As I See It!

By Thelma Gafford

Traveling around the country side, as I do so well, I have the opportunity to view things in a different prospective than I ever have in the past. I see the beauty of this wonderful planet, whether it is in a single wildflower or one of God's wild creatures; it's all pretty nice to look at. Everyday is like an adventure in itself. Anybody can tell you I'm in my own little world, so this editorial shouldn't surprise anyone!

Anyway, back to my story. As I traveled all the way to Childress last week, yes, all by myself, I saw what at first looked like a steer or cow in the distance pasture. No big deal, right? But just as I started to look away, the rising sun caught on the tremendous rack on his beautiful head. I slowed my car to get a better look. He showed no fear whatsoever. I stopped my car and watched him. He'd watch me then his pride. Me then them, back to me, then he strolled away a short distance toward his pride of about eight does and fawns. Still he showed no fear toward me. He gave me quite a show, strutting around that field. I loved it. It finally dawned on me, he knew deer season was over. I believe animals do have a built in calendar system, don't you?

Some have been wondering about the 911 charge on the phone bills this month. We DO NOT have 911 in effect yet. It will be several months before we are connected into the nationwide system.

Congratulations to the Valley Varsity Girls Basketball Team for their excellent performance in District action. You too, Guys!

Local Escapes Injury In One Car Rollover

Jana Johnson, 15, of Turkey, escaped injuries in a one vehicle accident early Thursday morning two miles west of Turkey on Highway 86. Department of Public Safety officer Hawthorne investigated the accident.

The 1984 Oldsmobile Cutless, belonging to Samantha Stark also of Turkey, was totaled as it left the rain slick roadway, flipped, and came to rest on the other side of the fence, facing the opposite direction. Stark, a junior at Valley High School, was at school taking a history test at the time of the accident.

Stark stated Johnson had forgotten her P.E. clothes and had returned to her home (in her car) in Turkey to get them. She was on her way back to Valley when the 8:25 a.m. accident occurred.

Miss Johnson was the sole occupant of the vehicle.

The "F" Ranch

Editor's Note:
The following article by Joe Heflin Smith is a reprint from The Cattleman, dated October 1952. Mr. Smith is a retired school teacher living in California.

Third in a Series
The Goodnight herd that was the talk of the country did not come easy. It was a product of careful watching, cutting, and breeding over long years by Goodnight and his top men.

J. B. Jenkins, now of Floydada, Texas, and an early "F" cowboy, believes that the "F" cattle were the best, and Bascom Jenkins left plenty of horse tracks throughout the southwestern cattler country.

Goodnight and Moore operated the "F" Ranch as the Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company until around 1890 when Goodnight stepped out of the picture and Moore continued to operate the ranch under the firm name. Many and varied reasons have been given as to why Moore and Goodnight dissolved partnerships.

Some say that Goodnight was forced to sell; others say that he could not afford not to sell; while others say that the two men were far in disagreement on basic policies—that they belly-ached at each other. It seems more reasonable to believe that Goodnight made a good deal and let the "F" go.

Whatever the reason, Charles Goodnight disappeared forever from the "F" Ranch scene and moved up on the Fort Worth and Denver Railroad east of Amarillo, Texas. He established the town that bore his name, built a college for the young people of West Texas, and continued his experiments with beef animals.

Mrs. Goodnight continued to hold shares in the Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company with L. R. Moore as president, for some length of time.

Lysander R. Moore had his ups and downs as sole owner of the "F" Ranch. Settlers were pushing into the country and many of them were not friendly toward the new owner. "They gave him fits," one old timer said. It was the sign of the times—the handwriting on the wall. The day of the gigantic ranch spreads in that part of the Panhandle was fading. School sections were being filed upon and purchased by people with plows.

In February of 1893, the Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company, acting through President Lysander R. Moore, made its first land sale to Frank T. Howard of Biloxi, Mississippi. In later sales for sizeable considerations, Howard bought over one hundred thousand acres of "F" Ranch land, but the Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company leased the land back from Howard and continued operations.

But things grew more tense on the "F". In September of 1898, many windmills on the ranch were burned to the ground when opponents climbed to the top of the towers, poured kerosene down the side, and set matches to the soaked wood.

During his administration of the ranch, Moore made no more than ordinary changes. Most of the old Goodnight men remained on the ranch. Barton continued as manager and J. B. Jenkins recalls that Rex Edolmon became a wagon boss about this time.

