County Ginning Total Reaches 30,113 Bales

FINISHING FLOOR -- This is a picture of the Muleshoe Ranch Motel floor being finished. Machines are being used to smooth the concrete. The building site is located west on Highway 84.

Cotton is rolling into Bailey County gins with the harvest and ginning approaching the half-way mark.

To date gins in the county have ginned a total of 30,113 bales. This figure puts the harvest some three weeks ahead of last year at the same time.

An early freeze caught top green bales with an excessive amount of moisture which cuts down on output per acre.

Estimates on bales per acres continue to vary and the total harvest is yet unpredictable.

This year's cotton allotment is 63,000 acres compared to last year's approximate 96,000 acres, which accounts for a sizeable bale reduction over last year.

The USDA Classing Offices at Lubbock and Brownfield and Lamesa received samples from approximately 33,000 bales Saturday and report the overall South Plains harvest approaching peak activity.

The Lubbock office had 48 classers on duty Saturday, the Brownfield office had nine and Lamesa had five. W. K. Palmer, in charge of the Lubbock office, said more classers would be brought in Monday to all three South Plains offices.

The USDA Cotton Classing Offices at Lubbock, Brownfield and Lamesa classed approximately 133,000 samples during the week ending Friday, November 11. This brought the total classed at the three offices this season to 177,000. Through November 11 last year 137,000 samples of the 1965 crop had been classed.

Middling made up 4 per cent of the total classed at Lubbock last week, Strict Low Middling 7 per cent, Middling Light Spotted 39 per cent, Strict Low Middling Light Spotted 20 per cent, Middling Spotted 17 per cent and Strict Low Middling Spotted 9 per cent.

Average staple length continued to average approximately 15/16 of an inch and longer. Thirty-seven per cent of the cotton "miked" in the Lubbock Office was in the 3.5 and better micronaire category, 16 per cent "miked" 3.3 and 3.4, 28 per cent was 3.0 through 3.2, 16 per cent 2.7 through 2.9 and 3 per cent 2.6 and below.

The Consumer and Marketing Service of the USDA reported increased trading in the new crop cotton with prices steady.

Average prices for the most predominant qualities in the 3.5 to 4.9 micronaire range were: Middling Light Spotted 29/32 - 15.16 - 17.05 and Middling Spotted 31/32 - 17.05.

Prices paid farmers for cottonseed ranged from $60 to $70 per ton.

The Bailey County Fire Department After 40 Years

(Editor's note: This is the final in a series commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Bailey County Fire Department; the series began on Oct. 9, with a brief history of the department, followed by two other articles. One was a summary of the hours worked each month by the firemen and the other, a brief resume of the firemen themselves.)

By Cleta Creamer Williams

Since the Bailey County Fire Department was organized in 1926, it has progressed from a one-truck, small department to one of the best-equipped, best-trained departments on the High Plains.

Each fireman spends a minimum of four hours training per month, or a total of approximately 200 man-hours a month are spent in training. Training includes all phases of fire-fighting, rescue, lifesaving, and use of equipment.

Many hours are also spent in the repair and rebuilding of existing equipment, or of building new equipment. Instead of buying a fully equipped fire truck, which would cost an estimated $22,000, the firemen purchase a truck and proceed to build their own pumper to specifications. The

Yule Tree Stands Tall At Mule Memorial

If you do not have the "good ole Christmas spirit", you will have real soon, as a 37 1/2 foot white fir tree, decorated stands at the Mule Memorial site.

The giant tree arrived in Muleshoe and was placed in its designated place for Muleshoe's Christmas, 1966.

The tree is 38 years old and measures 16 inches across the trunk. Sixteen miles in the mountains, in case you are interested, is where the tree came from. Making the trip to Cloudcroft to get the tree, were Harvey Bass, Johnnie Shelton, David Anderson, Bob Janca, and Ramon Lewis, who drove the truck from State Line Irrigation.

Activities have been coming along pretty fast as far as decorating the gigantic tree is concerned. For instance, if you were riding along the tree's site and saw men riding in a bucket Friday morning, don't think you were seeing things, as Jim Shafer and Bob Hardaway with the REA, were decorating the top part of the tree. Shortly after, Elsie Goss and others assisting, wrapped tinsel roping around a copper wire which constructed the star for it's top. The star, said Harvey Bass, will be centered with a white light and the remainder of the tree will be lighted with red. At the present time, lights have not arrived.

Saturday, the tree was completed as far as decorations. According to Johnnie Shelton, children helped decorate the lower part of the tree and the business activities committee completed the job later Saturday.

Next Friday night at 7 p.m. a program will be conducted at the site with the mayor of Muleshoe, Wilbur LeVeque, the Chamber of Commerce president, Bob Janca, and others with the Christmas lights will be turned on. Leasel Richardson and his choir will be at the scene to sing Christmas carols and possibly others, Bass added.

Charles Richards, UPI representative also plans to be in Muleshoe for the event.

The annual Christmas parade will make its way down the streets of Muleshoe the following Saturday, Dec. 3, with Santa as the featured item.

Floats entered in the parade thus far, are, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, Llano Estacado, Jenny TOPS, First Baptist Young People, Muleshoe Art Association, Jaycees, Cub Scout Pack 620, Girl Scouts, Calvary Baptist Young People, Muleshoe High School Drafting Class, Alpha Circle of the First Methodist Church, Young Homemakers and FHA, Labodidio.

Prizes will be awarded in two different categories, religion and fantasy, with first, second and third set at $100, $75 and $50.

Plans for the parade are still progressing and will be released at a later date by the Chamber of Commerce manager.

Churches Plan Community Thanksgiving Program

Hymns of true Thanksgiving will be heard as choirs from a number of Muleshoe churches combine their efforts to present a Thanksgiving Community program.

The program will be presented at 7:30 p.m., Monday in the First Methodist Church.

Members of the congregation are to join the choir in singing "Prayer of Thanksgiving." Rev. J. Frank Peery will read the scriptures, then the choir will present "Thanksgiving." Prayer of Thanksgiving will be by the Rev. Troy Walker, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church.

