Appointed to New Job in Lone Star Co.

R. H. (Dick) Gray

R. H. (Dick) Gray of Waco, veteran Lone Star Gas Company employee with 26 years of service, has been appointed superintendent of the company's West Texas division of distribution, according to an announcement by M. L. Bird of Dallas, operating manager in charge of distribution properties. He succeeds Joe C. Darrow who has been named general manager of the Fort Worth division, replacing Floyd L. Carmichall, who has resigned to devote full time to private business.

With headquarters in Abilene, Gray will direct gas service and maintenance operations for Lone Star in Baird and more than seventy other points in the West Texas area, Bird stated. The new division superintendent comes to this territory from Waco where he became district manager in 1939. His successor at the Waco assignment is George A. Gott, Jr., formerly Lone Star's district manager at Cleburne.

Mr. Gray's first and only business association has been with Lone Star, having started his career in 1925 as a member of a construction crew assigned to the building of town gas plants.

He joined the company at the beginning of an expansion program which set a gas industry engineering record by bringing natural gas service to more than 150 cities and towns in Texas and Oklahoma in less than five years.

His transfer to West Texas returns Gray to familiar territory, for he spent much time in the area during his first two years with Lone Star. In 1927 he was appointed manager at Winters, was transferred shortly afterwards to Albany to assist in the construction of the gas plant and to remain as manager. He served in managerial capacity at Vernon, Hamilton and Sweetwater until 1937 when he was appointed manager of the company's Abilene district and in 1939 was assigned to the Waco property as district manager.

Mr. Gray, a native Texan born at Dodd City, is married to the former Catherine Brown of Gatesville. Their son is John Tom Gray, age 18. At Waco, Gray was a member of the Austin Avenue Methodist Church, Masonic Lodge, Karem Temple Shrine, Rotary Club, Lake Waco Country Club and the Ridgewood Country Club. During World War II he served as a member of Draft Board No. 4 at Waco. His hobby is hunting.

THIS WEEK IN Washington

AS TESTIMONY in the great debate over the MacArthur affair dromed on before a joint senate committee, the rest of congress moved to get some legislative work done, and there was even talk in some quarters of a summer recess or early adjournment, despite the log jam of legislative matters pending.

Most important of the legislation which must be enacted between now and June 30 is extension of the defense production act of 1950; the extension of reciprocal trade; military and economic aid to Europe and the east; the draft and universal military training and some other lesser legislation, including more veterans benefits, rent control extension, etc.

All major aid programs also expire June 30. The President's message on this question was expected to be in the hands of congress before the end of May, and if congress needs as much time for debate on the question as in the past, the deadline will not be met, and temporary extensions would be in order.

The foreign aid bill likely will include the Marshall plan aid for economic rehabilitation; economic aid for South Korea, non-Communist China and nearby areas; technical aid (the four-point program); arms aid (the Atlantic pact nations and arms aid for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Nationalist China and the Philippines. It may be that discussion on this measure will determine, insofar as congress is concerned, whether our foreign policy should place major emphasis on Europe, or as General MacArthur advises, make the Asian theatre the major area of American aid and action.

Political observers here see in the domestic economic picture a reversal of sentiment to some extent over that of a year ago. It will be remembered that President Truman in the summer of 1950 asked for limited powers to stimulate military production. However, the congress heaped upon him extensive powers over wages and prices as well as production, and these programs have been placed into action with set-up of the various mobilization agencies such as the national production authority and the office of price stabilization, with the defense production administration, presided over by Charles E. Wilson, as the over-all policy making agency.

Newest segment to fan the dissidents into action is the rebellion—not by consumers—but by livestock men, meat packers, distributors and feeders over rollbacks on live and dressed beef, all despite the fact that the live beef ceilings are at some 140 per cent above parity price, which generally is conceded to be a fair price on farm produce, including beef.

It is fairly well known in Washington that Secretary of Agriculture Brannan was not particularly strong for imposition of beef price roll-backs. However, the secretary has approved the OPS ceiling prices and believes they should be given a chance to work. While declaring that we must watch closely cattle marketings and production in the months ahead, and the feed situation as compared to cattle production, Secretary Brannan asserts that judging from the actual experience of the rate at which cattle numbers were increased in 1949 and 1950, average cattle and calf prices at about the 1950 level, which will be allowed by the OPS ceilings, these prices still constitute a reasonable incentive for continuing production of beef animals.