The Lysander R. Moore era of the "F" Ranch came to a close on November 15, 1898 when the Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company transferred by bill of sale for a consideration of $100,000 to Crestwell Cattle Company the following described property: 1st—Entire stock of cattle known as "F" herd running in Floyd, Motley, Briscoe, Hall, and adjoining counties, branded as follows: "F" on left hip or left side and "1F" on left side, conveying all cattle bearing said brands situated as above described except steer calves of year 1898, said steer calves being branded "F" on left hip and 8 on left shoulder. 2nd—About 75 head of bulls branded Quarter Circle J on left side. 3rd—All horses and mules on said ranch belonging to Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company in above described brands. 4th—All improvements, leases, implements of every kind whatsoever located on ranch belonging to Goodnight High Grade Cattle Company.

On the same day, L. R. Moore and John N. Farris sold to the Crestwell Cattle Company for

If stress from daily problems is controlling your life and affecting your health, it's time for you to take control.

It's not what happens to you but how you react to it that causes stress. One of the first steps in managing stress is to recognize the situations that make you feel stressed and tense. When you can identify your particular sources of stress, you have taken a first step in being able to take control.

Stressors usually are of three types—psychological, physical, and external. Psychological stressors are chronic worrying, repressing feelings, low self-esteem, strong emotions, and excessive competitiveness.

An individual's own high expectations can be a major source of psychological stress. When unrealistically high goals are set, a feeling of failure or guilt can result when the goals are not met. The "Supermom" syndrome experienced by many employed mothers is an example of this type of stress. Children and teens can also experience stress from overly high expectations from parents.

To control these psychological stressors, recognize your time and energy limitations and accept that your best is good enough. Talk to friends or family about your concerns. If you are a chronic worrier, you might be interested to know that 95 percent of what we worry about never happens. Most of what does happen, is beyond our control.

Physical stressors are lack of sleep, poor nutrition, smoking, alcohol abuse, and significant weight gain or loss. These are areas over which we have control. Improving nutrition, eliminating smoking and alcohol, and beginning an exercise program can reduce these stressors. Deep breathing and relaxation techniques also help.

External stressors are caused by job changes, death in the family, moving, excessive demands on your time at work or at home, or financial difficulties. These stressors are more difficult to handle, but the key is to feel that you are in control. Improve your time and money management. These are skills you can learn. Seek help from professionals in managing grief and loss if you are having difficulty dealing with death or divorce.

Simply learning to recognize that there are some situations beyond our control can help tremendously in reducing the stress overload.

If all these methods fail and you feel like your problems are overwhelming you, look around you to those with more problems, alcoholism, and family crises. Take time to visit one of these families and see how you could help them. Your stress should vanish.

Eudy's Visit In Austin

Lewis and Mozelle Eudy visited in Austin recently with the Ronnie Eudy and Ron Eudy families.

While there they enjoyed Marshall's fourth birthday party on January 24. A party at 4 p.m. at "Show Biz" was enjoyed by several of Marshall's friends.

They were later served birthday cake, cokes, pizza and ice cream. Also present were Ronnie, Kay, Lewis and Mozelle, Ron, Kim and Gracie.

That night, Ron, Kim and Gracie feted Marshall with another party where the rainbow cake featured Marshall's picture in the center of a star at the end of the rainbow.

Guests were served strawberry cake and strawberry punch from a beautifully decorated table. Relatives attending the party were Ronnie and Kay, Angie and Wayne Walters, Mozelle and Lewis.

Virgil Blakney Honored By TFU For 30 Years Service

At the closing banquet of the 86th Annual State Convention, held at the Harvey Hotel in Dallas, Texas Farmers Union honored a longtime member and his family with special recognition for the work he has done in the organization for the past thirty years. Virgil Blakney began his work in the farm organization in 1960 and has continued his involvement over a thirty year period, having served as county president of the Hall-Turkey Local for 15 years. He was a TFU District Director and served on the Advisory Committee of the Texas Green Thumb, Inc. Joe Rankin, president said, "Virgil and his wife Edna have made an early recognition of Mr.

