, Ed Dean, director of field services for PCG, said. If additional applications of insecticide aren't needed this season, the special funds shall be carried over for the same express purpose the following year.

If 90% of all cotton producers in the control zone below the caprock don't participate in the special fund, those who have contributed will receive their money back and the special project will be abandoned.

Chandler Wins Runoff Election

Jack Chandler was elected Briscoe County Commissioner, Precinct 2, in the recent runoff election. Chandler won over incumbent Orval Cobb by a margin of 198 to 172. This was a good turnout for voters in this precinct for the ballot had only this one local race and the Poerner-Sadler race on which to vote statewide.

(This report should have appeared in last week's issue of The Tribune but due to an unforeseen interruption it was overlooked. Our sincere apologies to everyone.)

THANKS EXPRESSED BY

QUITAUQUE WSCS

The WSCS of the Quitaque First United Methodist Church wants to thank every one of the "Guys & Dolls" who spent so many hours in hard work repairing, cleaning, painting the parsonage and mowing the lawns at the church and parsonage last week in preparation for the new pastor. ## Valley Girls Go To State In UIL Piano Solo Contest

For the first time before or after the consolidation of the schools, two area girls qualified for a trip to Austin for the Texas State Solo-Ensemble Contest. They are Cindy Griffin of Quitaque and Rondalyn Crump of Turkey. These girls earned this trip by making the highest possible grade at the regional UIL music contest in Lubbock several months ago.

Cindy Griffin, a sophomore, was accompanied by her teacher, Mrs. Ross Herrington, and daughters, Kim and Lisa. Rondalyn Crump, a senior and student of Sam Brown of Tulia, was accompanied by her mother, Jacquelin Crump, and brother, Ken.

The girls arrived in Austin on Thursday evening, June 1, and performed on Saturday, June 3. With ratings I through V, and I being the highest grade, Cindy Griffin made a II on her performance of a Mozart sonata and received a medal. Rondalyn Crump received a IV on a Chopin waltz. All pieces played had to be chosen from the state approved music list and were very difficult. Very few grades of I or II were given. These girls were playing alongside 4A, 3A, 2A and A schools of top performing ability. The grading and judging was very strict with the same high standards for all classes of schools, so the communities have every reason to be extremely proud of these two girls.

Rondalyn and her family enjoyed a river boat ride and visits to the capitol, LBJ Library and other points of interest. Cindy and her group made a city tour of surrounding lake areas, beautiful and historical homes and buildings, including the capitol and LBJ Library. All reported a very enjoyable trip.

Quitaque Taken To The Cleaners

"Alone, I can do nothing... Together, we can do much." And such was the reaction of the people Saturday for there was a good turnout for the Quitaque Community clean-up day. Young and old alike came by the numbers and many things were accomplished. The fireboys hauled off truck loads of debris from behind their building and tore down an old building and cleared it off. Weeds were cut and lots mowed and shredded. In all there were about 15 dump truck loads hauled away. All of the planters on Main Street and in the park were cleaned up. The tennis courts were worked on and a new net put up there.

A delicious lunch was served to the tired workers at noon at the Community Building. Lillian White, Gladys Stroup and Lockwood McCracken served barbecue, beans, potato salad, corn bread and brownies prepared by several local people.

There were many people working in yards and cleaning up around their alleys and vacant lots. If you have any debris that needs hauling off you can hire J. C. Waggon. Old appliances, tree limbs and clutter often are laid back in alleys because no one knows what to do with them. Everyone is urged to have these places cleaned off. Paul Leal will also be available to cut down any dead trees around your place and this makes a big improvement in trying to beautify the community.

There will be one more work day before the Quitaque Homecoming. Everyone is requested to work together to make the community clean, neat and attractive.

Turkey Senior Citizens Meet

SID RETURNS HOME

On Saturday, April 28, S. T., Jr., arrived in Quitaque to pick me up to transport me to his home in Richardson, Texas, and later to Nacogdoches, Texas for the purpose of meeting a couple, by previous arrangement, from Louisiana. The purpose of this visit was to visit my three oldest children who live in Richardson, Dallas and Nacogdoches, Texas. Then to visit my people and old acquaintances in Louisiana, and to attend the Memorial Day at the old Sharon Baptist Church, which is the Saturday before the first Sunday in May, and so far as I know has been since time-immortal. I can remember the time when they spoke of it as the Sharon Graveyard working day. It is a pretty cemetery. My Father and Mother are buried there. I was converted and joined the church there.

