

FASCIST AGITATION FOR TUNISIA INCREASES

US Indicts Prominent Mexicans in Neutrality Case

Through the Editor's Spectacles

By GEORGE

Several Cisco parties of football fans will go to Lubbock Friday afternoon to see the Lubbock Westerners, coached and captained by former Ciscoans, do battle with the Breckenridge Buckaroos in the only Friday game of the state league quarterfinal series. Smith Huestis and Edward "Red" Lee are two who will make the trip. Phil Pettit, who, by the way, is the father-in-law of W. B. Chapman, Western head coach, is also organizing an automobile party to drive to the South Plains capital for the game.

I dare say that the great majority of those who go from Cisco will be rooting for the Westerners, not because they are against the Buckaroos, their titular representatives, but because Lubbock represents so much of Cisco. There is Coach "Chap," who began his coaching career at Cisco and carried the Lobos to gridiron fame and who went to Lubbock from Cisco to hold only two coaching jobs in his career. There is "Goober" Keyes, celebrated as the nerviest football player that Cisco high school ever produced, who is assisting "Chap." And there is Walter "Jumbo" Webster, coach and star of the Westerners who went to Lubbock from Cisco.

Coach J. T. Petty and most of the Lobo team, of course, are pulling for the Buckaroos. If Breckenridge should win it would improve the Cisco stock and that is logical and right. But Breckenridge can't blame Cisco for favoring "Chap" and "Goober" who are so intimately associated with the best Lobo traditions and who deserve success as much as any others in the state.

Nimrod Preserve Meeting Friday

Landowners and others interested in the Nimrod area have been invited to attend a meeting at the Nimrod school house Friday night, December 9, to complete organization of a game preserve demonstration area in co-operation with the county agent.

Those who have already joined similar organizations in the county have been advised by County Agent Elmo Cook that the organizations belong to the signers and all rules are made by them. Joining one of the preserves does not take away any rights nor give outsiders any rights on the land concerned, he made clear.

FORMER HEAD OF AIR CORPS ONE CHARGED

Spanish Ambassador to Mexico Accused But Not Indicted

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 6.—(AP)—The federal government today indicted Gen. Roberto Fierro, former head of the Mexican army air corps, six other Mexicans, including a general and two colonels, and two Americans and a Mexican aviation company for conspiring to violate the neutrality act.

The indictment named as a co-conspirator but did not indict Felix Gordon Ordaz, Spanish ambassador to Mexico.

The bill charged that 19 airplanes had been transported from the United States to Mexico for trans-shipment to loyalist Spain.

AVIATOR IS SENTENCED

BROWNSVILLE, Dec. 6 (AP)—Cloyd Clevenger, New York aviator, today was sentenced to 18 months in prison by Federal Judge C. B. Kennamer. The aviator admitted he transported two airplanes from the United States to Mexico to be used in the Cudillo rebellion.

Roosevelt Will Continue His "Liberal" Program

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Dec. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt served notice on the South and the nation at large Monday that he would go forward with a "liberal" program of government despite new deal election reverses.

Addressing a University of North Carolina student forum, he also declared what America does or fails to do in the next few years "has a far greater bearing and influence on the history of the human race for centuries to come than most of us who are here today can ever conceive."

In an implied warning to dictators, he asserted the United States was "not only the largest and most powerful democracy in the whole world, but many other democracies look to us for leadership that world democracy may survive."

"An Ogre"
"You undergraduates who see me for the first time," Roosevelt said, "have read in your newspapers and heard on the air that I am, at the very least, an ogre—a consorter with communists, a destroyer of the rich, a breaker of ancient traditions. You think of me perhaps as the inventor of the economic royalist, of the wicked utilities, of the money changers in the temple. You have heard for six years that I was about to plunge the nation into war, that you and your little brothers would be sent to the bloody fields of battle in Europe; that I was driving the nation into bankruptcy, and that I breakfasted every morning on a grilled millionaire."

