DESERTING IRELAND

Ireland is worried over emigration. Unlike Italy, it needs its people. The promise of the Irish Free State, of keeping the Irish at home, of affording them opportunity in the building up of their own country, has not been fulfilled so far.

"It is hard to blame such persons for seeking to better themselves abroad," says a Cork newspaper. "And yet, one feels that if they were prepared to work half as hard in Ireland, on the land, as they will be obliged to work in the factories and stores and quays of America, they need not emigrate for a living."

There's the rub! The same thing is true of emigrants from many another country. But somehow they do not feel the inspiration to labor in their home lands as they do in the new Land of Promise.

If opportunity is present at home, glamor or example may be lacking. Emigrants from anywhere to anywhere else nearly always work harder than they did before the change. It is still so with our eastern migrants to the west, or our northern migrants to the south.

That is as big a reason as any for the immigrants' success. If they do not actually find novel opportunities, the spiritual shaking-up and the commitment to a new world and a new life impel them to make opportunity. The spirit emigrates, perhaps, more than the boy does. If Americans emigrated to Ireland today, they would doubt they had been succeeding here which appears to be invading special "weeks." It has been the druggists in Toronto have had a "Beauty Week" which ended June.

The purpose of "Smile Week" is harder to discover in its relation to the wholesale drug business. But no one need fear or regret placing emphasis on smiles and beauty.

If the observance works wonders in the Canadian city, undoubtedly it will be used by our own special week promoters. Americans have an elastic capacity for such things, and appreciate smiles and beauty as much as any nation.

HEALTH ECONOMY

Good health is at least as important to any household as a bank account. That is why the periodic physical examination, regular trips to the dentist and a general budget allowance for fresh fruits and vegetables are all measures of economy even when they involve a little extra outlay of money.

Expenditures in public health work, too, repay the whole community as well as individual families. Education in matters of health and hygiene, hospitals, free public dispensaries and research work are all important and all worth paying for if the money devoted to them is wisely and honestly spent. Economy that greatly hampers health work in the home or the community is ultimate wastefulness.

Americans are learning to use fruit trees for shade and decoration as well as for producing food. One community interested in beautifying a boulevard running out of the city has decided to plant trees on both sides for a distance of two miles. And the tree selected is the cherry tree. Six hundred three-year-old trees are to be set out. They will be a source of joy throughout most of the year. Two miles of glorious pink and white blossoms, red fruit and clean green foliage will make the trees charming all through the months when the highway is most used.

Italy and Germany have established a new de luxe train service connecting Rome and Berlin in the fastest possible time with only one night in the sleeper. Formerly, this trip required two night rides. Trains leave both capitals in the morning and arrive the following afternoon. These de luxe trains are equipped with cozy first and second class compartments for one or two persons. The traveler along this route finds revealed to him the most picturesque region of Europe, new countries in their modern developments and yet centuries old in tradition and history. The trip is a distance equal to that between New York and St. Louis or between Chicago and Boston or that of an aeroplane journey from Washington to Lincoln, Nebraska.

Bishop James H. Dickey of Waco, who will speak at the First Methodist church tonight, is a forceful, entertaining pulpit orator and Cisco Methodists are expected to pack the big auditorium this evening. "Unification" will be the visiting bishop's subject, and it is said he will give his reason for opposing the consolidation of northern and southern Methodist forces. This merger idea, which originated in the north about 1844, but had been quietly sleeping since the days of the Civil war, is breaking out all over the country now and has gained considerable headway even in the south. However, it is unlikely the movement will ever amount to anything except talk.

When a Britisher wants to colloquially tell his friend to "shut up" he frequently says "dry up!" This is what he would like to tell his American friend about rain in England. With some pride he points to the statistics of the annual rainfall of such good American cities as Philadelphia (41.8 inches), St. Louis (40.8 inches), Cleveland (37.6 inches), New York (36 to 42 inches), and Detroit (36.19 inches) while as much frequented a city as London has only 25 inches. He contends that the British climate both above and below the Tweed is the finest in the world, and its brief gentle showers are much more preferred than American cloudbursts.

DINNER STORIES

When a boy, Lincoln attended a backwoods school where every morning the teacher had his pupils stand in a row and read verse by verse in turn a chapter from the Bible.

The chapter selected one morning was Daniel III, and the boy next to Abe by ill luck got the first of the verses in which "Shadrack, Meshach and Abednego" occur. The names terrified him, but, pulling himself together with a convulsive effort, he cleared that verse somehow, and all seemed to be well.

Looking at him a few moments later, however, Lincoln saw that he was in tears, and whispered, "What are you crying for?"

"Nothing," said the unlucky youngster, "only I can see those three miserable cusses coming 'round to me again."

A contemporary relates that a red-headed Irish boy once applied for a position in a messenger office. The manager after hiring him sent him on an errand in one of the most fashionable districts. Half an hour later the manager was called to the telephone and the following conversation took place:

"Have you a red-headed boy working for you?"

