THE J. C. HAMILTONS TO OBSERVE GOLDEN WEDDING

The children and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hamilton of Quitaque are honoring their parents with a reception on the occasion of their Golden Wedding Anniversary on Saturday, December 22, 1979, from 2:00 until 5:00 o'clock in the afternoon at the Community Center in Quitaque.

Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

THREE GENERATIONS OF HUNTERS—H. W. House, his son, Mike House, and grandson, Shane House, had one of the thrills of a lifetime Saturday when each one bagged his limit of pheasants on the opening day of the season. The three generations of the House family drove to Halfway, west of Plainview, and joined friends for the hunt. H. W. reports to The Tribune that his grandson, Shane, who is nine years of age and a third grader in the Valley School, is already an excellent shot with a rifle and a shotgun.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS TWINKLING IN QUITAQUE

This year Quitaque has taken on a new look as City Manager James Brunson has finished installing attractive lights in the shape of Christmas wreaths in all of the lamp posts along Main Street. The stores in town are already decorated, reminding us that Christmas is only a few days away.

"We the Women" is sponsoring a Christmas decoration contest this year and awards will go to the best business decoration, most attractive home and most unusual decoration. There will be out-of-town judges, and everyone is asked to have their lights turned on for the night of December 16 and again on Friday night, December 21. This will also be a good opportunity for everyone to see all of the decorations turned on at one time.

Add to the festive look during this Christmas season for all to enjoy.

Petroleum Test Drilling Underway In Floyd County

Exploratory drilling in search of possible petroleum products is well underway in Floyd County, according to a story that appeared recently in the Lockney Beacon. The drilling is located on the Jack Pigg farm southwest of Quitaque in extreme northeast Floyd County.

According to Jeff Hathorn, who is the drilling logger for the rig, the operation is completely exploratory. Mr. Hathorn went on to say, "Geologically this is pioneering work. A few wells have been drilled in Floyd County but not enough to get a clear picture of the underground strata." "The nearest producing well is about 50 miles away," Hathorn said. "The rock strata has been mapped for that area but the formations may even appear here."

Mr. Hathorn's company, Analytical Logging, Inc. of Shreveport, Louisiana, has equipment at the site which can detect the least sign of natural gas or oil.

At last week's report, the drilling was down to 3500 feet, and is scheduled to go to 10,500 feet.

The well is being drilled by the Vernon Drilling Company for Harken Oil and Gas.

NEW ARRIVALS
 Don and Sue Guest of Paris have a new baby boy, Cory Russell, born November 20. Cory has an older brother, Greg, and a sister, Tammy.

Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. David Guest of Turkey and maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lusk of Memphis. Mrs. Dicie Gilliland is the great-grandmother.

Mr. and Mrs. Pedro Estraea of Turkey announce the birth of a son, Leonard Vincent, born December 3 at the Hall County Hospital. He weighed six pounds and twelve ounces.

Mrs. Johnny (Fay) Brummett entered Methodist Hospital in Lubbock Friday, December 7, and remains a patient there in Room 766. She is undergoing a series of tests which have not been reported good, her brother Horace McDonald states. She may be transferred to Central Plains Hospital later in the week.

Members of the Hall County Commissioners Court, in a recent meeting, chose the architectural firm of McMurtry and Crain of Lubbock to handle the Phase II and Phase III portions of the proposed Hall County jail.

Two other firms presented proposals to the court, County Judge Lester Campbell said, and after considerable study of the proposals, the Lubbock firm was chosen. Phase I of the project was recently completed by Corgan and Associates of Dallas, the same firm which had worked with the Hall and Collingsworth commissioners when the two-county jail was being studied (the two-county jail project was dropped several months ago at the request of the Collingsworth commissioners.)

In other action relating to the jail project, the commissioners voted to finance the construction through certificates of obligation, rather than through a bond issue. The certificates can be issued for a pay-off period as long as 40 years, the same as bonds. No vote on the issuance of the certificates is required unless the court is petitioned to hold an election.

At the court's session, the group approved the project agreements for sites 9, 10 and 11 of the Lakeview Watershed project. A group of men from the Lakeview area appeared before the commissioners in connection with Site 9. C. M. Hawkins, owner of a portion of the land, requested that the engineers make a further study to determine if the dam's spillway could be shifted to avoid using so much of the Hawkins property. Doug Cunningham, soil conservationist from Pampa, stated that Mr. Hawkins' request would be forwarded to the engineers, but that he did not know whether the spillway could be moved closer in to the actual dam.