Our traveling, all the way, was pleasant. We left the house here April 29 at 9:10 a.m. and it was partly cloudy, to Vernon by 11:15. Soon after leaving there we met a long, long freight train, which reminded me of the many times I had been on that route when we would meet nice, fast passenger trains. On to Wichita Falls where we had lunch at 12:10 p.m. Here we purchased gas from PINA, which is S. T.'s company. From there on to Decatur at 2:10 p.m. where we turned toward Denton at which point we reached Highway 35, I believe, which took us due south to Highway 635 or somewhat known as LBJ. After traveling this for a ways and with a couple or three turns we reached S. T.'s about 3:20 p.m.

The next day to Nacogdoches, Barney's, and spent the night, or the rest of the night, we had to get up early, Barney had to make an early flight to Dallas on his way to Chicago to attend a company meeting. There soon our two Louisiana kin arrived, Wayne Campbell and Willie C. Bogan, and soon we three were on our way to Shreveport, Louisiana, where my only close relative, a sister, is in a nursing home. This was a beautiful drive, from East Texas to Shreveport. After a visit with my sister, Vida Campbell, we drove on east to Castor, Bienville Parish, and as we did, the countryside began to look more and more beautiful to me. After reaching our destination, and spending the night, after breakfast with Willie Bogan, we started out going to different places in the community to see other relatives and friends. First was to Athens to visit Mrs. Velma Wise, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Gladys Wise, who lived in Quitaque for some time several years ago. Then on our way back we stopped at Gibsland, Louisiana, for a visit with my niece, Mrs. Helen Bogan Reno. Her house is on a high hill among pretty tall pine trees. We had a nice visit and eat there. On the way home from there by the side of the road we saw the monument at the place of death of Bonnie and Clyde.

The next day to Minden, Louisiana, to visit Mrs. Velma Upchurch, a cousin of mine, where we had another visit and lots of good things to eat. Next day to a senior citizens' meeting, at which they claimed to have almost a hundred present and plenty of good eating. I saw a number of old friends. During all of which time Barney was winding up his business in Chicago, at which time he called Grace Wise Kaberna and had a nice dinner visit with her, also her son, Jack, and family and he was back home in time for him and his wife to drive to Castor, Louisiana Friday evening, where we had visiting and more eating. Good? Yes.

Saturday morning early we all took off to Sharon Church for the Memorial day. It is in a different community from Castor, about 75 miles north. There we saw a lot of people and heard a wonderful message, sermon, and a big, long table, among big trees, loaded with good things to eat, galore. On our way to this place we passed by my Father's old home place. There is no house there now but I have a picture of it. So, after the services were all over we started on our return to Castor. We went a different route, by places I thought would look familiar, but they did not, too much growth on and around them. We spent this night in Castor and Sunday morning with Barney and wife we drove to their home in Nacogdoches where I remained until Tuesday afternoon at which time Barney drove me to Tyler where Esther, S. T.'s wife, met us to return me to their home in Richardson. There I remained until Saturday morning at which time S. T. drove me to Quitaque. While

HIGHTOWER WASHINGTON HIGHLIGHTS

One of the issues creating the most attention in Washington is not actually before Congress. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms issued proposed regulations that would require registration of all new firearms and detailed record keeping of each firearm as it is sold. I have received hundreds of letters protesting this action from the 13th Congressional District.

I wrote a letter of protest to Mr. Rex D. Davis, Director of the Bureau, and questioned their authority to take such far reaching measures without a specific legislative mandate. If the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms does not withdraw this proposal, I intend to proceed with legislation that will clearly prohibit such action.

WHAT CAUSES INFLATION?