"One Ye Thankful People" will be sung by both the choir and the congregation before the choir presents "Now Thank We All Our God."

"How Deep Is Our Gratitude" will be the title of the message delivered by Rev. Clifton Edwards.

Before the benediction is pronounced by the Rev. J.W. Farmer, the choir's concluding number will be "A Thanksgiving Prayer."

Offering taken during the program will be used to defray expenses and all above this will be used in community projects.

The program is under direction of Leasel Richardson, choral director and Walter Buice, First Baptist Church.

Elaine Dannon will preside at the organ with Susie Tanner at the piano.

Members of Boy Scout Troop 633 will serve as ushers.

All America will be celebrating Thanksgiving Thursday, Nov. 24.

This day originated in New England. After the first harvest of the New England colonists in 1621, Governor Bradford in 1621, Governor Bradford made provisions for a day of thanksgiving and prayer. On delete last line thanksgiving and prayer. In 1623 a day of fasting and prayer in the midst of drought was changed into thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers; gradually the custom prevailed of appointing thanksgiving annually after harvest.

These appointments were made by proclamation of the Governors of the several New England colonies.

During the Revolution a day of national thanksgiving was annually recommended by Congress.

In 17 New York adopted it as an annual custom, and it spread through many of the States by the middle of the 19th century. In 1864 President Lincoln declared a national day of thanksgiving to be observed throughout the years.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, on October 17, announced provisions of the 1967 voluntary Seed Grain Program. He said the program has these objectives: "Improved farm income; livestock prices at a level fair to producers and consumers; full development of our export potential; and maintenance of adequate but not excessive reserves.

The program is designed to encourage farmers to divert 15-18 million acres as compared to 30 million acres of corn and grain sorghum land diverted from the 105 million acre base in 1966.

For grain sorghum the price support loan is set at $1.50 per hundred, up nine cents from this year's $1.52. Corn, $1.05 bushel, up from $1.00. Loans are again available on all grain grown on participating farms.

Grain Program Outlined

The Agricultural Act of 1961 passed by the 87th Congress established the basic provisions of the current grain program. The program was extended annually until the Food and Agricultural Act of 1965 continued it for four more years, effective 1966 through 1969.

The Act provides for a system of price support payments, price support loans, acreage diversion and price protection in a range from 65 to 90 per cent of parity. Within these guide lines established by Congress, Secretary of Agriculture must make annual announcements as to operating procedures, level payments, supports and diversions required to be eligible.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman, on October 17, announced provisions of the 1967 voluntary Seed Grain Program. He said the program has these objectives: "Improved farm income; livestock prices at a level fair to producers and consumers; full development of our export potential; and maintenance of adequate but not excessive reserves.

Is Truth Stranger Than Fiction?

Is truth stranger than fiction? You figure it out! One thing for sure, that eternal triangle never fades out!

The story . . . involving three persons, one female and two males . . . and a couple mothers. Then brain work of law enforcement officers all the way from Arizona to Paris, Texas had to be used to determine truth from fiction.

Here is the story:

It seems that a Paris, Texas mother became alarmed since she hadn't heard from her young daughter in over a year, so she wrote to the mother of a man whom she believed her daughter had married in Arizona.

The Arizona mother had not heard from her son, nor did she know the whereabouts of the girl. So, she wrote her son, in the Arizona State Prison to find out where the girl was.

The son wrote his mother, indicating that he had killed and buried the girl's body "where nobody would ever find it at all." To "get even" was his reason.

His "mom" naturally concerned took the letter to a minister and accepted advice to turn it over to the sheriff.

That's when the investigation wheels started rolling. That sheriff and an undersheriff journeyed to the State Prison for an interview with this prisoner.

It was there in the prison interview room that Muleshoe and Sheriff Dee Clements began to figure into this strange case.

It seems that the couple whom we shall call Joe and Lizzie Bloe, came from Arizona to Muleshoe some months ago and registered in a local hotel.

Here, they met a man who we will call John Doe. Joe Bloe told the Arizona sheriffs in the prison interview, that John Doe, not he, killed

Newspapers Convey Messages

By Bobbie Julian

Newspapers convey news of every medium to the household. They bring world events, state events, and community events to us. They simplify the crisis and bring them to us in our everyday language. They humor us with their daily comics and jokes.

My father and mother were the ones who taught me the value of the daily newspapers. They also showed me the influence of the weekly paper in the small communities. The weekly paper carries within it the social events of the town, the local scores, and the communities own activities.

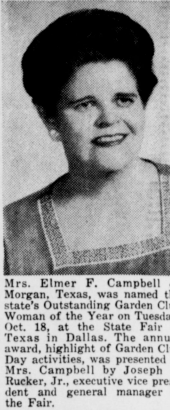

A newspaper carries the complete story to us, while the radios and televisions only telecast the prime events. Some radio and television stations even read their news broadcasts out of the papers!

In my reading of the newspaper, I usually include the front page and the sports section. I read just what interests me on the front page and usually include the entire sports section. I always enjoy the comic page and regularly read every one of them. I like to review the movie advertisements and determine which shows to take in. I enjoy reading the "Mules Tail" in our own daily paper, and get great enjoyment out of the reports that the school reporters send in.

At my present age, I am not too concerned with the newspaper industry. I can conceive, although, that in the near future I will lean very heavily on the newspapers reporting.

Band, Stunt Man, Trio, Speaker, Entertains Students

ENMU TRIO -- A musical trio entertained students of MHS during one of four assemblies held recently. Here is the folk singing trio which accompanied the Eastern New Mexico University Choir here for their presentation of gospel and spiritual songs. The trio above sang and played after the choir finished. A soloist sang a love song for the MHS boys.

by Dana Moore

Muleshoe High School has had the pleasure of attending four assemblies in the past few days.

Thursday, November 10, the 62nd Army Band from U. S. Army Air Defense Center, Fort Bliss, Texas entertained the student body. CWO Herbert Bilhartz led the band.

Larry Meyers led the prayer and introduced the band, with Kathy Williams leading the pledge of allegiance.