"Actually, I am an exceedingly mild mannered person—a practitioner of peace, both domestic and foreign, a believer in the capitalist system, and for my breakfast a devotee of scrambled eggs."

He reaffirmed his faith in the political philosophy of liberalism by saying: "You have read that as a result of the balloting last November, the liberal forces in the United States are on their way to the cemetery—yet I ask you to remember that liberal forces in the United States have often been killed and buried—"

Loboes Open Cage Season Impressively

Opening their 1938 cage campaign the Loboes served notice that they will be strong contenders for the District 5 title, which barely eluded them last year, by downing the Olden quintet last night by a 31-10 count. Employing their colorful zone defense and fast-breaking offense the Loboes proved too much for their opponents and were never headed.

Leading 14-7 at half-time, the Loboes went on a scoring spree in the third quarter, eliminating what little possibility remained for an Olden victory. The second-string played much of the fourth quarter and it was against them that the only basket of that period for Olden was made.

High scorer for the night was Marcel Harrison, who banged the buckets for 14 points before retiring. Odell Harrison was next with eight, and Warren third with five. This victory placed the Loboes in the second round of the Morton Valley tourney. They will oppose Ranger-Cross Cut winner tonight, considered two of the strongest quintets in the tournament.

Irish Potato Growers to Pool Orders Here

Shooting of Scenes for Lions Comedy Are Well Under Way

Shooting of scenes for the Lions club musical comedy, "Movie Queen," was well under way this week with more scenes scheduled for tomorrow. Sunday afternoon the cast completed the "kidnaping" sequence in which Mary Brown, the heroine of the play, played by Miss Catherine Russell, was kidnaped from the Palace theater and taken to a "hide-out" in the residential district by a gang of crooks played by prominent Cisco business men. "Jimmy Cain," the hero of the production, played by Sterling Drumwright, furnished plenty of action for these scenes by knocking several of the gangsters cold and putting the rest to flight.

Members of the cast of the musical comedy, which will be presented December 15 and 16, are:

"Mary Brown," the "movie queen," played by Catherine Russell;
"Ma" Brown, mother of the "movie queen," played by Miss Marian Chambliss;
"Jimmy Cain," press agent hero of the play, played by Sterling Drumwright;
"Producer Goldstein" of "Goldstein, Goldstein, Goldstein and Goldstein," played by George P. Fee;
"Director Von Vonheim," played by Gene Abbott;
"Monsieur Flores," Parisian dress designer, played by Carney Nevill; "Marlena Starbo," played by Laura Rupe;
"Mr. Suave," hotel man, played by Ed Brown;
"Bell Boy," played by A. C. Donica;
"Beau," played by Smith Huestis;
"Abe," played by Punk Thornton;
"Al the cameraman," played by Joe I. Patterson;
"Ted the stagehand," played by "Dizzy" Dean;
"Newsboy," played by Joe Patterson, Jr.;
"Pappy Kenyon, the mountaineer," played by Charles J. Kleiner;
"Yes-men," played by Bob Elliott and R. W. McCauley.
Ten girls form the chorus which will present three routines.

"WE WILL GO THERE," CRIES PARTY LEADER

Declaration Made As Students Stage Big Demonstration

ROME, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A fascist students' anti-French demonstration in the streets of Rome reached a climax today in a declaration by a fascist party leader that the Italians would go to Tunisia, France's North African protectorate.

"There's no need of talking of Tunisia—we will go there," shouted.

FACT IS SIGNED

PARIS, Dec. 6.—(AP)—France and Germany today signed an accord, widely termed a "war renunciation pact," which pledged them to an amicable discussion of difficulties instead of resorting to armed force.

The agreement declared the governments recognized their present boundaries and that no French and German territorial question exists. Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet of France and Joachim von Ribbentrop of Germany signed the agreements.

ed Andrea Ippolito, provincial secretary of the party, in response to students' cries of "Tunisia." The students, agitating for support of Italian claims to French territory, were turned back by police when they tried to reach the French embassy.