"Yes."

"Well, this is the janitor at the Oakland apartments, where your boy came to deliver a message. He insisted on coming in the front way, and was so persistent that I was forced to draw a gun."

"Good heaven! You didn't shoot him, did you?"

"No; but I want my gun back."

Will Lummus Says People of Moran Want Good Road From Cisco to That Section and Will Help Us Secure It

Will Lummus, ranchman of Moran, and family, shopped in Cisco Wednesday and Mr. Lummus reports everything flourishing in his section, regardless of the lack of rain. Business in Moran is good, he says, and new wells are being drilled constantly. Now and then a dry hole is drilled, and then, probably a little distance away, a good shallow well will be brought in and so there is no let up. He thinks there will be no slowing up of prosperity in the shallow oil field any time soon.

Mr. Lummus says that people in his territory are very anxious to have a direct highway to Cisco. He has lived in Moran many years and is well acquainted with conditions there and knows the desires of people in that section.

The people of Moran have used Cisco as a shopping point for what they could not buy at home so long that they feel very close to Cisco and are interested in obtaining a better road to this place. He remarked that he and others of his neighbors were interested in the present road agitation and anything that they might do to bring about a proper settlement of the question—so that they might have a direct and well constructed highway leading to Cisco—would be done by them, gladly.

CLEBURNE MEN SPEND SHORT TIME IN CITY

C. R. West and J. M. Murphy, Cleburne business men, spent Friday afternoon and Saturday morning in Cisco. In company with A. B. O'Flaherty they visited Lake Cisco and drove through the residence section of the city. They were much impressed with Cisco, both from business and residential standpoints. Mr. West will very likely return at an early date. Mr. West accompanied the Cleburne football team to Cisco last year and wanted to know how the Cisco Lobos expected to "stack up" this year. Cleburne lost ten of her best players at the close of the last school term.

OFFICIALS OF PHILLIPS CO. INVITED HERE

Phillips Petroleum company officials will pass through Cisco some time next week—probably Wednesday—arriving over the Texas & Pacific, where their car will be set out, and taken up by the Katy for Albany, to inspect their properties in the Ibox field. President R. Q. Lee of the chamber of commerce has extended these officials an invitation to spend the day in Cisco, as guests of the chamber of commerce, and if the invitation is accepted they will be taken on an excursion through the Cisco oil fields and to points of interest in the city. Chamber of commerce officials plan to show the Phillips officials the shallow fields of Putnam, Moran and Cross Plains, as well as take them out to the East Cisco field and to Pioneer, if the invitation is accepted. The Phillips company is interested in the Pioneer field.

For Cabinet?

CHARLES D. HILLES

The illness of Secretary of War John W. Weeks, of Massachusetts, and his subsequent announcement that he may have to resign his post, indicate that changes are contemplated in President Coolidge's Cabinet. Charles D. Hilles, formerly private secretary to ex-President Taft and a leader in New York politics, is being prominently mentioned as a new Cabinet addition. In the event of Secretary Weeks's resignation, it is believed President Coolidge will select Postmaster-General Harry S. New to succeed him, and Hilles will get the Post Office berth.

AMUSEMENTS

Broadway Today
The word "innocence" has been interpreted in so many different ways, that one almost loses sight of its original definition: "to be untaunted by sin and blameless," according to the dictionary. But, still another and even more unusual interpretation of the word is given in the Warner picture, "The Age of Innocence," which is the attraction playing at the Broadway theater today and tomorrow. In this production, which was adapted from the "Pulitzer prize novel" by Edith Wharton, the word "innocence" not only refers to people, but is all-embracing, entwining itself around the emotional struggle that Beverly Bayne, a Russian noblewoman, makes to retain her freedom of soul. Elliott Dexter, who loves her, is caught between the millstones of duty and Sunday school at 9:45. Preaching at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. At the 11 o'clock hour the pastor will read for the information of all the proposed plan for the unification of northern and southern Methodism. I would be glad to have a full attendance of the membership of the church if possible. This is a burning question, and needs to be settled intelligently and prayerfully. The service Sunday evening will be especially in the interest of the young people. We are expecting a large crowd. Two special announcements: Bishop E. Dickey will preach in the First Methodist church Sunday evening, April 12. Bishop Dickey is a great preacher. You will want to hear him. The other announcement is that beginning Easter Sunday, April 12, we will continue the services throughout the week and indefinitely. These services are for the purpose of toning up the religious interests of our own church and the community generally. We extend a cordial invitation to all the churches in the city, to all Christians and to everybody to meet with us, and take an active part in these services. Let's plan to put everything out of the way, just as far as possible. All home talent will be used. We are depending on the religious forces of the city for support. Let's go in for a great meeting. Why not?—T. E. Bowman, pastor.