Bringing the students to attention, the first song the band played was the Star Spangled Banner. As the students sang along with the band, the fact of our fighting boys in Viet Nam came close to our hearts and minds.

Featuring a xylophone solo to a modern jazz trio, the student body thoroughly enjoyed the assembly. Two songs from Mary Poppins were played, one of them, "Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious."

Students of M.H.S. didn't expect to see one of it's graduates in the band, but they did! David Mathis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Mathis was introduced to a surprised audience.

Friday, November 11 Leo Gasca entertained the students with a physical fitness program. He explained to the students that a fitness program could be boring so he added tricks. Balancing a ping-pong ball on his nose, juggling, throwing hoops, magic, and a trapeze act were only a few of the many and entertaining tricks he performed.

David Ailsop and Gary Sullivan volunteered from the audience to try some of the tricks. The students really enjoyed watching their classmates trying to perform some of the tasks.

C. L. Kay spoke to the students Monday, November 14. He is the vice president of Lubbock Christian College. The main thought of his speech was "to enjoy what you do or don't do it."

School Choir Entertains Rotarians

by Marsha Blackman

The High School Choir presented a program for the Rotary Club last Tuesday. The program songs were "How The West Was Won" from the movie of the same name, "Set Down Servant" a Negro spiritual featuring Marsha Blackman, Neil Finley, and Mickey Wilson as soloists, "This Is My Country" a patriotic song, "Give Me Your Tired, Your Poor" another patriotic song featuring Larry Baker, "Selections From West Side Story" which featured Larry Meason, Bruce Purdy, Rebecca Phelps, and Berta Elizarraraz singing "America," and for an encore the choir sang "The Woodchuck Song" which is a composition of tongue twisters. The choir is working on Christmas songs which they will sing at the lighting of the 30 foot Christmas tree by the Mule Memorial.

The Madrigal Groups of MHS were formed early this week. There will be two groups, an upper-class group consisting of Juniors and seniors and a lower-class group consisting of freshmen and sophomores. The senior members of the groups are Neil Finley, and Berta Elizarraraz. Juniors are Jane Branscum, Doyle Linville, John Gulley, Alvin Walker, Gail Phipps, and Pam Seymour. Sophomores are Johnna Shelton, Kerma Nickels; freshmen are Lana Moore, Bucky Taylor, Leland Ferris, Jim Mardis, Rebecca Phelps, and Larry Meason. These groups will perform at such events as the Christmas concert and at ULL Contest in the spring.

The choir is working on a charming idea for their float entry in the Christmas parade. The choir won first prize last year and hopes to do just as well this year because this money will certainly help in their travel fund.

Tryouts for the All-Region Choir were held in Plainview on Saturday. The members of the MHS Choir making the named Choir will be announced next week in the next edition of the "Mule's Tale."

Journalism Schools

Journalism enrollments have soared to a new record this fall climaxing a spectacular 6-year climb that has nearly doubled the number of college students formally preparing for journalism careers.

A total of 22,339 men and women are taking journalism or pre-journalism courses at 118 schools, a gain of 16.2 per cent over last year's record figure of 19,229.

This year's enrollment is 96 per cent greater than the 11,390 in class at the start of the decade.

Compiled by Dr. Frank James Price of Louisiana State University, these figures will appear in the autumn issue of Journalism Quarterly, official publication of the Association for Education in Journalism, Dr. Edwin Emery, editor, points out to the fact that the yearly increases in journalism enrollments have ranged from 6 per cent to 22 per cent.

"FOR THE FOURTH time in six years, the rise in journalism enrollments has exceeded the overall college enrollment explosion," said Emery as he compared the 1966 journalism gain of 16.2 per cent to the 1966 college increase of 9.6 per cent over 1965.

"The boom reflects not only greater recruiting for journalism, but also a response by young men and women who want to report the news in a rapidly changing America and to be involved in journalism's technological revolution," he said.

Dr. Price's survey disclosed that the 118 schools in

Detailed News Information

by PAM PYLANT

Newspapers make a difference in my life by giving me information on things that I want to know about. They are much more detailed than television or radio.

Newspapers communicate from one person to another. If it were not for them, we would not know about world, national, and local events. Newspapers are very educational and useful to everyone.

Every Wednesday we have current events in history and I really get a chance to read the paper thoroughly. We take four out-of-town papers and the local newspaper.

The Muleshoe Journal is very useful in telling me many events that have happened or are about to happen, like weddings, store sales, cafeteria menus, and what's on at the movies in our local area.

I think out of the four out-of-town newspapers, the Lubbock Avalanche Journal is the best. It has many more world events I think than any of the other ones we take. I read the comic page, Ann Landers column, Heloise's Helpful Hints, human interest stories, and world problems. The pictures in the newspapers are very good. Sometimes I cut out pictures and articles that I like and that are interesting. When I have a theme to write I can get articles, pictures or quotes from them.

Every member of my family reads at least something in the paper. My mother works the crossword puzzles and reads everything else, my father reads the sports section especially, and my sister reads almost everything I do, and the horoscope.

Other information that people read are the want ads, the radio and television schedules, stock market news, and weather reports.

Ever since I Sing Poo, the first newspapers published in Peking, papers have improved more and more and circulation has increased by the millions.

Newspapers Good For Complete Review

Larry Baker

Today there are approximately four different media which transport news to the general public.

Number one is by the grape vine. Logic tells you, number two is television. Obviously number three is radio and the newspapers command the number four position.

As would be expected, the grape vine is the most interesting way to receive information, but it has its disadvantages. You never know just exactly how accurate your friend may be, or if he is even telling the truth!

Another problem with this type of information is that you cannot go back and review what was said, unless of course you carry a tape-recorder with you all of the time.

The next interesting way to receive news is by the television-radio combination. This type of media is just great, until you miss something, then it is gone forever, and what good does it do when you miss the daily news program?

Today we have three ways in which to receive news which would seem to be more interesting and convenient, but after a careful analysis we see that, in truth, the newspaper is actually the most convenient way to receive news.