FRANCE TO SURRENDER NO TERRITORY

PARIS, Dec. 6.—Premier Edouard Daladier said Monday France was resolved to demand respect for "the absolute integrity" of French territory by "every means."

This was his answer to the Italian clamor over French Corsica and Tunisia. Informed quarters read into it an additional message to Germany—France intends to keep her colonies despite Germany's demands.

His declaration as it affected Germany was held significant in view of the arrival of Joachim von Ribbentrop, German foreign minister, to sign a no-war pact and to discuss the political situation.

Daladier's remarks were in a communique announcing his intention to visit Corsica and Tunisia shortly after January 1. He urged inhabitants there to remain calm. The plea followed Sunday's riotous demonstrations against Italy and professing loyalty to France.

Of the Italian press campaign and chamber of deputies' demonstration regarding France and French possessions, Daladier said: "There is no need to state that these manifestations will meet strong opposition against the cession of any territory over which the national flag floats."

He said the loyalty demonstrations in Tunisia and Corsica were "the best response that could be made" to Italian cries for French territory. He noted that the Italian government had answered a French protest by stating the fascist colonial claims were not formulated by the government.

British Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in London he had received assurances the Italian government "did not associate" itself with fascist territorial demonstrations against France and that he therefore saw no reason to change his plan to visit Rome January 11 to 14.

European and American Dictators Are Different

ONE thing that has been bothering some Americans in connection with this proposed New World co-operation in defense of democracy is the perfectly obvious fact that the democracy of so many Latin-American nations is far from being pure and undefiled.
The conference in Peru may be productive of great things. Yet there is no use ignoring the fact that of the nations there represented only a few can be classed as genuine democracies, as the term is understood north of the Rio Grande. If a united front against the dictators is formed, there will be plenty of dictators in it.

YET there is no need for anyone to be dismayed by this fact. For if dictatorship in itself is an old story in this hemisphere, the particular kind of dictatorship now looming large on the European horizon is something new. A moment's comparison will make the distinction clear.

As a general thing, the "banana republic" dictatorship is a highly individualized show. Only rarely is it based on any ideology or theory more elaborate than a simple desire for power. It may be exceedingly repressive—some of the Latin dictators had nothing to learn from the nazis about the technique of silencing dissidents—but by its very nature it is ephemeral, and it does not force the ideals, the mental processes and the intellectual outlook of its people into a rigid mold. It is a way of government but not a way of life. It does not try to remake society according to a fixed pattern.

All of which is just the reverse of the European-model dictatorship which is to be one of the big concerns of the Lima conference.

For the frightening thing about such a thing as nazism is that while it vests all the power of government in one man, it goes far beyond the old-time idea of simple autocracy, and sets up an ideal to which all men are forced to conform. It is not enough that the citizen simply refrain from criticizing the dictator; he must think as the dictator wants him to think, he is permitted to have only such ideas as suit the dictator, the smallest details of his private life are regulated for him.

SO that it is not merely political freedom which dies under this system. The fundamental right of the human being to think his own thoughts and worship according to the dictates of his own conscience, to pick his friends, to train his children, and to keep himself aware of what is going on in the world—this broad right, which is fundamental to anything that can pass under the name of civilization, ceases to exist.

That is why there is nothing in the least out of the way in the spectacle of various Latin-American dictators sitting down to discuss ways of checking the spread of European totalitarianism.

Free democratic society can survive these impromptu one-man dictatorships. It cannot survive a spread of the European dictatorship ideal. If we are to understand the significance of the Lima conference, we must be clear about the difference between the two.

The knocking at Hitler's door which he mistakes for opportunity is really the sheriff with some long overdue accounts.

Four fellows arrested in Cleveland with 400 pair of loaded dice may be expected to shoot their way out of jail.

Sleeping with the window open is reported to be good for insomnia. So for that matter is sleeping with the window shut.