and Mrs. Blakney's Golden Wedding anniversary (which will be February 14, 1990) with the presentation of a dozen red roses. Among Virgil Blakney's well-wishers at the Saturday evening banquet were three former presidents of Texas Farmers Union: Fred Haiduk, Groom; Jay Naman, Waco; past president Mike Moeller, Austin and Joe Rankin, Ralls, as well as the National Farmers Union president Leland Swenson, Denver. welcomed many Farmers Union members and staff into their home as they worked to help us build the organization, and we certainly owe them a debt of gratitude." Spring is here! So says the groundhog, "He sure didn't see his shadder," as we say in West Texas. Felt sorry for the poor critter since he missed it so far last year, but, from all the way from Texas to Pennsylvania it was cloudy and even raining on him in several spots, as well as sleet and snow in some places. Tommy Thaxton said, early the morning of the second of February, that he was going to check on the prairie-dog and ground squirrel since they were double cousins to "Pawtuxie Pete" or whatever his name is. Anyway, it's time to drag out your garden tools, lawn sprinklers, tillers, hoes, fertilizer and other Spring equipment and start mulching up the garden, put on your straw hat, short sleeve shirts and stow the long-handles. Everything is probably gonna be alright!

We even measured a trace of rain to help everybody get started. How about that?!

Just don't dig deep enough to unearth the boll weevils. They don't need to start this early!

Ain't it funny that you can hardly sincerely try to help somebody else, without helping yourself!

If you want to avoid saying, "I wish I'd told them." Tell them now!

The Pastor, recovering from surgery got the following card from the kids in the Sunday School class. "Dear Pastor.. Get well soon.. May you rest in peace!"

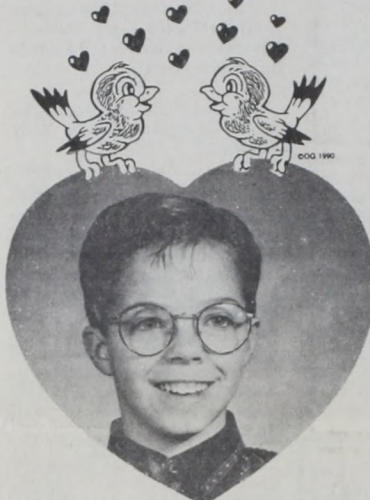

That's -30- for this time, remember...we don't realize the value of our blessings until we've lost them.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Fred Lacy, Amarillo. Grandparents of the groom are Mela Chandler, Amarillo and the late Edgar Adams; Babe Lacy Harwood, Canyon and the late Hoy Lacy. He is the great grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lacy of Turkey.

Serving at the guest register was Stephanie Shelton, cousin of the bride, Amarillo.

The bride wore a wedding gown made of white bridal satin featuring an open sweetheart neckline and a chapel length train. The bodice was made of Schiffli embroidery and Venise lace beaded with pearls and sequins. The full skirt, with Schiffli lace completed this Piccione wedding gown. The pearl and flower wreath highlighted with floating pearls and crystals completed the pencil-edged two tiered fingertip veil.

Bridal attendants wore dusty rose floor length dresses.

A reception followed in the church fellowship hall. Glenda Wheeler, Jan Adams, and Nancy Butcher, all of Amarillo, served at the bride's table. At the groom's table were Sheri Gibson, cousin of the groom, Dallas and Kim Kieber, Amarillo.

After a honeymoon to Las Vegas, Nevada the bride and groom will live at 2725 Mohawk, Amarillo.

The bride is employed by Homeland. The groom is a senior accounting major at West Texas State University, Canyon and is employed by Panhandle Regional Planning Commission.

New Post Card Labels

The millions of taxpayers who received postcards rather than complete tax form packages from the Internal Revenue Service are being reminded to take their peel-off name and address label with them when they go to their tax practitioners. The IRS says these persons, primarily farmers, fishermen, and self-employed business persons had previously used tax practitioners. The post card mailing is a cost saving effort.

O. Hogue Honored On 70th Birthday

Oleing Hogue celebrated his 70th birthday on Wednesday, January 17, 1990. His daughters, Neva Freeman of Columbia, SC and Donna Craig of Post, TX hosted a birthday card party for him.

Mr. Hogue was in Methodist Hospital for tests and a second round of chemotherapy treatments. Many friends and family members sent cards from across the U. S. to arrive on January 17. Mary baked a birthday cake and Donna's family were all present to light candles, eat cake and read the 77 cards he received.