The newspaper is best for research, which today's up-to-date person demands.

Every word you read in a newspaper is recorded and can be perfectly preserved without any more expensive than a knife, some paper, and paste.

A Newspaper's Right

It is in this day of more and more government regulation, it is only natural for a lot of people to assume that a newspaper has the same set of controls as radio and television stations, but this is not so.

Television and radio have government controls because of the nature of their operation. Ownership of the airways cannot be vested in private hands because it properly belongs to everyone and the only proper way to control it is through the government.

But the newspaper business is a privately owned business with the freedom to conduct its business in the way it sees fit.

What brings this to mind is a court decision this week in which the Michigan State Court of Appeals ruled that a newspaper is a private business and has the right to accept or refuse advertising as it desires.

Sult had been brought against the Battle Creek Enquirer by a motion picture theatre to force the newspaper to accept advertising for "adult" movies. The newspaper turned down the ads because it didn't want to run them, and the theatre owner claimed loss of the advertising was costing him business.

But the court held that unlike a telephone company or a hotel, a newspaper is not so "affected with a public interest" that its freedom of contract is impaired.

The First Amendment to the U. S. Constitution declares and safeguards the sanctity of freedom of the press. This freedom extends to the choice of accepting or rejecting news material, or advertising.

The Michigan decision was the latest in a series of decisions upholding freedom of the press. We hope that the judiciary of this country keeps the record of this precedent and never wavers in its upholding of this fundamental right.

Too Much 'Help'

NEXT TO THE Indian, the American farmer is probably the federal government's most closely regulated citizen. The Indian, as a feature on this page noted recently, isn't farming at all well under government sponsorship, and evidence shows that the farmer isn't either. If he were, he wouldn't be moving to the city in droves.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that although net farm income has jumped about $2 billion over last year, a 5 per cent decline from this year's $16.2 billion is in store next year.

Gross income will be about the same, the USDA says, but higher interest rates, taxes, depreciation charges and other farm costs will eat a bigger hole out of the proceeds.

What is significant about these higher charges is that the federal government is as deeply involved in them as it is in the artificially high prices the farmer receives for some of his products.

Interest rates are at a 40-year high, largely because fiscal foolishness at the federal level has depleted the treasury and forced massive borrowing sprees on the open money market.

Higher taxes can be laid largely at the federal government's door, because it is collecting nearly two out of every three tax dollars in the country.

Depreciation charges are going up because, in a move that was longer on expediency than logic, Congress repealed a 7 per cent tax break on depreciation to raise a few more dollars. This will work a hardship on the farmer, whose massive machinery investments get obsolete in a hurry.

Meanwhile, with most of the rest of the world starving, the American farmer is still discouraged from producing at capacity. Rather than give him a chance to see how much of the world's food and fiber needs he can take care of, the federal government tells the farmer, "Hold back, and we'll make sure you're better off."

Well, the farmer is still waiting. So is the Indian, who has been told much the same thing. And because of inflation and mounting tax burdens and interest rates, it looks like they'll just have to keep waiting for that brighter government-sponsored day.

Those who tire of waiting can flee the reservation or the farm, as many have done, to join what's left of the economy still outside the bureaucrats' smothering embrace.

But if the expansion of federal control over society is allowed to continue unchecked, someday there will be no place for anybody to run. That will be the day when the rest of the nation will regret not having learned a lesson from how the Indian and the farmer were "helped."

Statistics of Crisis

TOO MUCH support of highway safety is about as meaningful as that which favors mother, home and family. And, probably for that reason, Gov. Connally's promise of a high-way-safety bill during the next session of the next Legislature hasn't caused much comment.

But just one look at traffic statistics will dispel the notion that safety isn't an important item for concern.

Through September of this year, deaths on state highways and roads have jumped 15 per cent over last year. Injuries have increased by 10 per cent.

What is significant about these figures is that the estimated vehicle miles traveled on state highways and roads have risen only 4 per cent. So Texas' death rate for each million vehicle miles traveled has increased by 9 per cent. The economic loss due to traffic accidents is almost unimaginable. Through September, it was $400 million.

As an answer to this crisis, the governor is said to be considering a request to the Legislature for beefed-up driver education.

Last session he presented a program to the Legislature calling for Department of Public Safety officers to teach courses in all schools. It did not pass.

But the method is not as important as the principle. Studies show conclusively that drivers who have gone through drivers' training classes are less liable to be involved in an accident.

Driver education for all schools will cost money, but the price could not be as high as that which we are now paying for the lack of trained drivers.

"Yep, Jake, it looks hopeless, but I don't think it's serious!!"

The Sandhills Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm backs away from a new tax proposal, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:

To get my mind off some bills that needed paying I picked up a newspaper I'd been saving since last week when I pulled it off the back screen door during a high wind -- I guess it's too much to ask science to produce a door that keeps files out and lets newspapers in -- and sat down to read.

You never know what you're going to run into. I'd hardly gotten started when I ran across a new tax proposal.

An economist has suggested that when times are good like they are now -- well, I guess they are, everybody keeps telling me they are and I try to believe it but it's hard to do -- the government should levy a special 5 per cent temporary withholding tax on all salaries and incomes.

This money, he said, would be held by the government, and then returned when times got hard. This, way, he argued, we'd hold down inflation in good times and stave off a depression in bad times.

I have been thinking about this and believe it's a good idea, except for one thing. Who's going to decide when I need to draw my share? I don't want anybody in Washington deciding when a depression has hit me. A man can be in fine shape one day, blow a gasket on his tractor the next, and need that 5 per cent back before it gets there. But that would be hard to swing, as Washington is downhill from every other spot in the country. At least I guess it is, money flows better toward it than back. I don't believe this proposal will get anywhere.