Of course there are many aspects in our society that contribute to inflation. I reached the boiling point during debate on the emergency farm bill that was voted down by the House of Representatives during all of the talk about how the "flexible parity concept" would cause further inflation. That same week we saw a report from the Office of the Inspector General of Health, Education and Welfare disclosing how that department had "misspent" in 1977 somewhere between $6.3 and $7.4 billion. Now THAT IS INFLATION!

Their waste is more than the entire non-food stamp budget of the Department of Agriculture. AGRICULTURAL LEGISLATION President Carter signed the compromise farm bill last week and directed the Secretary of Agriculture to exercise his newly-acquired authority by increasing the target price to $3.40 per bushel for wheat. That will give wheat producers a little more price protection but not as much as is needed. Our best hope for this crop year is for the market prices to move higher.

The President expressed reservations on placing a floor of 48 cents a pound for the loan on cotton. If we reach the point where the world market is below 48 cents a pound we need to cut production. Forty-eight cents is well below even the Department of Agriculture's figures on cost of production. It is four cents above the formula established loan level that had previously been set for this year.

LEGISLATION STILL PENDING

Two bills that could have a very positive effect on the agricultural economy are still in committee. Both are measures of which I am a co-sponsor. One bill, the Agriculture Trade Act of 1978, will increase our efforts in development of overseas markets. At this time the State Department does not seem to encourage agricultural market development and the Department of Agriculture has very little budget or personnel to aid in this area.

The low commodity prices and our balance of payments problems should point to this as being a top priority for our nation. This legislation must clear both the Agriculture and Foreign Relations Committees of the House. It is going to take a real national effort from us to regain customers lost through the embargos of three and four years ago. The other bill, to limit meat imports, must go through the Ways and Means Committee. The present formula increases meat imports during times of large supplies and decreases quotas during times of low supplies in the United States. Senator Bentsen has passed a bill through the Senate. I hope that we will see these bills become law before this session is over.

I was at S. T.'s, my daughter, Betty Jo, drove over to visit me for a while. I enjoyed this trip so much. Such a good place to stay, and so many good places to eat, all of which includes S. T.'s and Barney's! They also have good cooks and good eats. I hope to go back next May if the good Lord is willing. However, I am very happy to be home again. I love this community.

TOWER TALKS by U.S. Senator for Texas JOHN TOWER

Gun Control By Any Name

WASHINGTON—If we can't get federal gun control by one method, let's try another. That seems to have been the latest tactic of the bureaucracy. But this time, Texans and many concerned Americans spoke up and said "no" and it has worked, at least to some extent. The Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, under the watchful eye of its parent, the Treasury Department, is trying to achieve by regulations what has been repeatedly turned down by the Congress for years. The public outcry against the proposed regulations brought their immediate plan to a screeching halt.

The regulations would require: (1) a unique 14-digit serial number on each firearm or non-component part manufactured or imported; (2) a prompt reporting of loss or theft by manufacturers, wholesalers and dealers; (3) centralized reporting to the Bureau of all commercial transactions between manufacturers, wholesalers, and dealers; (4) use of a new form for approval of shipment of machine guns and sawed-off shotguns across state lines; and, (5) an end to the exemption which allows servicemen to import free sporting-type rifles or shotguns for personal use.

No one was fooled. These regulations stop just short of implementing national gun registration. It is clear to me that the Bureau exceeded its statutory authority under the Gun Control Act of 1968. Such drastic changes far exceed the intent of that legislation which expressed the will of the Congress. The Treasury Department, however, claims these rules would not create national gun registration because they would not require the reporting of names of individual gun purchasers. Such information could be quickly obtained, however, by phone call from the Bureau to the dealer.

Legal interpretations aside, these proposed rules would mean some 30 to 40 million computer entries requiring 688,000 quarterly reports from the 172,000 holders of federal firearms licenses, and would cost manufacturers, wholesalers, and dealers an added $8 million in additional paperwork—a cost that would be passed on to the consumers, of course.

The Treasury Department asserted that the new rules would merely speed up crime control by assisting in identification of firearms used in crimes, and by providing early information on the flow of large numbers of firearms to border areas, a possible indication of smuggling operations. It failed to mention, however, the Bureau already traces a weapon in as little as 27 minutes on a priority basis.