Commissioners also formally organized the Hall County Development Corporation, and named as its board of directors Don Cockrell, Homer Tucker and Dick Fowler. The corporation is being formed in the event revenue bonds may be needed sometime in the future for industrial purposes. A similar corporation has been formed by the City of Memphis.

"Hopefully, this industrial development corporation may sometime in the future be of great value to the community," Judge Campbell stated. "We needed to get the organization formed now, and then we will be ready should the occasion arise for the need of the issuance of revenue bonds. This type of corporation was authorized by the last session of the state legislature. Many other states have had similar revenue sharing corporations to attract industry for a number of years, and the fact that Texas has not had such has caused our state to lose some

CHEMICAL CONTROL OF BLUE WEED IMPROVED

Improved chemical control of the Texas blue weed can now be achieved, or at least the technology is available.

The Texas blue weed is mainly associated with cotton and grain sorghum crops on the Texas High Plains, although related species could be spread throughout the southwest.

Glyphosate, marketed by Monsanto as "Roundup," results in a 70 percent kill of the perennial Texas blue weed one year after application, but a Texas Tech University graduate student has increased the percentage kill to 90 by using glyphosate with Triton AG-98, a surfactant manufactured by Rohm and Haas.

Peter Chykaliuk, a graduate student in the Department of Plant and Soil Science at Texas Tech, was investigating possible means of increasing glyphosate's potential to kill the Texas blue weed and two other weeds.

He compared glyphosate with ten surfactants to arrive at the best possible combination.

"Among the ten surfactants used in our study, Triton AG-98

KIKER'S KORNER

Earnest Kiker
Briscoe County Extension Agent
Store spray equipment properly for winter, and it will be ready to use next spring.

First, wash the sprayer thoroughly. Then apply a lightweight oil, such as a summer oil used in spraying ornamentals. The oily film will prevent rust and corrosion that might otherwise occur.

With hose-on sprayers, thoroughly wash all parts, including any screens or strainers.

Since sprayers are costly, a little time spent now for care and maintenance will assure that they will be ready for the next gardening season.

Applying fertilizer now in preparation for next spring's crops could be an attractive option this year.

To avoid possible problems in getting fertilizer applied next spring, you may want to evaluate increased the penetrating power of the herbicide more than the others. Some of them reduced glyphosate's penetration, while others increased it," Chykaliuk said.

The herbicide and the surfactants were applied directly to the weed when it was in a mature stage of growth.

Chykaliuk received the master's degree in Plant and Soil Science in August. His investigations were supervised by Dr. Jack R. Gipson and Dr. John R. Abernathy. Gipson has a joint appointment with Texas Tech and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station in Lubbock. Abernathy is with TAES and is an adjunct professor at Texas Tech.

The two professors direct all graduate students in the Department of Plant and Soil Science who are interested in herbicides. The students use laboratory and field facilities at Texas Tech and the TAES.

Chykaliuk also conducted experiments on the woolly leaf burrsage and the silver leaf night shade, two perennial weeds. Results indicate that glyphosate alone kills 50% of the burrsage and 90% of the night shade, one year after application.

"Using Triton AG-98 the percentage kill for the burrsage increases to 60, while that for the night shade remains the same," he said.

All results for percentage kills were based on data collected one year after application.

Chykaliuk mixed the individual surfactants with radioactive labeled glyphosate in laboratory experiments and traced the herbicide to compare penetration into the weeds.

Field experiments were conducted with glyphosate and the surfactants to confirm laboratory results.

Chykaliuk is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Chykaliuk, 2416 Brookfield, Vineland, New Jersey. He is now working on his doctorate in weed science at Oklahoma State University, Stillwater.

ate the merits of fall fertilization.

Reports indicate current inventories of most fertilizer materials have declined and could remain below normal during the winter months.

Distribution of these decreased supplies places a burden on an already strained transportation system. And waiting until near planting time for needed fertilizer materials could upset your production schedule.

Results of numerous research and demonstration studies show little difference in yield from fall versus spring fertilization. Except for applying nitrogen, fall fertilization practices would be similar to spring applications.