By the way, I've noticed a lot of comment in the papers about actors becoming politicians, but I doubt if there's anything wrong with it. I know some politicians who've been mostly actors all their lives. They say these actors turned politician will find they can't keep shooting the same scene over and over till they get it right, but I know some politicians who've been trying it with speeches for years.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

Dear Amy:

Being 40 and still single, I'm the butt of much scorn from friends and relatives. I personally don't think that it matters much being single or not because I'm very happy in my own apartment (I don't have to share the shower or my bed with anyone) and I have many hobbies to keep me occupied. I work and draw a good salary which I can spend as I see fit. I go where I please and do as I please and don't have to account to anyone for my time. I could go on and on but the point of this letter is: Why should I get married?

Still Single:

For the simple reason you'll never know what you're missing!

Dear Amy:

Occasionally I invite my father-in-law over for dinner along with other guests. He embarrasses me terribly because he drinks his soup directly from the plate, sans spoon. Everybody at the table sees it, and I'm mortified.

I have asked my husband to speak to his Dad and to get him to stop. My husband doesn't have the nerve to say anything to him, but instead, tells me that since I find it so annoying, I should speak to Dad. It's his father, and I don't want to be the one to hurt him.

What should I do?

Dear G. B.:

So that no one's feelings will be hurt, next time you invite Dad, OMT the soup!

Dear Amy:

I'm a young married woman and I drive my own car. One of my relatives, about my own age and with whom I'm fairly close, never seems to have transportation to our various family functions (her husband never wants to go). I always felt sorry for her and would invite her to come along with me even though at times it meant that I would have to travel out of my way.

She lives in a large apartment building that has its own driveway and a beautiful lobby, but every time I come to pick her up, I have to park the car, take the elevator to the 16th floor to her apartment, and there I find her, fully dressed, watching TV.

Don't you think that since I'm doing her a favor, she should be willing to do the same for me? I would like to see her in the lobby when I arrive instead of inconveniencing me further by making me go to the 16th floor?

Good Samaritan:

Dear Samaritan:

Yes, she should, but everybody does it. What they should be thankful for elevators!

Dear Amy:

I would like you to tell me if there is something wrong with me. When a situation arises, I never seem to know what to say. Later on, or the

Kids Say Hi to Cops

By JERRY CURRY

Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Children are saying hello to cops in St. Louis this week.

William Handy, director of the Police Community Relations Division, says the purpose of the greetings is to foster better relations between policemen and the community.

Patrolman John Carroll, 32, had the idea in the winter of 1965 "because there didn't seem to be the same spirit of friendliness between children and policemen that there used to be."

He talked to 150 children at a school in St. Louis last week and they agreed to say hello to policemen from Feb. 9 through Feb. 21, 1966, just to see what would happen.

Arlene Davis, 9, one of the children who took part in the pilot "hello" program, reported that she even helped an officer.

"I said hi to him," the fourth grader said. "And the officer said, 'Hi.' I asked him if he could help and he told me about this dog which had bitten someone. So I helped him look for it. We didn't find it."

A seventh grader, Charles Ecker 12, commented: "You know policemen like to talk with children and have little kids wave at them."

Charles had carried on an extended conversation with one officer about the fortunes of the St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association.

Carroll said his young good will ambassadors registered 700 friendly contacts with policemen during the experimental "Hi" period.

Now saying hello to cops is organized among the school children. And the classes that report the most friendly contacts with policemen will be given a plaque at the Christmas break.

Next day, I realize what I should have said and didn't. This always happens even when I tell myself I'll know what to say the next time. Does anyone else have this trouble that you know of?

Phil

Dear Phil:

If there is something wrong with you, then we're all suffering from the same trouble. This is very normal and tomorrow, I'll probably think of a better answer for you than I have today.

Dear Amy:

I'm going with a very nice young man. He's considerate, good company, has a fine personality and is liked by everyone. His only fault is that he hasn't a good education, while I have gone through college. He makes a lot of mistakes in grammar, and my friends tease me about it. We are quite serious about each other and I certainly don't want a difference in education to ruin my love life. Is there any way to resolve this problem?

College Grad

Dear Grad,

Read softly in. If dat's his only fault, mardy do gads and join him some good days and make wid!

Hi-Plains Happenings

Tales of early day Sudan were revived Tuesday when the Texas Historical Survey placed a marker on the "watering trough" located on the north side of the city hall.

The trough was built in 1916 to be used by cattlemen when the Santa Fe railroad installed a switch here on their cut-off from Houston to Clovis in 1913, called Janes Switch, which developed into a cattle shipping center.

The trough, located on wideopen range became a meeting place for all area cowboys.

Mrs. Simon Hay served as mistress of ceremonies for the dedication service and Reed Markham presented the plaque to Wayne Brown, city councilman, who accepted it in behalf of the city.

--- The Sudan Beacon ---

Ninety-two people from the local Springlake-Earth School District gathered Monday night shortly after 7 p.m. for the school board meeting which began around 8 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The meeting was called to order and secretary of the Board, Guy F. Kelley, read the policy regarding the approach to, and the handling of, problems within the school district. He read the following:

"Parents and all citizens in the community as near as possible that have complaints will be referred to the superintendent. If the superintendent cannot make an adjustment that is satisfactory to the parent or parties the complaint will be presented to the Board. Moore county voters favored a $180,000 bond issue to update the Moore county courthouse, then voted a new road tax to pay a maximum 15 per cent to aid in financing it.

Both issues passed by narrow margins in Tuesday's general election voting.

The bond issue was passed by 1,352 votes for to 1,226 votes against in unofficial tallies Wednesday. The road tax vote was nearly identical, 1,345 for and 1,248 against.

The two special issues were on separate ballots in Tuesday's active general election voting and were cast by fewer people than voted in the regular election.

Several forms remain to be filled out and turned in for the Bovina medical survey being conducted here with the possibility of securing a clinic and doctor through the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, Mrs. Jesse Walling, chairman of the Community Improvement Committee said.

The survey was begun two weeks ago and it is hoped that forms can be completed shortly since processing by the Foundation in Chicago will probably take a long time, members of Bovina Woman's Study Club stated.

For the past six and a half years, Turner has published the Olton Enterprise in Olton. He has also operated Enterprise Studio in Olton and published The Hart Beat in Hart.

Olton school board members disposed of routine business Monday night, then heard a report on a possible junior college for the area and discussed personal appearance of students in the Olton school system.

