HOUSE VOTES TO ARM SHIPS--259 TO 138

SHOULD JAPANESE MOVE AGAINST SINGAPORE, WE WILL SEND U. S. FLEET

FT. WORTH, Oct. 17.—"If Japan moves against Singapore and the Dutch East Indies, as she is likely to do if the tide of war goes decisively against Russia, the United States will send a fleet into those waters," Senator Tom Connally declared here Thursday.

The Texan, chairman of the senate Foreign Relations committee, came to Fort Worth to attend a chamber of commerce banquet for the Interstate Oil Compact commission.

Senator Connally declined several invitations to attend the A. & M.-T. C. U. football game here Saturday with the explanation that he had to be in Washington Sunday afternoon for conferences to precede an urgent meeting of the Foreign Relations committee, which will begin consideration Monday of proposed changes in the neutrality law to permit the arming of merchant vessels.

"I do not know that war will ensue even though we sent naval forces into the South Pacific in the event the Japanese menace the Indies," he said, "but we shall certainly be prepared to defend American rights and interests in the Philippines and elsewhere by having adequate naval strength at the scene."

Japanese Crisis.
Senator Connally declined to comment on the present political crisis in Japan, saying that he had not yet been able to learn all the pertinent facts. He added, however, that his feeling that Japan might take advantage of Russia's reverses by attacking either the Dutch East Indies and Singapore or Siberia antedated the Japanese internal upheaval. Japan's delay in acting, however, has enabled the British greatly to increase the strength of their forces at Singapore, he pointed out, and the Dutch have been taking defensive measures for months. This consideration may deter Japan from action, he said, and remove the necessity for American counter-measures.

"Congress will undoubtedly repeal the prohibition against arming American ships within the next two weeks," Connally predicted when asked about the business scheduled for consideration by the foreign relations committee. "The committee will recommend it, and we have the votes to put it over in the senate, but we may have to cope with severe opposition. There may be a filibuster, but we can deal with it. Later it is likely that we shall remove the prohibition against our ships sailing the high seas under international law. It is certain that the so-called neutrality act will be amended or modified in these two respects."

Blasts Wheelers.
Senator Connally made clear his disapproval of what he termed the tactics of obstructionists in the senate and throughout the nation. "I am for free speech," he said "but when free opinion has been expressed, when free speech has been uttered its views, when congress has adopted a national policy, sanctioned by the people, the Lindberghs and Wheelers and the Eyes should not carry on guerrilla warfare behind the lines of national solidarity. They should stop their preachments of discord and disunity."

The opinion that the United States would be safe in the world dominated by Germany he derided with especial emphasis. "If Hitler has no designs upon the United States, why has he sent his emissaries, his agents and his saboteurs throughout our land? To those credulous minds which think that Hitler has no designs upon the United States I have only to point to the spy trials now going on in the United States courts in New York."

CALLAHAN COUNTY

(Cross Plains Review.)

With 75 days of 1941 yet to go and rainfall here having already exceeded 40 inches, it is probable that this year may go in the record books as the wettest in history. Annual rainfall of Callahan county is approximately 25 inches. However, Cross Plains is believed to normally get a fraction more than the county average, making the normal precipitation here about 26 or 27 inches annually.

Members of the Callahan county school board met in Cross Plains Monday, in the first of a series of scheduled visits with various schools of the county. At the noon hour members of the board took lunch at the school lunch room and were favorably impressed with the orderly manner in which things were conducted.

Celebrating the thirty-seventh wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McGee and the birthday of Mrs. Clint Porter, members of the family and friends gathered for an old-fashioned get-together Sunday. A banquet luncheon, which was prepared by relatives and friends, was the greatest surprise of the day for Mr. and Mrs. McGee and Mrs. Porter.

Three hundred and ninety-eight bales of cotton had been ginned in Cross Plains Wednesday afternoon, despite a shut-down most all day Thursday as a result of rain. Indications are that in the neighborhood of 1,000 bales will be ginned here this year.

Pioneer and Rising Star school officials were undecided yesterday where the conference football game between the two schools Oct. 24 would be played. Pioneer won the right to play host at the contest as a result of the toss of a coin. However, Rising Star has been endeavoring to win Pioneer authorities over to playing the game there, and in the event enough cash is laid on the line, Pioneer will comply.

Wyatt Robinson of Cottonwood has closed a contract to drill a 1,000-foot oil test on the C. S. Martin tract, three miles south of Cross Plains. If pay is not encountered at this depth plans call for the continuing on to the Caddo lime. Several tests have been drilled on or near the Martin property and excellent showings have been encountered.

Of interest to their many friends was the marriage in Comanche Saturday morning, Oct. 4, of Cleve Callaway of Cross Plains and Miss Dess Rock of Comanche. The ceremony was read by Minister R. C. Ledbetter of the Comanche Church of Christ, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. A. Rock. The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with roses and queen's wreath.