When applying fall nitrogen for spring crops, use an ammonium source after the average daily soil temperature is below 50° F. Most of it will remain in this form during the winter months. Clay particles hold the ammonium ion to prevent leaching, and it is not subject to denitrification as is the nitrate ion.

PIONEER Harvest Hotline

Barry Love reports
Central High Plains Results

Again this year Pioneer brand seeds are delivering outstanding yields in field after field. But we know it takes more than one year's performance to tell the whole story. Look at these results, then ask your Pioneer dealer to show you records from several years. You'll see for yourself why Pioneer brand seeds have become famous for their consistency.

In 48 comparisons across the Central High Plains during 1979, this outstanding corn hybrid averaged 10,821 lbs./A. to show a yield advantage of 495 lbs./A. over competitive hybrids. 3311 has shown excellent drought tolerance. It adjusts kernel depth to match growing conditions. And stalks and roots provide very good standability, too. With a proven record of top performance in this area, 3311 is sure to be a top choice for 1980.

Farmers rate this as one of the most desirable hybrids for Central Plains conditions. And this year's performance proves why. In 47 comparisons in this area, 3184 averaged 10,390 lbs./A. Recognized as one of the most consistent and dependable yielders in the area, 3184 has strong stalks and roots that contribute to its performance ability. Again next year, make sure 3184 is part of your corn growing plans.

This corn hybrid is relatively new to many area farmers, but it's a well-established favorite of many across the U. S. In 43 tests on the Central High Plains, the reasons for its popularity were dramatically shown. 3183 averaged 257 lbs./A. more than competitive hybrids with an average yield of 10,759 lbs./A. Excellent drought tolerance and very good seedling vigor with strong tolerance to head smut and MDMV make 3183 a good hybrid for this area.

STRUCTURE HEARINGS BRING CALL FOR ADEQUATE FARM INCOME

Testifying before one of ten regional hearings concerning the future structure of American agriculture, a state farm leader said that "by any standards, returns to farmers are abysmally low" and stated that "there does not exist an apparent will to uphold the statutory federal commitment to family farm agriculture."

Jay Naman, president of Texas

Farmers Union, warned a hearing panel in Wichita Falls chaired by Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland that if cash receipts do not improve and inflation continues, total net farm income for 1980, in terms of 1967 dollars could be as low as $8 billion, "only marginally above the horrendous figure of $7.6 billion in the depression year of 1933."

Naman pointed to the third quarter report of farm income which displays figures showing an average 68% of parity received on all crops, the lowest in the 60 years in which parity data has been computed except for 1931, 1932 and 1933.

Reaffirming the organization's stand for parity as the only justifiable measure of farm income and purchasing power, Naman challenged policymakers to "establish a concensus on an equitable standard for farm prices and to implement a program to bring farm prices to a level that will sustain both productivity and an efficient agricultural structure."

Pointedly addressing the move to abandon the parity concept, Naman said, "No Secretary of Labor has ever proposed to do away with the Consumer Price Index because it has been used to indicate a need for higher income for working Americans."

"In 1978," he continued, "per capita income of farmers from farming was a mere $2,830, equal to 42% of per capita income in the non-farm sector of $6,665. In the same year, farmers' return to equity was only 3.6%, compared to a 24% average for all manufacturing industries."

The Farmers Union testimony also included tables showing the national farm debt has doubled since 1971. Government data reveals that agriculture's debt load increased by $18 billion in 1978, $20 billion in 1979, and is projected to balloon another $25 billion in 1980 as farm prices level out and inflation brings about more sharp increases in costs.

While the USDA hearings were conducted to include a broad range of issues, from credit to conservation, production efficiency, land ownership, and energy, only 20 pre-selected speakers were allowed five minutes each to express their views.

"Given only five minutes to talk about the structure of agriculture, there's but one topic of overriding importance, and that's income," said Naman. "Without a clear commitment to a fair price for farmers, we are simply staging dialogue while the family farm fades into extinction."

Saturday morning, Larry took his father and brother to Hereford and they spent the day hunting pheasants. They got their limit Saturday, but didn't have quite that good luck Sunday. They report a good time.