Board members listened to a report on the junior college from a Muleshoe delegation, then talked with School Supt. Ray Schultz and school principals Joe Turner, Carl McClure and Fred Gordon about student appearance.

The proposed junior college discussed by the Muleshoe group would include 11 school districts in Bailey, Lamb and Parmer counties.

A spokesman for the group said a study by Dr. C. C. Colvert, professor and consultant in junior college education at the University of Texas, showed the area could support a junior college.

The spokesman said the report showed an estimated cost per year to start the college of $287,000.

Of the total, $186,000 would be raised through a junior college district tax, while the rest would come from student tuition and aid from the state.

The search for a site to locate a proposed emergency clinic at Sunray started Monday afternoon shortly after Moore county commissioners officially hired an architect for the project and gave their "go ahead" on preliminary planning.

Hired to search out a possible site, draw up building plans, and figure costs of the structure was John Work of Amarillo. His first report to the commission may come at the next meeting on Nov. 28.

There was, however, no indication when the project would get final approval by the commission and call would go out for construction bids.

The architect was in Sunray on Monday afternoon photographing probable clinic locations, reports Arthur Corse, head of a citizens group coordinating the project.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"All For Mother"

Feeling death near, a man took a sheet of paper and scribbled three words:

"All for mother."

No doubt, in his own mind, this phrase covered everything—clearly and concisely. But there was one catch. The "mother" he meant was not his own mother at all, but his wife—the mother of his children.

The manup was finally straggled out in court proceedings after the man's death. But the case illustrates how mercurial is meaning—how risky it is for a person to dash off a "simple," do-it-yourself will in serene confidence that, after he is gone, his words will be clear to everybody.

Of course, the law's main goal is to carry out the intentions of the deceased. But just what were his intentions? With alarming frequency, bickering relatives can read the same words and come up with different meanings.

Consider a few "simple" expressions that have led to courtroom battles:

"Money"—Does this include funds in a bank account? (One court said yes, if it is a checking account; another court said no, it is a savings account.)

"Furniture"—Does this include everything useful in the house? (One court said it included linens; another court said it did not include books.)

"Household effects"—Does this include more than furniture? Less? (One court said a stamp collection was covered; another court said jewelry and clothing were not.)

"Contents"—Does this include everything physically within? (A court held that the "contents" of a house included the steel safe in the basement but not the stocks and bonds inside the safe.)

In each of these cases the court had to examine the surrounding circumstances, not just the bare words of the will, to clear up the ambiguity.

This procedure is not easy and not quick. It may breed bitterness in the family, cause legal complications, and— to everyone's chagrin—delay the distribution of the estate. All too often, will composed in haste must be litigated at leisure.

THE IRONCLAD TO BE IRONCLAD

PERTH (AP) — The hotel at Marble Bar, Australia's hottest spot, is to be modernized — and air conditioned.

It's the Ironclad Hotel, only drinking spot at Marble Bar, a town of a couple of hundred people, 1250 miles north of Perth. There, the shade temperature goes up to 120 degrees Fahrenheit, and in 1923-24 was over the 100 degree mark for 160 consecutive days.

Now the hotel has changed hands, and the new owners have announced plans to air condition three bars and the lounge, and add some air conditioned motel units.

New owners of the Ironclad, J.A. Johnson and Sons, are pioneers of the tin-mining revival in the Marble Bar district. They say that to preserve the hotel's character, they will retain the corrugated-iron exterior walls which have been seen over the years in documentary films on Australia. But they plan to paint the corrugated iron.

MELBOURNE (AP) — Hotels might soon offer a 10 per cent rebate if you make your own bed, says American Professor Robert A. Beck.

You might also get an even higher cut by cooking your own breakfast, rather than having it delivered to your bedside, he adds.

Professor Beck is Dean of the School of Hotel Administration at Cornell University. He told a seminar on hotel management that hotels in the United States were experiencing serious staff shortages.

Hospital Updates Staff: Takens Added Precaution

After years of striving toward this goal, West Plains Hospital has reached a new high in patient care. The hospital is now staffed completely with trained personnel -- Registered Professional Nurses, Licensed Vocational Nurses and Vocational Nursing students. This week two Registered Professional nurses were employed in supervisory positions in addition to our usual staff.

West Plains Hospital this year, as in the past, in cooperation with Muleshoe High School distributive Education Department, employees two students to further the Health Careers field. At the present time, two former Distributive Education students are in Registered Professional Nursing school, in Amarillo.

West Plains Hospital has taken upon itself to require that all employees have Tuberculosis tests, Small pox vaccinations and Tetanus immunizations. There are no laws requiring this health program, but this is being done in the interest of patient and employee safety.

Also, this week, a full-time Registered Professional Nurse was added to the staff of Muleshoe Nursing Home to fill the open position of Director of Nursing Personnel.

Jim Bakken of the St. Louis Cardinals made a 124 straight conversions in the National Football League until he missed one this season.

Sweetwater has such a department. Their budget is set voluntarily between those figures yearly. Those figures are more than the annual city tax roll in the City of Muleshoe. Although the city owns the existing fire equipment (or most of it) in Muleshoe, the fact that all 46 of the firemen are volunteers represents an adequate savings to the citizens of this community.

Also, often classed as a "Volunteer Department," consider that Muleshoe is in a lower bracket for fire insurance than that of the standard rate. The five percent reduction in rates is due to the lower pay-off on insurance policies as a result of disastrous fires. The present rate of fire insurance in this area is 26 cents per $100 valuation on businesses and half that amount for residences. If there are no disastrous fires between this time and the first of the year, insurance is due to go down a little lower still.

Ten years ago, the firemen had as equipment a 1935 Ford pumper and a 1952 Dodge pumper. They also had approximately 1700 feet of 2 1/2 inch hose and 700 feet of 1 1/2 inch hose. All owned by the City of Muleshoe. In 1960, the city bought a GMC truck and the fire department built a 500-gallon pumper at a cost to the city of $3400. When completed, the truck was valued as a $25,000 rig. All of the work being done by the department.