SERIAL STORY LOVERS AWEIGH

COPYRIGHT, 1938
NEA SERVICE, INC.
BY BETTY WALLACE

CAST OF CHARACTERS
JUDY ALCOTT—admiral's daughter. She faced a choice between two navy suitors.
DWIGHT CAMPBELL—amblitious lieutenant. He faced a choice between his wife and duty.
JACK HANLEY—flying sailor.
He faced a test of a patient love.
MARVEL HASTINGS—navy wife. She faced the test of being a good sailor.

Yesterday: In a heart-touching scene, Judy bids farewell to Diane, wonders if all this is worth while in the Navy. But her mother assures her it is, that Diane would have done it all over again.

CHAPTER XXIII

Jack Hanley had been in Sick Officers' quarters a month now.
His arm had knit beautifully, his ribs were almost well. He could sit up in bed, but he hadn't been in a wheelchair yet. Commander Sloane believed in doing things slowly. He had said, "You want to fly again, don't you? Take it easy."

Judy, who spent much of each day there in the white room, was happier than she had ever been before. They talked of their marriage. "A week after you get out, whenever that is!" She wouldn't have a big wedding, like Marvel's.
But she'd have all that mattered.
Her father, giving her away. Her mother. Her friends she had grown up with, on stations all over the world. For their honeymoon, there would be a motor trip, and a visit in Virginia with Diane. The memory of Bill Bell still lived with Jack. Bitterly, sometimes. "He had a child. Maybe it would have been better if—"

"No!" Judy said. "No, no, no!
You mustn't talk that way. There must have been some reason—something we can't see. You'll do wonderful things for the service." One afternoon when she was getting ready to drive to the hospital, Magda Hamilton came in.
"Just got back from Bremerton yesterday. The Texarkana and the destroyers and everybody will be in tomorrow."

She sat on the sofa. "We—we were shocked when the news came about Bill Bell. That's the breaks, I guess."

Then she said, "Have you heard what happened up there?" Judy said, "No, I haven't.
What?"

"Your friend, Mrs. Campbell," said Magda. "She didn't come at first. Tommy said Dwight was almost out of his mind. Kept wiring her. Then she showed up, a week ago."

Judy was impatient. Her interest in Dwight Campbell and Marvel was dead, she told herself.
They had their lives to live, she had hers. She looked at her wristwatch. "I don't want to be late.
Jack waits for me. You know how dull S.O.Q. is."

Magda said, "She came in a yacht, with a party of friends.
That man met at her house—warning—Cary Tennant. It was his yacht." She shot Judy a speculative glance. "To make a long story short, she and Dwight had an awful row. In public. On the Texie, to be exact. She said she was going back on the yacht, the way I heard the story, and Dwight said it was a disgusting way for a married woman to carry on. Something like that." Magda stood up.
"I don't want to keep you. Just wanted to say that everybody knows she's left him, and we're all wondering if he'll batch it over in that modern mansion of hers, or stick aboard ship."

Judy found no words. She and Magda went out together. But as Magda got into her own car, she was smiling a little. As if she knew what havoc her news had wrought in Judy's breast.

Judy turned the key in the ignition, stepped on the starter furiously. What difference did it make if Dwight and Marvel had quarreled? She had forgotten Dwight Campbell was on earth. But had she, asked a small voice inside her. Had she really forgotten? Or had she only been too glad to sink her torment into the ready balm of Jack Hanley's love? He needed her. He'd been hurt. She had worried about him, been grateful he had come through alive. It was natural that her pity for him should whisper to her wayward heart, trap her into believing it was love.

But it was love. It was peaceful, and sweet, and real. She would marry him and have a good life. She didn't care what Marvel and Dwight did! They meant nothing to her!

But the image she had tried hard to banish forever rose again.
Just the sound of his name could bring it back. His eyes, the way his hair grew. His splendid height.

The touch of his fingers, burning on her arm.

"No!" she said out loud. And then she found that she was driving past the white house where he had lived with Marvel. It was not on the way to the hospital.
How had she gotten here?