Sayles Elected Chairman Chief Executive of Central Power & Light

W. P. (Bill) Sayles, vice president and director of customer services for West Texas Utilities Company, Thursday morning was elected chairman and chief executive officer of Central Power and Light Co. in Corpus Christi, effective March 1, 1980.

W. P. (BILL) SAYLES

He will succeed Durwood Chalker, who will become chairman and chief executive officer of the Central and South West Corporation, parent company of WTU and CPL. Chalker had been president of WTU before moving to the Corpus Christi position last July 1.

Sayles is a native of Taylor County and has been with WTU since April 1955. He graduated from Tuscola High School in 1942 and from Texas A&M University with a B. S. degree in 1947.

He served in the Army Air Corps as a commissioned officer during World War II, flying C-47s with a troop carrier squadron in the European Theater in 1944-45.

Sayles ranched in southern Taylor County from 1947-55, and also taught vocational classes for veterans from 1947-52.

He worked as area development representative for WTU from 1955 until 1964, then was named manager of Area Development. He also represented the company on legislative matters in Austin.

He was named an executive assistant, reporting to the president, in 1975, and in March 1976, he was elected vice president in charge of operations. His area of responsibility was expanded and the title changed to vice president in charge of customer services in 1977. He has been a member of the Board of Directors since 1976.

WTU President Glen D. Churchill, who returned to Abilene last July after serving three years as executive vice president of CPL, praised Sayles for his service to WTU.

"While this means a substantial loss to our company, it presents a good opportunity for Bill," Churchill said. "We wish him every success in his new position and look forward to working closely with him as head of a sister company in the Central and South West System."

Sayles will be Central Power and Light Company's third consecutive chief executive officer from West Texas Utilities Company. Roff Hardy, WTU president from 1965-75, was chairman and CEO at CPL from 1975 until his retirement last July 1. He now lives in Abilene.

Chalker, who served 29 years with WTU before moving to CPL, will be the second in a row from WTU to become chief executive officer at Central and South West Corporation, which has its headquarters in Dallas.

He succeeds Si Phillips, who retires in February. Other CSW operating companies are Public Service Company of Oklahoma, Tulsa, and Southwestern Electric Power Company, Shreveport.

Sayles has been active in civic affairs, including service with the Texas Industrial Development Council, and Abilene and West Texas Chambers of Commerce. He recently served on a study committee involved with the approaching city bond election.

He and his wife, the former Gwen Grisham, have two children.

They attend the Episcopal Church of Heavenly Rest. The family home is on Route 1, Tuscola.

Mrs. Therna Farley of Turkey returned to her home Monday after spending a week in Central Plains Hospital following foot surgery there. Her daughter-in-law, Kathy Farley, reports she is improving fine.

turns

As bells ring and horns blow, a new year dawns around the world. In every land men celebrate its coming, variously, according to tradition.

One custom seems almost universal... an assessment, a review of the past year and the resolution to do better — in one's vocation, in one's attitude toward family and neighbor.

What is this spark that makes men seek a higher plane? It is the yearning that set the Wise Men's feet to follow a star, the longing of the multitudes that thronged the hills of Gallilee to hear the words of Jesus, the thirst of every man to know God's presence in his life.

In this age of chaos and confusion there is no better resolution than to attend our churches where wisdom and compassion are taught.

The candle has been lighted in the lamp beside the door. The greens are hung, and the children are in a state of wild anticipation. Soon we'll read the Christmas story and sing carols for the Christ Child.

Flames flicker on our hearthstone and in their depths gleam memories.

A small boy, cold and hungry, kneels crying by his mother's bed. Then kind hands lift him. Ladies from a nearby church bring a basket for the widow, and save her life.

★ ★ ★ ★

On a Pacific island, a badly wounded soldier moans with pain. Tenderly, a chaplain bathes his face, then opens a tattered Bible and begins to read. Anguish and suffering recede and hope stirs faintly.

Now the fire crackles. I stir the embers and thank God for the ministry of dedicated people.

Your church interprets God's gift of love to the needy and the helpless. Let us worship there.

New Texas ASCS Chief Confirmed

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland confirmed Stephen J. Pringle as the new Texas ASCS State Executive Director, as of December 2.

Pringle, a Bryan resident, has been with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service since September of this year, serving as a consultant to the U. S. Department of Agriculture as Assistant to the Texas State ASC Committee.