During the same time, the pump was taken from the Ford and replaced on the Dodge and it was rebuilt at a total cost of $1200. When it was completed, this truck was valued at $12,000.

"Next project," Chief Ladd reported, "we rebuilt one right after the other. The Dodge and it was a total cost to the city of $7200, for both trucks, and produced two more pumps with a combined value of approximately $15,000."

More recently, the department has taken over and rebuilt an old city pickup at a cost of about $500, for rebuilding and equipment, and it is now valued at $3000.

"We (the city) owns the five pieces of large equipment, two 500-gallon pumps, two high pressure booster rigs, with 400 gallons capacity, a utility truck for hauling additional equipment. In addition, the city owns some 3000 feet of good test 2 1/2 inch hose, 1000 feet of 1 1/2 inch hose, 900 feet of 1 inch high pressure hose, one heavy-duty foam machine and one light foam machine, two Scott Air Packs, two SMA (gas) masks and two oxygen masks.

"The city also owns nozzles, pumps, a portable power plant and other odds and ends, bringing the total value of firefighting equipment in Bailey County to more than $65,000."

"Also, the fire department itself owns equipment," added the Chief. "We have two base-station radios, plus station at Maple, three remote units, 19 mobile radios and other items, including bunker clothing."

When questioned as to the financing for the Bailey County Fire Department, the Fire Chief reports this proudly: "The Bailey County Fire Department is on an annual budget of less than $8000. We have never gone in the red in our budget, and the $8000 figure is the largest budget that has ever been set by the city. This figure represents all the upkeep of the department, including all insurance, gas, oil, equipment, utilities and repairs, among miscellaneous items needed by the department.

"Any money that comes to us in excess of our budget is usually in the form of donations by the citizens of the area. There is additional training and equipment we could use and would like to have, but we have always stayed within our budget as we will continue to do so.

"I have always been pleased with the excellent cooperation of the citizens of this area with our department," mused the Chief, "in fact, I guess that is why we work so hard and stay with it the way we do."

As the 40th year of the Bailey County Fire Department fast approaches the end, Muleshoe, Bailey County and the entire area has a department that any community would be proud to claim as their own. The men of the department who work long, hard hours because they feel that "everyone should help their community in some way" are a credit to the community in which they live, and should be recognized not only in their 40th year, but all the year, for their dedication and duty to nothing but hard work.

The Bailey County Fire Department saves property, lives, homes, businesses and money for the local citizens. When you meet one of the fire department for such a group, even if they do delay you on your routine business or pleasure trips for a few seconds or a few minutes. Someday, it could be your home or your business that is blazing while they are attempting to fight their way through congested traffic to reach it.

Although the department certainly seeks no glory or recognition, let them know when you feel they are appreciated, tell them and show them -- "thank you, for a job well done."

Library News

Story hour was held Wednesday morning at the Muleshoe Area Public Library. The children all participated in the raising of the flag, and pledge of allegiance. They formed a circle for the story. This morning's story was the old favorite, The Ugly Duckling, a beautiful story with a rather sad beginning, and a happy ending. A game was then played, and prize for the winner, Leslie White. Attending this session were: Regina Burden, Robert Ames, Mark Givens, Benita Roming, Christopher Janka, Donny Gaddy, Welsey Cook, Shelly Dunham, Mike Mills, Kirby Brantley, and Johanna Green. The children are always given the opportunity to browse and look at the books in the children's section; and if also to check out and take home a book of their choice. Story hour attendance is growing every time, and every child is invited to come. This month we will have a third one on Nov. 30th. The Library is still receiving new books every week. For the enjoyment of the small fry, we are adding: Fox in Socks, by Dr. Seuss; (always a favorite)-The Bear Family, which tells how bears live, what they eat, how they get their food, and many other things, with excellent line drawings to illustrate it; also a set of the Wonderful World of Walt Disney, which is sure to delight all the youngsters.

For those who may have parakeets as pets, we have the book, Common Cagedbirds in America which gives complete feeding and care information on all popular types of cagedbirds. For the reader who enjoys Westerns, we are adding Stage to Link City, by a popular author, Dan Roberts, and Comanch by Cliff Farrell.

We now have two fire extinguishers, which were installed recently, and we feel these are a necessary and valuable asset.

Lizzie Bloe, strangled her on the night of October 14 in a rented house near Muleshoe high school. "We were drinking," he said.

It also seems he told authorities that John Doe had taken Lizzie Bloe from the high school. Bloe related that he and Doe loaded the body of the girl into the back of a pickup and traveled toward Clovis for a time, then picked a secluded spot near Muleshoe and buried the body, with the only marker a fallen cactus. He even supplied officers with a hand-drawn map to locate the body.

Sheriff Dee Clements was notified of the story and began to investigate from this point. He found these people had lived here . . . and at the hotel and also the house but no body. But did turn up with the name of a grandmother in Paris.

The grandmother had heard from the girl who listed an Odessa address, only a short time before the investigation reached that city.

Sheriff Clements went to Odessa and talked with the girl, once supposed dead by strangulation, and found her married to John Doe.

The former Muleshoe hotel operator verified the triangle, Lizzie's trading Joe for John . . . the drinking and fighting. Clements came back with photos of the girl for positive identification.

The Arizona sheriff sums up the situation "There is always a chance . . . altho we do get some pretty big lies, too. . . however, Bloe escaped from prison this summer with two other men, kidnaped a train crew, were captured and taken back to the penitentiary, and he is capable of many things."

So after the truth was separated from the fiction, the case went into the file with Lizzie Bloe Doe alive.

On 50 per cent of the base grain sorghum acres, the grain sold to the projected yield has a total support of $2.14 per hundred. The remainder has a support of only $1.61. As in 1966, a farmer will divert 20 per cent of his corn-grain sorghum base, without diversion payments on additional voluntary diversion.

Yields on which payments are based, will be calculated on a one year more-up-to-date basis. For grain sorghum, the in-be one bushel per acre (in corn, three bushels).

