We're proud our seeds have earned the trust of farmers like these...

W. W. Cheatham recorded a yield of 5500 pounds on 25 acres of Pioneer brand 820. A top-yielding sorghum in many areas, Pioneer 820 did well for W. W. Cheatham, Rt. 1, Quitaque, Texas

Because we were the first company to commercially produce hybrid corn and with 17 years of work on sorghum, we know a lot more about hybrids and how to make crosses that really yield. We've had longer to test and re-test our varieties. We've stuck with some of our early crosses, and we keep developing new ones to fit every growing condition imaginable.

- For the North Plains we recommend these sorghum, corn and forage varieties . . .
- Pioneer brand 8417—new yellow endosperm sorghum—champion yielder in medium maturity class—large open heads—does well on all types of land.
- Pioneer brand 820—good yielder under stress—outstanding with plenty of water and fertility—MDM resistant—full season.
- Pioneer brand 846—excellent drought resistance—MDM resistant—medium maturity—our most popular sorghum variety.
- Pioneer brand 3369A—champion-class corn favorite—tolerant to northern and southern blight—good ear retention—heavy grain yielder.
- Pioneer brand 3306—most popular corn hybrid on the High Plains—tall with outstanding stalks and ear retention—good yielder on dry or wet land.
- Pioneer brand 988—sorghum sudangrass hybrid for pasture, green chop, hay or haylage—ready to cut or graze in a little more than a month—regrows again and again all summer with adequate moisture and fertilizer.

When you choose a hybrid for your land, choose one from the company that started it all . . .

Wise Purchasing Is As Important As Earning

Before shopping, set priorities and analyze reasons for each purchase.

This advice comes from Mrs. Doris Myers, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

"True, earning money is important—but spending it can be critical," she said.

"Consumers today are faced with seemingly endless products and multi-services. Therefore, purchasing decisions must be selective.

"Buying is always a matter of making choices," she continued. "Choices must be made between wants and needs, one product and another, and between saving or spending money.

"Although wise decisions require much thought, time and effort, they are definitely worth it.

Wise decisions, based on priorities, can eliminate much emotional spending," the specialist said.

She offered some guidelines for setting purchase priorities.

"First, determine whether the product is really needed — and worth a sacrifice. Is it in line with the overall family spending plan?"

"If the item isn't necessary but is important to the person wanting it—and if he's aware of his reasons for purchase and willing to pay the price — there's nothing wrong with the decision to buy it.

"However, after close analysis of reasons and cost, a less desirable item may be selected.

"Knowing why an item is needed can help in understanding motives," Mrs. Myers pointed out.

"There's a big difference in need when an item for work is considered—rather than one for pleasure."

Another consideration concerns expectations—how long is the item expected to last or be in use? Quality and durable products last longer.

"On the other hand, if the item isn't used often, it doesn't have to be as durable as one used constantly."

Mrs. Myers emphasized another factor—whether the item is purchased simply because it's on sale.

"The 'sale' sign or bargain idea attracts many shoppers. As a result, unneeded items often are purchased.

"Some people have gone broke buying so-called bargains. Inexpensive items—if not needed—are too expensive to buy.

"Compare qualities as well as prices," the specialist continued. "Fantastic" deals are often just that—too unrealistic to be true.

"Don't forget to ask about the cash price of the item.

"Also find out what credit is available. Does the business offer 30, 60 or 90 day charge accounts?"

Student Visits At McMurry College

One student from Quitaque, Mrs. Gail Simmons, visited McMurry College February 23-24 along with 400 high school students from all over Texas and New Mexico and elsewhere during the annual Student Weekend.

"You can't really get an idea of a college from a brochure," Dr. Thomas K. Kim, McMurry president, told the visitors. "We try our most beautiful prose in brochures, but in fact you must visit McMurry to become acquainted with what really is."

The young visitors from Texas and New Mexico saw a student musical produced, slept in dormitories, ate in the college cafeteria, talked with professors in their areas of interest, saw a basketball game and attended a party.