Because of such an overwhelming cry of public opposition to these rules, received in mail to me and many of my colleagues, BATF has extended the time for public comment from the original deadline of May 22, 1978 to June 30th. As added insurance, however, a Concurrent Resolution has been introduced by Senator McClure and me, along with others, which would prevent implementation of these rules.

At a time when Texans and all Americans are calling for less intrusion by the federal government into their private lives, once again we have seen an example of the unheeding federal bureaucracy at work. This time, however, the people spoke and hopefully Washington is getting the message.

African Policy at the Crossroads

WASHINGTON—The rash of border hostilities in sub-Saharan Africa can no longer be viewed as the isolated and distant desert wars they once seemed.

They must be perceived for what they really are: further examples of Soviet interventionism into the affairs of struggling third world countries. The events of recent months there are providing a test for the strength of American resolve and an opportunity to reassess American policy in Africa.

Of all the activities by the Soviet Union outside its own borders, its actions in Africa provide the clearest demonstration of the hypocrisy in Moscow's attempts to portray itself as a peace-loving nation concerned about the world's oppressed peoples.

Such examples of adventurism, far from the Soviet borders, in an area posing no threat to the Soviet Union, reinforce persistent doubts about Soviet intentions toward the non-communist nations of the world.

The Soviets have taken advantage of tribal, racial and regional disputes and the inevitable reaction to the colonialism of the 19th century to forge their own brand of 20th century colonialism with Cuban rifle-bearers.

During the past two years, for example, the flow of Soviet arms to Angola and Ethiopia raises serious doubts that the equipment is being supplied merely to help the host government.

Recent reports indicate that large supplies of Soviet-built equipment, including tanks and planes, are being shipped into Mozambique for possible use in the Rhodesian fighting. This increases the danger that the Soviets once again will be pouring gasoline on still another conflict.

Administration officials seem unwilling or unable to acknowledge that the Soviets and the Cubans have and will continue to exploit situations of opportunity in Africa wherever and whenever they can.

Indeed, the U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations has astonishingly described the Soviet-financed Cuban forces in Africa as a "stabilizing force."

What is needed is a willingness on the part of the Administration to take a hard, cold and clear-eyed look at the African situation.

But what we have seen so far from the Administration statements on Africa is an example of talk out of two sides of more than one mouth. One day, there is "linkage" between the Soviet involvement in the Horn of Africa and SALT; the next day such facts have been dismissed.

One week there is tough talk about building up our military strength; two weeks later follow announcements of cutbacks in ship construction for our navy and a decision to shelve enhanced radiation weapons production.

Nowhere are there signs of any determined effort to demonstrate to the Soviets that their continued interventions in Africa will have an adverse impact on a wide range of our relationships, not just the upcoming debate on strategic arms limitations talks in Geneva.

In country after country on the African continent, where hostilities have erupted after armies have been equipped with Soviet arms, the threats to peace and stability throughout Africa loom ever larger. American reluctance to point an accusing finger at the guilty parties will only work to reap a whirlwind of Soviet opportunism.

CHANDLER WINS RUNOFF ELECTION FOR COMMISSIONER

Jack Chandler was elected Bristoe County Commissioner, Precinct 2, in the recent runoff election. Chandler won over incumbent Orval Cobb by a margin of 198 to 172. This was a good turnout for voters in this precinct for the ballot had only this one local race and the Poerner-Sadler race on which to vote statewide.

Grace Baptist Church in Canyon was the site for the double ring marriage vows exchanged between Miss Donna Jean Rucker and Kenneth Dale Limbocker in ceremonies held recently with the Rev. Jack Henry officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rucker of Canyon. Her father, Wayne Martin, died of a heart attack when she was very young. When her mother married Bill Rucker, he adopted Donna, and has reared her as his own child. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Ira Limbocker of Oilton.

A candelabra holding blue candles accented the altar with a large bouquet of white gladioli. Completing the decor was the traditional white kneeling bench and a unity candle.

Organist was Hank Dodson and the soloist, Tammy Blanton, sang "A Time For Us," "With This Ring," "We've Only Just Begun," "You Light Up My Life," and "If."