Secretary Brannan points out that beef animals require only about a third as much grain as hogs and other animals and he pointed out how beef herds increased almost two million head during 1949 when the farm price of cattle averaged $19.90 and how the herds increased by 4.1 million head in 1950 at prices averaging $23.10 and the January average, 1951 of $27.00 was even more favorable, while the OPS ceiling price at the Chicago yards range from $27.30 for commercial grades up to $37.05 for prime grades.

So observers here declare it is hard to reconcile the statements made by cattlemen, some farm leaders and others, that OPS ceiling prices will only cause severe shortages, black markets, and rationing at a time when the parity on cattle as of April 1, 1951 averaged only $19.90.

 AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"
Do What You Fear To Do

AT ONE TIME John Stemle, Jasper, Ind., was afraid to spend the night on the river unless he had a companion and left a carbide lamp burning all night. Not that the companion had to be a fighter; he just had to be there. Not that a little light was so much protection; it could work the other way around.

It was necessary for him to take these river trips in order to attract the attention of a manufacturer for the mass production of a boat he had designed. The questions most frequently asked by the man whom he would encounter in a two dollar rowboat, or in a $30,000 cruiser, was "Aren't you afraid at night? What do you do with yourself?"

Yes, he was afraid. And he searched for things to do in a pup tent on a dark, rainy night on a Mississippi sandbar. Sound is multiplied when you are lying with your ear to the ground. A fox or a coon coming down to the river sounds like a bear crashing through the underbrush. A fish crane looks pretty harmless by day, but at night the sounds it makes are horrible and terrifying. There's another little bird, no bigger than your fist, that emits a blood-curdling, mournful scream. Hearing those noises, made John afraid to go beyond the bounds of his tent. When they occur, one after the other, and sometimes several in unison, there are just two things you can do: (1) Bury your head under a blanket and let your imagination run wild. (2) Open your flap tent and go out and discover from where the noise emanates. The latter is the one and only thing to do, for the moment you discover the source of the sounds, you no longer fear them.

"Conquering that fear of noise at night," says John Stemle, "taught me to conquer other fears. For instance, when anything bothers me to the point of fright, I simply search for the origin! or if it is mental, for the cause. Then when I have done that, fear dissipates into thin air."

This is just one more example of applying the advice: "Do what you fear to do, and your fear will no longer exist."

IF IT WERE NOT so shocking, we would have been amused when we read recently of the letter sent to President Truman asking him to bar American military aid to the Franco regime in Spain. This at a time when our own beloved country is in grave danger and when we must have every ally we can obtain, especially the one which controls the mouth of the Mediterranean, which occupies the only safety zone and logical beachhead for our armies in western Europe, and which has two million trained fighters available.

Our cause for amusement was occasioned by the list of names reportedly signed to this letter: Paul Robeson, Howard Fast, Rockwell Kent and that other outstanding patriot, Harry Bridges. Our cause for embarrassment was the names of the Protestant bishops. The writer is a Protestant and resents the coupling of the names of bishops of his faith with those of such men as Harry Bridges.

We have reached a stage in world affairs where prejudices must give way to national safety. A selfish man who would jeopardize the lives and liberty of his fellows because of prejudice, has no place in the western world today. This writer believes that some of the names signed to the letter are innocent dupes of the Red propaganda which has prevented the fortifying of the Spanish peninsula and has thus created the weakest link in the western defense. But we cannot vouch for some of the other gentlemen. Could it be that their plea to the President is not founded upon prejudice alone? Is there something in Denmark which does not go by the name Chanel No. 5? It seems to us we have heard of some of these great patriots before!

And where have we read that of America first and always organization—The Joint Anti-Fascist Refugee Committee? Ask the attorney general!

If the signatures on this reported letter to the President do not give the show away to the American public—then our cause is hopeless.

Lady on a Ladder

By Marguerite Mickelsen

To save falls in doing home jobs that call for a climb, safety advisors of the U. S. Department of Agriculture offer some ladder lore especially to women who may to do more repairs and upkeep of the house this year as men have longer working hours. For up-high work indoors—washing windows, cleaning upper cupboards or painting, for example—they urge the use of a sturdy step-stool of step ladder instead of taking a chance on a chair, box or other makeshift.

Most women are inexperienced in using straight ladders for outside work.

Here are tips toward a safe climb:
 Wear clothes that give freedom for work and won't get caught in climbing. Generally well-fitted blue jeans or slacks are safer than skirts. To avoid slipping, be sure any mud or grease has been cleaned from shoes before starting up.
 Also be sure the ladder is in good repair—no cracked, loose or rotted rungs or supports, no loose or rusty nuts.