Furiously, she turned the car, almost careening over a curbstone.
She drove swiftly to the hospital.
Her cheeks were bright with color.
She entered the bare hall.
She entered the elevator. She must calm herself. Jack would be sure to see that she was upset.

He had been reading a book she had brought him. He laid it aside.
"You're late!"

"You weren't reading! You were just looking."
"I can't help it," he said. "I count the minutes. The clock seems to stand still. You try lying in bed, with nobody but a dumb nurse—"

"She's a pretty nurse."
"She hurts when she starts after those bandages." Then he asked,
"What kept you?"

"Magda Hamilton, back from Bremerton."
"Oh."
"Gossip, that's all." She would not tell him about Dwight and Marvel. She would not. And yet, somehow, the words were saying themselves. "Marvel Campbell arrived in a yacht. Cary Tennant's yacht."

"The slick, dark-haired chap?"
"Yes. And Marvel and Dwight had an argument. Right on the ship, the way Magda told it. Tom probably told her." *

Jack leaned back among the pillows. "Those two were due for stormy weather. It won't help his personal reputation file any to have stuff like that in it." Then he said, "So that's why you're—you're—"

"I'm what?" she asked quickly, challenge in the way she said it.
"I was just repeating meaningless gossip."
He didn't answer.

She dropped her eyes. "Do you think it isn't meaningless to me?
Do you think I care?"

"Judy," he said slowly, "I know you've never really gotten over him. Love's a funny thing. I know how he hurt you, and I know what a cruel, arrogant creature she is. But just the same, you never were able to ignore them. You never wholly forgot him. I'd be blind, not to know.
Sometimes, when you sat here, planning the future for me, I thought maybe I was wrong.
Maybe you did love me. But don't you see, while Dwight and I are in the same navy, my path and his—your path and his—are bound to cross. I'm not prying, I don't want anything but your happiness. Judy, look at me. Tell me the truth!"

Judy raised her eyes. Her lips quivered, but she said steadily, "Dwight Campbell means nothing to me." And even as she said it, she knew she was lying.

About Our Friends

By STEP A. LONG

For the first time in Cisco's Christmas decorative life, all of Eighth business section is decorated . . . and in a very beautiful way . . . Cisco really did enlarge her business section when the highway changed to that street . . . We wouldn't be surprised to see East Eighth, where a little group of business is gradually enlarging as one after another earlier lot there, flare out into a bright cluster of lights besprinkled with evergreens most any night now . . .

And why shouldn't they do so?
They have enthusiasm and that's the most it takes if one has some capital with which to start . . . But before we wander away too far afield, we want to congratulate you Eighth Streeters on the job you have done and the enthusiasm you are displaying in welding yourselves right on to the old town . . . It may be that Central Cisco . . . Yes there is really a Central Cisco as well as a South and North Cisco . . . and now there is being builded an East and West Cisco, it appears . . . But as we started to say . . . Central Cisco may think we of the North have gone back to the Indians, and some of us may apparently have retrograded more or less, but you watch us . . .

Had you noticed that all parades usually start down here, and when celebrities arrive they arrive at this end, regardless of whether they come by bus, railway or private conveyance . . . We still have a little fight left anyway, don't we?

But we started to say, that if the North or South should weaken slightly, there is the vigorous young West or East to help hold the fight for Cisco's rich and effete Central section . . . Now that should hold you for a while . . .
We suppose it is right and proper for a part of a town that once had a big steel flag pole to be aristocratic and look down on the other parts of the old town but we're still a part of you . . . and we visit you most every day to see what new you have to offer . . .

And this reminds us . . . since we can't have a town Christmas tree on the highway, why can't those live Juniors erect one at Seventh where tourists could see it while waiting for the red light to change? Why not???

The news in the morning's state papers regarding the taxicab drivers' robbery and kidnaping ring, which started a brief crime wave, is a sad thing if you look further into the motivation that led to the beginning . . . and then further notice the youthfulness of the trio . . .