Escorted and presented in marriage by her father, the bride chose a white floor length organza gown covered with lace featuring a formal length skirt trimmed with lace which swept into a chapel train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white daisies and blue roses and carried a handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother as something old. She selected her formal wedding dress and bridal veil as "something new," wore earrings belonging to her mother as "something borrowed," and added her wedding garter as "something blue."

Anita Busby served as maid of honor and bridesmaids included Holly Rodgers, Kay Martin and Carol Hillier. The bridal attendants wore floor length gowns of light blue with blue and white lace jackets and carried bouquets of white daisies accented with blue streamers.

Bryan Friemel served as best man. Groomsmen were George Danner, Randy McCoy and Wallace Stevens.

Ushers were Darrell Ogletree and David Lindley. Guests were registered by Mitchell Cunningham. Participating in the service were Julie Dalton, flower girl, and Chad Jarnagin, ring bearer.

A reception for the newlyweds followed at the church where the bride's table was covered with a white linen imported cloth and centered with a blue bowl filled with white daisies. A silver punch service was used with blue candles accenting the table arrangement.

A four tiered wedding cake, decorated in the bride's chosen colors with wedding bells accenting the top tier, was served by Donna Matthews and Lisa White. Assisting in the houseparty were Mrs. Kass Dodson, Mrs. Pat Osborn and Mrs. Lee Luman.

The newlyweds took a honeymoon trip to Dallas and will be establishing their home at 1919 North 2nd Avenue in Canyon.

SBA Offers Disaster Loans to Farmers

April 11, 1978, 102 Texas counties were declared as disaster areas by A. Vernon Weaver, Administrator of the Small Business Administration. Most counties were declared because of extreme drought conditions, but other reasons include hail, high winds and excessive rainfall.

A disaster declaration automatically activates SBA's Farm Disaster Loan Program. Farmers and ranchers in the declared counties and the 82 adjacent counties who were adversely affected by these disaster conditions may be eligible for low-interest SBA loans. These loans are available for losses not already covered by insurance or ASCS disaster or deficiency payments.

The following formula is used by SBA in calculating the amount of eligible loss on crop damage: Acres planted x established normal yield x percentage of loss x market price - recovery = eligible loss.

Interest rates on Small Business Administration Physical Disaster Loans for businesses are 3% for the first $250,000 and 6% for any remaining amount, with a maximum of $500,000. Loans are based on the ability to repay and have a maximum maturity of 30 years, although the average maturity is 5-7 years.

Up to 50% of the eligible loan amount may be used to pay outstanding obligations and for reasonable operating expenses including living expenses. The balance must be held for production costs in the new crop year.

Texas farmers and ranchers who suffered drought damage to 1977 crops and resulting financial hardship may contact the nearest Small Business Administration office for additional information. SBA locations include Dallas, San Antonio, Lubbock, Amarillo and Houston.

What Think Ye?

"What is a minister, father?" asked a young man. He is a man whose time, is his own, which means he is responsible only to God and is dependent on the grace of a congregation. He is a specialist, educated, trained and experienced in the field of specialist. At least where everybody considers himself a specialist.

"What does a minister do, father?" asked the son. Well, his time is his own, which means he is always on the job. He preaches and teaches, he heals, though without pills or knife. He is sometimes a lawyer, often a social worker, an entertainer, philosopher, and a handy piece of decoration for public functions.

He visits the sick, marries people, buries the dead, labors to console those who are in sorrow and to admonish those in sin. He spends considerable time keeping people out of each other's hair, and more time trying to scramble into himself with the least possible loss.

Oh yes, and between times he prepares a Wednesday night lesson, prepares two sermons, preaches them on Sunday to those who don't have any other engagement. Then on Monday he smiles when some jovial chap roars, "WHAT A JOB! THREE HOURS OF WORK A WEEK!"

"I have nothing but praise for the preacher," said a wealthy old tightwad, as he passed out the door. "So I observed," said the deacon who had passed the plate.