Conserving base and acreage substitution continue the same as 1966. Soybeans will continue to be eligible for planting on permitted acreage without loss of corn-sorghum price-support payments.

Barley is not included in the 1967 feed grain program, thus corn or sorghum cannot be substituted on base barley acreage.

Since there are no diversion payments, no spring payments for diversion can be made. Because of the tight farm credit situation, 50 per cent of the price support payment will be advanced in the spring based

Finance - Legislation On Retardation Meet

Chairman G.F. (Gus) Mutscher's task force on finance-legislation of the mental retardation planning effort met with Governor John Connally's Inter-agency Council for Mental Retardation in Austin on Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was called jointly by Mutscher and Jess M. Irwin, Jr., Chairman of the inter-agency group to implement recommendations contained in the Texas Plan to Combat Mental Retardation.

Mutscher charged the Council and task force members with the necessity for action. "The health and welfare of more than 300,000 Texas citizens, the mentally retarded of our State, have too long been neglected," Mutscher said. He reminded the group that it was the responsibility of our government to help every Texas develop to the fullest extent of his potential. "There has been a lag in our efforts to meet this obligation in regard to the mentally retarded," he added. Considerable attention was given to program responsibilities at the community, State, and federal levels.

Mutscher lauded Governor John Connally for his leadership in taking the planning effort to the people. The Texas Mental Retardation Plan was developed by citizen groups in 58 Texas communities working in seven mental retardation program areas.

In evaluating the recommendations, the task force members learned that a large number of the plan's recommendations were already being implemented. Where funds for implementation of recommendations are a factor, the group learned that efforts had been made by State agencies. The MR Council to include most of these items in their budgets for the next Session of the Texas Legislature.

Chairman Mutscher appointed ed a three-man committee to develop legislation to implement the recommendations asking for a statutory provision to continue the concept of an Interagency Council for Mental Retardation. Appointed were Don Cavness, legislative representative from Travis County, Judge Herman Jones, and Jess M. Irwin, Jr. Cavness was named Chairman of the subcommittee.

To give further study to recommendations contained in the section on Medical Aspects of Mental Retardation, Mutscher appointed another subcommittee of Dr. J. E. Peavy, Mr. Raymond W. Vowell, and as chairman, Dr. Sam Nixon, Floresville physician.

Members of the Legislation-Finance Task Force are Chairman: G.F. (Gus) Mutscher, State Representative from Brenham, Don Cavness and Senator Charles Herring, legislators from Travis County, Mrs. Merle (Dora) Huston, and Raymond W. Vowell, of Austin, Robert U. Parish, Houston, Sen. Bruce Reagan, Corpus Christi, and Jack Y. Smith, Big Spring.

NEW PEACH VARIETY

A new type of peach described as a late maturing fall variety may be what North Texas producers have been looking for. It is yet unnamed but has been under observation since 1945, reports U. A. Randolph of the Fruit Research Demonstration Station at Montague. He says the peach ripens between Sept. 5-20, and thus lengthens the growing season. Plans are to introduce the variety this winter. He discussed the new peach at the recent Peach & Plum Grower Conference at Texas A&M University.

Farm Bureau Rejects Bill At Convention

Texas Farm Bureau convention delegates voted 5 to 1 Wednesday against compulsory assessment of $1 a bale on cotton farmers at the final session of their 33rd annual convention held at Corpus Christi.

The assessment action was rejected on the grounds that it is a compulsory program contrary to established Farm Bureau policy.

The action came after one and one-half hours of debate between the convention delegates. Under the research and promotion program cotton producers would be assessed $1 a bale beginning next October to finance research and promotion projects designed to expand the cotton industry market.

Ben Cochran of Bailey County Farm Bureau reported that Bailey County delegates voted unanimously opposed to the assessment.

"The County convention first met and voted in opposition to the bill, then at the convention they met and voted opposed unanimously," said Cochran.

Final Rites Held For Fern E. Clark

Funeral services were conducted in the LaZbuddie Methodist Church, Saturday, Nov. 19, at 2 p.m. for Fern E. Clark, who died in the Clovis Memorial Hospital Nov. 15 at 7:35 p.m. Officiating were the Rev. Lawrence Jewel, Clovis, and the Rev. Bryan Engle, Littlefield.

Mrs. Clark was born Feb. 20, 1900 in Inwood, Iowa. Her husband, Jud Clark, preceded her in death in 1961.

Mrs. Clark was a member of the St. Paul Lutheran Church, Muleshoe.

Survivors are her 2 sisters, Mrs. Joyce Kruger, Longview, Wash., and Mrs. Opan Hanson, Ada Minnesota. Also four brothers, Ray, Bingham Lake, Minn., Jay, Finley, Calif., and Emil and Walter, Muleshoe.

Lester Howard, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Henderson.

It was reported that State Farm Bureau leaders opposed the issue prior to the convention and are expected to continue to do so, now with the official sanction of the majority of delegates representing the organization's 100,000 members in Texas.

The organization did approve a resolution approving a voluntary checkoff of $1 a bale to be used for research and promotion of the cotton market.

The issue was the most controversial among a long list of resolutions dealing with state and national agricultural programs considered by the convention at its final session.

In an effort to show that the Farm Bureau is opposed only to what it considered compulsory checkoff programs, the delegates passed a resolution following the first resolution specifically in opposition to the research and promotion act, commending the National Cotton Council and Cotton Congress on its past performance on behalf of the cotton industry.

And, further stating that the Farm Bureau will spearhead an organization to work with all other organizations in promoting voluntary cotton research and promotion.

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, Dallas, assisted by Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, Plainview, was in Muleshoe Monday afternoon to dedicate the new Fellowship Hall.

Following the service, the congregation went to the Fellowship Hall, where the building was presented for dedication by Howard Carlyle, The Wesley Service Guild entertained with an informal reception following the dedication.

Knitting and visiting furnished entertainment for members of the As You Lik It Club, Thursday of last week, when Mrs. Velma Jennings entertained. A feature of the afternoon was a shower given in honor of one of the club members and her infant son, Mrs. Morris Childers.