Three young men out of jobs . . . Away from home and perhaps in bad company . . . And there are always bad companions for those while they hold jobs, and then when they are out of work, they are left to their own resources . . . One young chap said he was going to get a little stake and then go to the Oklahoma oil fields . . . But perhaps he was just going to move to what he thought was a ripper field for richer pickings . . . Yes, they were really on their way to a full-fledged criminal career . . . To finally develop into No. 1 bad men perhaps . . . The first killing that they would have done would have been "Crossing the Rubicon" for them, from which there is seldom any return . . . But we wonder if the future holds much for them as it is . . .

But we turn from this gloomy picture of misdirected youth . . .
It is always interesting to peruse back copies of a newspaper, especially when one knows the characters as they are today . . . If one reads the society columns of 15 or 20 years ago, many of the leading women of Cisco's clubs, societies and church activities, of that period, are still names prominent as leaders in Cisco today . . .

May we be pardoned if we mention a few without bringing embarrassment to those good ladies who have worked and are still working for the upbuilding of their community . . . As we see constantly such names as Mrs. Charles Fee, Mrs. William Reagan, Mrs. J. T. Berry, Mrs. G. B. Kerley, Mrs. A. J. Olson, Mrs. J. W.
Mancill, Mrs. R. W. Mancill, Mrs. George Winston, Mrs. Bob Winston, Mrs. J. J. Butts, Mrs. Connie Davis, Mrs. W. P.
Lee, Mrs. F. E. Clark, Mrs. J. E.
Spencer, Mrs. C. Owen, Mrs. T. J.
Dean, Mrs. W. W. Moore . . . and we apologize to many others whose names are not mentioned here . . . these happen to force themselves on our attention . . . we are sure there are other women who have been in the fight all these years for progress . . . We bow to them.

Garner Lauded as Best Qualified for Presidency at Detroit Rally

DETROIT, Dec. 6.—Declaring that John Garner's record of public service "is without blot or stain, a matchless record seldom equaled and never surpassed in the annals of American history," Roy Miller of Corpus Christi, democratic leader and longtime friend of the vice president, declared the principal address at the nation's first Garner-for-President rally here today.

Thousands of Texans of all ages, from old-timers who "knew him when" to youngsters who aspire to emulate his faithful service to country, converged upon this historic community to present their most distinguished native son to the nation as "the best qualified American to succeed Franklin D. Roosevelt as president of the United States."

The meeting was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the new gymnasium of the Detroit high school, situated only a few miles from the mud-chinked log cabins in which John Garner was born 69 years ago.

Bands played and the crowd cheered as the speakers, many of them childhood friends and baseball teammates of the vice president a half-century ago, extolled the old-fashioned American virtues of thrift, self-reliance, and hard work exemplified in the life and political career of the youthful "chapparral statesman" who went to congress 35 years ago.

Roy Miller emphasized that "John Garner is not now and never will be an active candidate for the presidency," saying that "he seeks neither position, place, power, nor influence." But added, "I have every confidence that he, as long as he lives, will never fail or refuse to accept any call to duty which may come to him from his party or his country."

Significant reference to the third-term rumors current in political circles was made by Miller as he detailed Garner's logical fitness for the presidency: "We utter no criticism or disparagement of any other man. We offer no complaint concerning the public acts or official record of anyone. We do, however, plant our feet firmly upon democratic and American tradition in respect to terms of service. We believe devoutly that the future safety of the republic depends upon our adherence to the old landmarks in precept as well as in tradition."

A "Toby" Comedy Is Brunk's Offering

Brunk's Comedians, who opened a week's engagement in this city last night to a capacity crowd in the big heated tent theater by the Daniels hotel, and who are sponsored by the local American Legion post, will present as the second attraction of their current "run" a "Toby" comedy entitled
"Puddin' Head Jones."