Ministers, please don't get discouraged. There is the fable about two frogs who, while hopping around, fell into a can of cream. One gave up quickly and drowned. The other kicked vigorously and refused to give up. The next morning the farmer found the spunky frog sitting safely on a lump of butter.

HORSE OWNERS CAUTIONED ABOUT CEM

Contagious Equine Metritis (CEM), a highly transmissible venereal disease of horses that affects breeding efficiency, has recently been imported into the United States from Ireland and England.

Although CEM is currently only reported in thoroughbreds, the disease is not to be ignored by other horse breeders. A horse breeding operation in Kentucky was recently found to be infected with the disease through the importation of horses from overseas. Kentucky is now under a federal quarantine that limits the interstate movement of certain thoroughbred horses.

U. S. Department of Agriculture authorities initiated a temporary ban on the importation of all horses from Ireland, the United Kingdom and France last September. The first major outbreak of CEM overseas was reported in early 1967.

The symptoms of the disease are more evident in mares than stallions. First signs of CEM include large amounts of pus discharged from the mare's vagina. Many infected mares will not "settle" or conceive early. Other mares will abort early.

Stallions serve as the mechanical carriers of the disease, and can be treated, but there is no sure cure for mares.

The disease is spread almost exclusively during breeding or when contaminated equipment is used during genital examination. Owners suspecting the disease should contact their local veterinarian since the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory can determine whether or not an animal is infected. Sampling techniques are vital and should be done by a veterinarian.

Presently there is not an effective cure for CEM, but there are definite prevention methods:

—Horse owners who have imported mares or had mares bred to a possibly infected stallion should be on the lookout for signs of CEM.

—Strict sanitary precautions should be followed. Contaminated instruments, sponges or water should not be used from one mare to another.

—Studies have indicated that ampicillin or other penicillin derivatives may be effective against the disease.

GARDEN DISEASE CONTROL MUST BE SEASON-LONG

Since a plant is subject to diseases from the time the seed is placed in the ground until the edible portion is harvested, disease control in the home vegetable garden is a season-long practice.

To get off on the right foot toward a disease-free garden, select a site that is in full sunlight to aid in drying of the foliage in the early morning hours. Many diseases are caused by fungal organisms, a small microscopic plant which requires a certain moisture level to germinate to begin the disease process. Plants in protected, shady areas do not dry rapidly and, as a result, are more subject to disease.

Next, plant garden vegetables on raised beds (8-10 inches) to allow water to move out of the root zone. Poor drainage in the root zone causes many problems, such as the yellowing of tomato plants.

Many plants require some method of keeping the fruit off the ground to prevent fruit decay. Staking plants is still satisfactory, but the use of wire cages has become quite popular. Such cages should be about three feet high and about 20 inches across. Tomatoes, pole beans and cucumbers are well adapted to cages. Plants grown in cages are more upright and the fruit is kept off the ground, thus avoiding a number of soil-borne diseases.

When watering the garden, avoid wetting the foliage of plants, especially in the evening since it will remain wet during the night and provide an excellent area for diseases to develop. Instead, water at mid-day or early afternoon, and use furrow irrigation whenever possible.

When fertilizing plants, follow a well-balanced program. Excessive levels of nitrogen will make a plant more susceptible to some diseases. Calcium, potassium and phosphorous are important in developing healthy plant tissue which will to some extent withstand disease attack. Plants which are high in potassium and calcium can withstand a light nematode attack compared to those grown in deficient soils. Of course this does not mean that potassium and calcium can be used for nematode control. Soil fumigation is still the accepted method of controlling nematodes.

Fungicides for controlling diseases in the home garden last from seven to ten days. Thus, if conditions are still favorable for diseases ten days after a fungicide is used, an additional application must be made. Also, plants are continuing to grow during the ten-day period, and untreated leaves, stems and fruit are being exposed and must be sprayed. A rain after an application will also necessitate retreatment. If leaves have been dry for some three to four hours after spraying and rain does not exceed an inch, then retreatment is not necessary. When applying a fungicide, make sure all foliage and fruit is covered with spray material, and always follow label directions carefully when using any agricultural chemicals.