Funeral services for Allan McLeod, 60, who lived between Cross Plains and Cottonwood, were held Monday afternoon, Oct. 13, at 2:30 o'clock in the First Methodist church of Cross Plains, with Rev. C. D. Wooten, pastor, officiating. Mr. McLeod succumbed Sunday morning about 11 o'clock, after an illness of several months. James Allan McLeod was born Dec. 15, 1880, at Point Union parish, Louisiana. He was married to Miss Lena Peterson Aug. 15, 1926. Survivors are the widow, Mrs. J. A. McLeod, and one daughter, Allene Joy. Also one brother, Osa McLeod, of Leuders;

75 TO 100 ARMY PLANES TO BE HERE SUNDAY

Regarding prospects for a large attendance of airmen and army planes for the dedication ceremonies of Cisco airport Sunday, Reg Robbins who is in Fort Worth says responses to the invitations sent out are coming in rapidly and he has reasons to expect 75 or 100 planes.

C. D. Nilson, superintendent of Region 4 of Civil Aeronautics with headquarters at Dallas has promised to attend the ceremonies. Col. Scott of Camp Bowie, Brownwood, says there will be army planes from his camp. Others are expected from San Antonio, in addition to private planes and their pilots, which will furnish plenty of air maneuvers for those in attendance.

The local committee in charge, Reg. Robbins, P. R. Warwick and Doc Cabaness, have completed details for the barbecue for pilots and visitors together with appropriate dedicate ceremonies.

H. H. Monk, chamber of commerce airport committeeman, will be master of ceremonies with numbers from the Lobo band, in charge of Leonard King. Miss Billye Cole will sing with the band.

Mayor G. P. Mitcham will be out of the city and Acting Mayor Geo. Boyd will accept the airport for the city from W. H. LaRoque who will welcome the visiting flyers and make the presentation.

Members of the city commission and chamber of commerce directors will be presented on the stage. A. G. Motor Company will furnish loud speaker equipment, and boy scouts will aid in parking cars and planes. Ceremonies will begin shortly after noon.

two sisters, Mrs. Oscar Petterson of Aspermont and Mrs. Henry Hite of Muldrow, Okla.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Carpenter of Abilene attended the dedicatory services of the First Methodist church, in Cross Plains Sunday.

Frank Gregoire left Wednesday for his home in Fredericksburg after an extended visit here in the home of his father, Dr. J. A. Gregoire.

Morris Odom, who has been visiting friends and relatives here the past week, returned to his home in Bisbee, Ariz., Tuesday morning. His mother, Mrs. Price Odom, of Sterling City, who also has been visiting here, returned home with him.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Seaborn and daughter, Patsy Seaborn, of Santa Maria, Calif., are visiting in the home of Mrs. B. L. Seaborn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Caton had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cotton and daughter, Jeanette, and Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Caton of Eastland.

HEAVY "SEAS" AT RANDOLPH FIELD—Practically an amphibian is this basic trainer pictured splashing to a takeoff at the "West Point of the Air." Takeoff ramp had been flooded when unusually heavy rainstorm inundated the entire flying field. Ramps, higher than rest of field, are usually water free.

Local Car Stolen, Abilene Car Found

Police report the theft of C. J. Turner's 1937 Ford Tudor car, early Thursday morning, from 606 W. Ninth street. The theft was reported by Mr. Turner at 9 o'clock Thursday morning. Chief Perdue stated, who said Mr. Turner had parked his car about 9 o'clock Wednesday night, and discovered the theft about 8 o'clock Thursday morning. Chief Perdue said the car was parked in the street and left unlocked. There were no clues as to the identity of the thief.

Presumably about the same time the Turner car was stolen, police received a report that a car had been stolen in Abilene, belonging to Isham Granner, of Ft. Worth, who was working in Abilene. While searching for the Abilene car at about 4:30 o'clock Thursday morning, it was discovered stalled and abandoned in the 1000 block on W. Eighth street, and police believed that the party, after abandoning the Abilene car, switched over to W. Ninth street and made his escape in the Turner car.

Air infiltration through cracks and low-density materials is a much greater factor in insulation problems than is commonly recognized but is almost non-existent in plywood structures.

MOSCOW FIGHTS ON

Counter-attacks by Russians in the Orel sector, 210 miles southwest of Moscow, were said by the Moscow radio to have exhausted the Nazi drive, although it was acknowledged that ground had been yielded on other fronts in a great semi-circle around the capital.

A Vichy radiocast reported the Germans to be within 37 miles of Moscow.

The Russian radio reports emphasized front-line dispatches, saying the Germans had suffered enormous casualties, but Berlin indicated the main objective was encirclement, rather than continued direct assault on the defenders.