Set the ladder firmly on the ground, never on any slippery surface. Have the base one-fourth of the ladder's height away from the wall to prevent tipping or sliding backward. The ladder should be long enough to extend above the level of work so that the upper two or three rungs can be used for a hand grasp, never for the feet.

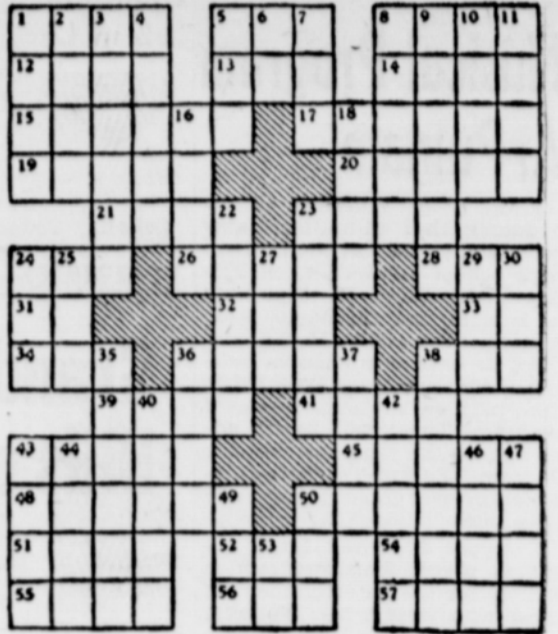

Never carry heavy or bulky loads or sharp tools when climbing a ladder. Instead have a rope hoist to bring them up and hold them in position for convenient use. A metal hook is handy for holding a pail or paint can.

When climbing, depend more on the hands than the feet, and use both hands. It is safer to grasp the sides of the ladder than the rungs because there is less danger of falling if one should break.

Mrs. Bessie Short visited her son, Gaines Short, and Mrs. Short at Abilene Tuesday of last week.

One of the most unusual stories to reach the screen, according to advance reports, Warner Bros. "Three Secrets" with Eleanor Parker, Patricia Neal, and Ruth Doman in the starring roles, comes to the Plaza Theatre on Tuesday.

Produced by Milton Sperling of United States Pictures Productions, "Three Secrets" tells of three young mothers who turn over their babies at birth to an adoption home on the same day. Five years later, a plane crash occurs on a remote mountain peak and that only a little boy survives—a boy, it is revealed, who was adopted and who is five years old that day.

How the three women, now in widely divergent walks of life, are drawn to the base of the mountain from where rescue attempts are taking place, and come together in the common bond—the possibility that the child is one of theirs, forms the background for action.

Texans Still Prefer Zones for Hunting Migratory Duck and Geese in this Section

AUSTIN — The Federal Fish and Wildlife Service is being advised that Texas still prefers zoning the state for the waterfowl hunting season.

The Executive Secretary is forwarding to Washington the resolution, adopted at the Game, Fish & Oyster Commission's meeting in McAllen, re-asserting the request made by the Commission last year.

The proposal merely requests that the Federal Fish & Wildlife Service act on the suggestion. The details of the plan as to the boundary within the state and the separate hunting dates would be arranged after the principle of zoning has been determined.

The Commission's action is in line with a recommendation by the newly organized Outdoor Writers of Texas. That group recently suggested that Texas is so large that sportsmen can obtain a fair opportunity to hunt waterfowl only through a zoning plan.

At its McAllen meeting, the Commission discussed progress of the four experimental and demonstration areas established in the state. It decided to concentrate on these projects, as a means of improving hunting and fishing, rather than authorize any other areas for the present.

The Commission accepted the retirement request of H. E. Faubion as Assistant Executive Secretary, and promoted Chief Clerk W. J. Cutbirth, Jr., to succeed Mr. Faubion. Cutbirth, a Navy veteran of World War II, has been in the department for 20 years.

SERVICES HELP FARMERS GET TOP PRICES

According to H. J. Matejowsky, who is in charge of the Abilene cotton classing office, U. S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration, the Smith-Doxey cotton services can help farmers sell their 1951 cotton crop for top prices. Nearly every farmer knows how to work his land to produce the most cotton per acre, but when it comes to selling it at the highest market price, he's often up a stump. That's where the USDA services come in.

Under the Smith-Doxey Act, passed by Congress in 1937, farmer's in organized groups for improvement can get their cotton classed without paying a fee, and USDA cotton prices mailed to them without cost.

"When a farmer knows the grade and staple of his cotton, then he can figure out how much it's worth by the USDA quotation sheet," Matejowsky explained, pointing out that this gives the farmer real bargaining power in selling his cotton for the highest market price.