HOT, DRY WEATHER MEANS PINK EYE

Hot, dry weather is approaching and that means cattlemen should be on the look out for pink eye, an infectious eye disease of cattle of all ages and breeds.

The bacterial organism that is often found in eye secretions of infected cattle has been found living in face flies, so an outbreak of pink eye is often associated with a high face fly population. Also, a virus disease, infectious bovine rhinotracheitis (IBR), is sometimes associated with pink eye. Irritants that can lead to eye infection include intense sunlight, dust, pollen, seeds, awns and tall grass.

Cattle with uncolored skin around the eyes seem to be affected more frequently. After infection, animals generally have immunity for about a year; however, they serve as a source of infection to other animals.

Pink eye can severely reduce weight gains in infected animals. This can be costly to producers. A 30-pound weight loss in 50-cent calves could mean a difference of $15 a head.

To help prevent the spread or severity of pink eye, it is suggested that cattlemen practice fly control and pasture management, use Vitamin A where it is lacking, and promptly treat infected eyes with antibacterial preparations.

Flies can be controlled with sprays, dust bags and back rubbers or by hand dusting.

Pastures should be clipped to eliminate seed heads and to keep stubble below eye level to avoid eye irritation.

Vitamin A may be deficient in dry pastures; this allows eye tissues to be more easily affected.

Treat infected animals as soon as the first signs of pink eye appear. Antibiotic ointments and eye patches can be effective. Veterinarians can also inject antibiotics into the eye tissue.

Keeping infected animals in separate pastures will help minimize the spread of pink eye and make it easier for any follow-up treatment.

TEXAS VETERINARY LAB SERVES PRODUCERS

Texas livestock producers have the Texas Veterinary Medical Diagnostic Laboratory at Texas A&M University working for them.

The laboratory, opened in 1969, was established so that tests on animal specimens could be done promptly to reduce the cost of animal diseases in Texas. This, in turn, increases the efficiency of livestock production and reduces the cost of animal products to consumers.

The services of the laboratory are available to any citizen of Texas, but about 99 percent of the cases are sent in by veterinarians. Specimens sent or brought to the laboratory for testing might include sick or dead animals, pieces of tissue or blood samples.

The laboratory includes departments of pathology, toxicology and microbiology, with the department of microbiology divided into sections of virology, serology and bacteriology. Pathologists evaluate lesions and organs for changes in tissue. Toxicologists run tests for poisons while microbiologists look for viruses, bacteria and fungi that cause disease.

With these various personnel working on each case at the same time, a powerful concerted effort is made to learn the causes of trouble in each case in a minimum of time.

Fees for partial defrayment of operating costs are charged for services performed by the laboratory.

In addition to serving as a facility for testing animal specimens

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cruse of Dallas spent the weekend in the Turkey area visiting with relatives and attending the golden wedding anniversary celebration of Mrs. Cruse's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Timmons.

Dr. and Mrs. Gary Tunnell and sons, Gary, jr., and Judson, of British Columbia visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Tunnell for several days this week.

On Thursday, they left by Texas International for Dallas, where they boarded Eastern Airlines to fly to Gainesville, Florida to visit friends. Their return will be back to New Orleans for a visit in the French Quarter, then on to Mexico City to visit the Aztec Pyramids and the Anthropological Museum and other points of interest before their return by Dallas back to Turkey.

Mrs. Bertha Gregg and daughters, Oneva and Mildred of Plainview, visited the cemetery at Quitaque Tuesday. They also visited the Buddy Morris before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lyon, jr. of Silvertown returned to their home after attending the funeral service for her brother, Sam Rogers, in Lebanon, Tennessee. Mr. Rogers and his wife have visited in Quitaque and met several folk. Friends here will like to remember the Lyons with cards and your prayers.

Mr. and Mrs. Venol Cain of Pharr, Texas, visited his mother, Mrs. W. W. Cain, in Quitaque a few days last week. They drove from here to Lake Tawakoni to visit his sisters, Mrs. John Manry and family, and were met there by Mrs. Charity Steward from Fort Worth.

for disease problems, the laboratory serves as a disease detection center and animal disease information center to keep veterinarians and livestock producers abreast of disease outbreaks and related information.