A huge home-guard force and formidable barricades thrown up around Moscow were said to be aiding the Red army in holding off enemy pressure against the city.

On the Black sea the Germans said they had taken the large port of Odessa. Moscow said street fighting was still progressing in Odessa and that the city had not fallen.

John S. Rudd, Jr., acting director of the state teacher retirement system, said the approved list of applicants for retirement contained 284 names and that the state comptroller soon would mail the checks.

The acting director added that the remainder of 500 applications would be approved shortly. All first payments will be for September, effective date of retirement.

ENCIRCLEMENT.

"Eventually we shall lock up Nazi Germany in an iron ring," Naval Secretary Knox told the American Bar association, "and within that ring of sea power she shall perish."

Perhaps the statement should be read with some allowance for exaggeration. It is inconceivable that modern Germany, now a nation of 80,000,000 or 90,000 people, will perish literally as a result of this war.

It is "Nazi Germany," of course, for which our admirable secretary prophecies disaster. And if the words are interpreted as meaning the purge of Nazism from the German nation, he is proposing a reasonable change for which the free world hopes and will fight to the last ditch.

It will have to be a real change, however, a change of mind and heart, renouncing the monstrous crimes of Hitler and his tools and renouncing brutal Prussian militarism. It must also commit the German nation to paths of peace, with a considerable period of probation to prove its good faith, before those who have obediently done Hitler's evil work for him may expect to be received into the fraternity of peaceful nations.

DECLINE OF EXERCISE.

Baseball, as philosophic observers know, is not merely a sport. It is largely, and perhaps primarily, what psychologists call an "escape." People throng to the ball grounds by tens of thousands to watch two small groups of men playing a game that they would like to play themselves, if they had the skill or energy or opportunity. For a little while they can put themselves in the players' places, imagine themselves performing brilliant athletic feats and go home satisfied or disgusted, as the case may be, with what "their team" has done.

There is drama, too. That is a large part of it, and one reason why women take more and more interest in the game. But probably the mental "escape" theory still holds good.

Back of all this mental and emotional stress liberated at a ball game is the sad fact of the athletic slump of civilized man. The more our civilization progresses, as gauged by the usual standards, the more we take our play and exercise by proxy, the less vigorous our bodies become, the more we tend to lose our natural physical skills. Childhood and youth still retain a good deal of vigor and find outlets for it, but most grown-ups tend to grow physically soft and remain in that degenerate state.

There seems to be more hope lately for the women. They are taking to the athletic life as men recede from it. Eventually they may be doing most of the running and hiking and ball-playing, while their men-folk look on.

RUSSIAN RELIGION.

An American newspaperman, Wallace Carroll of the United Press, in Moscow two Sundays ago, went to the All-Russian Orthodox church to see how religion was faring in the Red capitol.

It was obviously not extinct. The cathedral was gorgeously and lighted by 1,000 candles. A high prelate was officiating. "Old women wrapped in gray shawls knelt or prostrated themselves on the stone floor before the ikon of the Virgin, or humbly kissed the feet of the Child she held. Gray-haired men softly chanted age-old hymns with the choir."

There was nothing furtive about attendance and no police were around. There was an occasional young person, but nearly all of the worshippers seemed old.

Before the World war Russia was very religious. There are said to have been more than 100,000,000 orthodox believers, besides the other sects. Of 100,000 parishes or religious communities, there are left 30,000, many of which have only a few members.

Obviously the anti-religious propaganda of the devilish Communist period has brought religious faith and worship to a low ebb. But anyone who knows the strong hold that religion in the past has always had on the Russians, or who has read Dmitri Merejkowski's great novel, "Peter and Alexis," can hardly believe that the Russian people will permanently abandon religion.

OTHER EDITORS

The Cold Truth.

Athens Review: The following two paragraphs are from a recent speech by Senator O'Daniel in his speech offering an amendment to the Federal Constitution to allow men to work: "Mr. President, the greatest problem facing America today is not that of winning a new World war, but of determining whether in the process of winning the war we shall allow a dictatorship to be set up with the federal government, controlled by the A. F. of L. and the CIO, which will say to American labor, 'You either pay dues to some labor union or you do not work.' What will we gain if we win a world war and destroy dictatorship abroad, but permit a dictatorship of the A. F. of L. and CIO to be established in America? That is a question to be answered by the congress."