This play, written for laughing purposes only, concerns the antics of a small town "rube" who surprises his neighbors by going to the city and making "good" in a big way, but of course not until he has created "on the stage" many laughs for the audience.

Included in the nightly performances of the Brunk company are singing, dancing and novelty vaudeville acts. As an added attraction tonight Mr. Brunk has secured the service of the well known astrologist, "Madame Mabelle," who will appear on the stage blindfolded to answer questions from the audience, regarding past, present and future happenings.

The doors of the big heated tent open each night at 6:45 and the show starts at 7:45. The price of admission, which is 10 cents to all, and no reserved seats, will be the same during the entire "run" of this popular group.

Brighten Christmas for Dad by Choosing "Just for Him"

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW
AP Feature Service Writer
It doesn't have to be a muffler. Or a cigarette case. Or a dull tie the salesman assures you is just the thing for father.

Dad's probably sick and tired of all the old standbys you drag out for him every Christmas. He figures he can buy his own mufflers and ties—and like them a lot better than the ones you pick out.

What he probably wants more than anything else is a gift that shows you are on to the hidden qualities of his complex nature.

Perhaps he always has craved to be a flashy dresser, but his bank makes him stick to conservative blues and grays. He'd be just the sort to appreciate a fancy smoking jacket, even if you can't quite see bald-headed Dad in a brocaded model. Or perhaps, he'd like to sport some lurid socks on the golf course. Or even a pair of cuff links and a tie clasp set with his birthstone—he can wear them to church on Sunday.

Maybe he's still in the mechanical toy stage of his childhood, and would like nothing better than to spend his Saturdays and Sundays down on the floor with an electric train.

Perhaps he's musical—and can't afford the symphony. But he can listen to Beethoven's Ninth from start to finish on the phonograph. If the phonograph is lacking, you can pick up any kind from the cheap portable that must be wound by hand, to the elaborate electrical device which plays ten records through without a shift.

If he's really worried about his waistline and has been sneaking off to the gym now and then, don't laugh at him. He needs encouragement. He might be glad to work out on a rowing machine at home—if you have a place to put it.

Even if you brace yourself for any kind of calamity when he descends to his cellar laboratory to brew a scientific potion, he gets a lot of fun out of it. Why not replenish his chemical supplies for a Christmas surprise?

If Dad is a game-lover he would appreciate a chest which includes the paraphernalia for more than a dozen evening-by-the-fire diversions.

A lunch kit fitted with bottles for hot and cold liquids might be just the thing he needs for hunting and fishing jaunts.

For business trips, an excellent "gift from the family" would be one of the tricky new traveling bags which zip open to a separate toilet article compartment on the side.

If he is a camera bug, a photo-filing set might be the answer. There's a similar scrap-book offering for those fathers who won't throw away old clippings.

Any hobby Dad has should be encouraged. That's a safe psychological theory and a tip at Christmas time. Stamps, first editions, old prints or glass pups—he'll appreciate an addition to his collection.

Dad will be darned appreciative if you give him a present like any of these, picked just for him, not the good-for-any-father kind. And for once he won't have to spend the day after Christmas trotting the mufflers and ties back to the store to be exchanged.

Tomorrow: What the "lady of his heart" might like for Christmas.

Frogs Start Workout For Bowl Dec. 12

FORT WORTH, Dec. 6.—(Spl.) The Horned Frogs of Texas Christian will rest until Monday, Dec. 12, before starting practice workouts for the Sugar Bowl—if the boys can stand that much rest!

"We've got to be ready for those Tartans," said Capt. I. B. Hale. "A little vacation from the practice field is fine, but all of us are beginning to think about getting ready."

"I'm lost without that football practice!" wailed Ki Aldrich. "We all wonder what to do with all the hours of the afternoon. We put in a lot of them talking about how to take Carnegie Tech."

The squad will work out on their own field until Christmas eve, when they will be given a two-day holiday Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 24 and 25. On the following Wednesday or Thursday they will move into New Orleans, for final preparations there.