Ideal Today

"The Great Divide," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which is coming to the Ideal theater today, tells a story which has a particular appeal to women, for it is the tale of a girl who after years of conventional living in a prim New England village is suddenly thrust upon a life with a man of the open which is so strange to her that she is baffled completely and unable to grasp the threads of her new existence. Reginald Barker directed the screen version which was written by Waldemar Young, and the cast, strong with prominent names, is headed by Alice Terry as the girl, Ruth Jordan and Conway Tearle as Stephen Ghent, the miner.

MANY NOTABLES TO ATTEND THE 17TH DIST. MEET

The next American legion convention of the 17th district to be held at Stamford on Sunday, April 19, promises to be the largest and most interesting meeting ever held in the 17th district, as the entire Jones county organization is supporting the Stamford boys very strongly.

Hon. Alvin Owsley, past national commander of the American legion, will deliver an address at the St. John's M. E. church at 11 a. m.

Mrs. Armstrong, state president of the ladies' auxiliary, will speak. A very interesting program has been arranged.

Hon. Mark McGee, state commander of the American legion, has accepted an invitation to attend the meeting and each post in the district is expected to be represented at Stamford one week from today by a large delegation.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine combines both local and internal treatment and has been successful in the treatment of catarrh for over 40 years. Sold by all druggists. I. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

AUXILIARY OF LOCAL POST TO BE ORGANIZED

A special meeting for the purpose of organizing a ladies' auxiliary to the American legion will be held at the legion armory Monday evening, April 13, at 8 o'clock. "He is Risen"

More than 19 centuries ago this brief message was given to a small part of the earth. Today the remembrance of the occasion will be broadcasted around the world in less time than we can recount the happy event.

Since then man's genius has been benevolently guided in the invention of many devices to make his toil on earth easier and more productive.

It is time to be happy over our accomplishments in better living conditions. The green trees, the blooming flowers, the birds and animals are happy. All nature is glad at the passing of winter and rejoices at the newness of liberty and sunshine.

Electricity has brought its wonders, too. A great service to humanity. The common work necessary for proper existence has been more dignified and serving one's self has become a pleasure.

Sure, we are happy

We shall be happier still when we may serve you courteously, efficiently and satisfactorily.

Recital

Little Miss Mary Louise Campbell, eleven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Campbell, was presented by Mrs. G. W. Griswold in an individual recital, Monday night at the city hall auditorium. "Purple Eyes," a Japanese reading by John Luther Long was beautifully rendered by the little artist, who wore a Japanese costume of turquoise blue satin, later changing to a dancing costume of autumn leaf red, trimmed in gold.

Stage decorations, consisting of Japanese lanterns and potted plants furnished the atmosphere, in keeping with the theme of the story. Knowing the unusual talents of the little Miss Campbell, a large attentive audience was present and at the close, many remarks were heard, marveling at the accomplishments of the little entertainer. Special mention is due Miss Bessie Olson, who gave several splendid piano selections, also playing the piano accompaniment for the autumn leaf dance.

I'll tell the first line of this fable,
It's about a young man I know well;
Finish the story, you're able,
There isn't so much to tell.

I thought it was about a girl
That went away to school;
Her eyes gave out, so she came back,
But only her mother, to fool.

The way this story is ending,
I could guess in a very few lines;
But I hardly think it fitting,
I'll wait for another time.

Dan Cupin shot an arrow,
It darted forth with speed;
Piercing the hearts of a couple,
While they were not a heed.

club spent an enjoyable afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. J. Armstrong, Thursday. Numerous vases of roses were attractively placed throughout the house. Miss Mayne Davis was close of the games the hostess served

Barker was beautifully decorated with pot plants and cut flowers Friday evening, when their daughter, Miss Pearle, entertained a number of her friends. Miss Barker has made it a custom to have a slumber party for her girls friends once each year.
This time she asked each girl to invite a young man to come for the first part of the evening to enjoy the games and dancing. Following an hour spent in this diversion, Mrs. R.
L. Bettis appeared and announced that there was to be a nut cracking.
Mrs. Barker, assisted by Mrs. H. O.
Westerfeldt and Mrs. Asa Skiles, passed the refreshments plates, consisting of pink and white brick cream and angel food cake, favors being gilded English walnuts tied with pink ribbon. Each nut was numbered and the guests were asked to open them and read them in order. Two lines of the following verses were contained in each.

Something awful is going to happen,
It will make you all feel sad;
About what, can you be talking?
I know no news that's bad.

While on the street a'walking,
Just guess what I heard?
You are so unreasonable,
A guess would be absurd.

And too, it might be hearsay,
To me such stuff is naught;
But go ahead and tell it,
Don't wait for a second thought.

I think I've heard about it,
But I don't want to tell.
Gee! When I heard it,
I nearly had a spell.

You must all be crazy,
And trying to fool the rest;
It must be ridiculous,
Or a silly little jest.

No, it's most serious,
If what I'm told is true.
Well, how many know it?
Who was it told you?

This is getting awful,
My nerves are on the rack;
Pearle, if you will tell it,
We'll all turn our backs.