Dallas News: Mr. O'Daniel has shown more courage than other men in congress, although he has been there but briefly. Every informed person in and out of congress today knows that the unions, many of them organized or directed by boozes who can barely speak the American language—and some of whom entered this country unlawfully—are holding up the taxpayers by excessive demands. Also holding up nonunion workmen by compelling them to pay high entrance fees for the privilege of working on a government job. Our government is a party to these practices. It is a party to the extortion of $100 from every man on a government job who has paid that sum to a union boss for the right to earn a wage. The $100 imposition is not the highest nor is it the lowest, but in every case of such an extortion the government is particeps criminis. It cannot plead ignorance. It knows what is going on. It has coddled alien labor organizers and seen extortionists grow rich from the sweaty dollars paid into union coffers in the purchase of the right to work and support needy families. We as a nation, through our official representatives, have promised much to those who are fighting our battle against dictatorship. But we have stupidly allowed twin dictatorships to flourish in our own country, and our ability to make our promises good is, foreshortened at the beginning by our own dictator.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

(From Files of Cisco Daily News, September, 1927.)

Another husky eleven crumpled before the dazzling running and aerial attack of Cisco High Big Dam Loboes here Friday afternoon when Mineral Wells high was turned back by the score of 68 to 0. Led by Little and Cotton Pippen, the Loboes drove down the field with clock-like precision throughout the four quarters, gaining at will around end and through the line. As a general thing, no line smashing was necessary, the fast backfield being able to carry the ball through the enemy line by strategy and sidestepping, although when called upon, Eddleman, crushing fullback, was able to deliver five to ten yards at a clip. Cisco—Smith, center; L. Miller and Moore, guards; Coldwell and Bates, tackles; Jenkins and B. Pippen, quarterback; Little and Boon, halfbacks; Eddleman, fullback. Substitutions: Cisco—Kellogg for H. Pippen; H. Pippen for Boon; Slatton for Moore; W. Miller for Smith; McCanlies for L. Miller; Stovall for Kellogg; Boon for Eddleman; Bedford for Little; Moore for Slatton; Slatton for Bates; King for Coldwell; Cotton for H. Pippen; Meadows for B. STORIES IN STAMPS

Agriculture Is Chile's Most Important Industry

AGRICULTURE is Chile's largest industry. The country is practically self-supporting in respect to food, although large quantities of rice, sugar and beef are still imported.

Production is primitive and not intensive. There are approximately 95 million acres of arable land, of which only 2,300,000 are sown.

The government of Chile recognized its agricultural workers with the 1939 stamp above.

The fruit industry has developed, especially in the region around Valparaiso. Fresh, dried, canned and preserved fruits are exported. Peaches, pears, plums, apricots and melons are grown. Apples, the most important crop in the south, strawberries, raspberries, loganberries and currants flourish.

Vegetables of all sorts, tobacco and cotton are cultivated. Chilean livestock is extensive. The cattle are killed for home consumption, and the hides exported.

TIME FOR MR. and MRS. SHOPPER TO COME TO CISCO FOR ALL THEIR NEEDS

The last few weeks have shown a tendency toward the return of Cisco's former country and small-town trade. Merchants' sales have shown this

But This Is Not Enough

Merchants have been making bids for this trade, much of which has been going elsewhere... Perhaps they should be working harder to get back this lost trade. Perhaps there is more they can do... or more of the same invitations to come to see Cisco merchants' offerings... If there is more they can do, let's be doing it!

The Cisco Daily Press

Offers its services if there is ANYTHING IT CAN DO --- or ANY WAY IT CAN HELP to regain Cisco's lost favor over the territory --- a fact that has been deeply felt by Cisco business---

If merchants in their business caucusses think there is more the Daily Press can do to aid in this move for more out-of-town trade, we insist they tell us. We want to do our part... We want to help with our end.

The old Business Spirit seems to be coming back to Cisco---and trade seems to be turning our way---Perhaps a bold and aggressive campaign---a concerted move by all, might bring the revival we need. Shall we try?

This marks one of the best producers in the Nail ranch pool 15 miles northwest of Albany, located near center southeast quarter section 133, ETRR. Keep a stiff upper lip and put your glad clothes on.

The Shackelford county rainfall record, established in 1932, is being approached already this year, with 1.98 inches falling this week. Approximately 44 inches have fallen thus far this year, lacking less than two inches equaling the record. The continued wet weather is damaging the cotton crop and stopping picking. The Albany Gin Co. had a busy week last week, with a few days of pretty weather, and reports more than 200 bales ginned to date.

Mrs. Reese had been ill a week, and although 80 years of age, her family did not expect that her illness was serious, and her death came unexpectedly.

Rev. Wm. Lee Edwards, pastor of the First Christian church, who is leaving with his family for Gladewater in the near future, was principal speaker at the chamber of commerce luncheon Tuesday. Rev. Edwards stated that a town must believe in advertising, and that the chamber of commerce is the best source of advertising in the community. He commended some of the leaders in the chamber for their fine work, stating that he had never known a more efficient and capable manager than Miss Ollie Clarke, and he praised the work of Bobby Nail in writing and producing the Fort Griffin Fandangle that is so widely advertising Albany. "A town is no bigger than its chamber of commerce," Rev. Edwards said, "and it is the duty of the chamber of commerce to make plans for the development of a city and community."
